The Breaking Point of Love

Chapter 884

Wynn called Trevor again in the afternoon. However, there was still no answer.

After staring at her phone for a moment, she decided to call Jacob instead. But Jacob didn't answer.

Wynn showed no particular expression. She simply tried calling him again. It wasn't until her third attempt that Jacob finally picked up.

"Ms. Locket."

Wynn got straight to the point. "Where are Trevor and Howard having lunch?"

Jacob had deliberately ignored her calls because he had already guessed why she was calling. "I'm sorry, but I'm afraid I can't disclose that information."

Then, he ended the call without waiting for Wynn to respond.

Wynn pressed her lips together but didn't call Jacob again. Instead, she rang Miles. "Are you having lunch with Trevor and Howard today?"

"No." Although Miles didn't understand why she was asking, he answered honestly.

"They're discussing business. I'm not with the Fleming Group, so why would I be there? Besides, if I hadn't seen the news just now, I wouldn't even have known Trevor was back from his business trip."

He paused before asking, "What's going on? Why are you suddenly asking me this?"

Wynn hesitated before replying, "It's nothing."

She had considered asking Miles to find out Trevor's whereabouts for her, just as she had done before. But after what had happened in Havenport, she knew Trevor would probably be more guarded in disclosing his whereabouts to Miles.

Miles had never mentioned to her whether Trevor had said anything after discovering that he'd been helping Wynn find out where Trevor was.

Celeste knew nothing about what was happening on Wynn's end. She had spent the entire day at YodaVision, occupied with work.

Her phone suddenly rang in the evening when she was discussing something with a colleague. She took it out and glanced at the screen. She hesitated after seeing who the caller was.

After excusing herself from the discussion, she left the meeting room and answered. "What is it?"

Trevor said, "Mr. Howard Crewe would like to meet you and Mr. Yoder. Are you both free to get together later?"

Celeste was taken aback. After a brief hesitation, she replied, "I'll get back to you later."

"Sure."

After ending the call, she returned to the meeting room. Matthias noticed that something seemed a little off about her expression. "Whats wrong?"

Celeste told him about the invitation.

Matthias raised an eyebrow. "Sounds good. Howard is one of the biggest names in the global tech industry. There's no harm in meeting him."

Celeste thought so too. "I'll get back to Trevor later."

"Okay."

After finishing their discussion, Celeste found a moment to call Trevor back. "We're free tonight."

"Good. I'll ask Zeke to send you the time and address."

"Thank you."

"You're welcome."

Trevor said nothing more and ended the call first.

Not long afterwards, Celeste received a message from Zeke.

Celeste and Matthias set off for the venue when the appointment time drew near.

It was only after entering the private dining room that Celeste realized that Trevor and Howard had already arrived. There wer also several other prominent business figures in the room.

When they saw the two of them arrive, Howard smiled, stood up, and greeted them warmly. "Ms... Rodriguez, Mr. Yoder I've heard sa much about you It's a pleasure to finally meet you in person."

Celeste shook his hand. "Mr. Crewe, it's our pleasure."
