"Yes, why didn't I think of him?"

Wilton clenched his fists.

He couldn't find a replacement for only Ultimate class warriors could join the Suicide Squad.

Besides, Thierry also left orders that other warriors from the same family couldn't replace the selectees.

Levi wasn't part of the Great Family of Westford. He was related to some people in the family, that's all.

"Let Levi take his place!" they urged.

"Levi will do."

"Mr. Langston, we need to discuss with Cora first," they reminded him.

"Alright. I'll go talk to Cora right now."

Soon, everyone gathered at Cora's place.

"Sure. I agree to let Levi take Malcolm's place. Malcolm is talented, so it's a waste for him to join the Suicide Squad."

As Cora had high hopes for Malcolm Langston, Wilton's son, she chose to sacrifice Levi without hesitation.

If Levi joins the Suicide Squad, Zoey will lose her husband, and Evie will lose her father," someone gaze hardened. "Levi will do. I'll protect them myself. They don't need Levi!

Levi gave Zoey a look that puzzled her and nodded.

No way!

Zoey quivered in fear as it struck her that Levi was giving up his life for her and the child.

There was no other reason for him to say yes.

“You’ve heard it, Thierry! He agreed!” hastened Cora and Wilton.

“No! It’s not happening! You can’t go, Levi! You’ll die!”

Zoey tried to stop him.

“Shut up! You’re in no position to speak!”

Cora pulled her aside.

“Em...”

Thierry wavered and turned to look at Levi.

“I’ve made my decision. Now get it done and over with!” Levi roared, leaving Thierry no choice but to accept his service.

Chapter 1483

The Northern Demon stood tall on the peak of the Ether training base in the North, gazing into the horizon, commanding the view of countless rivers and mountains.

“Sir, according to the Avengers, the Eastern Hellhound’s disciples are leading the Suicide Squad of a thousand men here!”

“It was said that they’ve already mastered the Fusion Attack, which took the Eastern Hellhound decades to develop. They are here to wipe us out!”

Upon hearing that, the Northern Demon snickered, “Do the Eastern Hellhound, and the Four Dragons think that I’ve remained stagnant? I’m stronger by manifolds now! Fusion Attack would be child’s play.

“So, do they think that I was frolicking around while they analyzed my strengths and weaknesses for the past decades? I was anatomizing them too. Let’s put it this way. I know all the tactics and strategies of the Four Dragons like the back of my hand, let alone their disciples!

“I’ve practically figured out how the Fusion Attack works, and they are trying to mow me down with that? What a joke!”

Never in their wildest dreams did anyone imagine that the Northern Demon had done his homework on the Eastern Hellhound and the others.

He even guessed the tactics they were going to use.

It was an order that doused the fighters' morale, overcasting the squad with silence.
Each and every member of the Suicide Squad knew jolly well that they wouldn't leave the North alive, but to die an unworthy death was a stake in their pride.
Anyone would recoil from the thought of launching themselves to their own graves like a pawn in a game of chess.
They were humans and not merely a tool.
Despite their reluctance, they kept their rage in check and their lips tightly glued.
After all, they weren't the ones giving commands, and the Four Basilisks were highly capable.
It might be best to just do as told.
"Do I make myself clear? If there are no objections, let's get the ball rolling!"
Seeing absolute submission, Heracles smiled.

Chapter 1485

To his dismay, every one kept quiet. Any sane person would choose the Four Basilisks over a Malcom Langston.

If they were able to survive the battle, their names would be sung by many.

To win the Northern Demon while having the Four Basilisks as their commanders would be the utmost honor one could receive.

And once the battle was over, the future would be smooth sailing, both in Erudia and among their families.

Even if they perished on the battleground, as a warrior, their family would receive certain compensations.

However, if they chose Levi, they were very likely to meet their end.

On top of that, they would naturally be known as soldiers who had committed desertion.

Thus, it wasn't worth the risk to follow Levi.

There was a long pause.

Right when Heracles wanted to let out another laugh, out of nowhere, a few people shouted, “We’re gonna die anyway. Shouldn’t we die a more honorable death? Isn’t it better to have a choice? Let’s uproot that devil with our own hands!”

As the former God of War, Levi understood Erudia’s topography like the back of his hand.

Especially all the training bases and frontlines.

He led his team to the west of the Ether training base and stopped in front of a cliff of nearly 90-degree inclination.

“This is the nearest path to the Ether training base and the most dangerous too! Since a large army can’t go through here, it does not require any fortification!” Levi explained.

“Does this mean that we can just sneak into the Ether training base?” someone asked.

“Correct! If we attack them directly, we will be ambushed and suffer severe casualties. They can easily wipe us out! However, if we infiltrate from here, we can find the right chance to eliminate our enemies,” said Levi.

One of the enemies he wanted to eliminate was the Northern Demon.

“Now, let’s go!” said Levi.

Then, thirty-nine people climbed up the cliff stealthily.

The Suicide Squad thought that the Northern Demon escaped in fear because of the Four Basilisks.

Meanwhile, the Four Basilisks looked up proudly and eyes full of pride.

“Northern Demon, you can’t hide from us! We will hunt you down no matter where you escaped!” said one of them.

They were so arrogant that they thought the Northern Demon was afraid of them.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

A series of loud noises sounded at this moment.

Everyone looked behind them and saw large boulders blocking the training base’s narrow exit.

No one could escape now.

At the same time, a figure suddenly appeared in between the mountain summit.

The Northern Demon's henchmen were laughing and looking at the Four Basilisks as if they were idiots.
Heracles and the other Basilisks felt that something was wrong, but they could not tell what was it.
The laughter made them nervous.

Meanwhile, everyone in the Suicide Squad were panicking.

"D*mn you! Charge!" Heracles could not stand it anymore and charge.

The others followed behind him, and everyone had a bad feeling about this.

"Kill them all! Let no one live!" Northern Demon ordered coldly from his high position.

Instantly, numerous skilled henchmen leaped down and surrounded the Suicide Squad.

At that moment, the same thought appeared on everyone member of the Suicide Squad—following the

It was a profitable deal for them, and they gained it without doing anything.
Malcolm would not only be safe but he would even be given a tremendous reward.
In the future, he would become the pride of Erudia.
They thought it was a perfect plan.
“Now, we only need to wait for him to return in victory!” Wilton and those with him were gleeful.
Even Shaun and his people were smiling.
Just now, he was afraid that Levi would return to glory.
But thankfully, all of Levi's achievements would go to Malcolm instead.
Zoey clenched her fists tight and gritted her teeth.
She only hoped that Levi would come back safely and she did not care whether he was honored.
After seeing the Four Basilisks leading the Suicide Squad courageously, she felt a lot calmer.
“Four Basilisks, please do your best and win! You must bring my husband back alive!” Zoey said a silent prayer.

Decades of research were conducted just for this specific set of combined attack skills called the Fusion Attack.

One could only imagine how powerful this blow was.

When the Four Basilisks realized that their attacks were ineffective, they unleashed the Fusion Attack on the Northern Demon, aiming to take him down in one strike.

At that moment, the whole world fell silent.

Everyone watched with bated breath, waiting for the fight to come to a conclusion.

From their point of view, the Northern Demon was sure to lose this time.

After all, this was the Fusion Attack.

The Dragonites and the Dragons of Erudia broke into relieved smiles, thinking it was all finally over.

“Haha! The next question is who will be given the title of Crown King!”

“All four of them are not bad! Even we, as masters, are in a bind!”

“Or should we inaugurate all four of them?”

Before the battle was even over, they were already talking about victory.

This was how confident they were.
