Read A Divorce After My Rebirth Chapter 801

Chapter 801 Where You Belong Christina had utterly lost all rational thoughts. She stood up, intending to say something hysterical to Natalie when scalding coffee splashed onto her face.

When she regained her clarity, she glared at Natalie with hatred.

"Natalie!" "Do you see it?" Natalie asked.

In the past, Christina had constantly reminded Natalie of the gap between their status. Ever since Natalie married Cedric and entered the doors of the Johnson family, everyone there repeatedly reminded her of it.

IT can do whatever I want to you now, including splashing coffee on you. And you? There's not even a cup of coffee before you, even if you wanted one!" That meant Christina didn't even have a way to retaliate now.

Christina was speechless, and her mind went blank. She couldn't process what was happening at all.

She hadn't expected this...! When Natalie first left Verde City, she hadn't been this overbearing. Now, Natalie seemed like a stranger to Christina.

Natalie stood like a queen on a higher ground, disdainful of everything.

Those who used to look down on her now seemed like an ant in front of her.

"Go back to where you belong. You're s /11 acting like a clown now." A clown? : Christina's heart trembled even more violently when she heard Natalie's words. She would never admit to acting that way, but it seemed like she had reached that point where she couldn't even change herself.

"You say I'm a clown...?" "Even clowns have more dignity than you. I don't know if I should call you foolish or courageous to humiliate yourself in front of me." Christina had never been associated with those words before, but now Natalie was directing them all at her.

Did it hurt?

Of course, it did! For Christina, this was more than just pain. Her heart was in turmoil. Rebecca had treated Christina like her own daughter, so nobody had ever dared use such words to describe her! "Natalie, I hate you!" "Hah!" All she got in response was Natalie's cold laughter.

"I won't let you off. One day, I'll crush you under my feet!" Christina screamed.

"Go back and dream on!" Only those who had completely lost confidence in themselves would end up like that.

Christina's tantrum was like a clown act to Natalie.

Christina once thought she had Natalie under her foot, but was it really so? Christina left Westhill Enclave in a daze. She felt chilled to her bones. She thought she could remain out of prison, but she was wrong.

Was she meant to stay in there forever? She looked up and said mournfully, "Why?" Her eyes were filled with pain as she watched the bleak sky. She tried so hard to cater to everyone's tastes and live well.

Why did this happen to her? It seemed like nothing mattered anymore!

Why was heaven so cruel to her? There was a suffocating pain in { Christina's chest. At this moment, she murmured in a tone filled with hatred, ""Natalie, I'll never forgive you..." When Austin returned with Luna, Natalie was arranging flowers, looking relaxed.

Even though Christina was gone and there was no trace of her confrontation with Natalie, Austin knew everything.

you've been acting more like a father lately," Natalie said, feeling a strange sensation inside.

Austin smiled at her words.

"I'm honored by your assessment," he said as he looked into Natalie's eyes with endless indulgence.

Facing such tenderness from the man, Natalie momentarily found herself speechless.

Austin handed Luna over to the nanny.

Then, he approached Natalie, taking the roses from her hands and carefully removing the thorns.

"Women's hands are delicate. Be careful not to scratch yourself." "I'm not that delicate." Natalie retorted.

Those who knew how she had lived before would know that she wasn't delicate at all.

Austin sat beside Natalie and added some roses to Natalie's arrangement, skillfully enhancing its beauty.

"Do you also know how to arrange flowers?" Natalie asked.

"I can do everything you can," Austin replied.

Natalie couldn't help but wonder if this was the same man everyone used to think was foolish. At least in Natalie's eyes, Austin was far from foolish.

She wondered how he used to view those people around him.

"Do you know how long I studied this before?" she asked.

Back then, she had worked hard at something she didn't particularly like.

Flower arranging seemed beautiful and leisurely, but it was never Natalie's preference.

Austin raised an eyebrow. "When a person is doing something they don't like, it always takes a long time. You don't like flower arranging, do you?" "No, I don't." Even though she knew how to make beautiful arrangements like the one before her, she still didn't like it.

When Austin heard this, he was a little stunned. But then he said, "If you don't like it, don't do it in the future." Natalie fell silent. Upon hearing this, she looked at Austin. Something stirred in her heart, and she took a deep breath to suppress the heaviness in her chest.

"Alright."

Yes, it was all in the past.

She could forget everything she { disliked, just like her past. With that thought in mind, Natalie didn't hesitate to throw the freshly arranged flowers into the trash.

Austin watched her decisive action, and his smile widened. "Yeah, just like that." She should have a decisive attitude when dealing with things she didn't like.

Natalie smiled.

Then, Austin said, "Cedric has been discharged." "Is that so? It seems his injuries weren't serious." Was she too gentle when she had made her move? However, she hadn't been gentle. It { was Cedric who was tormenting himself in this way. Because of his eye surgery, he had to endure the pain from his injuries without any painkillers.

Austin hugged her and said, "I'll make sure he leaves Dawnvale as soon as possible." Natalie fell silent.

Yes, it was time for Cedric to leave.

Rebecca and Christina had been here today.

Now, Austin ordered that even dogs from the Johnson family were not allowed to enter Westhill Enclave.

Chapter 802 Zane and Bianca Rebecca was anxious upon learning of Cedric's hospital discharge. Due to his severe injuries and recent eye surgery, leaving the hospital was unwise.

What if there were complications? However, she knew deep down that no one could persuade Cedric to do otherwise besides Natalie. So, after numerous failed attempts to convince Cedric, Rebecca was again at Westhill | Enclave's entrance.

However, things were different this time.

This time, she wasn't allowed in.

"Why won't you let me in? I won't do anything," Rebecca protested.

Was it because Natalie didn't want to see her? That must be the reason. If Natalie hadn't given such orders, why would these people prevent her from entering? "Guards!" The gatekeeper's face darkened, indicating he had no intention of discussing matters with Rebecca further, nor would he allow her to cause a scene here.

Seeing the gatekeeper calling the guards over, Rebecca knew what they would do to her! A suffocating feeling overwhelmed her heart.

"I just want to see your lady..."

Rebecca said.

To think that now Natalie, who was once her least favored daughter-in-law, had to be addressed with such respect...! The gatekeeper stood firm like iron, showing no signs of yielding. He simply said, "Our lady dislikes disturbances. Leave immediately!" Those words felt like needles piercing Rebecca's heart, intensifying her sense of humiliation.

Kyle's people had taken Christina away to Verde City, and now all Rebecca wanted was for Cedric to be all right.

She was willing to do anything to get him to return to the hospital.

But now, Natalie didn't even want to see her.

Rebecca had once trampled Natalie underfoot, and now... Natalie's indifference made her feel so helpless.

Rebecca stood outside the gate for a long time. The cold rain fell on her body, and she shivered. However, the gatekeeper still wouldn't let her in.

Then, she saw with her own eyes as Austin returned with Luna.

Luna was in Austin's arms, happily licking a large lollipop. She looked adorable and content.

"Natalie..." At that moment, Rebecca felt desolate.

She had driven Natalie away, and in doing so, she had driven away her granddaughter. Now, her granddaughter was in another man's arms, calling him "Daddy." And Rebecca...

She had always said she had nothing left in this world. But now, it seemed that her son was the one who was truly left with nothing because of her manipulations, right? In the afternoon, Natalie made some desserts.

Austin noticed that Natalie's favorite activity since coming here was cooking. She was actually a simple person. Because she loved to eat, her desserts turned out quite well.

"Mommy," Luna quickly ran to Natalie and reached out.

Natalie handed her a small cookie.

"Here, try this." Natalie's eyes were tender. She had no idea Rebecca had waited for her outside all afternoon in the rain.

Austin had completely blocked those kinds of unpleasant interruptions outside. No matter how miserable the people outside were, it had nothing to do with Natalie. And he could see that Natalie had no interest in getting involved in those matters.

Natalie was making every effort to sever ties with her past. Since he promised to protect her, he naturally wouldn't let those people and matters disturb her again.

"Wow, it's delicious!" Luna exclaimed as she ate Natalie's cookies, her little face lighting up with happiness.

Natalie picked up a cookie from the plate and offered it to Austin. "Would you like some?" From what she recalled, men generally didn't eat sweets. Whenever she cooked or baked, the one who most enjoyed them was Bianca. Every time Natalie was feeling down, she would buy a lot of groceries and cook a big meal at Bianca's place to lift her spirits.

"Of course." Austin took Natalie's wrist and ate directly from her hand.

Natalie was speechless, and her face instantly flushed red! "What are you doing?" Natalie protested.

This man was really something!

Her fingers were wet and sticky, and she could still feel the warmth of his lips.

"Luna is here..." "When children have proper guidance on how a harmonious family is supposed to be, they'll know how to love someone and understand what it feels like to be loved." Natalie was speechless.

This man...! However, she couldn't deny that understanding how to love someone and what it meant to be loved was a profound topic.

Up until now, she hadn't fully grasped it, resulting in her getting hurt repeatedly.

Was Cedric reluctant to let go like this? Of course he was! He didn't give up, no matter how much he was hurt. But Natalie hadn't seen him again since that day on the mountaintop.

She didn't respond to his messages, and his calls had been blocked. He had also been blacklisted on WhatsApp.

He couldn't send anything out. The only person he could meet now to get in contact with her was Austin, her current husband! Once, Natalie loved him so intensely that she could endure facing Isabella when she was by his side.

Now, he did the same.

However, Natalie was even more ruthless. She didn't even see him anymore.

In Simeria, the Entes family was now under Zane's complete control.

The other members of the Entes family gradually left Simeria. Regardless of how unwilling they were and how they had planned over the years, everything had ended completely.

It was time for those who had lost to leave! Malcolm was the first to leave.

Bianca was talking to Natalie on the phone. "It's okay, Nat. Don't worry about me."

"I only considered the grudges between you and Malcolm before. I didn't expect there would be so many other things afterward." Thinking about what Bianca had to face now, Natalie felt uneasy and unsure what to say.

Bianca fell silent.

It was over! But were things between her and Malcolm really over? She had retaliated heavily against the grievances between them before.

Who knew what awaited her now? "Are you still living in Verdant Villa?" Natalie asked before Bianca could speak.

And at the mention of the villa, in Bianca's heart sank.

"Yeah," she responded dully, feeling a mix of emotions.

Upon hearing that Bianca was still living at the same place, Natalie couldn't help but feel her heart sink.

Zane had been in control of the Entes family for half a month now, so why was Bianca still at Verdant Villa?

Chapter 803 Lord Malcolm's Threat | What did that mean? It meant that everything Austin mentioned to Natalie before was undoubtedly already underway...! The Entes family elders, who previously supported Zane's inheritance of the family, had begun discussing suitable candidates to be his queen.

That was why Bianca couldn't move to Entes Manor right now.

When Natalie thought about this, she became even more worried. "Bia..." Natalie knew about the situation in Simeria despite being in Dawnvale, but Bianca was in the thick of it!

Natalie didn't need to ask if Bianca was aware of her situation.

When Bianca heard Natalie's concern, her heart softened, and she said, "It's okay, Nat. You know why I'm with him." "What will you do now?" "There's nothing I can do but wait," Bianca said.

"Wait..." For what? The outcome? After all these years, Bianca finally landed the final blow on Malcolm in retaliation for their grievances. So, what she was waiting for now naturally pertained to the outcome with Zane.

"Yeah, I'll wait."

| "What do you mean?" "I'll wait and see what he says. We got together because of a contract. Have you forgotten?" Did Bianca mean she would accept ~ whatever outcome just because their relationship had started in such a manner? Natalie felt pained at Bianca's acceptance of the situation and deeply sorry for her best friend. In Verde City, Bianca had worked hard to reach her position, and everything was fine.

But who would have thought that Malcolm would destroy everything? This was the most heart-wrenching aspect! "It's okay. Don't feel too bad, okay?" "Can you really let go?" Natalie asked.

"If you can let go, why can't I?" Bianca asked bitterly.

This time, Natalie fell silent.

That was true. Natalie had let go of two lifetimes. It had been challenging, but she had done it as she said she would.

So, what was Bianca's situation compared to that? Wouldn't it be easier for Bianca to let go? "Bia!" Natalie said tersely.

"Alright, let's leave it at that for now." Bianca didn't want to hear Natalie's worries. In her opinion, one should be calm when facing life. Previously, she had seen how many people clung to each other in her workplace, only to end up in vain.

She knew there was no need to drag things out like that.

No matter how reluctant a person felt, one had to preserve their dignity until the end if it was necessary to let go.

After Bianca hung up Natalie's call, her world fell silent.

After a few minutes, her phone vibrated. She had received a message.

She opened it and saw an old black- and-white picture of an infant.

She couldn't discern its significance but noted that it was Malcolm who had sent this photo. She frowned, Before she could think further, her phone vibrated again.

This time, it was a call from Malcolm.

Bianca accepted the call. Before Malcolm could say anything, she coldly asked, "What's the meaning of this?" "The person in the photo is you," Malcolm replied.

Bianca fell silent.

That was her? "What do you mean?" "Do you recognize the necklace in the picture?" A necklace? She abruptly ended Malcolm's call and scrutinized the photo again. She hadn't noticed anything before, thinking it was just an unimportant child's photo.

But now, as she opened it again and saw the necklace around the child's neck, her eyes widened, and her heart clenched.

That... was the same necklace she had! She stiffened at the thought, and a cold sweat broke out on her back.

Was this...? This time, she dialed Malcolm's number. Since their interactions began, she had rarely initiated contact with him. Back then, she seemed indifferent to whatever he did.

However, she had been lying in wait, waiting for the opportunity to strike back. So, there was no need for them to be in contact. All there was between them was endless hysteria.

Malcolm was quick to answer her call.

When she heard only his heavy breathing through the phone, she suppressed her emotions as best as possible and asked, "Where did you get the photo from?" She took several deep breaths to calm herself before she successfully pushed away the suffocating feeling in her chest.

"Do you really want to know?" Bianca fell silent.

Of course, she did! During her years in Verde City, Natalie admired Bianca's resilience but didn't know why she was so determined.

It was because Bianca had no choice but to strive. She had always wanted to know who her mother was, meaning she had never seen her mother since she was a child.

The only person Bianca had was her grandmother, who was always ill and dependent on medication. There were no childhood photos at home, and she couldn't find any trace of herself.

Before her grandmother passed away, she handed Bianca a necklace and told her that her mother had left it for her.

However, when Bianca tried to ask her grandmother where her mother had gone, the older woman had passed on.

So, the topic of Bianca's mother became an unsolvable mystery.

When Bianca returned to her hometown to investigate, the neighbors said they had only ever met her father. None of them had seen her mother, so they didn't know what she looked like.

"How can I be sure the person in the photo is me?" Bianca asked flatly.

In fact, Bianca had tried to find out more over the years. But even with Natalie's connections, she hadn't found anything.

Yet now, Malcolm had...! "If you weren't sure, why did you call me back?" Malcolm shot back.

"Do you know the photo's origin?" Bianca asked with the same flat tone.

If she knew its origin, it would make the investigation much easier! "Naturally," Malcolm replied.

"Where is it from?" Bianca's tone grew tighter as the conversation progressed.

Malcolm paused before continuing, "If you want to know, stay by his side from now on and..." Malcolm trailed off, and Bianca's heart raced as if it were about to burst.

Bianca fell silent.

At his words, she felt like she was suffocating!

Chapter 804 The Difference Between Wife and Queen Bianca took several deep breaths but couldn't suppress the heaviness in her heart. When she next spoke, she couldn't quite conceal her emotions.

"What are you up to?" Bianca asked.

"Behave yourself, alright?" Malcolm responded.

At that moment, Bianca's patience snapped. "Go to hell!" Malcolm chuckled at Bianca's outburst, his laughter tinged with irony.

"Bianca, the trouble you've stirred up for me will come at a cost, don't you think?" he taunted.

Trouble? Yes! Malcolm had spent years planning to take control of the entire Entes family.

Despite being considered the most likely successor, Bianca managed to disrupt everything.

"What if I don't want to?" Bianca was not someone who could be easily threatened. Once she found an opportunity to strike back, she would crush her opponent without hesitation.

Just as Malcolm had used cunning to suppress her, he had ultimately faced her fierce resistance.

But this time, Bianca's actions had crossed the limit of Malcolm's patience, In such a case, how could he let her off easily now? "Then get ready to leave Simeria. I'll tear you apart completely once you do," he threatened.

n n "And you'll never know who the photo belonged to." When Bianca heard this, she closed her eyes. No one knew what turmoil her heart was experiencing right now.

Everyone had secrets, big or small, and Bianca was no exception! She took a deep breath and asked, "Are you sure this photo is related to me?" "I'll send you some documents tomorrow at this time." Before Bianca could respond, Malcolm easily now? "Then get ready to leave Simeria. I'll tear you apart completely once you do," he threatened.

n n * "And you'll never know who the photo belonged to." When Bianca heard this, she closed her eyes. No one knew what turmoil her heart was experiencing right now.

Everyone had secrets, big or small, and Bianca was no exception! She took a deep breath and asked, "Are you sure this photo is related to me?" "I'll send you some documents tomorrow at this time." Before Bianca could respond, Malcolm hung up, leaving her to listen to the dial tone in frustration.

Bianca felt like smashing the phone.

She got up, changed her clothes, and headed out. Neil was downstairs when she came down.

"Are you going out?" he asked respectfully.

"Yes." "Shall I arrange for a driver?" "No need." Bianca shook her head and left directly.

For the past half month, Zane had completely taken control of the entire Entes family, but he hadn't returned to Verdant Villa once.

The servants' attitudes towards her had subtly changed, perhaps due to Zane's influence, just as Natalie had feared when she heard Bianca was still living there.

Only Neil treated her with the same respect.

The elders who supported Zane had already begun choosing suitable candidates.

However, Bianca was still legally Zane's wife.

What would happen to her? Well, that didn't matter.

Bianca was prepared to accept whatever outcome. With this thought in mind, she felt a little better.

She stopped the car at a computer shop. Then, she approached the counter and asked a specialist, "Can you tell me if this photo is fabricated?" The specialist took her phone and examined it carefully, even connecting it to a computer port for analysis.

Afterward, the specialist returned the phone to Bianca and said, "There are no traces of manipulation on the photo. The time it was taken is here..." Bianca fell silent.

So, the photo was real...! Bianca was already upset, and her heart sank further upon the confirmation. Eventually, Bianca got back to the car. The sound of traffic outside couldn't drown out the turmoil in her heart.

Her father's final words about her mother flashed in her mind.

"She loves you. She didn't know I took you back to our hometown, so don't blame her when you meet again." What had happened between them ~ back then? Why did she have no memories of her mother? Her father had passed away, and so had her grandmother. Bianca was left with nothing but loneliness in her world.

In Verde City, she had seen many couples separate for various reasons, but she never knew why her parents parted ways.

And now...

What did all of this mean? In the end, she returned to Verdant | Villa in a daze. When Neil saw her, his | eyes were filled with worry.

"Lady Bianca!" "What's wrong?" "Lord Zane called and said you should stay indoors for a while." Stay indoors? Zane was at Entes Manor while she was at Verdant Villa. With how he acted towards her, shouldn't she be safe here? Bianca felt somewhat suffocated when she thought about this. Now that things with Malcolm were over for good, she initially just needed to wait for Zane's decision regarding her.

But who would have thought that Malcolm would do this? Back in her room, Bianca dialed Malcolm's number, but the man didn't pick up. After three consecutive calls with no response, Bianca threw the phone away in frustration.

She stood rooted to the spot with her eyes closed, but hiding the icy atmosphere around her was impossible. Despite this, her entire being exuded a profound heaviness.

Did she want to know? In fact, her father's attitude back then made it clear he didn't hate her mother! And according to how Bianca's grandmother acted, the older woman obviously didn't even know her mother.

Bianca had no idea how she came into this world, in what form, or what happened between her father and mother. So, she couldn't say whether she hated her mother or not. Bianca just wanted to find her and ask what really happened.

Soon after, Lorraine arrived at Verdant Villa.

Her twin brother, Lancelot Entes, had left Simeria. But Lorraine, being a girl, was allowed to remain.

"Do you know what the manor means in Simeria?" Lorraine asked while they ate dinner.

Upon hearing this, Bianca paused and remained silent. Clearly, she wanted to avoid continuing this topic or knowing what kind of existence the manor represented, Lorraine glanced at Bianca and continued, "Only by becoming the queen of the Entes family can you, Zane, and your children live in that place." At this, Bianca looked at Lorraine and asked, "Can't a legal wife do that?" Lorraine explained, "The position of a wife and queen is not the same in the Entes family." "Why are you telling me this?" Bianca asked.

Everyone from the Entes family who had lost in the battle to become the patriarch had left Simeria. Whether they were at odds with each other before this, those days were now over.

"I was worried that you would be waiting in vain, If you want to be with Zane, you have to take action," Lorraine elaborated.

Action? What kind of action? Did Lorraine mean that after fighting to become the Entes family head, even the position of the queen... had to be taken by force?

Chapter 805 Seraphine Holly Bianca had never thought about obtaining that position, but after Malcolm's call today, she probably...

When Malcolm was in control, he always went straight for the goal. So, it was easy to guess what he wanted now! "Lorraine." "Yes?" "Thanks for letting me know." "You're welcome!" Lorraine didn't say anything further.

She genuinely liked Bianca. Moreover, there were no vested interests between Bianca and her, so this liking came from the heart.

After all, the other members of the Entes family had entered the family to gain benefits. That was all they were focused on.

Bianca was the only exception! "Do you know who their candidate is now?" Bianca asked.

Since Lorraine was here and asking her all these questions, Bianca assumed Lorraine probably already knew.

Sure enough, Lorraine looked at Bianca with sharp eyes filled with admiration.

"Of course." "Who is it?" "The Holly family's daughter,

0 *15 BONUS Seraphine Holly." "The Holly family?" "Yes n Bianca naturally knew the family Lorraine was talking about. They were low-key in Simeria, but their status was on par with the Jarvis family! Although the two families were involved in different fields, their importance to Simeria was absolutely the same.

"Before Zane got the seal and the documents, the Holly family supported him a lot behind the scenes." n "n "So now, Ms. Holly has become the expected candidate for the queen." Before Bianca could speak, Lorraine Vi tated \ Ad added, "So, it depends on you now..." Having witnessed such complex situations before, Lorraine now had some worries about Bianca.

As for Bianca, she felt an impulse to retreat when she heard it was the Holly family.

"What does Zane think about it?" When Bianca mentioned him, she felt a hint of bitterness in her heart. After all, that man was her husband on paper.

But now, in these matters, she had to rely on external sources for information.

When Bianca asked this question, Lorraine tensed up.

"Well... you'll have to ask Zane about it." Apparently, there was an issue there! The way Lorraine and Bianca saw things was clearly different. In ~ Lorraine's eyes, Zane's opinion wasn't the problem here.

Bianca nodded. "Okay, I understand." After Lorraine left, Bianca sat at the dining table, lost in thought for a long time. She hardly touched the food in front of her.

Her phone flashed with the announcement of tonight's grand charity gala. There was a picture of Zane, and he was dazzling like stars under the light. The woman beside him had a fox fur shawl wrapped around her, and she resembled a gleaming moon.

"Lady Bianca," Neil called out as he stepped forward.

Bianca snapped back to reality. "What sit?" "Lord Zane asked if you've decided what you want." Bianca's heart sank at Neil's words.

What did he mean by asking what she wanted now, at this moment? The implication was clear.

Bianca took several deep breaths but couldn't shake off the heaviness in her chest. "So, does that mean he wants me to leave Simeria?"

Neil remained silent, and that silence spoke volumes. Bianca closed her eyes, feeling a turmoil of emotions in her heart.

What did she want? She had never considered it before. But now, her mind raced, anticipating the challenges ahead.

Before Malcolm's call, she had thought that no matter Zane's decision, she would leave with dignity, accepting whatever fate awaited her.

But now...

The prospect of her future suffocated her.

"Tell him I want to see him," she said in a tense voice.

Neil replied, "Lord Zane said this is the best arrangement for you, so..." So what? Neil trailed off, but Bianca understood what he meant. Zane had made it clear he didn't want to meet her when he decided on this outcome.

"Just tell him it's my final request," Bianca insisted.

It had been half a month. She hadn't expected Zane to end things this way.

And now...

"Alright." Neil sighed, seeing Bianca's determination. He called Zane and conveyed the situation.

Bianca didn't know what the discussion entailed, but Neil returned to her side after the call and said, "Lord Zane mentioned he's unavailable for the next few days." No time these days, huh? "It's okay, I'll wait for him," Bianca said, her tone heavy.

She would have immediately left if Zane had decided such an outcome before Malcolm's call.

But now, things were different.

5 Bianca's mind was in complete disarray.

Malcolm had shattered her world, and she had torn the man's world to shreds.

And now? Malcolm had caught her off guard with this retaliation! For years, she had tried hard and received no news. And now, that man...

Bianca's night was restless, and she woke up feeling disorientated the next day. She spent the morning in a daze.

She had no energy to care about the attitudes of the people in the villa. All she could think about was the contents of that photograph.

Just then, her phone vibrated.

It was precisely the time Malcolm had called her yesterday. In her WhatsApp, the man had sent several documents.

The first one was a paternity test.

When these words caught her eye, Bianca's eyes widened even more. The names and the crucial information about the testing institution were all pixelated, except for her name and the result, which were crystal clear: Trying to find any other important information on it would be futile. The result was a 98% match, confirming a biological relationship! When Bianca saw the result, her heart couldn't help but beat wildly. It was her... there was no mistake! But when she saw the second document, she felt her world collapse in an instant!

Chapter 806 Listen to Me The document was... a critical illness notification issued just a week ago! In other words, her mother was...! Bianca's mind was blank. She somehow managed to answer Malcolm's call, but nothing came out when she tried to speak.

It was too sudden! Everything was just too sudden for her.

"..What exactly do you want?" Bianca finally asked.

"Do you believe me now?" Did she? "Or... Would you like to take a risk and gamble on this?"

Bianca fell silent. When she heard the man's words, her tense heart tightened further.

When Malcolm asked her if she believed him, she instinctively wanted to say no. However, when the man asked the latter question, she harshly swallowed her spontaneous response.

Did she dare? Of course not! She ran her fingers through her hair in frustration, unable to contain her inner turmoil any longer.

"What exactly do you want?!" Malcolm was just crazy, trying to drive her insane along with him. At this point, Bianca could see it all too clearly, Malcolm listened to her hysterics and chuckled softly. "Just be good and listen to me." / "Dream on!" Bianca roared.

That was an impossible task! However, Malcolm hung up abruptly.

When she heard the dial tone, Bianca trembled with anger.

Was this what Malcolm meant yesterday when he said he would send her some documents today? Everything caught her off guard, and Bianca's heart pounded even harder.

Then, a message notification sounded.

ha Bianca was speechless. She never thought about sitting in that position, especially knowing the interests involved in it. She knew that when Zane became the head of the Entes family, it would also mark the end of their relationship! And yesterday, Zane had already informed her of his decision. Now, Bianca was very clear about what kind of outcome she would face if she refused Malcolm.

In her life, Bianca had witnessed two loved ones leave her helplessly.

Suddenly, another woman appeared in her life, causing chaos in Bianca's mind! Originally, everything was supposed to end so smoothly. But who would have thought that such a big secret was hidden behind it all? Now, wanting to leave wasn't such an easy decision.

As Malcolm said, she dared not take a chance on this matter! During this time, Seraphine often appeared with Zane at various events, and everyone in Simeria tacitly understood the implications. They knew who the future queen of Simeria would be.

However, Natalie couldn't help but call Bianca when she found out that Bianca hadn't left yet.

"Bia, what's his arrangement for you over there?" Natalie couldn't help but ask, perhaps worried that Bianca would be hurt in this situation

"I won't leave Simeria!" Bianca declared.

When Natalie heard this, her heart skipped a beat.

"What...?" What did Bianca mean? What happened? Why did she make such a decision in this situation? Natalie was already worried about Bianca and felt her heart tighten further at Bianca's firm tone.

Bianca sighed. "Nat." "Yeah?" "How do you feel about your mother?" What? Was this the time to talk about this?

Before Natalie could think of anything, Bianca sighed again and said, "She's still alive." Natalie was stunned. "Are you talking about your mother?" "Yeah." Natalie fell silent and instantly tensed.

Over the years of knowing Bianca, they had developed some understanding.

Even though they rarely asked about each other's family past, Natalie knew that Bianca had always been lonely like her.

Bianca always made decisions independently without consulting her family. From her behavior, it was clear that she was...! "Nat, I don't know what happened between them, I always thought she might not be around anymore." Bianca had thought that way even before her father passed away. If that wasn't the case, why hadn't anyone from Bianca's hometown ever seen her mother? But now, knowing that her mother was still alive, Bianca couldn't think clearly. Her world was in complete chaos.

"Does Malcolm know where she is?" Natalie understood the situation in an instant. After all, she was well aware of how Bianca's prideful nature worked.

Zane and Seraphine's relationship was publicly acknowledged in Simeria.

Thus, Bianca's pride would not allow her to stay for long.

However, Bianca suddenly changed her mind. She even disregarded her own pride and chose to stay in Simeria.

There was only one reason she would do that—Malcolm was involved in this matter.

As Natalie finished speaking, Bianca's breathing became heavier. At that moment, Bianca's silence confirmed Natalie's thoughts.

"Have you ever considered that he might be lying to you?" Natalie asked urgently.

It wouldn't be surprising for Malcolm to do something like this. After all, Bianca had caused him heavy losses this time, In the world of men, this matter was more hateful than anything else, making it entirely possible for Malcolm to retaliate against Bianca in this manner.

"I've considered it, but... I'm hesitant to take a risk." Natalie fell silent. At that moment, she also understood Bianca's longing for family.

She recalled when they were in Verde City, and Bianca had asked her to help find someone. At that time, she was married to Cedric and had used his connections to search, but to no avail.

So, the person Bianca had been looking for all these years was her own mother? And now, after so many years of searching, that person was in Malcolm's hands. Naturally, Bianca didn't dare take a risk. Over the years of entanglement with Malcolm, she understood what kind of madman he was.

With that thought in mind, how could Bianca gamble on this matter? Natalie's throat tightened at the thought. "Bia!" "I want to know why she..." Bianca didn't know how to express the shock in her heart. Now, all her decisions were made based on her instincts!

Chapter 807 Could She Comply? As Natalie listened to Bianca, her heart tightened further. Before she could speak, Bianca said, "She's my only family left in this world...!" So, even though she knew Malcolm might be deceiving her, she still dared not risk it.

Upon hearing Bianca's words, Natalie was at a loss for words. She knew that if Bianca chose to stay in Simeria, she would face the consequences.

However, Natalie couldn't find the words to persuade her. "Just be careful, okay?" As Bianca said, her mother was the only family left in the world, so she couldn't take the risk.

Chapter 807 Could She Comply? | As Natalie listened to Bianca, her heart tightened further. Before she could speak, Bianca said, "She's my only family left in this world..." So, even though she knew Malcolm might be deceiving her, she still dared not risk it.

Upon hearing Bianca's words, Natalie was at a loss for words. She knew that if Bianca chose to stay in Simeria, she would face the consequences.

However, Natalie couldn't find the words to persuade her. "Just be careful, okay?" As Bianca said, her mother was the only family left in the world, so she couldn't take the risk.

"Okay." "Did he ask you to become the queen of Simeria?" Yes." Natalie was speechless.

This was only the beginning! Malcolm had been plotting in Simeria for so many years, and the Entes family's inheritance was supposed to be his. But who would have thought that it would all fall apart because of Bianca? With all the effort he had expended, how could he willingly leave Simeria like this? Making Bianca Zane's queen was just the beginning. Malcolm was surely preparing to return to Simeria again.

However, even if Zane stood at the { highest position and Bianca was his wife, could she really smoothly become the Entes family's future queen? The current elders had already chosen Seraphine, the daughter of the Holly family. This indicated they didn't regard Bianca, who had no background in Simeria, as significant.

Even if Malcolm threatened Bianca to take that position, it seemed difficult to achieve it.

"Alright, Nat, don't worry about me," Bianca reassured Natalie, "on How could Natalie not worry? Thinking about all the twists and turns of the situation, she was genuinely worried about Bianca.

Simeria might have seemed simple, but at least Bianca's situation wasn't as simple as one might think.

That was the most worrying aspect for Natalie.

Zane had already asked Bianca to think about what she wanted. Obviously, it meant he had made his decision.

He wanted Bianca to leave Simeria! Such a result was within Bianca's expectations, but she didn't expect such a sudden turn of events, And she... dared not! This was the third day of seeing Zane.

Recently, Bianca had kept track of his whereabouts from television and public announcements.

He was always with Seraphine.

"I thought you would be busy for a few more days," Bianca said, looking at the man's cold profile at the breakfast table.

It had been nearly twenty days. For many years, preparations had been made to entrust the Entes family to the next generation. Now that Zane had ascended the position, there was a long list of matters to handle.

Since Zane was the new patriarch, his demeanor turned considerably colder, his countenance devoid of warmth. His profound eyes seemed even deeper, giving off a mysterious aura.

At this moment, Zane turned his gaze towards Bianca. A hint of darkness flickered in his eyes as he spoke in a cold and direct tone, "Have you thought about what you want?" When she heard his question, Bianca tightened her grip around her spoon.

She had always known what kind of beginning and relationship she shared with Zane. With Malcolm's matter now resolved, their relationship also reached its conclusion.

Although Zane's attitude towards her had always been ambiguous, Bianca understood very well that he was the king atop the summit. As he walked this path, he was bound to sacrifice many things, including... emotions! For the past few days, she had done nothing but review the history of the Entes family. Undoubtedly, before reaching this position, they all had some emotional attachments.

However, upon reaching this pinnacle, they all made very clear choices.

One example was Robert's attitude towards Zane's mother. She had been a sacrifice between emotions and power.

Despite Robert's fondness and deep affection for her, Zane's mother ultimately never got to be with Robert, In fact, they only discovered recently that the person Robert cherished the most was the seemingly foolish third son lurking in the shadows.

So, men in such positions had to be extremely clear-minded, Throughout history, this had been the case, And now... Zane was no exception, right? Bianca had nothing to offer. When Zane asked her what she wanted, the overwhelming prospect of what lay ahead rendered her speechless.

She knew that once she said those words, the fragile peace between them would be completely shattered. She and Zane would find themselves on a delicate and subtle opposing side.

She raised the glass before her without saying anything and downed the water in one gulp.

Zane's gaze became even deeper at her action. "Bianca." "I want to stay here!" Bianca interrupted him in a resolute tone before he could continue, The atmosphere froze instantly.

Zane's gaze grew colder as he looked at her. Sensing the sudden chill, Bianca finally looked at Zane, meeting his eyes that held no warmth.

She took a deep breath and asked, "Is it okay if I stay here?" Compared to her previous firmness, her tone softened slightly.

Nobody knew how helpless Bianca felt at this moment. She never compromised when she was with Malcolm, no matter what he did. But now, she abandoned her usual stoicism and toughness.

She directed her inner helplessness and frustration squarely towards Zane.

Meeting his eyes that held no warmth, she knew this was Zane's bottom line on his path to power,

And now, she unhesitatingly stood on that line.

"Do you know what you're saying?" Zane's tone was firm, just as Bianca had been moments ago.

With her forceful declaration, the already icy atmosphere grew even colder. Zane's gaze, devoid of any warmth, chilled even further.

"Simeria's laws dictate that one cannot forcefully divorce their spouse, right?" Bianca said.

As soon as she said that, Zane narrowed his eyes. His eyes were not just cold, but also unfathomable. His sharp gaze seemed to chip away at Bianca's inner resolve, Bianca had never seen this side of Zane before. His demeanor was not just ated by lacking warmth —it was freezing and capable of chilling one to the bone!

Chapter 808 Helpless Whirlpool Their eyes met. Both were resolute and icy for a long time in silence, As the man looked into her eyes, a hint of emotion finally appeared. Yet, this emotion only tightened the knot in her heart even more.

He... was mocking her! "Is this your true nature? Are you threatening me?" Zane finally spoke, but every word at this moment felt like a stab to her heart. Her face turned even pale, but Bianca chose to remain silent in response to his sarcasm, Undoubtedly, she couldn't articulate anything right now. Regardless of the reason, she had truly threatened Zane (W) +15 BONUS with the law as her weapon.

As she looked into the man's sharp eyes, Bianca finally lost the courage to continue looking. She lowered her head to avoid his gaze and took a deep breath.

"I just want to stay here," she said.

"Hah..." Zane sneered coldly.

As the earsplitting sound of the chair scraping against the floor filled the air, Zane stood up. Bianca didn't need to look up to feel the sharp gaze falling on her like a blade. She ultimately lost the courage to lift her head.

Zane silently stared at her for a while. In the end, he turned and left without saying a word.

[W] +15 BONUS After Zane's footsteps faded away, Bianca seemed to lose all her strength.

As she slumped back against the chair, and her face turned even paler.

She...! Malcolm's name flashed on the phone screen, but the man seemed busy and only picked up the call at the end.

The moment the call connected, Bianca spoke before the man could say anything. "Now, can you tell me who she really is?" "Have you become his queen?" "I stayed by his side. Isn't that enough?" "Wasn't that what Malcolm wanted?!"

© UE SNVeew Bianca had no valuable assets or noteworthy background. Sticking by Zane's side could lead to his rejection of the Holly family and those who formerly supported him becoming hostile.

For Malcolm, this was just the beginning to stir up trouble for Zane.

However, things were not that simple! Now that everything in the Entes family had settled down, Malcolm had more to do than just that.

Bianca's request to Zane today had already taken a lot of effort on her part.

She had tried her best to suppress the turmoil in her heart, Bianca truly feared she couldn't bear it if Malcolm continued to make excessive demands! Everything went against her principles and understanding. Besides, how could she willingly let others control her? "It seems you misunderstood what I said before." Malcolm's tone turned even more sinister at this moment.

Bianca fell silent, and her already pale face turned even whiter. Before she could say anything, Malcolm continued, "By the way, do you know you have a brother?" Bianca felt her mind go blank.

"I'll have someone send him to you." A brother?!

Why? Originally, she had nothing in this world, and it was because of this lack that she lived so freely.

But now...! Bianca ended the call in a daze, and her mind turned even more chaotic! She thought everything had ended.

Now, not only was it still ongoing, but her world had also been violently shaken up! When Natalie received Bianca's call and learned about Bianca's situation, she was completely convinced she was right.

"Malcolm is retaliating against you!"

Why? Malcolm was retaliating against Bianca for giving everything to Zane this time and supporting him in taking that position.

He wanted to tear apart Bianca and Zane slowly.

It was a terrifying method! He made it seem like Bianca had everything now. However, these things were like shackles to her. He was gradually eroding her freedom and gradually undermining her pride.

It wouldn't be easy for Bianca to stay in Simeria. Malcolm had never succeeded in breaking Bianca's pride, but now he was dismantling her piece by piece.

"Do you think it's really your brother?" "I don't know, Nat, I don't know anything." Everything was a mess.

Bianca was usually calm and wise in every situation, but Malcolm had found her weakness this time and was desperately attacking it.

He ensured that Bianca was suffering even more in her most painful moments.

It was obvious that his intention was to ruin Bianca and Zane's delicate relationship. When Bianca announced that she wanted to stay in Simeria, the fragile relationship undoubtedly started to crumble. After a while, Bianca said, "It'll be clear once he's here in Simeria, right?" "Yeah," Natalie agreed.

At this moment, there was no way out for Bianca.

Malcolm wouldn't let her go.

"Now that you're staying by Zane's side like this, Zane can't marry Ms.

Holly, right?" A grand and extravagant wedding should be held to symbolize the future queen of the Entes family and Simeria, Bianca was legally married to Zane.

Even if Seraphine were to become queen, she wouldn't be able to do so smoothly with Bianca still present.

If Zane were to bestow the title to Seraphine forcefully, it would make her look like a joke.

Bianca and Zane's relationship was delicate to start with, and the situation

Wy 719 BONUS in Simeria was equally difficult.

By using this method, Malcolm instantly pushed Bianca to the edge.

"Nat, I don't want to discuss this right now!" When Bianca made that request to Zane, she knew what awaited her. So, Bianca didn't want to think about the consequences right now.

Natalie sighed. "Alright, let's talk about something else." "Has Cedric left Dawnvale?" Bianca asked, intending to change the subject.

However, the topic shifted to one Natalie least wanted to consider, "That man has nothing to do with me sR pf ert anymore. Since the day Christina came here, I haven't seen anyone related to them," Natalie replied.

Austin had banned anyone related to the Johnson family from entering Westhill Enclave. As long as Natalie didn't want to see them, it would be impossible for them to approach her.

Bianca clearly sensed the implications behind Natalie's words, She bitterly said, "Austin is really good to you!" He gave up everything for Natalie and now protected her like this, Chapter 809 Tell Zane About This Disregarding everything else, Bianca hoped that Austin would continue to be good to Natalie. She also hoped that Natalie would find true happiness this time.

"Bia, I'm worried about you," Natalie anxiously said when she thought about what Bianca had to face.

"There's nothing to worry about.

Haven't I always been fighting tooth and nail against him?" Bianca's tone became somewhat indifferent.

However, was that really how she felt? If Bianca were really indifferent, she wouldn't have ultimately chosen to stay by Zane's side under this threat.

She may seem proud and carefree, but in reality... she cared.

For some reason, Bianca had been looking for her mother for many years.

Now that she knew her mother was connected to Malcolm, she wouldn't act recklessly.

"Would you consider telling Zane about this?" Natalie tentatively asked Bianca.

When Natalie mentioned Zane, Bianca's throat tightened.

"What would change if he knows?" This matter originally had nothing to do with Zane, right? But now...

"But what about your feelings for him?" "Nat, you've forgotten I'm very good at keeping everything separate." Because Bianca had seen enough of that kind of marriage, she was very clear about keeping emotions and private matters separate.

Natalie wanted to say something else to persuade Bianca, but she ultimately couldn't think of anything.

When Lorraine arrived, she worriedly looked at Bianca. Bianca felt a bit uneasy under Lorraine's gaze.

"Why are you looking at me like that?" "The Holly family has voiced some dissatisfactions about Zane," Lorraine said.

The Holly family seemed to already know about Bianca's request to Zane. If so, those people would surely say she was a shameless woman, right? Although Bianca has never cared about such things, facing the reality was still somewhat uncomfortable.

"Bianca." "Yeah?" "Why don't you just leave?" Lorraine asked somewhat reluctantly.

Lorraine genuinely hoped that Bianca would stay. However, Zane had just ascended to his position, and many things still needed to be dealt with.

"Staying by my brother's side now will be very challenging," Lorraine explained.

That was the most worrying part.

"Whatever challenges there are, I deserve them!" Bianca responded.

After all, she had chosen to get involved with Zane back then.

Lorraine fell silent, and the concern in her eyes intensified.

It wasn't just about enduring the challenges that would come. Perhaps Bianca didn't even want most of the things she was staying for! That was the most worrisome aspect.

Things had just started, and everything was more complex than Bianca had thought. However, it seemed like she no longer cared.

Things would always eventually end, even if it took a long time!

Luna was enjoying the weekend in Westhill Enclave's backyard. She really liked the miniature amusement park Austin had built for her.

While sitting on a lounge chair nearby, Natalie sighed several times, and Austin heard it all.

He looked at Natalie and asked, "What's wrong?" For now, it didn't matter how chaotic Simeria and Wexford were or what Cedric might stir up in Dawnvale. They were enjoying a peaceful and quiet life.

"I'm worried about Bia," Natalie said.

"Her wisest choice now is to leave Simeria," Austin said without hesitation.

Natalie fell silent.

Leave Simeria, huh? Bianca had contemplated leaving before. Regardless of her feelings for Zane, Bianca was known for her level-headedness, particularly when it came to matters of the heart, and wouldn't become too invested in them.

Yet now, Malcolm was forcing Bianca to do the one thing she least wanted to do.

Bianca never gave in when it came to matters of the heart. Natalie remembered how Bianca fell in love with a senior student during college.

It was evident that Bianca was deeply in love, but she always kept her feelings hidden. In front of that person, she always appeared cold and strong. Once that person left, Bianca slowly moved on from her emotions.

Using the same wisdom and fortitude, Bianca pursued her career.

But now, someone wanted her to yield on the one thing she least wanted to.

How cruel was that? "Can you help her find out..." Austin seemed to know what Natalie would say next and cut her off directly, "No need for that. It's all true!" Upon hearing Austin's words, Natalie's heart skipped a beat. She had previously attempted to assist Bianca in searching for this woman, but even with Cedric's connections, they failed to find any leads.

The fact that Malcolm now had this woman in his possession seemed too coincidental to Natalie.

"Although Malcolm is a scoundrel, he's a prideful one. He wouldn't go to great lengths to make up stories, and besides..." Austin trailed off and looked at Natalie.

Upon hearing Austin's words, Natalie's already tense heart rose to her throat.

Austin continued, "There were many other ways he could have retaliated against Bianca. Isn't forcing her to leave Simeria a more direct approach?" That was true! That meant that if Malcolm had no leverage, he wouldn't behave in such a manner.

"So, he's toying with Bianca now?" "You can put it that way." "Watching his prey become a trapped animal has always been his style." Natalie was speechless.

What a despicable man! Her worry for Bianca grew stronger after hearing Austin's explanation.

"Nat n "Yeah?" "You can't control what happens to her now. Malcolm suffered a great loss because of her this time. You know how he is. He can hold a grudge for a long time." Perhaps it would have been better not to mention that. Once Natalie heard his words, she couldn't help feeling even more gloomy! What was going on? It was supposed to be over! Bianca should have returned to the position she most wanted to be in, and life would be peaceful again.

But now, even after Malcolm left Simeria, he still managed to trap Bianca by Zane's side in this manner.

And because of this situation, how Bianca stayed also created a rift between her and Zane!

Bianca managed to stay in Simeria smoothly but hadn't seen Zane again that day. as Although she was Zane's legal wife, her request that day made it seem like she had revealed her true colors as a greedy woman trying to become his queen.

As a result, Zane's attitude towards her now became inexplicable!

Chapter 810 Warning Bianca had not stepped out of Verdant Villa since that day.

Neil had been stealing glances at her throughout the day, appearing as though he wanted to say something.

However, he hesitated and remained silent each time, his eyes betraying a sense of helplessness.

"Neil, is there something on your mind?" Bianca asked.

Neil had been with Zane for many years, but now that Zane had moved to the Entes Manor, his staying here implied some sentiment towards her.

Or perhaps... Neil had seen much and could offer guidance at times like this.

When Bianca asked, Neil said, "Actually, leaving Simeria now would be the best arrangement for you." Bianca's eyes dimmed at his words.

The best arrangement? When she was with Malcolm, she wasn't concerned about her future. She knew that if Malcolm lost and left Simeria, her relationship with Zane would end, and leaving Simeria wouldn't spare her from Malcolm's revenge.

But back then, she didn't care. She only wanted to shatter Malcolm's plans.

However, things were different now.

She used to believe being alone was a lonely experience, but now she realized it was a state of freedom.

Unfortunately, that freedom... orl Just as Bianca was about to say something to Neil, there was suddenly a commotion outside.

Bianca looked at Neil. "Go see what's happening." "Of course." Neil nodded and left, leaving Bianca sitting there, feeling colder than ever.

In her arms was the little kitten Zane had rescued, blissfully unaware of its owner's turmoil, sleeping peacefully.

Soon, Neil returned. "Lady Bianca." "yes?"

"It's the Holly family's butler!" "What do they want?" Bianca's tone turned heavy. She hadn't expected them to show up so soon.

"Mr. Holly sent this," Neil said, handing her an envelope.

Bianca took it and glanced at it. Her eyes grew darker. She opened it and read its contents. She closed her eyes briefly when she saw what was inside, concealing the chill within.

"The butler also had a message for you," Neil added.

"What is it?" Bianca's voice lacked warmth. She trembled visibly, evidently filled with anger.

"He said that Lord Zane knows." Zane knew that the Holly family was using this method to deal with her? Bianca fell silent, and the already heavy atmosphere grew even more oppressive.

"The Holly family's butler said they hope you can decide soon. They want to see Ms. Holly married before Madam Holly passes away." Was Madam Holly severely ill? Bianca furrowed her brow. The weight on her chest increased, almost suffocating her.

"Hmph!" What did their family matters have to do with her? "Let them marry Ms. Holly off to whoever they want. What does it have to do with me?"

They were using such a straightforward manner to force her into leaving. The Holly family now seemed to acknowledge her existence and that she was blocking Seraphine's path.

Bianca didn't realize she wasn't just blocking Seraphine's path. She was obstructing the paths of many daughters from prominent families in Simeria. The Holly family wasn't the only one approaching Zane. But no matter which family came forward, they would undoubtedly overshadow Bianca! Neil frowned as he looked at Bianca. He wanted to say something, but he held his tongue when he saw the sharpness in her eyes.

After all, the Holly family's butler had made it clear that Zane knew, which meant he had tacitly agreed to this! Bianca clearly caught onto this point, and the coldness in her eyes deepened.

Bang! She slammed the cup heavily onto the table, showing that her emotions were no longer in check.

After Neil left, Bianca's phone buzzed incessantly. Glancing at the number, her already grim expression darkened further.

She answered, "What else do you want?" "you did well!" came the cheerful voice of a man on the other end of the line, sounding obviously pleased.

Bianca clenched her fists, and the tension in her body intensified.

"Are you satisfied?" Now that Bianca had prevented Seraphine from becoming queen, it was undoubtedly an ominous start for Zane.

And this was just the beginning. What came next was obvious.

"When he made that decision, I advised him to stay away from you," Malcolm said.

At his words, the tension thickened.

Yes, when Malcolm learned that she had gotten involved with Zane, he probably wanted to kill her! Malcolm probably never expected that she would quickly get entangled with Zane during his absence.

"You've made a good start. Yes, you've been very good. Next, it depends on what you can do, hmm?" "You'd better not be lying to me." Bianca gritted her teeth as she spoke, referring to her family.

Malcolm chuckled softly at her words, as if his mood had improved considerably. Just as Bianca was about to slam the phone in frustration, she heard Malcolm sarcastically remark, "I really want to see what you look like now." What did he want to see? Was it the look of frustration? Or was it the look of setting aside her pride and shamelessly telling Zane that she didn't want to leave Simeria? Whichever it was, Bianca had never shown either before. Even if she [ost all her family, she strictly upheld her dignity.

"I'll give you a month. But whether she can wait that long for you depends on how fast you can move things along..." His implication was that Bianca might actually meet her mother earlier if she did well.

Bianca was speechless, and she trembled with rage.

"Go to hell!" she spat out, then forcefully hung up the phone.

The world fell silent, but her heart continued to surge.

One month...! In just half a month, Simeria had already become tumultuous, likely due to the change in status within the Entes family.

And now, by obstructing the union between the Holly family and Zane, Bianca had inadvertently caused a subtle strain in Zane's relationship with the Holly family.

Today, the Holly family's butler had come to deliver a warning, and it was clear that some relationships in Simeria were not to be tampered with.

A Divorce After My Rebirth #Chapter 811 - Read A Divorce After My Rebirth Chapter 811

Chapter 811 Yvette Was Also Leaving In the afternoon, Bianca sat on the pavilion's veranda, fiddling with her phone, repeatedly opening and closing it.

The screen blinked several times within a minute, indicating her agitation.

When Yvette arrived, she saw Bianca's cold profile. She approached and sat across from Bianca.

The servant recognized Yvette as the former fourth lady of the Entes family and the eldest daughter of the Stewart family. She respectfully approached and asked, "Ms. Stewart, may I get you something to drink?" "Go away," Yvette replied with an icy tone.

The servant had been trying to curry favor with her. However, she was startled by Yvette's coldness and quickly retreated.

Yvette had clearly sensed the tense atmosphere upon entering, especially noticing the uncomfortable attitudes of the staff.

It was probably due to Zane's influence, as people's behavior towards Bianca had somewhat changed since Zane took over the Entes family.

Since Zane had been getting close to Seraphine, rumors had spread throughout Simeria that Seraphine would be Zane's future queen.

"Why don't you leave?" Yvette asked directly after the servant left.

The servant had been trying to curry favor with her. However, she was startled by Yvette's coldness and quickly retreated.

Yvette had clearly sensed the tense atmosphere upon entering, especially noticing the uncomfortable attitudes of the staff.

It was probably due to Zane's influence, as people's behavior towards Bianca had somewhat changed since Zane took over the Entes family.

Since Zane had been getting close to Seraphine, rumors had spread throughout Simeria that Seraphine would be Zane's future queen.

"Why don't you leave?" Yvette asked directly after the servant left.

After recent events, Yvette had come to understand the harsh realities and no longer held a grudge against Bianca for being with Zane.

She and Zane could never be together, and Bianca's situation was even more difficult than hers.

This was what they called shared hardship. At least now, Yvette felt a sense of empathy towards Bianca, whom she had envied before.

Bianca looked at Yvette, her eyes icy and piercing, showing a sharpness that didn't quite fit her usual demeanor.

Seeing the sharpness in Bianca's eyes, Yvette understood that it resulted from the contaminated environment in Simeria.

Without waiting for Bianca to respond, Yvette continued, "Staying here doesn't serve any purpose for you." That was the truth. E ""So what?" Bianca responded dully.

"You don't seem like someone who would mess around like this," Yvette said, expressing the doubt in her heart.

Rumors rife in Simeria's high society about Bianca obstructing Seraphine's path. It was speculated that Bianca's shameless entanglement would only make Zane increasingly disgusted with her.

Considering Bianca's lack of background or status here, hoping for things that didn't belong to her in this place would only make her journey more difficult and might ultimately yield nothing.

In fact, the people Bianca was obstructing were likely already thinking about how to deal with her! Yvette had lived in Simeria for many years. If Bianca continued to persist like this, Yvette naturally knew what kind of situation would arise later.

However, Yvette didn't quite understand. Bianca's eyes always held an unyielding pride whenever Yvette saw her.

So why was she dragging things out in this manner? "Things change," Bianca said.

Yvette was speechless.

What was going on? "Alto has already left Simeria, right?" of During this time, Bianca didn't care much about what was happening outside. She had always been focused on her own affairs.

But now, everything was a mess. She didn't know where everything started or ended! Malcolm wanted to crush her in this way? Well, it also depended on whether she agreed or not! When Alto was mentioned, Yvette remained silent.

"When you made that decision back then, didn't you also ignore the consequences?" Bianca asked.

At her words, Yvette's face turned pale.

Even though Yvette knew that her whole family wouldn't support her, she still made that decision. And now, if asked whether she regretted it or not regarding that matter...

Instead of answering Bianca, Yvette said, "In half a month, I'm going to Dawnvale." Bianca raised an eyebrow at her words.

"Dawnvale? Why?" "Yes. There's going to be a design competition held there." A design competition? Was Yvette was going to participate? "Bianca."

"non "I've been with the Entes family for so many years. Even when I was officially with Alto, I always felt like I was walking on thin ice." Yvette looked at Bianca as she spoke, her eyes flashing with pity. And when Yvette had such pity in her eyes, Bianca knew... Yvette had truly moved on from that past.

Whether it was Alto or Zane, Yvette had completely let go of them.

When did Yvette realize this? It probably started at the end of her relationship with Alto, when she realized she couldn't cross paths with Zane again.

At that time, the Stewart family chose Irene. .

Before this, it was Irene. Now, it was Seraphine.

Yvette had a very difficult time on this journey. Because it was too difficult, she had decided to give up everything! She also knew that continuing on this path would only make her days more difficult.

"If you aren't staying by his side for any special reason, I'd advise you to prioritize protecting your heart!" Yvette said.

non "Losing your heart in the Entes family is also when you start to face the most difficult times. Ask yourself, why are you staying by Zane's side?" At her words, Bianca's mind went blank instantly, as if something in her world collapsed! Pride? Or dignity? Yvette's questions seemed like a soul-searching question.

Why was Bianca staying by Zane's side? Was it because of Malcolm's threats and schemes? Or was it because of Zane himself, and Malcolm only gave her a reason to do it? Was she being forced to do it because of the threats, or did she willingly stay after gaining an excuse to? Yvette looked at Bianca and said, "Bianca, you're sensible. I believe you understand what I'm saying." Yvette didn't know what happened to Bianca, but it seemed she could already

And upon hearing Yvette's words, Bianca's heart tightened even more.

Yvette could see Bianca's feelings for Zane.

"You can never capture the heart of an Entes family's man with sincerity," Yvette said bitterly.

Sincerity, huh? Yvette used to be very sincere to Zane, but what good did it do? When he watched her marry Alto, he hadn't done anything! Bianca remained silent, and Yvette continued, "Because the Entes family men have no heart."

Upon hearing Yvette's bitter words, Bianca suddenly realized she knew too little about everything that happened before.

The relationship between Yvette and Zane was more complex than she had thought!

Chapter 812 Her Miserable State Yvette left. C As for what kind of person Zane was, it didn't seem that important to Bianca now...! Two hours after Yvette left, Bianca was still sitting under the pavilion, continuously sorting out everything that had happened during this time.

Why did Malcolm threaten her? It clearly was because he enjoyed seeing her suffer as her pride was slowly stripped away.

Once Malcolm departed from Simeria, their confrontation truly began.

However, would she allow such a

| beginning? She closed her eyes for a moment.

When she reopened them, they were sharp as ever! Bianca drove to the hospital with the critical illness notice. She didn't quite understand these medical terms, so she needed to clarify every answer.

"The diagnosis is lymphoma," the doctor said, looking at the report and then at Bianca with a heavy heart.

"Unfortunately, the chances of survival are very low. As the illness has progressed to a critical stage, the patient may not have much time left." After hearing the doctor's words, she subconsciously clenched her fists.

Not much time left? "Can you tell if this notice is real or { fake?" 5 Obviously, Bianca still didn't fully trust Malcolm. Staying in Simeria was just a measure to satisfy Malcolm temporarily. She now had to clarify everything slowly. She even had to find out whether the owner of this critical illness notice had any connection with her.

"No one would joke about such a thing, right? Look, there's a signature on the notice." So, one just had to go to the hospital to determine if the notice was real or fake.

Bianca took her phone and studied the signature. Then, her eyes dimmed. In the end, Bianca left the hospital in a daze and returned to Verdant Villa.) After she arrived at the entrance, a servant handed a package to Bianca.

"What's this?" Bianca glanced at the package, but then she noted that the servant was an unfamiliar face.

At this moment, the servant's face was respectful but also carried an invisible hardness, which Bianca clearly noticed.

When the servant looked at her, her eyes were cold and formal. She said, "This is from Lord Malcolm." Bianca fell silent.

Malcolm? What did he want now?

Bianca felt her anger boiling when she thought of the man's threats.

"Who are you?" Is "I'm a new servant, Ruth. I'll be responsible for caring for you from now on, Lady Bianca." When Ruth addressed Bianca with her title, she hissed it through gritted teeth as if to mock her.

Bianca narrowed her eyes.

Ruth was one of Malcolm's people...

Even if she were a fool, Bianca would understand what the person in front of her now meant to her.

The fierceness in Bianca's eyes, which was already present, deepened at this moment.

However, Ruth remained calm. After glancing around and seeing no one nearby, she continued, "Lord Malcolm knows that you won't believe everything that has been happening around you recently, so he wants you to verify it personally!" Bianca couldn't help but inhale sharply at her words.

Malcolm had gone this far...! It is evident that regardless of which hospital Bianca went to verify the DNA report or the critical illness notice, she wouldn't believe the results.

Even if professionals examined those documents, she still couldn't come to terms with the fact that her mother was alive in this world.

And as for her brother...

Bianca looked at Ruth, the coldness in her eyes reaching a point where she almost wished to freeze the entire world! Chaos! Bianca's world had been completely overturned at this moment.

Bianca returned to her room, with Ruth following behind. Before Ruth could enter, Bianca harshly said, "You're not allowed inside!" "Lady Bianca...!" Get lost!" Bianca glared fiercely at Ruth.

Malcolm had actually sent someone to monitor her. It was evident what kind of pressure she was under now.

There was a hint of sharpness in Ruth's eyes as well. A servant with such sharpness in her eyes undoubtedly had a certain value to Malcolm.

Bianca didn't even know that such a person worked for Malcolm before this! "If you wish to confirm it, you should do it quickly. Once you've confirmed everything, you should do what you need to do." What exactly did Bianca need to do? She was already shamelessly staying by Zane's side, causing the Holly family to be wary of her.

Wasn't that enough?! Ruth seemed to sense Bianca's thoughts and sharply reminded her,

"You know that's not what Lord Malcolm really wants!" Now Bianca understood why Malcolm had sent Ruth to her side. This person seemed to be able to see into people's hearts through their eyes and facial expressions.

"It seems that he's unwilling to accept defeat," Bianca said coldly.

Ruth scoffed and said, "If it weren't for you, Lord Malcolm would be the master of Simeria!" Bianca was speechless.

Now that Malcolm had lost, he seemed determined to blame everything on her! Hah! Was he even worthy of doing so?

After Ruth left, Bianca was left alone, staring at the opened file in her hand.

There was nothing else in it but a few strands of sealed hair.

Bianca took a deep breath, her hands trembling.

This... might be her mother's hair! She pulled out her phone and called Natalie.

When did it all start? It seemed like it had always been this way. Whenever she encountered any problems, she would call Natalie.

After the call connected, Bianca recounted everything that happened today to Natalie. Then, Natalie was silent on the other end of the phone for a long time.

Eventually, she asked, "So you've decided to stay by Zane's side?") What kind of presence was Zane exactly? He was now the king of Simeria, and Bianca staying by his side meant she was destined to endure a lot, especially considering Zane's attitude towards her.

When Seraphine was about to become the queen, Zane personally suggested...

that Bianca leave Simeria.

And that was the agreement between Bianca and Zane all along.

Who would have thought that such a thing would happen now? Malcolm wouldn't just give up. Now, he held the leverage over Bianca that she couldn't get rid of, and she had no

"Nat, I..." \ At this moment, Bianca wanted to say something, but nothing came out. She didn't know what had happened all those years ago or why her mother had left her.

So, in a situation where she knew nothing, she couldn't act impulsively! After a long pause, Bianca took a deep breath and said, "'Nat, there has never been room for regret in my life!" During those years in Verde City, why did she do everything she did, even when someone committed suicide after she took on those cases? Why didn't she regret any of those decisions?

Because as long as it was something that happened to her, she made decisions with a firm and clear mind!

Chapter 813 Who Is Ruth? Bianca naturally couldn't do anything heartless to her own mother when she was so meticulous with outsiders.

Especially now, when she still didn't know what had happened back then...! "He's manipulating you!" Natalie sighed and said exasperatedly.

As could be seen from Bianca's situation, a person shouldn't have any vulnerabilities. Once they showed any sign of weakness, who knew how the other party would exploit it? Natalie hadn't fully understood this before, but now she did! Bianca fell silent and closed her eyes, concealing the danger in them. Then, she said, "I'll clarify this matter as soon as possible." Regardless of what happened, Bianca wouldn't easily believe Malcolm.

Though Malcolm had left Simeria, he still held a lot of influence here.

But from the moment Bianca decided to deal with him, she wouldn't show any weakness to Malcolm.

Even if her vulnerability was in his hands now, what did it matter? "Bja." "Yeah?" you'll endure a lot by his side, so I hope you can end it soon!" Since Zane suggested Bianca leave, everything should end quickly now.

When Bianca thought about how Zane had asked her to leave, she felt even more uncomfortable. — She replied, "I understand." No one knew what was going on in Bianca's heart when she said these words. She had always known that the relationship between her and Zane was a contractual one.

She also knew that once the dust settled in Simeria, it would be time for her to leave. That was what she always thought. She had always been clear-headed. Even if she was tempted, she remained rational.

But Malcolm's tactics this time really crushed her pride and made her bow her head to Zane for the first time.

On the third day, Ruth came upstairs as soon as Bianca got up. When Bianca saw her inside the room, her face darkened.

Bianca coldly said, "You're not allowed to enter my room without my permission!" "Lady Bianca, you need to understand our relationship! Although I address you as the mistress of this place..." Ruth didn't continue her words, but it was obvious that there was no respect in her tone. It only held a warning in it! It was so early in the morning, and Ruth was... giving Bianca a warning? Bianca's hand tightened around the comb in her hand.

Bang! She slammed the comb heavily on the dressing table and looked at Ruth with fierce determination in her eyes.

Once, everyone in Verde City said Bianca was the most ruthless divorce lawyer. But all her ruthlessness was used in her work, and she had never become such a person in her personal life.

But now, it seemed she had changed! Ruth watched as Bianca slowly approached her, and her already cold face darkened.

"What are you doing?" By the time she asked that, Bianca was already at Ruth's side. Bianca looked at Ruth's plump face, then raised her hand and slapped her across the face! Slap! The sound echoed in the peaceful villa, and Ruth was dumbstruck! The air around them was tense.

Ruth glared fiercely at Bianca. That kind of ferocity, even amidst the vortex of the Entes family, was something Bianca had never seen before.

Bianca took a deep breath and said, "Whatever you are to Malcolm, you'll follow my rules since you're under my roof!" | Bianca knew Ruth was here to monitor her. Although Bianca couldn't change this aspect, she could do something else to make it more bearable for herself.

"Since you're here as a servant, be a { good one!" Since Ruth had chosen such a role, she had to abide by the rules she had chosen.

This was Bianca's principle all along.

When she was in Verde City, she had seen too many people who didn't follow the rules of marriage. She despised those people...

And Ruth was even more abhorrent.

At this moment, Ruth's face darkened further as she looked at Bianca's expression, obviously not expecting Bianca to speak to her like this.

How dare Bianca be so audacious? "I'll report everything to Lord Malcolm!" B Slap! As soon as Ruth finished speaking, Bianca slapped her again. It was easy to imagine how heavy-handed Bianca was being! Ruth looked at Bianca, her face turning purple with rage.

Bianca scoffed. "You can tell him whatever you want! You don't have to inform me. Also, you better watch yourself around me." Bianca had always been unyielding.

Even in front of Malcolm, she would rise up in rebellion.

What was Ruth compared to that?

Just because she was one of Malcolm's people, did that mean Bianca should treat her with respect? Her respect was earned! And in Bianca's eyes, Ruth wasn't worthy of it! Malcolm soon received a call from Ruth reporting the incident. After listening to her words, he didn't get angry but laughed instead, and there was a meaningful glint in his eyes.

"Well, she is a beast, not a domestic cat. If you want to have a good time by her side, give her the respect she deserves!" Lord Malcolm...!" Upon hearing Malcolm's statement, Ruth gasped but refrained from objecting. "I understand." "I'm hanging up, then." "Alright. Please take care of the little one, Lord Malcolm." The response to her words was the dial tone as Malcolm hung up saying anything else.

Ruth's expression darkened.

The respect Bianca deserved?! Meanwhile, Bianca had finally arrived at the appraisal center. She handed over the sample Malcolm had sent her and her own to the staff.

"I need this done urgently. I'll wait here for it," Bianca said.

"Miss, this will take at least three days!" "Then I'll wait here for three days!" = At least three days, huh? Regardless of how long it took, she wanted to be in the laboratory to witness the entire process with her own eyes.

When Bianca made this request, the staff protested. "Miss, our rules won't allow that!" This was the first time someone had made such a rude request. However, Bianca wouldn't allow anything to interfere now.

She pulled out a black card and said, "Just name your price!" The staff was speechless.

In the end, Bianca was allowed inside.

The staff took her sample and started the process, making sure to expedite it.

Just then, her phone vibrated. She looked at the number to see that it was Malcolm.

She glanced at the staff, refusing to take her eyes off him for even a second as she answered the call.

"What do you want now?" "My patience is limited!" Malcolm said directly.

Clearly, he was warning Bianca.

Bianca had destroyed everything of his without hesitation, so now...! "What right do you have to pressure | me?" Bianca said fiercely.

At the next moment, Malcolm replied, "What right? Isn't it right in front of you?" — Of course, he had the right! Hadn't he earned it by grasping her weakness? Bianca was filled with rage at his words.

Chapter 814 It's All True The person Bianca didn't want to hurt in this situation was Zane. However, when she received the test results and saw the data from the test she had personally witnessed, she closed her eyes and gritted her teeth.

Her heart was in turmoil.

While in the car, Bianca's phone vibrated. She answered without even looking at the number.

"Hello?" "Bia!" Natalie's voice came from the other end of the phone, and Bianca felt her world instantly collapsed. She trembled all over, feeling shaken.

She said to Natalie, "Nat, if I had confronted Cedric back then, would I still have met Malcolm?" At that time, Cedric had used her to threaten Natalie. Natalie wanted to lessen the number of things she worried about, so she sent Bianca to Simeria. Little did she know, this led to Bianca meeting Malcolm.

After Bianca finished speaking, Natalie's breathing became heavier.

Bia" The guilty tone in Natalie's voice made Bianca instantly sober.

"Sorry, I forgot. Even if I hadn't gone to Simeria, he would have found me," Bianca said in a softer tone.

But this softness made Natalie realize that something was wrong with her.

"Bia, what happened?" "It's all true." Natalie fell silent.

What was all true? For a moment, Natalie didn't understand Bianca's words. After all, she had no idea how chaotic Simeria was now.

Zane had recently become the head of the Entes family, and he had several important matters to attend to. Many people who had supported him before now required his assistance. To maintain their trust and support, it was only natural to offer them important positions. For example, he offered the Holly family the position of the queen.

So, what did Bianca's decision mean to Seraphine? Before Natalie could ask Bianca what she meant, Bianca continued, "My mother is really alive!" Natalie initially wanted to comfort Bianca, but when she heard her words, she knew... that Bianca was really in trouble now! Bianca never allowed herself to make mistakes. She was that way at work and even more of a perfectionist when it came to herself and, now... her mother! After a long while of silence, Natalie finally said, "I'll ask Austin to help you find out who it is." The crucial point now was Bianca's mother. Bianca could only regain her freedom once they found out who her mother was.

"He just wants me to have a hard time," Bianca said.

Natalie was already worried about Bianca, and now she felt it even more.

However, there wasn't anything she could say.

"Nat, there's nothing you can do to help me." Despite the chaos in Bianca's world, she knew things between her and Malcolm would continue even if Natalie helped her find her mother.

When Natalie heard her words, she grew solemn. "Bia, are you going to let him control you forever?" "Of course not, Do I look like someone like that?" At this moment, Bianca's tone carried a hint of danger.

Natalie's heart skipped a beat when she heard Bianca's tone.

Bianca would never allow anyone to bind her in such a way. If what Bianca did to Malcolm before was playing with fire, then what Malcolm was doing to Bianca now was no different! When Malcolm suppressed her to such an extent, Bianca could still cling to Zane and free herself.

So now that Malcolm was grabbing onto Bianca's weak spot, Bianca wouldn't just sit back and take it! From this perspective, who knew what chaos awaited these two?

Natalie's mind was blank as she hung up Bianca's call. She was already worried about Bianca, and now she was even more anxious. She didn't even notice when Austin appeared behind her.

When he wrapped his arms around her, Natalie felt a familiar warmth, and for a moment, her heart calmed down slightly.

She didn't know when it started, but she had gradually become accustomed to having Austin by her side.

"When did you get back?" "Just now. What's on your mind? I could tell from the moment I walked in that you were feeling down." Austin's tone was gentle and tinged with a hint of indulgence.

Natalie sighed. "It's Bianca!" Just mentioning Bianca made Natalie's tone even heavier, and she couldn't conceal her concern.

"Maybe what happened to Bianca really was my fault!" Although Bianca said that even if she hadn't gone to Simeria, Malcolm would have found her eventually because of Faye, perhaps everything would have been different if Malcolm had visited Verde City first.

Austin tightened his arms around Natalie when he felt her gloomy mood.

"What happened between her and Malcolm is not something you can interfere with." " " Even so, things were now...!

There were too many possibilities in this world, and sending Bianca to Simeria accelerated her confrontation with all of this ahead of time! Before Natalie could say anything, Austin said, "Malcolm has suffered quite a loss with her this time. He won't let her off easily." "A loss? Isn't that position something all the Entes family men have the right to inherit? Isn't it a matter of skill?" Since everyone had the right to obtain it, it was all fair game! How could that be considered a loss?! When Natalie looked at Austin, she realized things were probably not as simple as she had thought.

Sure enough, Austin solemnly said,

"Zane's methods this time were ruthless. Malcolm and Icarus were the most unruly among all the siblings, but they've lost quite a few people because of Zane." "What do you mean?" Seeing the seriousness in the man's eyes, Natalie's mind went blank momentarily, clearly not understanding what he meant. But in an instant, she seemed to have an answer.

Her heart raced, and she paled! What? Hadn't Zane always been...

Been what? In this instant, Natalie shattered all her assumptions about Zane deep in her heart.

Were there any simple people in the Entes family? Zane's lying low at Regal Horizons International in the past could have been a temporary measure. So, everything he displayed before may have simply been a facade.

In recent years, Malcolm's methods have been ruthless. Since that was the case, imagining how vicious Icarus might also have been was easy.

Perhaps there were many other things unknown to them!

Chapter 815 Lost Quite a Bit No one knew what Zane had lost on this path and how patient he was before reaching that position! "Nat, you're a smart woman." So this time, Malcolm..." Before Natalie could finish, Austin continued, "Has lost quite a bit." Natalie took a sharp breath at his words. At this moment... she finally realized that Bianca's life was over.

When Malcolm destroyed everything Bianca had, she hated him so much! Had Zane made Malcolm pay the price by using Bianca's revenge against him, just as Austin said? If so, then...!

Austin looked at Natalie and added, "Malcolm has almost lost all his trusted aides to Zane!" Natalie's head was spinning.

Almost everyone knew what kind of network Malcolm had in Simeria all these years! And now, because of Bianca's actions, which brought them to this point...

It wasn't just a blow to Malcolm's power.

She had practically trampled all over his pride and ignited his vengeful instincts! In this light, Malcolm will be even less likely to let Bianca go. No one could see what the future held for them at this moment.

Bianca's days ahead in Simeria will be

Although Natalie was still safe under Austin's protection, Cedric and Rebecca were still here.

Even though they couldn't meet Natalie now, Cedric wouldn't give up so easily! Cedric eventually settled down in Phoenix Villa while in Dawnvale. Lucas and Kyle followed him, and Rebecca also lived with him.

"ced, why do you have to do this?" Rebecca was heartbroken when she saw Cedric in this state.

Cedric had just undergone Surgery, and he was still suffering from his injuries.

It didn't take a genius to tell that Cedric's actions now were detrimental to his recovery.

But Cedric seemed to ignore Rebecca's § words. a" Just as Cedric was about to drink more, Rebecca grabbed his wrist. "Don't drink anymore!" Although it was only red wine, it still contained alcohol.

When Isaac arrived and saw the scene before him, he frowned deeply. He looked at Rebecca and said, "Rebecca, please leave. Let me talk to him." Rebecca looked at Isaac for along while before she finally nodded. "I'll leave it to you. Thank you." Since Cedric moved to Dawnvale, Rebecca had been with him almost every day.

As Cedric had just undergone surgery, his body couldn't tolerate alcohol right now. But if they didn't keep a careful eye on him, Cedric would use alcohol to drown his sorrows.

Rebecca left. Once Cedric and Isaac were alone, Isaac stepped forward and snatched the bottle of red wine from Cedric's hands.

Then, Isaac said, "Do you have any idea what's going on right now?" nshe's doing well with Lord Austin!" When Cedric spoke, his voice was filled with bitterness. That pain spread intricately to his heart, making him feel the pain even more clearly.

And when he mentioned Austin, Isaac's face also darkened.

Before he could speak, Cedric continued, "We used to be like that too!" Natalie and Cedric were close and intimate during their ten years together. The times they spent together had been wonderful.

So now that he was faced with these setbacks, Cedric still couldn't believe that Natalie had truly left him.

Those were beautiful moments, and anyone who witnessed them envied them! Even Irwin did! Because of this envy, in the end...

Isaac recalled how those people had manipulated his anger towards Natalie, prompting him also to commit unforgivable acts against her.

So, Isaac only sighed at Cedric's pain and said, "Forget about her." "Isaac!" "So much has happened between you two, and it can't be undone!" Isaac said firmly.

These words were hurtful to Cedric.

Isaac only knew some of the things that happened between Cedric and Natalie, but he could tell that reconciliation was impossible! And that was before factoring in the fact that Austin treated Natalie very well.

Even if Irwin had not come into Natalie's life after her divorce from Cedric, or if Natalie had not married Austin, Cedric still would have no place in her life.

"Can't be undone?" Cedric looked at Isaac, feeling somewhat dazed.

Many people claimed that it was impossible for him to reconcile with Natalie, but none of them had the guts to say it to his face. Because every time someone said something about it, he didn't want to hear it anymore.

But Isaac was expressing this clearly and directly in Cedric's face.

It made Cedric realize more clearly what the situation between him and Natalie was now...

When he truly understood all of this, his heart ached terribly.

[Isaac looked at Cedric and nodded.

"When you came, you already knew it was impossible."

That... was true! When Cedric came to Dawnvale to look for Natalie, he only wanted to see if she was doing well.

But when he actually saw Natalie with Austin, he couldn't accept it! Clearly, she was his! All of this belonged to him. Everything she did belonged to him. Her warmth, smile, gentleness... all of it was his! So how could this happen? How could it all belong to someone else now? Cedric had never thought about this before, but now...! When he heard Isaac say these things, his consciousness became increasingly clearer.

"Even if Kayla didn't exist, she wouldn't forgive you for everything that happened between you two. And with Kayla around, she's even less likely to forgive you!" n n "So, forget about her!" Besides forgetting, Cedric had no other way out.

Kayla...! When Kayla was mentioned, the ache in Cedric's heart became even heavier as he thought about Luna! esi That was why Natalie could never forgive him!

She loved Luna so much, and she had risked her life to give birth to that child. Yet, he had almost used that same child to save Isabella's child.

"If Natalie hadn't found Luna in time back then, would you have used her to save Kayla?" At those words, Cedric trembled fiercely.

Would he have? Obviously, he would have! But now...! Perhaps it was because he had been separated from Natalie for too long, or maybe Natalie's resolute attitude in leaving him made him realize what he had done.

What kind of harm had he caused

Natalie in the past? He finally understood! Isaac looked at Cedric and said solemnly, "So, forget about her, okay?" These words made Cedric realize he had no choice but to move on from Natalie.

But how could he? "We have a child together!" If she could do her life over again, she wouldn't have given birth to Luna!" Isaac exclaimed.

If Natalie had known beforehand that Cedric would harm his own daughter, would she still have chosen to bring Luna into the world? So, it didn't matter that they had a child together. Even if there were anything else between them, it wouldn't change anything!

Chapter 816 Malcolm Wants to Return to Simeria Dawnvale was originally calm, but there had been turmoil and disturbances lately because of Cedric's actions against Austin. However, he withdrew those actions, and Dawnvale returned to its peaceful state.

Austin received the news while having breakfast with Natalie. When they heard the news from Cole, Natalie subconsciously glanced at Austin.

"What are you thinking about?" Austin asked.

Natalie shook her head. "Nothing." Obviously, she remained unaffected by whatever news Cedric might bring "here's something I need to tell you,"

Austin said to Natalie after some thought.

"What is it?" Natalie asked.

Could there be anything more unsettling for them than this news? Cedric was like a lingering shadow to Natalie. Knowing that Rebecca and Cedric were both in Dawnvale, she was constantly worried about them being around Luna.

Due to Cedric's history of harming Luna, Natalie was adamant about not letting him see the child. As a result, Austin personally escorted Luna during this period, and when he couldn't, Natalie would go herself.

In any case, she wouldn't allow Cedric or Rebecca the chance to see Luna Austin looked at Natalie and said, Malcolm wants to return to Simeria." Although it didn't directly concern her, Natalie couldn't help but gasp in shock at the news involving Bianca.

"But... how?" she blurted out.

After all, Zane had already taken over the Entes family. Per their family rules, the other heirs who had lost the battle were supposed to leave Simeria and never return.

What was Malcolm up to? "He's completely severed ties with the Entes family. His name now is Noir Lyndoria," Austin explained Noir Lyndoriaç"

Natalie felt the name sounded peculiar Before she could fully comprehend it, Austin continued, "Remember I mentioned that Malcolm had lost almost all his trusted aides to Zane? That happened in Lyndoria after Malcolm left Simeria." No wonder the name sounded strange.

It was actually the name of a place.

"The implication of him taking that name is probably because his world was plunged into darkness after what happened there. I'm sure Zane understands that since he was involved in it." Malcolm's use of such a name was undoubtedly a reminder to those involved in the turmoil in his life "Then, Bianca..."

Natalie hadn't been calm all night after discovering what was happening with Bianca. Now, hearing that Malcolm wanted to return to Simeria, her anxiety skyrocketed.

What would happen if those two were to meet again? It was easy to imagine the chaos and tragedy...! "It's likely that he'll be gunning straight for her." And Malcolm might also be going after Zane.

Natalie had sensed Malcolm's ruthlessness when he left Simeria, and now, it seemed he was causing even bigger trouble.

Her heart ached for Bianca.

What could she say at this moment?

Upon hearing Malcolm's threats to Bianca over the phone, Natalie feared for Bianca's future. After witnessing the current situation, Natalie's heart ached even more.

"Is there anything we can do?" Natalie asked Austin, but he shook his head.

"No matter where Bianca goes now, she can't escape him." After all, this incident had sown deep enmity. Things would have been fine if Malcolm had only been forced to leave Simeria. However, Zane also made his move during Malcolm's departure.

Although this was normal since it had been the tradition for generations, Malcolm harbored resentment

Since there was resentment, it needed an outlet.

Now, all that anger was directed towards Bianca! Meanwhile, Bianca was still in bed when Natalie's call woke her up.

Natalie's tone sounded urgent as she said, "Bia, you need to escape!" Bianca was initially half asleep, but she jolted awake at Natalie's words. She had consumed a lot of alcohol last night after returning home, and now she was experiencing a slight headache and bloated feeling. So, hearing Natalie's words confused her.

"Nat, what are you talking about?" Escape? Why would she need to escape? "Malcolm is returning to Simeria," Natalie explained.

non "The situation between you two is probably more complex than you thought." Natalie recalled what Austin had said to her. There were probably many things Bianca still didn't know. She had thought it was just about making Malcolm lose his inheritance rights, but there was more to it than that.

That was why everyone was more worried now.

Bianca, who had been dazed, was now more awake.

"Nat, slow down and tell me everything! 'His name now is Noir Lyndoria!" "What?" Bianca usually had a clear mind, but Natalie's words momentarily confused her. She tried hard to sort out her emotions, but everything was chaotic.

Alot had happened in her life during this time, and all these incidents were piling up! What was going on? Natalie relayed everything Austin had said to her to Bianca. Just as Natalie had suspected, Bianca truly knew nothing about it.

Bianca had seen Malcolm in a hyster ical state before, He even used such a method of exploiting her weakness to drag her into this mess However, Bianca never thought that there was something bigger behind it! "So, Zane... he...?" Bianca didn't return to her senses for a long time after Natalie explained everything to her. Her heart sank even further when she learned that Malcolm hated her so much and that Zane was involved.

Something in her world was completely shattered.

"Malcolm wasn't the only one who lost the battle to become the Entes family's head. But why didn't the others hate you or seek revenge against you '

If the only reason was the loss of their inheritance rights, Malcolm wouldn't go to such great lengths to deal with Bianca.

"So, Malcolm lost many important people to Zane during that time?" "The incident at Lyndoria is probably not as simple as we think!" Maybe a lot happened during their time in Lyndoria, but no one knew the full details now.

Bianca was speechless.

What were the grievances between her and Malcolm now?! "He has no right to hate me!" Even if those things happened, they were events that occurred after the dust had settled for the Entes family and had nothing to do with her "But he's holding you accountable for everything! Those people he lost then are likely more important to him than Faye!" Bianca fell silent at Natalie's words.

Chapter 817 Lord Malcolm Never Deceived You Bianca was in a daze after she hung up Natalie's call. She sat on the bed and was unable to return to her senses for a long time.

The words Natalie said to her kept lingering in her mind...! Bianca had always assumed Malcolm's hatred toward her was about Faye and the Entes family's inheritance.

Why did Zane do those things after Malcolm left Simeria? Bianca let out a heavy sigh. She had told Natalie that Malcolm had no right to hate her, even if it was true. | However, the thought of what happened in Lyndoria made Bianca involuntarily take a cold breath.

Trembling, she picked up her phone.

Eventually, she dialed Zane's number.

As she looked at the flashing number on the phone, her heart tightened further. @ Soon, the call connected, and a man's voice came through. "Hello." A person was usually the most spirited in the morning, but Bianca could hear the exhaustion in the man's voice.

However, Bianca could only take a few deep breaths to suppress the heaviness in her chest.

Then, she asked, "Zane, what happened in Lyndoria?" Although Natalie had already told her what happened, Bianca couldn't help but feel her chest tighten when she talked about it with Zane.

Bianca didn't know anything! She heard Zane's breathing become increasingly heavier, but he remained silent. At that moment, Bianca became even more certain that what Natalie had said was true.

After Malcolm left Simeria, an unprecedented conflict occurred between him and Zane! Instead of directly answering her question, Zane said, "He's coming back. You should be careful!" Based on Zane's reaction, Bianca already had a rough idea that something had indeed happened in Lyndoria.

And when she heard Zane's words, Bianca's heart sank.

Everything was in chaos! Who was the one with more grievances now? "Zane, what are you trying to do to me?" When she asked this question, Bianca seemed unable to hear her own voice.

Obviously, she didn't expect such a thing to happen. Previously, she had been hysterical in front of Malcolm.

Ultimately, she managed to drive that man out of Simeria! So, they were considered even when it came to the incident with Faye.

After all, Malcolm hurt her, and Bianca made things difficult for him...! But now, Malcolm didn't just lose Simeria. He also lost many people and things that were very important to him.

Zane fell silent.

"You n "That has nothing to do with you." Upon hearing Zane's response, Bianca couldn't help but roar angrily, "But now he wants to hold me accountable for everything!" Yes, the matter was unrelated to her.

That was also Bianca's first thought.

But upon closer examination, was that really the case? "If I left Simeria, he would have done the same to me!" Zane exclaimed.

Bianca was speechless.

So, that was it?

Did Austin concede Simeria and the Entes family to Zane because he knew that Zane wouldn't do that to him? But what was going on now? When people stood in different positions, naturally, their actions were different.

In the past, Bianca always understood this principle! So, why was she angry now? Bang! Bianca slammed the phone down fiercely, her heart pounding.

She had to escape! That was the first thought that came to her mind. She wanted to leave this damn place! She would only waste away her life by staying here. She didn't want to spend her remaining years in such a place.

Once she made her decision, her body moved automatically, and she packed her luggage in a frenzy.

As Bianca carried the heavy suitcase downstairs, Ruth's expression changed when she saw her.

"Lady Bianca, what are you doing?" "Get out of my way!" Bianca snapped at Ruth before she could approach.

Zane had already transferred Neil away from this place, indicating that he had completely sided with the Holly family.

And because of Neil's absence, Ruth had dominated the place.

Verdant Villa used to be Bianca's only place of peace in Simeria, but now...

"Lord Malcolm is on his way here. Lady Bianca, it seems like you've forgotten something," Ruth reminded coldly.

And this reminder made the previously irrational Bianca completely sober up! "Where is he?" Clearly, Bianca was referring to her brother.

Ruth was intelligent, and she instantly understood what Bianca was asking.

She said, "Lord Malcolm initially wanted to send him to your side. But he thought you were too unruly. He believed you would only act out more if that person stayed by your side!"

Malcolm had initially said he would send Bianca's brother to her. But in the end, he only sent her a sample for a DNA test.

So, Bianca was uncertain who the person was and whether they were alive and well. However, given Malcolm's character, Bianca believed her brother would not be living a good life under his control.

Her heart tightened as she recalled the days when her life was worse than a pig by Malcolm's side.

She glared fiercely at Ruth, but Ruth approached respectfully and began slowly taking Bianca's suitcase from her hands.

Bianca clenched her fist.

Then, Ruth spoke respectfully and gently, "In the end, this is about your mother. You should show a little more concern." Bianca fell silent.

Her mother! It was strange to think that such a presence still existed in her life.

"How many times did he lie to me?" Bianca glared at Ruth fiercely.

Bianca had always been confused about the matter regarding her brother. At first, when Malcolm mentioned her relatives in this world, she didn't believe it.

However, after the test, she discovered that her brother and mother existed! Ruth replied, "Lord Malcolm never deceived you. As for whether they can continue to live well... it's up to you!" Bianca fell silent and closed her eyes to conceal the dangerous glint in them.

However, concealing the chill emanating from her body was difficult.

"Lord Malcolm." Ruth greeted Malcolm respectfully.

Bianca also opened her eyes instantly at Ruth's words.

After only a short absence, seeing him | appear here again smoothly showed that this man held much more power behind him than the other Entes family men.

Throughout history, only a few members of the Entes family could leave Simeria and return in such a short time.

Now, Malcolm looked at Bianca as if she was a startled little prey.

"What's this? Can't resist the urge to escape already?"

Chapter 818 Your Significant in Zane's Heart = Bianca was already furious, and seeing the dangerous smirk in the man's eyes made her anger burn even hotter within her chest.

In contrast, Malcolm seemed utterly carefree as he sat down at the nearby sofa. He casually picked up Bianca's sleeping kitten and cradled it in his arms.

Sensing the danger, the kitten instantly bristled and bit Malcolm's hand before leaping away.

"How dare that little beast...?! You, come and attend to Lord Malcolm's wound!" Ruth exclaimed, her heart pounding at the sight of Malcolm being bitten.

At Ruth's command, Bianca saw servants promptly appear with a medical kit and respectfully tend to Malcolm's wound.

Everything was so...! Bianca's expression darkened at the sight before her.

"Figured something out?" Malcolm looked at her with a smile, seemingly unfazed by the cat's bite.

Bianca glared at him. Her gaze, already fierce, now seemed like it could tear him apart.

Malcolm spoke, "So, what do you think you are to Zane now?" Neil was gone, and Malcolm's people had taken over Verdant Villa in just a short time. It was obvious that Bianca was also under his control.

Why had everything gone so smoothly? Ultimately, it was because...! "If you still have something against me, then come at me! I won't run! Let my brother go!" Bianca's words were sharp and menacing.

Bianca's heart couldn't help but churn when she thought about how Malcolm had taken over everything in such a short time.

She had underestimated him. She thought their feud would end by making him lose everything and driving him out of Simeria. But she seemed to have overlooked the man's background and the original struggles of the Entes family!

Now, this loss wasn't just about a position...

"Isn't that what I'm doing?" Malcolm responded. His smile was still present, but something sinister lurked beneath the surface.

"What exactly do you want?" "I want you to become his queen!" "You know that's impossible!" Staying here to vex the Holly family was already the best Bianca could do within her power. Zane wasn't a foolish ruler, so becoming his queen wouldn't be easy.

"This time, your mother was released from the hospital smoothly. If you continue speaking to me with this attitude, I can't guarantee what will happen next time!" Bianca was silent.

Malcolm knew everything? "Who is she?" Bianca's voice was tinged with restrained anger. All this time, Malcolm had been the one speaking all this time, and she knew nothing! Malcolm pushed aside the servant attending to his wound and stood up.

Then, he slowly walked towards Bianca.

At that moment, the air around him was cold and oppressive.

Even though Bianca had never truly feared this man, she instinctively tried to dodge to the side when he reached out his hand.

But in an instant, she felt him grab her chin forcefully.

Bianca attempted to shake him off, but the man's strength was overwhelming, leaving her with no escape! He roughly straightened her, and their gazes locked together.

Bianca tried to break away again, but Malcolm's grip tightened even more.

The pain caused Bianca to gasp for air, and his smirk grew wider.

"Looks like you're still afraid of me!" Afraid? Bianca would never admit to being afraid of Malcolm, but her body couldn't help but react. After all, she had endured much suffering in his hands.

How could she not be afraid? Bianca took several deep breaths, suppressing the dull pain in her chest.

"What exactly do you want?" "You'll learn about your mother the day you become the queen. So, don't ask these pointless questions anymore!" Without waiting for Bianca's response, the man pushed her away. Then, he reached out, and Ruth immediately handed him a white handkerchief.

After wiping his hands, he tossed the pristine cloth on the ground. Every move he made was filled with disdain for Bianca.

Bianca struggled to collect her thoughts for a long time. She was completely lost.

Before she knew it, she was calling Natalie.

When the call connected, Bianca spoke before Natalie could say anything.

"Nat, what should I do now?" On the other end of the line, Natalie was stunned. She had never heard such a question from Bianca.

What was going on?! "Bia, what happened?" "He's back!"

What?! After learning what Austin had told her, Natalie realized Malcolm was not as simple as they had initially thought.

Now that she heard Malcolm was back in Simeria, she knew that it would not be easy for Bianca to break free from him.

This thought made Natalie even more worried.

"Bia, you need to-" "I can't run!" Bianca's words were firm, indicating the difficult situation she was in.

When Natalie learned Malcolm was returning to Simeria, her first instinct was to urge Bianca to escape quickly!

No matter what kind of entanglement they had between them, Bianca shouldn't get involved with these people. She should flee to a place where he couldn't find her.

Bianca shouldn't care about what might happen in Simeria or what might happen to her mother, whom she had never met.

And Bianca's initial reaction was the same. She wanted to leave...! After she learned about her mother, she went to a hospital to verify the authenticity of the critical illness notice. She even personally watched the entire process of the DNA test.

Now, Malcolm was giving her all the information she couldn't get in the past...!

"Nat, before losing Grandma, I was loved. Grandma said my mother... also loved me!" People said a woman would always have a difficult relationship with her mother-in-law. However, if Bianca's grandmother could speak highly of her mother, then it meant...

Until everything was clarified, Bianca couldn't just leave. At least she had to figure out what happened back then.

It didn't matter whether Bianca's mother had loved her or not! "Malcolm is dangerous. I can't take the risk!" It wasn't that Bianca was afraid to take risks, but she simply couldn't. Malcolm was capable of anything!

Natalie also knew that, so she understood Bianca's decision.

"But you..." "I just don't know what to do anymore!" Bianca exclaimed.

Malcolm insisted that Bianca had to become Zane's queen to discover the truth about her mother, but becoming his queen was challenging.

Even if she was still his legal wife, what did that matter?

Chapter 819 Don't Come Here Again Bianca was well aware of what Malcolm was using her for.

He did this solely to prevent an alliance between the Holly family and Zane. But if the alliance failed, Bianca would also be caught in the storm in Simeria.

When Natalie heard this, her heart tightened. "Bia!" Natalie used to think that her life was already complicated enough. But after seeing Bianca's state, she realized that even more complex situations and people were more miserable than her! Bianca was a perfect example, In Simeria, she tried so hard to break free from Malcolm's clutches! But after doing so much, she was trapped in this mess with no hope of escape...! Natalie knew very well what it meant to Bianca that her mother was still alive. After all, Natalie had come from a similar background.

A child who was not cherished and loved when growing up would have a longing for love and care that may have been lacking in the past.

Bianca grew up with her grandmother and longed for a mother's love so much! Although Bianca seemed like a strong woman at work, she envied those who could return to their mother's house for a meal during the holidays. During those times, she could do nothing except sleep in her apartment or travel alone,

- People have said that those without attachments have a good life. However, those who lack attachments often struggle to find a sense of belonging.

For years, Bianca has wanted to know who her mother really was. She also wanted to know what happened back then that separated her parents.

No one expected that Bianca would discover the existence of her mother under such terrifying circumstances, and that this man would go as far as to threaten her with the very person she had been longing to learn about! After hanging up Bianca's call, Natalie sighed. She was in the car, having just dropped Luna off at school.

At this moment, Natalie understood even more how helpless Bianca must feel.

Suddenly, she noticed a figure at the corner of the school fence—it was Cedric! He was wearing a black windbreaker and standing outside the fence, looking into the schoolyard. Natalie followed his gaze and saw the teachers playing games with the children. Luna was among them and seemed extremely happy playing whatever game she was playing.

Luna's white teeth gleamed in the sun when she smiled, and she looked incredibly cute.

Cedric's eyes were full of tenderness and affection. However, those _ emotions were overshadowed by a sense of helplessness.

So, seeing him like this now made her feel unreal.

And this tenderness also seemed ironic to Natalie.

Cedric continued to observe his daughter as Kyle said, "You had a fever last night. Maybe we should go back!" After all, Cedric had recently had surgery and was still recovering.

However, Cedric seemed as if he hadn't heard Kyle's voice at all, watching Luna as she threw herself into the teacher's arms. The teacher kindly caught the child, and it was clear that Austin had taken the best care of everything for Luna at school.

When Kyle saw Natalie, he froze for a moment.

"Ma... Ms. Walker!" Before he could refer to her as the Johnson family's daughter-in-law, as he usually did, Kyle corrected himself and addressed Natalie appropriately.

Natalie nodded in response.

When Cedric heard Kyle's voice, he snapped back to attention. Seeing Natalie, a trace of panic flashed in his eyes.

He had wanted to see her all this time, but he hadn't been able to due to Austin's interference.

Things were completely different now!

Cedric never thought he'd need another man's permission to meet Natalie one day! The outcome was truly bitter, and it made his heart ache inexplicably.

Natalie looked at Cedric. Then, she coldly said, "Don't come here again!" Her demeanor was cold, as usual, when she spoke to him.

In the past, they...! Actually, they really couldn't dwell on the past between them. After all, too much had happened.

At one time, Natalie was tender with him, and he cherished and pampered her like someone precious.

Yet now, what was left between them? Nothing... absolutely nothing! "That's still my daughter!" Cedric's tone had a hint of stubbornness when he said this.

But when Natalie heard him say that, she chuckled.

"Forget about her!" Cedric fell silent at Natalie's words. | Natalie didn't bother arguing so much.

She just expressed her opinions.

The tenderness in Cedric's eyes when he watched Luna vanish when he heard Natalie telling him to forget about the child, and he suddenly felt heavy.

How could Natalie say that so easily?

"Natalie, how can you be so cruel?" Each word from Cedric was filled with indescribable pain.

Losing Natalie completely was the cruelest thing Cedric could imagine happening to him.

Was he also about to lose the right to see his daughter? "T have to be cruel to you!" Natalie exclaimed.

Cedric and Kyle were speechless at Natalie's declaration. At this moment, Cedric felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He stood stiffly in place and trembled all over! Before he could speak, Natalie continued, "If I'm not cruel to you, it would defy all reason!"

While Cedric remained silent, Kyle actually inwardly agreed with what Natalie said. — Although Kyle had served Cedric for a long time and had seen how troubled Cedric had been lately, he had seen too much of what Cedric had done to Natalie.

So even though he was close to Cedric, Kyle also felt that if Natalie forgave Cedric, that would truly defy all reason.

But when Natalie said those words, what kind of pain did it bring Cedric? Cedric's already pained heart was filled with more agony after he processed her words.

"Do you have to be like this?"

"Yes!" Natalie said firmly.

At this moment, Cedric couldn't find any words to refute her. He felt guilty for speaking so definitively! Yes, their relationship had come to this.

"If you insist on this, then I believe we also need to make a judgment about Luna's custody!" Cedric looked at Natalie in disbelief.

"What do you mean?" He hadn't even done anything! Was she saying she would sue him?! "Exactly what I said! Even in the eyes of the law, I don't think a father who would do such things to his own daughter is acceptable, right?" n "

"If it really comes to that, justice will tell you whether you have the right to see her!" — So, she would sue him for just looking at Luna?

Chapter 820 Is That Even a Valid Question? Cedric had to admit that Natalie was a ruthless woman! He chuckled bitterly. He never imagined things would come to this between him and Natalie.

Before, Rebecca wanted to sue Natalie over the child! But once everyone knew what really happened, it became clear that no one had the right to sue Natalie.

So Cedric had never thought about custody rights in such an extreme way.

But now, it seemed that Natalie had! "Do you really not want to see me that badly?" "Is that even a valid question?" Or was what she did before not clear enough? Too many women had previously compromised for the sake of their children, and it had become anorm.

But when Natalie saw Cedric hurt Luna because of Kayla, she realized that Some compromises were unnecessary.

If a broken home ultimately brought harm to the child, then what was the point of those compromises? Because of this, Natalie had absolutely no intention of compromising on this matter!

In the end, Cedric left, and Natalie returned to Westhill Enclave.

Austin knew what had happened at the school gate, so he immediately pulled Natalie into his arms when she walked in. His warmth comforted Natalie's cold heart.

"I'll pick up and drop off Luna from now on," Austin said, his tone tinged with concern.

Hearing his concern, Natalie smiled and said, "Don't worry, I'm not that fragile." Once upon a time, Natalie was indeed fragile, but now things were different.

In the past, when facing Cedric, she would think of the harm he had caused her and the injustices he had committed.

But now, things were different! When facing that man, even across two lifetimes... her heart remained calm.

Meanwhile, Malcolm had returned to Simeria, and Bianca's world was about to explode! Zane had hardly been back to Verdant Villa recently, except for that one day he asked her to leave, Today, he returned once more.

Seeing the kitten in Bianca's arms, a hint of complexity flashed in Zane's eyes, Bianca didn't expect him to come back tonight. "You didn't say you were Wr TO 00NUS coming back, so I didn't have anyone prepare anything," "No need, I'll leave soon." Bianca didn't know how to feel when she heard Zane say he would leave soon. After all, when Zane used to come back, he would stay here for a while, But now, he didn't stay here anymore, However, it may be for the best.

"So, what's the matter?" Bianca was a very astute person. So when Zane said this, she also got straight to the point.

Both of them were people who held back. No one knew what was churning in their hearts at this moment, Wy TV eVnNGe Zane lit a cigar and took a puff. Bianca used to dislike this smell, but because it was Zane, she tolerated it.

In fact, she unknowingly began to develop a liking for this scent somewhere along the way.

"The Holly family approached you, right?" "Yes. Their butler came to see me." And Zane had tacitly allowed it, hadn't he? So when Zane asked this question, Bianca felt inexplicably aggrieved.

It seemed like Zane could sense her thoughts as he stared at her silently for along time.

Looking at how he remained silent, Bianca opened her mouth to say something, However, no words came to mind.

So, she closed her mouth and also stayed silent.

Finally, Zane asked, "So, are you planning to stay here?" Bianca abruptly looked up at Zane. At that moment, she also understood why Zane tacitly allowed the Holly family's butler to meet her.

By doing so, Zane was indirectly telling her that she was already on thin ice in Simeria when she decided to stay here.

It was completely different from before. Now, the position by his side was crucial. So, even a slight mistake could have dire consequences if she chose to stay.

Was he using this method to warn her so she would leave Simeria voluntarily? When she thought like this, the grievances in Bianca's heart faded away.

She took a deep breath and said, "What if I must stay here?" The atmosphere fell silent, and Zane continued to stare at her without a word.

Their eyes met, and turmoil raged in their hearts.

"I know you're afraid of Malcolm, If you want to leave, I'll send you to the safest place." Bianca was speechless, and her already unsettled heart sank even further upon hearing the man's words, "So you're saying I must leave, no matter what?" "Bianca, you're a Smart woman. You've been by my side for a long time.

"Simeria isn't place for you to play love games." After he said that, Bianca's heart felt even more suffocated.

"Then, you..." "It seems there were some misunderstandings between us before." Bianca fell silent.

Misunderstandings? Was it really just a casual fling between them, and she had mistaken it for something serious? Bianca couldn't find the words to { describe her feelings, and her heart sank further, "I've always respected you." Zane turned away from her and took a puff of his cigar.

Turmoil raged in Bianca's heart, and she didn't notice Zane's hand trembling slightly.

Respected her? When she heard the word, Bianca couldn't help but sarcastically laugh.

"No, you didn't respect me. You used me!" The atmosphere between them was tense, worsening further because of wr CV eV Bianca's words, Zane turned back to look at Bianca, and { she met his eyes calmly.

The smile on her lips became increasingly ironic...| What was left between her and Zane? Were they dropping all pretenses between them at this moment? She said, "You're quite cunning, Malcolm is blaming me for everything that happened in Lyndoria!" Bianca originally didn't want to bring up this matter, but now that she heard Zane say that, she knew she couldn't leave Simeria! Zane was trying his best to make her leave, but she couldn't! No matter what, she had to stay in this

7 *1580NUS place.

"Malcolm and I had already settled our \ grievances! But after what happened in Lyndoria, do you think there's anywhere safe for me in this world?" non "Zane, I'm not Someone you can easily manipulate!" After Bianca finished speaking, Zane's expression darkened slightly.

And Bianca's heart now was cold, devoid of any warmth!

Divorce After My Rebirth Chapter 821

Chapter 821 That's Impossible After learning about what happened in Lyndoria, Bianca also understood why Malcolm hated her so much! Perhaps both of them were using her, and their hostility towards each other impacted their actions towards Bianca.

However, she was uncertain to what degree.

Regardless, Bianca was certain of one thing—nothing was as simple as it seemed now! Looking at the man's darkening face, the remorse in Bianca's heart vanished. When she had to stay by Zane's side because of Malcolm's threat, she felt a bit guilty towards this man in front of her.

But after learning about the Lyndoria incident...

She also realized their intentions towards her were not pure, so why should she feel guilty? "I want to be the queen!" Bianca didn't beat around the bush and declared as she looked at the man's darkening face.

After she reached that position and got what she wanted, she could still leave.

Since they were using her, they should also pay the price.

"I don't know what you're trying to accomplish by blaming me for what happened in Lyndoria, but I want that position!" Bianca said as the man's face grew darker.

Everything had changed entirely.

People changed, and circumstances changed.

In the same manner, Zane changed, and Bianca also changed.

"You know that's impossible!" Zane's tone was firm.

Zane's tone was resolute, and Bianca's was even more determined. "I won't let Seraphine have that position." She knew that Malcolm was just trying to prevent the alliance between the Holly family and Zane. As long as she disrupted that, then what would naturally happen next...! "Bianca!" Zane's tone grew stern.

"Just consider it compensation for using me in the Lyndoria incident!" Although this compensation was quite significant, Bianca couldn't care less about it now.

Bianca sat on the sofa, holding the little kitten in her hands and stroking it slowly. Her mind became increasingly clearer as time passed.

She gradually awoke from the chaos and understood more what had happened to her during this period.

Yvette was leaving tomorrow, but before leaving, she came to the Verdant Villa. It must be said that the relationship between these two was quite subtle. After all, alot had happened between them in the past.

But now, Yvette seemed to have some pity for Bianca.

Or perhaps it was more accurate to say that Yvette had finally seen things clearly, so she now felt that Bianca was in a challenging situation and pitied her.

"I'm leaving tomorrow." "I see," Bianca responded calmly.

Yvette had already told Bianca what she needed to say last time, but Bianca was...! "Be careful of the Holly family and my father," Yvette couldn't help but remind her.

The Holly family was already a thorny issue, and because of Irene, the Stewart family probably wouldn't let Bianca off easily either.

When Bianca heard Yvette's reminder, her heart felt even more bitter.

"I never thought I would face such a situation one day." Bianca sighed.

When discussing these things, Bianca couldn't describe what she felt in her heart.

She was in a precarious position where her actions or decisions could have significant consequences.

Yvette sighed and said, "If you've decided to stay with him, you inevitably have to face this...!" Whether to seek revenge against her or to exert influence over Zane and some of the families in Simeria, Malcolm effectively placed Bianca in a vulnerable position. Malcolm may never have imagined that Bianca's partnership with Zane would ultimately become the most potent means of leverage over her.

"Since you put it that way, it seems it's impossible for me to avoid it." "You can choose to leave," Yvette said.

Even now, Yvette still wanted to persuade Bianca to leave. There were too many things to face here, and not everyone dared to face them! Moreover, this was just the beginning.

Bianca fell silent when Yvette mentioned leaving. Since Yvette saw everything clearly now, she felt it was a rare sense of relief to leave this place.

The undercurrents within Simeria and these families were suffocating. They also caused too much reluctance...! But even if one was reluctant, they had to completely let go to find release.

"When I can leave, I'll definitely do that!" Bianca said solemnly after a long pause.

Yvette frowned at her words. She had been with the Entes family for many years and was also an extremely clever woman. So, when she heard Bianca's words, she instantly grasped their meaning.

"What happened to you?" In Yvette's opinion, Bianca was a very straightforward person. But now that it was time to leave, she suddenly changed her attitude.

Bianca wasn't someone who valued fame and fortune too much.

So, there was no need to overthink why Bianca suddenly changed. Yvette knew that something must have happened to Bianca that prevented her from leaving smoothly.

"What could have happened? You should go to Dawnvale. I'm glad you have such determination now." Bianca didn't want to say anything.

Seeing Bianca's reluctance to talk, Yvette swallowed the words she wanted to ask.

Bianca added, "Yvette, I'm glad to see you carefree!" After all, Yvette's family had done such things to her before, which caused her to be wholly disappointed in them. So, she didn't want to do anything for those people. At this moment, Yvette just wanted to leave. With so much disappointment, she could truly let go.

But it was different for Bianca.

Since Bianca was determined, she would obtain what Zane and Malcolm owed her, no matter the expense.

When she thought about what those two men had done to her, she didn't feel the need to be considerate of them.

"Do you know what you're up against with this decision?" Yvette was still somewhat worried about Bianca.

And when it came to that, Bianca fell silent.

"You're actually isolated and helpless here, you know?" That was the most frightening thing for Yvette to think about! Before Bianca could speak, Yvette continued, "Zane won't be your support, do you understand?" Zane? When Yvette mentioned Zane, Bianca's heart felt even more bitter.

Whether she admitted it or not, she had relied on Zane for a long time.

After all, she had suffered too much at Malcolm's hands before, so when Zane reached out to her...! Thinking back to how she had acted then, Bianca chuckled. "I thought I had outgrown my youthful naivety, but it seems I'm still easily moved."

What should she say about herself in this situation? Yvette was speechless. Seeing Bianca like this, her eyes showed even more concern.

Chapter 822 Leaving Is the Best Option Perhaps Bianca was destined to never find peace since arriving in Simeria.

And now, any semblance of calm in her life had been shattered completely.

After being entangled with Malcolm, Bianca only focused on getting rid of him and seeking revenge. She wanted to destroy everything he had, then find a place where nobody knew her and quietly spend the rest of her life.

But now, even this simple wish... was crushed by that man! Malcolm had returned to Simeria as Noir Lyndoria, and nobody knew what was secretly brewing between him and Zane. Nobody knew the deadly struggle between the two brothers or what kind ww 19 BONUS of earth-shattering conspiracy was happening.

And because of Bianca's original conflict with Malcolm, she had now been completely drawn into this vortex. Even if she wanted to escape, there was no chance! At the moment, she could only figure out how to become Zane's queen.

After Yvette left, Lorraine arrived. She looked at Bianca and said, "Don't go out these days, okay?" Bianca was silent.

Before Yvette left, she warned Bianca to be careful of the Holly family and her father. Now Lorraine had come to advise her not to go out.

oJ +15 BONUS What exactly was happening in Simeria now? Bianca wasn't a fool, and naturally, she also sensed it. Since Malcolm returned with a changed identity, the atmosphere in Simeria had become even more eerie.

Bianca sincerely said, "Thank you, Lorraine." It was rare that someone helped her. At least, not everyone was against her.

But even so, Bianca still felt the oppressive atmosphere.

Lorraine said, "Malcolm has been planning meticulously for so many years. He won't let this matter go so easily." Lorraine didn't know what had happened in Lyndoria, but it seemed that Malcolm didn't intend to just let Bianca go.

When Lorraine said this, Bianca fell silent. Her heart felt heavier at this moment.

"Bianca, leaving is the best option for you now," Lorraine said hesitantly.

Leaving, huh? Everyone who knew Bianca and understood her was telling her to leave now.

And they were right. Leaving was actually the best salvation for her.

But could she? "Lorraine, I also want to leave!" Despite her purely contractual relationship with Zane, Bianca had unwarranted thoughts back then.

However, she had always been clear about her position.

She knew that there would be earth-shattering changes once Zane reached that position. Even if she were his wife, staying by his side, or even in Simeria, wouldn't be easy! But no matter how significant the changes were, and even though Bianca had thought of every possible scenario, she didn't expect the feud between Zane and Malcolm would ultimately drag her into this mess and not allow her to leave.

"Things are different now," Bianca said with a rare trace of resentment in her tone.

Yes, resentment!

There was once a compassionate connection between them, but now she felt something different.

However, she wouldn't go on to harbor hatred. Regardless, it didn't change the fact that she had to stay here.

"So, that's your decision?" Lorraine looked at Bianca, her tone heavy and filled with a hint of reluctance.

Lorraine had grown up in the Entes family and had naturally seen quite a lot. So, she knew the dangers of Bianca's decision.

But Bianca had no choice now.

When people formed attachments, it only took one ill-intentioned individual to disrupt everything.

Bianca could have left Simeria. She was a free person, and she never intended to stay for any emotional burdens.

But now...

At that moment, Bianca looked at Lorraine and firmly said, "Yes, this is my decision!" Lorraine's heart clenched even tighter at Bianca's state. "By doing this, the Holly family won't let you off." The Holly family...! Zane had been spending so much time with Seraphine lately. What would it mean for the Holly family if Bianca affected and disrupted Seraphine's relationship with Zane? Their family would become a Jaughingstock in Simeria! The Holly family would never allow such a thing to happen.

When Bianca heard Lorraine's words, she smiled bitterly. "I have to stay here!" Her tone was resolute.

Seeing that Bianca remained unmoved, Lorraine expressed her concern. "But Zane, he..." No matter what the Holly family did, they ultimately needed Zane's approval. But now, the key was Zane's attitude.

What was Zane's stance on this matter? His actions during this period had already spoken volumes, and Bianca understood.

"I'll move to the manor," Bianca said to Lorraine.

At her words, Lorraine paled.

As Zane's wife, Bianca had every right to move to the manor.

to move to Entes Manor if she wanted to do so. Even if she hadn't become his queen yet, it was still permissible.

"You're going to provoke the Holly family completely!" Lorraine exclaimed in shock.

And what she said was true. Now, everyone in Simeria knew about Zane and Seraphine's relationship, and Seraphine was very likely to be Simeria's future queen.

No, it wasn't just likely.

It was absolutely certain.

What would happen if Bianca were to move to the manor before Seraphine and Zane were officially together:

Lorraine dared not think about it! "You should reconsider this." Lorraine was genuinely worried about Bianca.

After all, Bianca had no significant background in Simeria. If the Holly family decided to make things difficult for her, she would be defenseless.

When Bianca heard Lorraine suggesting she should reconsider, endless pain flickered in her eyes.

"There's no need to think about it!" Bianca's tone was firm as she picked up her coffee and took a sip.

Lorraine fell silent.

So, no matter who tried to persuade Bianca, it wouldn't work? "Are you doing this for Zane?" Bianca looked at Lorraine as she set down her coffee.

Lorraine didn't avoid Bianca's gaze.

She simply said, "Zane wanted you to see what Simeria is really like. I'm here for Zane, and I'm here for you too!" Lorraine probably saw things too clearly, so she didn't want Bianca to get involved in this mess! But Bianca had no choice in this matter now.

When Bianca heard Lorraine say she was also there for her, she felt even more grateful. "Thankyou, but I've already made up my mind." So, Lorraine should tell Zane that!

Y Chapter 823 What More to Hope For \! . .

Did Bianca care? Of course, she did, just a little...! But knowing that Zane had drawn Malcolm's hatred onto himself because of what happened in Lyndoria made that care seem so ridiculous.

And since Zane might be plotting something of his own, her concern seemed laughable...! So now, whether Zane would dislike her because of this wasn't as important to her anymore.

While Zane was attending a charity banquet with Seraphine, Bianca took the opportunity to move to Entes Manor that night.

When this news spread, it shocked the entire Simeria! During this time, Zane had been staying at Entes Manor and hardly returned to Verdant Villa. Neil had also been reassigned to work in the manor.

He was close to Zane and tended to follow him wherever he went.

Since Neil was one of Zane's closest aides and knew what was happening, his expression naturally pale when he saw Bianca at the manor! After a long silence, Neil could only say, "Must you do this?" What exactly was happening in Simeria right now? In Neil's eyes, It was impossible for Bianca to become queen, and her presence had already caused considerable dissatisfaction.

Now, she had stubbornly moved to Entes Manor in this manner...

What kind of impact would that have on those people? Neil was genuinely worried about Bianca, but Bianca just casually replied, "Why is that important? I'm here now, aren't I?" " n "Well, I was supposed to wait for him to pick me up, but he didn't show," Bianca continued calmly.

However, despite her calm demeanor, anyone could sense the turmoil within her, Neil asked, "Wasn't your relationship contractual to begin with?" Bianca fell silent. She didn't expect Neil to be aware of these things.

"So, since the start wasn't good, what more can I hope for now?" Bianca replied.

Since the beginning was so messy, the current situation was something she had anticipated. Or rather, when she decided to retaliate against Malcolm, Bianca knew she was getting herself into trouble! Once she truly retaliated against that man, countless troubles would await her...! But at that time, in her moment of irrationality, she still went ahead and did it.

"Lady Bianca!" "Neil, don't say anything. I'm staying here. Please have someone prepare a room for me." Neil sighed. When he saw Bianca's determination, he knew he could say nothing. It wasn't like he could find the words to say anyway. Or perhaps nothing he could say now held any meaning.

Simeria was only so big, but there were many people with ill intentions.

The news of Bianca entering Entes Manor spread the moment she entered the premises. Within an hour, it was already the talk of the town.

The whole of Simeria was abuzz! Even Natalie, who was far away in pawnvale, knew about it Upon hearing this news, Natalie looked at the man opposite her. "What do you think Bianca is up to now?" Undoubtedly, Natalie was also worried about Bianca.

Does she really know what she's doing? Natalie had to admit that Bianca's methods were stubborn and forceful.

"This is just the beginning for them," Austin spoke as if he had anticipated it.

Natalie fell silent.

Just the beginning In her opinion, something had already started spinning out of control when Bianca arrived in Simeria

But now, it seemed to have entered a new stage.

AY mm .

The most worrying aspect was when it would finally end.

"What do they need to do to end this?" Zane crossed Malcolm's bottom line, and Malcolm won't just let it go. How do you think it will go? Do you think it will end anytime soon?" Natalie fell silent.

Austin was right. There wasn't a possibility of ending this soon.

Natalie frowned while Austin continued, "Now that everything has begun between them, nobody has the right to say when it ends!" "Can't Malcolm end it?"

Obviously, Natalie was still looking at the problem too simplistically. She thought that now everything hinged on Malcolm. She felt that once Malcolm gave the order to stop, then everything would quiet down.

"What do you think Bianca feels about Zane now?" Natalie frowned.

How did Bianca feel about Zane? Natalie recalled what had happened at Lyndoria. Now, it seemed that Malcolm had focused all his resentment on Bianca. But no one knew whether that was true! Also, no one knew what Zane was plotting by directing Malcolm's resentment towards Bianca.

"Why did Zane...?" Natalie trailed off, but her gaze toward Austin grew deepened. She wanted to say that Zane had changed...

But had she really known him to begin with? Obviously, after dealing with Zane, she knew that the people of the Entes family were not as simple as they seemed.

Many times, what someone saw of another person was just the surface level! Austin seemed to understand Natalie's thoughts as if reading her mind, and he spoke with a tone full of indulgence.

"Nat, you don't have to look at me like that. I have no connection with Simeria anymore."

After all, she was a woman who had been hurt! So, at the slightest hint of something happening, she would be on guard...! Natalie lowered her head, not wanting to reveal her feelings towards the Entes family, especially since she was now a part of it as Austin's wife! She simply said, "So Bianca now also despises Zane." After all, according to her understanding of Bianca, she detested being used by others the most. Bianca must have realized many things after learning about what happened in Lyndoria.

"It's not entirely as you see it," Austin interjected.

Natalie nodded in agreement. Yes, she thought that because of the incident in Lyndoria, Bianca might have grown to hate Zane.

But who knew what was really going on? Simeria was always complex. And since Bianca's feelings for Zane had always been vague, Natalie found it even more incomprehensible at this point.

Meanwhile, Bianca had completely settled into Entes Manor. She had even arranged to have the room next to Zane's prepared for herself.

The whole of Simeria was buzzing overnight.

Even in such pressing times, Zane still hadn't returned all night. At the breakfast table, Neil's gaze towards Bianca was noticeably heavier.

Bianca asked, "Where was he last night?" "You should think about what you'll need to deal with soon. When you made this decision, you should have known that you'd be facing many challenges," Neil said, not directly answering Bianca's question but gently reminding her.

Bianca knew exactly what she would be facing next. So when Neil said this, an inexplicable smile appeared on her lips! Then, she said, "Yeah! There'll be a lot to face."

I Chapter 824 The Holly Family Will Likely Come Looking For You 1 II Neil's words implied that Bianca I shouldn't be concerned with where Zane I was or who he was with. Also, judging by I Zane's recent attitude, she couldn't count on him to help her. I Bianca felt a bit uneasy about this, but \ . . I she didn't say anything.

"The Holly family will likely come looking for you," Neil said.

Last night's events had caused a stir throughout Simeria. Now, the potential impact on the Holly family was evident.

Bianca was silent.

They had already approached her once before things escalated. Now, Bianca had a pretty good idea of the Holly family's intentions.

Sure enough, Neil always had the most experience and insight.

In the morning, representatives from the Holly family arrived! Initially, it was just the butler of the Holly family coming to inquire about what Bianca wanted. They wanted Bianca to leave by giving her some conditions.

Today, Eleanor Lancaster, the wife of the current head of the Holly family, came.

Under the canopy of the mansion, the sunlight was just right. It gave a warm feeling, yet it couldn't warm the hearts of everyone present.

Eleanor was probably still recovering from her illness. The butler had mentioned before that she had been hospitalized.

It seemed like Eleanor had been recently discharged, so her complexion still had a hint of paleness. However, it couldn't conceal the elegance and sharpness she had acquired from years of sitting in a high position. With every gesture, she exuded elegance and nobility.

She put down her coffee cup and looked at Bianca.

When Bianca met the woman's eyes, her heart trembled violently.

The older woman before her had such a sharp look in her eyes...! "So, you're Lady Bianca," Eleanor broke the silence. Based on hierarchy, Bianca should be in a position below hers! But when Eleanor uttered Bianca's title, it was biting. She seemed to be mocking Bianca subtly.

Such a tone made Bianca uncomfortable.

But in the end, Bianca didn't say anything. She just nodded at the woman across from her.

Seeing her nod, a faint smile appeared on Eleanor's lips. Her smile looked fragile, but it also gave a sense of danger.

"You're quite bold," Eleanor said as she stirred her coffee. — At this moment, Bianca seemed unable to do anything except remain silent! Eleanor continued, "I've had you investigated!" This statement was quite direct.

When Bianca heard these words, there was an instinctive sense of dissatisfaction.

Back in Verde City, Bianca detested disrespectful individuals the most. But now, Eleanor wasn't just disrespectful — she was openly flaunting it! If it were just a discreet investigation, it would be one thing, but now Eleanor was openly revealing this fact to Bianca! What was she trying to do?

Was she trying to provoke Bianca?) "No matter your reasons, that's inappropriate, right, Madam?" Bianca's tone became sharper.

Eleanor was momentarily stunned by Bianca's words! The investigation had revealed that Bianca had a temper, and last night's events showed just how audacious she truly was.

But still, Eleanor didn't expect her to...! Eleanor's smile deepened, but the sharpness in her eyes intensified.

"You are really bold!" When Eleanor spoke, the danger she exuded covered all signs of her sickly pallor.

Bianca had always been a free-spirited person. Coupled with her time around Malcolm and Zane, she had always considered herself someone who had seen some things in Simeria.

"But now, what was this feeling of being in the presence of a queen? Eleanor looked like she could wither away at any moment, but it did nothing to conceal the danger from her.

Although Eleanor was just a woman, she gave the impression that she held everything in her hands.

"My final advice to you would be to leave Simeria," Eleanor bluntly said without waiting for Bianca to respond.

The straightforwardness with which the words were delivered spoke volumes about this family's presence in Simeria.

Previously, Bianca had seen too much during the inheritance dispute within the Entes family. She had never imagined that there would still be so much to face after the dust settled with the Entes family.

Although this was just the beginning, and nothing had happened yet, Bianca felt the stirring of the hidden turmoil within Simeria. She had always been fearless and determined. She had already made her decision, so she would confront it head-on no matter what occurred.

After a few moments, Bianca calmed herself, and her lips curled up into a meaningful smile.

"[suppose you're not advising me but warning me, right?" Once Bianca finished speaking, the air seemed to thicken with tension.

Eleanor's eyes darkened. She probably didn't expect Bianca to dare to speak to her in such a manner.

After all, what kind of influence did the Holly family have in Simeria over the years? Due to Seraphine's influence, the aspirations of many families had been) suppressed during this time. So, nobody even dared argue or try to compete with I the Holly family!) I As Bianca confidently entered Entes I" Manor, many people gossiped about her I daring move behind her back. Some eagerly anticipated the unfolding drama, waiting to see how this fearless woman would challenge the Holly family. Others were curious to see what kind of scene the Holly family would make with Bianca.

In just a moment, Eleanor regained her composure and said, "So you've decided to stay here?" Her gaze towards Bianca became even sharper.

For a long time, no family in Simeria dared stand against them, except for the Jarvis family, which was a tough nut to crack. Fortunately, the Jarvis family remained uninvolved in this incident.

Originally, it seemed that Seraphine was) bound to become Simeria's future queen.

But unexpectedly, Bianca emerged i I overnight and obstructed her path.

I This was truly interesting! Bianca responded, "Sorry, but I don't think I need to explain anything to you about my decisions." Eleanor was speechless, and her already gloomy expression now flashed with a thick, vicious look upon hearing Bianca's words.

However, Bianca didn't care about Eleanor's vicious look.

"Madam Holly, please leave. I won't be seeing you off." Without waiting for the woman to say anything else, Bianca abruptly stood up and went straight into the house, leaving Eleanor alone in the pavilion.

The moment Bianca stepped inside the house, she shed her tough exterior and) let her guard down in the comfort of her own space.

Chapter 825 Eleanor's Accusations No one knew how much effort Bianca-had put into dealing with Eleanor just now.

That woman was too sharp. Her gaze alone was enough to make one's heart tremble! It was as if everything was within Eleanor's grasp, and she acted as if she wanted to grab the piece of pie in Bianca's hands! How could Bianca allow that? Under the pavilion, Neil approached and respectfully greeted Eleanor.

"Madam Holly." "Neil." "Yes, ma'am?" "You're becoming increasingly muddle headed." Eleanor looked at Neil, her tone and gaze becoming sharper.

Clearly, she was blaming Neil for allowing Bianca to stay here last night.

Neil could only stay silent and respectfully nod. He didn't refute Eleanor's accusation. After all, this lady was furious now, and this anger needed an outlet.

Neil had to admit that Bianca was truly bold. If any other girl in Simeria had witnessed Eleanor's anger, they probably would have broken down in tears long ago.

However, Bianca faced Eleanor head-on.

"Hmph!" Seeing Neil's silence, Eleanor stood up and left without another word.

Even her departing figure looked so dangerous! It was evident that Bianca had thoroughly offended the Holly family at this moment and was in their way.

So, it was easy to guess what would happen next.

Inside her room, Bianca didn't return to her senses for a long time.

It was the first time in all these years that I Bianca had encountered such a person—a woman who made her feel repulsed but also filled her with awe! Eleanor was truly detestable, but somehow, Bianca felt inexplicably bitter when that woman issued her the warning! Although Bianca subconsciously desired to escape from danger just now, she forcibly suppressed the turmoil in her heart after remembering Malcolm's words and realizing what she had to do.

Besides confronting the situation head- on, what else could she do now? just then, her phone vibrated. Glancing at the number, Bianca felt like smashing the phone when she saw the flashing digits.

It was Malcolm.

But eventually, she answered.

"What do you want?" Thinking of the scene just now, Bianca was naturally in a bad mood towards the man on the other end of the phone.

"you did well! You were very courageous," Malcolm praised.

Bianca was speechless. She was already angry because of this man, and her fury intensified after hearing Malcolm say such words.

She closed her eyes and said, "So, shouldn't you..." Before Bianca could finish speaking, Malcolm interrupted her and said, "Bianca, obtain that position!" Obtain that position?

That was Malcolm's initial request, and he insisted on it.

But was it easy to get to that position? can she even last that long?!" Bianca roared.

After all, this was a long battle, and it had just begun! Reaching that position wouldn't be easy, and it would take time.

When Bianca thought of the critical illness notice, she wondered... could her mother wait so long? However, Malcolm said, "Didn't 1 tell you? She's already been discharged." Bianca fell silent.

Her mother had been discharged?! Then, what about the critical illness notice from before? it seems that she's unwilling to succumb to her illness until she finds you, so she did her best to crawl out of death's embrace and back to life. Don't you think you should hurry it up after hearing that?" won She's been looking for you all this time, you know?" What? While Bianca searched for her mother over the years, her mother was also searching for her?! Did that woman also feel the same toward Bianca? Was she how Bianca had imagined her to be? If so, then Bianca...

Previously, all Bianca thought about was that when she found her mother, she would definitely ask her why she had abandoned her.

But after hearing Malcolm's words, she wondered whether the woman had left willingly all those years ago.

What exactly happened back then? { | . . .

At this moment, Bianca's desire to know | intensified.

"Malcolm..." Beep! Beep! Just as Bianca was about to say something more about this matter, Malcolm abruptly hung up.

At this moment, Bianca was even more furious. She wished she could smash the phone! This damn man! What on earth was going on?! He was really infuriating! Eventually, Bianca calmed down. In the silence of her solitary space, Bianca's heart fluctuated constantly.

Her mother... was also looking for her! | A certain conviction stirred within her at | this moment, and it felt terrifying.

\ Later that day, Zane returned to Entes Manor. He instinctively frowned when he saw Bianca sitting at the dining room table, and there was also a hint of displeasure on his face.

When Neil saw Zane return at this time, he was taken aback.

"Sir," Neil respectfully greeted as he stepped forward.

Bianca was silent.

With Zane's return, the atmosphere became exceptionally heavy. However, she couldn't do anything besides remaining silent.

Zane took off his black overcoat and) handed it to Neil, giving off a sharp | impression with his movements. Then, | he sat directly across from Bianca and (stared at her.

Bianca said, "I know you must be very | angry with me right now, and | also..." "Hate you!" Bianca trailed off and didn't finish her sentence.

Zane could do anything to her except for using her.

"Why did you do this?" Zane asked.

He finally spoke, and he was referring to how Bianca had moved to Entes Manor directly without consulting him.

Bianca responded, "Because it's closer to my goal here!" "You know I can't give you that position."

"But I must have it!") Everyone around them was speechless.

I Seeing Bianca's firmness when dealing I with Eleanor earlier in the morning I already made people think she was courting death! \ Now, hearing her firmness toward Zane, everyone couldn't help but gasped in shock inwardly.

It was clear that Bianca wouldn't budge on this matter at all! Zane's eyes dimmed a bit as he looked at her.

I Zane, you cut off my retreat," Bianca said with a pained look as she glanced at Zane.

How could he? At this moment, Bianca was grateful she hadn't left Simeria right after Zane had taken control of the Entes family. If she had, she would inevitably have fallen into Malcolm's hands.

) That man wouldn't have easily let her off I I because of what happened in Lyndoria! I "I don't know what you're up to now, and I know you need the Holly family's support..." Bianca paused and looked at Zane. "Tell me, besides Simeria, where else can I survive?"

I Chapter 826 Reluctance I She wouldn't be safe anywhere else in the I world, and Zane himself cut off all her retreats.

I And Bianca had always been a dignified woman. When Malcolm first forced her to resort to such methods, she felt somewhat sorry for Zane.

But after learning about Lyndoria, she felt no guilt! "Since you're not even sparing me, your pawn, then... I can only reluctantly stay by your side!" " n Reluctantly? Since things had reached this point, it was obvious that there was nothing left to say between them.

\ After Zane was gone, Neil looked at Bianca with a pained expression. "Lady I Bianca, was it necessary for you to do this?" "You know I'm his wife, and I'm just fighting for what I deserve. Is that not allowed?" Bianca had always considered the balance between husband and wife. Back in Verde City, she wondered how to achieve the right balance. Now, she had some understanding of the questions she couldn't figure out back then.

But understanding didn't matter here.

The key now was that she had to stay here —no matter what! "Staying here like this won't benefit you in any way." Neil's tone became stern.

"Obviously, Neil assumed that Bianca was) like those women who were only after material gain. He felt Bianca had been I indifferent previously because she wasn't sure if Zane could reach this position.

But now that Zane had won and achieved I his goal, Bianca didn't want to leave.

Had she been waiting for this moment? Bianca didn't care how Neil saw her.

I "Neil, you don't have to look at me like that." "When Madam Holly came, it was just the beginning. You have to think it through!" Neil implied that Bianca could still back out now. After all, there would be no consequences if she left now.

Bianca fell silent.

Whether she had thought it through wasn't a question she should be considering right now.

\ It had only been a short time since Bianca I moved to Entes Manor, yet Eleanor-had {already gone to see her.

I When Natalie learned about it, her heart {leaped to her throat.

"It seems that family is getting impatient." Now that they were impatient, what exactly would they do? Austin looked at Natalie and said, "The Holly family has always been very rational, but they have never been involved in scandals or embarrassing situations before." Natalie fell silent.

Bianca had also never been involved in such things before. She always had a rigorous work attitude.

Natalie didn't know what to say now. She was filled with worry for Bianca "Well, Luna's getting out of school soon ' : \ iy \ I I'll go pick her up," Austin said as he stood up.

"I'll go with you," Natalie said.

Because of what happened with Cedric last time, Natalie hadn't personally gone to pick up Luna recently.

Obviously, it was because she didn't want to see that man.

Austin nodded and helped Natalie up.

"Okay!" No matter how chaotic Simeria was, Natalie's life remained calm. Looking at the man's profile, Natalie was touched for a moment.

"Lord Austin, thank you." These words were somewhat inexplicable to Austin, but Natalie was sincere when she said them. Seeing Bianca's current situation, Natalie knew what would happen if she were still in Simeria. "You wanted to stay with me without anything in return. That's something not many people can do." Coincidentally, they were both people who didn't want anything and were now together.

It was worth noting that the men of the Entes family were not simple, and the women were even more complex.

When Austin stopped the car at the kindergarten gate, Natalie sighed and said, "No one would have ever imagined that you were so approachable." After all, he was one of the Entes family's men. Yet now, he was living the most ordinary life.

Natalie received no response from Austin and noticed him staring outside.

Following his gaze, she saw something that darkened her complexion. "The people from the Johnson family just don't give up!" It was Rebecca.

If seeing Cedric elicited a kind of indifference, then seeing Rebecca aroused a kind of anger in Natalie.

In Natalie's eyes, Rebecca had no right to call herself a grandmother. After all, Rebecca was once capable of harming even her own grandchild. Yet now, she was putting on this act of being desperate to be with her grandchild for everyone to see! "Recently, she's been coming every day," Austin said.

Natalie's darkened complexion turned even worse when she heard that.

"Hmph!"

"It really makes one wonder what to do. Natalie couldn't help but feel helpless when she said this. For so long, the people from the Johnson family gave Natalie the impression that they were extremely clingy.

Her marriage with Cedric was a perfect example. It didn't start smoothly, and it didn't end smoothly either. Even now that their marriage was over and she had moved to this remote place, Cedric and Rebecca still wandered around in her life like this.

She really didn't know how to deal with these people! "Just ignore them." "What about Luna?" "Don't worry, Rebecca won't be able to be alone with Luna when we're not around."

Austin understood Natalie's concerns, } There was no way for them to hide anymore. Even if she went to the ends of I the earth, these people would only I become more obsessed with finding her.

So, it was better to stay out in the open / like this, where she and Luna could be \ seen but not approached.

"That's good." Natalie nodded.

As long as Rebecca and the others couldn't contact Luna now, that was good.

What she hated most was their constant pestering! On the other hand, Rebecca was truly in pain.

Cedric was having a hard time, always missing Luna, and Rebecca... missed her too! She didn't feel much when the child was in Natalie's belly, but now that the child was in this world, she felt a sense of blood connection as a grandmother.

I I But now, it seemed like she couldn't do I anything besides watching Luna from afar.

\ Now, the school session was over, and Natalie was here to pick up Luna.

When Rebecca saw Natalie, she felt even more distressed. Although she didn't want to see Natalie now, she still approached her! "Mommy!" Upon seeing Rebecca, Luna instinctively threw herself into Natalie's arms.

Luna likely associated Rebecca with Cedric because of their resemblance, which reminded her of the pain Cedric had caused her. So, she didn't like how Rebecca looked at her.

Rebecca was already distressed, and

I" seeing the child dislike her like this upset) her even more!

) Chapter 827 You're Leaving Whether You Like It or Not (I "Natalie..." I Rebecca looked at Natalie and called out (her name. She wanted to say something, but it seemed like the words were stuck in her throat.

"I have nothing to say to you," Natalie said as she walked past Rebecca with Luna in her arms.

Rebecca was speechless. She turned to look at Natalie, and her heart ached when she saw Luna.

Rebecca had been wrong...! The bond between parents and children, grandparents and grandchildren, was a source of great blessings and fortune.

What had Rebecca done back then? She had left such hatred in Natalie's heart

I that even now, it was difficult to see her) own granddaughter.

i Rebecca looked at Natalie's back and I painfully pleaded, "I beg you, please don't be so cruel to us!" (Rebecca knew she deserved it. She deserved this treatment for all she had done to Natalie in the past.

But what about Cedric? Cedric was willing to lose everything for her, so why couldn't he be given a chance? Rebecca also knew that Cedric and Natalie couldn't return to how they were in the past. However, she hoped that Natalie would be more open regarding Luna.

When Natalie heard Rebecca say she was cruel, she stopped in her tracks. She turned back and glanced at Rebecca without saying a word.

The indifference in her eyes made

I Rebecca's heart tremble even more.

\ Rebecca said, "Cedric is ultimately Luna's I father, right? Doesn't a child need their birth father?" I Wasn't that right? I Those words were really well said! "You're right. A child really needs a father! But when Luna needed him, or rather... when she and Kayla needed him at the same time, what did he do?" After Natalie finished speaking, Rebecca was instantly speechless.

Kayla... Isabella's daughter! When Rebecca discovered that, she couldn't forgive Cedric either. No matter what Isabella had meant to him, he shouldn't have used his own daughter to save Isabella's daughter.

He shouldn't have!

"He was wrong about that!" Rebecca,) who had never admitted her mistakes, I acknowledged Cedric's mistake. [I I That was something neither Natalie nor Rebecca could forgive.

I I But that was all in the past. Why wouldn't / Natalie just let it go? Before Rebecca could figure it out, Natalie turned around. She didn't want to hear anymore, so she wouldn't allow Rebecca to continue.

Rebecca was speechless. Seeing Natalie walk away, she subconsciously wanted to chase after her. However, two men in black suits appeared before her.

Obviously, they didn't want her to get close to Natalie.

Rebecca had to admit that Austin was protecting Natalie and Luna very well!

I After Natalie got into the car with Luna,) she still felt somewhat aggrieved.

I "Talking to such people is just a waste of I breath," Austin said as he took Luna from Natalie's arms.

I As Luna settled in Austin's arms, she / happily swung her legs back and forth.

Natalie subconsciously glanced in Rebecca's direction after hearing Austin's words. Rebecca was now sitting on the ground, looking hopeless.

In the past, Rebecca used to act so high and mighty in Verde City. Now, she was sitting on the ground, looking desperate.

But no matter how desperate Rebecca was, wasn't it all her own fault? "you're right. It's pointless to argue with them." Even though Rebecca was looking so desperate now, Natalie couldn't forgive her even a bit.

I There had been too much in the past that) had happened for Natalie to ever forgive I these people.

[I Rebecca somehow managed to return to 1 Phoenix Villa. However, she saw that someone had brought Kayla over, and her anger instantly surged! She glared fiercely at Cedric.

"What are you doing?!" Rebecca practically roared.

Why? Why bring did he bring Kayla here to Dawnvale?! Natalie and Luna were both here. Natalie didn't like Kayla much to begin with, and now she was here...

Kayla had been somewhat relaxed by Cedric's side, but she instantly tensed up when she heard Rebecca's roar. She

I looked at Rebecca fearfully, her eyes) filled with caution.

I Seeing Kayla scared like this, Cedrie I frowned. "What are you doing?" I "Do you even know what you're doing? [Natalie doesn't like..." Rebecca started.

'We're never getting back together again, don't you understand?" Cedric interrupted her.

Or was it that Rebecca didn't understand why it had come to this impossible situation? Although Rebecca had long recognized this point, her heart still hurt when Cedric said such words.

"I know that it's mostly because of me that things between you two have reached this point today! But even if things between you two are impossible, shouldn't you fight for Luna? Instead, you have that child by your side..."

As Rebecca spoke, she looked at the frightened child at Cedric's side.

Cedric had kept Kayla by his side but gave up on fighting for Luna...! When Cedric heard Luna's name, a heaviness flickered in his eyes.

Of course, he was aware...! For whatever reason, he knew that Kayla shouldn't be here in Dawnvale. But when he thought about Kayla's experiences at school during this time, he...! Seeing Cedric silent, Rebecca was even more furious. "Lucas! Lucas!" Lucas entered the room at Rebecca's call.

"Yes, ma'am?" "Send her away immediately!" Rebecca said harshly.

No matter what, she didn't want Kayla to stay here now, and she couldn't let Natalie know about this matter. After all, she was still trying to find a solution regarding Luna.

If Natalie found out that Cedric had brought Kayla here and kept her by his side again, Rebecca would lose all her chances to see Luna.

Just as much as Natalie hated Isabella, that was how much she hated Kayla now.

Rebecca didn't know that Natalie and Isabella weren't related by blood. She assumed that Natalie didn't acknowledge it because of what had happened in the past.

When Kayla heard she was going to be sent away, she paled. "Daddy, don't send me away. I don't want to go!" She had been drifting since childhood.

After finally finding some warmth with Cedric, Kayla was unwilling to leave.

When Rebecca heard that Kayla didn't want to go, especially seeing the child's pitiful appearance, she was reminded of Isabella's cunning in the past! Her anger surged.

"You're leaving whether you like it or not!" Rebecca's already unpleasant tone became even fiercer.

Kayla looked at Rebecca with fear, which only irritated her more. "Stop looking at me like that. That won't work on me!"

Chapter 828 You Must Leave Kayla burst into tears when she saw Rebecca acting like this.

The commotion at Phoenix Villa intensified as the child's cries joined the chaos.

Rebecca's head was pounding badly, and she yelled at Lucas, "Get her out of here, now!" She hadn't even had the chance to comfort her own granddaughter, and now seeing this child cry made her even more furious! Lucas saw this scene and felt uneasy, while Cedric's heart was in turmoil.

"That's enough!" Cedric roared.

His gaze toward Rebecca became sharper.

And Rebecca naturally knew that he was yelling at her.

She looked at Cedric. "You...!" "Why are you fighting with a child?" Rebecca was speechless.

So, according to Cedric, anyone who tried to take Kayla away was in the wrong?! Rebecca's heart was already heaving.

Thinking about how Cedric had hurt her granddaughter because of Kayla made her chest feel even heavier.

Those emotions constantly collided inside her chest, and finally, she couldn't take it anymore.

"Is this an ordinary child?" "You can raise any other pet you want, but not this child!" At least, not in front of her! Kayla was about to graduate from elementary school, so she was at an age where she naturally understood some emotional matters.

When she saw how fiercely Rebecca argued with Cedric because of her, she became even more afraid to be sent away like this.

So, she cried even harder.

Rebecca was irritated, and her expression worsened when Kayla's crying got louder.

"Is crying all you can do? What else can you do besides that?!" How did Isabella initially get Cedric's protection back then? Perhaps she also cried like Kayla.

Men are most vulnerable to women's tears! Natalie made a big fuss after learning about Cedric and Isabella's affair, and Isabella cried a lot! In the end, Cedric's heart naturally leaned toward Isabella.

Why? Thinking about those times, Rebecca felt her anger go through the roof, "Shut up!" "Enough!" "Cedric, you destroyed your own family for Isabella's sake. Are you going to destroy the entire Johnson family now because of her child?!" Rebecca was thoroughly enraged. When she couldn't find Cedric before this, she had hoped so much for her son to come back to her side.

But now that he had finally returned, she suddenly realized many things after seeing what he had done.

"Do you really think it's my fault that Natalie left you? If your relationship had been good enough, no one could have ruined it! After all these years, Rebecca finally hit the nail on the head!

* Although Rebecca's inconsistent attitude toward Natalie was annoying, Cedric and Natalie's relationship wouldn't have met such an unfortunate end if it hadn't been fragile initially.

Cedric fell silent. Upon hearing Rebecca's words, his mind seemed to be swept away by a gust of wind, and his entire world became chaotic.

Natalie... His Natalie...! "Think back and tell me, what have you done that hasn't forced her to leave you?" "Isabella, then Kayla! Do you remember what you did to her?" Cedric was at a loss for words. His mind was already chaotic, and his head throbbed even more after hearing Rebecca say these things.

He knew exactly what was happening!

Seeing Cedric's silent reaction, Kayla feared she would be sent away.

She didn't want to go! It didn't matter who Cedric found to care for her. If she left, life wouldn't be easy.

Those people wouldn't be kind to her at all. Most of the exorbitant living expenses wouldn't be spent on her, so she only wanted to live by her father's side.

Seeing the man's increasingly unpleasant expression, Kayla softly called out.

"Daddy..." Rebecca couldn't bear hearing this soft voice.

"You're just like your mother!" Rebecca hissed.

Rebecca was never quite sure how to handle these matters, always acting on her emotions. She didn't know what to do with Natalie before, and she was even more clueless when it came to a child like i +15BONUS \ Kayla...! But seeing Kayla acting like she had been I bullied in front of Cedric, Rebecca knew this child was as cunning as Isabella.

"She's just a child!" ! I "Do you have to go that far?" Cedric spoke again, his tone full of restraint.

A child? What each person saw was different.

Cedric said Kayla was just a child, but no matter how she tried, Rebecca couldn't see her as just that.

Kayla was definitely not a normal child! Rebecca was livid but unable to speak. No words were necessary.

"You know what? Serves you right! You deserve this!"

WW 719 BUNUS I That was all Rebecca could say now.

) Lucas looked at the scene before him, and I his heart trembled.

Cedric insisted that Kayla had to live by I his side, but how many people around him couldn't tolerate her? That was the crux of the matter! Dawnvale was supposed to be a peaceful place that Austin gave Natalie to settle down, but Cedric still managed to find them.

After going through so much turmoil, Natalie and the others naturally didn't want to move again.

In that case, it was better just to drag things out.

However, it only pertained to Cedric.

Natalie's life was now back on track, and I noone could disrupt it.

\ I Se I In contrast, Simeria was anything but peaceful.

I I Bianca had crossed certain people, and it I was evident by Zane's attitude that he wouldn't give her the position she wanted.

Malcolm's hatred towards her was becoming more apparent, and it was obviously because of the incident in Lyndoria.

Bianca's life in Simeria was chaotic, and it was impossible for her to settle down peacefully. Additionally, the uncertainty of what might happen to her was constantly looming.

Bianca was speechless when she found out over the phone that Cedric had brought Kayla to Dawnvale.

"He left her in Yuloria before this. Why

I did he suddenly bring her to Dawnvale?) What is going on in his head?!" Bianca I exclaimed. i i ! She believed Cedric had already provided adequate arrangements for Kayla, so she thought he wouldn't bring the child to I Dawnvale.

Who would have thought that he would still take her there in just a short time? After thinking about it, Bianca said, "You're definitely better off without that man!" Natalie shrugged. "I'm not bothered about it, but it seems like Phoenix Villa is about to explode from the tension there!" Natalie knew Rebecca's temperament.

With such a thing happening right before her eyes, she wouldn't stay quiet.

Rebecca detested Isabella, so how could she agree to have Kayla live in Dawnvale, let alone by Cedric's side?

I Chapter 829 The Entes Family's , Third Lady i i ! "Do you really not care at all?" Bianca } asked curiously.

At this moment, all Bianca heard in Natalie's tone was indifference. At this point, Natalie seemed to not care about anything.

"Bia, have you forgotten? I'm now the Entes family's third lady!" So, regardless of Cedric's situation, Natalie shouldn't be concerned. However, Natalie's sincerity in accepting her current status made Bianca smile.

"Looks like my third brother-in-law is treating you well," Bianca commented.

"Yeah, he does." The entire Simeria knew how Austin treated Natalie. Austin gave up Simeria for the sake of the Jarvis family's lady!

EE I Because of his sacrifice, the Entes family) could settle everything in the shortest I time possible.

I 2 ' Bianca's smile widened. "That's good!" I "Bia, you should be careful." "Yeah, I know. Don't worry about it." Bianca knew what Natalie was worried about now, but she had reached a point of no return. When she had cooperated with Zane before, she hadn't thought about her future! Who could have thought that the person who eventually cut off her way out of Simeria would be... Zane?! And that man even wanted her to leave.

What was in his mind? Bianca was now cautious around Zane because of her uneasiness towards him and the situation.

She hated being manipulated the most! She never expected she would feel y i trapped by the Entes family. She now I realized it wouldn't be easy to extricate herself once involved.

I I = Bianca now lived comfortably in Entes Manor, and Zane returned every day.

Although he still treated Bianca coldly, he had somehow handled the Holly family.

Although there was no movement for now, Bianca knew no one knew what might happen next.

At the breakfast table, she watched the man elegantly eat breakfast opposite her.

Bianca picked up her glass of milk and took a sip before saying, ""We'll attend the banquet together tonight!" Bianca's tone was cold.

Regarding the incident in Lyndoria, p _ SC rintbap I Bianca had been investigating a bit these) days, and she couldn't help but admit I that... she hadn't seen how ruthless Zane I I could be before! The ones Malcolm had lost were all the I people he grew up with, and they meant a I lot to him.

As for why Malcolm hates herself so much because of the Lyndoria incident, that was also Zane's doing! There was a recent rumor about what had happened in Lyndoria. People said that although the Entes family's seventh lady had no hope of becoming Simeria's future queen, the current king was extremely fond of her. He didn't even spare his own brother for her sake! Weren't they referring to what had happened in Lyndoria?! Malcolm probably also heard this rumor, so he likely thought Bianca influenced Zane's actions.

People said that although the Entes family's seventh lady had no hope of becoming Simeria's future queen, the current king was extremely fond of her. He didn't even spare his own brother for her sake! Weren't they referring to what had happened in Lyndoria?!

Malcolm probably also heard this rumor, so he likely thought Bianca influenced Zane's actions.

However, Malcolm also believed that no matter how much Zane likes Bianca, he wouldn't disregard his interests. The Holly family played a crucial role for Zane. So, Malcolm personally brought Bianca and Zane's relationship into the public eye at this critical juncture.

He wanted to see if Zane was really willing to ignore everything for this witch! Zane had ignored brotherly affection, but could he also do the same for his own future? Although Zane was now the Entes family head, he still needed much support.

Bianca had to admit that Malcolm's counterattack against Zane was really vicious.

Zane's face sank at Bianca's words, and he tightened his grip on his utensils.

Then he looked at Bianca with sharp eyes, his tone serious and dangerous as he said, "You know it's impossible!" Bianca met Zane's eyes calmly. "I must go."

"Bianca!"

"You already made me a witch because of what happened in Lyndoria. Naturally, I'll have to play this role well, don't you think?" As soon as she finished speaking, Zane's eyes became even sharper.

However, Bianca showed no fear.

"You made Malcolm hate me like this. I don't care what you want to achieve and what you're scheming behind the scenes! I must have that position." Bianca firmly said.

Even the people close to Zane, such as Seraphine, refrained from being too direct. However, Bianca was not only direct but also firm.

Zane looked at her with a gloomy gaze, and Bianca continued, "When you were in Lyndoria, did you ever consider what would happen to me once I left Simeria after what happened there?" Ignoring Malcolm's animosity, those around him would still not let her off, even if Malcolm didn't do anything to her.

So what would happen once she left Simeria? When Bianca thought about those possible scenarios, her gaze sharpened.

Similarly, there was a hint of coldness in Zane's eyes.

Bang! Zane slammed the knife and fork in his hands on the table.

Bianca's lips curled into a smile as she watched the man rise coldly and turn around.

Wy "VY OVS i "I'll be wearing a sapphire blue dress) tonight. Don't forget to wear a tie in the I same color." { f Zane stopped walking abruptly, but in the) end, he remained silent and continued on I his way.

I The atmosphere in the dining room became even heavier after Zane left. Neil looked at Bianca and sighed deeply.

Neil used to make an effort to try and convince Bianca, but now he seemed to have given up.

Apparently, everything that needed to be said has been said.

"Neil." " ~ I om Yes, ma'am! "I won't see anyone who comes today." After speaking, Bianca put down the glass of milk in her hand and went upstairs.

CE a I Tonight, she would definitely appear by) Zane's side. Simeria was already abuzz I with rumors about the Holly family. If I they discovered that Bianca would be at the banquet tonight, they would try to I stopit.

Although Zane didn't promise to take Bianca with him, Bianca would definitely be there.

It would cause a stir among the people, and the Holly family would also find it unbearable.

Later in the morning, Lorraine came.

Initially, Bianca said she wouldn't see anyone, but Neil still let Lorraine in after learning of her intentions.

When Bianca saw Lorraine, she said, "No need to say anything. This is what I've decided!" Lorraine used to look quite innocent, but irs I need i Bianca recalled that no one in Simeria I was as simple as they looked.

I Lorraine seemed to be in control of I everything happening here...! I "You're going to embarrass the Holly family if you do this." Lorraine naturally knew what kind of family the Holly family was. Because of that, she felt that it was dangerous for Bianca to continue like this.

Chapter 830 Never a Pushover I "I never intended to embarrass anyone.

I'm just fighting for what I want." \ I If the Holly family insisted on feeling like t Bianca was embarrassing them, Bianca couldn't argue on this point.

Seeing Bianca's firm attitude, Lorraine wanted to say something but couldn't think of anything.

'yette is also very worried about you," Lorraine said instead.

She was trying to tell Bianca that there were still people who cared about her and not to be too extreme.

After all, everyone knew what was happening with the Holly family.

Bianca fell silent.

Her coldness made Lorraine feel the change in her. Bianca had never been like this, and now...

Was this her true self? Or had something happened to Bianca during this time that Lorraine didn't know about? \ I "Bianca?" I 3 .

""Lorraine, you should leave. I still need to prepare for tonight's banquet!" Bianca's tone was icy.

When Lorraine saw this side of Bianca, she knew that Bianca would definitely attend tonight's banquet, regardless of what anyone said.

And once Bianca went, the Holly family would truly become a joke in Simeria.

Lorraine was genuinely worried about this. After all, the Holly family was not to be trifled with.

Bianca looked at Lorraine and said, "I've already confronted the Holly family.

Eleanor came to me personally."

"The die has been cast. That's probably the most accurate way to describe my situation now, right?" \ I Hearing Bianca's words, Lorraine felt her I heart tighten. However, she still tried to persuade Bianca.

"As long as you want to leave, Zane will find a way to send you somewhere safe."
"Hah!" It would have been better not to mention Zane. When Lorraine did, danger flashed in Bianca's eyes.

Originally, Bianca wanted to leave Simeria after everything was settled. But since Zane went to such lengths to obtain a pawn, Bianca felt the need to respond in kind to his ruthless behavior! She had never been backstabbed like this before in her life. Even with Malcolm, their conflicts were out in the open. If he wanted revenge, he did it transparently and at least let her know what was happening.

But this time, if Bianca hadn't heard I about Lyndoria from Natalie, she I I probably wouldn't know anything at all! I When Bianca decided to attend the banquet, there was destined to be unrest that day.

Sure enough, Seraphine arrived at noon.

Bianca had only seen this woman on television. They had never met face-to face, and now...! Bianca observed the woman opposite her.

Seraphine looked elegant and more noble than on television, and she was also sizing Bianca up.

As she did so, the disdain in Seraphine's eyes was evident

A few minutes later, a smirk appeared on Seraphine's fiery red lips. "I thought there was something more to you, but I guess I was wrong. This is all you've got, yet you still dare act so arrogantly?" \ [— — : Seraphine's words were all insults to I Bianca.

"Regardless of what I've got, I live at Entes Manor now. What about you? No matter how noble you are, you're still inferior to me because I came earlier, right?" Bianca was never a pushover! As long as others didn't disrespect her, she would be respectful. But if they disrespected her first, she would naturally return the favor! Sure enough, Seraphine's face darkened the next moment, and she looked at Bianca with a dangerous glint in her eyes.

It seemed like she wanted to tear Bianca apart, but Bianca fear lessly met her gaze.

y Bianca continued without waiting for Seraphine to respond, "I can tell you're from the Holly family. You all have the same style, don't you? You're all so arrogant and have an inflated sense of \ : .

I self-importance. Do you really believe I) that everyone should bow down to you? f Or that people should be afraid of you?" When faced with Seraphine's oppressive aura, Bianca simply smiled mockingly.

Because of that, the tense atmosphere around them intensified...! Perhaps Seraphine hadn't expected Bianca to be so direct with her! "It seems you're determined to stay here, aren't you?" "That's not all I want to do. I also want to stay by his side legitimately!" What did Bianca mean by that? Didn't that mean she wanted to be his queen?! Seraphine's expression changed instantly at Bianca's declaration.

"You're shameless!" non \ , : . I "You're delusional! You think you can obtain that position with just what you I have? Hah!" Yes, Seraphine saw Bianca's current words as nothing but delusions.

"There's no need to rush, Ms. Holly.

Whether I'm delusional or not, time will tell." Bianca emphasized the words 'rush' heavily! The Holly family was clearly ina rush.

First, they sent their butler to talk to Bianca, and then Eleanor came after.

Now, even Seraphine couldn't resist coming...

It was obvious that the past few days' events in Simeria had made the Holly family anxious, which explained their actions.

The Holly family had always helda dominant position in Simeria. They probably never anticipated that Bianca, a I woman with no notable background, I would openly compete for that position.

What was worse was that Bianca didn't take the Holly family seriously, despite their renowned status.

Seraphine's eyes sharpened even more.

Looking at Bianca, she said, "I only came today to give you some kind advice. Next time we meet..." Seraphine trailed off, her tone sharp as she looked at Bianca. It was evident that Seraphine was concealing some immense anger in her heart.

But regardless of what Seraphine was holding back, Bianca was fearless.

Then, Seraphine continued, "Bianca, you have nothing in Simeria! The only thing you have is Zane. How long do you think you can have him?" Zane? I Did Bianca ever really have him? I if BT .

Also, it wasn't like Bianca truly wanted anything here.

If she had any delusion about Zane before this, it vanished after she discovered what happened in Lyndoria.

After what happened, Bianca wouldn't easily trust anyone again! In the end, Seraphine was driven away by Bianca's persistence.

All the people from the Holly family who came to see Bianca suffered setbacks, and they surely wouldn't give up easily.

Although Natalie wasn't in Simeria, she was well-informed about the situation because of Austin. And the more she knew, the more worried she was about Bianca.

"Alright, you've already called me a I dozen times today! I've practically I memorized everything you've said to me," Bianca said exasperatedly.

"The Holly family already sent several people to see you. You should be careful!" Natalie said for the umpteenth time.

Even though Bianca sounded impatient, Natalie still patiently reminded her.

Bianca knew Natalie was genuinely worried, and she finally felt a hint of warmth in her cold heart.

"Yeah, okay. I got it," Bianca replied.

with that, Bianca hung up the phone.

She knew what Natalie was worried about and what she would face next, but no matter what it was, there was no turning

Chapter 831 The Most Hated Place, Lyndoria In the afternoon, Malcolm arrived.

A I At this moment, Bianca had already i changed into her gown and put on exquisite makeup. When Bianca turned around, Malcolm blinked repeatedly.

Watching the fleeting crack in the man's eyes, Bianca smirked sarcastically.

Hah... Men! Seeing Bianca's mocking smirk, Malcolm snapped back to reality. His gaze darkened when he looked at Bianca.

"Do I look good?" Bianca asked.

"You're truly ugly!" Malcolm replied without hesitation.

Bianca was speechless.

Ugly?

She was considered one of the most beautiful girls during her time in school! Bianca didn't know that Malcolm never thought she was ugly. In fact, she exuded a sense of pride that was hard to resist. Malcolm's eyes flickered as he examined her meticulously groomed appearance and stepped forward to pull Bianca into his arms.

Bianca remained silent as Malcolm's rough fingertips rubbed against her chin.

Although the scene seemed gentle, Bianca sensed a hint of ferocity in his actions.

However, there was no turmoil in her eyes! Even when backed into a corner and on the verge of embarrassment, her eyes had no hint of surrender! Has anyone told you that your eyes are very annoying?" Malcolm slowly said as he traced her eyes. At his words, she stiffened instantly. People had said such words before when she was in Verde City. She always had sharp eyes during work, making people feel like she was unapproachable.

But how could she be overly empathetic in the line of work she was in? Those people had already violated their own morals, so how could anyone expect her to show them any empathy? There was relief in Bianca's eyes when she thought about that, and Malcolm was instantly angered by it.

"It seems you have no remorse at all." "I've said it before, haven't I?" Bianca retorted without hesitation as soon as Malcolm finished speaking.

Malcolm fell silent. What had she said before?

Over the years, Bianca had said too many things by his side. Those naturally included harsh words, so Malcolm didn't react momentarily to what Bianca had said.

Then, Bianca continued, "She's not a good person! It seems you still haven't investigated the matter properly!" As soon as she finished speaking, a dangerous glint flashed in Malcolm's eyes.

She thought he didn't investigate? of course, he did! He knew exactly what kind of person Faye was! However, it didn't change that Bianca had gotten under his skin and made him itch with hate! "Bianca, the last thing you should have ever done was get involved with the matter in Lyndoria!"

Malcolm suddenly pulled her closer, and his warm breath fanned across her neck. It was clearly a warm feeling, but now that he mentioned Lyndoria...! After Malcolm had returned, this was the first time he had mentioned it. Even if Bianca didn't look into his eyes, she could feel his hatred towards her.

He hated her so much that he wanted to tear her apart with his bare hands.

"If I were to tell you that I had nothing to do with Lyndoria, would you believe me?" Bianca was never one to hide things. Back when she found out she was involved with this man because of Faye, she repeatedly said it had nothing to do with her.

But Malcolm had never believed her, so now... he naturally wouldn't believe her either.

In his mind, Bianca hated him so much. Ruining everything for him wasn't enough, so it made sense that she even asked Zane to deal with Malcolm in Lyndoria! Malcolm's warm, broad palm slid towards her neck, and his grip tightened instantly.

At the same time, Bianca also closed her eyes.

Too much had happened between them.

But why had all of it happened? Initially, they were two people with no connection at all. But now, too many things had happened, and Bianca couldn't sort them all out.

In the past, she would never allow her life to be so chaotic.

And in the face of such chaos, Bianca didn't struggle as Malcolm's grip on her neck tightened. She thought that if really came to this, it was fine! Ever since she came to Simeria, it had always been a struggle for dominance between her and Malcolm. He shattered her world, and she destroyed everything he had.

Now, they were even more entangled, and this situation made Bianca really tired.

She wanted to break free! Although this method was not honorable, it was actually fine.

But when Malcolm felt no movement from the woman in his hand, he suddenly let go. He looked at Bianca with bloodshot eyes.

Slap! A slap landed heavily on Bianca's face. It stung fiercely, and the pain brought Bianca back to her senses instantly. She looked at Malcolm angrily.

She was going crazy! Over the years, this man had pushed her to the brink of her sanity repeatedly: Because of that, it had to have affected her heart. Otherwise, how could she have had such thoughts just now?! Before Bianca could speak, Malcolm grabbed her collar and hissed, "Remember, your miserable life belongs to me! If you dare...!" Slap! Bianca slapped him across the face, cutting his words off abruptly.

The atmosphere around them instantly froze! Malcolm released Bianca, and even his gaze at this moment became more ferocious.

"You have no right to touch my face! Remember that!"

— Each word she spoke was just as fierce Malcolm had never hesitated to lay hand on her before, but he had never touched her face. Her face was one place Bianca couldn't tolerate someone else touching her.

Malcolm's expression darkened.

Before Malcolm could say anything, Bianca added, "Who do you think you are? You don't even deserve my so-called miserable life!" Malcolm's expression worsened. If looks could kill, Bianca would already be dead.

Bianca straightened her collar, glanced at the time on her wristwatch, and said, "I'm leaving. Feel free to do as you please!" with that, she stepped out.

"Are you in such a hurry to meet him?" Malcolm was obviously referring to Dane

As he uttered these words, Bianca raised an eyebrow and turned her head, causing Malcolm's heart to tremble momentarily. What was he saying? [But Bianca's smile grew wider.

"Isn't this what you wanted?" "Don't worry, I'll be by his side as quickly as possible!" The gloominess in the man's eyes made Bianca's tone even more cheerful.

Without waiting for Malcolm to say anything else, she turned and left.

Her enchanting figure made one wish to destroy her.

Malcolm never knew that Bianca also had such an enchanting side. When he had investigated her, she always wore professional attire, appearing neat and aloof,

This was the first time he had seen her in a gown, and her beauty was demonstrated to its fullest extent.

Chapter 832 Everyone Hates Bianca In the car, the clicking of a lighter echoed continuously, and the small space instantly smelled of gasoline.

Liam Scott's heart jumped into his throat as he glanced at Malcolm through the rearview mirror. Malcolm's face was now filled with irritation.

Liam was puzzled. Hadn't Malcolm only gone to see Bianca? Why did he look so irritated now? After hesitating momentarily, Liam asked, "Sir, where are we going now?" "Crescent Moon Peak." Liam was speechless. That was the venue for tonight's banquet, and Bianca would be there. That person... would also be there! Why was Malcolm planning to go there?

Liam's grip on the steering wheel tightened as he thought about these things, and Malcolm gave him a sharp look.

"I know what you're thinking. Now is not the time." \ "Sir, are you concerned about your brotherly bond with him?" But that person obviously didn't care about Malcolm in the same way! If Zane had cared even just a little, the incident in Lyndoria wouldn't have happened, and they wouldn't be in this state! As soon as Liam finished speaking, Malcolm's eyes dimmed.

The Lyndoria incident... Hah! Brotherly bond? Once upon a time, Malcolm and Zane were the most harmonious among all their siblings. But now...

That past was truly a joke, When everything in the Entes family settled, the first person Zane ruthlessly struck was actually him! This was something none of the Entes family members had expected. Their brother bond had ultimately fallen apart because of that witch! At this moment, Bianca's face flashed in Malcolm's mind.

"What a seductive witch!" Malcolm muttered as a mocking smile tugged at the corner of his lips.

The image of Bianca in her professional attire and a gown flashed through his mind. He had to admit that he never thought she had the potential to look so beautiful! Her beauty was all overshadowed by her sharpness in the workplace

And now, Bianca probably hated her current state and appearance, right? Liam was silent. Upon hearing Malcolm's words, his thin lips pressed tightly together, and a cold glint shimmered in his eyes.

"Liam." "Yes, sir!" "You need to control your anger," Malcolm said, his words dripping with danger.

Liam protested, "But they..." "They what?" Malcolm's tone became even more dangerous, and Liam forcefully shoved his anger away.

Why did Malcolm return to Simeria in the shortest time possible? Wasn't it because of those people? It was because of them and the fact that he had never suffered a loss.

This time, Zane completely disregarded all bonds between them. He hadn't given him even a bit of leeway to escape! He had been so ruthless.

{ How could someone like Malcolm, who always repaid grievances, let it slide? Since Zane didn't care about their bonds as siblings, why should Malcolm? Malcolm truly hated Bianca, but he would never forgive Zane either! When everyone saw Bianca appear at the banquet, their expressions stiffened.

Tonight, Zane wore a black trench coat.

When he removed it, the sharp suit underneath made him look like a king.

Seraphine was beside him, and all eyes were on her and Zane. However, the atmosphere turned eerie after Bianca appeared. When everyone saw that Zane's tie color matched Bianca's gown, they all gasped in shock.

The Entes family's seventh lady, who lacked a noble background, dared to openly challenge Seraphine, the young lady of the Holly family?! Everyone knew how influential the Holly family was. Previously, the rumors about this matter were met with some skepticism. But now, most people believe the rumors after Bianca's current appearance.

Bianca saw Zane and Seraphine standing together. When Seraphine saw Bianca, her grip on Zane's wrist tightened subconsciously, and there was undisguised hostility in her gaze.

Bianca stepped forward without hesitation or faltering. She was tall and slender, dressed in a royal blue gown with her hair swept up. As she took each step, she exuded a queenly aura.

N vA Ah deta, Zane frowned as he watched her approach. When Bianca arrived by their side, Seraphine's grip tightened again as she looked at Zane, then back at Bianca.

Bianca raised an eyebrow at Seraphine.

I "Ms. Holly?" At these words, everyone felt a chill down their spine! Although Bianca had not yet assumed the position of queen, the weight behind her address to Seraphine was a stark reminder to everyone present of the current situation.

Although rumors had named Seraphine the future queen, she was still not married to Zane! Bianca was now more qualified to stand by Zane's side in such a case.

In front of everyone, Seraphine's face flushed red with embarrassment.

"Lord Zane!" Seraphine looked at Zane

With a pleading expression Zane looked at Bianca, who calmly met his eyes and elegantly extended her hand to him. The smile in her eyes made it impossible for anyone to refuse.

Seeing Bianca like this, Seraphine couldn't hide her frustration any longer.

In the air, there was a palpable tension.

Finally, Zane turned to Seraphine and said, "I'll have Aaron send you back first." Seraphine was speechless, and her already unpleasant expression sank even further upon hearing Zane's words, disregarding the presence of others.

"Lord Zane!" Her tone grew sterner, serving as a reminder of the nature of tonight's occasion.

Zane had personally brought Seraphine to attend tonight's banquet because Bianca had moved into Entes Manor. His actions tonight were meant as a sign of respect to the Holly family. They wanted everyone in Simeria to know that Seraphine's position would remain the same regardless of where Bianca lived.

They intended to make it clear to everyone that Seraphine... was the future queen.

However, Bianca appeared.

With that, tonight's banquet had lost its meaning. To make matters worse, Seraphine even had to be sent away because of Bianca's appearance! "I'll drop by your residence later," Zane whispered in Seraphine's ear as he observed her darkening expression.

Upon hearing this, Seraphine finally eased up a bit.

"When can you come as soon as you can? Alright."

Seraphine was hesitant, but when the man spoke softly and gently, she couldn't resist complying with his request. She knew that if she didn't handle the situation carefully, she might end up angering Zane, leaving her with nothing.

After all, she was just someone the Holly family had taken in.

Despite living like a noble young lady for these years, she knew this matter was crucial. Her position in the Holly family would be awkward if she messed up.

So, even though she was unwilling to back down, she ultimately nodded and left because she didn't dare to anger Zane.

As Seraphine turned away, she glared at Bianca, her eyes filled with danger and warning.

Chapter 833 Showing Concern for Me Originally, Aaron was supposed to escort I Seraphine back. However, the Holly "gq I family acted promptly upon receiving the I news and sent someone to take Seraphine away first.

Such a move clearly conveyed their attitude to Zane.

After Seraphine left, Zane didn't linger for long. Within minutes, he followed suit and departed, leaving Bianca alone. With Bianca achieving her goal, she didn't need to linger either.

When Bianca left the banquet hall, she noticed Liam standing by a Phantom. The man's eyes gleamed sharply upon seeing her.

He approached and said in a respectful tone that was tinged with danger, "Ms.

Sanders, please get in the car."

U Ms. Sanders? That was how Malcolm's people addressed her. They never acknowledge her as the Entes family's seventh lady, even after she married Zane.

t "Noneed," Bianca replied.

She turned to walk away, but Liam repeated, "Ms. Sanders, please get in the car." His tone was sterner.

Bianca looked back at Liam, her heart sinking upon sensing the danger in his eyes. She knew Malcolm wanted to see her. Though unwilling, she eventually got into the car.

Malcolm was holding a cigarette in the car, and it was a rare occasion when he didn't start with various insults upon seeing her, Bianca said, "Speak up. What is it this time?"

I She had never had much patience for Malcolm Malcolm glanced at her and said, ""Fhings between you and the Holly family seem to \ be officially underway." I Bianca fell silent. Didn't things officially start when those people approached her before? And now, she seemed to have thoroughly embarrassed the Holly family at tonight's banquet.

"Are you concerned about me?" Bianca looked at Malcolm sarcastically, her tone dripping with irony.

Malcolm's eyes were sharp, his silence heavy.

Bianca's sarcastic smile made her look like a nocturnal fairy tonight, her meticulously applied makeup enhancing the effect.

Malcolm appeared enchanted briefly before snapping out of it, giving Bianca a fierce glare. However, Bianca laughed heartily in response. Yet, sorrow swept over her on the inside! As Malcolm said, Bianca and the Holly family were now officially at odds. Back at the manor, Neil's gaze toward Bianca grew even darker than before.

Bianca asked, "He hasn't returned yet?" Obviously, she was referring to Zane.

Neil replied, "He should be at the Holly family's residence." Bianca fell silent.

Hah! Now, even Neil constantly reminded her of what kind of existence she was to Zane. What was Zane up to now?

As he closed his eyes, masking the many emotions that lay beneath, heading upstairs to her room, she found Ruth there as well.

"What are you doing here?" Ruth hadn't accompanied Bianca when she moved into the manor, so why was she here now? Upon seeing Bianca, Ruth respectfully said, "Lord Malcolm instructed me to take care of you wherever you go." Her attitude was much more submissive than when they were at Verdant Villa. But Bianca knew exactly what kind of person Ruth was, so her eyes betrayed a hint of danger.

"He's quite bold, isn't he?" After all, this was Entes Manor. What exactly was Malcolm trying to achieve by sending someone here? He said it was for her care, but Bianca was well aware of the true intentions. "Get out!" Bianca didn't appreciate Ruth's submissive behavior and was ready to dismiss her outright. Ruth nodded and left. As she passed by Bianca, she said, "I'll behave myself here, Lady Bianca. I know my place." The term of address served as a reminder of Bianca's current status and the urgency of her situation. Bianca clenched her fists subconsciously as Ruth left, her face etched with infinite gloom.

After Ruth left, Bianca finally relaxed her fists, her eyes gleaming with icy resolve.

She recalled the looks she received when she appeared at Crescent Moon Peak tonight and remembered what Malcolm had said about her and the Holly family things had truly begun.

Her life in Simeria used to be simple, but now...! The phone buzzed, and she saw Malcolm's number on the screen. Irritated, she threw the phone aside, but it kept ringing incessantly.

Finally, she grabbed it and answered the call. "What?!" She had been pestered multiple times today, and Bianca had completely lost her patience.

"One month!" "What...?" What did Malcolm mean by that?! In an instant, Bianca understood Malcolm's true intentions. Her already unpleasant expression turned even darker upon hearing his words.

"If you want to see her one last time, it's best to get that position within one month."

I As Malcolm spoke, Bianca felt a chill run down her spine.

I Was her mother's condition deteriorating I to such an extent? "You know perfectly well that a month is not enough-" "I might not believe others can do it, but you can." Though Malcolm claimed to believe her, his tone dripped with sarcasm. Bianca trembled with anger, clearly infuriated by his words.

She didn't recall hanging up on Malcolm, but thoughts of his ultimatum continued tormenting her.

Was he really forcing her into this? Because of what happened in Lyndoria? Regardless of his reasons, Bianca vowed that once she had the opportunity to strike back, she would shatter him once again!

Eleanor had only recently been I discharged from the hospital. However, tonight's events at Crescent Moon Peak I caused her to be rushed back into the I emergency room.

"Mom... Mom!" In the hospital corridor, Eleanor was being urgently pushed towards the emergency room. Seraphine ran alongside her, gripping Eleanor's hand tightly, her heart filled with pain.

Since her arrival at the Holly family, Eleanor had been the kindest and most gentle with Seraphine. Seeing her weakened state now filled Seraphine with genuine Sorrow.

"Ms. Holly, please wait!" Seraphine tried to follow Eleanor to the emergency room, but a doctor stopped her.

Eleanor was wheeled inside as Seraphine

I turned around.

How many times had it been this month? The third time? — Eleanor's body seemed to be teetering on the edge of death at any moment.

And what kept her going through these trials? Perhaps... it was the lingering regrets in her heart.

Chapter 834 Critical Condition When Zane arrived at the hospital, Aaron was behind him. Seraphine rushed into Zane's arms the moment she saw him.

"Lord Zane, my mother...!" At that moment, Seraphine appeared utterly helpless. Most of the Holly family members were present, indicating Eleanor's significant status within the family.

"It's all because of me... It's all my fault!" Seraphine cried bitterly in Zane's embrace.

Zane frowned and glanced back at Aaron.

"Go and take care of it." He was referring to the hospital affairs.

Though the arrangements on the Holly family's side had been made long ago, Aaron nodded in acknowledgment.

In this moment of distress, Seraphine seemed to find solace in Zane's presence.

Upon seeing Zane, Curtis maintained his respectful demeanor. However, there was an air of tension around him, indicating the gravity of the situation.

"Mother fell ill because of tonight's events," Seraphine said in anguish.

Eleanor's fragile health couldn't withstand such distress, and Zane patted Seraphine's shoulder reassuringly.

"Don't worry, everything will be fine." He wasn't known for his comforting words, but his reassurance provided some warmth to Seraphine.

"Carol," Curtis called out to a middle-aged woman.

"Take Seraphine home." Seraphine and Zane were silent.

Seraphine was initially crying, but when | she heard Curtis' words, she stopped and looked up from Zane's embrace.

Then, she said in a somewhat aggrieved tone, "Father..." | She clearly didn't want to leave Zane's side, but the severity in Curtis' gaze brooked no argument. She had been a part of the Holly family for many years and knew that disobeying Curtis would have serious consequences when the older man was like this.

So, no matter how unwilling she was to leave now, Seraphine reluctantly pulled away from Zane's embrace under Curtis's eyes.

i'l head back home," she said, glancing at Zane.

Zane nodded, and Seraphine then looked at Curtis and Carol. She understood that Curtis had important matters to discuss with Zane. Being the clever person she was, she knew what Curtis would say to Zane then.

Though she had her doubts, her heart raced with worry.

"Father, Mother is still in the emergency | room. This isn't the time to discuss these matters," she pleaded.

| She had been waiting for the opportunity to start a relationship with Zane for years. Over the years, she dreamed of becoming the most powerful woman in Simeria.

How could she let it slip away? nSeraphine!" Curtis's tone grew stern.

"Mom said you don't have to worry about this matter. Can't we just listen to her?" Seraphine pleaded, knowing well that Curtis always cherished his wife's wishes, no matter what.

And now, she had brought up Eleanor's situation.

\ Curtis's initially firm demeanor softened slightly at the mention of Eleanor.

Though his expression remained serious, he refrained from further comment. This concession indicated that Zane needed to | arrange a resolution for the Holly family regarding what had happened tonight.

| Looking at Seraphine standing before him, Zane's gaze grew deeper.

Eleanor's condition fluctuated throughout the night, with the doctors delivering updates that kept everyone on edge.

Seraphine continued to weep, and naturally, Zane stayed by her side at the hospital the entire time.

Bianca also spent a sleepless night at Entes Manor. Strangely, there were no familiar sounds of engines outside all night.

When she went downstairs in the morning, Neil had already prepared her breakfast, but it was only a single serving.

This indicated that Zane hadn't returned last night.

| Bianca felt something amiss. "He didn't come back last night?" Although she already knew, she couldn't help but ask Neil when she sat down.

Neil's already stern expression sharpened slightly at Bianca's question.

"No "n His curt response made Bianca's grip on her utensils tighten.

Zane hadn't returned all night. It was evident he had spent the night at the Holly family's residence. He seemed determined about something regarding the Holly family! After all, they were significant to him. If "Bianca didn't do anything now, she would be a sitting duck waiting for death.

And Bianca was not one to sit back-and wait.

IE | Later in the morning, Bianca learned something new—she had unknowingly impeded Malcolm during Zane's previous disappearance at Glided Peak Mountain.

During that time, Zane was with Seraphine.

Bianca was speechless. Upon learning this, no one could fathom the turmoil in Bianca's heart or the days she had endured during that period. Everyone was constantly probing at Verdant Villa, and she had to handle it all cautiously. She even worried that Zane had encountered some accident.

Now, in hindsight, it was ironic.

"Nat, I need your brother's help!"

Bianca's voice echoed through the phone as the call connected to Natalie.

Natalie remained silent for a moment upon hearing Bianca's request.

| Was this Bianca's next move? Would she { begin a strong counterattack or resort to any means necessary to handle the situation? With Bianca's momentous tone, Natalie could clearly sense something amiss.

"Bia, are you okay?" There had to be something wrong for Bianca to even consider involving the Jarvis family.

What kind of presence did the Jarvis family hold in Simeria? They were the only ones on par with the Holly family! Also, why was Zane constantly focused on the Holly family? It was because he knew the Jarvis family would never get involved in the Entes family's affairs.

After so many years in Simeria, Bianca naturally understood the Jarvis family's | determination in this regard. So, what | had happened that made her think of the Jarvis family now? Natalie knew that something must have happened.

Zane is not as simple as what he shows on the surface," Bianca simply stated to Natalie over the phone.

After learning about the incident in Lyndoria and Zane's disappearance, Bianca realized she was just a pawn in Zane's hands. And now, he didn't even care about her well-being as a discarded piece.

"The men of the Entes family are not simple!" Bianca continued, "He's been using me all along!"

| Though Bianca's tone remained calm as she discussed this, beneath that calmness, a tumult of emotions stirred.

Natalie was speechless.

\ | Using Bianca?! | "Although we used each other initially, but he..." Bianca trailed off. Then, after a moment's thought, she continued, "What I hate the most is people with no moral boundaries!" That was right! In Bianca's opinion, Zane was completely devoid of moral or ethical standards at that moment!
Chapter 835 Burned Bridges All of them had been wrong before this.

No, perhaps they weren't entirely wrong.

Every time something happened involving the Entes family, perspectives I I differed depending on one's stance.

117ane was the one who trapped me in Simeria," Bianca continued before Natalie could speak.

Natalie stayed silent, realizing Zane had cut off all of Bianca's retreat routes. He even wanted her to leave Simeria! He couldn't possibly be unaware of the challenges that Bianca would encounter after leaving.

"Nat, I won't ask your brother to get involved. I just need a sanctuary," Bianca stated firmly after sensing Natalie's tension.

This revelation made Natalie realize

Bianca's precarious situation in Simeria "Okay, I'll talk to my brother," Natalie responded.

Bianca was now completely at odds with the Holly family, leaving her exposed and unprotected in Simeria. Natalie couldn't bear to see her friend in such a precarious situation. If it meant keeping her out of trouble, Clyde could easily offer Bianca a safe haven.

"Thank you, Nat," Bianca expressed her gratitude.

"Don't thank me. I just want you to be safe," Natalie replied, eager to see Bianca free from danger and going to live her life peacefully in a place where no one knew her.

"After I meet my mother, everything will be over," Bianca asserted.

Ultimately, Bianca needed to see her mother,

I Natalie wondered if it would be that easy for things to end. Regardless, she nodded and said, "Okay." Despite knowing it wouldn't be easy, Bianca was determined. Natalie felt relieved at Bianca's words. With how Bianca acted, Natalie knew her best friend remained rational and understood what was best for herself.

After Natalie ended the call with Bianca, Austin entered the room. He had spent the entire night in his study dealing with paperwork. Natalie couldn't help but feel concerned seeing the exhaustion in his eyes.

"Did you really stay in the study all night?" she asked.

"Where else would I be?" Austin approached her and pulled her into his embrace.

"Are you tired? Why don't you rest a bit before eating?" Natalie suggested.

"Will you stay with me?" I Austin's tone was affectionate, causing I Natalie to feel embarrassed. Before she I could respond, he hugged her tightly and led her to bed. Natalie felt flustered, realizing she hadn't changed out of her pajamas.

"I have to send Luna to school!" she protested.

But Austin wrapped his strong arms around her slender waist before she could move, leaving Natalie feeling overwhelmed.

"Lord Austin..." she began, her voice trembling.

At that moment, Austin, who had never harbored any defenses against her, was softened by her vulnerability.

"Let Cole handle it," he said firmly, his voice tender yet unwavering, Natalie's mind went blank in that moment. When the warmth of his palm moved towards her slender waist, she felt like she had been electrocuted and instinctively wanted to escape.

) "Natalie Just as Natalie was about to struggle, the man's warm breath brushed against her ear, causing her already turbulent heart to become even more chaotic.

There was only one thought in her mind —escape! But Austin also sensed Natalie's unease.

The large hand that was originally around her waist moved instantly to her head, pressing her against his chest.

"Stay with me for a while," he requested.

Natalie stayed silent, feeling overwhelmed. Before she could say anything, she heard Austin's dangerous tone above her head, "My patience is limited!" Patience? Undoubtedly, Austin was aware of the roles Irwin and Cedric played in Natalie's life and knew the extent of the damage they had caused her. He had been giving her time to heal and forget slowly.

Meanwhile, Cedric was in Dawnvale.

Austin had witnessed Natalie's attitude towards Cedric, but when it came to Irwin...

"Natalie." "Yes?" "Did you really have feelings for Irwin at one point?" The weariness in Austin's voice was evident. He was clearly exhausted after spending the whole night dealing with work matters.

How long had it been since Irwin's name was mentioned before Natalie? Since Irwin returned to Wexford, neither Cedric's appearance nor Irwin's had stopped Natalie from marrying Austin.

But now, when Austin brought up Irwin, Natalie's emotions churned even more.

"Do you understand the feeling of the dawn's first light, Lord Austin?" she asked.

In her darkest moments, Irwin was like the dawn's first light to her. When there seemed to be no hope, he had descended into her world like a savior, shielding her from all disasters.

At that moment, Natalie recalled Irwin shielding her from sulfuric acid without hesitation. The scars on his back must have remained even now.

Upon hearing Natalie's words, Austin comprehended the situation. Given Cedric's undivided attention to Isabella while trying to send Natalie to prison repeatedly, it was difficult for Natalie not to develop feelings for Irwin.

But it was precisely that affection that I ultimately became so ironic.

I I "When you knew everything, how much ' pain were you in?" Eventually, Austin sighed and held Natalie tighter. And Natalie, who had subconsciously tried to escape just a moment ago, now sought refuge in his warmth.

"It doesn't hurt anymore," Natalie whispered, nestling into his embrace.

The room heated up in that instant, fueled by their intimate conversation.

Natalie was right. No matter what she had experienced before, the pain disappeared when Austin took her away from Simeria and all its turmoil.

"Nat."

I "Lord Austin, thank you..." Natalie's delicate arms lay across the man's lean waist. The moment he felt Natalie's response, Austin's whole body trembled.

I "Nat!" ! Austin's voice grew hoarser, filled with an uncontrollable emotion. But this time, Natalie didn't pull away from him. When their eyes met, the haze in her eyes stirred something deep within him.

As their lips met, it felt as though their hearts trembled. It was as if some long-lost past was resurfacing between them.

Deep memories, both familiar and unfamiliar, seemed to blend together in the space between them.

A Divorce After My Rebirth #Chapter 836 - Read A Divorce After My Rebirth Chapter 836

Chapter 836 Give Me Custody of the Child Cedric stood at the corner near the school gate, a secluded spot where few could notice his presence. Almost every day, he would come to this place and watch Luna from afar as she arrived and left school.

But today... it was different.

Usually, either Austin or Natalie would personally drop off Luna. But today, it was just the driver and nanny.

What was Natalie up to? And Austin? Was it possible that Austin no longer cared for the child after such a long act? The thought of Luna suffering in Natalie's presence churned Cedric's insides.

Natalie and Austin were interrupted by a commotion outside, and Cole's voice called out, "Lord Austin!"

"What's going on?" Austin was beside Natalie, and he "frowned deeply at the interruption; his expression as dark as thunderclouds. At that moment, even Cole, who was outside, could sense the annoyance in Austin's tone.

Anxiously, Cole replied, "Mr. Johnson is here!" Austin's silence spoke volumes, and Natalie's face turned sour.

Again? After all, the last person she wanted to see in the world was Cedric. Yet, like a persistent specter, he always found a way to assert himself in her life, no matter the circumstances.

It seemed they would have to consider leaving Dawnvale after all. Luna hadn't started primary school yet, so a change of environment wouldn't affect her too much. While Austin hadn't entertained the thought, Natalie had already started considering it.

Cedric's presence was akin to a curse for her.

"I'll check it out." Austin resigned himself to the situation, knowing that Cedric wouldn't leave easily if Austin didn't meet him today. Natalie's face darkened even further at Austin's reply.

Seeing her distress, Austin kissed her gently on the forehead and whispered, "We'll continue this tonight." Natalie blushed furiously at his words, her dissatisfaction fading momentarily. If there were a hole to hide in, she would gladly disappear into it now.

"You should go!" she muttered, unable to meet Austin's eyes.

Seeing her like this, Austin smiled warmly. At that moment, his dissatisfaction vanished.

No matter what Cedric did now, it wouldn't change Austin's relationship with Natalie. This petite woman was his.

Whatever happened in their world, Natalie would always be Austin's wife.

When Cedric saw Austin descend the stairs in his dressing gown, he instantly stiffened as if struck by lightning.

Instinctively, he glanced behind Austin.

At that moment, he finally realized the most comprehensive problem before him.

Natalie was already Austin's wife! Things between Cedric and Natalie, and even their past, seemed irreparably damaged.

Why?

How did things end up like this between them? What time was it now? Why were they still asleep? What exactly happened between them last night?! Natalie used to be completely his, and now she lay beside another man at night...! Cedric's throat tightened at the thought.

"Where is she?" he demanded.

"She hasn't woken up yet," Austin replied calmly.

Cedric fell silent. Upon hearing those few words, his already tense heart clenched even tighter.

Natalie was Austin's wife. Since they were husband and wife, what happened between them was inevitable! So why was he...? "Tell her to come down now!"

Cedric's tone was stern, and he was gritting his teeth. He couldn't control his anger, and he absolutely dared not think about why it had come to this.

When Cedric finished speaking, Austin furrowed his brow.

As Austin sat down, his robe was slightly open. When Cedric saw the scars on Austin's chest, his mind was thrown into chaos.

No words could describe how Cedric felt at that moment...! Natalie... Natalie! "I'm sure she has nothing to discuss with you now! Whatever you have to say, you can say it to me!" "And if it concerns Luna?" Cedric's already unpleasant tone worsened as he looked at the man who had become Natalie's husband, seemingly taking charge of everything for her.

Austin's attitude only fueled Cedric's anger.

"Austin's expression darkened when he heard Cedric's words.

"Of course!" At that moment, Austin's tone was deep and carried an undeniable authority.

Austin also held authority over Luna's matters...?! "Fine! Give me custody of Luna!" Seeing Austin assert his authority, Cedric's attitude also hardened.

Cedric had never considered taking custody of the child before, but now that he fully accepted Natalie's relationship with Austin, he wanted to take Luna away.

Why did he want to take her away? Since Natalie had decided to marry Austin, Cedric believed they should have their own children.

So, this was what truly letting go felt like! As Natalie stepped out and stood at the corner of the stairs, she just happened to hear Cedric's words. Instantly, her expression darkened! "Who gave you the right to claim custody of the child?" Her tone was sharp.

Natalie was clad in a robe matching Austin's color scheme and descended from upstairs.

Cedric had never acknowledged news of their marriage before. Even if they were married, he believed it was just a facade.

But in Westhill Enclave, their own residence, who did they need to put on a show for? So, everything they were showing him was real! The thought of all this being real made Cedric's heart numb, and it clenched even harder...!

Natalie glared at him sharply as she walked towards Austin, who took her hand and embraced her.

At that moment, Austin's dominance over the situation was even more apparent.

Cedric fell silent, and his eyes were filled with endless chill! The guilt and pain faded away, and only anger remained.

"I'm Luna's father!" "Oh, are you? I'm her mother, but I wasn't aware of that!" Natalie looked at Cedric, speaking each word deliberately.

Cedric was speechless.

It was ironic...! Everything between them seemed so ironic now.

Chapter 837 You're a Monster ' When Cedric was with Natalie, he thought they would be together for a lifetime. Yet, who could have imagined such a lifetime would be so fragile? In the end, her delicate hand was tightly held by another man...

"Natalie, I won't stop you if you want to marry someone else! But won't allow my child..."
"Hah!" Natalie scoffed, interrupting Cedric's tirade.

"Or perhaps you want to tell this man what kind of monster you really are? Would he still want you if he knew?" At that moment, Cedric's tone was sharp and forceful. Obviously, he seemed to be beyond caring about anything at this moment. He even said such words! Natalie was speechless, and her already ro I unpleasant expression worsened. When she looked into Cedric's eyes, there was 4

I also endless danger and sharpness. I She naturally knew what Cedric was talking about.

f Was he threatening her?! Yes, he was! There was no mistake about it! "Well?"
Cedric's tone became even sterner, and the threat within it was obvious.

What kind of person was she? Before Cedric mentioned it, Natalie had never thought it was a big deal, nor did she know what would happen after waking up in such a way. After all, she had never experienced the strange occurrences that altered her life like this! However, by Austin's side, she seemed to forget everything and felt safe under his warm protection.

She was a unique person who had lived two lifetimes. As Cedric said, maybe... she was a monster. I Cedric was also one.

However, Cedric didn't seem to care I aboutit.

But what about Natalie? Could she also be nonchalant about this? Obviously, she couldn't! But... When did Cedric start to enjoy making these kinds of threats towards her? Natalie was becoming increasingly frustrated and fed up with Cedric's behavior. So, when he attempted to threaten her once again, the beast within her began to stir, longing to be set free.

Looking at how tightly Natalie held Austin's hand and how pale she looked, Cedric thought Natalie was afraid.

I So, he followed up and said, "Natalie, give me custody of the child! As for you, I l'llletyougo..!" Cedric's tone was forceful, and he was obviously threatening Natalie. No one I expected Cedric to terrorize Natalie at this moment still and to use this matter to force Natalie to hand over custody! "You call me a monster? Aren't you also one?" "I don't care!" But Natalie was different! Cedric looked at Natalie and Austin's intertwined hands. Didn't Natalie used to also care about him? She also cared about what was between them.

However, her feelings had utterly changed.

What she cared about now was Austin.

Since that was the case...!

2. (eSiafatagbh gd . Cedric's resolve grew stronger as he looked into Natalie's eyes. Meanwhile, , Natalie felt her heart tremble as she looked at the man before her.

Suddenly, the warmth of the hand I holding hers became stronger.

Natalie looked at Austin, whose eyes were filled with profound strength. He clearly supported her in moving forward.

"Lord Austin..." Natalie's voice was full of pain when she spoke.

"We're keeping Luna with us!" Austin said firmly.

That was what Natalie had wanted all along. She just hadn't thought that Cedric would use such a thing to threaten her.

She... did care! But even if she cared, her answer was still clear when it came to losing Luna.

"Yes, we're keeping her!"

It didn't matter how Cedric threatened her or if she had to lose everything in the I process.

She couldn't lose Luna. Natalie had almost given her life to bring that child I into this world! That was how precious I the child was to her! With Austin's support, Natalie faced Cedric.

Cedric's unpleasant expression darkened further when he heard that Natalie wanted to keep Luna with her.

"Natalie!" His tone became heavier because of this.

"I won't give you custody of the child!" Natalie said fiercely.

"Aren't you afraid?" "Afraid? You've tempered me in every possible way, Cedric! Why would I still know fear?!"

i IL. Mala dbe sn It was true that she had been a little afraid just now, but if she had to lose , Austin because of this, it was okay! She had endured so much by now, and nothing had defeated her yet. If Austin left her because of this, there was nothing to regret! Cedric was speechless. Upon hearing Natalie say these words, his heart was in turmoil.

"Are you blaming me?" "You were just threatening me with my greatest weakness! Did you expect me to be grateful to you?!" Wasn't it obvious that Natalie blamed Cedric?! Cedric fell silent. Looking at Natalie behaving this way, he felt once again that the woman in front of him was not the one he knew.

The Natalie he knew wasn't like this!

y S— By his side, Natalie had endured trials and tribulations. So, what kind of life had she led with him? "Nat, give me the child!" i "I will personally explain to him what kind of monster I am. Cedric, don't even think about using anything to threaten me!" Cedric was speechless. Perhaps he hadn't been expecting Natalie to be so firm! In the past, Natalie always had various considerations whenever she encountered something.

But now? If he dared threaten her with any of her weaknesses, she would expose them all! In doing so, what else could he use to threaten her? Obviously, nothing! No matter what method Cedric used, he N ~ i couldn't intimidate Natalie. Natalie wouldn't give Luna to him and would do , whatever it took to protect her child.

Natalie looked at Cedric, who was momentarily lost in thought, and I ruthlessly said, "Now, get out of here!" I ' She didn't want to see this man anymore.

At this point, why would she? And at this moment, Cedric saw Natalie in a new light once again. She wasn't the same woman she used to be. She was even more ruthless than ever before.

"Fine!" Cedric suddenly felt that Natalie had no weaknesses! Natalie met Cedric's eyes calmly and said, "Don't act like I owe you anything.

You've played the role of a father enough, haven't you? Why do you need to add Luna into the mix?"

I The irony in her words was palpable.

At that moment, Cedric was rendered "speechless. —

Chapter 838 Aren't You Afraid of Me? That was how Natalie was now. It didn't matter how much Cedric tried to threaten her this way! It was over.

Or perhaps Cedric was simply accustomed to manipulating Natalie since he always did it in the past.

Ultimately, Cedric left.

Austin hugged Natalie and gently brought her back to her senses. "Nat." Natalie snapped out of it and looked at Austin. She moved her lips as if to say something, but at that moment, nothing came out.

"You did great." Austin cupped her petite face and gently stroked her cheek.

The warmth in his fingertips gradually melted Natalie's heart.

"Aren't you afraid that I'm a monster?" she asked.

A monster? Yes! Cedric just said Natalie was a monster, and Natalie also said Cedric was. It was clear that they had something in common in some ways.

And just now, Cedric wanted to use Natalie's weakness to threaten her.

Austin looked at the calmness in her eyes and felt his heart clenched painfully! People say that women in their adolescence were full of love for life, but now, Natalie's eyes seem to lack any enthusiasm.

It was evident what kind of hardships she endured when she was with Cedric.

Austin said, "I'm not afraid!" It was a simple sentence, but he said it so firmly. This firmness made Natalie unconsciously believe in him.

Once Cedric brought up the topic, Natalie also knew that being honest was the most responsible thing to do for herself and Austin. After all, letting Austin know what kind of person she really was from the beginning would make it easier to make choices.

Natalie never talked about it before because she didn't think it was important. But today, when Cedric brought up the issue, she was thinking...

Did some change in herself cause her abnormality? When she thought that way, she felt uneasy.

Or was there a change in the man before her?

She tried to recall what Austin was like in her previous life. However, she had never been to Simeria during that time. So, she knew nothing about the Entes family then.

"Nat!" Just as Austin was about to say something to comfort Natalie, she grabbed his hand and said in a painful tone, "He's right.

I'm a monster." The pain in Natalie's tone continuously spread through the man before her.

"You..." "He's right! I'm a monster!" "Nat, I won't allow you to say that about yourself!"
"But it's the truth!" Natalie said as she looked at Austin.

She was truly confused, and her heart was in turmoil!

Especially when she saw the tenderness in the man's eyes towards her, she was \ genuinely afraid of how her abnormality might affect the man in front of her.

If something did indeed affect him, she I would bear the blame for the rest of her I life.

"Alright, then tell me, what kind of peculiarity do you possess?" Because she didn't want Cedric to threaten her just now, she said she would tell Austin herself.

Natalie shook her head. "Not peculiar..."

Monstrous!" "Okay. Then tell me, what kind of monster are you, hmm?" At this moment, the man's tone was soft, and this gentleness kept warming Natalie's heart.

Natalie looked at Austin and suddenly lost her courage.

] n Nat n Natalie remained silent, but seeing the { ' firmness in the man's eyes, she glanced around instead.

And as if Austin could sense her thoughts, he said to the people around him, / "Everyone, leave!" "Yes, sir!" Cole made everyone leave. He didn't only make them leave the room, but the villa itself. Only Natalie and Austin were left shortly after, and the man stroked her cheek.

"Can we talk now?" Now, there wasn't a single person present in their vicinity. However, Natalie still seemed hesitant.

After all, to truly speak of such matters would be painful for her.

She didn't want to recall all the pain she had experienced in her previous life. It seemed that she had been healing her I previous self since starting her current life.) She used all her strength to resist Cedric, I even at the cost of destroying everything I around him. She even repeatedly unveiled Isabella's mysterious veil.

But even so, the injuries from her previous life seemed deeply rooted. She always dreamed how her previous self had been in the darkness when she woke up at midnight.

At this moment, Austin sensed that something was wrong with Natalie.

"Nat..." As if she had remembered something, Natalie began to tremble all over. Austin held her in his arms, wanting to comfort her trembling heart. The moment Natalie felt the warmth in the man's embrace, it was as if all her courage had returned to her instantly.

She took a deep breath and said, "I possess memories from two lifetimes!" ' Finally...! — In this lifetime, even Bianca didn't know (about this!) And now, Natalie finally said it.

Finally, she mentioned that unbearable self for the first time.

Her previous life was a past she least wanted to face and recall. But the moment she disclosed this fact, she felt like something had been lifted off her shoulders, and she relaxed. Although she had tried not to recall it before, Natalie had to admit that she had been struggling with this secret.

After all, it was terrifying, and it had happened to Cedric and her! At that moment, the air around them seemed to freeze. It was silent enough to hear a pin drop, and the rhythm of of Austin's breath could be clearly heard.

"Lord Austin..." 4 Natalie noted that Austin was silent, and she looked up at his face. Austin was (clearly shocked. His expression made Natalie's previously relaxed heart tighten /" up again at this moment.

After a while, Austin noticed Natalie's gaze on him and snapped back to his senses. "Nat." He looked at Natalie. When he saw the hurt in her eyes, his astonishment vanished, replaced by heartache! "Tell me, what happened?" Although shocked, Austin was a very astute person. Thinking of what Cedric had just said to Natalie, he knew they were likely the same.

Both were people with memories from two lifetimes.

When Austin hugged Natalie again, no one knew how Natalie's heart was tossing and turning.

"Aren't you afraid of me?" Natalie asked.

After all, in the beginning, she thought it was an opportunity given by heaven. But deep down, she still believed that some people would be afraid of her because of it.

She was afraid that others would fear her, so she had always kept this secret! If Cedric hadn't threatened her in this way today, she probably wouldn't have spoken up until now.

Chapter 839 Confession "Why should I be afraid of you?" When Austin heard Natalie say these words, his tone was filled with endless heartache for her. And Natalie's heart, at this moment, was melting bit by bit because of Austin! He wasn't afraid of her! "Tell me, what happened? I want to know everything about you." Originally, Austin always thought he knew enough about Natalie, but now it seemed he knew nothing at all.

He didn't know what Natalie had experienced all this time! Natalie didn't know how she managed to speak about her past life. Austin was a grown man, but even he couldn't help but , tremble all over the more he listened, It showed just how much pain Natalie had endured back then.

After it was over, Natalie sighed deeply and painfully. "At that time, I really /' couldn't accept it!" She couldn't accept her fate.

How could she have fallen into the hands of such a person? But at that time, she didn't even dare to escape.

The force with which Austin held her tightened even more.

"Nat." At this moment! Austin hated that he and she weren't the same. If they were, he would have protected her in their previous life. He wouldn't have let her perish in such pain and despair.

"So, when I woke up, I was desperate to expose Isabella's true face and divorce him." At that time, Natalie knew everyone saw her as a lunatic. They thought she had too good a life to want a divorce from Cedric! I But Natalie had no regrets about that divorce.

Nobody knew the despair she had gone through to make such a radical decision against Cedric! "And then, you already know all that happened afterward." After hearing about the commotion in Verde City back then, Austin really wanted to know who this remarkable woman was when he found out about her.

After all, few dared to confront the Johnson family head-on at the time, and Natalie had summoned all her courage to do so.

"Yeah, you were brave and smart," ] Wr T'9 BONUS \ Austin said with a nod, Despite encountering many dangers, she managed to navigate through them safely and narrowly escaped.

("I just wanted to live!" I non "And I didn't want to lose my sight..." When she mentioned losing her sight, Austin tightened his grip around her a little more.

Weren't there some similarities between them? Everyone said the third son of the Entes family was a fool. Later, his sudden recovery shocked everyone. What most people didn't know was that for a considerable period, someone had been spiking his food with drugs, which had been keeping him in a state of darkness all along, ] Wr "19 BUNUS When Cole came to Austin's side, things gradually turned around, and he also slowly began to return to his senses.

Some people were just very bold in doing such a thing to him! J "There won't be any more trouble in the future," Austin reassured Natalie.

"Okay," Natalie responded softly.

Natalie felt comforted after hearing Austin's kind words. When something weighed heavily on her mind, it felt like a burden on her chest. However, once she expressed her thoughts fully, it was as if the weight had been lifted, and she felt much better.

Perhaps Cedric hadn't expected that Austin would accept Natalie like this.

Even after Natalie spoke about her past life experiences, she received even more heartfelt empathy from this man.

Austin didn't mind any of it...!

When Cedric returned to Phoenix Villa, the place was in chaos. Rebecca was furious about something, and Kayla was kneeling on the ground, crying bitterly.

I Rebecca was already very annoyed with I her, and seeing the child crying now only fueled her anger.

"Is crying all you know how to do? Why are you even crying? Why would you still cry when you stole something?!" "It wasn't me, Grandma! I really didn't do it!" "Don't call me that!" When Kayla called her Grandma, Rebecca became even more enraged. Her own granddaughter had never called her that before, so why should this girl be given the right to do so? "Sob...!" Kayla cried even more pitifully after hearing Rebecca's harsh words.

J — in SS Cedric had already been upset by what happened with Natalie, and now, hearing Rebecca venting her anger on Kayla only added to his frustration.

"What's going on here?" His tone was I stern.

I "Rebecca's anger flared when she saw Cedric. And Kayla, being observant, cried even more miserably after seeing that he had returned.

"You're just in time! Get rid of this child, quickly!" Rebecca said, referring to her previous demand for Lucas to get rid of Kayla, which Cedric adamantly refused to do.

Cedric ignored her demand and said, "From now on, treat her as your granddaughter!" Rebecca was stunned. "What? What nonsense are you talking about?" What did he mean by that? Did he think that she could treat just any child as her granddaughter? What exactly was he saying? Rebecca was truly unsettled now. Could it be related to what happened with Natalie? "Luna will never return to either of us," Cedric stated after noticing Rebecca's unusual expression.

Rebecca was already feeling uneasy, and she became even more rigid upon hearing Cedric's words.

After realizing what he meant, Rebecca exploded with anger. "Why?!" What did he mean by Luna never returning to them? "Did you go see Natalie? Is that what Natalie said?" It had to be Natalie. It must be Natalie! Before, Rebecca would have immediately blamed Natalie upon hearing such words. But things were different now. Looking at Kayla, Rebecca probably understood why Natalie didn't want Luna to be with them! "Do you know why Natalie doesn't want / Luna to come back?" Rebecca asked angrily.

"You have already reached a point where getting back together is impossible. The only thing left to fight for is the child!" "I'm not saying you needed custody of her, but why can't you even get visitation rights now?!" Exactly! At this moment, Rebecca was analyzing the situation clearly. She knew that being stubborn with Natalie wouldn't lead to any results.

Chapter 840 Visitation Rights? No Chance! During this period, Rebecca became much clearer-headed. With this clarity, her "I" analysis of the situation naturally changed.

"It's because of Kayla. Do you understand?" Because of Kayla, even the small and pitiful visitation rights were out of their reach.

Cedric fell silent.

Kayla! It seemed like their entire lives couldn't escape the topic of Isabella and Kayla.

Why was Rebecca so anxious now? Wasn't it all because of Kayla's presence? Because Kayla was here, they had no chance at all.

"Send her away, okay?" Rebecca didn't

I care whether Kayla was here or not at this moment. She genuinely didn't want to see this child. Thinking about how her granddaughter couldn't return to her side because of this child, she couldn't bear to look at her.

I With such thoughts, Rebecca naturally wouldn't allow Kayla to stay here.

Cedric glanced at Kayla kneeling on the ground pitifully, and his eyes dimmed.

And when Kayla saw Cedric's eyes devoid of any warmth, she panicked.

"Daddy!" No! Please, no...! Although life here wasn't easy, leaving would make it even worse, so she had to stay.

When Kayla called out to Cedric, there was a hint of tenderness in Cedric's eyes.

I Rebecca also noticed Cedric's change and snapped, "Shut up!" n "You're just like your mother! You both (are good at acting!" Rebecca was \infuriated by Kayla's appearance.

Cedric frowned. "That's enough!" After listening to Rebecca repeatedly targeting Kayla, his tone became even more grim.

"You...!" Rebecca was angry again.

Why was it always like this?! Initially annoyed, now she was furious.

She never liked Kayla to begin with, and seeing Cedric defend the child like this only fueled her anger.

While Cedric was still struggling with Luna's custody, the honesty between Natalie and Austin had brought them closer than ever. After learning about Natalie's true situation, Austin was even more indulgent towards her.

It was as if he wanted to offer her all the good things in the world.

Luna was still present during dinner, but Austin persisted in offering to feed Natalie himself.

"That's enough, I'll do it myself." Natalie protested.

Did she look that fragile? Natalie was sure she didn't! "Nat." "Yeah?" "I'm ready to take you away from here," Austin said.

It went without saying that Luna was also included in that declaration.

It went without saying that Luna was also included in that declaration.

Natalie looked at him sharply, and a hint of pain flashed in her eyes.

Austin also wanted to live a peaceful life, right? After all, he had left Simeria with her! Wasn't Austin someone who hoped for peace? But now, the situation...! "I'm sorry," Natalie said.

"This peace is what I originally wanted to give you," Austin assured her.

It wasn't what Austin had intended.

Originally, it was meant for Natalie, but Cedric had disrupted it. Thus, Austin felt displeased and harbored the idea of taking Natalie away.

And when Natalie heard that Austin wanted to take her away, her heart felt even more chaotic. His assurance that this peace was something he originally wanted to give her especially touched her deeply.

4 So she nodded. "Okay!" Since Austin said so, Natalie would agree with whatever this man said.

Austin smiled. "I'll have Cole prepare everything." I : "Where are we going?" "It's a secret." Austin smiled mysteriously, clearly not intending to tell Natalie.

A secret, huh? They were going to a place no one knew.

Natalie hoped this would be the last time they moved and that it would be where no one could find them afterward.

Natalie and Austin both understood that as long as Cedric was around, they wouldn't find peace. So, the only way to find peace was to move and get far away from them.

They exchanged a knowing smile.

Three days! I : . .

In just three days, an incident that shook everyone's hearts happened.

In Entes Manor, Bianca was having breakfast when she heard the related reports. Her heart jumped to her throat when she processed the information.

Bang! She slammed the cup in her hand heavily on the table, showing just how much Bianca's heart was currently in turmoil.

Even she, at this moment, couldn't contain herself anymore! The situation unfolding now was evident! With a swift motion, Bianca got up, not even bothering to grab her coat before heading out.

When Neil brought Seraphine in, he saw Bianca looking like she was about to leave. And at this moment, Bianca had no time to deal with Seraphine.

"Lady Bianca, Ms. Holly is here!" Neil was still somewhat respectful towards Seraphine since she was from the Holly family, so he brought her in without announcing her presence first.

"In that case, please entertain Ms. Holly properly, Neil," Bianca said as if she were the manor's mistress. Without waiting for Neil and Seraphine to react, she left.

Behind her, she could feel Seraphine's gaze piercing into her back. Normally, Bianca wouldn't mind engaging in a confrontation with her, but not today! Bianca hurried to Lotus Villa. The Jarvis family was currently under Clyde's control, and after Natalie called Clyde, he assisted Bianca.

On the day of Natalie's call, Clyde publicly announced Bianca's additional status as...

Clyde's adoptive sister. This instantly gave Bianca, who had previously had no background in Simeria, a significant background! As a result, Bianca's days were leisurely for the next several days.

Now that she had ties with the Jarvis family, anyone who dared to harm her would have to consider the consequences! When Bianca saw Clyde, she asked urgently, "Is it true? Is she really gone?" Bianca was clearly referring to Natalie! Rumors had been circulating since yesterday that Natalie, Austin, and everyone with them had disappeared overnight from Dawnvale.

However, no one knew where they had gone.

Cedric had been frantically searching Dawnvale, but there was no trace of them.

Although the Entes family seemed to have settled down, turmoil was brewing underneath the surface.

Even though Austin had withdrawn completely, the opportunity he had provided to Zane at that time had caused dissatisfaction among many in the Entes family.

No one knew what this disappearance truly meant.

"Yeah." Clyde nodded.

When she received his reply, Bianca's heart sank.

A Divorce After My Rebirth #Chapter 841 - Read A Divorce After My Rebirth Chapter 841

Chapter 841 Disappeared Again Gone? - Where could Natalie possibly have gone? At this moment, everyone's hearts were in their throats! If she had left just to avoid Cedric, that would be one thing. But what if it wasn't such a simple disappearance? "No matter what, we must find them!" Bianca exclaimed in a tight tone.

Natalie...! On the way here, Bianca repeatedly dialed Natalie's phone number, even the one they used to contact each other exclusively. But no matter how many times she dialed, all she got was the same result—the phone was off, and there was no response whatsoever.

That was exactly why Bianca was so worried.

"We're doing all we can to find them," Clyde said with a deep voice. ~ Bianca nodded.

"You still need to be careful. When Nat was around, she was always the most worried about you. The Entes family is not to be underestimated right now!" "Especially towards you, Bianca!" Each word the man said carried weight.

And Bianca? Her already tense heart tightened even more upon hearing that Natalie had always been most worried about her.

Now, Bianca felt suffocated.

Yes!

, Since when had they relied on each other for warmth? No matter when, their hearts were always closest to each other.

"I got it. Thanks for the reminder!" Bianca knew what Clyde's reminders meant, and she knew exactly what she was facing right now.

The two discussed Natalie a bit more, and half an hour later, Bianca was ready to leave.

When she turned around, Clyde said, "If you want to leave, I'll help you!" Did he say that out of consideration for Natalie? Bianca looked back at Clyde. She knew Clyde wanted to help her because of Natalie, but no one could help her in this current situation.

She took a deep breath and firmly said, "In this situation, I wouldn't leave even if you could help me!"

Upon hearing Bianca's words, Clyde paused, clearly not expecting her to say that. After all, when Bianca was by Malcolm's side before, she always thought about leaving.

"Mr. Jarvis Jr., even if you look down on me, I still have to say it! I, Bianca Sanders, have always been someone who takes revenge on those who cross me." In the past, so many things happened with Malcolm. Leaving at that time was actually the best way to escape.

But why did she give up that opportunity when it was the best time to leave? Because at that time, Malcolm ruined everything for her and caused chaos in her life. How could she just leave without taking something back? And this time with Zane... It wasn't as simple as cutting off her escape route.

What he wanted... was her life!

How could she let him go? Originally, Bianca had gone to Zane's side because of Malcolm's threats. —~ But now, Zane was in the position he wanted and standing above everyone.

Bianca realized that he had sacrificed her repeatedly without her knowing it! It was all fake. The camaraderie Zane seemed to show her back then was all fake! Clyde furrowed his brow, his tone tightening as he reminded Bianca. "He's now the king of the Entes family...!" The implication behind his words was clear. Even if Bianca wanted revenge on Zane, she... wouldn't be able to do it! Upon hearing this, Bianca said, "But he wants my life! Once I leave Simeria, I'll..." Bianca didn't finish her sentence, but that was enough to remind them both of her current situation.

She couldn't leave Simeria. Even if Clyde could help her, Zane already had such intentions...! At this moment, Clyde looked at Bianca and asked his own question, "Why would I treat you like this? You have no grievances with him." Bianca fell silent.

That was true.

Zane had directed Malcolm's anger toward her for what happened in Lyndoria, effectively cutting off her escape route. Zane's disappearance that one time was also him indirectly using Bianca.

Putting aside his disappearance, Zane must have known how much Malcolm would hate Bianca for the incident at Lyndoria.

If they were to talk about who wanted Bianca to leave Simeria the most, it would , be Zane! If she left, his alliance with the Holly family would have gone more smoothly.

But why did he cut off Bianca's escape route? Why trap her in Simeria, where she couldn't go anywhere? When Clyde asked such a question, Bianca furrowed her brow tightly. "Yes, I have no grievances with him!" "Or have you been overlooking something all along?" Bianca fell silent.

Overlooking something? What had she overlooked? She was sure she didn't know Zane! There was no enmity between them, and they met through Natalie. So, if it came to grievances, Bianca could be a hundred percent sure that they had none.

So...

Why would Zane treat her like this? Bianca somehow made her way back to Entes Manor in a daze, but Zane still hadn't returned. Seraphine had also already left.

Neil's gaze toward her had turned icy when he saw her.

"When will he be back?" Bianca got straight to the point.

"That's not what you should be asking!" Neil said.

"Call him. I need to see him," Bianca said, her tone tightening.

She had to know.

She had to figure it out! Even if Zane was scheming something against Malcolm by using her in the Lyndoria incident, Malcolm wasn't a , pushover either! The incident in Lyndoria seemed more like it was targeting her. = But why would Zane do that?! Why push (her to the brink of disaster? She wanted to rely on him to escape Malcolm, but he ensured she could never escape the devil's clutches! The original cooperation had now soured because of this! Bianca's heart tightened slowly as the thoughts slowly entered her mind.

Neil was silent, and his gaze toward Bianca also darkened at this moment.

Bianca snapped, "Call him!" At Verdant Villa, Bianca respected Neil due to his position beside Zane. However, after Zane's actions towards her during this time, she no longer held any positive feelings towards Neil.

Bc \ Neil replied, "At this hour, he should be busy." "In that case, I'll call him myself""Bianca couldn't care less if Zane was busy at this moment. She just wanted to know why he !' had done what he did regarding Lyndoria! I Soon, Zane's number flashed on her phone screen, and Neil's expression grew even darker.

After all, Neil only acknowledged the queen! Previously, Bianca held a similar position because she stood by Zane's side as his wife and the Entes family's seventh lady.

But now... she wasn't any of those things.

Chapter 842 Eleanor's Mockery "After one week, Zane still hadn't returned. The disturbance Bianca had caused with the Holly family had made Neil's attitude toward Bianca increasingly cold.

Eleanor had been discharged, and that decisive woman was the first person to appear before Bianca after the latter had not seen anyone for the entire week.

"You've been waiting for him, haven't you?" After returning to the hospital, Eleanor had a sickly pallor on her face.

Bianca looked at the woman opposite her with tightly pursed lips. There was no warmth in her eyes, only darkness.

Eleanor set down the lemon water in her hand. Due to her health, she no longer drank coffee and such.

She smiled faintly, with a hint of irony.

"Why bother? He's gone abroad with Seraphine, and you... " At this point, Eleanor paused. She observed Bianca's increasingly grim expression and continued, "Any sensible person would know it's pointless to defend an empty position!" n n "There's still time. Promise to leave the manor before they return, and I'll ensure you live comfortably for the rest of your life." Bianca scoffed and looked at Eleanor coldly. "Haven't you already joked enough during this period?" Eleanor was speechless.

"Don't bother wasting your efforts! Continuing like this will only make the Holly family a bigger joke." S¥Von.*. 8

Eleanor's already sour expression grew even more vicious upon hearing Bianca's words, and she exuded danger from head to toe.

Throughout the years, Eleanor always accomplished what she set out to do. No matter who held what the Holly family desired, they always made way for her due to various conditions.

And now Bianca...! Eleanor seemed to have been given the best conditions to her, yet she was unexpectedly unyielding! Clearly, this was the first time Eleanor had encountered such a tough nut.

Looking at Bianca like this, it was as if she was looking at someone who didn't care about anything.

It was as if no matter what conditions were offered now, Bianca wouldn't yield.

Eleanor was thoroughly enraged.

I Noone in Simeria had ever dared to oppose the Holly family like this. Bianca I was the first. With a sudden movement, she rose from her seat, emitting an icy chill.

Her anger had reached its limit.

Finally, she grabbed the glass of water she had been drinking from and threw it all over Bianca's face.

Instantly, Bianca was left in a sorry state.

Bianca was speechless, and her mind was momentarily blank! She blinked, and her eyes gleamed with endless coldness as she unceremoniously grabbed the coffee before her and splashed it towards Eleanor.

The scene fell into a brief, quiet stillness! When Neil arrived, he saw the scene unfold before him. His heart tightened.

"Ms. Sanders!!" Eleanor practically

I hissed through gritted teeth.

"Tam the Entes family's seventh lady." "Bianca calmly said, reminding the woman opposite her of her identity Neil wanted to step forward and say I something, but at this moment, he watched the tense atmosphere between the two and ultimately didn't intervene! Crash! Eleanor threw the cup in her hand fiercely to the ground, clearly expressing her extreme anger.

And now Neil was well aware that Bianca had completely opposed the Holly family.

Meanwhile, Bianca stood rooted in place.

That was embarrassing! Bianca had to admit that life had indeed taught her a good lesson.

After Neil escorted Eleanor out and returned, Bianca was still standing there.

He sighed and approached, handing her a towel. "Why bother with this?" Bianca was silent.

Why bother? What was the point? Neil continued, "Even if you eventually manage to secure that position, offending the Holly family now will only make things harder for you!" "During the Gilded Stream Peak incident, he was with Seraphine. Neil, you understand what I went through then, right?" Back then, every man in the Entes family wanted to turn Verdant Villa upside down. However, the news of Zane's disappearance couldn't be leaked. At that time, Bianca was dealing with various people from the Entes family daily, while Zane... was with Seraphine?! Bianca remembered that back then, Yvette had also caused trouble for her.

Yvette had claimed to be the one in Zane's heart.

Thinking about that scene now was truly laughable! They were nothing... none of them were anything.

Zane was the most mysterious man in the Entes family.

"I just want to get what I desire now. As for whether the days are difficult or not, Zane's days aren't easy either, right?" Bianca said as she wiped the water off herself.

Speaking of Zane, he probably needed the Holly family's support. So, no matter how they acted now, he still had to retain them.

Originally, Zane could have smoothly formed an alliance with the Holly family without Bianca's interference. But now she was in the midst of it all, refusing to budge an inch.

Neil's expression changed upon hearing this.

He said, "Leaving is actually your best option!" "Neil, I respect that you've been with me all this time. But ask yourself, if I leave Simeria, do I really have a way out?" Did she? Anyone would know that once Bianca left Simeria, she would have no way out! So even if life in Simeria was difficult now, she could only reluctantly endure it as Zane pushed her into such an abyss.

And she was determined to get what she

I wanted from him! [.

During this period, Bianca showed an unyielding attitude to everyone, and no one could persuade her.

Malcolm arrived. He glanced at Bianca and threw a report before her, exuding hostility! Bianca picked up the report and saw photos and reports of Zane and Seraphine visiting abroad! Undoubtedly, this shattered public opinion in Simeria once again.

"At this rate, I seriously doubt whether you can obtain that position," the man said in a cold and dangerous tone.

"How much longer can she wait for me?" Bianca asked.

Malcolm sneered, "One month!" "Really?"

"With such advanced medical skills, how long she can wait for you depends on my attitude." Bianca fell silent. Looking at Malcolm, there was a hint of sarcasm on her lips.

Was this man planning to keep her under his thumb forever? She understood now.

Natalie was right, huh? Once someone had a vulnerability, it was easy for someone else to control them! "Do you really hate me that much?" Bianca asked as she raised an eyebrow.

Hate? Regarding the Lyndoria incident, Malcolm was not the only one who hated Bianca. Everyone around him hated her, wishing to tear her to pieces.

At this moment, the venom in Malcolm's eyes was so evident that Bianca

I understood without further explanation! If it weren't for Malcolm oppressing those out for her blood, there probably wouldn't be a place for Bianca to hide in Simeria.

I Zane's methods were really ruthless! With one move, he sent her to hell.

"In that case, I'll tell you now. I don't want information about that person anymore!" Bianca smiled as she firmly said.

Chapter 843 The Slow Dismantling ' of Stubbornness Bianca's tone was so calm and relaxed, as if she had broken free from all constraints instantly.

A vulnerability, huh? "Hah... Really?" There was a murderous intent brewing in Malcolm's eyes.

"I've always been a selfish person. Didn't you always think so?" Selfish? Bianca's self-assessment at this moment was undeniably accurate.

She was selfish and only looking out for her own interests. She was ruthless! That was Malcolm's summary of Bianca, and on this point, Bianca now... admitted [Rit.

"Are you serious?" There was a hint of intensity in Malcolm's voice.

"Of course!" Bianca was resolute.

Of course she was.

Their eyes locked, and Malcolm's eyes flashed with endless ferocity while Bianca... regained the calmness she had once had by his side! She became the woman she was when she first met him, unmoved by anything that came her way.

She wouldn't submit! Malcolm wanted to slowly dismantle her stubbornness, but all he received was her endless resistance. He couldn't suppress her at all.

"Then try leaving Simeria!" With those words, Malcolm got up. At that moment, he exuded a chilling aura.

He stepped towards the door, but as he reached the doorway, he paused and glanced sideways at Bianca.

"In that case, you probably won't see her in her lifetime." With that said, Malcolm left. Meanwhile, Bianca remained seated, lost in thought for a long time.

She wouldn't see her mother in her lifetime? And she...! Closing her eyes, Bianca regained her composure after a tumultuous inner struggle. No one knew how contradictory she had been during this time.

Bianca wanted to see her mother! She just wanted to know why the woman left all those years ago. Bianca's father was such a good person, so why did her mother leave? But if the cost of knowing everything back then required such a high price from herself, then she...! She what? She wanted to see her mother! But if seeing her required such a great sacrifice, then... not seeing her would be fine! After all, Bianca didn't really want to delve into the past so much.

With this thought in mind, Bianca became even more determined to leave.

Natalie's phone screen lit up with a call, and she answered it. After a brief exchange of words, Natalie asked, "So, you're thinking of leaving?" "Yeah." silence filled the air after Bianca's answer. In fact, she had been very conflicted during this time, shuttling back and forth between the Holly family and Zane.

In the end, she...! — "I'm glad," Natalie sighed with relief when she heard that Bianca wanted to leave.

While Bianca had been very conflicted during this time in Simeria, Natalie, who was far away, was endlessly worried about her.

Bianca said, "Regardless of past grievances, they shouldn't be shackles for the rest of my life!" "You're right," Natalie agreed.

Natalie had always known how complex Simeria was, and that was why she was worried about Bianca, especially when Malcolm threatened her. Bianca had been forced to stay in Simeria, stand by Zane's side, and even confront the Holly family.

Bianca's clear-headed decision amidst such conflicts genuinely pleased Natalie! No matter what happened in Simeria during this time or what conflicts and grievances Bianca had with the Holly family, ending it all now was for the best.

"I'll have Austin handle it!" Natalie knew what Bianca was worried about. Since Bianca had decided to leave Simeria, Natalie would ensure everything was arranged properly, ensuring that Zane's lingering threats wouldn't affect her.

"Thank you!" It was time to let go, regardless of gratitude or grudges! Bianca's mother had abandoned her back then. Did it really matter whether Bianca knew the truth about those things now? Thinking about it now, actually not seeing her mother wasn't such a regrettable thing.

With that thought in mind, Bianca breathed a sigh of relief.

"Why are you being so polite with-me?" Natalie was genuinely happy that Bianca had let go of everything.

"He's still looking for you!" Bianca suddenly said, referring to Cedric.

Austin had taken Natalie away from Dawnvale, and so far, only Bianca knew where she was. Natalie contacted Bianca out of concern that she might need help.

Even though Natalie's older brother was in Simeria, he was a man, and Bianca wouldn't feel comfortable always asking him for help.

Despite Bianca's chaotic situation, she still paid attention to Cedric's whereabouts during this time.

Natalie fell silent upon hearing that Cedric was still looking for her.

"I'm also glad you're determined to break free from him!" "I actually regret not listening to you back then," Natalie sighed.

If she had listened to Bianca's advice, saying that Cedric was only suitable for dating, not for marriage, then perhaps she wouldn't have had so many unfortunate encounters later on.

Looking back now, encountering Cedric was truly the biggest disaster in her life.

"That's what it means to be human," Bianca said.

At this point, Bianca didn't know what to say. People would always need some experiences in life. Although Natalie's experiences were heartbreaking, the good thing was... she had completely moved on Now.

Previously, the end was in sight between Malcolm and Bianca. But who would have thought that the incident in Lyndoria would crop up? Natalie said, "Malcolm can't threaten you now. He must be furious, right?" "Of course, he's furious. But no matter what happens now, I won't let him think he's found my weak spot!" That was Bianca's top priority.

What did Malcolm do when he thought he was threatening her during this time? Bianca saw it all too clearly. That man had been trying to drag her into the mud for years, wanting to erase the cold arrogance in her eyes completely.

However, what Malcolm didn't know was that a person's arrogance actually came from deep within and that it was intimately connected to their experiences in life.

"Great!" Natalie breathed a sigh of relief upon hearing Bianca's words.

This was how Bianca was supposed to be.

Only this way could that man be completely unable to threaten her, "I'll have Austin arrange things as-soon as possible to help you leave sooner," Natalie promised.

The Lyndoria incident had caused a significant commotion. Even if Malcolm didn't express his anger, his people would not forgive Bianca for leaving Simeria. In fact, they might even harm her if they found out about her departure.

Chapter 844 Decision to Leave Bianca had truly made the decision to leave, and everyone was shocked by it.

There was a sudden crash at the place where Malcolm currently resided as everything on the desk was swept to the ground.

At this moment, Liam exuded a dangerous aura.

Malcolm shot him a fierce glance and said, "Liam." "Yes, sir!" "If anyone dares to make a move, kick them out of Simeria!" Liam was speechless and looked at Malcolm with shock in his eyes.

Was Malcolm referring to Bianca? He was forbidding anyone from touching Bianca?! But that woman...

I "Sir!" Liam's tone tightened at the thought.

"Malcolm said, "She's still useful to-me!" Useful? Was it really just that? "Is she useful or something else...?" Liam's tone had a tinge of hidden anger.

If it weren't for Malcolm's command, he would probably have gone to find Bianca now.

Everyone around Malcolm hated Bianca! Because of the Lyndoria incident, they wished to tear Bianca to shreds.

"She's just one woman. Do you think she can do so much?" Malcolm lit a cigarette and took a couple of impatient puffs.

Liam had been with him for so many years. When he heard Malcolm say such things, he instantly realized something.

"Sir, are you defending her?"

"Liam!" Malcolm was furious, but Liam respectfully bowed and continued; "Have you forgotten the scene at Lyndoria?" n n Of course, Malcolm hadn't forgotten.

How could Bianca do that...? She won't leave Simeria," Malcolm said as he crushed the cigarette butt into the ashtray fiercely. At that moment, the man's eyes flashed with endless ferocity.

Without waiting for Liam to say anything, Malcolm handed him an envelope. "Go and give this to her." "What's this?" "She naturally has to pay the price for what happened at Lyndoria." After the outburst of anger just now, Malcolm's tone instantly returned to calm.

I | Liam fell silent At Dawnvale, Cedric was completely frantic.

No matter how hard he tried, he couldn't find Natalie. He desperately tried to catch up with her footsteps wherever she had gone! But who would have thought that she would vanish overnight? Austin had taken her away, and Luna had gone with them.

There was nothing left of them here.

Bang! At Phoenix Villa, Rebecca threw her cup to the ground when she heard the search results for Natalie.

Kayla was originally doing her homework on the side, but Rebecca's actions scared her, causing her to flinch.

Rebecca was furious. "She's gone again,

I I and now we can't find her, right?" Rebecca massaged her temples in frustration. Meanwhile, Cedric sat on the sofa, smoking silently.

What could he say at this moment? Nothing seemed to come to mind.

Natalie had left. Why did she leave? Why did she take Luna away at this time? Wasn't it because she couldn't stand their presence here anymore? "It's all because of you," Rebecca glared at Cedric fiercely, then glanced at the trembling Kayla nearby. "She's not your daughter! Why do you insist on keeping her around and causing trouble for everyone?" Rebecca already couldn't stand this child because of Isabella, and now this had happened. The more she thought about it, the angrier Rebecca became.

Cedric had brought Kayla to Dawnvale

u despite Natalie not accepting the child This made Rebecca furious Wasn't this the main reason why they were unable to have a chance to fight for Luna? Kayla's arrival had taken away any little chance they had! Rebecca's anger surged when the thought entered her mind.

"Kayla, go upstairs." Cedric extinguished his cigarette, trying to be as gentle as possible with the child amidst the chaos.

But his tenderness only further infuriated Rebecca.

"Are you still protecting her?! You should kick her out of here!" Rebecca exclaimed.

After Cedric's disappearance, Rebecca tried various ways to bring Luna to her side. She knew Natalie disliked Kayla, so even though she was lonely then, she never considered bringing Kayla with her.

Why couldn't Cedric just send Kayla

I away? There were so many orphanages! If he was so worried, they could find a house and hire a couple of servants to care for her at a higher cost, right? Why did he have to keep her around?! I "Do you still not understand what Isabella means to Natalie?" Rebecca glared at Cedric fiercely.

After everything they had been through, some things were unforgivable. Even now, Rebecca could clearly feel that Isabella was the thorn in Natalie's heart.

Why didn't Cedric understand this? Why did he insist on keeping Kayla around? The more she thought about it, the angrier Rebecca became.

At this moment, Cedric seemed to ignore Rebecca's words and said in a dissatisfied tone, "Be nicer to the child from now on." Rebecca was speechless. She was already angry, and hearing Cedric defend Kayla

I and say such words only increased her anger.

"Finding Natalie had become a frantic search, but there was still no news of her or Luna.

I Yet he... was still defending Kayla here?! "Since you've made this choice, recall everyone," Rebecca said sternly.

Cedric fell silent at Rebecca's words.

Searching like this is futile, don't you understand?" Rebecca was incredibly lucid at this moment. Even if they found Natalie and Luna, what would it change? Natalie marrying Austin was an unchangeable fact! As for Luna, Natalie would never let them meet because of Kayla. Even if they forced a reunion, it would only make things worse,

So, it was better not to search at all Cedric frowned.

Isabella is a pain in Natalie's heart! Don't you understand?" Rebecca pleaded earnestly with Cedric.

I In fact, Isabella was a calamity in Natalie's life! Cedric nodded. "I know." "Then why insist on them living together?" Rebecca asked, referring to Kayla and Luna.

Cedric fell silent. Based on his response, Rebecca knew he was continuously defending Kayla in his heart. She always knew her son was stubborn, but seeing this level of stubbornness now made her feel like she didn't know him at all.

She didn't do anything wrong!" Cedric finally spoke, referring to Kayla.

Regardless of what Isabella had done in

In this life, Natalie had lost everything in her previous life. That was a fact. Yes, in Natalie's previous life, Isabella had indeed caused her to lose everything.

"Who's not wrong?" Rebecca couldn't believe she was hearing these words from Cedric now.

At this point, who wasn't wrong?

Chapter 845 Unrealistic . Expectations 2 Cedric looked at Rebecca and slowly said, "She's just a child..." This time, Rebecca understood! He was talking about Kayla.

"But she's Isabella's daughter!" Rebecca had never felt so powerless.

No, when Cedric insisted on marrying Natalie back then, her attempts to stop him were equally futile. And now, facing Cedric's attitude toward Kayla, she... felt equally powerless! "Get her out of Phoenix Villa. I don't care that you want to raise her anymore. Just don't do it here!" At this moment, this was Rebecca's final concession,

She realized that Cedric would never give up on Kayla, no matter what he was going through or how he felt about Natalie and Luna.

"Cedric, I'm warning you! Stop having delusions about them living together! It will never happen!" Rebecca said.

Indeed.

Expecting Natalie and Luna to live together with Kayla was completely impossible, and Rebecca hoped Cedric would understand that.

At Rebecca's words, Cedric closed his eyes and said nothing further.

Living together? He had never considered it, All he wanted... was always Natalie! He pursued her across lifetimes just to find her! But now,,,!

He seemed to understand clearly that he couldn't find her. Natalie was trying every possible way to escape from him.

Even if he managed to find Natalie now...

Even if he found her, what was the use?! All he would get is her endless evasion.

After finally finding her in Dawnvale, she left again! He didn't know when it started, but wherever he was, Natalie wouldn't choose to stay. To Natalie, Cedric was like a plague in her life. Wherever he was, Natalie wouldn't accept his presence.

It seemed like she couldn't even accept them breathing the same air anymore.

When did their relationship... become like this? Everything had completely changed! Even if he pursued her across lifetimes, what was the point? It was useless. He had explained everything, and Natalie

I knew what had happened in the last life.

But even knowing all that, she still "couldn't forgive Isabella or him! Even knowing all that, Natalie still married Austin, indicating the extent to which those things affected her.

Those pains and hurts seemed to have been ingrained in her bones, making it impossible for her to forgive in this lifetime.

"Daddy." Rebecca had left. Clearly, she didn't want to see Kayla. So, until Cedric dealt with Kayla, she wouldn't return to Phoenix Villa.

At this moment, Kayla looked at Cedric with big, watery eyes, just like Isabella used to do years ago.

It was with this same gaze that she looked at him!

And at that time, he had given Isabella a job.

Everything started with a look, and now...! "Kayla." "Daddy, please don't drive me away." Kayla burst into tears instantly.

The days were tough during this time, but Kayla found solace in being by Cedric's side. Only when Cedric was present did those people not dare disrespect her.

Once she was out of Cedric's sight, the people around her would show their hypocritical faces again, and she detested those faces.

Cedric rubbed his aching temples and remained silent.

This was the first time he had reacted this way.

In the past, Cedric would always promise

I to protect her whenever she said such words.

"For the first time since becoming her father, Cedric was silent when faced with Kayla's pitiful state.

Suddenly, a thought flowed into his mind.

"He pitied everyone in the world, but he had overlooked the one who suffered the most because of him—Natalie.

Whenever Isabella got hurt, he was there! But in the end? What had he done when Natalie was hurt? Yes, he had protected her. But ultimately, the balance finally shifted.

Why? Why did the balance tilt towards the other side of Natalie then? Why did it have to be like that? He... thought of those schemes.

How many times had Isabella schemed in front of him? Eventually, those schemes continued until... Natalie left him! He lost everything because of those schemes.

He lost Natalie! At this moment, Cedric realized everything. It was all because of the deviations of his own actions! How could he? How could he protect anyone other than Natalie?! "Daddy?" Seeing Cedric's silence, Kayla's gaze became even more cautious, her heart pounding in her throat.

And at that moment, Cedric met Kayla's pitiful gaze and understood everything! He was wrong... He was still wrong! Even though his mother was harsh, what she said was true! What had he done to Natalie?!

In the face of those schemes and so much hurt, even if Isabella ended up losing her sight for Natalie's sake...

Natalie still couldn't forgive anyone, could she? Because in that period, she endured too much pain. She had experienced so much that she had lost the ability to forgive anymore.

And there was no turning back from that! Natalie once asked him, "How far can you go for Isabella?" In other words, it meant how much he could hurt her for Isabella's sake...! Thinking of all these things, Cedric's heart... was torn apart mercilessly.

Natalie finally understood. The question that had troubled him for so many years was now crystal clear at this moment.

Kayla heard Cedric calling Natalie's name, and the pitifulness in her eyes turned into tears. "Daddy!" There was grievance and fear in her tone.

Cedric had always fallen for this, but now...

When he looked at Kayla, endless calmness and coldness flickered in his eyes, and Kayla's heart leapt into her throat at such a gaze.

Though she was a young child, she was mature for her age. Her surroundings were always turbulent, and she understood many things because of it.

She understood even more what Cedric's current gaze truly meant.

"Daddy, are you going to make me leave?" she said, tears streaming down her face.

"Kayla, n

"paddy," Kayla muttered pitifully "You haven't done anything wrong," "Cedric said.

That was right! Kayla had done nothing wrong. The only mistake she made was being Isabella's daughter! And this kind of mistake was not one she could choose.

When he thought of this, the pain in Cedric's heart became even more suffocating.

"Daddy." "But you have to leave!" Kayla fell silent.

At this moment, Cedric's tone was firm.

"Don't worry, I'll arrange everything for you so you don't have to worry about your future," Her future?

But what about now? Kayla's eyes were filled with fear and "tears.

Chapter 846 Sending Kayla Away Cedric gave up. He finally saw everything clearly. He had done what he once thought he wouldn't do.

Kayla wasn't at fault, but he couldn't keep her by his side. In fact, her arrival at Dawnvale made Natalie leave with Luna \ without hesitation, showing she was also worried that Luna would face such an awkward situation.

Natalie loved Luna so much. How could she let Luna face all of this? Thinking of this, Cedric felt a sharp pain in his chest.

Rebecca returned after receiving the news.

"It's rare for you to see everything clearly!" Even if sending Kayla away now might not necessarily earn Natalie's forgiveness, at least there was a glimmer of hope and a chance... to see Luna.

If Kayla were around, Natalie would definitely not allow Luna to have contact with them.

I Back then, Isabella had hurt her badly.

As a mother, how could Natalie let Kayla harm Luna? On this point alone, Natalie would never let Kayla appear in their life.

"She's gone. Why do you still need to say these things?" Cedric's actions were indeed swift. The moment he decided to send Kayla away, he had Lucas and Kyle arrange it quickly.

And just half a day after Rebecca left, Kayla was sent away, leaving no trace of her in Phoenix Villa.

Meanwhile, Ruth handed Bianca an envelope after she decided to leave.

' When Bianca saw it, she said, "Forget it!" She didn't reach out to take it, clearly showing no intention of opening it.

I Whatever Ruth gave her was undoubtedly from Malcolm, and whatever that man gave her was never anything good.

Observing Bianca's lack of interest in opening it, Ruth's eyes dimmed.

Rip! Before Bianca could react, Ruth had torn the envelope open.

Bianca was speechless. She frowned at Ruth, and her anger rose when she saw the firmness and toughness in Ruth's eyes. Seeing Bianca's angry gaze, Ruth took out the envelope's contents and respectfully handed it to her.

"Liam said to give it to you before you leave. It'll benefit your later life," Ruth

I] — said calmly.

Bianca's eyes flashed dangerously, but she still snatched the envelope from Ruth's hand. Seeing Bianca take the item, Ruth also breathed a sigh of relief.

I ""Go away!" Bianca said fiercely.

"I think you'll have a message to give to Lord Malcolm once you're done," Ruth said.

Obviously, she wanted to watch Bianca finish reading the contents of the document. Already furious, Bianca slammed the comb on the dressing table even harder.

In the end, Bianca opened the document under Ruth's gaze. The further she read, the more icy her eyes became.

When Bianca saw the information on it, her heart was in turmoil.

It was...!

I It was what? It was the reason Bianca's mother left all "those years ago.

"How can I believe all of this is true?" Bianca viciously tore the documents I apart.

Even now, Malcolm hadn't given up using this person to threaten her! And he...! Who would believe this? "Wouldn't it be enough if you personally verified it?" Ruth said calmly.

But at this moment, Bianca's emotions were already in turmoil.

She... couldn't leave! Her father would die, and she wouldn't have a good ending either! If she stayed, she would save herself and her father! At that moment, Bianca felt a heavy oppression in her chest.

Crash! Bianca swept the things on the dressing table onto the ground in frustration. She had always been a calm person, able to sort out the chaos in her heart no matter when.

But now...

It was completely chaotic.

"Liam said that after your mother managed to overcome the crisis that befell her, she has been looking for you all this time. That's proof that she-" "Shut up! Get out!" Bianca screamed at Ruth.

Obviously, Bianca didn't want to hear anymore.

Malcolm seemed to be able to see into Bianca's heart. Whatever she wanted to know, he would make sure the information reached her.

And now, she knew! "Lord Zane doesn't seem to want to give you a way out!" Finally, Ruth left after saying these words.

Alone in the room, Bianca smiled at her pale reflection in the mirror.

So, the people on Malcolm's side thought she wanted to leave because she didn't want to make things difficult for Zane?! She just didn't want to trouble herself.

She didn't want to cling to things that had long passed.

But now...! When Malcolm brought this to her, Bianca learned why her mother had left.

She also learned that when her mother was relieved of all her burdens, she went looking for her.

] pect What was his intention? Not long after Ruth left, Neil came up.

"Mr. Johnson is here." Neil's respectful tone carried a sense of detachment.

Cedric? Wasn't he supposed to be at Dawnvale? Why was he here now? "Hah!" Bianca sneered.

She had always been sharp, so she naturally understood why Cedric appeared here now.

Obviously, it was because...! Half an hour later, Cedric met Bianca, who was impeccably dressed. Despite the situation, she showed no hint of embarrassment. On the contrary, she still exuded the grace of a noble lady who was destined to be the future queen of Simeria.

Bianca elegantly lifted the teacup in front of her.

17 : : i "You've been going through a tough time recently, haven't you?" Cedric asked.

Bianca was silent. Hearing this, she paused in her actions and smiled.

"Even if it's difficult, can it be worse than it is now?" Bianca may have considered leaving, but she knew that being in Simeria was the closest she'd get to peace in her life. Even in the midst of chaos, Simeria was a haven for her. Leaving would only make her life significantly harder than it already was.

"Do you want to leave? I can help you!" Cedric said.

Leave? Yes!

Anyone who understood Bianca's situation and character knew she wanted I to leave Simeria more than anyone else.

However, because of those two men, she was trapped there. Also, anyone who understood the current situation knew that as time went on, this situation would only become more complicated.

So when Cedric brought up the topic of leaving now, Bianca laughed! "Help me?" "Yes n "What do you want in return?" Bianca deliberately asked.

Before seeing that document, she had considered leaving. She kept telling herself that it was her mother who selfishly left first. So even if Bianca left, she wouldn't feel any guilt.

But everything changed when Malcolm brought that document before her.

Everything became different because of it.

Chapter 847 Dare You Tear Them . Apart? E "Even if you help me, it's just helping me disappear to a place where no one can find me...!" But now, Bianca didn't need that kind of help anymore.

Cedric frowned. He looked at Bianca and asked, "Then what do you want?" What did she want? Now, all she wanted was someone to confront Malcolm and Zane, and ask her mother in person if she really left for the reasons Malcolm's information stated.

Was Cedric capable of giving her that? "I want to tear them both apart! Do you dare do that?" Bianca sarcastically remarked, knowing full well it was an impossible feat, Once, because there was only Malcolm, she and Zane teamed up. Who knew it was a case of the praying mantis stalking the cicada, unaware of the oriole behind? She had no idea Zane could hate her so much! "Do you think that's possible?" Cedric looked at Bianca, frowning his brows.

Bianca shrugged and said, "Help me investigate something." "What is it?" "I want to know if there are any grievances between Zane and me." Seeing Malcolm's attitude toward her now, she understood that even if she wasn't involved in Lyndoria's incident, it caused quite a stir.

After all, Zane and Malcolm used to be the closest brothers in the Entes family, What made Zane do what he did in Lyndoria?

It was worth noting that after Malcolm left Simeria, he wouldn't have any L influence on him in Simeria anymore.

After Lyndoria's incident, they descended into a pit of hatred.

; Considering Malcolm's vengeful nature, it was evident that Zane's life wouldn't be easy afterward.

Cedric asked, "Do you suspect Zane purposely orchestrated this against you?" "What else could it be?" Bianca said sharply.

She really couldn't think of any other reason. Zane had disregarded the loyalty between the brothers and even Malcolm's retaliation.

And this matter had the biggest impact on her, directly ensnaring her without any room to maneuver, Cedric silently stared at Bianca, Bianca continued, "Let me make it clear that there's no reward for this. If you , don't want to help me, forget about it." "I think it's quite simple for you to investigate this matter. Why ask me?" Cedric questioned.

Bianca hesitated.

Cedric was right! If she really wanted to investigate, it would be simple for her.

So, why ask Cedric to do it? "Or why not ask Clyde? If Clyde investigates, won't you get the results quickly?" Bianca smiled. "You think I haven't considered that?" Cedric remained silent, She had indeed considered it thoroughly.

After all, she was a meticulous person,

When she realized there was a problem with this matter, she would certainly I want to know the reason.

However, she hadn't investigated it herself all this time.

t Now, she was even waiting for Cedric to investigate. What was the reason? "If either Clyde or I investigate this, the result I receive may be too unbelievable to accept, correct?" "You don't trust Clyde?" "It's Zane who will definitely trust...

you!" Bianca's tone was deep, and in that instant, Cedric understood.

Bianca's thoughts ran deep, more than anyone could imagine. Due to Natalie, Cedric and Bianca were never good friends. So, Zane would unlikely suspect Cedric of helping Bianca with anything, EE a Since Zane went to such great lengths to entrap her in this predicament, it was clear he would be cautious. Plus, after their previous collaboration, Zane could see that Bianca... wasn't a simple person.

And now, most of the people around I Bianca were Zane's people, so who could she possibly mobilize? Perhaps from the moment Bianca proposed the collaboration, Zane had already ensnared her in a trap, and Bianca didn't even realize it.

"It doesn't matter whether you help or not. I'm not in a hurry about this matter." Bianca sighed.

Cedric said, "Tell me where Natalie is!" Bianca fell silent, As expected, he came for Natalie.

"I know you two are in contact!" The man's gaze was deep as he looked at Bianca, EE a \ Cedric had returned from Dawnvale because he knew Bianca and Natalie were I in contact. He had searched everywhere he could during this time, and no matter how desperately he looked for Natalie, he never received any news.

I So, he had no choice but to come to Bianca.

Bianca sighed again. "Just leave!" "Bianca!" Cedric's tone grew sterner.

"Cedric, don't you understand yet? Nat is afraid of you." Indeed! This man's persistence was genuinely frightening to Natalie, "In the past, there was a huge class difference between you two. Nat initially had no intention of being with you. You pursued her and begged her to marry you, but how did you treat her afterward?"

0 *15 BONUS Whenever Bianca spoke about the past between Natalie and Cedric, she felt a bit uneasy.

What exactly had happened back then? Did Natalie truly have such a lovesick mind that she ignored so much because of Cedric? With Cedric having such a mother, it was enough for Natalie to see the situation clearly. Besides, her only friend at that time, Bianca, had repeatedly advised her not to be with Cedric.

But even in that situation, Natalie still chose to be with Cedric.

Why?! It was because this man begged her! As Bianca said, everything happened because of this man's pleading. Cedric begged Natalie to marry him.

Natalie had originally planned to go abroad

But this man before her.. I Thinking back on all the past events, "Bianca couldn't help but say, "You-two are truly fated to be enemies, you know?" non "After getting together with her, what have you done that's worth her forgiveness?" Which action had he done that was worth it? Obviously, whether it was Natalie herself or in regards to Luna, what Cedric had done to Luna was probably the most unforgivable aspect for Natalie.

"I just want to know where she js!" Cedric said.

Bianca, already in a volatile state, became éven more furious upon hearing Cedric speak like this, "When you left Simeria to find her, did J +15 BONUS J you only intend to see her? But what happened? Your annoying mother also J) wentalong!" non "I'm right, aren't I?! In Dawnvale, you and your mother disturbed her peace again, didn't you?" Bianca said, each word heavy.

Indeed! That must be it, Because she was so disturbed, Natalie had no choice but to leave Dawnvale, "Since she has been with you, she has not had a moment of peace! While in your family, she was always cautious. But jt didn't matter. She was still constantly manipulated." Thinking of Rebecca and Christina's manipulation of Natalie and her first child,,

J +15 BONUS It was clear Natalie's refusal to forgive Cedric now is simply rational, Chapter 848 Anyone Is More Important Than Natalie to You Cedric felt at a loss for words as he stared at Bianca. He wanted to say something, but no words came to mind! How about doing a detailed count? As Bianca said, every action he took with Natalie wasn't worthy of forgiveness, but even so...! "Let her go, and let yourself go too, okay? Don't keep going back and forth like this." Back and forth? Bianca's summary of Cedric's behavior was quite accurate. Before, when Cedric saw how desperate Natalie was to get away from him, he actually wanted to let go. It was enough that she could live a better life, But in this world, ..!

No matter who Natalie was with, he wasn't at ease, especially now that Natalie was with someone from the Entes family.

How could he be at ease? I Now, Natalie had gone to an unknown place with Austin. Although everything with the Entes family had been settled now, just by looking at the situation between Bianca and Zane, it was clear that the Entes family was still in turmoil.

In this situation, how could he be at ease? Bianca seemed to see through Cedric's thoughts. She took a deep breath and said, "No matter who she's with, it's better than being with you, you know?" Cedric fell silent.

Being with anyone else was better than being with him? Already troubled, Cedric's heart ached even more upon hearing Bianca's words.

"I've sent Kayla away. I-" "It's useless!" Bianca interrupted.

Without waiting for Cedric to speak, Bianca continued, "There will be other women! Who knows how many there'll be? Next, there'll be a Kaylee, Kylie, Keira...!" n "n ""Anyone is more important than Natalie to you. Do you understand?" At this moment, Cedric's eyes turned bloodshot.

Bianca had the least patience with Cedric because she felt there was always a problem with how he treated Natalie! Natalie was his wife, yet he allowed a secretary to overshadow Natalie's position, causing a stir in Verde City.

Back then, in Bianca's eyes, Cedric truly had no regard for Natalie's feelings.

Now that Natalie was gone, she was suddenly important to him?! "Bianca looked at Cedric and said once again, "Let her go, okay?" In fact, everyone knew that things had reached this point, and Cedric's continued entanglement was useless.

How many times had it been? The first time, Austin gave up everything for Natalie in Simeria. And now, he gave up Dawnvale for Natalie. He simply doesn't want Natalie to have anything to do with Cedric anymore.

Even her husband, for a short period of time, could do so much for Natalie, What right does Cedric have to keep harping on the ten years he had with her? Now, looking at their so-called ten years, it was so ironic! Cedric was speechless.

Let go! These two words struck hard at his heart.

"He wanted to retort, but there was nothing he could say.

In the end, he stood up silently. He i glanced at Bianca one more time, and she shook her head.

"It's meaningless." These words, like sharp blades, pierced Cedric's heart.

Meaningless...! Ten years...! Ten years and two lifetimes! Now, continuing this entanglement had suddenly become meaningless...! In the depths of the man's bloodshot eyes, there was a plethora of sadness and SOITOW.

"You're right. It's meaningless!" Even if Cedric had sobered up and understood everything now, it was meaningless.

"He had completely lost everything; ard it was simply impossible to regain it.

He had lost Natalie.

I And how did he lose Natalie? How could he have done all those things? But no matter how Cedric felt now, he couldn't get her back.

It was useless.

In the end, Cedric left, and no one knew what kind of emotional turmoil today's conversation with Bianca brought him.

Before leaving, he said to Bianca, "I'll help you investigate Zane!" That was what Bianca needed most right now.

I As for Natalie's whereabouts, Cedric

I didn't ask again. No one knew if it meant that Cedric had truly let go this time.

I Based on his actions before this, it was actually very difficult for him to let go of her.

After all, they had spent ten years together. How could it be so easy to let go of someone? What did those ten years mean? It began with passion and ended with habits.

Cedric has become accustomed to Natalie, and now... it was useless! It didn't matter that he needed to spend the dark nights alone in the future, Everything was useless.

Malcolm received a call from Bianca.

Earlier, Bianca was very determined to leave, but now...! "I'm staying," Bianca declared.

"Is that so?"

"How much time does she have left?" "That's for me to decide!" "Lord Malcolm!" Bianca's tone became heavier.

, What did he mean by that?! "Bianca, she doesn't have much time left.

Since you're staying, you need to use your time well!" After saying that, Malcolm hung up without waiting for Bianca to respond.

Bang! Bianca flung the phone fiercely to the ground, and her heart was filled with anger.

After a few moments, Ruth entered.

"Lord Malcolm said that person will come back tonight!" Ruth was clearly referring to Zane, and it was evident that Malcolm was now pressuring Bianca from this side! Bianca had always been someone who didn't allow herself to be threatened: She glanced at Ruth and said, "Get out and don't enter my room again. Otherwise..." | Otherwise what? At this moment, Bianca's tone was fierce.

Ruth retreated to the doorway immediately. "Is here okay?" "It's fine." "That person didn't tell you that he'll be back tonight?" Did Zane tell her? Hah! What was their current situation? Would he tell her about his whereabouts? Obviously not! "Is he with Seraphine?"

"Yes. n Hah, they're really inseparable now, huh? Ruth left, and Bianca picked up her phone. She dialed Zane's private number, Since knowing Zane went abroad, Bianca had never called him.

After a few moments, Zane picked up, and his magnetic voice came through, "Hello." "I'm cooking tonight. Will you come back for dinner?" "No need, I have plans." "Are you going to the Holly family's residence?" Bianca raised an eyebrow. Even though they were on the phone, Zane could still sense the coldness in her voice, "Bianca!" Zane's tone became a bit heavier,

J "I think it's appropriate for me to go with you. After all, I'm the most suitable person to stand by your side right now." Upon finishing her sentence, Bianca could hear the man on the other end of the phone breathing heavily. Sensing Zane's unstable breath, Bianca finally felt a bit relieved in her heart.

"I'll be waiting for you." After saying that, she hung up the phone.

Without even looking, Bianca could imagine Zane's expression at this moment and how he wished to tear her apart.

Chapter 849 Ambiguous Attitude I " At the international airport, Zane and Seraphine were waiting in the VIP channel. Amidst the bustling crowd, Seraphine noticed Zane hang up the \ phone.

She said, "I've informed my family to prepare your favorite dishes. Mom knows you're coming together with me and is very happy." Zane frowned. He glanced at Seraphine and said, "Tell them there's no need to prepare anything for me." Upon hearing this, Seraphine paused and looked at Zane in disbelief.

What did that mean? "Um..." "I have a lot of work to handle, After we arrive, you go straight home."

He wanted her to go home first? So, Zane wouldn't be coming back with her? Thinking of this, Seraphine's complexion turned a bit sour. But in front of Zane, she remained obedient and docile.

Before coming out, Eleanor had cautioned her. The Entes family held a dominant position in Simeria. It was fine if Zane wouldn't tolerate Seraphine when she was defiant, but his not tolerating the Holly family was a different matter! "Okay, then don't overwork yourself." In fact, Seraphine knew exactly what Zane was going to do.

Just now, Bianca called. Zane sounded furious on the phone. It was obvious that Bianca was up to her tricks again! Thinking of Bianca's current mischief, Seraphine felt extremely irritated.

This time...!

Going abroad with Zane was actually to mend his relationship with the Holly family, which Bianca has been trying to \ sabotage.

However, after going abroad this time, Seraphine also saw Zane's attitude towards the Holly family. While Bianca may get in their way for a while, she couldn't do it forever.

It was a flight lasting six hours. When they disembarked, Seraphine wasn't too keen on leaving like this.

Zane said, "Let Aaron take you home." Aaron? That was Zane's most trusted subordinate.

Hearing that Aaron would be escorting her, Seraphine finally showed a faint smile. "Then I'll head back now."

"Yeah." Seraphine left, and Zane went straight back to Entes Manor.

When Eleanor saw only Seraphine returning, she frowned. "Why didn't he come back with you?" "He returned to Entes Manor." Seraphine didn't conceal anything when she replied, and Eleanor's eyes flashed with a hint of hostility upon hearing this.

Bianca kept going against them repeatedly! Seraphine said, "Mom, Bianca is not a simple person." "I can see that." It was truly rare for someone in Simeria to oppose the Entes family while being alone and helpless!

No, such a person simply didn't exist.

Even ordinary families wouldn't dare to do so, but Bianca...! "We must deal with her as soon as possible!" Seraphine said fiercely.

Originally, this trip abroad with Zane this time was an indirect way to announce her future identity to the people of Simeria.

But why did Bianca keep interfering? If the Entes family were to confer the title on Seraphine, it would not be appropriate, particularly since Bianca was still residing at Entes Manor. Even if Seraphine were to enter that place as the queen, it would not be honorable as long as Bianca was present.

So, Bianca had to move out of that place before Seraphine and Zane could officially get together! "Are you forgetting something?" Eleanor's breath was also somewhat unstable.

"What?" Seraphine was truly confused by anger and didn't immediately understand what Eleanor meant.

Eleanor said, "She's now recognized as Clyde's sister!" "Clyde!" Mr. Jarvis Jr.! There was no denying that in Simeria, the only family that the Holly family feared was... the Jarvis family! Bianca knew how to secure backing. With Clyde's announcement, even if Seraphine desired to deal with Bianca, she could no longer do so.

"Usually, minor disputes are manageable.

But with the announcement from the Jarvis family, we must be careful not to cross them." "So, does this mean Bianca now has a status to be with Lord Zane?" Seraphine's tone grew even heavier.

"Eleanor frowned as she admitted that Seraphine's words were true. Upon hearing this, her uneasiness grew, and a headache began to form.

"That's just a means for her to protect herself here. What's the point of a status that came out of nowhere all of a sudden?" Seraphine didn't feel relieved upon hearing this. Instead, her face turned paler. That was because her own status wasn't that straightforward either.

In fact, she was just the Holly family's...! "Sera." "Yes, Mother." When Seraphine heard the seriousness in Eleanor's tone, she lowered her head.

Eleanor looked at her and said, "No matter what, you must reach that position. Our family should also have a queen!" At this moment, Eleanor's tone was stern and solemn. It was as if not reaching that position would be a great sin for Seraphine.

Seraphine nodded. "I understand, I Mother!" Upon hearing Eleanor's words, Seraphine knew... She would have no value to the Holly family if she didn't reach that position. She didn't want to find herself in such a situation. After all the years the Holly family had invested in her, they wouldn't allow her to be worthless.

"So, from now on, you'll also have to put more effort into Lord Zane. Understand?" Eleanor looked at Seraphine and spoke seriously.

Seraphine nodded. "I understand." "As for that woman... we'll help you deal with her." This time, the Holly family was { "determined to ensure Seraphine reached that position no matter what.

For many years, the Holly family had fallen short of reaching that position.

This time, the entire Holly family was determined to push Seraphine up there.

No matter what obstacles stood in her way, they would be eliminated! While the atmosphere in the Holly family was now somewhat solemn, Zane arrived at Entes Manor to find Bianca, dressed in white, setting the table with soup. He appeared lost in thought for a moment, Bianca noticed Zane and smiled victoriously. "You're back." "Are you satisfied?" Zane handed his coat to Neil, who respectfully took it and stepped aside.

Bianca approached him. Her figure was striking, and Zane had to admit that Bianca had an excellent physique and remarkable abilities.

She helped Zane adjust his tie and said, "Of course I am." At this moment, Bianca's deliberate tone grated on Zane's ears. Despite their once cooperative relationship, the Lyndoria incident had made things tense.

They both sat down, with Bianca across from Zane, casually taking a bite. "Hmm, tastes good." "Did you make this?" "You should feel lucky that I did," Bianca remarked.

Previously, when she hung out with Natalie, Natalie did the cooking. Bianca wasn't particularly fond of cooking herself.

Chapter 850

Holding You Is All I'm Capable of Zane said somewhat impolitely, "I don't need a nanny." Bianca scoffed. "Are you mocking me? That holding you here is all I'm capable of?" Zane took a sip of the red wine and remained silent. And this silence, evidently, was also an acknowledgment! Upon seeing Zane's tacit agreement, Bianca chuckled. "Who said I'm trying to hold onto you? What do you have that I need to hold onto?" And by using such means? Bianca was never one to bow down in matters of the heart, especially not for Zane! Zane frowned at Bianca.

I Bianca smiled. "'Seraphine must be turning green with envy, right?" I "Bianca!" Zane's breath became unstable again.

Bianca just smiled dazzlingly at him.

"Your relationship has been somewhat repaired this time when you went abroad, hasn't it?" Unfortunately, she had almost ruined the relationship again. Zane's already unstable mood darkened further upon hearing Bianca's words.

"Have you decided? When will you give me that position?" Bianca asked.

Bianca had been talking about that position all along, indicating that she was determined to become the queen.

Zane replied, "You know it's impossible." That was still the answer she received.

"For three days, then?"

"What?" "I only need that position for three days." Just three days, and she could probably get what she wanted from Malcolm's side.

Zane frowned. "That's no different from asking you to stay in that position for a lifetime!" So, not even three minutes would be possible, let alone three days.

Bianca was rejected. It was a thorough rejection, yet she didn't seem irritated.

"Well, it seems I'll have more time to do more things here." Such as finding out why Zane had pinned the Lyndoria incident on her.

I Originally, Bianca didn't care much about her own grievances, but now everything was different. Since this man wanted her to stay here, she would naturally have more time to do more things.

As she finished speaking, the dimness in the man's eyes across from her deepened, and countless dangers flickered through them.

I Such danger was evidently warning Bianca, but she paid it no mind.

Zane suddenly said, "Tell Cedric to stop." The air froze, and Bianca's smile also followed suit.

Everything around her...! So, even though he was far away in another country, he still always had control over everything?! Thinking like this, Bianca's already uneasy mood became even heavier.

Zane said, "If you want to know something, just ask me. No need for covert tactics." Covert tactics?

(—_— Upon hearing these words, Bianca chuckled.

. 1 She simply said, "Between the two of us, who has really used covert tactics?" Her tone was slightly unsteady, and Zane fell silent at her words.

As she spoke, a sharp glint flashed in his eyes.

"Since you said I should ask you, then tell me... Why did you pin the Lyndoria incident on me?" non "I've always been confused about what happened. If I left Simeria, your marriage alliance with the Holly family would go well. Why did you use the Lyndoria incident to prevent me from leaving Simeria? Or did you intentionally leave me with no place to go?" At this moment, Bianca's emotions were somewhat out of control.

I This was the question she had been pondering during the time Zane and Seraphine were abroad. \ Yes! If it hadn't been for the Lyndoria incident, Bianca would have left Simeria, and Zane's marriage alliance with the Holly family would have also gone smoothly.

But keeping her in Simeria would only cause more trouble.

The two locked eyes, and at this moment, there was nothing but sharpness in their gazes.

"Speak up!" Bianca urged.

"What do you want to hear?" "I want to hear why you did that to me. I don't recall having any grudges against you." Why?

y The Lyndoria incident that Zane pinned on her had really pushed her to the brink.

When Bianca learned about those things from Natalie's side, she couldn't believe it.

She was well aware that if she had left I Simeria without knowing anything at that time, she would have had nowhere to go! Putting Malcolm aside, even the people around him wouldn't have let her off easily.

And the one who pushed her into this situation was... Zane! Zane looked into her eyes, and an endless chill flickered within.

And that chill eventually turned into danger! Seeing the dangerous look in the man's eyes, Bianca knew, at this moment, there was no peace between her and Zane.

silence filled the air, and the two faced each other, locked in a standoff.

"Bianca never expected that Zane would trap her like this. Even though she had sent Cedric, Zane had...! I After a long time, the sound of Zane lighting a cigarette broke the silence.

Zane suddenly said, "Do you still remember Lucia Oakley?" Lucia Oakley? Who was that?! "The divorce case that caused a sensation throughout the city of Javaria!" Bianca fell silent. Instantly, memories flooded her mind, hitting her like a bolt of lightning.

Lucia Oakley! Bianca remembered now. Lucia was the wife of Javaria's richest man. That lawsuit from back then caused quite a stir! And that lawsuit... was the only oneshe had ever lost.

Bianca looked at the man across from her t with narrowed eyes.

So, what was his relationship with Lucia!? "Who is Lucia to you?" "What do you think?" The man's sharp retort instantly left Bianca speechless, rendering her unable to utter a single word.

Zane had a connection to Lucia, and if her guess was correct, then Lucia might very well...! Chaos! Bianca's mind was in complete disarray.

Lucia... Yvette!

The names of these two individuals were now intertwined in Bianca's mind, and she also remembered Zane's attitude towards Yvette.

And Yvette... married Alto? | Due to her professional occupation, Bianca's mind was working overtime to analyze these matters. At this moment, she also recalled that Lucia was an orphan who grew up in an orphanage. So, was the tumultuous relationship between Zane and Yvette maybe a form of protection for Lucia then? When this realization hit her, Bianca's face turned pale! "You..." She looked at the man opposite her, her lips moving, wanting to say something.

However, Bianca, who was usually quick | to analyze situations like this, couldn't seem to articulate anything at this | moment.

) Her chest felt heavy, and she was suffocating from the intensity of her emotions! pitiful... How truly pitiful! Yet, at this moment, Bianca couldn't determine who was truly pitiful while looking at the man before her.

Yvette? Lucia? Or... her!?! "Hah!" Bianca laughed after a moment. Clearly, she had completely sorted out the chaos in her mind at that moment.
