Chapter 821 The Storm of character evaluation!

"Hell is empty, the Devil is in the human world..."outside the audit room, the black-robed player silently smoked a jade hibiscus, his cold and hard expression becoming somewhat emotional.

"What's the plot this time?"The white-robed player asked when he saw the other party smiling.

"Have you seen the Horror Wax Museum?"

"Eh?"

"It's a carpenter's version. It focuses on women, and it's made from human skin and wood. Its craftsmanship is really good. Don't tell me, the finished product from his memory is even more realistic than the wife robots in the Red Sun Country... what a F * cking genius!"

"Why is it so extreme?"The white-robed player asked curiously.

"His wife is already married..."

"Is that all?"

"His three sons aren't even his own... he even gets half of his assets after the divorce..."

"Tsk..."

"By the way..."the white-robed player suddenly asked curiously, "Does marital infidelity count as above or below the Red Line?"

"Below...". The black-robed player curled his lips. "It will reduce your evaluation points and your ranking, but in principle, you have to protect your privacy and can't disclose it, so..." ... If the old couple were to take the test, the other party would probably not know or not know... "...". "No matter how exciting the plot is."

"How exciting?"

"It's very exciting. I've seen all the plots that many small websites don't dare to write in the past two days. It's really unsettling..."

The white-robed player:"..."

"By the way, the middle-aged couple who came to check on us the day before yesterday afternoon are your parents, right?"

"Eh?"The white-robed player's eyelids twitched when he heard that. He almost lost his grip on the cigarette in his hand. "It can't be..."

"Hey, look at how nervous you are. Uncle and aunt are still very exemplary..."

"Oh..."the white-robed player immediately regained his composure. "My parents' relationship has always been very stable..."

“Yes, I can see that they have been married for decades. It’s rare for them to survive the seven-year itch. Usually, they will be able to make it to the end. Eh... it would be even more perfect if they could go to the clubhouse less than twice a year...”

White robe player just lit a cigarette on the ground...

Over the past two days, the streets and alleys, including the internet, have been abuzz with a new topic.

Hey, did you hear? Did you hear? . A lot of people go to sign up for the city of intent, go in and don’t come out... . .

Upstairs, don’t Mess with the rhythm, the authorities have stated that it is a major criminal record will not be out... ...

Damn, then how did the authorities check it out?

There’s no need to check it out. I’ve been there, and I used hypnosis to make you say it yourself... ...

Damn, is this reliable or not? Could it be something out of thin air? And what’s a criminal record? Does it count if I swindled some equipment, gems and the like on the internet?

How did I do that?

Call me husband. Isn’t this the way these days? I have 28 different voice changers. Brother, do you want me to send you a script?

Oh, you must be blocked...

Seriously, what kind of character assessment is this? Is this hypnosis an invasion of privacy? ... We good people have never committed a crime, but at least there are some embarrassing things...

What embarrassing things? Are you playing Rich Lady Yo-yo behind your husband’s back?

Damn, I only called him husband online. In real life, he’s the standard tough guy, okay?

About this... I was also a little conflicted. The last time I went to register with my wife, and after I came out, that player in black robe kept looking at me with a very strange gaze. I asked him what was wrong, but he kept saying that it was nothing. ... . makes me so nervous. . .

Everyone:” ...”

Huh? . Grandpa Lu’s guide came out. It seems to be about character evaluation. Everyone, hurry up and read it. . .

Hey, Hey, Grandpa is here again. Originally, I planned to rest for two days. These two days have just transformed, so I need to do basic exercises. I didn’t expect that one wave would come after another. Recently, everyone seems to be frightened by that moral assessment, in response to the official request, Grandpa Lu came to give a thorough explanation.

First of all, this moral assessment was first opened by Huaxia City. It was specifically used to screen those who had bad morals, especially those with major criminal records. The officials felt that they should not allow them to come into contact with galaxy, after all, the individual abilities of the genes in galaxy were too strong. If they fell into the hands of some psychopaths, it would still have a great impact on society.

At the very least, it was estimated that in the next twenty years, Planet D wouldn't be able to reach the level of the entire galaxy for the time being. Therefore, it was best to hope that these beyonder powers would fall into the hands of people with no criminal record. I believe everyone would understand.., you Don't want a human trafficker or a homicidal maniac to become a great Lord one day, right?

As for the moral assessment, it wasn't just our Huaxia City. The candidates from other cities had also issued relevant policies, but the standards were different. Our Huaxia City was considered middle-tier. It was neither strict nor lenient.

First of all, the friends with major criminal records couldn't enter galaxy, regardless of whether they were caught or not. There were special developers in the Audit Bureau to conduct the audit, and they couldn't fish in troubled waters, although this assessment was an official policy, they didn't participate in it. The players who participated were voluntary players sent by the upper echelons of Luofu, so there was no possibility of cheating.

Those second-generation rich kids with such criminal records had better not take any chances. Even if you were to enter, even if your connections were sky-high and the law could not punish you, the players would still be able to paralyze you!

However, it did not mean that once you committed a crime, you would have no chance at all. The system would evaluate you according to the size of the crime. If the crime was small, it would only deduct your qualification points and affect your ranking. You would not be permanently blacklisted.

Among them, the deduction of points could be big or small. For example, embezzlement of public funds or using power for personal gain would be directly deducted to the end. In any case, you would not be able to enter galaxy until the end, especially that idiot who embezzled 20 million from the company and now rewarded the streamer in the recent news. It was estimated that the five big cities did not need a talent like you for the time being!

The smaller ones, such as marital infidelity, campus bullying, Internet trolls, and game hangers, which caused a lot of mental damage to others, would also have the corresponding deduction of points and would lower your qualification ranking.

So I advise you, quality games, to create a good LOL environment, starting from me, thank you... ..

Then let's talk about the recently discussed topic of public quality points, the topic was initiated by an anonymous netizen called the happy middle-aged man, it seemed that because he and his wife went to register together and was stared at by the black-robed player in charge of the test with a strange look, he was a little depressed, so he wanted to propose public quality points.

This was impossible. This test had already been accused of prying into people's privacy, causing a great deal of dissatisfaction. If he were to expose his hidden score again, wouldn't that be a social explosion?

For example, I mean, for example... :. Your Wife's score is very low. What do you think? You'll definitely have wild thoughts, but the truth isn't necessarily what you think. What if she just logged into King's glory and got a lot of points deducted? Don't you?

This kind of easy to cause family conflict is not the official thing, so everyone also take a break, go to sign up as far as possible separate husband and wife to sign up, if really together, do not come out to see the black-robed player's face. They look at everybody like that. Trust me, I don't lie... .

In this way, Grandpa I applied for the 3:00 p.m. stretching course, not much to say, you see the officer give a like, Grandpa will continue to maintain high productivity this period of time, slipped away!

[ I don't believe you, you old man is very bad, then why does the player stare at others with a serious face? Stare at me with a sad expression? ]

Everyone: [ my condolences... ]

Get out of Here

[ speaking of which, the game hanger also deducts points? Fake right? ]

I also say, obviously is the teammate too pit, how can all blame the fault of the hack

[ grandpa, is this explanation precise? Is it really a hack that deducts points? ]

Chapter 822 The Quota Storm (part one)

"Teacher, is this... really a Phoenix?" Wang Goudan tilted his head and looked at Grandpa Lu, who was training. "Why do I look like a white goose raised by my grandfather's Family?"

"Quack! !" Grandpa Lu turned his head and roared at Wang Goudan angrily.

"Even the sound is the same..." Wang Goudan's face twitched, as if he was afraid of the white goose. "By the way, Grandpa can't speak in the game?"

Vivian was still as gentle as water, she replied with a clear spring-like voice, "Yes, the Phoenix is a very complicated creature. The degree of genetic chaos is a hundred times more exaggerated than that of Druids. It is the ultimate topic that many biological alchemists are studying now. There has never been a fixed pattern of changes. However, no matter how it changes in the early stages, it will eventually end up the same way and become the most beautiful creature in the universe!"

"Ga Ga! !" Grandpa Lu seemed to have heard what Vivian said, so he worked even harder!

"Really?" Wang Goudan was a little suspicious.

"Really..." Vivian nodded with a smile.

Of course, it was fake. What the hell was going on? Why did shapeshifting go through two eggs? And the first time, it looked like a butt? Why did she turn into a big white goose after the second egg metamorphosis?

It seemed that she had to find time to go back and consult her teacher... ..

But of course, she would not reveal any flaws in front of Goudan. Recently, the players had grown extremely fast. The highest level players, such as little cabbage, had already reached level 5. Would you dare to believe that it had only been three years?

After spending 140 years to evolve to level 5, Vivian felt that it was a little surreal. What kind of freaks were they? At this rate, she will lose her job. How can she dare to make a mess?

Just as she was about to do so, she suddenly heard an intelligent prompt, stunned for a moment and then stood up to the dog egg said: "The Lord is looking for me, I go out first, you help to check on Grandpa's situation, if there are any drastic changes, remember to come to me at the first time."

"Ah?" The dog egg immediately pout mouth: "I don't like to see Big White Goose..."

Grandpa Lu: "Quack! !!"

"Does the Lord Need Me for something?" Welling asks carefully.

You're not gonna fire me... .. I'm an original, though I'm a little slow... ..

"Oh, by the way, Violet, you said last time you had a sister who was very talented and wanted to be introduced to our organization. Did she reply?"

"Ah?" Virien was stunned.

Seer sighed. "Are you still unwilling to come because of our poor conditions?"

"No, no, no..." virien hurriedly shook his head and immediately said, "Boss, but now that the people of Planet D are growing so fast, is there still a need for my younger sister and the others who have just graduated?"

"Of course there is..." Seer said solemnly, "The people of Planet D will not all migrate over in the short term. It is estimated that they will enter the galaxy one after another in the next few decades. Moreover, in the long run, they will need professional instructors to educate them. After all, no matter how high the player's level is, they will use the genetic body. In order to ensure the vitality of the people of Planet D, I still plan to let the next generation use the genes of the people of Planet D to reproduce "... "... Therefore, basic education is a necessary resource."

"But... the citizens of the D ball can go and train and learn, or they can become teachers..."

"That would be too much of a waste of their talent..." Seer shook his head and said, "Things like teacher training are different from traditional subjects. It requires a large amount of experience and teaching, which is too much of a waste of time. For things like basic education, there's no point in training them. They can become top warriors, Alchemists, engineers, and artists, but they can't go down the path of teacher training. It's too much of a waste of time." "..."

Vivian: "..."

“It just so happens that I’m going to the Federation. Why Don’t You Come with me? I can give you a break and let you go back once. Help me see if there are any classmates or siblings who are willing to come here to develop...”

“Yes, my Lord!”

“Oh right, about Grandpa Lu...”

“UH... is there any problem, my Lord?” Vivian’s heart tightened as she asked.

“Is the predecessor of the Phoenix in your elf system the Great White Goose?” Seer looked at the way of the willow with a very eager expression.

“There are... branches...” said Vivian guiltily.

-----

The base was relatively leisurely. The people were getting more and more lively because of the registration. Pu Yunchuan went home early that day. As soon as he opened the door, he heard two old men playing chess inside, his face twitched.

“Hey, Xiaochuan is back?” A middle-aged man with thick eyebrows and big eyes, who looked a little handsome, hurriedly waved at Pu Yunchuan. “Come here, greet your Uncle Yun.”

Pu Yunchuan walked over helplessly and greeted this relative who appeared out of nowhere with a smile. “Uncle Yun...”

“This is Xiaochuan? He is indeed a handsome man, so much like you!” A middle-aged man who was a few years older than Pu Yunchuan’s father looked at Pu Yunchuan kindly.

Pu Yunchuan glanced at the other party. This guy was the current governor of C City? That distant relative of his?

Why is he lying through his teeth? How is he similar to his father? If he was half as handsome as his father, why would he be single until now. He had spent all his time with his mother...

Speaking of which... Why did his father look for his mother to be his wife?

It shouldn’t have anything to do with Grandpa being a high-ranking executive in a state-owned enterprise, right?

“Xiaochuan, do you have any extra slots? Hurry up and take out two... Your Uncle Yun wants to use...” Dad hurriedly put on airs and said to Pu Yunchuan.

Pu Yunchuan rolled his eyes when he heard that. He spoke like it was cabbage, and two... ..

“I really don’t have any more slots...” Pu Yunchuan said helplessly.

“Nonsense, didn’t you boast about your big influence? Why Can’t you get two spots?” His father immediately put on a stern face.

Pu Yunchuan: “...”

Of course there were spots, but they were very precious. Now that his influence had expanded, he was extremely short of manpower. The main purpose of his return this time was to recruit high-quality developers as partners, why would he waste the quotas on this inexplicable relative?

“Hey, don’t make things difficult for the child...” Governor Yun smiled as he stopped the angry Papa Pu. “After all, the child has grown up and has his own ideas...”

Papa Pu’s expression became even uglier. He glared at Pu Yunchuan and said, “What? My words are useless now, right?”

“Hey, why are you being so fierce with your child?” Pu Yunchuan’s mother grumbled.

“Shut up when the old men are talking!” Father Pu glared at him.

The corner of Pu Yunchuan’s mouth twitched as he thought to himself, ‘father has gone overboard again...’.

It seemed that he did not kneel well on the washboard last night...

However, he still had to give face in front of others. His mother glared fiercely at him but did not give him any face. As his son, Pu Yunchuan naturally would not do this.

Hence, he quickly smiled apologetically and said, “How can that be? I really don’t have any spots. The Lord’s ten spots are fixed. I spent a lot of effort to get the spots for the two of you. Can’t you see that I don’t even have first uncle and second uncle?”

“Don’t bother about your relatives over there. Even if you have them, don’t give them. A bunch of worms! !” His father snorted, but immediately said, “You really don’t have them?”

“I really don’t have them!” Pu Yunchuan nodded with a serious expression.

“This...” his father immediately looked at that Captain Yun with some embarrassment.

Pu Yunchuan also smiled apologetically at this relative who had appeared out of nowhere, but he did not think much of it in his heart. What kind of situation was it now? His father really could not understand, let alone the captain of city c.., even if he was a big shot in Yanjing, what did he have to do with us? If the whole family moved into the Sea of stars, what could these people help us with?

“Yunchuan...” Commander Yun suddenly smiled and said, “I heard that you booked a ticket to Yanjing?”

Pu Yunchuan was stunned when he heard that, but then his smile disappeared... ..

Chapter 823 quota turmoil (middle)

“Uncle Yun is really well-informed...” PU Yunchuan’s smile faded and he said lightly.

He went to Yanjing in the afternoon because he had booked the tickets on his mobile phone in the morning. After he had booked the tickets, he went out. Even his parents didn’t know about it. How did the other party hear about it?

At the thought of this, a trace of coldness flashed across the depths of Pu Yunchuan’s eyes. Commander Yun instantly froze on the spot.

It was a strange feeling. In the summer, the surrounding light seemed to fade away in an instant. Everything began to blur and disappear from his eyes. It was as if he was being isolated and his body could not move at all, his entire body could not even move his eyeballs. He could not even give Pu Yunchuan's father a glance.

In an instant... All that was left in his field of vision was Pu Yunchuan. It was as if there was nothing else in the world other than his cold eyes.

BoxNovel.com

What did this kid do?

Commander Yun could not understand. Did he dare to openly hurt him? Putting aside his relationship with his father, just based on his identity, did he really dare to make a move? Did he really think that the government was just for show?

It was currently a period of transition. The conflict between the upper echelons of sphere D and those high-level players in the astral world was actually very big, because no one could accept it in their hearts, the cruel reality was that the advantage that his clan had accumulated for decades or even centuries was gone in an instant.

It was just that this conflict had yet to completely erupt under the premise that there was a greater interest in it. At this time, there was only one sharp thing left to break the balance between the two sides. However, everyone knew that whoever dared to break the balance would become the point of conflict.

Therefore, he was certain that Pu Yunchuan would not dare.

However, at this moment, he suddenly felt a little uncertain...

After all, the other party was just a young man who was full of vigor and vitality. wasn't it very likely that he would do anything?

Just as he was feeling bewildered, Pu Yunchuan took a step forward. At that moment, all the checks and balances that Commander Yun had secretly calculated in his mind instantly collapsed. He was so terrified that he wanted to retreat, and he also wanted to use an explanation to salvage the situation.

However, he suddenly realized that he couldn't do anything. He tried to move with all his might, but his body didn't stop moving. He tried to speak with all his might, but his tongue seemed to have lost consciousness.

He couldn't do anything!

This feeling of extreme powerlessness instantly turned into a deep sense of despair that enveloped his entire body...

"The water is boiling..." Pu Yunchuan didn't do anything after he walked in. Instead, he gently picked up the elegant teapot that his father had used to fill the two old men's teacups with water.

Pu Yunchuan's father sat at the side. He didn't feel what Governor Yun was feeling at all. On the contrary, he was satisfied with his son's obedient behavior and thought to himself, 'this brat is quite sensible...’ Forget it, I won’t bother about how he gloated over the trouble he caused yesterday when he saw him kneel on the washboard.

As the hot water was refilled and the fragrance of the tea wafted out, Governor Yun felt that his surroundings seemed to brighten up again, and his body instantly regained consciousness.

That feeling was very confusing. It was as if everything just now was an illusion, but the illusion just now seemed to be extremely long.

“Uncle Yun, since you’ve heard about it, I’ll tell you my bottom line...”. Pu Yunchuan smiled and said, “I do have some spots on my side, but I’ve already cooperated with elder Li. He will personally recommend the top experts of the scientific research institute to me. The matter has already been settled, so I can’t go back on my words.” ... ..

“Elder... Elder Li?” Commander Yun, who had regained his tongue, asked with great difficulty.

There was only one elder Li in the imperial capital who could be the head of the research institute, and that person was the current manager of the Dragon Group: Li Xiancheng!

“Elder Li has been appointed as the deputy city lord of Huaxia City by the Five Elders. No matter who is elected as the city Lord, elder Li will be responsible for the management of the Research Institute and the Technical Resources Department of Huaxia City. Not only me, but all the lord-level players who have spots will gather in Yanjing today to discuss the allocation of technical resources...”. “...”

This important news made Commander Yun’s eyelids twitch.

“You Child, why didn’t you say this earlier?” Papa Pu said with a stern face.

Pu Yunchuan explained with a smile, “It’s supposed to be confidential, but since Uncle Yun has inquired about it, it’s better to tell him. Otherwise, it will cause some unnecessary trouble...”

Commander Yun’s face turned pale when he heard this, and he smiled awkwardly.

He was an old politician, so he naturally understood what Pu Yunchuan meant. It wasn’t that the players of the lord of Galaxy didn’t cooperate with the authorities, but you... Were just an outsider. ...

In an instant, the control he had displayed in City C became extremely laughable.

The other party had first used unknown means to tell him about the differences in their individual strengths, and then used the latter matter to express the differences in their current positions... ..

“Dad, the afternoon flight is about to arrive. I have to leave First!”

“Oh, okay, okay, okay. Don’t delay the official business...” when Papa Pu heard that his son was going to the capital to discuss a collaboration with those important figures, he nodded repeatedly.

Meanwhile, Governor Yun sat on the spot with a look of realization on his face. Clearly, he was still in a daze.

After Pu Yunchuan left, Papa Pu smiled and said, “Come, brother, have some tea?”

“AH... Hmm...” commander Yun forced a smile and slowly picked up the Teacup. However, his hand, which had just regained consciousness, was still shaking.

“Actually, brother, you don’t have to feel too regretful. I’ll talk to that Kid later and secretly ask him to try his best to save one for you. But speaking of which, brother, don’t officials of your status have any special offers when they register for Huaxia City?”

Discount? . Yun Du Chang a Leng, immediately wry smile up, in the mind: he does not know whether there is a discount, anyway, the probability of jail time is real... . .

And now the officials who have been afraid to sign up seem to have begun to do the investigation, if not from his relative’s home to get a place... ... I not only can not catch up with the big era of the car, I am afraid that the old car also can not sit for long... . .

“Don’t listen to your father!” After Pu Yunchuan went downstairs, his mother pulled him and whispered, “That surnamed Yun doesn’t dare to sign up himself, there must be something. I tell you, you can’t get involved in this kind of muddy water.”

Pu Yunchuan was suddenly happy: this mother usually eats melons for entertainment, little concerned about military, financial and political affairs, but did not expect that at the critical moment the door is very clear, better than the old man who talks about politics all the time.

“There are extra places to take care of relatives. Your aunt asked me again yesterday. They said your cousin is a top student who just came back from studying abroad in America. They hope to go to Huaxia City to develop. They asked if you have any connections there.”

At this time, in the Yanjing Parliament Hall, some players who were close by had already arrived. It was not because they were active, but because they were forced by their families. Just like Pu Yunchuan, all kinds of relatives came to visit them every day, they don’t even have time to sleep.

It’s a rare opportunity to come to the council for Shade.

At least there’s free air conditioning, right?

“By the way... I didn’t know that my family had so many relatives. Why didn’t I see them when I received red packets during the New Year?” One of the Lords sat on a chair and complained with a speechless expression.

“That’s right!” Little Bai Cai lay on the table with a tired expression, like melted ice cream, he said, “I’m so annoyed. If you can be so proactive in introducing handsome blind dates to this chief, why would this chief be single until the age of 30?”

“I’m not? I just found out two days ago that I have a governor’s relative. I’ve never heard of such an awesome relative since I was a child,” Pu Yunchuan, who had just arrived, said as he lay on the table like a pile of mud.

While they were discussing, the door opened and a person entered that Pu Yunchuan and the others had not expected.

“Eh? Mu Yunji?”

Chapter 824 Quota Storm (part two)

The arrival of Yun Ji Mu had indeed surprised everyone...

Yun Ji Mu’s identity was very special. As the first cultivation disciple to enter the galaxy, her growth had actually attracted a lot of attention, including the new race that she had chosen, which was also the current exclusive race of Huaxia City, how she would grow in the future was also the focus of everyone’s attention.

From the looks of it, her growth speed was extremely fast. In just a short year, she had already risen to fourth place on the battle ranking!

The battle ranking was a comprehensive score, which included the skill proficiency ranking and the actual combat ranking.

On the actual combat ranking, Yun Ji Mu was almost on par with cold star, who was in second place, with a battle record of 31 wins and 33 losses!

BoxNovel.com

She was a partner that many lord-tier players wanted to hire, but she did not accept anyone’s invitation. She had always been a ranger player. Of course, she also had the capital of a Ranger player, mainly because her boyfriend’s father was rich...

But why did she come to the Lord ranked assembly?

Although Yun Ji was famous on the battle ranking board, she was completely estranged from Lord ranked players.

“Little Mu, quickly come and let this chief rub...”

Yun Ji looked at little cabbage. Her ice-blue eyes emitted a trace of warmth as she smiled and said, “There are many people here, don’t act recklessly...”

“I’ll just rub myself, I won’t go in...”

Everyone’s faces twitched. What kind of vicious words was that?

Mu Yunji rolled her eyes at her and decisively chose a seat that was relatively far away. She was so angry that Bai Cai let out a whimper.

“I say, what’s wrong with little mu? How did his eyes become like this?” Pu Yunchuan, who hadn’t seen Mu Yunji for a long time, asked curiously.

At this moment, Yunji’s pupils had changed greatly. They were like spinning pieces of ice, spreading out layer by layer. They were filled with a breathtaking beauty.

“The relationship between cultivation...” Yunji didn’t say much.

She hadn't been in the main base or the new world for the past few days. Only a few people knew that she was actually forging a star core on Europa!

A week ago, when she had advanced to level four dark descendant, leader Xi Ye had brought her and Goudan's brother to Europa alone to let her feel the star core!

Her strength had improved by leaps and bounds over the past few days, and she was already on the verge of reaching level 5. In a week's time, even a noob would be astonished by this speed.

The reason was very simple. Dark descendants had a special class to begin with. If she had the help of the deity overlord, the leveling speed of the entire planet could be very exaggerated!

However, almost no deity would do this. There were two reasons. One was that the purity of dark descendants was very high. If they used the deity domain too frequently to help the dark descendants grow, it was very likely that the dark descendants would not be able to withstand the power of the star core and collapse.

Second, very few lords would invest in dark-type bloodlines in the early stages. After all, Dark-type bloodlines needed a planet to feed them. Even if a normal planet did not have any life value, it could still have precious minerals. Very few lords would be willing to nurture dark-type bloodlines.

However, Seer was willing. Not only was she willing, but she also took out Europa, a life star system that was close to level 7!

If other deity overlords found out about this, they would definitely scold her for being a Prodigal!

"Oh right, Little Mu, what are you doing here?"

Very few people knew about the fact that Yun Ji had a private session. The Goudan family and little fairy, who were close to Yun Ji, also knew about it. Little cabbage also knew about it by chance, but it still had nothing to do with the overlord...

Everyone also looked over, cloud herder saw the situation took a deep breath, talking about the experience of these days...

Since the exposure of the galaxy, boiling not only D ball folk, of course, including extraordinary forces, which as China's extraordinary forces of immortal cultivation sect is also boiling!

As a large cultivation sect, Yunshan sect is naturally the same, especially after knowing that Yunji is an old member, the whole mountain of disciples are up.

As soon as Yunji Mu returned, she was attacked by all the disciples of the sect, including Patriarch Yunshan who was in closed-door cultivation.

"Yunji, it's such an important matter. How... how could you hide it so naturally?" The Yunshan sect master was heartbroken and resentful. The Joy that the Yunshan sect had shown during the Kunlun martial arts competition a while ago instantly disappeared without a trace.

Patriarch Yunshan also had a cold expression on his face. His life was about to come to an end. He was in closed-door cultivation every day trying to prolong his life. He wanted to prolong Yunshan's life for a few more years. In the end, the method that could prolong his life could actually be sold in bulk! The key was that his grand-disciple, who knew the truth, was still hiding it from him!

He was not the son of a man! He really was not the son of a man!

For the first time, Yunji felt a little guilty. She said carefully, "This... indeed, I'm not allowed to talk about it..."

"If you're not allowed to talk about it, then you're not allowed to talk about it?" Patriarch Yunshan said bitterly, "Do you know how far-reaching this influence is? Once this kind of thing is popularized, the foundation of our cultivation lineage will be lost. How can you help the evil?"

The truth was, when all players could instantly become gold immortal experts because of a single gene, what were they, people who had cultivated for dozens or even hundreds of years?

If they had known the truth, they would never have stood on the side of the authorities with Luo Fu... Now, their intestines were full of regret!

It was all because of this defiant disciple in front of them!

If it weren't for the fact that she had a relationship with Luo Fu, Yun Shan wouldn't have placed such a big bet!

Now... it was too late to regret everything!

"This... has it ever been this serious?" Mu Yun Ji was stunned. "Can't we just go in too?"

"That's easy for you to say..." the sect leader had yet to open his mouth, patriarch was the first to fly into a rage. "What's the point of going in? To become a mountain monster like the game? Moreover, everyone can become so strong. What's the point of US cultivators? What's the point of so many years of hard work and exploration?"

"It's meaningful!" Yunshan ji nodded seriously. "We have an advantage!"

"Eh?" When he heard this, he was ready to talk about how hard it was in the cultivation world and how unfilial we were to the essence of our ancestors, but Yunshan Ji's words made him choke, out of the blue, he changed his words. "What advantage?"

"Cultivation advantage!" Yunshan ji explained, "Nowadays, most people go in to train their physical bodies, which are equivalent to armaments. We cultivators also have a big advantage in this aspect. We, who know the cultivation of meridians and blood qi, actually evolve faster. Moreover, Huaxia City has a genetic body for Qi cultivation, and I'm using one of them now. My progress is extremely fast, and ordinary players can't compare to it..." "..."

"What?" Patriarch Yunshan's eyes immediately lit up. "Is what you said true? There are still qi cultivation techniques there?"

“Yes...” Mu Yun gently tapped his hand and a majestic qi force revolved in his hand. As the Qi force revolved too quickly and the energy was too strong, the surrounding light rays were distorted in, forming a terrifying energy eye.

“F * ck... This is a Yuan Qi Bullet?” The sect master was the first to speak!

These words shocked the young disciples. The sect master actually knew about Yuan Qi Bullets?

“Nonsense!” Patriarch Yunshan glared at the sect master, then pointed out, “This is clearly a spiral pill! ! !”

Chapter 825 the tumult of quotas (part two)

“Patriarch... You...” the sect leader stared at the Patriarch in a daze, his gaze the same as those of the other disciples.

The patriarch actually knew about the spiral pill...

“Ahem... I just casually learned about some barbarian cultures...” the patriarch coughed lightly and turned his head away, but deep in his eyes was shock.

Yunshan was a major sword cultivation sect, but it was not an extreme sect that followed the path of one sword to destroy ten thousand techniques. In fact, the mainstream cultivation techniques of Yunshan were also qi cultivation techniques. As a Heaven Immortal, the patriarch was actually very sensitive to the sense of Qi, the reason why he agreed with the topic of the sect leader was actually to hide his surprise.

He could feel the power of the energy in Yunji’s hand. Although the pellet was not big, based on the sense of Qi, it was definitely at the level of the wind escape spiral pellet. If it really exploded, the hall of Yunshan’s Liuyun Palace would probably be blown to pieces!

BoxNovel.com

Two years ago, his grand-disciple had only been wandering outside the Earth line. Now, he could sense the terrifying energy. Even a gold immortal who had lived for more than a thousand years might not be able to do it.

Was this the power of that genetic body?

“Yunji, I just came out of seclusion, but I also heard that Huaxia City is not a place that can be entered at will...” the patriarch hesitantly said what he was most worried about.

In truth, if there really was something that could break through the bottleneck and allow a cultivator who had reached the end of his path to see a new path, how could he not be happy?

What they couldn’t accept was that ordinary people could enter and become mighty figures, but cultivators like them could only watch from the outside! !

“This... I think we can talk about it...” Yunji said seriously.

“What do you mean?” The patriarch and the elders were shocked and asked immediately.

“You can use me as an example!” Mu Yunji said in a low voice, “Prove to the officials that we, the disciples of cultivation, have the talent to be different from ordinary people. Let the officials give us the quota directly from the inside!”

“This... will they give it to us?” The sect leader said blankly.

“There is hope...”. “Huaxia City is different from other cities. Due to the existence of many high-level players, it is difficult for the officials to be as powerful as other cities. They must have enough armed forces to strengthen their authority. This is also why the officials secretly give priority to the military disciples. As long as we can make the officials believe that we have the potential to catch up with the progress of the high-level players and help the officials to balance the lords, they will give us a spot.”
“...”. “...”

“This... Can they trust us?” The sect leader asked curiously, “The authorities have never been interested in cultivation sects like us.”

“We can sign a contract. Besides, our Yunshan sect has already joined the authorities. If it weren’t for galaxy’s announcement this time, we would have already formed a dragon group, wouldn’t we?”

The elders looked at each other. It seemed to make sense... ..

“Can we do it?” Elder ancestor asked worriedly.

“I have elder Li’s number. Do you want me to call and ask?” Yunji mu asked carefully.

“So you came here?” Bai Cai was stunned.

“We agreed to come the day after tomorrow...” Yunji mu said helplessly, “When elder Li heard my suggestion, he immediately expressed his willingness to cooperate.”

“This is a good thing. Why do you look like you’re exhausted?” Bai Cai was stunned.

“The quota...”. “...”. Elder Li first made the decision to give a batch of quotas, but the quotas were limited. He asked me to write a recommendation list and said that I had to apply for more quotas... Yun Mu Ji said with a bitter face, “In the end, Yunshan exploded. A group of people secretly wanted me to write their names on the recommendation list. Forget about those junior brothers and sisters. I’m not familiar with them to begin with. The key is those elders. They have all kinds of hints, and it’s not appropriate to say it openly in front of so many disciples. They secretly came to me in the middle of the night to tell me whether I want this or that. Even the elder ancestor came to hint that I want it “... “...”

Everyone’s face twitched when they heard that. Why did it sound like the words of a tiger and a wolf... ..

“I don’t want to continue being tortured like that. I plan to come here in advance to discuss the matter. It would be best if I can get the Yunshan sect quota...”

“I see...”

Just as they were speaking, the sound of footsteps came from outside the hall. Everyone perked up and knew that the main characters had arrived.

“Sorry to have kept you waiting...”the leader took the lead and walked in front, looking extremely good...

There was a reason why he looked so good. Today was already the eighth day of the election. In the five-year-old election, the leader was in the lead by a huge margin. The second-ranked elder Lei was far behind the leader in terms of public opinion. If nothing unexpected happened, ... The leader should have been elected... ..

Thinking about how he was about to retire, how he could welcome the second spring of his political career, and how it was such a wonderful platform, the leader felt extremely excited these few days... ..

Many players stood up and returned the bow. This civilian leader had a very high reputation among the people in central China. Although he was not like Almi, who was a national legend, he was still very respected. In addition, he was about to become the city lord of China, many players didn't dare to neglect him.

“I believe that everyone has seen the situation of the election...”after the leader and his people took their seats, they didn't talk too much, they went straight to the main topic, “The format of the election is clear. Because the fifth city, Meister, roped in Indians, the popular vote is obviously higher than the other candidates. He should be the city lord of the fifth city. The fourth city has an unexpected surprise. No one expected that the one with the advantage in the election wasn't Arthur, but the Elizabeth family, ranked fifth among the 12 knight families.”

“I really didn't expect that...”elder Lee and the others looked serious. “The head of the Elizabeth family used to be a very low-key woman, but I didn't expect that she would have such deep political resources...”

Some of the players who had ended the situation also nodded. Arthur's popular vote had been rising, but he didn't expect that a dark horse would suddenly appear out of nowhere. Almost all the politicians in western Europe were canvassing for votes and promoting her, in addition, her strategy of fairly abolishing the aristocracy had gained the support of the Western European people. Now, she had already turned the tables on Arthur.

The leader continued, “Currently, Mister is firmly against the middle. Elizabeth's attitude is unclear, but I reckon that it's not optimistic either. These two candidates used to have a large number of extraordinary people under them. I'm afraid that they will spend a large amount of resources to create super lords, thus making up for the disadvantage of being late into the galaxy...”. Speaking up to this point, the leader looked at the many Lord players with a serious expression. “Everyone, the situation is tense now. Preserving the advantage of the first batch of players like you is the most urgent matter right now. We can't let the opportunity of us central China players be forcefully seized by outsiders. We need to work closely together!”

These words sounded very cordial...

The Lord players would also use friendly smiles to express their agreement.

“As such, we've decided to open up your private forces as much as possible. We'll provide you with more partners to strengthen your organization...”

Hearing this, everyone felt even more friendly. However, they weren't completely stunned. The 10th ranked ice crown was the first to ask, "Then, what do we have to pay?"

The hall fell silent. All the Lords looked at the old men, because they knew that the officials would not give them free concessions. The price was the key to this cooperation.

Chapter 826 Negotiations (Part One)

There were two points in the relationship between a city and a Lord: Finance and population. The population here did not refer to the population of the Otherworld. According to the power granted to the players by the main base, the players had the right to explore and colonize the outside world, the land and population that were developed outside were all privately owned by the players. Not only did the main base not interfere, but it would also take the initiative to subsidize them. The real population referred to the population of the d-ball.

There was a limit to the number of D ball players that each faction could hire. Up until now, there were only ten slots for all the Lords to cooperate. At first, the players did not care, and there was even a lot of people who did not need to fill up ten slots, after all, many people did not want to share the fruits of the faction's labor with outsiders.

However, as the faction grew larger and more colonized the population, many lord players discovered a problem: they did not have enough high-end talents.

Now, it was mainly in the field of scientific research. The content of the civilization technology library given to the players by the general base was too huge. It was so huge that many developers did not dare to branch out in detail. In sphere D, just the physics of many subjects could be divided into chemical physics, geophysics,. Economic Physics,. Atmospheric physics,. Biological Physics,. Medical Physics, and astrophysics. In Galaxy, a developer was responsible for tens to hundreds of large categories, and the number of research points was up to thousands. Although the developer's brain was as useful as a computer, computers also had a computing limit... ..

Ten slots were all for developers, which was not enough to level up civilization, not to mention that there were usually some other types of players in the ten slots.

BoxNovel.com

After that, the demand for high-end lifestyle and high-level combat players would increase as time went on. If they wanted to ensure the quality of their current forces, it was very necessary to continue expanding the cooperative population.

And this power was clearly delegated to the city by the main base... ..

Then there was the property rights. Now that the main base had implemented a virtual points system, once the LORD activated the financial system, 50% of the income had to be handed over, and under the new rules, the main base would delegate 20% to the player's city for the overall construction.

If the city and Lord wanted to buy more advanced technology, materials, or even complete sets of products, they would have to purchase them through the main base's points, forming the current three-tier management structure.

In other words, the city Lord had two of the biggest rights in this intermediate management structure: the right to give the population and the 20% right to finance and tax.

Of course, there were more subdivisions than that. Among them, the right to upgrade civilizations, the distribution of new energy resources, the right to explore the external market, and the right to connect to the interstellar era had yet to be fully realized, so there was a limit to how much they could be used, at this stage, the most crucial thing was the two basic rights mentioned earlier.

This was also the capital that the city lord could use to negotiate with the players... ..

“Let’s talk about population first... The leader took out the information and said, “Currently, the number of people that are allowed to participate in the competition is different from one another. Take song Zaiyi as an example. He feels that we should limit the population of the private forces. There are only 20 places open, and if we want more people, we have to go through qualification checks and various evaluations. As for the candidates led by Mister, they feel that we should let go of the population limit and not use the population to restrict the players. We should support their market liberalization to the greatest extent. Hence, Mister’s policy emphasizes that there is no limit to the cooperation population of the Lord’s forces. Right now, including the candidates for Huaxia City’s six City Lords, these two people are the most extreme in terms of the population limit. What do you think?”

When the players heard this, they fell silent. As private players, they naturally preferred the policy that Mister had proposed. If they did not set a limit on the number of people they could cooperate with, the private forces would rapidly develop. However, they also knew in their hearts.., if they did this, the private forces would expand too much. This was definitely something that the city’s managers did not want to see.

“Lord Leader, what do you think?” After hesitating for a moment, Icicle finally decided to test the official government’s intentions.

“Then let me tell you my opinion first!” The leader nodded. “First of all, I don’t agree with Mister’s method. For you guys, I’m sure you want to have as much authority as possible, but this will easily result in the birth of a monopoly power. Not only will it be difficult to control the city, but for the newer players, the ascending path will also become smaller and smaller, which is not conducive to a benign cycle in the environment. For example, this little cabbage...” . ... ..

“Eh?” Little Cabbage, who had been called out, looked up with an expression of ‘why are you talking about me?’.

Leader: “I’m sure everyone is familiar with this player’s faction, right?” As the largest faction in the current market, it had almost no opponents in the fields of high-end materials exports and agricultural exports. Many lord-tier players who relied on basic materials could only attack the low-end materials market and some agricultural products that little cabbage had not been able to research... .. The other similar small and medium-sized lord-tier forces were willing to survive because little cabbages did not have enough research resources to cover the middle and low-end market, but if... .. If there was no quota limit, she would definitely recruit tens of thousands of developers and instantly monopolize the market. With her current market reputation, do you think small and medium-sized forces of the same type can still survive

“Look at what Lord Leader said, how can I Be So Evil?” Little cabbage said unhappily!

Hehe... .. The many small and medium-sized lords all laughed coldly... ..

Little Cabbage’s strategy was the most common among the various factions. This could be seen from their private supply and cooperation strategy, which almost tied down many other materials-demanding factions, which of the current top 50 lords hadn’t been trapped by little cabbage’s material strategy?

This kind of evil capital method started from you... ..

“Is that Lord’s policy favoring song?” Ice Cap asked doubtfully.

“His policy is relatively stable, but it may cause your group of players to gain an advantage from behind...”. The leader shook his head. “Market possession and the development of civilization repositories are extremely important. With enough market stimulation, the enthusiasm for research and development will be stronger. I Don’t want your current progress to be slowed down because of a lack of high-end talent.”

“Then what do you mean, leader?” A sea breeze mechanical civilization lord asked from the side.

“I think we should fundamentally control the population attribute...”. The Lord said seriously, “The developer players will all belong to the city’s public system personnel. We will be responsible for the training of basic education costs, and the city will distribute benefits and wages. If you want more developers, then you can pay the hiring funds to the city, and we will be responsible for allocating the research population for you. However, we have the right to recall the developers at any time. This way, we can effectively control the market and not let one company grow bigger. What do you think?”

All the players were stunned. This... .. It was to completely control their research team’s lifeline.

“No!” Icecrown shook his head.

Chapter 827 Negotiations (middle)

The five old men took a deep look at the first person who objected to their suggestion. They had not been idle during this period of time, while they understood galaxy’s world view, they had also gotten the professional analysis team from the research department to collect information on these lord-tier players.

And this ice crown player was the one who had hired the girl from the Lei family. He was a Lord with great potential.

According to the Intel, the New World players were only allowed to explore a continent called the steel weapon empire. They had not started to explore the overseas maps yet. In the future, the overseas maps would become a market that the other five major cities would encourage players to go to, after all, the steel weapon continent had been mostly occupied by Chinese players.

This guy occupied the eastern seaboard. It was a development point for China’s overseas strategy in the future. It was of great significance!

To those with strength, words always carried weight. The leader looked at him warmly, "I'm only putting forward a plan. As for how to implement it, aren't we still discussing it? If you feel that it's inappropriate, you can tell us your opinion."

BoxNovel.com

"You're doing this first so that we don't have any guarantee. After all, the science and Technology Library is the foundation for the development of a force. The city already has the power to manage the science and Technology Library. If we manage the human rights, the official authority will be too big...". Bing Guan voiced out his concerns without hesitation, he continued, "The most important thing is that you're doing this. By publicly nationalizing the developer player's salary, it will cause a downturn in the developer player market, greatly affecting the enthusiasm for creation..."

"A researcher with a stable environment, a perfect training system, and a city's welfare base as a guarantee, isn't it better than joining a private force with an unknown future?" Elder lei frowned. "Why would you say that it will cause a downturn in the market? Although we said that we will make developers public, we are not going to deduct their treatment. On the contrary, we will protect their interests to the greatest extent."

"How much can we protect?" Icecrown sighed and said, "As long as it is public wages, there is bound to be a ceiling. It is already a publicly acknowledged fact that fixed wages can not cultivate competitiveness. Who would want to work hard if they can just muddle along? Especially in this environment, which belongs to an era of rapid technological change. You should understand the consequences of developers not being able to compete, right?"

"I also agree with Icecrown's words...". Pu Yunchuan continued, "Why is galaxy so popular with so many people? The most attractive part of this place is the opportunity. Everyone comes here with a dream, not to work. The treatment that we, the private lords, offer to the developers is not bad. As long as they can adapt to the developer's bloodline, there will be Lord players willing to use high-priced shares to rope them in. There are almost no developers above level two in the base that are left out. Compared to players from other races, the developer player market is almost in short supply. But even so, there are still very few new players who choose the developer's DNA. Why?" ? Because everyone here wants to be a boss. No matter how much competition there is, they all want to have their own career."

"Even the stock system is unable to make the developer career hot. If you use the civil service system, there are even fewer people who are willing to take this path. Everyone has desires. Other cities strongly encourage developers, but you use this system to limit the number of developers and players. In the future, there is no need to say where the ambitious and capable people will go? And those who were willing to stay were those who weren't capable or those who were just messing around... "..."

"Young man, isn't that a little too arbitrary?" Elder lei frowned.

Ice Cap looked at elder lei. "Your granddaughter, Lei Xue, is extremely talented in scientific research. She was ranked first among the many technical officers in the previous Test. After coming to my place, she has also displayed her amazing value. But what if this incident didn't happen? Does your granddaughter have the chance to become a top scientist in the public ownership system? Why hasn't her amazing talent been discovered after so many years?"

“This...”elder Lei suddenly choked. The main reason was that the other party’s example was too typical, yet it was his own granddaughter... ..

Hearing this, the leader frowned. He used his finger to habitually knock on the table and said, “You can set up a reward mechanism... a high reward for those who have outstanding scientific research progress...”

“It’s not too good either...” Bing Guan shook his head and said, “If your city is under unified management, the number of people will be too large, and it’s easy to breed a senior class. Just like the current internal situation in our country, senior people will easily squeeze the newcomers. When that time comes, it’s hard to say who will get the research results.” ...”

The leader frowned even more when he heard this. This girl was obviously saying that their current system was flawed, but she did not refute it. Because although the other party said it a little one-sidedly, it was reasonable, especially in this kind of platform where the competitiveness of scientific research exploded, if the stagnant scientific research atmosphere in the country was created, it would indeed be very easy to suffer a loss. After all, in this world, there were only a few people who used love to generate electricity.

“But how can you guarantee that you won’t squeeze the scientific researchers?”The leader retorted. “Now, you’re using a large number of shares to rope in the scientific researchers. That’s because the number is small enough. But once the number increases, will it still be like this?”

Ice Crown fell silent. The capital market was naturally not that benevolent. This could be seen from the large number of copyright infringement incidents that had occurred abroad. It was also a fact that the benefits of creators would become increasingly difficult to guarantee as the capital became more powerful...

“Why don’t we take a step back?”A cold female voice sounded. Everyone looked over. It was Alice from the cabbage faction who spoke.

She was the only Aborigine invited, but because of her outstanding ability, all the Lords present had no objections to her arrival.

The leader looked at this Aborigine woman and narrowed his eyes slightly. In the information, she was the person behind the scenes who had single-handedly developed the little cabbage faction to this day, by relying on a series of operations, the little cabbage civilization, which actually did not have an advantage, firmly occupied the first place of the current Lord faction!

He was a genius!

“Lady Alice, Right?”The leader smiled gently. “You Said...”

“There are two points in your argument just now. One is the issue of power monopoly. It is easy to form a monopoly regardless of whether the city controls the developer resources or if the Lord controls the developer resources. The second is the issue of talent education. Although the unified distribution of educational resources and talent recommendation by the city ensures basic education, it is easy to breed an internal class of developers. Managers with operating space can easily reduce the number of truly talented people. For example, if a manager recommends talents, it is hard to say whether it is based on real talent or relationship recommendation. If managers overly interfere in the scientific research field, it is easy to humanize this simple environment. When the time comes, those who are easy to stand out might not be those who are truly capable in scientific research, but those who know how to behave. This is something that the leader does not deny, right?"

In the face of Alice's question, the leader was stunned for a moment. His face turned a little ugly, but he didn't refute it. Alice's words were indeed an indisputable fact.

"Since Lady Alice has raised the contradictory points, she obviously has a strategy to deal with it, right?" Elder Bai asked with a smile.

Alice wasn't modest. She said straightforwardly, "I do have some humble opinions about these two points."

"Please go ahead..." the leader said humbly.

"First, there's the second issue of education..." Alice said seriously, "I think it's a good idea to provide public education resources. It can give developers who can't work as hard as the Green Titan at the beginning a certain level of guarantee. It can also speed up the development speed of developers at the beginning. However, if we want to create enough competitiveness, I suggest letting the Lord players participate in it."

"A lord-class player? How?" Old Thunder asked curiously.

"Investment!" Alice said, "The first stage of the developer-class player education will be provided by the city, and then the lord-class player will check and accept it. The lord-class player will judge the qualifications of the developer-class player based on their own vision, and then make a classified investment. For example, if the developer-class player needs a mechanic or an arcane mage, or if the developer-class player needs to invest in a more expensive mech pilot, then the developer-class player can sign a contract as long as he or she is selected. The lord-class Player Force will pay for the in-depth training, and the developer-class player will work for the lord-class player force after the completion of the training. This will greatly increase the competitiveness between the early-stage developer-class players, directly eliminating the middle recommendation environment, and reducing the space for managers to operate."

The leader frowned. "But isn't this just transferring the right to education to a different place? What's the difference between using pre-education resources to buy up all the players' future and some of their current capital?"

"You can refine it..." Alice smiled.

Chapter 828 Negotiation (Part Two)

"How do you limit it?" The leader asked with a frown.

"First is the limit of the buyout contract..." Alice smiled and said, "A private lord can naturally have the authority of a developer when he grooms a developer, but he absolutely can not buy out his or her life. According to the price of grooming, under the supervision of the government, he or she will set the term of service and the level of treatment. After the term of service expires, he or she will be free again. The developer player can choose whether to continue to work or to study further, or to work elsewhere, or he or she can consider starting a business by himself. If he or she does not buy out the future of the player and does not extinguish the flame of hope, the player will have enough motivation to advance. and the number of years of labor sold is entirely up to the player to choose.”

“For example, we can specify how many years of effective time the cost of education can provide, and then let the developer players make their own choice. Because of the differentiation in external competitiveness, as long as the power does not monopolize and the market is large enough, the interests of the developer players will not be suppressed, and even better as the market demand...”. “...”

“What about the patent rights?” Elder bai frowned and asked, “Research patents will definitely explode under this kind of technology storehouse. How do you deal with the patent rights?”

“The patent rights naturally belong to the private forces...”. Alice said seriously, “The Lord’s forces provide all the funds and resources needed for early education and research. What’s the point of not being able to obtain the patent rights under such circumstances?” “However, we will make it public and allow the developer player to build his scientific research reputation and resume, so that he can have a brighter future!”

BoxNovel.com

After a pause, Alice continued, “The city officials can participate in monitoring this point. After all, balancing the private forces and ensuring the channels for promotion is the purpose of your city administrators’existence, isn’t it?”

The leader nodded. “It sounds good, but how do you calculate the number of years? How many years of service do you plan to take away from the developers by participating in the training?”

“Based on the value of the training...”. The ice crown said seriously, “Currently, the training costs are mainly the fees for the instructors’courses and the materials used to study and research. The normal subjects are not expensive, and training to the point that they can be used today actually doesn’t cost much points. I think one year is more suitable. If you are willing to accept specialized training and spend more expensive materials to train your experimental proficiency, you can extend it to three years. The alchemist field has higher consumables, so five to six years is more suitable. As for mecha operators, the various major factions don’t want them for the time being. We can discuss it based on the market value in the future.”

“Five... to six years?”The five elders were stunned when they heard this number. They looked at the other players beside the ice cap. These lord-tier players did not seem to have much meaning to this. They were immediately shocked... ..

According to the information, after players had a genetic body, the minimum lifespan of a young person was estimated to be around 500 years old. There might even be a chance for them to run even higher. However, these guys actually talked for three to five years, did they forget to add a zero?

The advance training policy was not without precedent in central China. For example, civil aviation pilots were trained in advance. After graduating from high school, they spent a huge amount of money to train pilots. They even had to bear the risk of not being trained! The investors invested a huge amount of money, but the cost of being trained was even greater!

The three major airline companies basically signed a contract with you for life. If you jumped ship, you would have to bear a huge compensation fee. If you did not jump ship, your salary might not be half as high as a private airline captain's... ..

The leader originally thought that if the other party said that they would start from a hundred years ago, how would he help the ordinary players to get some benefits back. However, he did not expect that these guys would only speak for three to five years...

The five elders suddenly felt a little thirsty. After a long silence, elder Lei took the lead to ask, "With such a short period of time, aren't you afraid that the people that you have painstakingly trained will leave when the time comes?"

Bing guan smiled and replied, "If they are outstanding people, we will naturally pay a price to win them over to stay. If other places offer higher prices than us, then it is only natural for the talents to leave. After all, with the efficiency of the developers, three to five years is enough to pay back four to five times the cost of our education!"

These words made the five elders fall silent again. After a long time, they did not know what to say. All of them looked at the young man in front of them with complicated expressions.

"Are you... Sure?"The leader could not help but ask.

"Why do you look like you don't trust us? "Isn't this our first time working together?"Xiao Bai cai grinned and said, "Don't doubt it. Although we have become the capital of all evil by chance, two or three years ago, we were still hot-blooded youths who were full of expectations for society. Isn't it normal for us to survive for two or three years without being corrupted?"

These words made the hearts of the elders jolt once again... .. An indescribable feeling welled up in their hearts...

The leader looked at the sincere gazes of the group of youths and girls, and his heart could not calm down for a long time... ..

That's right, they were all hot-blooded youths...

At the thought of this, the leader suddenly felt that it was not necessarily a bad thing for the heavens to suddenly give this group of little brats such a great opportunity. A person at the best age, at the time of the most passionate longing, had the right to change the world... It might get messy, but... But it is a hope like living water. . .

"Then... Let's talk about the details!"The leader finally revealed his most sincere smile.

Following the meeting's agreement, Huaxia City's latest policy was announced. The city continued to maintain population restrictions on Lord ranked players, but it could allow private players to apply to train new players based on their evaluation.

Developers could enjoy educational benefits from the moment they were born in Huaxia City. The city officials would be responsible for the early stages of the promotion, while the private lord-class forces would be responsible for the later stages of the promotion. The duration of the contract and the treatment would be open and transparent, players could make their own choices based on the bidding price.

Take the cabbage faction as an example. The official quota for the cabbage faction had been raised to 150 people. According to the faction's requirements, currently, the cabbages needed 80 pure biology developers: 15 in the genetic field, 20 in the agricultural system, 15 in the application system, 20 in the medical system, and 10 in the data model...

Alchemists needed: 70:20 in the guidance system, 30 in the biology system, 10 in the transformation system, and 10 in the Witch Doctor System...

The basic research researcher training period was one year, and the service period was two years. The treatment was XX points for one month, and after two years, they would be free again. The Alchemist training period was two years, and the service period was five years. The treatment was XX points for one month!

After the service period ended, the developers could choose to continue negotiating with their own forces to renew their contracts or to further their studies in the field of alchemy. They could also choose to switch to a private force that offered a higher price.

This policy shocked the world. Public funding and private force education was nothing new in World D, but wasn't the age requirement a little too much?

Several years?

Many scientists who were planning to pursue scientific research turned their attention to Huaxia city... ..

Other cities offered great discounts to researchers. Mister, the fifth city, even offered a city residence and an annual salary guarantee!

However, the number of years of freedom for researchers was very limited. Angor, who was the most generous, only had 50 years to start. However, Huaxia City only required five years to fully train alchemists!

This was more attractive than any material discounts!

In front of such a large platform, everyone wanted a better starting point, but no one wanted to be restricted. Huaxia City, on the other hand, perfectly achieved these two points!

This was equivalent to opening up the future of scientific research players! !

Chapter 829 The Last Election Day (Part One)

Hello, everyone. Today is the 29th day of the five major cities' election campaign. How are your choices? Are there any friends who are still watching. Friendly Reminder, according to the rules of Galaxy, the election result day is only one day away... ..

Today is Grandpa's last guide before the election campaign. It also provides a train of thought for the people who are still watching. Friends who are still hesitating can no longer watch, no matter what, they had to help themselves or their children choose a future before 12 o'clock.

Without further ado, let's get to the main topic...

As the election was about to end, the election situation in the five major cities gradually became clear. Angor, the first city, was almost guaranteed to be the winner with 770 million votes, Almi, who was in second place, was originally close behind. However, as the public opinion in the country became more and more focused on him, his support rate also began to drop rapidly.

Support rate was just like real estate prices. People from the three countries or some outsiders who were still waiting and watching chose Angor without hesitation when they saw Almi's support rate drop, this also caused the gap between Almi and Angor to widen.

Almi was now behind by more than 300 million votes. With the support of the players from Huazhong, Almi, who only had the three countries' basic data, had no chance of winning in the quality evaluation.

As Almi had no chance of winning the election, there was a sudden rumor in the domestic news that Almi had received financial support from Huazhong. There was also a rumor that Almi had betrayed the country and colluded with the enemy, Almi's team also revealed that Almi had embezzled and donated money. In just one day, a lot of bad news broke out. Almi was instantly forced into the limelight!

Many important figures from other countries looked on coldly. Elder Long and the others who caused all this sighed inwardly. They knew that the nobles in the third nation were going to punish Almi!

Angor, on the other hand, had already secured the seat of the mayor. The public opinion changed from a villain who sold out the rights of West Germans to a strategist, many politicians and nobles praised Angor's political courage on the news. They also thanked her for her contributions to West Germany over the years. Some media even named her the most successful leader of West Germany in history!

As a result, this woman who had been in power in West Germany for more than ten years once again reached the peak of her power!

Due to the fairness of her policy and Almi's diversion of the first city, the population flow of the first city was now very high. It was now over 1.2 billion, the highest among the five major cities, its value was even higher than Huaxia City.

It was still a city favored by many experts. Today, it was still increasing by 10 million people per hour. This city was still one of the cities recommended by my grandpa, the city had a reasonable distribution of resources. Angor, the city owner, was a veteran political expert, and the resources of civilization were also very competitive. In fact, he highly recommended friends with a high rank to choose from.

Huaxia City was the second most populous city. Huaxia city's population was considered average because there were too many high-level players and they were against foreigners. Also, Mister and the others tried to discredit Huaxia City, foreigners rarely chose Huaxia City. However, Huaxia City suddenly announced a comprehensive development policy for developers and players a dozen days ago, which attracted a lot of talented researchers.

This kind of policy, which is guaranteed from beginning to end, is very attractive to many scientists, especially the one after that, which has a preferential term of three to five years. It is too tempting to enjoy both basic education and training, but also can not pay too much labor time cost, this is simply the most ideal growth environment!

This caused many scientists who were still waiting to see what would happen to Huaxia City. It also caused Huaxia City to start flowing overseas players over the next ten days. Moreover, high-end scientific research teams were flowing in, this included the world-famous scientist, fekel, and the others. After contacting Huaxia City, Huaxia City's officials all secretly indicated that they could provide the first batch of slots.

As a result, Huaxia city began to make a comeback, becoming the second-largest city in terms of both population and quality.

However, the shortcomings were also very obvious. Recently, there had been rumors saying that the combat player rankings had been secretly arranged by the officials to include military personnel. I wasn't too sure about this rumor, but I couldn't say for sure, after all, our official methods had always been quite boring.

In addition, Huaxia City already had many high-level players. If it was a friend or grandfather who wanted to walk the Lord's path, I wouldn't recommend it. The chances of other cities on this path were obviously much greater, however, if you were a highly educated researcher, I would highly recommend Huaxia City's grandfather. As you can see, the basic training and targeted training were free, and the service life was so low, where can you find such a good thing?

However, a friendly reminder — not everyone can adapt to the race of developers. If you have no feelings for research, don't force yourself. The choice of a second life is extremely important. If you make the wrong choice, you will regret it for the rest of your life!

The third city in the evaluation rankings was the third city. According to the expert data, the third city's population selection was on the high side. 50% of the voters were undergraduates or above, what was important was the third city's ocean civilization's potential.

Because within the astral plane, the overseas market was currently the most empty market. Compared to the steel weapon continent, which was already occupied by central China players, the overseas market clearly had more space. In terms of future strategy., the third city had a great chance. As long as they could stand firm, the development space for Lord ranked players should be the best.

This also caused the third city to have the most intense election situation. With the rise of many heroes, the people who chose this city had high literacy and independent thinking abilities. Many people chose this city but did not vote, as a result, the situation was not clear at the start.

It was only until the population restriction policy that song cared about was announced that the support rate suddenly soared!

Many experts had their own guesses as to why this was the case. Thinking back, the top contenders in the third city, including Madelung from western France and a few important politicians from grape country, even though their reputations were extremely great, their hearts were more inclined towards big capitalism, the policy didn't explicitly restrict the entry of financial groups, and only song cared. Because the universe country was suffering from the monopoly of large financial groups, they had always opposed private financial groups having too much power, this population restriction policy seemed to restrict the development of players and establish a strong government, but it greatly restricted the advantages of foreign financial groups. Instead, it allowed the middle-class people with higher personal qualifications to see the fairness of the platform, thinking that song cared was a city lord who wouldn't favor the current capital forces, they all supported song care.

On the 28th night, the second day after song care announced the population restriction policy, his approval rating exploded. In the end, he jumped from fifth place to first place, taking a huge lead, coupled with the support of the china-china cooperation, his population quality score had also soared for a time. Basically, he was now in a stable situation.

Which civilization in the ocean of this city was highly competitive with the New Territories? Coupled with song Zaiyi's population restriction policy, it greatly limited the possibility for foreign capital to invest in cultivating super forces. The environment was relatively fair, it was also a good choice.

The fourth-ranked comprehensive city was the fifth city where Mistral was located. In terms of civilization, the Atlan civilization, which followed both the arcane route and the mechanical path, had a very high comprehensive system. Its advantage was neither big nor small, but it was comprehensive, mistral's policy mainly focused on the concept of the free federation, small government, and big market to attract the population. It emphasized the freedom of the market and did not suppress the potential of the players as a slogan.

Grandpa still did not recommend the people of Central China to choose this place. Moreover, this city seemed to use the free market as a slogan, but in fact, it did not restrict the development of big forces, this could easily lead to the big forces on Planet D being able to form an early celestial force through insider trading with the castellan. Grandpa was not optimistic about the fairness. Of course, the opportunities were also great, this is because there are no population restrictions. If you can find a direction for development, the upper limit is indeed very high. Friends who are extremely confident in themselves can give it a try.

However, a friendly reminder, the population composition of that place is generally a three. If you want to rely on Lone Wolf's identity to stand there, you have to be a dragon crossing the river!

Finally, let's talk about the second city... ... Speaking of this grandfather who is from the Huazhong people, my feelings are more complicated... ...

Chapter 830 The Last Election Day (middle)

This post was originally written for the World Forum. Logically speaking, it shouldn't be mixed with private goods, but it couldn't be helped. Grandpa was born to be Chinese, so there were still some things he had to say.

The second city's officials didn't cooperate with Red Sun, but Abe Qingming still obtained the highest advantage. There was a high probability that he would be the city lord. Although I had already expected it, my grandpa still had mixed feelings.

And even though the officials didn't cooperate with him, he still displayed the pro-china policy, opening the first-class population to the outside world and giving them preferential access and higher initial benefits, the central China players who chose the research class directly provided 10,000 initial education points, such a strong pro-china policy wasn't much worse than the universe country's Crazy Song Yi.

The attraction was huge, plus the competition was small, it was actually a good choice. However, in the later stages, it was hard to say, the Red Sun had a large population, the two races had a huge conflict, it was hard to say what Qing Ming was thinking, i hope everyone will choose carefully.

Anyway, I have always felt that that guy had bad intentions...

Finally, to summarize, the first was the city choice, the research players first chose China First, then the second city, the Lord Players first, then the third city.., those who had great confidence in themselves or had powerful private forces could consider the fifth city.

Then, there was the race choice. Grandpa did not recommend that everyone choose the third city. The new race had great advantages, and it was very compatible with the civilization characteristics of the city. This was especially true for the Baja race in the fourth city, which was specifically for the biology civilization, he suggested that first-rate sequence players choose first.

As for the career path, Grandpa first recommended researchers. If he had a strong foundation in science and engineering, he strongly recommended this path. Currently, research players were still popular players and were valued by many major factions. Their future prospects were promising, moreover, due to the intense competition in the market, they should be popular for a long time in the future.

Then there were adventure players. I knew that most people had a Lord's dream when they saw galaxy's introduction. Today, Grandpa would pour cold water on everyone.

Let's talk about the data first. Currently, there were 50,000 players in Huaxia City, and there were less than 500 lords that truly qualified to become a lord. There were less than 200 lords that could operate, and this was only because the resources in the early stages were sufficient, under the circumstances of various benefits and encouragement from the main base.

I believed that as the population increased, the threshold for becoming a Lord would definitely become higher and higher. When that time came, it would be better to have one out of 10,000 people. Therefore, I suggested that everyone have a dream in their hearts, however, don't be stubborn. It's best to do it slowly and steadily.

Combat type players must not waste their first initial funds. They should mainly focus on improving their own quality. They must try to invest in the path of a Lord with a certain amount of surplus, moreover, they must not delay their own growth.

I once had a friend who had always been ranked first on the leaderboard. In the end, he went to the grasslands and did not gain anything for half a year. His ranking dropped out of the top 100 and he almost fell behind!

If he had not been lucky enough to meet a good boss, he might have become one of the loser players.

Today, Grandpa gave a beginner's lesson to the many players who were about to enter the galaxy. After entering the game, most of the players should be mainly engaged in production work. Most of the strength-type players were working in mines, for the agility-type genotypes, their early income was slower. They usually focused on grazing, planting, and light manual work. Their income was slightly lower than that of the strength-type players.

If the current pace did not change, the initial players would need to work for at least half a year in the production line before they had enough capital to upgrade their Geno Body to level 2 and obtain a sum of money to go adventuring.

The choice here was especially important. Currently, there were four routes to adventuring in the New Territories. The first was the southern plains, which was known by the players as the land of Lords. Although many players had already pounced on it, however, there were still many unexplored resources in this vast plains. If you were lucky, you could still gather a suitable population to form a tribe and obtain the qualifications to become a Lord. This was currently the most likely route to become a lord, as the population of the plains were nomads, they were more scattered. There was no strict class rule. If you had a big fist, you could subdue them. Moreover, the threshold was lower. A Level 2 gene was basically able to walk unhindered in the southern plains.

However, it was very dependent on luck. The southern steppe was too big. There was a high chance that you would waste your time there. Those who liked to gamble could try it out, if one wanted to play it safe, one should first go to Gondolin to accumulate some initial funds and hire a team of well-equipped mercenaries before going to the southern steppe. The success rate would be much higher.

The second route was Gondolin. This was now an adventurer's paradise. 80% of the lords and adventurers were active here. Their goal was to explore the mutated steel martial empire's map. There were also great opportunities here, if one could conquer a city, they could soar into the sky like Pu Yunchuan. However, until now, no player had managed to explore a single surviving city on this land.

Even so, this place was still very profitable. The main base had issued many rewards for exploring this land, whether it was exploring a new map, discovering a new mutated species, or simply collecting a mutated creature sample, there were rewards. The official rewards were a part of it, and the specimens of the new species could be directly traded in gundorine for money.

The value of the new species was extremely high. Fur, flesh, and bone samples, including genetic samples, could be sold for a lot of money. It was very common for a level 3 new species to sell for thousands of points here, if you were lucky, you could earn a considerable portion of the original capital in a few months.

It was suggested that those who wanted to go to Gondorin could learn some useful life skills, such as skinning, skin-making, bone-cutting, Geological Survey, and low-level alchemy. Believe me, any of these skills would be very useful in Gondorin!

The third route was the northern plains. There were not many people on this route. There were many gods, and all the high-ranked great lord players were gathered on this land. It was very difficult to find opportunities here.

However, there were also benefits here. The quality of the population was very high. The northern orcs' starting aptitude was much higher than the southern orcs, especially some half-mutated orcs. Their potential was quite high, but it was very difficult to subdue them, it was not recommended for newbies to go directly.

The fourth route was the newly opened sea route. According to my Grandpa's knowledge, the great lord of the ice crown, the dogball, had successfully opened up the East Sea Route, opening up a new route to the western islands, in the future, this route would probably be the focus of many city strategies!

However, the risk was also very high. Currently, there was only one sea port on the east coast, and it was firmly occupied by the ice crown boss. If one wanted to take the sea route, they would have to go through him. The Ice Crown Boss, who occupied a natural position, was very demanding, if they wanted to board the dog egg to develop in the western islands, they would need 10,000 points for a ticket!

It was practically daylight robbery, but who asked him to occupy a good place?

It was basically impossible to collect the ticket fees during the novice period, unless your city opened up a loan service. However, Grandpa asked everyone to choose carefully. Western cities had great opportunities, and they had a large number of high-quality people, however, there was currently no definite information about the specific situation there. It was really hard to say whether they would soar to the sky or lose their underwear!

This was a route where both opportunities and risks coexisted. However, the Friends of the third city probably didn't have a choice... ..

Alright, I, Grandpa, have also successfully transformed. I reckon that I will have much less time to write guides in the future. After all, Grandpa, I am also a player full of dreams. I will also start my own Dream Journey!

At the same time hope that the vast number of compatriots in the Sea of this world free flight, play a piece of their own brilliant life, we see the Sea of stars! !

This time, with Grandpa's last words, the players who didn't ridicule him sent their blessings in the comments below... . .

[ thank you, Grandpa, for sharing your experience. I am also a shrimp who has just been accepted. I hope that as Grandpa said, I can walk out of my brilliant life in that world full of hope and no longer continue to live my current mechanical life. Thank you, Grandpa, for your blessing. See You in the Galaxy! ]

"Goodbye, Grandpa. I hope you can fly higher and higher. I will definitely come to the Sea of stars to see what you really look like. I will see you in the Sea of Stars!"

"Seeing that the old master, who has been idle all day, is finally going to set sail, I have quite a complicated feeling in my heart. When exactly will I set sail? "However, I can wait. One year, five years, ten years. I will definitely fight for it. I hope that at that time, the Sea of stars world that Grandpa described will not change, and there will still be space for us to set sail. I really do not want to miss this brilliant era. SOB, SOB, sob!"

[ the correct answer above. Since I was born in this era where miracles happen, I can not miss it. No matter what, I will enter the world that my grandfather described to take a look. Even if I am too old to move, I will still die in the starry sea! ! ! ]
