The Breaking Point of Love

Chapter 885

Celeste and Matthias had agreed to attend the dinner because they wanted to gather information. They believed Howard had invited them for the same reason.

Throughout the evening, they discussed AI, the future of the manufacturing industry, and a recent high-profile project launched by a prominent business figure that had caused quite a stir.

Everyone was quietly testing the waters, though on the surface, the atmosphere remained perfectly cordial.

After dinner, Howard even took photos with each of them. Before long, he had shared news of their gathering on social media.

The dinner lasted another two hours before finally coming to an end.

Once they were in the car, Matthias tugged at his tie. "They're all quite the actors, aren't they?"

Celeste smiled faintly. "They certainly are."

She rubbed her aching shoulders, planning to get home and turn in early.

As for the post Howard had shared on social media that evening, neither she nor Matthias had any interest in looking it up.

However, Howard had a huge following. Although the two of them didn't bother checking his updates, plenty of other people had already seen the post shortly after it went live.

No one in the Lockets and Shaws actually followed Howard on social media. But the news he shared soon became a trending topic.

Linda, who was an avid Internet user, spotted it immediately and informed Wynn and the other members of both families.

Linda gritted her teeth. "Look at the photos! Everyone having dinner with Mr. Crewe is a major figure in their respective industries. What gives Celeste the right to be among them?"

The fact that YodaVision had grown so successful showed that Celeste and Matthias were not only capable in their own right, but also had a keen understanding of where the market was headed.

On top of that, their mentor was Zachary. He was someone with ties to the government. So, there was no way Celeste and Matthias didn't have valuable insights to offer.

So, it was perfectly natural that Howard would want to meet them.

However, Wynn kept these thoughts to herself. She simply stared at the photos Howard had posted on social media.

After a long while, she closed the app and called Trevor. Once again, there was no answer.

She didn't try again. Instead, she went straight to the entrance of the Fleming Group early the following morning.

Jacob wasn't particularly surprised to see her. He simply told her the truth. "Mr. Fleming won't be coming to the office today."

Wynn hesitated. "What about tomorrow?"

"I don't know."

Wynn didn't ask anything else. She left after having a cup of coffee.

Not long afterward, she came across online reports of Trevor and Howard attending another event together.

The following day, she went to Fleming Group again. However, Trevor still wasn't there. She even went to wait outside his villa, but she never managed to catch him

By then, however, there was only one day left before the deadline for appealing the verdict in the case against Velotra.

After trying everything she could think of and still failing to get hold of Trevor, Wynn had no choice but to go to Jordyn's school and wait for her there.

When Jordyn saw her, she stopped for a moment. Then, as though she didn't know Wynn at all, she turned around and walked away.

Wynn hurried forward and caught her by the hand. "Jo, I want to talk to you."

Jordyn brushed her hand away. "I don't want to talk. I want to go home."

Wynn gave Jordyn a bitter smile. "Jo, you haven't answered any of my calls. And now that I've come all the way here, you don't even want to say a single word to me?"

Jordyn looked up at her. "That's right."

Wynn was stunned for a moment. Just then, Jordyn brushed her hand away again and walked off.
