The Breaking Point of Love

Chapter 883

After returning home, Celeste sent Trevor a message. "Are you free tomorrow?"

She hadn't found an opportunity to bring up their divorce earlier because Jordyn had been with them. But she was confident that Trevor would understand what she meant without her having to spell it out.

Trevor still hadn't replied even after some time had passed after she sent the message. So, Celeste went into the bathroom to take a shower. When she came out, she saw that Trevor had finally responded.

"Sorry. I have important engagements every morning over the next few days, and I can't reschedule them. We'll have to put the divorce off for a few more days."

Celeste stared at the message and rubbed her temples. After a long pause, she finally replied. "Understood."

She put her phone down, but after a moment's hesitation, picked it up again and sent him another message. "Have you told Jo about our divorce?"

She had been thinking about how Jordyn hadn't asked her to go home with her and Trevor lately...

However, before she could finish the thought, Trevor's reply came in. "No."

Perhaps guessing what was on her mind, he sent another message. "She has probably already guessed that we're getting divorced."

That was true.

Back at Philip's anniversary banquet, the situation involving Celeste, Trevor and Wynn had caused quite a stir. Jordyn had been there. Although she was still young, she must have understood at least some of what was going on.

Celeste didn't send another reply, and Trevor didn't message her again.

It was getting late, so she turned off her phone and went to bed.

...

The following morning, Celeste was handling some work when Matthias knocked and walked into her office.

He held out his phone to her. "Fleming Group is making another big move."

Celeste looked up. On the screen, Trevor was being interviewed by the media alongside the CEO of the world's leading technology company, Howard Crewe.

From the looks of it, the two companies were set to embark on an in-depth collaboration in AI chips and semiconductors.

Celeste and Matthias watched the news for a while before Matthias remarked, "Looks like Trevor got quite a lot out of his business trip."

Celeste nodded and hummed in response.

She also realised that Trevor had been telling the truth the previous night when he said he had important engagements over the next few days and needed to postpone their divorce.

...

Meanwhile, someone in the Locket family had also come across the news. They immediately informed Wynn.

"Wynn, Trevor is back!"

Wynn promptly went online to look up the reports.

After watching the news, Patricia said, "Wynn, now that Trevor is back, find some time to get in touch with him later."

There were only a few days left before the deadline for appealing the verdict in their case against Velotra Although they had already prepared the appeal documents, they knew the evidence they had gathered was rather flimsy.

They desperately needed Trevor to go through everything and see whether he could help them find a way to turn the case around. Even if he couldn't they also hoped he could at feast point them in the right direction when it came to their future.

"I know," Wynn replied.

With that, she called Trevor. As expected, there was still no answer.

Seeing this, Lilian said, "Trevor and Howard just finished their media interview. He's probably still busy and doesn't have time to take your call. Try again later."

Wynn hummed a reply.

That was what they were telling themselves, but in truth, she couldn't be sure that Trevor would answer even if he were free.

After all, if she hadn't seen the news just now, she wouldn't even have known he was back from his business trip. He hadn't contacted her once throughout all this time.

Still, whether Trevor answered or not, she would never know unless she tried.