Chapter 871: Jing Rao Extra: A Half-Month Deadline

Chapter 871: Chapter 871: Jing Rao Extra: A Half-Month Deadline

Emma doesn't care at all about what Wyatt Lewis says.

Aria Richardson's eyes flickered, her lips moved slightly before she said, "I know."

Emma looked at Aria's expression, she knew she had listened.

Because in this relationship, Aria was originally an insecure presence.

Since last night, when she quietly left, Emma had noticed it.

Hope Williams frowned, this woman was not only very proud but also highly aggressive.

Hope narrowed her eyes at her, "Miss Winton, what you said makes sense, but I don't agree. People don't just live for benefits, you haven't understood what happened between them, nor do you know their emotions. How can you be sure they won't go far?"

"You haven't understood Wyatt, how do you know he's someone who would be fickle? You haven't understood Aria, how do you know she's not excellent, how do you know she's certainly not worthy of Wyatt."

"Moreover, whether they're a good match and whether they'll go far isn't for you, an outsider, to decide, right?"

"Anyway, Miss Winton, it's very rude to casually judge someone in front of others. I hope you can apologize to Wyatt and Aria."

Emma paused slightly, looking at Hope, she had no way to refute what was said.

Wyatt Lewis was already cheering internally for Hope.

Sister-in-law is so powerful, go against this witch!

Emma glanced at Aria, "Miss Richardson, I was just expressing my personal opinion earlier, not targeting you. Maybe I was harsh, and it made you uncomfortable, don't take it to heart, sorry."

Aria lifted her gaze directly at Emma, "You are not wrong, my family background indeed cannot match the Lewis Family, and Wyatt will only become more outstanding..."

Wyatt Lewis tightly held Aria's hand, deeply looking at her, fearing she would feel unworthy due to the words of this witch and thus give up.

Tears flickered in Aria's eyes, but she quickly concealed it, looking at Wyatt Lewis with a gentle smile, then turned her gaze to Emma.

"But I will also strive, strive to become someone who can stand beside him, someone who can be a good match for him. So, your words won't affect me."

Emma raised her eyebrows slightly, her hands lightly waved, feeling a bit helpless at her confidence.

Her gaze moved to Christopher Lewis, "Uncle Lewis, do you also think the same?"

Christopher was somewhat hesitant, which showed that some of Emma's words had hit home.

Owen Winton took a sip of tea, then slowly said, "Let's do it this way, Christopher, you know that Emma is my most outstanding daughter. As for the marriage alliance... since Wyatt is so resistant, we'll discuss it later. Emma also said she'd like to stay in Emperor Capital for another half month. If after half a month, she can't change Second Young Master's mind, she'll leave, and the marriage will be off, okay?"

"This..." Christopher looked at Alitzel Williams, his gaze carrying a bit of inquiry.

Ever since he angered Alitzel last time and was 'isolated' by the family, Christopher has been somewhat afraid.

Afraid that if he made any more decisions, he'd anger the whole family and end up being criticized from both inside and outside.

Alitzel frowned slightly, given that the Winton Family said this, they couldn't say not to let Emma stay in Emperor Capital.

Christopher asking her was just throwing the problem her way, Alitzel squeezed the corners of her eyes, indicating that he should find a way to refuse himself.

Christopher took Alitzel's look as agreement, so he said, "Alright, let's do it that way."

"Dad!" Wyatt Lewis was almost furious.

Owen Winton laughed heartily, looking confidently at his daughter.

His daughter was so outstanding, he didn't believe there was anyone she couldn't win over.

"Alright, it's decided."

Alitzel slapped her forehead, gave Christopher a glaring look.

Christopher tilted his head in confusion.

Wasn't it her who agreed? Why does she glare at him?

This woman is really hard to deal with!

Lunch time arrived, and out of courtesy, Christopher invited Owen Winton and Emma to stay for lunch.

The two naturally accepted.

Hope first fed Baby before carrying upstairs, then called Luke and Willow to come down for lunch. Seeing Aria lost in thought, Hope went over and gently patted her shoulder, "Aria."

"Ah?" Aria reacted, hurriedly continuing with her actions, "What's up?"

Hope gently pressed her lips, "Shouldn't I be the one asking you?"

"Don't take what Emma said to heart. You've been through a lot with Wyatt, his love for you, we've all seen it. Don't think about whether you're a good match, he loves you, so you're a good match. Dad, Mom, Grandpa all support you two."

Aria collected the emotions in her eyes, lightly nodded, "Okay, I wasn't affected by her, don't worry."

Hope seeing her like this was really unable to be reassured.

Luke raised his head, looking at the two and asked, "Mommy, Godmother, what are you two whispering about? Can we listen?"

"We're talking about when your Godmother and your Second Uncle can be together."

Willow blinked her large innocent eyes, "Godmother and Second Uncle are going to get married? If Godmother and Second Uncle get married, should we be calling Second Uncle Godfather?"
