CH 88

Karsyn POV

He and his unit also took a look at the phones and laptops, but as Raygan stated there was nothing on them, it was odd. He, like Raygan, had to put it down to the fact that Demi and Zac had gotten rid of all the evidence prior to trying to flee the pack that morning.

That Demi, using that computing science degree of hers, had known how to delete everything completely. Or that they had some sort of back up systems that no one could find.

Karsyn walked himself and Rick down to the cells. Raygan smiled at him and said, "You know where they are, just leave my brother out of it as much as possible." She knew he wanted to talk to Demi herself.

As he stood there in the cells looking at her now, she was all relaxed in that cell. She likely did actually believe there would be nothing anyone could do without actual evidence. Was it seemed, completely confident that she had erased every ounce of it.

Demi sat in that cell and looked right up at him as he looked down at her. She didn't move at all from that cot she was sitting on, was all leaned back against the wall, had made herself comfortable.

"Where is mother or father?" she asked him calmly.

"Not here, Demi. Why would you think they would be? Do you really believe after what you did inside this pack, that Raygan would allow him in here to actually see you?"

She was staring at him now, "I want father, he'll believe me."

"Exactly why he won't be coming." He told her simply as he stood there watching her, she really was calm and didn't seem to think she was going to get in any trouble. "Are you aware Demi, that your own mother has formed an Alpha's Oath with Alpha Grant. That if Steffen starts a new war or allows anyone from Cold Moon to harm even a single person inside Wintering Moon. Your own mother will suffer the consequences and die due to him breaking that oath she made."

Watched her frown and then just turned her eyes away and looked at Zac, "Oh! We didn't inform Zac about that. Didn't tell him of much that went on around the two of you, only what we wanted him to know. The deals I was making with Raygan and Grant, he was not involved in."

She turned those eyes of hers on him, and he could tell she was angry, to hear other dealings were being made without their knowledge. Probably thought that with Zac being the new Heir, he would be informed of all dealings. How wrong they were.

"You do also realise that the moment father was incapacitated by that tea you gave him. I was seated as the Alpha in charge, and would be the one to take over, yes? So, you have to deal with me, not him."

"What tea?" she asked, "I never poisoned father."

"Do you recall the last gift you gave him?" he asked her.

"Yes, a box of herbal tea, it was just that. There was nothing in it to harm him. Why would I do that?"

"Why would you come here and incite a war with your own pack?" he asked her in return.

"Not my pack." she grated out.

"Is that all this is about Demi, your need to be a Luna. Are you so jealous of your brother because he's actually Alpha-blooded and you are not?"

"I'm not jealous of you." she spat at him.

"I wasn't talking about myself. You're not my sister."

She was just glaring at him now but said nothing at all, and then just turned her face away from him. Karsyn stood staring at her for a long time. "Do you know how much trouble you're in?" he asked her.

She was sitting there playing with a very expensive-looking pendant. He looked her over and for the first time realised she was wearing quite expensive jewelry, a bracelet and matching watch, a pair of earrings. They all matched that pendant, from the same store he supposed.

Zac had clearly taken her shopping, though Gina had stated they'd also gone shopping, she was also wearing expensive brand-name clothing as well he noted, she was dressed currently like any Alpha's Mate would be. He hadn't seen anything like that on her before.

The jewelry he was certain was a gift from Zac himself, the clothes likely from a shopping trip with either Zac or Gina herself, spoiling her new daughter. He'd seen the pack cards she'd been carrying, he knew the one from Cold Moon allowed her to spend up to 5000 a day. Raygan had told him the Wintering's pack card was unlimited, and he was willing to bet that was what Demi wanted.

She stared at him. "You have no evidence or proof of anything."

"You might be wrong on that, there is blood. Your blood I hear in one of the walk-in's up in that suite of yours." He informed her.

"Yes, my blood, I didn't do that to myself." She shrugged.

"That sounds to me like you're going to blame everything that happened on Zac. I wonder how he feels about taking all the blame. If he was your Goddess Gifted he might want to protect you, but he's not. That has been confirmed by Zac's friends."

He watched her shrug uncaringly, "Without evidence you can't prove anything, so fk off Karsyn."

"That maybe Demi, for us here in the pack," he nodded, and she was likely right on some of it but not all of it, "I could Order it out of you, what you did, all your planning, every filthy little detail. And you'll be bowed down to me with your head on the floor, much the same way you were when Raygan did that to you."

She was glaring up at him now. "Father will never let you do that to me, he loves me."

"True that man does love you, dotes on you completely. But he now has all the pictures from here in this pack, you and Zac happy and you swanning about. Family photos, the one you and Zac sent to Raygan and titled it the future Alpha and Luna of Wintering Moon. He's not so happy over there."

"He still won't let you Alpha Order me." she smiled at him.

He stood looking at her, she was very confident about that and likely right as well. "Do you know what a kingdom seer is, and what they do?" he changed tactics.

"I don't really care, I'm just omega born." She turned those eyes on him, and they were filled with anger, "I'll be of no concern to them. Can't do anything, I am just a weak, useless, omega." she grated out.

"You know, Demi, if you weren't such a spoiled brat, that first mate of yours likely wouldn't have rejected you."

She was on her feet now glaring daggers up at him. "You know nothing about me," she screamed at him. " fk you Karsyn."

"No thank you." he stated, "I have a Luna, she's beautiful and strong." He leaned back on the wall and just stood watching her as she glared up at him. "I'm curious Demi, did you think that you would actually become the Luna to Cold Moon?"

He saw Zac actually turn and look at her, a frown on his face, looked at him and could see his brain was ticking over there, wondered what that was about. But left it alone for now. Zac was not his problem; Raygan didn't have any intention of even talking to him from his understanding. Was simply going to let Alwina dig into the man's brain. He couldn't spin any lies that way.

"Demi, a seer is coming, and she is going to pry into your mind, pull out all that you have done and the reason behind it. Will be easy for her, as you yourself just stated; you are omega born. I'm not going to torture you. I'm not going to give you the opportunity to speak with father or Renee either, no one from Cold Moon for you to spin your lies to. So, enjoy your solitude down here till she gets here."

"I need food. I am pregnant with the Heir of Wintering Moon." she shot at him as he turned to leave.

Karsyn stopped and looked right at her, watched her place a hand on her stomach and realised that was why she was calm. Perhaps she knew that no seer could pry into the mind of a pregnant she-wolf, carrying an Heir to a pack. She thought that she was still safeguarded. Walked right over to her cell and looked at her, tuned his hearing in to her, "I hear nothing. So, you will be looked into."

"If I lose the pup Karsyn, that's an act of treason against this pack. Whoever orders that seer to look into my mind will be a traitor."

"Hmm, well, that will be father who orders it, and seeing as he's already the enemy, no one here will suffer." He stared at her for a long moment, "You know what, I'll have Renee order it." he stated after only a moment's contemplation. He wanted to see who her hatred incorporated.

Saw anger flare in the girl once more. "You leave mother out of this."

"She's already bound to Alpha Grant, it's too late, you yourself got her involved in this mess that you started. She'll be the one to suffer for your traitorous ways."

"Excuse me, Alpha Karsyn." It was William the cell guard.

"Yes, William." he turned and looked at the man.

"I have three pups of my own. A simple blood test will tell if she is pregnant. I do believe pregnancy hormones show up quite early for us werewolves. Can be detected within a week or earlier if the pup is Alpha blooded. Which," he saw the man's eyes move towards Zac, "it should be."

"Hmm, good thinking William. Thank you."

"My pleasure, Alpha." He nodded.

"Well, I do believe their blood will be taken, to give to that seer as payment anyway, we'll have her tested when we do that." His eyes moved back to Demi, and he smiled at her, "You'll really want to hope you are, and it'll only save you until that pup is out of you. Might not even then if what they get from Zac, points to the two of you."

Then he just turned and walked away from the cells. He looked at Zac, that man was still looking at Demi, hadn't really taken his eyes off of her, since that comment about her wanting to be his Luna. There was something else going on here. He wondered just how those two had hatched their plan, who had posed the idea to start their scheming.

Karsyn strolled back through the pack with Rick, nice and casual like, "She's got some sort of insurance and thinks whatever it is, Zac is going to take the fall in everything that is done." Rick commented.

"I agree, but she can't escape the seer. No one can." Karsyn nodded.

"No." Rick agreed and nudged him a little. "That's Raygan's omega, where do you think she's going?"

"Leave her, you heard Raygan at dinner the other night." Though his eyes moved to the small woman, and he looked right at her, she was walking carrying what appeared to be a large picnic basket. Her eyes moved right to them. She'd heard Rick in all likelihood.

"It's my day off, going to see my grandmother, Alpha, Beta." she stated and then just continued on her way. She was headed back the way they had just come. He let it go but watched Rick turn and watch her.

He shook his own head, the man had a thing for small and petite she-wolves. It made him feel all big and strong, Karsyn also knew he wanted a mate that could be tucked in under his arm. His own mother was tiny, barely made it to Rickford's chest. Likely where Rick himself got that idea.

Karsyn actually laid a hand on Rick and turned his head away from the girl. "Stop staring at the creature."

"She's so tiny." he smiled, "I bet I could pick her up one-handed?"

"It is likely. You heard what Raygan stated, don't fk the omega's unless they are your Mate."

"I heard, and I won't. My Alpha Luna will likely kick my ass."

"Not likely, definitely. Especially if you touch her personal omega."

"You know Karsyn, I think she's the tiniest omega here in the pack." he heard the smile in Ricks' voice. He wasn't going to let it go, and he was likely going to have Raygan punch him into next week.

"Don't say I didn't warn you not to." He shook his head and heard Rick chuckling.
