CH 76

Karsyn POV

He packed everything he could fit into his suitcase and only stopped to check his messages, when his phone dinged, and read Raygan's message that Demi was out of the room, so her heat was considered over. She'd sent a picture of the two of them sitting around smiling.

She also messaged to state Demi was claiming she was pregnant already, rubbing her belly and she and Zac were announcing it to anyone and everyone they saw. He'd stared at that message and shaken his head. Not even Raygan had known for over a week that she was pregnant.

He'd never known one to know the day after their heat was over if they were pregnant. How dumb was the girl? Surely that was going to get questioned by everyone. He shook it off, had other things to deal with right this minute. Was stalking around inside his suite making sure he had all that he needed. On the bright side, he had a full luggage set.

Was using them right at this minute to pack everything. Not just clothes but items he wanted to take with him. He had even called several omega's to bring him boxes and packing tape. He was literally packing everything. If his father did not want Raygan here, then he would take that as he did not want Karsyn as his Heir, anymore either.

He had the moving trolley brought to him and loaded it up, took it downstairs and found not just his truck out the front but all of his unit's trucks out there, as well as his grandmother Mika's Mecedes-Benz E-Class convertible. Though he saw bags in the back, he did note that Mario was putting her things in the back of his truck.

"Grandmother?" he asked.

"I'm not missing out on seeing how cute your pup is grandson. I am going with you and that is all that there is to it. Don't even think about trying to talk me out of it, Raygan and Grant will have me. It's fine." she'd stated, "Besides, I was going for that meeting anyway." she smiled right up at him, "Steffen has made his bed, let him lay in it."

He looked at everyone, they were traveling in a convoy today, it seemed, turned and looked at the sound of his name being called out. Rickford was coming this way. "Karsyn, what is going on?"

"I'm simply giving father what he wants. If Raygan is not welcome in this pack, then I will clearly move to her pack. I've already informed Danny he's the new Heir, relinquished my title as Heir to Cold Moon. As per father's clear wishes."

"He's not well still, Karsyn. Give him a minute to catch up. He doesn't know what is going on and once he does, he'll understand and come around."

"Too late," he stated, "My unit are all going with me. We'll work something out for them with their families."

"Luna Mika?"

"I like Raygan, always did. Just like I liked her mother. I will not be on this side of any war between the two packs again. If my own son is so blinded to his own father's atrocities, then I will no longer be a part of this pack. I will also not miss out on seeing just how cute Kar and Ray's pups are. I'm going to be a great-grandmother and I will not be denied my right because my son is an arrogant ass." Mika stated and got in her car, "Let's go Karsyn, your father has to deal with the fall out of his own words against your Mate. "

"Karsyn, please be reasonable." It was Rickford.

"I am being reasonable. Did I yell and pitch a fit, or did I do this calmly and without issue? Danny will come home in six months and father can give him the official title then. He pulled his phone out and sent Rickford the photo of Demi and Zac that he had gotten this morning.

"Demi is fine, not in heat anymore. That's the evidence she's all good. Raygan took this picture this morning. I'll sort this out quickly, a day or two tops, and send that traitor home to be dealt with, along with all the evidence and timeline of all those photos as well.

"Father's phone is in my....the future Alpha's suite, upstairs on the desk. I left the images there but deleted the video footage of her in heat with Zac mating her, and they did send them daily to fathers phone. Still trying to incite this war up until yesterday." He turned and got in his car, drove away from the Cold Moon Pack, it was no longer his home and he knew it.

He'd not informed Raygan of what was about to happen, their plan was about to change, and hopefully for the better, he drove his car to the Wintering Moon Pack, where he and Raygan would reign together. Smiled a little, they were both going to be Alpha's to that pack. Though who was going to pull Luna Duties was yet to be worked out. He knew she was not going to want to do that. They were going to have to sit and discuss that, not just between themselves, but likely Alpha Grant and Luna Gina as well. It is possible Gina might want to stay in the role, but with Grant being retired, he might want to get away and take a long, well-earned rest.

There was a lot to be worked out, it seemed. He pulled his car up at the gate and saw the guard look at him and the four cars traveling with him, watched the man's eyes glaze over, and then a moment later just open the gate for all of them to pass on through. Karsyn didn't take offense to it; they had not been informed of who and what he was to the pack yet.

Actually, liked how diligent the gate guard was, even though he was mated to Raygan, he wasn't allowed to just pass into the pack. Showed loyalty to the pack, and that he did his job, by letting the Alpha know he had an unannounced visitor as well.

He pulled his car up in the parking area and saw Raygan and her father on the steps. He got out, and she actually walked right down to him, without hesitation. Had mind-linked to him as he'd sat at the gate and asked if he was alright. Liked that she was concerned about him. Knew something was wrong even. He'd just told her he'd explain when he got to the packhouse, that he was driving himself.

She walked right over to him and looked up at him, a slight frown on her face, he just sighed and pulled her right into him, held her to his body and rested his forehead on hers. It was very much a Mate thing to do, and she allowed it. Pressed herself into him even, knew he needed it right this minute.

"Is it that bad?" she asked quietly.

"No." he sighed, "But..." how did he tell her his father was never going to accept her? No one would like hearing that, not even Raygan. She'd likely play it off as she didn't really care but, deep down inside, she had to on some level. She pulled herself a little away from him and looked up at him. Touched his face and then just reached up and kissed him right there out in the open for all to see, uncaring it seemed if Demi and Zac saw it.

He stood there and just kissed her back, it was nice to be kissed by her all soft and slow out in the open, not having to hide their love for each other from all.

He heard Alpha Grant chuckle after a little while. "Now that is a sight for these tired old eyes to behold." He sounded happy to Karsyn's ear.

Raygan broke the kiss, and he growled a little at her, didn't want it to end, could have just stood there and kissed her like that for a very long time, also uncaring as to who in this pack saw it. She smiled up at him and apologized. "Sorry." Blushed a little even. He really did like that, he had made his 200-year-old mate blush like a schoolgirl.

She might know what she wanted, and get it without issue on a normal day, but she was not really a woman for massive public displays of affection, and liked to keep that behind closed doors. He also didn't want others to see her and that delectable body of hers, it was for his eyes only now.

But kissing in public, that was okay with him. She'd likely be the one to have to stop him getting all hot and bothered in the public areas of the pack. He didn't really have an issue with most of it.

"Don't ever be sorry," he murmured and meant it, then slid his hand through her hair, "I like it when your hair is out."

She shook her head a little. "So what is going on?" She looked at the line of cars and his unit, now all just standing there with his grandmother.

They were all just watching the two of them, smiling merrily to themselves. Harvey was grinning like the bloody Cheshire Cat. "Hmm, we're moving in." he stated softly.

"What?" she blinked in complete shock, took a step back from him even.

"I can be a bit impulsive. Today, Gorgeous, is moving day."

"Since when?"

"Since father woke up," he stated, "Sorry I didn't tell you." his eyes moved to Alpha Grant, "My apologies, Alpha Grant, but there seems to be a change of plans." He could see Zac and his unit watching from one of the windows inside the packhouse, had kept his tone of voice soft so as not to be heard by others. "Could we have a word in your office, all of us before the moving happens."

"Probably wise, son." He nodded and waved for him to come inside.

Zac and his unit had just gotten an eyeful indeed. He had actually just seen him and Raygan displaying their actual love and bond for each other. It wouldn't have escaped his attention the actual affection between them. The way his angry sister had just been all over him, the moment he turned up. The way she had been the one to kiss him, or the way Karsyn himself had touched her face, it was all soft and gentle. He'd not been smiling when he'd gotten out of his car and Raygan had responded in a manner any Mate would. She had wanted to comfort him, and he'd not only wanted her to, he had let her even.

Likely, Zac wouldn't have missed his father's clearly spoken words either. He was throwing a wrench in that boy's plans, he imagined. Slipped his hand into Raygan's and headed up the stairs, "Grandmother, boys, let's go inside and sort this out." He stated all Alpha himself.

'Where is Demi?' he asked her via the mind-link, 'I see Zac.'

'She was inside with him when father and I came outside. That should be interesting.'

They walked inside, and he turned and looked at Zac and the boys' unit, and noted there was no Demi. She'd obviously ducked away to hide herself, "Zac," he nodded to him. "Your Mate's heat must be over, I saw you out yesterday as well. I'd like to meet her."

"She's tired and has retired for the evening."

"Really? She didn't look tired five minutes ago," Raygan stated.

"Isn't feeling well. Being pregnant with an alpha pup takes a toll on one," he stated, "She needs her rest."

He saw Raygan shake her head but say nothing as they all headed for Alpha Grants office. He heard Mario state, "Sorry Zac, was it? This is a private meeting." Turned and looked to see Mario baring Zac's way into the Alpha office.

"I'm the Heir and have a right to be in all meetings."

"Not my Mating Alliance meetings, you don't." Raygan stated and walked right over to the office door. " Excuse me Mario." She smiled at his man and he stepped back, then she shut that door right in her brothers' face.

6 Comments

10 Vote

LUCK DRAW