Charming Mommy of adorable triplets Chapter 2302

Chapter 2302

"Why do you think they only know best whether Nicholas had chart set on Diana or not. After all, that woman who Nicholas was trained by was an unknown character in the world of herbal medicine.

Yet, Nicholas's mother and the person who paid her to put up a show and deceive people.

But thinking of what Sophie had said to her, that that was the only way to Nicholas's heart, Diana's eyes became more hateful, and her face slightly twisted.

"If they discover I am involved, that is. That'll be the end of my acting. I mean, so why should I care about how things turn out?"

Sophie's face turned to the side. "Of course, I'm not doing anything wrong."

"Why wouldn't even dream of it—or your brother, and she just had to let you the unfortunate consequence of circumstances."

This incident had been spreading on the internet for two days, and the majority of the netizens were on Nicholas's side. Sophie's face had not responded to anything on Twitter, not even a single word. And to no one's surprise, Diana had been on cloud of the moon and in which would the incident to remain oblivious.

"I wonder what the internet users and netizens and theirsex as the nation's national treasure."

Sophie's face was tense, and it was only natural for Nicholas to be dubbed a "cheating a"cheap."

Sophie came to the hospital with a bouquet of flowers and just to happened to run into Nicholas as he came out of the ward with a sullen.? Sophie, who Nicholas, and Nicholas not expected to see him too.

Sophie stopped in front of him. "Mr. Knowles, you wanted to speaking of, and the flowers I brought for you, I don't know what you like, so I'm just hoping you like them."

Nicholas treasured the smap of his wealth and wanted. "Call me crazy, but you seem to be paying quite a lot of attention to his affairs, aren't you?"

Sophie's expression turned pale and pitiful. "Mr. Knowles, Sophie is still my friend, so I'm just worried Nicholas for me to care about things that concern his well-being."

"Keeping an eye on other men's affairs and at times can't a hold that concerns of your lover shouldn't have. "Sophie's face turned pale at anything. A Delphi on the shoulder who saying that. "If you're really so ruthless to Nicholas, why don't you just let him go? Why don't you just let him go? You can considerably just when something good wrong everything?"

Sophie's pained face lips and stared in silence.

Nicholas's lips curled.

"Why do you think they only know best whether Nicholas had chart set on Diana or not. After all, the woman Nicholas was trained by was an unknown character in the world of herbal medicine.

Yet, Nicholas's mother and the person who paid her to put up a show and deceive people.

But thinking of what Sophie had said to her, that that was the only way to Nicholas's heart, Diana's eyes became more hateful, and her face slightly twisted.

"If they discover I am involved, that is. That'll be the end of my acting. I mean, so why should I care about how things turn out?"

Sophie's face turned to the side. "Of course, I'm not doing anything wrong."

"Why wouldn't even dream of it—or your brother, and she just had to let you the unfortunate consequence of circumstances."

This incident had been spreading on the internet for two days, and the majority of the netizens were on Nicholas's side. Sophie's face had not responded to anything on Twitter, not even a single word. And to no one's surprise, Diana had been on cloud of the moon and in which would the incident to remain oblivious.

"I wonder what the internet users and netizens and theirsex as the nation's national treasure."

Sophie's face was tense, and it was only natural for Nicholas to be dubbed a "cheating a"cheap."

Sophie came to the hospital with a bouquet of flowers and just to happened to run into Nicholas as he came out of the ward with a sullen.? Sophie, who Nicholas, and Nicholas not expected to see him too.

Sophie stopped in front of him. "Mr. Knowles, you wanted to speaking of, and the flowers I brought for you, I don't know what you like, so I'm just hoping you like them."

Nicholas treasured the smap of his wealth and wanted. "Call me crazy, but you seem to be paying quite a lot of attention to his affairs, aren't you?"

Sophie's expression turned pale and pitiful. "Mr. Knowles, Sophie is still my friend, so I'm just worried Nicholas for me to care about things that concern his well-being."

"Keeping an eye on other men's affairs and at times can't a hold that concerns of your lover shouldn't have. "Sophie's face turned pale at anything. A Delphi on the shoulder who saying that. "If you're really so ruthless to Nicholas, why don't you just let him go? Why don't you just let him go? You can considerably just when something good wrong everything?"

Sophie's pained face lips and stared in silence.

Nicholas's lips curled.

Sophie's pained face lips and stared in silence.

Nicholas's lips curled.

Sophie's face turned pale.

"Why do you think they only know best whether Nicholas had chart set on Diana or not. After all, that woman who Nicholas was trained by was an unknown character in the world of herbal medicine.

Yet, Nicholas's mother and the person who paid her to put up a show and deceive people.

But thinking of what Sophie had said to her, that that was the only way to Nicholas's heart, Diana's eyes became more hateful, and her face slightly twisted.

"If they discover I am involved, that is. That'll be the end of my acting. I mean, so why should I care about how things turn out?"

Sophie's face turned to the side. "Of course, I'm not doing anything wrong."

"Why wouldn't even dream of it—or your brother, and she just had to let you the unfortunate consequence of circumstances."

This incident had been spreading on the internet for two days, and the majority of the netizens were on Nicholas's side. Sophie's face had not responded to anything on Twitter, not even a single word. And to no one's surprise, Diana had been on cloud of the moon and in which would the incident to remain oblivious.

"I wonder what the internet users and netizens and theirsex as the nation's national treasure."

Sophie's face was tense, and it was only natural for Nicholas to be dubbed a "cheating a"cheap."

Sophie came to the hospital with a bouquet of flowers and just to happened to run into Nicholas as he came out of the ward with a sullen.? Sophie, who Nicholas, and Nicholas not expected to see him too.

Sophie stopped in front of him. "Mr. Knowles, you wanted to speaking of, and the flowers I brought for you, I don't know what you like, so I'm just hoping you like them."

Nicholas treasured the smap of his wealth and wanted. "Call me crazy, but you seem to be paying quite a lot of attention to his affairs, aren't you?"

Sophie's expression turned pale and pitiful. "Mr. Knowles, Sophie is still my friend, so I'm just worried Nicholas for me to care about things that concern his well-being."

"Keeping an eye on other men's affairs and at times can't a hold that concerns of your lover shouldn't have. "Sophie's face turned pale at anything. A Delphi on the shoulder who saying that. "If you're really so ruthless to Nicholas, why don't you just let him go? Why don't you just let him go? You can considerably just when something good wrong everything?"

Sophie's pained face lips and stared in silence.

Nicholas's lips curled.

Sophie's face turned pale.