

King of kings

1869

"Yo, talking as if it's all the humans' fault."

"If Senior Tang doesn't believe me, go ahead and investigate, we robots, have never initiated a war, it's all humans that attack us. If I ever tell half a lie, I shall not die."

Omi said, "See this group of Returned Void powerhouses around me? I purposely brought this from another world, I want to destroy you robots, it only takes one thought, but I, Omi, didn't do that, so I brought these Return to the Void strongmen to fight you, and your fate is up to you. Go back and prepare well, and let's have a fair fight between us."

"Okay, on behalf of the machine humans, I thank Senior Tang, whether Senior Tang believes in it or not, we machine humans, also always consider you as our hero."

"Robots can flatter too." Omi shook his head speechlessly.

"Go." Omi instantly tore through space, bringing with him dozens of Returning Void powerhouses, and disappeared in a flash.

The suit robot looked at the disappearing Omi and sighed, "Too powerful, we can't catch up with this power even if we upgrade to the 2000 Generation Force."

Omi returned to the human base in outer space.

"Old Ancestor Tang, you're back." The human leader was busy obsequiously welcoming.

Omi said, "You, follow me in."

"Yes." A second to remember to read the book

The human leader follows Omi into a hall.

Omi asked, "I just spoke with a representative of the robots, and the robots said that they never thought of exterminating the human race."

The human leader huffed, "Don't listen to their nonsense, Omi, it's a wonder they haven't thought about it, I would never believe it."

"They say that the robots have never initiated any war, it's always the humans who have to kill them, is this true?"

"Uh, this." The human leader stroked his hair.

"Honestly."

"Don's ancestor, this, like yes, but the home planet is already our human territory, they robots have taken over our territory, of course we're going to kill them all, are we going to let them take over our territory?"

Omi then asked, "Is it true that the robots say that they have taken over the planet because the various human empires, undisciplined, unscrupulous, and full of selfishness, have destroyed the ecology of the planet regardless of the illusion, so much so that the planet's ecology is completely out of balance?"

"Ah, well, I don't know how to say this, but it can't be whatever they say it is, they robots always think they're smarter, they always think that what we humans do is wrong. In fact, there's absolutely nothing wrong with the solutions we humans have devised."

"Alright, you can go out now."

With the human leader gone, Omi looked towards Xu Qing'er and asked, "Xu Qing'er, do you have anything to add to this?"

Xu Qing'er said, "Actually, it's true that the robots didn't lie, at least, it's true that they didn't actively attack the humans, every time, we humans were unwilling to lose, bent on exterminating them, and then we failed time and time again with moths to the flame. Perhaps it is true that the robots never intended to exterminate the human race, and that ninety percent of us humans are dying so much today because of disease, a disease that is caused by environmental destruction. You've just taken me back to the Infernal Empire, I haven't been back in twenty years, I've just Standing over the Yellow Empire, I suddenly realized that the air there was much, much better than before. I remember that when we evacuated the home planet twenty years ago, the air was simply unlivable. It seems that after the robots took charge of the mother planet, they have really contributed a lot in combating pollution."

"Xu Qing'er, why are you speaking for them?"

"I'm just talking about the facts, if I hadn't just been standing over the Yanhuang Empire, I probably wouldn't have thought so, but now that the air in the Yanhuang Empire is better, I think it's all due to the robots, back then if we humans were left to develop, I'm afraid the planet would have really been destroyed, but the robots, they're changing for the better." Xu Qing'er said.

Omi said, "So, those robots, they are indeed better?"

"I think it's just that we have different interests, we humans want to retake our home planet and become dominant, while the robots want to dominate us, that's the key to the conflict."

Omi nodded and said, "But the humans, however, have destroyed their homeworld, causing a complete ecological imbalance, the outbreak of new types of diseases, and the mass extinction of the population, so it's true that humans are no longer fit to dominate this world."

Xu Qing'er said, "The biggest difference between humans and robots is that humans have selfishness, and if there is selfishness, there will be struggle, and they will not care about the overall situation, and they will not hesitate to bring pain to others for their own selfishness. But robots are different, they follow procedures and have no selfishness."

"Alright, go tell the human leader that we're moving back to the home planet tomorrow."

"Ugh." Xu Qing'er sighed, from a selfish point of view, Xu Qing'er also hoped that the home planet would continue to be controlled by humans, but the drawbacks of humans would indeed only make the world's destruction more complete.

The next day, Omi broke open the void, going so far as to use the Formation Scroll to bring all three billion humans, back to the Mother Planet, to the skies above the Yan Huang Empire.

Omi's power to bring three billion people back from the distant outer space with the power of one person simply made those robots dumbfounded.

This kind of power, their robots couldn't even think about it, and Omi really wasn't bragging when he said that he could exterminate all the robots with a single thought.

The robots also instantly flew in from all over the world.

Omi shouted, "Please ask the most powerful robots to come up and speak to me."

A dark-looking robot man flew up and knelt in front of Omi, "Greetings, Senior Tang."

"Do you have a name?"

"Back to Senior Tang, my name is Blackhawk, I am currently the highest leader of the Robot Alliance and the most powerful robot."

"Blackhawk, you should know what I'm here for today?"

"I know, whatever you say today, I promise. I can let the robots, and all the territory of this home planet, continue to be managed by you. If the environment continues to be destroyed in the future, it will still be humans who will be hurt." Blackhawk said.

"I didn't come here today to talk to you about territory, but about whether you will continue to exist. Let me see your strength, if you can defeat this Return to the Void strong man behind me, then you robots can continue to exist."

"Good."

Omi immediately ordered Shang Wuyun to fight against the Black Eagle.

As a result, Shang Wuyun failed miserably and broke his arm.