#Chapter 921 - Read A Divorce After My Rebirth Chapter 921

I Chapter 921 Taking it Seriously Back in Simeria, who would dare to treat him like this? Obviously, no one! It had never happened before.

But now, Bianca was acting like a solid rock.

Malcolm couldn't crack her no matter how hard he tried. He tried to persuade her with both soft and hard methods, and what he got was her unwavering rejection.

"We're leaving this place immediately!" Malcolm harshly said as they returned to the wooden house.

Clearly, he was thoroughly enraged now, and there was a dangerous air around him.

Upon hearing about leaving, Horatio was initially relieved. However, the worry in his eyes didn't dissipate because he knew this wasn't the end.

"Yes, sir." Perhaps it was better to leave this place.

Horatio wondered what would happen to Bianca next. No matter what she faced, it served her right for being so cold-hearted.

L Chapter 82) Taking @ Serousy — With this thought in mind, Horatio couldn't muster any sympathy for Bianca. He felt it was her fault in this situation.

From Horatio's perspective, Malcolm had already given up a lot for Bianca. He had left everything behind in Simeria just to look for her in this secluded place.

Yet, what had she done? Did Bianca forget her past relationship with Malcolm before marrying Zane? Unbeknownst to Horatio, Bianca had always remembered. That was why she tried to crush Malcolm's delusions.

Even though she knew that this attempt to crush the connection between them meant a significant danger to her, she... was willing to do it at all costs! Bianca released Zane's arm with a cold look. But at the next moment, his large hands enveloped her cold ones.

Bianca instantly withdrew her hands and flatly said, "It was just a move that benefitted the both of us. Don't take it seriously." Zane was silent.

She was telling him not to take it seriously? But...

_ BE "I actually took it seriously," Zane teased her, his eyes still flashing with his unique tenderness and indulgence toward her.

Bianca scoffed. "This doesn't benefit you in any way." Just like when she took him seriously back in Simeria, taking it seriously now really didn't benefit him in any way.

Zane said, "All I want is you. I don't care about anything else." As he spoke, Bianca's breathing became heavier.

"You know it's impossible." She gave him the same response she always gave Malcolm.

Impossible! It was impossible as long as they were from men from the Entes family.

"Why would you say that? Look at where we are now. What else is impossible?" At that moment, Zane's tone was so relaxed that Bianca couldn't find any room for argument.

She didn't like this feeling.

They could hear the sound of an engine outside, and then Seth came in shortly after.

"Lord Zane." "What is it?" "Lord Malcolm's gone," Seth announced.

Zane and Bianca exchanged a glance, but there was a hint of inexplicable relief in Bianca's eyes.

Even though she had treated these two like strangers in her world, she still saw through their antics. They wouldn't easily leave her world, so her life was turned upside down because of them.

She didn't like this feeling, but she couldn't do anything about it.

At least one was gone now! She wouldn't feel suffocated like this anymore.

"You've always been indifferent to him, haven't you?" Zane asked.

"Why should I act any differently? Or do you think I should have some feelings for him?" Bianca retorted.

What were feelings? It was when one couldn't control their feelings in a loving environment.

But what had Malcolm given her? He consistently humiliated her, oppressed her, and destroyed her pride! - Why would she have feelings for him, in this case? It was utter nonsense! "Bia, you're a very special person," Zane said.

As he said this, his tone was rueful. It was because he also liked this uniqueness about her. This part of her gave him a chance by her side.

Bianca looked at him, her eyes cold and displeased.

"How many women have been tortured to death yet ended up falling in love with the man who tortured them? Isn't it ridiculous?" Zane asked.

Ridiculous? Did he think those women fell in love for no reason? "So, you think they're just being stupid?" Bianca's tone carried a hint of danger.

What she detested the most was those who played with women's emotions and still considered women despicable.

Zane sensed her displeasure. "No!" "Would it have been ridiculous or degrading if I had fallen in love with you back in Simeria?" Bianca snapped.

'Bia!" "I told you, don't call me that! I don't like it!" ~ "You haven't degraded yourself." El "You're a brave woman." Zane's tone was full of emotion as he said this.

After all, everyone knew what kind of person the Entes family's sixth lord was and how ruthless his methods were. In all of Simeria, finding someone who dared stand up against him was also difficult.

Forget about women. Even men didn't dare! In the brothers' rivalry, Malcolm had always been the winner.

And Bianca had almost died under Malcolm's torture. Even now, she still carried those scars that hadn't faded away.

Bianca looked at Zane and asked, "So, did you use my bravery to hold him back?" Among the women in Simeria, who else dared to stand with Zane and hold back Malcolm besides Bianca? She had wanted to destroy everything about Malcolm! And what she did wasn't wrong. Her contractual relationship with Zane was also not wrong. i

So, why involve emotions?! ~ "That's not it," Zane denied.

"Then what...?" "My feelings towards you are sincere!" Zane said. "When the incident at Gilded Stream Peak happened..." "Enough!" Bringing up Gilded Stream Peak was the last thing Bianca wanted to hear. She didn't want to listen anymore when it came to that incident.

That incident marked the beginning of the end of their relationship.

Without it, she would believe in Zane. She would believe his sincerity towards her. But after Gilded Stream Peak, what trust did Bianca have left for the man in front of her? Looking at it now, he had let go of everything about Simeria.

However, who knew if he had bigger goals? "Bia! "n ""Speak up! Who do you want me to hold back this time?" Bianca cut to the chase and directly asked the man's purpose.

As long as he stated his purpose, maybe she could feel a little better! Zane was speechless. Seeing Bianca resisting him like this, he sighed,

I not knowing what to say. He knew that Bianca was very guarded ~ against him now.

So, it was useless to say anything to her now.

"This time, Malcolm won't just let it go. This matter won't end easily, Soy "So, could you please leave?" Bianca couldn't take it anymore! She was also aware that she had thoroughly angered Malcolm just now, and she was out of control in that situation.

Now, thinking back, she realized that all her preparations might have been useless in front of Malcolm!

I The air was tense.

Zane watched as Bianca turned away, her silhouette reflecting nothing but her sharpness and distance.

He also felt her detachment.

"I don't want to be involved with you any further, so please leave," Bianca said in a slightly softened tone.

However, it also seemed tinged with a hint of desolation.

Seeing Bianca like this, Zane moved his lips as if to explain something, but he also knew that Bianca wouldn't listen to anything now.

The time she spent by Malcolm's side in Simeria was like hellish torment for her. And by Zane's side, it had been a gentle conspiracy that revealed to her all the evil in human nature.

In the end, Zane left. However, he returned to the neighboring wooden house. He didn't leave the village like Malcolm! When Bianca was left alone, she couldn't conceal her emotions.

Obviously, the situation had a significant impact on her.

Natalie seemed to be closely monitoring her situation.

{ Over the phone, Natalie said to Bianca, "I asked Austin to find a way to chase Malcolm off, but nothing Austin offered could tempt him!" In the past, Malcolm has always been the most aggressive when it came to benefits and was never willing to take a loss.

When he competed to become the Entes family's head, it was also because it was the most formidable position in Simeria! It was surprising that now, even the things he once desired most were useless to him, regardless of their benefits.

"When Nancy's case is successfully concluded, I'll leave!" Bianca said.

Ultimately, Bianca was wrong.

She used to say that escaping wasn't a solution. No matter where she went, as long as the people of the Entes family didn't want to let her go, it wouldn't be easy for her to escape them.

But now, Bianca really just wanted to escape! She genuinely felt disgusted from the bottom of her heart with their entanglement.

"Yeah, I think that's a good choice," Natalie responded.

At this point, this had become Bianca's only option.

It wasn't even a choice.

Who would want to live a life of constantly running if they could live peacefully? After completing each job, Bianca would travel for a while before ultimately returning home, despite her carefree nature.

She had a fixed residence and workplace! And now, these two people's meddling had deprived her of even the basic tranquility, making her even more disgusted.

"Nat." "Yeah?" "When I was in town, I saw Cedric." Bianca was referring to when she had been in Weiss Town to take care of Nancy's affairs.

Natalie fell silent.

Cedric? As soon as she mentioned Cedric, Bianca could feel the tension from Natalie's end of the line. After a while, Bianca added, "Kayla seems to have been unwell for a while. I saw them at the hospital entrance." Kayla? Bringing up Isabella's child made Natalie's breath even more unstable.

"If you see him again in the future, don't tell me. I don't want to j know." ; ~ Now, Natalie still wasn't willing to mention Cedric's name.

"Sorry," Bianca said.

She shouldn't have brought it up.

Natalie now had a stable life with her daughter, husband, and the support of her family. With such a peaceful life, it didn't matter that Natalie and Cedric were once deeply in love or what beautiful memories they once shared.

Everything between them was over.

"It's okay." "I just wanted you to know he's not doing well without you." When Cedric was with her before, he was always entangled with Isabella. Because of that, Natalie completely withdrew from that relationship! This man lacked integrity based on his actions and behavior in the relationship.

Natalie didn't see him finding someone better in the future.

"Whatever happens to him is none of my concern," Natalie replied.

If he was well, she wouldn't be happy for him. If he wasn't doing well, she wouldn't extend a helping hand to him either.

"You can think that way, which is fine, but you still need to be careful of him. Who knows what illness Kayla might have this time," Bianca warned.

¢ The last time Kayla was sick, Cedric went insane and tried to use Luna to save Kayla.

Regardless of the conspiracies and manipulations behind the matter, the final decision was in his hands.

Even knowing Luna was his daughter, he still went all out to save Kayla.

Bianca couldn't tolerate it.

So, when she saw Cedric again with Kayla at the hospital entrance, she instinctively wanted to warn Natalie.

Natalie's breath became heavier when she heard Bianca's words.

When she spoke again, the danger in her tone was hard to conceal.

"Don't worry. He can't see Luna now." Natalie was guarding Luna closely. Since the last complete separation, Natalie hadn't let Cedric see Luna again.

In other words, even if they separated, Natalie had completely stripped Cedric of all visitation rights.

"That's good," Bianca said, feeling relieved at Natalie's words.

Cedric was a lunatic! Although he regretted and suffered for Natalie in &/R

~ the last moments, Natalie and Bianca both knew that Cedric was the same at the core.

He would still choose to use Luna to save Kayla even if he could turn back time.

For Kayla, he could use Luna to save her once, and he could certainly use Luna to save her a second time.

He was insane.

Even if they were separated, Natalie still had to be cautious about him.

No one knew when he might emerge from the shadows like a mad dog and attack her! After hanging up the phone, Bianca received a call from Weiss Town.

"I'm sorry, Ms. Sanders. Ms. Sharp's appeal has been rejected." "Why?" Bianca's heart tightened when she heard the outcome. She abruptly stood up, feeling a rush of urgency. At this moment, there was a storm in her eyes.

Hadn't everything been approved before? Why was she hearing such news now?! The person carefully explained the situation to Bianca over the phone, but no matter what explanation it was, Bianca couldn't process the A/R words.

So, without waiting for the person on the other end of the phone to finish, Bianca couldn't help but angrily shout, "You've seen all the evidence, so what's the doubt now?" "Sorry, Ms. Sanders!" "So, what you're saying is, I have to go back and gather evidence again?" Did they really want her to wait until Nancy was beaten again to gather evidence of domestic violence? Those were all concrete evidence! Why were they being questioned and rejected now? Bianca felt her anger rising continuously.

"Yes, Ms. Sanders." The other party's prompt response only made Bianca even more furious, and the next moment, she slammed the phone down.

What kind of place was this?! But soon, Bianca figured out the reason behind it.

It wasn't a problem with the place, but something had gone wrong on Snow Peak!

Chapter 923 Trouble Bianca couldn't calm her heart as she thought about that man. As expected, he showed no concern for those around him.

It was because he had seen too many tragic scenes like this from a young age, right? Thinking of Nancy, with her eyes full of despair yet still fighting for survival, Bianca trembled with anger.

She grabbed her coat and stormed out.

The snow outside had stopped, and snow had piled up on the sides of the road. Despite the icy surface due to the temperature, Bianca's car had chains on its tires, so it was fine.

But even so, the road to Snow Peak was still difficult, taking her a full two hours to drive.

Malcolm was waiting for Bianca.

Seeing her come in, cold and windswept, a mocking smile adorned the man's lips. His demeanor made Bianca certain of her suspicions.

"Why did you do that?" "I told you from the beginning. Do I need to repeat myself?" Malcolm took a puff of his cigar, blowing smoke rings that made Bianca feel even more suffocated.

Tell me, what are you to Zane?" Malcolm's voice was soft, but it carried an invisible pressure on Bianca.

It was like those years by his side when his words seemed so light, but they were incredibly dangerous to her.

Bianca hated this feeling! "By the way, I've bailed him out. What are you to him, Bianca?" "Malcolm!" Bianca was enraged and gritted her teeth.

If that scoundrel went back, what would he do to Nancy? Bianca had seen it with her own eyes before.

If Nancy resisted, John would be even more ruthless! Bianca's heart was pounding with anger! She met the man's predatory gaze, and then Malcolm shrugged and said, "The man's probably home by now." Bianca froze for a moment. Looking at the man sitting on the sofa, she felt an overwhelming desire to strangle him.

"So you're telling me that if I don't compromise, this won't end?" Bianca's voice was tense.

"This is my final push!"

Final? How many times had he pushed her since they arrived in Simeria? Bianca couldn't remember anymore.

Now, he didn't even hesitate to use the most innocent and vulnerable people to force her?! But Malcolm always knew that no matter how much he pushed Bianca, she never gave in.

Bianca looked into his eyes, which were becoming increasingly dangerous until that dangerous aura enveloped her completely.

"Bianca, you can be stubborn all you want, but that woman probably won't last long," Malcolm said, handing her a medical report.

Bianca looked at the document before her without reaching out to take it. "What is this?" "Take a look. It'll tell you clearly how much longer that woman has to live." Bianca's face went pale at his words. She grabbed Nancy's medical examination report, which was done last time she took Nancy to the hospital.

But did Bianca know about this report? Did Nancy? "Over the years, that man has caused her a lot of damage. If this continues, she probably won't have more than two years left."

Bianca was already emotional. Hearing this made the rage within her boil even hotter. Malcolm was undoubtedly trying to provoke her to end everything between her and Zane as soon as possible.

Even in the harsh environment of Simeria, she hadn't compromised even a bit.

In that case, how could she compromise with the man in front of her now? "Alright, I'll do as you want. Stop what you're doing," Bianca said.

"Once you're done, everything between them will end too." Undoubtedly, Malcolm was cunning. He was waiting for Bianca to fulfill her end of the deal before withdrawing.

The air was tense, and Bianca looked at the man in front of her with danger in her eyes, her heart pounding! Resistance or compromise! This was undoubtedly the choice she always faced in front of this man, who once had no leverage over her.

Even if it meant destroying her career and reputation completely, she had never compromised.

But now...! Seeing the man's determined gaze, Bianca struggled endlessly in her heart.

Would she compromise with him? Clearly, she wouldn't.

But without compromising, Nancy would never be able to escape that scoundrel.

Her heart was constantly in turmoil, and her breathing was labored.

Then, she gradually calmed down.

"Fine!" Initially, Zane wasn't anything to her, and ending things with Zane was inevitable.

She just hadn't been willing to compromise in front of this man in this way! But this compromise was filled with deep meaning.

Malcolm didn't expect Bianca to agree so easily. He stood up and walked over to her, "Really?" Malcolm was surprised when the woman who had resisted him for so long suddenly agreed without any hesitation. He looked insecure and uncertain, like a child who couldn't trust the person in front of him completely.

"What do you want to hear from me?" Malcolm fell silent.

Undoubtedly, he wanted the answer she had given him. But unexpectedly, he became unsure when he received the answer he wanted.

"You better not lie to me!" There was danger in the man's tone.

Bianca turned away. Obviously, she didn't want to deal with this man anymore.

At one time, Bianca suffered because of his stubborn attitude.

However, based on his firm actions now, Bianca could see that if she didn't agree, Nancy's situation probably wouldn't end easily! Just as she took a step forward, she felt someone grab her wrist. The tightness of the man's grip sent a chill down Bianca's spine.

"You hear me?!" Malcolm's tone turned sterner.

Bianca glared at him. "No matter what I say, you won't believe me, right?" Her ambiguous response made the man's grip even tighter. "Tell me you won't deceive me!" Bianca didn't want to give a direct answer, but Malcolm insisted.

Just as the two were at a standstill, Bianca's phone vibrated. As she pulled out her phone, Malcolm's grip tightened even more. Obviously, he was almost crushing her wrist because he thought it was Zane calling.

Chopter 92% Trouble hii meee But it wasn't. It was an unknown number.

Bianca answered, "Hello." Ms. Sanders, where are you? Nancy, she..." "What happened to Nancy?" Bianca recognized the voice of her neighbor, Sandy.

Sandy sounded choked. Obviously something had happened.

"Nancy jumped into the river!" Bianca was stunned. Hearing this, her heart skipped a beat, and she felt a chill all over her body.

Nancy jumped into the river?! She shook off Malcolm's hand and rushed outside. As she walked, she anxiously asked, "How is she now?" "She's been rescued, but she..." Sandy said something else, but Bianca couldn't hear the rest.
