Chapter 891: Chapter 891: Asking Liam Cloud to Teach Horseback Riding

When Aria Richardson turned around, Emma Winton had already dismounted and left. Aria watched Emma's departing figure and gently lowered her eyes.

Not far away, a few men dressed in equestrian attire walked over, and when Aria turned around, her gaze coincidentally met theirs.

One of the men walked up to Aria, a smile of appreciation on his handsome, refined face, "Hello, congratulations on winning the competition. You looked really cool riding the horse just now."

Aria responded with a polite smile, "Thank you."

"My name is Dylan Patel, can I get your contact information?" The man looked at her with a hint of anticipation.

Aria immediately waved her hand, "I'm sorry..."

Suddenly, her shoulder was pulled over by a large hand. Aria was startled, glancing at the person who had arrived next to her without her noticing.

Wyatt Lewis gave Dylan Patel a not-so-friendly smile, "Sorry, my girlfriend doesn't like adding strangers' contact information."

After saying that, Wyatt Lewis tugged Aria away unceremoniously.

Aria looked at his cold and angry expression, pursed her lips, pulled out a slight smile, and turned back to nod slightly at Dylan Patel, "Sorry."

Dylan Patel also nodded lightly, watching the direction the two left, and gave a faint smile.

Wyatt Lewis lifted a hand to pinch her chin, turning her head back, "Don't look at him."

Aria looked up and scanned Wyatt Lewis's expression, chuckled softly, "What's the matter? Are you jealous?"

"What do you think?"

Aria raised an eyebrow, "Just jealous over this? Emma is always thinking about replacing me and marrying you, I haven't been jealous or felt wronged, plus the guy was just appreciating me with no other intentions, why are you so excited?"

Wyatt Lewis stared at Aria, silent for a moment. Regarding the Emma matter, he indeed let her feel wronged, but the man just now obviously showed interest in her.

"Let's go." Wyatt Lewis pulled Aria away with a stern face, blocking her view.

"Hey? What are you doing? I can't see."

"Too dazzling, block it a bit."

"Pfft..." Aria laughed, too dazzling, blocking it a bit was how ridiculous.

Hope Williams watched the two, couldn't help but smile.

Everyone has their strengths and weaknesses; Aria's strengths don't lie in arts like music and painting, but in her domain, she is the most dazzling.

"Seems like I missed some excitement."

Liam Cloud suddenly appeared and bent down to sit on the chair next to Waylon Lewis.

Waylon Lewis glanced at him, "Weren't you not coming?"

"Who said I'm not coming? It's boring, so I came over for some fun. Just right, going back in a few days, don't know when I'll return to the Emperor Capital, can't just stay at home."

Hope Williams sat up a bit straighter, "When?"

"What? Reluctant to part with me?" Liam Cloud gave a faint smile.

Waylon Lewis, "Who's reluctant to part with you?!"

Liam Cloud let out a slight snort, lazily adjusted his cuffs, and glanced at the two, "Aren't you here to play? Just sitting?"

Hope Williams, "Just watched a wonderful competition, you're late, and didn't see it."

Liam Cloud laughed indifferently, "Is that so, that's a shame."

He stood up, "Haven't ridden a horse in a long time, going to give it a try."

After saying that, he went to choose a horse, heading towards the horse riding arena.

Zoey Sanders had just gone to the restroom and on returning, saw Liam Cloud standing next to a black horse in the riding arena. His silver hair glinted in the sunlight; he wore a cool and handsome black riding suit, exuding more wildness and charisma.

At this moment, there was no expression on his stunning face, with a chill between his deep brows that covered it, with an air that made people dare not offend.

Such a man was undoubtedly captivating.

Zoey Sanders couldn't help but glance a few more times.

Suddenly, the back of her head was slapped, causing Zoey Sanders's head to lean forward in surprise, "Damn!"

"Seeing this person, you can't even walk straight?"

Zoey Sanders closed her eyes, took a deep breath to calm down, then turned around and punched Joseph Sanders.

Joseph Sanders firmly caught her fist, laughed, "That's the only move you know."

Zoey Sanders gritted her teeth in anger, lifted her foot to harshly stomp on Joseph Sanders's toe.

Joseph Sanders let out a painful howl, "Trying to murder your brother?"

"Serves you right, hitting me."

Joseph Sanders glanced towards Liam Cloud, then looked at his sister, "I was preventing you from becoming infatuated."

"Not your concern." Zoey Sanders grumbled at him angrily.

Joseph Sanders shook his head speechlessly, "Little girl, your temper is really strong, won't realize till you hit a wall, really hard to manage."

Hope Williams watched Zoey Sanders walk over angrily, asked, "What's wrong?"

"My brother's so annoying."

Hope Williams watched this pair of siblings enter a state of ignoring each other again, smiled helplessly, "You two have good sibling bonds."

"Who has good bonds with him?"

Zoey Sanders muttered softly, watching Liam Cloud's figure, her pretty eyes sparkled again, she shyly leaned towards Hope Williams, "Aunt Williams, can I trouble you with something?"

"Go ahead."

"I want to learn to ride a horse."

Hope Williams blinked, glanced at Waylon Lewis, "You want him to teach you?"

Hope Williams herself didn't know how to ride a horse. Was this little girl Zoey seeking her help because she was embarrassed to ask Waylon Lewis directly, thus wanting Hope to request Waylon to teach her?

"No, no." Zoey quickly shook her head, pointed in Liam Cloud's direction, "Him."

Hope Williams glanced at Liam Cloud, then at Zoey. At this moment, she hadn't yet realized the girl's feelings, only thought she admired Liam Cloud's skilled and stylish riding, plus had just argued with Joseph Sanders, so she wanted Liam to teach her.

Hope Williams hesitated for a moment, then nodded, "I can ask for you, but he may not agree."

"Thank you, Aunt Williams."

Hope Williams smiled gently, and at this moment, Liam Cloud had just reined in his horse, stopping. Hope Williams walked over, and Zoey quickly followed.

Liam Cloud dismounted, adjusted the gloves in his hands, glanced at Hope Williams, and then at Zoey behind her, "What's up?"

"Zoey would like you to teach her to ride a horse, do you have time?"

Zoey anxiously glanced at Liam Cloud.

Liam Cloud lightly glanced at Zoey.

"Sure."

He agreed?

The agreement came too easily, Zoey found it peculiar.

Hope Williams glanced at Liam Cloud, feeling that he agreed a bit too quickly. Oh well, maybe he was in a good mood today.

"Then practice well together."

Zoey smiled up at Liam Cloud, "Sorry to trouble you."

Liam Cloud slightly raised an eyebrow, "Get on the horse."

Why did this feel off? Zoey mentally prepared herself.

Maybe his aura was just too cold, causing this illusion, but could he really do anything to her? He couldn't possibly use her to feed the horse, could he?

No way, no way.

Liam Cloud glanced at her, stepped aside.

Zoey grabbed the saddle, deftly swung herself onto the horse.

The posture didn't seem like someone who hasn't learned to ride before...

Liam Cloud's eyes flashed with a hint of understanding.

Zoey blinked her eyes, and the next moment, the man swiftly and cleanly mounted the horse, his unique aura sweeping over.

In an instant, Zoey trembled all over, her heart pounding nervously at this moment.

Liam Cloud reached out to grasp the reins, in a semi-embracing posture, Zoey's heart beat even more uncontrollably.

Liam Cloud seemed to sense the emotions of the person in front.

"Are you scared?"

Zoey clenched her teeth, she wasn't scared of riding the horse, it was just the cold aura of the person behind making her nervous.

"Not scared, just a bit nervous."

Liam Cloud chuckled, carelessly responding.

Uncertain what that laugh meant, Zoey inexplicably felt a chill behind her.
