

She Made a Comeback as a Renowned Doctor

Capítulo 1006: Chapter 1006: An Admirable Talent for Seeking Death

Nora Brown stared unblinkingly at Liam Cloud.

The man was clad in a black shirt, with silver hair, delicate features, a high nose bridge, and a pair of wicked eyes shimmering with cold lights like snow, glancing at her.

However, Nora Brown didn't notice the chill in his eyes; she remained in a daze, staring at his handsome and perfect face.

When she saw this man in the photos on Zoey Sanders' phone, she thought he was as handsome as a god from Greek Mythology.

Now seeing such a devilishly charming man in person, her whole body tensed up, and her heart felt like it might leap out of her chest from nervousness.

She bit her lower lip tightly, her breathing became heavier, and her chest heaved with each breath.

This man was exactly what she imagined her future boyfriend to be.

Tall and straight figure, full of wicked nobility, exuding immense pressure that made people entranced and fascinated.

This man must be hers.

Looking at the woman in front of him, Liam Cloud and Hope Williams squinted their eyes immediately.

Felix Shaw noticed the woman staring almost dazedly at their Big Boss and couldn't help but speak up, "Zoey Sanders..."

"What did you call her?" Liam Cloud raised an eyebrow and glanced at Felix Shaw.

Felix Shaw repeated hesitantly, "Zoey... Sanders..."

Nora Brown, already infatuated, reached out eagerly, wanting to touch him.

Yet Liam Cloud furrowed his brows, and with a single glance, stopped Nora Brown's hand in its tracks.

Liam Cloud gave her a cold glance, "Zoey, Sanders?"

Each word was enunciated, full of chills.

“I am.”

Nora Brown responded excitedly, losing herself in her obsession and forgetting Hope Williams’ existence.

She took two steps forward, twisting her body as if she were about to fall, leaning towards Liam Cloud.

Liam Cloud lowered his icy eyes, watching the woman fall towards him, with a layer of bloodthirsty killing intent in his gaze.

Seeing the man not avoiding, Nora Brown was overjoyed, thinking he was captivated by her beauty.

This face of hers had countless admirers at school.

Plus, she dressed up meticulously today, who could resist her?

Thinking of this, Nora Brown felt even more smug, her heart pounding more wildly within her chest.

She removed the veil from her face, looking up at Liam Cloud with shy and timid eyes, a layer of watery sheen covering her large, glistening eyes in excitement.

“I’ve finally met you, you have no idea how long I’ve waited for you.”

Hope Williams raised an eyebrow from the side without exposing her directly, allowing this woman some time to perform.

“Ha.”

Liam Cloud let out a low laugh, “Tell me, how long have you waited?”

“Two days, I traveled a long distance to see you, but you made me wait for two days.” Nora Brown said in a soft, chiding voice.

“Is that so? Then it’s my fault, letting you rejoice for two more days.”

Nora Brown’s body stiffened for a moment, not yet comprehending, thinking he was joking with her.

She coquettishly asked, “Big brother, what do you mean by that?”

Saying this, her hand naturally rested on his chest, gently stroking upwards.

Liam Cloud's eyes flashed with a dark gleam, grasping her hand coldly, "Felix, the fish in the backyard are hungry, take this... Miss Sanders to feed the fish."

Felix Shaw understood instantly what Liam Cloud meant.

The fish in the backyard were not ordinary fish, but a few crocodiles Liam Cloud kept for fun.

Of course, Nora Brown didn't know, thinking she was truly going to feed fish and have fun.

But right now, she wasn't in the mood to feed fish; all her mind and eyes were filled with Liam Cloud, her whole being like an octopus wanting to cling to him.

Felix Shaw's eyes also flashed with a trace of ruthlessness, tugging at the corner of his lips, "Miss Sanders, please."

"Oh, I don't want to go." Nora Brown clung to Liam Cloud, "I just want to stay by your side, not wanting to go anywhere."

Felix Shaw already stepped forward to drag Nora Brown.

Hope Williams held her forehead, completely unable to watch this fake Zoey Sanders, stopping Felix Shaw's movement, "Wait, the real Zoey isn't found yet, she still has some use."

Hearing this, Nora Brown's body stiffened, finally noticing people other than Liam Cloud, only then remembering Hope Williams, the only one who had seen Zoey Sanders, was still here.

But now she was not afraid; what if she's discovered? She just claimed to be Zoey Sanders, and the man in front of her did not refute her, indicating he never met the real Zoey Sanders, so why should she be afraid?

Nora Brown glanced up and down at Hope Williams, lowering her eyes to look at her own figure, she was not worse than her.

Previously, she heard from the servants here that Hope Williams was the only woman this man brought back.

Nora Brown snorted lightly, so what?

Right now, she was the woman he fancied.

"I'm Zoey Sanders, what's the truth or false, don't wrong me here."

Hope Williams let out a cold laugh, obviously this woman didn't know that Liam Cloud had also seen Zoey Sanders, so she was fearless here.

"Oh, darling, throw this old woman out, I hate seeing her." Nora Brown said in a soft voice, her body seemingly boneless, continually sticking to Liam Cloud.

She was afraid Hope Williams would say something unfavorable to her, eager to drive her out immediately.

Felix Shaw raised his eyebrows sharply upon hearing this, covering his face with his hand!

This overly confident foolish woman.

She must think she was favored by their Big Boss, believing Hope Williams was an insignificant person in their Big Boss's eyes, that if she acted coy, he would listen to her.

Little did she know the weight of Hope Williams in Liam Cloud's heart, as she spoke this derisive and disdainful comment, she had probably died several times over in their Big Boss's heart.

Felix Shaw peeked through his fingers at their Big Boss's expression.

Indeed, seeing that incomparably handsome face growing colder inch by inch, originally already menacing.

If talking about courting death, at this moment, he sincerely admired this exceedingly confident woman from the bottom of his heart.

"Bang"

A gunshot echoed.

The surrounding instantly quieted down...

Nora Brown's entire body rigidly froze in place, she stared wide-eyed in disbelief, raising her head to look at the man, then slowly lowered it to look at her shoulder pierced by a bullet.

The muscles on her face twitched, trembling lips formed a sound, "You..."

Liam Cloud toyed with the silver gun in his hand, his handsome face inscrutable, dark eyes devoid of warmth, lips curling into a cold light arc.

Nora Brown fell to the ground with a thud, still wide-eyed, scarlet lips opening and closing, unable to utter a word.

The newly replaced white dress was dyed crimson with blood, resembling a blooming flower.

Liam Cloud squatted down, looking at the woman on the ground painfully wide-eyed and twitching, "You should thank her for keeping you, otherwise this bullet would have pierced your heart."

Nora Brown stared in horror, blood gushing from her mouth, looking at the man in front of her as if she saw a devil.

Felix Shaw wasn't fazed by this scene at all.

Hope Williams' heart tightened for a moment, glancing at her wound, confirming Liam Cloud didn't shoot a place that would kill her, gesturing Felix Shaw to have her taken for treatment.

"Keep her conscious and bring her back."

Felix Shaw smiled, "Understood, Sister Hope, rest assured, this kind of injury can be handled quickly, ensuring her consciousness."

Liam Cloud was most adept at torturous methods, knowing where to shoot that wouldn't kill but would inflict enough pain.

Felix Shaw called for two people to take her away.

Hope Williams furrowed her brows tightly; two days meant the real Zoey Sanders had been missing for two days.

"We must find Zoey first."

"Okay."

Liam Cloud began undressing, his slender fingers unbuttoning his shirt one by one, eyes full of disgust.

Hope Williams watched his actions, raising an eyebrow, "What are you doing?"

"Dirty."