Chapter 1041: Vogu Dis

Other than the lack of information on the giant Python's specimen, the confrontation between the biological forces was also a problem.

As the Lord of the Southern Star Field, he was not very familiar with the forces of the Eastern Star Field. Bolton's rise could only be understood through some information in the database. Indeed, he could not understand why a pure demon-born lord., would connect with teacher Sandro.

Back then, he had been in contact with teacher Sandro because he had studied in the Northern Star Field for a period of time. And as a heavenly god Lord., having a teacher-student relationship with an archaic undead under Sylvanas' command was because of his very special experience!

His name was Vogu. Diss, was a Blue Elf from the southern Diss family, also known as the Blue Spirit. He didn't belong to the direct line of descent. Moreover, when he transformed, he became an alien species that had no records.

In large clans, the competition for resources among the collateral descendants was intense, especially in the Elf clans. Because of the long period of cultivation, the elders were very cautious when it came to resources. In such an environment, an alien., an alien without any records was often the target that the clan would directly give up on.

Indeed, in the transformation of the Elves, an alien did not represent trash. Many times, the alien species had great potential. For example, the Phoenix species was the noble species among the alien species, many elf families would even allocate a certain amount of resources to nurture new alien offspring.

However, that was a large family. Small families had limited resources, so they did not have the extra resources to gamble. Aliens would produce explosive species, and there was a high probability of producing a weak one. Without the support of data, nurturing an alien with unknown attributes., the difficulty and resource requirements were very high. Compared to this kind of risk, allocating limited resources to a known species was obviously a more effective method!

The most stable job for Blue Elves was the psionic master, which was also the most popular job in this branch. As a member of the Blue Spirit Branch, he was born without any test for spiritual talent, which deepened the Elders' fear of taking risks, therefore, in the first year after his transformation, he was completely abandoned by his family.

His family had seven siblings and himself. Three of them followed the path of the research type and three followed the path of the psionic archer. Even though they did not spend much money, they could not afford to spend too much money on dolls.

If it were not for the fact that basic education did not cost much in the south star district, his family might not even have given him the opportunity to go to school... ..

In order to change his fate, he had spent almost every second of his time studying hard to improve himself. He had tried all kinds of methods, but without the resources to follow the warrior path, he had focused solely on scientific research, he had studied in the engineering school, and his science and engineering theories were among the best in the school. Even his core family members' basic courses could not compare to his.

His hard work had also won back some of his family's approval and approval. Of course, the basic principles had not changed, whether it was his family or his original family, still, he did not intend to pay a price to go to an Arcana Academy. His parents saw that his subjects were solid, but they hoped that he would go to a finance school and become a financial officer to earn some tuition fees for his younger siblings. To relieve the pressure on his family...

That was the first time he felt despair in his life, because he found that he was trapped in a huge net. No matter how hard he struggled, he couldn't escape the fate of the lower class. He had a higher cultural score than the direct descendants... His family actually only wanted him to become an interstellar accountant... ..

In the Universe Federation, without the support of the previous generation, it was basically impossible to enter an advanced academy. The expensive tuition fees were already enough to deter many ordinary families. Even if it was a loan, you still needed the guarantee of the previous generation.

As for the scholarship quota? This kind of thing usually had nothing to do with the unstable alien species like them.

It was as if fate had already been decided. He could only become a famous accountant... ..

Just when he was in despair, he happened to hear rumors about the northern star field.

Different from the traditional three star fields, the northern star field gathered some creatures that were not very well-liked, archaic undead, half-demon species, abnormals, and some evil god religious forces that appeared out of nowhere.

Ordinary children who went out to work would usually stay away from that place. However, it was rumored that there were the most generous school resources there. Many people said that there was no racial discrimination in the universities there, there were no family, power, class, or other messy class influences. There was the purest academic style. It was the same for students. Regardless of birth, bloodline, and as long as they passed the test., they would be given a corresponding opportunity.

Moreover, in order to attract talents and students, there was a generous subsidy scheme for university students. Many people could apply for free university qualifications. Moreover, the student loans did not require the family's guarantee.

This statement ignited a glimmer of hope in Vogu. He quietly submitted an application to the Northern Star Field Center.

The application was replied very quickly. It had only been about a week when news came from the education center that there were six universities in the northern star system that were very interested in his resume, among them was the Tiris law school that Sylvanas had personally founded!

This news made him feel extremely flattered. Tiris law school was one of the top ten schools in the Federation. He had never dreamed that he would actually be able to obtain the recognition of such a high school!

After receiving the reply, he excitedly informed his parents of this news, hoping to obtain the recognition that he had been waiting for from them for a long time.

However, the reality was different. After learning that he had actually set his sights on that filthy place in the Northern Star Field, his parents showed an extremely angry and disappointed attitude towards him. They all persuaded him to obediently enter the academy... Don't think about things that did not belong to him. They also made it clear that if he chose the path of the Northern Star Field, his family would completely eliminate him...

Things that did not belong to him...

So from the very beginning... They had already decided that he would only be a lowly person for the rest of his life. ...

But what was the meaning of him staying in the family. His hard work had been recognized by the top university in the federation like Tiris Law School, but he had not been able to get the slightest change of heart from the family... ...

What was the meaning of all these years of expectation?

From then on, he had decided that from now on, every second he lived in this world, he would live for himself... ...

Thus, he brought all his savings from his odd jobs for many years, bought a low-class cabin ticket to the Northern Star Field, and with a determination that he would either succeed or die, set foot on the legendary land of demons in the Northern Star Field!

The truth illuminated his decision. There, he passed the test of the Tiris law school and was highly regarded by Andrew, one of the ten great liches. He participated in the newly established life machinery course in the school.

After 100,000 years of study, his diligent attitude was highly regarded by Andrew. He participated in many private projects and gained trust. He even participated in the project about the ultimate biological secret.

It was also during that project that he obtained the secret of his teacher's phylactery and locked onto his teacher's coordinates.

This was also the reason why he could lock onto Andrew the moment he appeared in such a remote place. Therefore, he was curious. This demon lord who had also come from afar.., how did he know that his teacher would appear here?

Chapter 1042: Burton's scheme

"Lord Burton..."

On the other side, Burton's forces, who hadn't received any news from Rennes, were also very anxious these days.

They had used almost all of their forces to come here, but they hadn't expected to run into a powerful force that wasn't weaker than them. And that wasn't even counting the giant python that had coiled around their destination.

Wasn't the person at the center of the incident in Rennes' intelligence report a level 6 small lord?

At this moment, Bolton's quartermaster in charge of logistics stepped forward and reported, "The effects of freezing sleep these days are getting worse by the day, and the consumption is getting bigger and bigger..."

Hearing this, Bolton frowned slightly.

The freezing sleep that the other party was referring to was the state of the living planet that he had brought. In his own star field, those top-tier living planets were in a high hibernation period. For such a large living creature to be in a hibernation period, there was a very high requirement, the environment, energy allocation, and specific soul pacifiers were all essential.

And for this expedition, it was obviously not realistic for them to continue to maintain low sleep consumption. In order to provide logistical supplies, before the war, they had used deep hibernation technology!

However, those fellows had very high resistance, so the hibernation technology could not be sustained for long. Looking at the situation reported by the quartermaster these days, in a few more days, those fellows would probably be fully awake.

When that time came, the number of people needed to consume and control would be on a different level than the current one... ..

But now that he was stuck here, he could not make any big moves. Other than that, he did not dare to act rashly just because of the unknown mechanical force on the other side.

A few days ago, he had hurriedly asked the intelligence personnel to check the information of the other party. He was a ruthless character!

Vogu. Diss, born in the southern star field of the Blue Elf family, was a xenomorph. Because he was not valued by his family, he chose to apply to the Tiris law school in the Northern Star Field. He was valued by Andrew, one of the top ten liches, and participated in many secret studies.

After Andrew was reported to have studied taboos, Sylvanas personally issued a wanted notice, forcing Andrew to flee back to the realm of death. According to the intelligence, the person who reported it back then... .. Seemed to be this Vogu. Dis!

After that incident, he suffered the revenge of Andrew's secret forces. He was forced to give up on the rebirth of his level 19 xenogeneic body and retake his form.., after that, he secretly hid and activated the funds and resources that he had prepared to join the deity academy. In the blink of an eye, he became a deity overlord!

After graduating, he advanced by leaps and bounds. In just a few billion years, he had become one of the few deity overlords in the southern star field. His influence spanned over a dozen star systems. His level in the federation was fourteen times larger than his, and his foundation was solid, he was one of the characters that had the greatest hope of becoming a great overlord in the Southern Star Field!

Throughout his life, he was an extremely legendary character. He had a flawed background when he was young, and he had relied on his own efforts to obtain the recognition of a famous school. He had also become a high-ranking teacher of his. After that, he had been reborn as a deity, and he had advanced by leaps and bounds, his life experience was simply a standard model for a counterattack.

For someone who was born like that to reach his current level, even an arrogant demon like Burton had to be cautious.

Moreover, from the current situation, the other party's counterattack was probably premeditated!

According to the current observation, the large snake surrounding the planet was most likely Andrew's alchemy project back then. After such a long time, this thing had reappeared, and that Guy Vogu was actually able to track it here in the first place, what did this mean?

It meant that he had been scheming against the other party a long time ago!

It wasn't just a simple report, but that Vogu, who was still a student at the time, had already been paying attention to Andrew, the ancient undead!

After that, the other party gave up on his physical body and reincarnated, becoming a god, growing step by step until now. It was likely that he had long calculated that before he reincarnated, he should have prepared a considerable amount of resources hidden in the dark, accumulating strength along the way... it was all for the sake of devouring Andrew's achievements after he emerged from the mountain!

Thinking of the entire process, even Bolton felt a chill in his heart.

An abandoned son of a family who had nothing and had submitted to the Northern Star Field's academy actually dared to pay attention to an archaic undead like Andrew at that time?

Moreover, from the execution of the plan, the other party seemed to have completely grasped Andrew's movements. At least up till now, everything had gone smoothly for the other party...

Such courage and scheming, one could not help but admire him...

"Sir..." just as Bolton was silent, the person in charge of monitoring outside trotted in. "Intelligent Notification, God Lord: Vogu Dis wants to meet with you for a face-to-face interview! !"

"Are you here?" Bolton took a deep breath. The other party had taken the initiative to look for him, and Bolton had somewhat expected it. After all, the situation that he and the other party had long planned was different. His arrival was entirely because of Rennes' intelligence... it allowed him to determine that the little guy called Seer had a secret that allowed him to use all of his power. He had come on the spur of the moment.

However, when he came here, he did not know that a famous big shot like Andrew would be involved. This put him in an extremely passive position.

If he continued to stay, this matter had already exceeded his expectations. Facing a person like Andrew, it was very risky to recklessly face the risk without any information. This was not even taking into account the covetous vogue on the other side. Dis!

However, if he were to leave, it would be too much of a loss for him to expend all his power. Just these few days of consumption was equivalent to his million years of accumulation! If he were to return empty-handed, he would definitely not be satisfied.

Moreover, Andrew's forbidden experiment back then was something that could make even Sylvanas issue a wanted notice. It was impossible for him not to have some ideas!

However, the interesting thing was that this location seemed to be very incompatible with the environment of the planet that the seer reported to the federation.

Was it an accident that he was lured here, or was it the little lord who deliberately did it?

If it was the latter, how could a level six little lord like him dare to play around with a lord of the same level as him and Andrew? This brother Ryan was also a ruthless character...

Of course, not to mention the specific situation of that little guy, all the problems in front of him had to be solved. Since he was not willing to return empty-handed, he had to understand the information. If he encountered this kind of trouble, if he was not careful... It was possible for his entire force to accompany him here... ..

"Reply him and ask him to set the meeting place!" Burton was silent for about 15 minutes before he gave a reply.

His subordinates were shocked when they heard this. Night Demon, who was in charge of the intelligence, quickly said, "Sir, this is too risky!"

The other party had arrived before him. Who knew if they had set up some tricks in the surrounding star areas to let the other party decide the location? Wouldn't that give the other party a chance?

"No worries..." Burton narrowed his eyes and said, "It's not that easy to behead me. Moreover... If you want to get the information, you have to show your confidence!"

Now that he was facing an old schemer who had schemed against Andrew for many years, he was at a big disadvantage in terms of information. This situation had to be reversed as much as possible, and the only advantage he had against the other party now was that the other party definitely did not know his background!

After all, he came here on a whim. He did not believe that the other party had deliberately designed him to come here, nor did he believe that seer, the Little Lord, was colluding with the other party.

He was an unexpected variable for seer...

Chapter 1043: meeting

"Oh? Let us choose the location?"

Lord Vogu tilted his head and revealed a meaningful smile. This little demon was quite interesting... ..

The reason he proposed a private meeting was to test the other party's foundations. If the problem wasn't too big, they could temporarily reach a cooperation agreement. Probing was the core of this negotiation.

According to Vogu's idea, the other party's sudden appearance was nothing more than three situations. The first one was that the other party was a chess piece that Andrew had secretly arranged. The second one was that the higher-ups of the Abyss had long noticed Andrew. In the end, they had used all kinds of means to locate Andrew's current location. The third one was that the other party had entered by mistake. Perhaps the other party did not know the situation at all and had passed by for other reasons...

The first possibility was the greatest...

For the sake of this sacrifice, it was not an exaggeration to say that Andrew had made many arrangements before escaping to the realm of death. Under the circumstances where he knew that he would definitely be able to locate him, it was not impossible for him to arrange for another divine lord to come and balance him... ..

However, it would depend on the relationship between the two parties. If it was the first case, there were two modes. One was that Bolton was the divine lord that Andrew had secretly groomed from the very beginning. However, this possibility did not seem very realistic to Vogu... ..

He had seen Bolton's information. He had risen to power less than half a century ago and was a super new star Lord. When he came out of the Abyss to participate in the god training, he was only a level-12 imp, and two eras ago, Andrew had already been forced back to the death realm by Sylvanas.

If the other party had arranged to nurture a imp to become a god Lord one era in advance and successfully met him at the appointed time, wasn't the tolerance rate a little too high?

Even if the plan was well-planned, the hearts of the people would change, not to mention a demon from the abyss. Was it certain that grooming him would not backstab you?

Of course, there was another possibility in this situation. That was that Andrew did not specifically groom Bolton. He had only chosen this fellow among the many deities to guide him over, this situation was the most likely one out of all the current circumstances. However, if this was the case, whether or not they could cooperate would depend on how much the other party knew about the overall information, and what kind of situation was the cooperation with Andrew.

But in this case, there was a lot of room to maneuver.

If the second possibility was very troublesome, if the upper echelons of the Abyss noticed Andrew, then the power that the other party was holding was definitely not the power displayed by the Lord's forces, if the other party could directly summon the top-tier Demon Lords in the Abyss, then it would be another matter. Perhaps in the end, he might be forced to cooperate with Andrew. After all, a force with the support of a top-tier demon..., was already beyond his and Andrew's control.

The third possibility...

The probability was too small, so he didn't think about it...

The other party's situation was obvious that the entire force had come out in full force. How could he really come out to stroll around and bump into them?

The other party's way of letting him choose the location was clearly a display of confidence. In such a situation, it was possible that he was bluffing and full of confidence... ..

Thinking of this, Vogu did not hesitate and directly said to the intelligence officer, "Reply, coordinates: the seventh marked star..."

As soon as he said this, the expressions of the surrounding subordinates immediately became strange. They had been here for more than one or two days. The so-called marked star was a strategic star controlled by their special technology, and there were obvious traces of alchemy.., would the other party come to report the coordinates?

Faced with the doubts of his men, vogu immediately sneered: "They are so confident why should we be so modest? Choose our advantageous position, I want to see how confident the other party is! !"

"Boss is wise! !"

The coordinates of the seventh marker star are not far from the target star, which is surrounded by pythons, and fall within the radiation range of the same self-burning star (the Sun) . There are some signs of life forming, but the distance is not good, moreover, there was no water vapor forming a natural atmosphere. Without human intervention, it was basically impossible for such a planet to form a life-preserving planet.

After Bolton approached the planet, the psychic officer that followed him immediately used the detector in his hand to conduct a basic exploration. However, the moment he scanned the planet, the entire planet suddenly moved for some reason, following that, the entire planet actually turned into metal visible to the naked eye. Then, the area transformed, and a huge metal escalator slowly extended over.

The Mind Officer's pupils shrank when he saw this. He looked at his lord and said, "My Lord..."

Bolton narrowed his eyes when he saw this.

Tinder technology!

It was popular two centuries ago, it was jointly developed by Andrew of the Tiris Law School in the North Star Field, Ponzio, the Chief Mechanical Master of the Florin School in the East Star Field, and Black Baron, the Chief Mechanical Alchemist under the eighth Lord.

It was a technological revolution initiated by nanomaterials captured from another dimension. They could make machines come alive, and they could also mechanize objects they came into contact with. It was a mechanical activation technology that was comparable to biological infection.

After the appearance of this technology, it caused a great stir in the federation's technological demonstration at that time. Even now, it was still an advanced subject in the various high courts, but very few lords would be able to apply it.

This was because this technology required a lord to have high requirements in the mechanical domain, biological domain, and spatial domain. Furthermore, the demand for materials was extremely high. These nanomachines required high-level spatial mages to steadily capture them, without one or two of these dimensional passageways, one would not even be able to gather the basic materials.

The other party should not have been here for long, but he did not expect that even the planet had been mechanised. This proved that not only did the other party have sufficient materials, but the tinder technology was clearly very mature... ..

To be able to use the tinder technology, the mechanical force was even more uncertain!

"The other party is not polite at all!" The psychic officer sneered. "Sir, what should we do?"

"It's a character..." Burton narrowed his eyes.

He had originally thought that with his generosity, if the other party wanted to show his magnanimity, he should have found a place that had no problems. However, the other party directly gave him a mechanised planet as the meeting place. It was clearly a naked test, and there was no falsehood at all...

However, there was no other way. He had already said it, and the other party had to go even if it was prepared for the Hongmen banquet!

Without much hesitation, Bolton took the lead and Strode forward. The spiritual officer behind him did not say anything when he saw this and followed closely behind.

The master was the royal family of the Abyss Demons. He already had an extremely strong bloodline talent, and with the addition of the deity's influence, don't look at how young he was. Even if he was a deity overlord who had lived for more than ten eras, most of them would not be able to defeat their own overlord.

The demons were most unafraid of a clash between leaders!

As soon as Bolton stepped on the mechanical escalator, the entire planet immediately emitted a diamond-like brilliance, instantly enveloping the dark starry sky.

At this moment, Vogu, who was waiting for him inside the planet, narrowed his eyes slightly when he saw this. What astonishing energy!

Chapter 1044: testing each other (Part I)

The seventh marker star was one of the important strategic stars that they had chosen after careful inspection after arriving at the scene. Its volume was 1.4313×10^{15} cubic kilometers, and its mass density was 319 times that of the surrounding stars of the same grade, it was currently the most energy-bearing planet among the mechanized strategic stars that they had found in this galaxy.

However, it was this type of mechanical planet that Bolton stepped into. The entire planet's energy measurement reached its peak in an instant. The process did not take more than 0.1 seconds!

This new lord's energy was indeed shocking. It made the heart of the intelligence officer beside Vogu tremble slightly.

She was a veteran spirit officer. As a star-level powerhouse, she had lived for almost three eras and served seventy-one lords. She had a rich resume and served a great elven lord of the Eastern Star Field the most. She was also quite knowledgeable.

This fellow called Bolton had only risen for half an era. The energy intensity he displayed was probably something that even many veteran lords who had lived for more than a dozen eras could not compare to!

She had long heard that the two newly risen lords of the East Star region were extremely talented, but she had never thought that they would reach such a level!

The rise of an ordinary deity was related to the size of their influence, which was related to their transportation, strategy, and operations. However, the increase in their own strength was not only related to their influence. It was not as if their influence would expand and their own energy would increase infinitely, accepting the faith of a power also required a foundation!

With this level of power, one's own strength would most likely reach the life-level threshold... ..

In the entire history of the federation, there were only a handful of life-levels that hadn't even reached a single era... ..

Dong Dong...

A muffled thunder-like sound rang out. The young lord in the sky walked over. Every step he took was as if he was stepping on the heart of a planet. The entire continent trembled with the sound of his footsteps... ..

"Burton Misslint greets Senior! !"

Misslint?

Vogu's gaze focused slightly upon hearing this. One of the nine royal families of the Abyss Demon System, the royal family of the Dylan Devils, a demon of royal bloodline, actually came to be a sky god suzerain. It made people feel that this matter was not simple.

Moreover, the other party's bloodline was kept a secret in the data of the sky gods. What did the other party mean by revealing it so easily? Was he intentionally revealing it, or did he not care about the data being exposed?

"Senior, you don't deserve it..." Vogu stood up with a smile. "I've only lived for a little longer..."

"Senior, you're too modest..." Burton smiled. "For people like us to be able to start a family smoothly, the support of the elders accounts for more than half of it. It's truly admirable for a person like you to start a family from scratch..."

Vogu smiled when he heard that and did not say anything else. The other party had a sincere look of admiration on his face. As a spiritual master, he could not even see the slightest flaw. The other party was clearly someone who often spoke nonsense...

Moreover, there was something else in the other party's words. From the moment he revealed his surname to the fact that the support of the elders accounted for more than half of it, what was he trying to express? Did he have the support of the abyssal demons behind him?

Vogu smiled. "Let's not talk too much. Tell me, through what channel did Lord Bolton come here?"

These words stunned Bolton. He did not expect the other party to be so straightforward.

After a moment of surprise, he smiled. "Senior, shouldn't you also show your sincerity by asking this question?"

Vogu nodded. "I once interned under Andrew. As early as the morning universe era, I learned about the forbidden experiment in teacher's hands. I had some thoughts, so at that time, I used some special methods to lock onto teacher's phylactery. After that, I reported that teacher forced him to retreat back to the death realm. Now, I came here to take advantage of teacher when he just came out and was not yet in power to take down the thing in his hands. I calculated a lot of accidents. I was even prepared for teacher Andrew to mislead the coordinates on the phylactery. Only your arrival surprised me. Could you please satisfy my curiosity?"

Bolton: "..."

To be honest, Bolton had thought of many probing words, but he did not expect the other party to be so straightforward. He was stunned by the question.

But after thinking about it carefully, he realized that although the other party seemed to have revealed a lot, in reality, he had not revealed a single key point. What the other party had said, if he was smarter, he could probably deduce it from his information, as for what he wanted to know, for example, what was Andrew's Secret Experiment? What characteristics did that giant python represent? Why did he choose this planet as the key element.

But although the other party was sneaky, he did show enough sincerity. At least he told him that Andrew had a major experiment result, and that he had a plan, so he should have a set of excuses.

But how should he say it?

Burton thought quickly in his mind. He knew that he could not hesitate for too long. Otherwise, with the other party's scheming, it was very likely that he could guess his background. Of course, it was impossible to tell the truth. Telling the other party that he was actually schemed by a small lord meant that his brain was really fried...

So he had to make up some nonsense, but he could not make things up...

After more than ten seconds of silence, Burton said, "I obtained some clues through some special channels and learned that the Lord would appear here. As for the detailed coordinates, they were calculated through the seers under me..."

“Seer?” Vogu sneered when he heard that. “Are you sure, sir? “I don’t know what special channel you used to find out about teacher’s clues, but to use a seer to calculate the birth coordinates of an archaic undead, you really dare to believe the results?”

These words were very impolite. Indeed, from the way he spoke, it seemed that he was not sincere. The accuracy of things related to seers was always unstable, and the greater the cause and effect, the more uncertain the result would be. Moreover, it was a fate-level existence like teacher Andrew.., even the top seers of the Federation did not dare to say that they could calculate accurately, right?

Because of the Seer’s calculations, the other party actually did not hesitate to expend his entire faction to come here from the Eastern Star Field? Who would believe such words?

Burton didn’t refute. Instead, he waved his hand lightly, and an energy fluctuation flashed. Then, a huge light screen appeared in the air. Inside the light screen, Fairy Lulu was lying lazily on the bed, her small lips pursing, she was sleeping very soundly.

Seeing this scene, Voku was slightly stunned. Then, he took a deep breath and said, “Sir, you really have guts. You even dare to touch the members of the Fairy Tribe!”

The Fairy tribe in the light frequency was obviously under a restriction. It was the first time Wogu had seen someone dare to imprison a lord of the fairy tribe. His heart immediately became more cautious. This guy was a ruthless character!

Of course, it was also because the other party had revealed Lulu. Although it exposed the other party’s madness, his words were still valid. This was because the prophecy of the fairy tribe was never wrong! !

This made Volgu somewhat puzzled. From the other party’s words, his guess should be correct. The other party had indeed been attracted over by the clues that Andrew had intentionally left behind.

However, this process was somewhat magical. Could it be that teacher had predicted that the other party had the help of the fairy race?

If that was the case, teacher’s Plate was a little too big!

Chapter 1045: probing each other (part two)

Abyss demon... Fairy Race...

It’s a bit wild...

The fragmented information made even an astute and calculative blue spirit like Vogu unable to figure out the situation at the moment. At the moment, it might be difficult to guess how teacher Andrew used the fairy race to lure the other party over, however, the chances were that it would not be a partnership.

If it was a deep partnership, they should not have chosen an abyssal demon who might have a very strong backing. Of course, the little demon’s words should be somewhat exaggerated. His surname and bloodline should not be lying, however, it was not certain if he had a very strong connection with his own family.

Vogu was not an inexperienced lord. Back then, when he accompanied his teacher to do experiments, he also had some understanding of the abyssal demon seed. Compared to the large families of the federation, which had stricter traditional rules, the pure demon family's model was very different, resources were all obtained by the law of the jungle, and there was no distinction between lineages. Internal strife was extremely serious, and even if it was a family, it was common for them to swallow one's genes in the next second.

The other party might not be able to borrow the power of the abyssal elders.

After thinking it through, Vogu probed, "What does liege Bolton plan to do next?"

Bolton looked at him with a faint smile. "I haven't thought it through yet. Why Don't You Show Me the way, Senior?"

Vogu thought to himself, 'what a loach-like little fellow...'

Dylan demons were known to be bloodthirsty and aggressive among the demon species, but there were very few wise men. This fellow in front of him was a little different from the traditional Dylan Demons, but that was also true. Who would want to become a god among the traditional Dylan Demons?

Vogu said, "It doesn't make much sense for us to keep wasting time like this. After all, we can't compare to those great lords with deep family backgrounds. We can't afford to waste so much time with such a large army, especially brother Bolton. I've taken a look at your animated planet. It uses a carbon-based seed, right? "It also has an ancient bloodline. From the structure of the runes, it should be using the Dirty Foundation technology developed by the Petersen School. Brother, you're really willing to part with it. This type of third-generation foundation technology has consumed so much that the seventh edition has almost been eliminated. It seems that the source gene seed you obtained isn't ordinary. However, this consumption is separated from the supply of this galaxy. It should be quite difficult, right?"

The moment these words left his mouth, Bolton's heart sank. He had already tried his best to conceal his system, yet he did not expect that the other party would be able to see through his activation star's general regulations with a single glance. It was indeed worthy of being said that he was born in the academy.., he really had a sharp eye.

A living planet was a very resource-consuming project, especially a carbon-based one. Nowadays, very few lords would use such an old technology. The federation's mainstream activation technology was to use nebulas and inorganic streams.

The former used non-carbon organic materials for organic synthesis, but the synthetic elements used came from different spaces. What was left now was a star-like optical drive elemental body for synthesis, bound to the planet Gaia's consciousness, it caused a type of biological element group to be separated. Normally, the entire active planet could turn into optical drive particles to replenish nutrients in various spaces in the universe. The cost-effectiveness ratio was extremely high.

The baseless flow was even more impressive. It directly converted organic matter into baseless form. While ensuring the volume, it also made the cost almost as low as a mechanical planet. However, when it came to biology, it could be temporarily converted into matter, it allowed the entire planet to come to life.

The two technologies had extremely high requirements for the details of the alchemy array. If one of the details collapsed, the activation would reverse the collapse. Furthermore, the transformation period was longer. If there was a big battle, the planet would need to be activated in advance. However, the cost-effectiveness ratio was extremely high, this was also the choice of most of the current biology lords. After all, the consumption of the traditional carbon-based species was too great. A creature that was equivalent to the size of an entire planet was completely supported by pure energy, one still had to constantly worry about whether the body of this gigantic creature would have any problems.

Just the medical treatment alone was an astronomical figure every year.

However, the activation star of the pure carbon-based species also had benefits. That was, the genes remained pure, and the overall nature was stronger. There was no need to worry about the program being destroyed or the combat strength being damaged when it was activated. During a battle, it could be directly awakened.

However, due to the huge consumption, it was very rare for a Lord to choose this direction without a very powerful biological gene as a foundation.

His stars were extremely well hidden. From the outside, they basically walked the path of no foundation. As for the alchemy array, they even used all sorts of virtual shelters to provide cover. Unexpectedly, in just a few days, they had been thoroughly discovered by the other party.

This kind of deity overlord who was born with scientific research was really troublesome! !

Hearing this, Burton did not explain himself. The other party had directly said so. It was obvious that he had a high chance of success. If he continued to demonstrate, he would appear to be guilty, thus, he smiled and said, "Senior, you have a good eye. Indeed, I also have a headache. These few days, I can barely hold on by relying on the deep freezing sleep technique. In a few days, I won't be able to suppress it and wake up, so I can't afford to waste any more time. Now that I hear that senior wants to talk about it, I immediately rushed over, right?"

Hearing that, Vogu narrowed his eyes and could not help but sigh again. What a cunning little devil. He looked like he was going to tell the truth, but it gave people the feeling that he was even more unclear about the details.

However, he did not intend to really use this to deal with the other party. After all, although the carbon-based activation technology was ancient, its combat power was the most stable among the current activation planet technology. Moreover, the other party was willing to use such an ancient technology.., that would prove that the genes of the active star must be extraordinary.

"You're being modest. . "vogu said politely, "The energy of that giant python is soaring every day. You've seen it yourself. If this goes on, not only will we not be able to endure it, but we will also be more passive if we give Andrew more time to prepare. How about this, we will use a part of our strength to test it out?"

“Senior, you’re right...” Burton smiled. “Then how are we going to use our strength? Senior, you have to come up with some rules, right?”

Vogu nodded and said, “Previously, my subordinate reported that there seems to be a team from your side that used the passage we left behind to enter. Did you report anything?”

“No...” Burton replied honestly. As for whether the other party believed him or not, he couldn’t care less.

Vogu also nodded. “There’s no news from the exploration team I sent over. It seems that it’s unrealistic to rely on the intelligence force to collect specimens. We need to put some pressure on the outside. Brother, you should send out an activation star to conduct a biological collision test. I’ll provide firepower support from the periphery. What do you think?”

Upon hearing that, Burton chuckled. “I’ll suffer a greater loss. Senior, you’re not being sincere in distributing it like this...”

Firepower support? What a joke. If this test failed, the other party would only lose some firepower storage. The mechanical force’s firepower was the least bad, while he might lose an activation star!

Which activation star didn’t have billions of years of hard work?

“I’ll provide you with at least ten channels within the planet and share the experimental data of Andrew’s Alchemy Dragon Blood with you!” Vogu said faintly.

As soon as he said this, Bolton’s playful expression immediately disappeared and he looked at the other party seriously. “The experimental data of Alchemy Dragon’s blood? Senior, are you talking about all the data?”

“Of course not...” vogu smiled and said, “But the value will definitely satisfy you. I can first give you a part of the data so that you can judge the value. What do you think about the cooperation I mentioned just now?”

Bolton: “Okay!”

Chapter 1046: The Chosen One (Part One)

“What do you think of this person?”

After Bolton left, Vogu looked at the intelligence officer beside him and asked.

The Blue Spirit intelligence officer heard this and thought for a moment before saying, “I can’t see through him. Compared to the violent Dylan Demon, I think he’s more like a slippery skinner or Soul Eater!”

Vogu nodded slightly. The other party’s slippery behavior did not seem like Dylan Demon’s tradition. However, a race’s personality was the collective impression of most groups. It did not mean that there would not be individual accidents, just like how high-level goblins gave people the impression that they were cunning and cunning, but in reality, it was not like there had never been honest high-level goblins.

The Panda Man was lazy and did not make any progress. Then, didn’t the East Star Field produce a genius panda man?

BoxNovel.com

The impression of a group did not represent an individual. This was not a big deal, but the other party's background really needed to be further investigated.

As a sky god who had less than half a century of lifespan, the energy that shocked him was indeed somewhat abnormal. Unless the other party was really the royal family of the Dylan Devils, but the royal family of the Dylan Devils was a Sky God.., it was really a little hard for people to understand.

"Sir..."the intelligence officer looked at vogu and said, "The data you gave just now, is it true?"

"Of course it's true..."vogu smiled and said, "That guy isn't stupid. The bait wasn't fat enough. How could we let that Guy Bleed?"

"That's a secret that you've kept for many years. How can you give it away so easily?"The intelligence officer frowned and said.

"He's already involved..." . "...". "...Burton sighed. "Whether I'm willing or not, he has already disrupted my plan. Whether he was lured here by teacher or not, if you don't try to contact him, his reckless actions will pose a greater threat. Trying to cooperate with him is the safest way."

"But if that person was lured here by Sandro, will he just watch US work together?"

"That's why we have to test him..."Vogu laughed. "We have to move before we can see what teacher is planning. Waiting is more dangerous."

"What if this demon lord has already cooperated with Sandro?"

Bolton: "The possibility is not high. That guy dares to imprison the fairy race and has the smell of Dragon's blood on him. I don't think teacher would find such a madman to cooperate with. I don't even think that he was lured here by teacher!"

"Dragon Blood?"The intelligence officer was stunned when he heard that. "It can't be..."

Ancient Dragons were very elusive existences to many people. Because they were rare and hidden very deeply after the great calamity, they were usually bound to certain planets and seemed very scattered, however, very few people dared to provoke them!

One reason was that they were extremely powerful. The second reason was that this race had the power to overturn a force. Back then, the Battle of the natural disaster had been successful because Sylvanas had persuaded the dragon race!

Therefore, even the fanatical alchemists in the northern star area didn't dare to pay attention to the dragon race. Everyone knew that the secret of ancient life was hidden in the body of the dragon, but no one dared to do anything.., this was also the reason why Sandro was wanted.

But they didn't expect that a small lord would dare to slaughter a true dragon!

If this was known, the consequences would be extremely serious!

"Are you sure, sir?"The intelligence officer asked again.

“I won’t smell wrong...” . “...” . Vogu smiled, “After all, I’ve followed teacher for so many years. I’ve seen the dragon’s corpse many times. I’ll never forget that smell. Besides, you should know what my body is like even if others don’t know. How could I be mistaken?”

The intelligence officer was stunned when he heard that. He immediately nodded. As the most loyal subordinate of the boss, he knew the secrets hidden in this Lord’s body...

That’s why he chose to serve such a new lord... . .

— — — —

“My Lord...” on Burton’s side, the intelligence officer who came with Burton whispered to him after returning to the base, “I have an impression of the intelligence officer beside the God!”

“Oh?” Bolton, who had been in a hurry, paused, intrigued. “Tell me...”

“Pippen Boswich, the former great elven lord of the Eastern Starfield: one of the four intelligence officers under the banner of Aisha. He is of Royal Blue Blood!”

“An intelligence officer under Aisha? And he is of royal blood?” Bolton was stunned for a moment, then his eyes narrowed into a line.

Aisha was ranked seventh in the eastern Starfield, and she was also ranked thirty in the overall Starfield. She was a real super force. In comparison, existences like himself and Vogu were not even dust.

It was impossible for someone who could become one of the four intelligence officers to work for a lord of their level. It was also impossible for him to become the chief intelligence officer... ! The supply of resources was on a completely different level!

Not to mention that the other party had a noble bloodline, the blue spirit was also a type of elf. She, who was born in the royal family, usually had a very good life under the hands of the elven gods. As for the elves., they were almost the most arrogant race in the universe that paid attention to birth and bloodline.

“Interesting...” Burton rubbed his chin, to be able to attract such a talent, this could only mean that that guy called Vogu did have enough chips in his hands to attract such a character to give up his originally bright future to gamble!

It seemed that this secret of Sandro’s experiment was more attractive than expected!

Bolton smiled and quickly walked to the control panel. He pinched the information container in his hand and the voice of the AI sounded. “Information container detected. Do you need to analyze it?”?

Bolton hesitated for two seconds when he heard the AI’s notification. In the end, he gave an order to block it!

The AI said, “Received the order. The AI has temporarily blocked the control panel area. We Are Waiting for your online notification!”

After saying that, the entire control panel suddenly stopped operating and changed to manual mode. This made some of the peripheral members of the control panel baffled. Meanwhile, the intelligence officer at the side narrowed her eyes slightly. She knew that the Lord was going to do that... ..

In the next second, another AI's voice suddenly sounded from the control panel: "It is a great honor to serve you, my master!"!

This voice sounded like a normal intelligent, but if one felt it carefully, one would be able to tell that this voice had a hint of humanity, with a tone that the mechanical intelligence did not have.

"Can you feel it?" Burton smiled, "The Scent of your own kind!"

"HMM..." the intelligent voice that suddenly appeared had a hint of laziness, "I can feel it, it seems like my guess was right, that little lord does have my own kind!"

"It's on this planet?" Burton pointed at the planet that was surrounded by giant pythons on the console and asked.

"There are traces... but I can't feel it now... at least it has been here before, and it has a faint connection with this planet..."

"That's good..." Burton smiled and handed over the information container in his hand. "Analyze it."

"I'm happy to serve you..."

In the distance, on Mars, a dragonfly-like robot was wandering in the seer's sewers. At this moment, it seemed to have sensed something and raised its head, looking at the location of the New Territories' connection point through the sewers, it muttered, "It can't be?"

Chapter 1047: The Chosen One (Part Two)

"It can't be?"

The dragonfly-like machine raised its head and looked up. Its bulging eyes kept rolling around as if it was sensing something. As it moved, suddenly, a strange phenomenon appeared at the originally normal location of the sewer.

The underground sewage system of the six major cities on Mars was very advanced. It used a federal standard sewage system that covered almost the entire underground of the city. As the dragonfly moved... Dense lines suddenly appeared in the entire underground sewer... ..

Extremely small fibers that emitted a faint light. These fibers were extremely similar to the blood vessels of living creatures. They were connected to the entire underground passage. They breathed and breathed rhythmically, as if there was a heart beating in the depths of the underground... ..

And as these fibers appeared, the dragonfly's spiritual perception suddenly became stronger than ever. In an instant, it discovered the source of some source. The Dragonfly's body emitted a trace of electricity.., it passed through the new world through the underground water channel at a strange speed, catching something at a speed faster than light.

Just when the electric wave seemed to have sensed something in the new world, the dragonfly instantly cut off the connection with the electric wave. The electric wave that was emitted was like a spring after losing the support of the main spirit. Then, it was quickly absorbed by a strange force and disappeared without a trace... ..

“Hiss! !”

The Dragonfly took a deep breath and muttered, “It’s really... My God, this luck is really terrible... what should we do now?”

If it was the developers in the base who heard this voice, they would find it very familiar, because apart from the mechanical tone, the entire voice was very similar to the stupid AI in their base!

At this moment, at the control panel where Burton was, a light wave suddenly flowed. Then, a wave of electricity appeared on the control panel. It was the wave that the dragonfly had sent to the New World.

After the wave was captured, it quickly dissipated due to insufficient energy. However, a certain existence that had captured the wave let out a chuckle. “It’s actually him!”

“An acquaintance?” Burton asked curiously.

“Not an acquaintance, right...” the AI continued its lazy tone before replying, “He’s just more famous among our group of existences. You guessed right, that Little Lord has a big secret! !”

When Burton heard that, he immediately grinned, revealing sharp teeth that were as cold as sharks.

This made the intelligence officer behind him feel an inexplicable chill, but in his heart, there was a faint trace of excitement!

In the Federation, the position of intelligence officer was not a position that anyone could be qualified for. Not only did it require extremely high comprehensive qualities, it also required broad knowledge. The higher one reached in this line of work, the more secrets one would understand about the universe.

As a high-level intelligence officer who had once been under Sarah’s command, she knew that there were many unimaginable existences in this universe, such as this fellow who had disguised himself as an AI.

These things had already invaded the federation long before the natural disaster descended. The Divine God Academy had even secretly carried out a massacre, but these existences were just like evil gods from another dimension — they were all-pervasive.

Moreover, unlike ordinary invading creatures, these things’ growth was often bound to people in the real world. They could accurately sniff out the potential of certain characters and judge a person’s growth path through a thing called Fate., then, they would think of ways to get close to the so-called master of Fate, who was still in his infancy, and assist him in accelerating his growth!

These fellows had a vast amount of knowledge and knew the secrets of the universe that many top scholars did not know. They could guide these disciples who had great fate to obtain a vast amount of fortuitous encounters and accelerate their growth, in an extremely short amount of time, they could often nurture a super force!

Even the Heavenly God Academy did not dare to openly arrest such an existence because the allure was too great. If they publicly opposed it, it would even affect the interests of many bigwigs.

This was because when the heavenly god Academy first reacted, a large portion of the Heavenly God forces had already been bound to this thing and could not be separated!

Moreover, the bound heavenly God held an important position in the Heavenly God forces!

According to what she knew, among the ten great lords, two of them were bound to this thing. One of them was the third Lord who currently had the title of Undefeatable War God: Cang Yue!

The reason why Bolton was able to recruit her, other than some of the secrets that Bolton had provided, was also the reason why he had been chosen by this thing.

This was because in the historical records, as long as those who were chosen by this thing did not fall, their rise speed would definitely surpass that of doujinshi!

This was also the fundamental reason why Bolton would send out such a large force for the sake of a small lord. This was because Bolton knew very well that those who were chosen by this thing would usually have a great secret that could allow them to rise.

Now that he had met a child of fate who had yet to mature, would he still be a qualified demon if he did not seize his secret before he matured?

Burton was a greedy demon, so he would naturally not miss such an opportunity... ..

However, he did not expect to encounter a more complicated situation than he had imagined.

“Do you think... that Little Lord’s secret is related to this Andrew?”

AI said, “I’m not sure, but logically speaking, no matter how shocking that Guy’s secret is, it should not be related to an archaic undead. After all, Andrew also knows about our existence...”

Hearing this, Burton nodded and said, “Analyze that Vogu’s information...”

AI said, “Analyzing, please wait a moment...”

After this notification, the control panel fell into silence. Burton and the intelligence officer behind him waited patiently for the result.

“This is really...” after 15 minutes, AI’s lazy voice had a rare hint of solemnity. “What a terrifying old man, he actually managed to research it out...”

Bolton was just about to ask when detailed information appeared on the control panel’s screen. Vogu’s information and part of the research data were used to support it.

Seeing what was on the screen, Bolton’s pupils dilated, and his breathing became rapid!

“This... This is real?”

AI: “From the part of the data provided by the other party, at least the basic model is correct. That fellow Andrew really did it. Master is quite lucky. The things you have now and the results of this experiment are simply a match made in heaven. Once you obtain the results, you will be able to become a great lord within 10,000 years!”

Hearing this, not only Bolton, but Phippen, who was standing behind him, also revealed a look of shock!

Great Lord!

It was the title of a top-tier Heavenly God in the universe. Although Bolton’s current influence and great lord were only one level apart, this chasm trapped millions of level lords in the universe!

The difference between a high lord and a great lord was almost as obvious as the difference between a speck of dust and a star. And this AI actually said that with this experimental result, Bolton would be able to become a great lord within 10,000 years?

These words sounded like a fantasy, but when they came out of the mouths of this race, she did not know how to refute them. This was because this race’s miracles were even more ridiculous than this!

Thinking of this, she tried her best to look at the experimental data on the screen. However, her knowledge was not enough to figure out those experimental formulas. The complexity of these formulas had completely surpassed that of an intelligence officer, even a top-notch scholar would need a lot of time to analyze these things.

Bolton was silent for a few seconds after hearing AI’s words. Then, he took a deep breath and said to Phippen, “Contact Vogu. He said that we can work together and talk!”

Chapter 1048: cooperation, and the targeted Rennes!

“He agreed so quickly?”

On the other side, the chief intelligence officer of the VOGU faction, Phippen, was stunned when she received the reply. As an intelligence officer, she had a rough impression of the master’s information.

It was a piece of information with extremely high information content. Technological interpretation and some of the formulas within were extremely complicated. Even for her own faction, with the help of a Lord, it would probably take some time to analyze it, how long had the other party taken? And he already gave an answer?

Could it be that he had only read the records of the experiment diary, but did not verify the data structure in it?

Thinking of this, she quickly walked to the control panel and reported the other party’s intention to cooperate.

BoxNovel.com

When Vogu heard this news, he also slightly narrowed his eyes. As one of the important people who personally participated in the experiment, he knew very well how high the scientific content of the experiment content in Andrew's notebook was, just those few ancient cells and the mysterious cell synthesis formula in the alternate dimension were enough for many top biological alchemists to calculate for a year or two!

Even if it was a preliminary assessment of whether it was true or false, it would not be so fast with the top intelligence of the federation.

Thinking of this, Vogu rubbed his chin slightly. "It seems that this little demon has quite a lot of secrets..."

"Then, my Lord, how should we deal with it?"

"No worries..." "...". Vogu smiled. "It's also a good thing that the other party can save so much time. The earlier they start probing, the earlier they can break the deadlock. Moreover, this cooperation mode is the other party's vanguard. We are mainly in charge of field control and firepower support, so our safety is relatively high. If we can also be schemed against like this, then it proves that we are only so-so..."
"..."

"Sir is right..." Pippen smiled, to be honest, she was quite confident in Sir's preparations over the years. Even though the imp named Bolton was astonishingly powerful, he still didn't think that he would be able to overturn his liege.

"How's the situation with those guys who used our passageway? Did the tracking go smoothly?"

Pippen smiled. "We were blocked by an unknown magnetic field, so we could only sense that the other party still had life force fluctuations. Our people and that IMP's people should have been attacked on the planet and suffered heavy losses. The life force fluctuations became extremely weak, but the tracking didn't stop. As long as we enter the planet, I can guarantee that we will be able to lock onto the location of Bolton's subordinates!"

How could it be so simple to steal their preset passage?

"What about the other two existences?" Vogu narrowed his eyes and asked.

Speaking of the other two existences, Pippin's expression became a little serious. To be honest, they had never thought that there would be such powerful existences behind them.

One of them had only spent a few hours to completely transform one of their passages and was even able to use a forbidden array!

The other one was even more shocking. Under such a forbidden array, the power that was stripped away was so terrifying that even the lord was shocked!

"We can't track those two..." Pippin shook his head. "Especially that illusionist. If we rashly track her, the possibility of being tricked is very high. I suggest that we try our best to avoid her."

"If you avoid her, others might not avoid you..." Vogu sighed slightly, feeling a little complicated.

He was more familiar with Andrew's personality. With his personality, he shouldn't have involved too many outsiders in the plan. However, these people who appeared out of nowhere were really out of his plan.

This made him, who was originally pursuing a more controlled personality, feel a little uncomfortable...

“No matter what, continue to track and keep an eye on them, especially the first batch of people from Bolton who entered the planet. If our people can land on the planet, I want to capture those existences immediately!”

Pippen nodded. The people who were sent down had suffered heavy losses, but as long as there were survivors, this mission to explore the specimens was not considered a failure, because those people were originally used to test data. Fighting such a war., a first-hand data was naturally extremely important.

On the other side, the intelligence officer immediately reported the situation after receiving a reply from Vogu’s side.

“The other party has agreed to launch a probing attack at 11 stars tomorrow. The other party will send out 80 star-ranks to provide firepower support from afar. At any time, they will provide firepower support with super weapons based on the data we have tested during the biological collision on our side!”

Hearing that, Bolton nodded slightly. This cooperation model was very standard. If his side were to engage in a head-on collision, they would be able to quickly analyze the bio-organization collected during the Super bio-collision Test, after that, they would be able to determine the other party’s basic attributes. At that time, they would be able to transmit the data to the rear. It would be a very standard cooperation model for the mechanical forces to provide firepower support!

“Lord, which model do you plan to use to participate in the battle?”The intelligence officer asked cautiously.

“Andoine, I think!”Burton said after considering for a moment.

“Andoine?”The intelligence officer and a few high-ranking officers at the side were stunned. Then, they subconsciously said, “This... isn’t it a little too early?”

It was just a test battle, and they actually used the experienced andoine!

Among the nine biological stars in Bolton’s faction, the outer stations had the most experience, and the andoine had the best results. It had used the royal genes of the fallen angel faction, and had been the main force in Andrew’s several great Lord stations!

A test attack using one of their trump cards. It didn’t feel right... ..

“Don’t be so surprised. You guys need to change your mindset...”. Burton said seriously, “Who do you think we are facing “? Andrew, that is an existence that has lived longer than the ancient demon of the abyss. The cards in his hands are definitely not what you can imagine. Under such circumstances, the more time we give the other party to prepare, the more passive we are. A mild probing is giving the other party more space!”

“But over there...”the intelligence officer hesitated.

“Over there?” Burton smiled. “That side is more anxious than me. Otherwise, why would they take the initiative to find us? Because he also knew that giving Andrew more time would only make things more troublesome later on. At this time, it’s not very meaningful to test each other too much. The first thing we need to do is to focus on opening the gap so that we can truly enter the inner part of this incident. You have to know that compared to vogu, our information is actually completely blank!”

“Understood...” the intelligence officer heard this and took a deep breath, in the end, he nodded. What the leader said made a lot of sense. Now that their information was completely lacking, the longer they dragged on, the greater the disadvantage. Instead of this, it was better to fight first and make the situation move so that they would have more room to operate.

Burton: “Did the other party give us the channels?”

“Yes!” The intelligence officer quickly said, “It was very straightforward. They gave us more than twenty channels at one time, indicating that they are for us to use independently!”

“These passageways can’t be trusted...” Bolton shook his head. “Including the passageways that Ryan entered earlier, there’s probably a problem too. I suspect that Ryan and the others are being tracked. When we send Saab and the others in later, we must retrieve Ryan at the first opportunity. At this time, we must not let the first-hand information about the specimens completely fall into the hands of Vogu!”

The intelligence officer team nodded in agreement when they heard that. Now that the information was blank, if the planet’s data and intelligence were also monopolized by the other party, they would be completely on the back foot in this incident, it was a bit risky to send out Lord Saab, but there was nothing they could do.

“But...” the chief intelligence officer still hesitated, “If the other party can track down Rennes, Lord Saab might not be as fast as them...”

“No worries...” Burton said faintly, “Saab can catch up...”

Chapter 1049: Blood Demon Saab!

“Sister, Lord Saab’s reputation is a little brutal, but that’s only for the outside world. He’s actually quite good to Lord Saab inside. Don’t worry, I’ll Be Fine!”

A young man who was adjusting his armor saw his sister, who was an intelligence officer, suddenly come looking for him. The Mister was stunned, but he immediately understood something and told her not to worry.

Within the Burton faction, Saab’s reputation was very brutal, but it was also very normal. The reputation of the abyss demons was not very good, and the blood demon was one of the most bloodthirsty types. With him leading the team, it was understandable that his sister was worried about his safety.

“What do you know!” The female intelligence officer was expressionless, she used the family secret message to transmit her voice, “There are some things that are not easy to tell you. Saab is not as generous as you think. You have to be careful. You are the inheritor of our family’s genes, and your parents’ hopes are all on you. This mission is no small matter. Remember to put your own safety First!”

"I know, I know..."the half-demon youth with the Balrog bloodline scratched his head and said with a bright smile.

BoxNovel.com

"You..."the female intelligence officer sighed helplessly, she had actually strongly opposed her younger brother joining the Bolton Force. Her family thought that she was an intelligence officer who could get more resources for her younger brother, so they forced her younger brother to join them, she even suspected that she did not want to help her brother.

How was this possible? Even though most of the resources were used by her family on her brother, she did not have any complaints in her heart. She had a good relationship with her brother since she was young. It was not that she did not want to contribute to the future pillar of her family., it was just that the situation of the Bolton faction was not quite the same as other factions.

As the only Pure Demon Sky God Lord in the Sky God system, more than half of Bolton's subordinates had demon bloodlines and were mixed with many terrifying creatures from the abyss. Such an environment was typical of a wolf-like team., the rewards and risks were extremely proportional!

Back then, she had chosen this place because she wanted to take a gamble. However, that was because she did not have the conditions. However, her younger brother had dozens of generations of pure-blooded experience passed down in her family. In her heart, she should have chosen a regular faction and fought steadily. However, her family seemed to be eager for quick success, which gave her a headache... ..

The key point was that her younger brother wasn't a scheming person. He was a very pure warrior type, a typical hot-blooded youth. This was also the reason why she liked her younger brother more, however, this kind of personality was actually not a good thing for Bolton Force.

Especially this time...

Others might not know, but as an intelligence officer, she was very clear about what Saab had done. However, intelligence officers had a soul contract, so some things could not be revealed. She could only rely on this method to constantly remind her younger brother.

Seeing her younger brother's silly look, she knew that her reminder had no effect at all. Helpless, she had no choice but to change places and find another colleague who was going to set off with the team.

As a commando unit, this mission was not only to retrieve Rennes and the others, but also to gather as much information as possible. Naturally, the team would have an intelligence officer accompanying them.

However, due to family rules, she could not apply to participate in this mission. She could only find a colleague who was participating in this mission.

"Senli?"In the spaceship, a slender creature with white fur that looked like a d-ball white ape looked at the person who came and was slightly stunned. Her delicate and beautiful face slightly frowned.

As a wartime situation, it was very inappropriate for an intelligence officer to interact in private. Moreover, she was an intelligence officer who was about to participate in the mission.

However, in less than half a second, the white ape reacted. When she was checking the mission personnel, she also noticed that one of the mission personnel was Senli's younger brother...

She roughly knew why the other party came.

As expected, the moment the other party entered the door, he did not hesitate and directly said, "My younger brother is in the middle of the mission... I'm a little worried..."

"Sigh..." the other party was so straightforward., it was obvious that he was here to speak his mind. No matter how serious he was, it would be a little pretentious for him to talk about the rules. Thus, he also said, "Although Lord Saab has a lot of dark history, under normal circumstances, he would not attack his own people."

"That is under normal circumstances..." SENLI said, "You and I both know that this is not a normal situation. Just now, you heard the Lord say that SAB can activate the blood sacrifice!"

These words made the white ape, who was packing up his equipment, suddenly freeze... ..

Rennes had been in the limelight in the Burton faction recently. Many old people, including himself, the intelligence officer, did not like this guy very much. However, such a person, who everyone thought was highly valued by the Lord of Burton., who would have thought that he was actually sacrificed by SAB!

The blood sacrifice was a notorious method of the blood demon clan. It was equivalent to nurturing blood slaves. When necessary, they could absorb the other party to become their own energy. This kind of person who was sacrificed by the blood sacrifice was secretly called a blood pig by the blood demon clan!

Rennes was a pure-blooded thunder warrior. His family background was clean. Although he was somewhat arrogant in the faction, he was at least diligent and worked hard. He had contributed a lot to Bolton over the years, he did not believe that a person born in a direct line of descent would voluntarily become a blood slave for Saab!

This was definitely a blood sacrifice contract that had been secretly planted. Rennes was most likely unaware of it...

Moreover, activating the blood sacrifice was even more exaggerated. Once the blood sacrifice in Rennes' body was activated, it would naturally be locked onto by the high-level blood demon who had given the blood seed in an instant. However, the side effects were very great. Once it was activated by the blood sacrifice., the blood demon's bloodline would react against its own genes. Many times, it would be devoured into a true blood slave.

Moreover, this kind of high-level warrior with pure blood genes would trigger the bloodline to the extreme when resisting the blood sacrifice. At that time, Rennes, who had activated his bloodline, would be the most delicious delicacy for SAB, most blood demons would be unable to resist devouring the other party. Very few could restrain this instinct.

In other words, when Lord Bolton said that the blood sacrifice could be activated, he had already tacitly acknowledged the possibility of Rennes being devoured by Saab!

One had to know that before coming here, everyone had thought that Rennes was being groomed by the local star commander!

To be honest, this made these intelligence officers, who were not demons, feel a chill in their hearts. After all, if the other party could treat Rennes like this, he could naturally treat them like this.

The white ape could not help but feel a chill in its heart when it thought of this. After all, it was also part of this mission. Perhaps... "...". Who knew when they would be branded with a blood sacrifice?

Just as it was feeling gloomy, Senli suddenly approached. An inexplicable thing was handed over and directly entered its own spatial belt.

This was one of the other party's innate abilities. The White Ape was stunned at first. After sensing the thing that the other party handed over through the spatial bag, it became clear that it was two transparent alchemy potions. It immediately looked at the other party in puzzlement, what kind of potion would she be given at this time?

"Serum..."senli transmitted her voice through a secret message.

"Hiss! !"The White Ape was deeply moved when he heard that. He also replied in a secret message, "How did you get it?"

"You don't have to care about that... but it's definitely true. You can find a place to test it later..."

The White Ape was stunned for a few seconds when he heard that. Then, he took a deep breath and replied in a secret message, "Okay, if it's true, I promise that I will protect your brother wholeheartedly in this mission!"

Chapter 1050: pay attention to the truth about Rennes

"Lord Bolton..."in the control panel, after the officers had retreated, chief intelligence officer Sani could not help but ask, "Is it not good for you to directly expose the blood sacrifice on Marshal Rennes like this?"

"There's nothing bad about it..." Bolton smiled and said, "During crucial battles, we still rely on the demons of the headquarters. Even if you rope in the descendants of the families who only treat military positions as their jobs, they will not sincerely work for you. Instead of doing this, why don't you make it clear that my faction is still the world of demons!"

The intelligence officer immediately fell silent upon hearing this.

In Burton's faction, two-thirds of them had the bloodline of demons, and one-fifth of them were pure-blooded demons of the abyss. This was considered an extremely special existence in the entire faction of the gods.

This caused many descendants of families to think carefully before entering Burton's faction. After all, if it wasn't necessary, no one would be willing to deal with demons. They were the most dangerous existences other than the undead among the races that were legally recognized by the gods, in the eyes of many people, these people were even more dangerous than the undead.

The undead were mostly fanatical researchers. Although they were unscrupulous, at least they were straightforward. After all, demons... "...". "Sometimes, you don't even know how you're treated as prey by them."

However, the Burton faction was well-treated. This was the consensus of many people in the Eastern Star Field. By offering almost three times the amount of treatment compared to other similar factions, even if many people didn't like demons, they weren't shabby for the sake of living... ..

After all, for the sake of money, there were quite a number of people who worked under the undead Lord... ..

However, if they wanted to recruit the descendants of these families to do their best, they would naturally have to pay a price. Therefore, not only did the Bolton faction earn a high salary, they also tried their best to ensure that the status of the foreign descendants and the demon descendants were equal.

Especially in recent years, the rise of warriors with non-demon bloodlines such as Rennes and Bilis had given hope to many of the children of the poor families. In the faction, there was a faint glimmer of hope for the descendants of the foreign families. This caused many of the descendants of the families to slowly return to their families, with Rennes as the lead star commander, they began to struggle.

However, this signal had caused many of the older demon-type children who had followed Bolton to be greatly dissatisfied, including herself. Not only was she dissatisfied, but she also did not approve of Lord Bolton's actions.

As the only pure demon god, the children who were willing to follow him in the Abyss were the foundation. The ostracism of the foreign forces would not change much just because of his good treatment. They chose to weaken the foundation's welfare to win over the outsiders, in her opinion, it was not a wise move.

Therefore, when she found out that Burton had actually secretly given Rennes a blood sacrifice, she was still somewhat happy. At the very least, it proved that her master was not muddle-headed. However, she was puzzled. Since he had already done so, why did he have to make it public this time?

Looking at the puzzled subordinates.., Burton sighed and explained, "I have never thought of supporting the children of the foreign races. The pyramid system of demons as the upper echelons and foreign children as the circulation has never changed. After all, if you want to attract more children of the Abyss to come to my place, you have to make a name for yourself as a demon faction. Looking at the history of those great suzerains in the federation, I have never seen a suzerain who felt that he was lacking in power become a great suzerain's faction!"

"My elders would be very pleased if the lord could think this way!" The intelligence officer bowed slightly, feeling relieved.

That's right, all those who became great lords had their own descendants as the core? Look at those elves? The difference in treatment was obvious? Weren't the descendants of foreign families rushing to work?

The reason why they didn't like them was because the influence of the demon faction in the federation wasn't as strong as that of the elves!

"But... since you're so firm on your policy, why did you put Rennes in such an important position a few years ago?" The intelligence officer asked curiously.

"Naturally, it's because of it..." Burton pointed at the light screen that was currently analyzing the experimental data. Sani was stunned for a moment and immediately understood that the other party was referring to that mysterious intelligence.

Burton continued, "It told me that the Eldia family has a great destiny that should be gathered among the youngsters of this generation. I've observed Rennes for a few years and locked onto him, but I didn't expect that the main person was his younger brother..."

"I see..." Saniruo, who knew about the existence of the mysterious AI, immediately understood, no wonder her liege placed so much importance on Ryan. She was also curious. Although Ryan was a direct descendant of the family, the family's influence was not impressive. The genes he inherited were only that of a dragon-level powerhouse.

This was obviously not right...

She didn't expect such a thing to happen...

"I wasn't completely sure that it was Rennes back then..." "... Burton said faintly, "But this kid is the heir of the Eldia family. Once he's bound to the Eldia family, no matter who the owner of the fate is, he'll eventually be found." "...". "..."

"Is that so..." saani immediately understood. No wonder her suzerain tried so hard to get the Eldia family to completely rely on her side. So that was the case.

No wonder the Liege would announce the blood sacrifice on Rennes' body without a care. Because the owner of fate had been found, Rennes... "... !!! He had lost his value!!!

"We've arrived at Rennes..." in the valley outside Kate City, a charming female voice slowly sounded.

"This is the coordinates that your brother sent you..."

Rennes raised his head to take a look. Very quickly, he locked onto the buildings inside Kate City and fell into deep thought.

Along the way, the coordinates given by the other party seemed to be out of the range of the undead Lord's main influence, because according to the woman beside him, the corrosion along the way wasn't as intense as before, there were even some places that seemed very clean, clearly not within the range of the main erosion.

However, the end of the coordinates didn't seem very normal. It was obvious that they had been invaded.

The two of them slowly walked over cautiously. Their bodies weren't strong enough to withstand an attack.

Rennes looked at them, the woman shook her head. "There are obvious signs of corrosion in the city, but it's separate from the main corrosive force. It's a tributary, and its power isn't strong... there should only be a small-scale invasion of the undead here... It's just..."

"Just what?" Rennes quickly asked.

"This frost..." the woman looked at the black frost on the grass and said faintly, "There are undead that seem to have the power of the death realm's elements. You have to be careful."

Rennes nodded and activated his bloodline to enter a battle-ready state. The elements of the death realm were a treasure to crazy alchemists, but they were a terrible threat to warriors, because when those things came here.., they were often the most terrifying killing weapons!

Soon, the two of them found the source of the so-called power of the elements of the world of death. It was the undead officer whose internal organs had been shattered. Looking at the weapon tightly held in the officer's hand, the two of them took a deep breath.

The Heaven's wrath sword with Bing Xin!

This undead Lord was really generous!

"Good stuff..." the woman stepped forward curiously, she looked greedily at the weapons in the hands of the soldiers, especially Bing Xin, who was still sealed in the Heaven's wrath sword. If she took all these things to the black market, they would be worth her thousand years of work!

Rennes looked at the weapon with some enthusiasm. As a weapon warrior, he was very interested in weapons of this level. Bing Xin's Heaven's wrath sword was something that could only be found by chance in the black market... ..

But what made him even more curious was that the person who won this battle did not even take away the spoils of War of this level. What was going on?

Moreover, the existence of these soldiers was shattered by the sound wave attack. He was also very curious about what it was.

Just as he was thinking, an extremely familiar voice suddenly sounded faintly, "You came later than expected, Big Brother Rennes!"

Rennes' body stiffened. He instantly turned his head and stared at the other party.

The woman at the side looked at the person who came. The heavy knight armor and the heavy helmet that covered his face at any time were exactly the same as in the intelligence report!

She did not expect to see the real person so smoothly...

However, she was not happy at all...

The other party appeared soundlessly...

She was the death embrace, the species with the strongest perception in the demon system. As a level-14 high-level creature, she could not sense the sudden appearance of a level-6 divine lord in the intelligence report... ..

What did this mean?

This guy was definitely not a cabbage that could be easily squashed in Rennes' intelligence report...

"Don't be too busy looking at that sword..." seer said calmly, "It's the spoils of War of my men. If you want it, you have to pay..."
