

SHE MADE A COMEBACK AS A RENOWNED DOCTOR

Chapter 997: 997: Caught

Chapter 997: Chapter 997: Caught

Felix Shaw really wasn't sure what this person was afraid of, but based on her experience, there was definitely something shady going on in this person's mind.

Felix Shaw strode out.

Nora Brown quickly turned off Zoey Sanders' phone, then hid it away and used her chopsticks to poke the white rice in front of her.

Based on Felix Shaw's attitude just now, she probably hadn't checked the other contents of the phone, so she hadn't discovered her false identity.

But continuing like this was definitely not going to work.

Too dangerous.

She was to be sent back tomorrow, and that couldn't happen.

Nora Brown looked up at the luxurious manor and couldn't bear to leave it.

She had to find a way to stay and meet that silver-haired man, and find a way to win him over.

"Hey." Nora Brown looked at a nearby servant, "Let me ask you a question, what kind of woman does your Big Boss like?"

The servant looked up at her and thought silently: definitely not someone like you.

But the servant naturally wouldn't say that and just replied, "I don't know."

Nora Brown scoffed, “You don’t know? Hasn’t your Big Boss ever brought any women back here?”

“He has.”

“Who?”

“It was Miss Williams.”

Hope Williams was the only woman Liam Cloud had ever brought back.

Nora Brown snorted indifferently, “Hope Williams? She already married President Lewis.”

The wedding of Hope Williams and Waylon Lewis was exceptionally grand, and anyone who paid attention knew them.

“Let me ask you, who do you think looks better, me or her?” Nora Brown held her chin and looked at the servant.

The servant was taken aback for a moment, “You mean between you and who?”

“That Hope Williams.” Nora Brown said, puffing up her chest and striking a pose.

The servant couldn’t help but cover their mouth and laugh quietly.

Where did she get the courage to compare herself to Hope Williams?

“I’m asking you a question here, what are you laughing at?”

The servant’s laughter directly made Nora Brown feel insulted, and her face changed drastically.

The servant pressed their lips together and could only say, “You both have your own beauty.”

This answer clearly didn't satisfy Nora Brown, who pursed her lips.

...

Zoey Sanders, hiding and dodging, was still caught. Two men approached her and immediately said, "You're not one of us here."

Hearing this, Zoey Sanders' heart skipped a beat, but she had to nod and admit, "Yes, I'm here looking for someone."

With so many eyes watching just now, Zoey Sanders didn't dare mention Liam Cloud's name directly.

"Looking for someone? Let me see your Bypass."

Again with the Bypass!

Zoey Sanders immediately felt something was wrong.

She didn't have a Bypass and was caught by the patrol, it felt like being caught by a teacher at the school gate for not having an ID badge — but tens of thousands of times scarier.

Because without a Bypass, she'd be considered an intruder and captured.

Zoey Sanders felt a wave of fear.

"Hurry up, show us your Bypass."

Zoey Sanders nervously wrung her hands. These guys looked fiercer than the ones at the gate, and Zoey didn't want to be caught.

"Look, it's Liam Cloud."

Zoey Sanders pointed behind them and shouted, taking the chance to run while they were distracted.

The two quickly realized.

“There’s a suspect, chase her.”

The two men immediately chased after Zoey Sanders.

Zoey Sanders ran forward with all her might, faster than she’d ever run in her life.

But her speed was still too far behind theirs, and as she turned a corner, she didn’t notice someone walking her way and bumped right into them.

“Ah... ouch...” Zoey Sanders winced, clutching her forehead in pain.

The person behind her didn’t hesitate to detain her right away.

Zoey Sanders was panicked, “Don’t catch me, I’m not a bad person, I’m really just here looking for someone.”

The man she bumped into furrowed his eyebrows and looked down at the woman on the ground, his gaze slowly shifting to the knife that had fallen to the ground.

The man immediately bent down to pick it up.

Seeing this, Zoey Sanders immediately lunged forward to snatch the knife back, "Give it back to me, it's mine."

The man raised his hand slightly, the knife still securely gripped in his palm. He looked down at the knife for a few seconds, then looked at Zoey Sanders and asked, "You said it's yours?"

"It fell from me, unless it's yours?"

Zoey Sanders retorted, feeling that today was the absolute worst, like drinking cold water and having it stuck in her teeth, she was simply out of patience.

The man chuckled, continuing to clutch the knife in his hand, but his gaze swept over the two patrolmen, "What's her deal?"

“Master Frost, she claims she’s looking for someone but doesn’t have a Bypass, so we stopped her, and she tried to flee.”

No Bypass meant she was an outsider, an intruder.

“I see.” The man curled his lips, squatted down leisurely, and looked at Zoey Sanders, “Miss, why don’t you tell me, who are you looking for?”

“I’m looking... looking for Liam Cloud.”

The man raised a brow, “Looking for the Big Boss? Ha, who do you think you are to claim you’re looking for the Big Boss, and where did you steal this knife from?”

“I’m looking for him because I know him, he saved my life, and as for this knife, it wasn’t stolen, someone gave it to me.”

“Someone gave it to you?” The man chuckled, his eyes suddenly sharp the next second.

Zoey Sanders froze in her breath.

A knife suddenly pressed against her neck, and the man curled his lips sinisterly, “You brat, tell the truth, or I’ll slice you.”

Zoey Sanders shivered slightly, were all the people here this terrifying?