The Breaking Point of Love

Chapter 889

"Skiing," Jordyn answered Trevor's question.

"With your mother?"

"Yes. Is there something else?" Jordyn was getting impatient.

Trevor looked at her with a smile. "Aren't you going to invite me along?"

Jordyn was about to say no, but then she clenched her little hands. No matter how hard she tried, she couldn't suppress the longing deep inside her.

Pressing her lips together, she finally replied, though her expression was a little awkward, "I have to ask Mom first."

Trevor was stunned. He had clearly been joking just now and hadn't actually intended to join them. But hearing Jordyn's response, he smiled. "Alright."

Jordyn quickly called Celeste. "Mom, Dad wants to come skiing with us too. Can I bring him along?"

Celeste could sense that Jordyn genuinely enjoyed going out with both her and Trevor. So, she couldn't bring herself to turn Jordyn down. "Of course. You can both come over."

"Okay."

Jordyn put down her phone and told Trevor, "Mom said yes."

"Okay."

Trevor went upstairs to change, then left with Jordyn.

When they arrived, Celeste gave him a nod. "You're here."

Trevor just hummed a response.

They soon went into the changing room to put on their ski gear.

Just as they came out, ready to hit the slopes, Linda appeared from the side. She was taken aback when she saw Celeste, Trevor and Jordyn together.

Once she recovered from the shock, she took a photo and immediately sent it to the family group chat.

The Lockets and Shaws soon saw her message.

Ruby asked in the group, "Are they... going skiing?"

"Yes," Linda replied.

Wynn saw the message too. She stared at the photo of Trevor holding Jordyn's hand while turning towards Celeste to speak, but said nothing.

No one else spoke either. But they all knew Wynn must be feeling terrible.

After all, they had learned from social media the day before that Howard had already returned to his home country on Saturday.

In other words, Trevor should have been free today.

Yet, when Wynn had tried contacting him both yesterday and today, she was only met with the sate silence as before. She still couldn't reach him.

Trevor wasn't replying to Wynn's messages or answering her calls, yet there he was, going out with Celeste and Jordyn.

What was going on?

Linda grew anxious and hurriedly asked, "What... exactly does Trev mean by this?"

Ruby quickly replied, "He's probably just spending time with his daughter. Don't read too much into it."

But if Trevor had time to spend with his daughter, surely he had time to reply to Wynn's messages too.

They had considered this possibility before, of course. But never had it been as painfully obvious as it was today. It was so obvious that they could no longer deceive themselves.

Wynn remained silent. And no one else said another word.

Meanwhile, Celeste, Jordyn and Trevor finished skiing and went on to enjoy several other activities.

Celeste and Trevor chatted with each other from time to time. To anyone watching, they looked no different from an ordinary married couple.

However, as dinner time approached, Celeste received a phone call.

After hanging up, she turned to Trevor and Jordyn. "I'm sorry There's an urgent matter at the company, and I need to go on a business trip. I won't be able to have dinner with you two."

Jordyn was a little disappointed, but she nodded. "Alright. I understand."

Trevor nodded as well. "Okay."

Celeste nodded, then hurried off. She went home, and before long, she had grabbed her laptop and headed out.
