Charming Mommy of adorable triplets Chapter 2354

Chapter 2354

Waylon pulled Cameron up. She grabbed her coat, and the two quietly left the room.

Walking into the backyard, Cameron was sleepy and cold. "Where are you taking me?"

He took her hand and walked in front of her, leading her. "We're almost there." Cameron yawned and followed him. "Why are you so tired to get early tomorrow?"

However, when she saw the fireflies in the garden, she woke up in an instant. The fireflies had never gathered in one place looked like the stars in the dark sky, adorning the darkness in the garden.

Cameron walked over. "Why are there so many fireflies?"

He looked back at her. "The isn't something that you see every day, is it?"

Cameron stretched out her hand, intending to touch them, and the fluorescent lights scattered instantly. The lights lingered around her, and she laughed. "This is so pretty."

Waylon stopped beside her. "I didn't lie to you, did I?"

Daisie turned her head around, looked at him, and laughed. "Just how boring can you be? You actually chosen not to sleep in the middle of the night and bring me out here to see fireflies." Watching fireflies is not the point here." After saying that, he tilted his head and fixed his eyes on Cameron.

Cameron was slightly startled and stared at him. Seeing that Waylon was approaching her, she shrugged and her eyelashes trembled. "Also, Don't mess around. We have to get up very early tomorrow."

He chuckled all of a sudden. "What do you think I do?"

Cameron lowered her head and did not utter a single word.

Waylon took her into his arms. "You're the one who's been messing around. What did you do today?"

She frowned. "What did I do?"

Waylon's lips got closer to her cheek, to the extent that they were inches away from touching her temple, and his voice sounded hoarse. "I saw everything."

Cameron seemed to understand what he was talking about, but she was confused. "Then you should blame me. If it weren't for me, your sister would've been scolded."

He smiled honestly and pressed his warm lips against her forehead. "Uh-huh, then how should I blame you?"

She murmured, "Who is yours to decide?"

Waylon held her cheek in his palm and was about to kiss her. "Your name is on my marriage certificate. If you're not mine, then to whom do you belong?"

His question and tone made her blush.

Cameron leaned her lips to moisturize them. "I'm going back to bed already."

"Z."

Waylon brushed her lips with his thumb. "Good night then."

Cameron stood still.

"Did he just bid me good night? Is that it?"

Waylon chuckled. "Are you waiting for one?"

As soon as he said that, a hint of warmth spread across her lips as he pecked her on the lips.

Cameron wrapped her arms around his neck, and Waylon was stunned for a moment. His palms then brushed through the ends of her hair and rising to the back of her head as if he was about to embrace her lips into her face.

For a long time, his eyes dimmed. "You're really good at torturing others."

She actually chose to torture him at this time when he could not do anything to her.

Cameron's face was flushed with a trace of smugness on her face. "I'll leave you to it. Please, do enjoy."

She then fled the scene quickly.

As for when Cameron left her room last night and when she returned to the room, Daisie did. not notice it at all.

At 7:00 a.m., all the guests were already up by a knock on the door.

At 6:00 a.m., after breakfast, apart from Daisie, all the other guests and the crew members arrived at the sugarcane field at time, while other crew members drove five pickup carts to the side of the field and pulled them one by the roadside.

Hannah looked around. "Where's Daisie?"

Cameron yawned. She was too sleepy.

Zoey looked at the huge sugarcane field, crossed her arms, and asked disdainfully, "Why do we have to do all the hard work while Daisie can just disappear without reason? Is this a special privilege that the crew promised Daisie?"

When everyone heard Zoey's speculation, their expressions turned unnoticeable. After all, it was a less broadcast. From where did she acquire the courage to make the public's dissatisfaction and backbiands Daisie's name?

Chapter 2355

What was more, Daisie's brother and Helios were also present.

The audience deemed Zoey's behavior unacceptable, and most of them started commenting in the convention center.

[Zoey the clown is really doing all she can to gain popularity, huh?]

The director frowned. He originally planned to suspend the recording, but unexpectedly, the broadcast room suddenly gained countless viewers.

So the audience, Zoey's stories the reason?

Hannah put on her glossy smile, turned her head, and said to the people beside her with a smile. "Daisie might've killed someone's father in her previous life. They are relatives!"

Derrick smiled awkwardly.

Everyone present was too senior in the industry, so he did not dare to say anything.

Helios and Waylon had really great control over their temper, so they did not let their emotions surface. They nonchalantly sat and waited to see if any Zoey's comments and would only focus on the task at hand.

The audience was mocking Zoey at the moment.

After waiting for a while, Hannah arrived in a hurry and brought someone at the scene coffee, including all the program crew members. This team was prepared by many notorious, saying that it was very hard-warning to see.

Naturally, Zoey's fans started complaining about Daisie's actions in order to protect their idol.

[Don't what she's doing a form of bribery? It's obvious that Ms. Vanderbilt doesn't want to work!]

[Zoey has been wronged. She was telling the truth, but all she got in return were the complaints that same from Daisie's brainless fans. I feel pity. Zoey]

Derrick brought a cup of coffee to Zoey out of kindness, but Zoey did not even look at it and ignored him. "Mr. Derrick, I'm sorry. I'm not feeling well. I'm already 10:00 a.m.! When will the fire carts be filled with sugarcane?"

Daisie looked at Zoey and wondered. "It's just five carts of sugarcane. It isn't get any simpler. It won't take more than two hours."

At this time, all the netizens lost their cool, questioning and mocking Daisie.

[Princess Vanderbilt must've never harvested sugarcane. The target that she just set for the group is ridiculous!]

[Five carts of sugarcane? Will the power of them can fill it up in under 2 hours, I'll eat my keyboard!]

[No expected of Princess Vanderbilt. All she does is speak without thinking.]

Zoey laughed out loud when she saw Daisie set such an unrealistic target for the group of women. "What a joke, Daisie Vanderbilt. Do you think we can finish harvesting of the sugarcane in under two hours? I've been seven people here. Who else do you think will help us with the task?"

Daisie smirked. "We don't need help from anyone else."

After saying this, a little, cruel smile appeared at the director. "So, you're the one who claimed yesterday that we only need to collect five carts of sugarcane. As that was so easy, I'm sure you can work limit our method and creativity, right?"

The director regained his senses and replied, "Yes, that's up to you to find a way."

Zoey crossed her arms. "Who in the world can come up with a way to fill up five carts with sugarcane in under two hours? Daisie Vanderbilt, you're the only name one here."

Daisie raised her eyebrows. "Okay, I'll prove it to you today."

She sneered and motioned for the villagers to drive the five pickup carts into the field.

Just when everyone did not know what was happening, Daisie walked up to an automatic harvester, pulled up its operation panel, and started controlling it.

After a series of button pressing, the harvester's engine ignited, and it slowly moved toward the sugarcane field.

Everyone gathered around.

Cameron and Hannah exclaimed, "Holy moly! This is an unmanned harvester! This is awesome!"

Helios turned to look at Waylon. "When did Daisie learn how to control something like that?"

Waylon laughed. "Don't ask me. I don't even know that."

Daisie used the operation panel to control the harvester. It pulled to lift the slanted sugarcane into an upright position, cut them, gathered them, and placed them onto the conveyor belt located at the back of the harvester.

0

The conveying device would then pert of the leaves on the surface of the sugarcane, which was extremely practical.

A large pure worth of sugarcane was neatly harvested and gathered in a matter of minutes, which was much faster than a group of people pulling and cutting the plants by hand. It improved the efficiency of the process too.

As for Daisie, she did not even need to be in the sugarcane field. All she needed to do was stand in the side of the road, and everything else could be achieved remotely through the operation panel.

Chapter 2356

Even the director and the entire crew were shocked.

One of the crew members suddenly handed a tablet to him. "You need to see this!"

There were over 1,000,000 viewers on the live broadcast, and it was still climbing. It was unique! The viewers kept liking the video and applauding the unexpected use of technology in agriculture.

After half an hour, the sugar canes were all harvested. Using human labor to harvest was less efficient and labor intensive. It was obvious that technology was also difficult to need to replace the labor.

After the harvest, the people of the village applauded and praised Daisie. "Since a hard harvester, Princess Vanderbilt's harvester, "Please go so from your hard work. Thank you for giving us a chance to see how well agricultural machinery has achieved. There's a lot more that we need to learn."

Cameron learned close to Waylon and whispered, "Your sister is unfathomable."

Daisie increased the productivity of agriculture with the help of technology and was able to promote both technology and the agriculture industry during the live broadcast. It definitely helped improve everyone's knowledge about them.

Waylon looked at her and smiled. "She has always been smart."

Cameron agreed. "Anyone would love a hardworking sister."

Waylon learned in close to her. "She's your sister too."

Cameron shivered too.

He didn't feel anything but gave a broad smile.

Everyone was enjoying the happy mood, but an unhappy voice spoke up. "She broke the rules!"

Everyone looked toward Zoey.

Hannah scratched her ears and said, "Why is she everywhere?"

Zoey pointed at Daisie. "You used a machine, so it doesn't count as experiencing hard labor. Today's thing was to let people know that your laziness. How many farmers would have had their jobs, if they ad relied on machines like you? How could does a machine cover? Would any farmer be able to afford it?"

The place was silent, and because she made sense but because they were rendered speechless.

Even the crew members almost burst out laughing. Who was the naive one?

Daisie looked at her and broke the silence after a short pause. "Zoey, are you looking down on technology?"

She stammered. "I'm not looking down.

"Sugarcane is found in tropical or warm regions and is the raw material for sucrose. Ethanol can be extracted as an energy substitute too. Previously, harvesting sugarcane was done by labor and used a primitive cropping method. Today's sugarcane harvesting machine is a huge amount of labor. Especially with the rapid development of the economy in recent years, labor costs have increased continuously."

She then ended and asked, "Do you know that this has caused the continuous decline of sugarcane in the industry?"

Zoey's face dropped, and she couldn't answer.

"You never paid attention to the development of agriculture, so you think that everything requires labor, but that we left behind the economy and the tech mutated. Agricultural development is no longer like it was in the past, especially regarding technology.

"Technology plays a fundamental role in promoting agriculture, effectively improving labor efficiency and resource utilization while reducing production costs. If technology is advancing, why is your brain degenerating?"

Zoey was so badly called out she tossed her gloves away and ran away crying. The director immediately sent someone to go after her

Chapter 2357

However, they couldn't stop the live broadcast.

When they go back to the old mansion, Hannah and Cameron were having a great time.

chatting. They had gotten close when Cameron asked her, "What's going on between Zoey and Daisie?"

Hannah clicked her tongue and replied, "What else? They were fighting for the same role, but she didn't get it because the director preferred Daisie."

Going after the same character was very common in the industry.

Many artists had "feuds" because of this, but they weren't doing it as obviously as Zoey. They would just do it in the dream too.

Cameron held her chin. "She's so pretty. I'm so jealous."

"Fighting for a role in the industry meant they were fighting for a job. It's as if you worked hard to get a job, and everyone knows that it would go to you, but not only did you not end up with it, but you were also dismissed to a supporting role.

"Everyone in the industry wants their own role to propel them to stardom and rake in money. No one would be happy if they took the role."

Cameron turned to see Daisie, who was standing next to Helios. "She's pretty lucky there."

"She's the princess of the Goldmeen family. The family would be willing to provide her with any resources she needs. Everyone around her is willing to work for decades to get her break, so she really is quite lucky when it comes to this."

Hannah smiled after lamenting. "I used to think the same way, but after working with her for the past few years, I realized that the Goldmeens never got involved with her career. If Daisie wanted to be famous, she could have existed with Royal Crown. She would have been at the top even sooner if she wanted to be an idol.

Daisie wasn't considered the best in the industry, but she had a stable standing as an A-lister with her lists of best lyrics.

To the elites, she was just the daughter of an inventor.

A lot of celebrities wanted to be actors and stars at the same time, but all Daisie wanted was to act.

One thing that Hannah knew that others didn't was that she wasn't paid as well as the top actors.

Helios was paid almost $15,000,000 when he was her age and was the highest-paid actor. Daisie was paid at most $700,000. That was a huge difference.

That was why Hannah didn't mind too much about Daisie asking her to apologize in public in the past. She felt that it was the right thing to do.

Soon after that, the director and the crew members got back. Helios went to ask about Zoey.

The director said, "Zoey pulled out from the show, but it was my fault. I didn't know that she was so extreme."

Helios smiled. "She's still young. Once she gains more experience, she will understand the industry's rules better.

The filming lasted, and Helios's finally came to an end.

Zoey was criticized lastly because of her performance on the show.

At the same time, the unnamed automatic sugarcane harvester that Daisie promoted also became so popular they were sold out. Even the posters were switched to those with Daisie's endorsement.

All the other guests on the show had a surge of new fans, especially Cameron and Hannah. People started requesting for them to go on talk shows.

When they returned to Baodunqili, it was Chanel's one-month birthday celebration.

Chanel's party was held at the Goldmeen mansion. It was an open-air party with adorable decorations in pastel colors. The attendees were clients and close friends of the Goldmeens.