

SHE MADE A COMEBACK AS A RENOWNED DOCTOR

Chapter 1002: Chapter 1002: Hope Williams Goes in Person

“Zoey?” Hope’s gentle voice came through.

Nora was too afraid to make a sound, her face turned even paler than before.

Hope hadn’t heard a sound and felt a bit suspicious.

Felix looked at Nora in confusion, “What are you doing? Answer the phone.”

Under Felix’s urging, Nora tremblingly took the phone. As soon as her fingers touched it, she dropped it to the ground as if she had been electrocuted.

Nora panicked, quickly covered her chest and started coughing violently, the sound threatening to cough her lungs out. She coughed while speaking, deliberately making her voice sound unclear.

“I’m so sorry... cough cough cough... cough cough... sorry... I... cough cough cough cough cough...”

Felix picked up the phone, looking speechless at Nora who couldn’t even finish her sentences, “Alright, just stop talking.”

Nora opened her mouth again, but after each indistinct word came a long series of coughs.

Felix couldn't understand what she was saying, let alone Hope on the other end of the line.

Hope listened to the continuous coughing over the phone, frowned slightly; the cough sounded truly serious.

Felix called for the doctor to come in, while heading outside themselves.

"Sister Hope, this friend of yours is really quite baffling, this illness is baffling too. She was fine yesterday, and this morning she's running a fever of 39°C."

Felix originally didn't want to gossip behind people's backs, but really couldn't get to like the woman in front of them.

Pretentious, vain, and shameless.

If someone like this was truly fancied by our Big Boss, Felix would immediately commit suicide to entertain them.

Since 'Zoey Sanders' was Hope's friend, Felix left her remarks at that without adding further.

Hope, however, picked up on Felix's dissatisfaction with Zoey from her tone.

Hope paused for a few seconds.

Zoey's straightforward and adorable nature should get along well with Felix's direct personality, so why the discontent?

"Sister Hope, I think she's really in bad shape today. Once she feels better, I'll have her call you."

Hope returned to her senses, "Alright, please take good care of her."

"Okay."

Hope hung up the phone, slightly furrowed her brows, and first returned Joseph Sanders' call.

Joseph truly had a psychological shadow from the previous incident, and now he was extremely anxious, "Sis-in-law, how is it?"

"She's ill, has a fever, and it sounds pretty severe."

"She shouldn't avoid answering the phone though, what is this stupid girl doing? Does she want to sever ties with us and stay with Liam Cloud?"

Hope knew Joseph was anxious, "The exact reason isn't clear, I'll ask more later."

"Alright, thank you sis-in-law, I'll certainly teach this stupid girl a lesson when she returns, she has no sense whatsoever."

Joseph felt truly anxious, scared, and frustrated.

Hope coaxed him for a few lines, then hung up the phone. She stood up, her expression confused, and stood by the window for a few minutes before picking up the phone again to call Liam Cloud.

Liam, as if expecting Hope to call him, spoke with a bit of mischievous annoyance, "It's quite something for you to remember to call me."

"Have you seen Zoey?"

"No, busy." Just two simple words, laced with displeasure.

Hope sighed softly, "When will you return to the island?"

"Do you have something?"

"No, just planning to come over."

Hope felt Zoey was acting strange, and with Joseph saying she wasn't answering the phone, Hope was a bit worried.

Thus, she planned to go over and also pick her up.

"I'll send someone to pick you up."

Hope thought for a moment, "No need to bother, I don't have a bypass, just let them know so I can get in."

“Relax, your face is the bypass.”

“I’ll hang up now, still got something here.”

“Hmm.”

Hope hung up the phone, put it in her pocket, her gaze deepened.

She felt something was amiss but couldn’t quite pin down what was wrong!

A bit uneasy at heart.