

SHE MADE A COMEBACK AS A RENOWNED DOCTOR

Chapter 1011: Chapter 1011: Zoey Sanders Is Rescued

"Maybe she could be lucky enough to find a place to hide and wait for rescue."

Liam Cloud could only say this.

There were no other possibilities.

"So now we can only start searching and pray for luck to happen, right?"

Liam Cloud nodded, "Yes."

Hope Williams furrowed her brow and glanced at the dying Nora Brown.

She remembered Zoey Sanders arriving alone, yet inexplicably, another person appeared, causing so much trouble.

Nora Brown hung her head, but her body still shook from the pain of her wounds.

"Let her down for treatment."

Hope Williams felt she still wasn't truthful, at least regarding why Zoey Sanders fell into the sea...

Was it an accident where no one saved her, or an intentional push into the sea?

This person's fate can wait until Zoey Sanders returns so she can decide for herself.

Meanwhile, in another place.

In the bright light, with layered curtains hanging down, the girl's eyelashes trembled gently on a white bed, and her weak eyes slowly opened.

"You're awake."

A gentle voice came from nearby.

Zoey Sanders blinked her eyes lightly, looking at the kind-faced woman in front of her; she still felt a bit dazed.

The woman wore a light-colored qipao, with her hair pinned up with a tassel hairpin, exuding a simple and elegant air, especially with her exceptionally kind smile.

It was the kind of kindness that took away any defenses at first glance.

Zoey Sanders raised her hand to rub her head.

Because she had just woken up, her reactions were still sluggish, and her memory was returning.

She remembered feeling dizzy and muddled, then falling asleep.

Back then, many images flashed in her mind, and she saw a black and white duo taking her away.

She thought it was The Impermanents coming for her.

But why did she appear here now?

Where was this place?

Had she left that forest?

She looked down at her clothes.

Her clothes were changed.

Who changed them?

Zoey Sanders immediately became tense, raising her hand to cover her chest.

Countless questions circled Zoey Sanders' mind.

Seeing her tense demeanor, the woman quickly approached and said, "Don't be nervous, your clothes were wet, I helped you change them."

After saying that, she handed Zoey Sanders a cup of tea water, "Here, have some water."

Zoey Sanders took it with both hands and nodded quickly, "Thank you."

Zoey Sanders, with her cold hands touching the warm teacup, immediately felt a warmth and drank the tea in gulps.

After drinking the cup of water, she finally felt her body more comfortable.

The woman stood beside her, watching her with a continued kind smile.

Seeing her finish, she took the teacup from her and poured her another cup, asking as she poured, "Does your body feel better?"

"When we found you, you had a serious fever, but luckily you met us, or you would have been quite miserable."

Zoey Sanders got out of bed, raised her hand to touch her forehead, and pursed her lips, "Much better, thank you for saving me, sister."

"You're welcome, we just happened to be passing by and saw you; you were lucky because I've heard that area often has bears and other fierce beasts. If you had stayed there, it might have been quite dangerous."

Hearing this, Zoey Sanders felt a lingering fear.

She almost became a meal for the beasts.

It seemed heaven still favored her and didn't let her perish.

"What's your name?"

Zoey Sanders immediately replied, "Zoey Sanders, sister can call me Zoey."

The woman smiled softly, "Zoey Sanders... such a beautiful name, I'm Evelyn Sinclair, you can call me Evelyn."

"Yes, Sister Evelyn, may I ask where this is?"

Evelyn Sinclair's eyes shifted and warmly smiled, "This is my home, we brought you out of that forest area."

A vague answer, not telling Zoey Sanders exactly where she was.

Zoey Sanders raised her head and glanced around, which meant she was already far from Liam Cloud's area.

Perhaps they were not meant to meet.

Alive or dead, never to see each other.
