

A Ghost 661

Chapter 661 Thor's Descent!

Thor the God of Thunder had decided to descend. In fact, the Aesir Gods led by Odin, the God of Light, had been keeping a close eye at Maria since she started her journey. It wasn't abnormal for ghosts to emerge, nor for them to grow strong and become monsters and threats to humanity. But a ghost that could retain her memories, sanity, and even gain insane amounts of skills, abusing the Soul Book and even utilizing completely new Unique Skills? Now that was dangerous.

The existence of Undead in the surface, the world of the living, was a thing that had only begun happening a few thousands of years ago, when the power of the world destabilized due to the Evil God's Fragments engulfing everything with miasma and chaos. Although Odin agreed to defeat his own son due to being a threat to his reign, he never expected Loki would utilize this opportunity to spread Chaos across the world even further.

Undead and Monsters became even more common than he and the other Aesir Gods had anticipated. After the defeat of the Ancient Titans the Gods had finally believed the world would finally be theirs. Well, they were completely wrong.

The revenge that Loki had planned was one long, and excruciating future filled with uncertainty, and Maria was the child of his cunning plans, although unexpected, it fell right into Loki's plans, the ultimate being who could devour chaos, was an undead, held incredible powers, was amazing intelligent, and could even... devour the very fragments of the Evil God while dominating them and retaining her own personality without being corrupted.

She was... the Void.

Although the Gods kept silent about her because of Hel's intervention, who actively protected, for some reason Hel was now busy dealing with something else, and they felt this was the perfect moment to attack before Maria could evolve again, as they already felt her powers had reached their Level Cap.

They couldn't possibly let her reach S Rank! If they did, a threat of her level could put the entire world in danger! Even if they knew that Maria "pretended" to be good, she held within her soul an intense amount of malice, and they feared she would ultimately end up turning against the world and destroying it.

Even worse, Tyr, the former God of War and Judgement and the now Evil God dwelled within her. If she was given his memories, or if he somehow were to fully revive from within her own soul then... the Gods would regret not having dealt with her earlier.

Due to this, a decision was taken, Thor, the god most willing to step in was given divine power by his father, and then unleashed a [Divine Spirit] of his shape, controlled remotely by his own true body, which then descended into the world of Yggdrasil, breaking through the Dungeon's walls, an act which would be completely impossible, as dungeon walls were indestructible, and then reaching up to Maria.

His plan? Completely annihilate her before Hel could retaliate against the Gods or attempt to stop them.

"Hahah... You're really a pain in the ass..." Thor smiled, taking into a youthful and muscular form on his Divine Spirit form. "We once felled the Titans, a resurrection of the Void like you won't be any different!"

"Resurrection of the Void?! What the heck are you on about?!" Maria panicked, her powers quickly erupting from within her body as she quickly protected her entire family and friends. "Stay behind me!"

Her soul mutated and erupted, channeling the powers of the two Evil God Fragments and activating the many other Skills while she spent millions of Mana which she constantly drained from her surroundings utilizing her Unique Skills.

Thor gathered the power of his Divine Energy and Mana, and then unleashed a devastating attack utilizing the Mjolnir copy made out of his own Divine Spirit body.

"[Mjolnir Strike]!"

TRUUUUUUMMMM...!

The hammer suddenly grew to a gargantuan size, easily as big as a mountain, which then fell directly towards Maria and anybody around her. Such a frightening attack had split entire dungeons in half and had completely blasted anybody bold enough to commit a taboo such as utilizing Evil God Fragments directly.

"PERISH!"

CRAAAAAAAAAAASSSSSSHHHHHHH!!!

The massive hammer impacted Maria directly. Her Soul being easily dissolved into nothingness as the powerful divine attack, the elements being the complete opposite as hers, started to disintegrate her completely!

"No... Unnggh...! This... I can't just die...! I can't just die right now...!"

Her mind quickly began moving faster as lightning started to consume her entirely. The surroundings were all charred into nothingness, as those she was protecting screamed behind her. Nobody could fight against the direct judgement of a God, an absolute being.

However... a single word came to Maria's mind as she resisted the all-consuming divinity of a God. Her Unique Skill [Yog-Sothoth] being the only thing capable of resisting this power enough...

And that word was...

Evolution.

"System, show me the evolution options!!! We can't let this bastard... fucking kill me!"

The System promptly reacted.

At the rate in which she was being consumed and then regenerated, Maria only had less than forty seconds to evolve before her entire soul were to be consumed by Thor's almighty power.

But even if she evolved... could she even fight against this all-encompassing power?

Ding!

[Showcasing Evolution Options]

[Kauket, the Endless Uncreated Darkness]

[Selene, the Titan Lady of the Eternal Moon]

[Ereshkigal, the First Lady of the Underworld]

[Scáthach, the Warrior Maiden of Death]

Maria's eyes opened wide as she glanced at these four mysterious evolution options! She could recall a few of such names. They resembled those of deities from mythology.

Kauket was the God of Uncreated Darkness of Egyptian Mythology.

Selene was the Titan Goddess that was the personification of the Moon in Greek Mythology.

Ereshkigal was a Goddess of the Underworld of Mesopotamian Mythology.

And Scáthach was a War Maiden of Death, later known as a Goddess in Irish Mythology, protector, and mentor of the Irish Hero, Cú Chulainn.

Which of these four notable figures could be as strong as Maria needed them to be?

Chapter 662 Hopelessly Fighting A God

A catastrophe.

After having completed the dungeon and even retrieved one of the Evil God Fragments, everyone had imagined they would be able to take it easy for a while.

However, the mind of mortals is usually incapable of imagining what Gods might be thinking. Cunningly, they planned to strike when they had their guards lowered.

They all saw as a being made of Divine Power descended from the skies, breaking the "indestructible" walls of the dungeon, and launching an attack against Maria and all of them.

Partner panicked, but quickly decided to fight. Even when Maria herself tried to sacrifice herself to protect everyone from the massive divine attack, which was as big as a mountain, and which consumed everything in their sight. Partner utilized all her blood and mana reserves, activating her strongest technique.

Lucifer's mind worked rapidly, quickly putting Nyx behind him as his body quickly regained his dragon form, in mere seconds, he gathered every bit of Mana within his soul and body into his jaws, unleashing a breath attack.

Emeraldine protected Takeshi and Laura, and the rest of the dwarves, gathering all her Spirit's power and her Mana into the palm of her hands and then transferring it into her bow, which grew into an immense size, overflowing with light.

At the same time, Root, who already had his roots piercing the ground quickly began drawing the power of Nature and the vast Mana reserves of the entire Dungeon, fusing his powers with Emeraldine, and generating a massive dome made of his own wooden body, trying to protect everyone.

"Vampiric Blood Arts: [Endless Blood Spiral]!"

"Draconic Arts: [Ultimate Death Dragon Breath]!"

"Holy Spirit Bow Arts: [Yggdrasil's Nine Divine Realms]!"

An enormous attack emerged. Partner, Lucifer, and Emeraldine unleashed the strongest blows they could ever muster.

Partner conjured an absolutely massive spiraling tornado made entirely out of Mana and Blood Energy, so big it could completely destroy a whole mountain, reaching high into the skies and clashing against Thor's Lightning!

CLAAAAAASSSSH!!!!

Lucifer's unleashed his strongest breath attack, utilizing even his own Life Force and all the Death Energy, Dragon Force, and Mana he possessed, unleashing a devastating and destructive Dragon Breath that could completely engulf an entire country into black flames of death.

BOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!!!

And lastly, Emeraldine's eyes shone brightly with the power of the spirits she held, suddenly, nine arrows containing nine different elements were conjured, her own long lifespan was used as a sacrifice as she utilized a hundred years of her long elven lifespan to bring out elements she didn't even had an affinity with, an innate power of Elves. Nine arrows containing the elements of Yggdrasil's nine realms emerged, firing against Thor's Lightning attack, and exploding subsequently.

BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOOOOMMMM!!!

The strongest members of this party unleashed their most powerful attacks, the very auras they emanated shook the entire dungeon, shattering the ground and the surrounding walls. Even the outside world was not spared, the entire mountain began to tremble and an earthquake happened all around the dwarven city.

Their combined attacks melded together as their wills became one, suddenly resembling a monstrous, multi-elemental roaring dragon made of pure Mana, flying towards Thor's Lightning and somehow... resisting his powers!

TRUUUUUUUUUMMMMMMM...!

"Hoh?!"

Thor was surprised, he never thought mere mortals would be able to push him back like this! He glanced down at the inferior creatures, his eyes growing sharper as he merely intensified the level of divine power charged into his attack.

"Hmph, arrogant insects... You're not worth anything, weaklings! Your struggle is pointless! Mortals had never been able to fight back against the almighty judgement of us Gods!" He laughed.

FLAAAAAAAAASSSHHHH!!!

His lightning quickly began to overpower the Multi-Elemental Dragon, as Partner, Lucifer, and Emeraldine were already running out of Mana! Their teeth gritted tightly, as their bodies began to lose their strength, their very lives were being consumed as they tried to enhance their attacks even further.

"It's pointless! While you have to sacrifice your very lives to even be able to do this much... I don't even break a sweat while putting this almighty power! Cannot you understand the difference between gods and mortals?! You're merely insects, waiting to be stomped by our foot!"

Thor's comments only angered them more!

"Shut your damn mouth, you damn bastard!" Lucifer roared first, offending a god. He amongst everyone here knew the most what a God truly was, a divine being without parallel. Yet he offended him, a taboo amongst taboos between dragons, the former guardians of the world and the gods themselves.

"I don't... GIVE A SHIT ABOUT YOU BEING A GOD!!!" Partner roared, without even understanding what being a God truly entailed other than just "being very strong".

"Heh... For being a God, you really seem desperate, Thor!" Emeraldine smiled defiantly, provoking Thor even more.

Thor's youthful and flawless face grew furious! His face distorted into that of a monstrous aberration, as he couldn't contain his fury! How dare they! Mortals insulting a god?!

"Y-You...!" Thor muttered, trying to keep his composure. Only a few seconds have passed yet he found it weird... what was blocking his powers aside from these three?

Suddenly, he noticed it.

The power of Yggdrasil herself was intervening!

He saw an enormous dome made of Yggdrasil wood growing all around them, protecting them from his divine power, even if a little bit.

With Maria's soul also stacking with the dome, their time of survival was greatly increased from less than ten seconds to almost a minute?!

"Yggdrasil?! Why is that monster holding the power of Yggdrasil...?!" Thor felt shocked. However, a confident smile emerged on his lips. "If I can defeat that and then absorb that branch into my Divine Realm, I'll grow even stronger... I could even one day overthrow father, right?"

Thor's very own greed was what bought Maria even more time, those mere thoughts, which lasted for a few seconds, made him stand still without not putting much attention into his own attack, which lost a part of its original intensity!

FLAAAAAASH!

And from within the Maria's Soul Core, something else began to emerge...

"This Darkness...! Eh?! Don't tell me...!" Thor began to panic.

He saw an enormous quantity of darkness erupting from within Maria's disintegrating body.

"She's evolving?!"

Chapter 663 Choosing An Evolution Path!

[Showcasing Evolution Options]

[Kauket, the Endless Uncreated Darkness]

[Rank]: [S]

A hypothetical evolution of the Shadow Ghost Undead Monster Family. It is said that the ultimate form of a Shadow Ghost is that of an endless mantle of pure darkness that stretches around the entire world. It brings eternal night and eternal darkness, and nothing can oppose it but the might of equally strong S Ranked Monsters or the Gods themselves. Believed to be a calamity that would bring endless darkness, it is said that it would be an Uncreated Darkness, the purest form of Darkness, born of pure nothingness...

[Selene, the Titan Lady of the Eternal Moon]

[Rank]: [S]

Titans are said to be the original owners of the world of Yggdrasil, the first children of the World Tree and the protectors of everything. Their reign of peace was revoked by the Aesir Gods, who rebelled against their parents and destroyed them, killing the Primordial Titan, Ymir... However, amidst his death, Ymir's body and soul fragmented into endless pieces.

If such a Fragment is absorbed by a Ghost powerful enough to evolve into S Rank, it is possible to attain a new evolution. Selene, the name of a Titaness that was never born, yet that was predestined to, but could never happen. The Eternal Moon is her personification, and it is said that the moon itself was the daughter of Ymir, who was left behind, watching a world where her family was slaughtered. It is said that the Moonlight that would emanate from her body can reflect the might of the gods that slaughtered her father.

[Ereshkigal, the First Lady of the Underworld]

[Rank]: [S]

A being that has not been born yet, the hypothesized first lady of the underworld, an ultimate evolution of a female Undead that has ascended into the powerful S Rank. Ereshkigal might not exist, but the Undead that inhabit the Underworld believe that one day a lady of such power will come, someone that will both protect the underworld and lead a fight against the living.

She's said to be the future servant of Hel and wield a powerful Scythe that can reap the souls of the living, leading an endless army of the Undead against her foes. Her enchanting appearance is but a deceiving factor of her lethal beauty.

[Scáthach, the Warrior Maiden of Death]

[Rank]: [S]

A mythical war maiden of ancient times, the Era of Heroes of Yggdrasil, when the races of the world battle against one another in endless conflicts and wars. In such times, Hel choose a representative, and her vessel, Scáthach. A warrior maiden with incredible fighting talent and abilities way beyond those of a normal human.

Her abilities were further enhanced as she gained the power to manipulate Death itself. However, utilizing her powers, she raised her own hero, a man named Cú Chulainn. She and her hero led an army of thousands of undead against the forces of the gods in the long, ancient times. A war maiden with a thousand battle techniques and the overpowering abilities of necromancy granted to her by Hel, a truly mythical and legendary figure.

Maria glanced across all her possible evolution options. Amongst them, there were some new things she had never seen before. However, she couldn't simply stay idle. She had to quickly decide, the future of everyone depended on her evolution.

Partner, Lucifer, and Emeraldine all were going all out, and even Root as well. Her soul wasn't going to last for much longer either. Her soul and mind flashed with a thousand thoughts, until finally, she made a choice.

What she needed the most was a power to oppose Thor, and a power that could even fight back against the Gods. Amongst the many beings that existed in the world of Yggdrasil, which ones were able to fight against them in a massive war that took everything on the god's side to win?

Titans, the natural enemy of the Aesir.

Ding!

[You have selected the [Selene, the Titan Lady of the Eternal Moon] [Rank]: [S] Evolution option!]

[Starting evolution...!]

FLASH!

Suddenly, as Maria started her evolution, her mind was suddenly transferred into a completely different place. Everything seemed shrouded by darkness, pitch black darkness. However, as she glanced deeper into this darkness, she saw two golden eyes glancing back at her.

"W-Wha...?! What's going on now?" Maria glanced at the two golden eyes, as she felt like she was about to die by the enormous pressure she sensed. It was so overwhelming that it made her shiver from her head to her foot. Her entire soul was trembling by a presence alone.

And this presence alone... it was that of nobody else but him.

The one and only...

"You're a strange one... I never expected you to take this Path, yet here we are..." He said, with a slow and old voice, like that of a grandpa. "I apologize for having looked down on you for merely being an Undead. I now understand you're more than you seem to be at first glance."

"Who... are you?" Maria was about to ask, but an answer came to her quicker than she could have imagined. A blue-colored crystal flew towards her, as she caught it almost instinctively.

The crystal glowed with a mysterious light, something she had never felt before. It felt all-encompassing, powerful, and domineering. As overwhelming as the mountains themselves.

Like a force of nature itself. Maria glanced at this crystal, as she felt strong herself, she felt vast like a mountain, and she felt powerful, powerful enough to go against anything...

"Take this. It is the last Fragment of my Soul." Said the voice. "Now, become the Eternal Moon that watches over the night sky. My last daughter. I shall name you... Selene."

FLAAAASH!

As the old man of overwhelming presence named her, Maria felt an incredible rush of power reach her soul, as she felt like she was constantly expanding, and growing bigger... and bigger.

"Teach those arrogant Aesir a good lesson!"

[Evolution has finished, you've evolved into [Selene, the Titan Lady of the Eternal Moon] [Rank]: [S]!]

[You've received [Ymir's Divine Protection]!]

Chapter 664 The Might Of A Titan

Thor's powerful magic was devastating Maria's soul and Root wouldn't be able to resist much either. The situation was growing more perilous as time went by, and things would become even worse once the power of Lucifer, Partner, and Emeraldine ran out.

However, darkness emerged from within Maria's internal soul, Thor panicked as he saw her soul emerging from within his own lightning, as if she was gaining a new power despite being about to be completely disintegrated by his divine might.

FLAAAAAASH!

"This Darkness...! Eh?! Don't tell me...!" Thor began to panic.

He saw an enormous quantity of darkness erupting from within Maria's disintegrating body.

"She's evolving?!"

Thor grew restless, quickly imbuing his powers into his own hands and deciding to finish her off before she were to do any funny business. His thunder gathering on tremendous and overwhelming quantities.

"I won't let you stand up, heretic monster!" He roared with the fury of a God, his lightning gathering into enormous quantities which made a gigantic storm atop of his body. A sick smile emerging on his lips as the summoned lightning continued to grow stronger...!

"[Thunder's Judgement]!!!"

TRUUUUUUMMMMMMMMMM....!

A massive quantity of thunder fell from the skies, clashing against Lucifer's and company's attacks, completely devastating them with overwhelming power, and then shattering Root's defenses, reaching Maria, who was standing in front of everyone to protect them!

CRAAAAAAASSSSHHHHHHHHH...!

Maria's entire soul was devastated, the divine thunder consuming every single particle of her soul as she completely disintegrated. The desperation of the situation becoming even worse as the shockwave of the thunder attack alone sent everyone flying into the skies.

"Hahahaha... It is finished! You're done for... Just like that! Although you ate two fragments of my brother, you were still merely a mortal-level ghost... You've been purified from this world, be thankful!" Thor laughed, ignoring everything else but his victory.

"Who said that?"

"Huh?"

Thor stopped laughing, suddenly looking down. His light-made eyes filled with a sudden sense of panic as horror rushed through every sense of his spiritual vessel.

Standing in the massive crater created by Thor's attack there was a tall woman with beautiful pale white skin, as pale as candle wax, yet her body seemed overflowing with darkness, so much that it made her feel like she was born anew... This darkness shaped itself as her brand-new dress, while her eyes glowed bright red, defiantly glancing back at the God of Thunder.

"W-What?! This... This can't be..." Thor lost his own composure. He was sure to have unleashed all of his powers! Yet... why? Why was it not working? Why was she not exterminated?

Unless...

"Y-You evolved then...!" Thor smiled. "Well, I will have to just imbue a bit more of my divine power, that's all there is to it!" Thor said with a defiant smile, as he quickly imbued the power of his divine abilities into his hands, unleashing an even grander thunder this time.

"[Divine Judgement]!"

FLAAAAASH!

Thunder gathered at insane quantities atop the skies, Thor smiled evilly as he gathered this power, only for Maria to glance back at him, while still getting used to her brand-new powers.

CLAAAAAASH!

The thunder fell mercilessly once more attempting to delete Maria from existence itself. Yet...

Maria calmly analyzed the lightning, as she brought the powers she had attained, channeling them into her hands, while her body continued growing larger... and larger... and larger.

"W-What with that size?!" Thor was surprised by Maria's growing size, only for her to suddenly summon the Mirage of a Full Moon, pointing it at Thor directly.

"[Eternal Moon Mirror]"

She conjured a powerful new magic. The moon resembled a beautiful reflecting mirror as it took Thor's direct attack without problems.

FLAAAAASH!

The moon-shaped mirror began absorbing all of this energy, and then, it reflected the light back at Thor.

"Why don't you take it all back, bastard?"

TRUUUUUUMMMMM...!

The lightning reached Thor, this time, turning completely black as it gained the darkness element from within Maria's magic and mana, hitting Thor directly!

"You're... reflecting my attack?!"

BOOOOOOOOOOMMMMMM...!

Thor was completely consumed by the black lightning before he could even comprehend the situation he was being thrown into. In mere seconds, he found his Spirit Vessel being completely consumed by his own attack!

CLAAAAAASSSHHHH!!!

Barely managing to survive, his vessel found himself over a massive crater within the dungeon's boundaries, his entire body slowly beginning to dissipate.

"S-She evolved...! T-This incredible power... What is it!?" Thor wondered, incapable of being able to comprehend the powers that Maria had now acquired through her newest evolution.

FLASH!

"You seem surprised. Honestly speaking, I am too."

"Huh?!"

Thor was once more shocked, Maria had appeared right in front of him, standing above the crater and glancing down at him as if he were the insect now.

"W-What sort of monster have you evolved into?! Even S Ranked Beings wouldn't be able to reflect my divine power... with such ease!" Thor roared back, quickly standing back up as countless rays of lightning rained over Maria.

CLASH! CLASH! CLASH! CLAAASH!

However, Maria concentrated herself, gathering her near endless Mana as she summoned a ring made entirely of mirages made of beautiful moons in their different phases, which rotated around her and reflected the rays like powerful mirrors!

"Take it all back."

FLASH! FLASH! FLASH! FLAAASH!

The thunder was not only reflected but enhanced and "corrupted" by Maria's own element of darkness and death, which directly damaged the vessel of Thor instead of being easily absorbed back into his elemental body.

"T-This is impossible!"

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM! BOOOOM!

Thor tried to run away, to evade Maria's furious onslaught, but it was impossible, each ray of darkness pierced a part of his body, completely disintegrating it, in mere seconds, he found himself covered on holes...

"G-Gahh...?!"

BAAAM!

His body fell into the floor once more, as Maria approached him, glancing down at him.

"I suppose Ymir must be happy now."

"Ymir?!"

Thor felt flabbergasted, the moment he saw Maria's body suddenly exude an enormous, overwhelming aura... such an aura which he had only felt when fighting Titans!

A gigantic palm made of darkness started to fall from the skies, squeezing Thor like a bug.

"What do you mean Ymir...?! He's... dead...!"

CLAAAAAAAASSSSSSHHHHHHH!!!!

Before Thor could even comprehend his situation, his Spiritual Vessel was completely destroyed.

Chapter 665 Thor's Disgrace

As Thor sensed his Divine Spirit Vessel being slain, his face began to distort in utter disbelief and anger. The other gods at his side were no different either. They were utterly flabbergasted by the development of the situation, which brought upon them the knowledge that Maria had evolved into a being... much like the ancient Titans they had once slain.

"What sort of insanity is this?! Thor, are you sure that what you're saying is true?! That ghost... It attained the power of the Titans themselves?!" Asked the God of Light, a tall and bearded man with an eyepatch and an armor made of divine gold. Two crows sat at each of his shoulders, white and black. Both crows glared down at Thor with the same judgmental glare that his own father.

"Father! I don't really get it myself either but... There's indeed something strange! How come an Undead attained the Bloodline of the Titans?! But it is the ultimate truth! I had sensed him; it was indeed nobody else than Ymir's aura within her!" Thor protested. "How else could a mere mortal like her been able to defeat the Divine Spirit Vessel so easily?!"

The rest of the Aesir Gods started gossiping with one another. They couldn't deny that Maria had evolved into a being strong enough to defeat even Thor, but they still couldn't believe she had suddenly become a Titan. Even more because that seemed highly impossible. Maria was an Undead, and a non-corporeal one at that...

How could she even attain such a power? It was utterly impossible!

"Are you sure you're not just lying to make it seem like you were unable to fight and win against that ghost?" One of the gods asked.

"It is impossible for Ymir to be alive, we defeated him and all of the other Titans with him in the Ancient War. His corpse was used to build this world!" Another God said.

"God of Light, please punish your insolent and foolish son, who has done a terrible job at something so simple as punishing a mortal!" Said a third divine entity.

However, Odin remained in silence, his single eye flashing brightly as he contemplated what had happened. Certainly, he knew something more than the other gods didn't know, or well, most of them didn't know about.

"To be honest, Ymir is not exactly dead... Because his body was used to reconstruct the world, his life remained somehow. I have not revealed this to you lot for obvious reasons. His Soul as well, although I was able to cut it a lot, many fragments spread around and were lost." He sighed. "However, because Ymir has not shown any signs of being alive ever since his defeat, I supposed whatever remained of him was too weak to be able to do anything at all."

"What? Odin, why did you never revealed this to us?!"

"This means... Ymir was waiting for a moment like this?! Was he waiting for that ghost to evolve? But why the ghost specifically?!"

"We do know she might be the Reincarnation of the Void... Perhaps Odin was seeking a fitting vessel for the last fragment of his soul, and he found it in that ghost"

Odin sighed, glancing back at Thor.

"Although these news are frightening, and your fight has given us some new insight, Thor, you've still failed your mission." Odin said, his single eye flashing with a judgmental light.

"Father... I...! Please give me another opportunity! At the very least, I believe I could-"

"That's enough. I will be stripping you off the temporary Light Authority I've granted to you!" Odin roared, his spear hit the ground of the Heavenly Realm, as light shone brightly impacting Thor!

FLAAAASH!

In mere seconds, Thor felt as if a part of his own soul was stripped away from him!

"No, father! Don't take away this power! I...! Unggh...!"

Thor, however, could not fight his father's might, easily being weakened, as his father took away the extra power he had granted him due to his favorability. Thor still held his original authority, but without the secondary Light Authority of Odin, he was now much weaker, and now as powerful as to look down at the other Gods with him.

The other Aesir Gods glanced at Thor with pity, but he knew, deep down, they were laughing at him, ridiculing him. Thor felt frustrated, his fury and anger growing bigger and bigger as he glanced back at the other insolent Aesir.

"Because you've been able to bring us valuable information, despite your pathetic defeat, I will forgive you." Sighed Odin. "As long as you bring me good results next time."

"Father I can go down right now and confront her! She might be strong enough to kill the divine spirit vessels but she won't be able to stand against my true power!" Thor said recklessly.

"And risk your life in the miasma-filled world below? You'll be in an utter disadvantage like that, fool!" Odin roared. "Think before you act! After the Void's interference and the many Calamities, the world below has become almost inhospitable for our divinities. However, as long as we can find vessels fitting of our divine power, then we can find a way to get to her... Nonetheless, it looks like the small time frame we had to fight her is now gone."

Suddenly, a deadly presence emerged within the Heavenly Realm, an enormous mass of millions of souls and darkness appeared, slowly shaping itself into a beautiful young lady with long gray hair and sharp red eyes. It was nobody else than Hel herself, the Goddess of Death and ruler of the underworld, Helheim.

"ODIN!" Hel roared furiously, her deathly aura spreading everywhere. The weakest of Aesir Gods ran away in fear before her mighty divinity that could even take the life out of gods themselves. "You dare try to sneak an attack on my divinely protected?! Reckless old man, are you so tired of living?!"

"Oh my, Hel..." Odin said while stroking his beard. "This is only a big misunderstanding."

Odin's cockiness only made Hel more furious.

Chapter 666 Odin's Bait

Hel's fury made itself clear within the Heavenly Realm, weaker Aesir Gods ran away before her furious aura, while those close to Odin and strong enough to stand in her way remained at the side of the Kind of Gods.

"A misunderstanding?! You knew my mother had come to visit and you planned this because I wouldn't be paying attention!" Hel furiously said.

"Hel, you might be very powerful, and your divinity might rule an essential law of this world... But that doesn't give you the right to treat your grandfather in such a manner. Be more respectful." The God of Light said, Hel only grew more furious.

"Are you declaring war now? You've done something you should had not!" Hel said, her eyes glowing redder. "I don't care if you're my grandfather, I've never considered you my family. Suppressing my religion, making me seen as a monster by the mortals... Do you think I am blind? I do know your intentions!"

"Hahah, you're hurting my feelings, dear granddaughter." Sighed Odin. "This was a misunderstanding; I do not desire war. I would never DARE wage war against my own grandchild!"

"You killed your own son and turned him into an abomination and you expect me to believe that?" Hel asked.

"Your father was the one with the idea..." Odin lamented. "Tyr was... corrupted. There was no other way, dear granddaughter."

"You...!" Hel sighed, her fury only growing larger. Her long silver hair suddenly turned into blue phantasmal flames, furious growing larger. However, deep down, she knew her father was also to blame for this, after all, it was really his scheme too.

"Thor lost his mind for a bit. He thought the Evil God was going to reincarnate soon, so he attacked your divinely protected. Do not worry, she's alive! Or well, dead? However you want to put it." Laughed Odin. "However, dear granddaughter, shouldn't you be the one offering some sort of explanation as to why your divinely protected is messing around with the Evil God's fragments?"

"I do not control her, she's free to do whatever she desires, unlike your mortal "hero" puppets." So I have no real idea what she's doing. She is free to do as she pleases." Hel said.

"So you're saying that its fine for her to commit a taboo?!" Thor confronted Hel. "Hel, you're becoming more and more twisted! Is Loki brainwashing your mind with his strange ideals?!"

"Taboos don't really exist, they're merely stupid words you say which mortals will obey. Only those that are below you commit taboos, those that are free, like my divinely protected, do not commit taboos. Rules are different with each god, we agreed to this, right?" Hel sighed, reminding the Gods of their own stupid rules. "Or did you seriously believed I wouldn't be able to find such an easy loophole within your reasoning?"

"Tch..." Thor seemed genuinely furious, and glanced at Hel so menacingly he seemed ready to attack her at any moment. "Do you think you make your own rules now?!"

"Silence Thor." Odin said. "For now, Hel... We'll let this slide, no? I will simply pretend she did not commit taboos, and you will believe that what Thor has done is a misunderstanding, alright?"

"And then what?! Will you try to send more killers after her?!" Hel asked angrily.

"What the mortals do or not... Is not my fault, they are free to do as they please! Right? This, we also agreed upon." Laughed Odin. "You just said she was free to do whatever she wanted, so my own servants are also free."

Hel felt surprised, she fell right into Odin's trap.

Now, she could only agree to his terms and let this war between gods resolve with their own mortals.

It was something that has been happening for a while now, but it seemed that as the Age of Calamity approached, this war was only going to become more intense.

"You're only pretending, you clearly desire for war, Odin! You've always wanted to attain more power, endlessly greedy old man!" Hel angrily reprimanded Odin, but he only laughed at her anger.

"Well, if you're so angered today, why don't we try-"

"That's enough, dearest father."

FLASH!

Suddenly, a distortion in space and time emerged before the gods, black, purple, and red colors mixing into a black hole that shattered space itself and then summoned the figure of a handsome young man with long purple hair and seductive pink eyes. Wearing black robes and holding upon a black staff decorated with red and purple jewels...

"Father?" Asked Hel in surprise.

"Dear Hel, how many times have I told you to not fight with your grandpapa?" Sighed Loki. "Now behave yourself." Loki patted Hel's head, glancing back at his father.

"Loki..." Odin sighed, the miasmic aura of his son made him feel slightly sick.

Although the gods thought that Loki was his true son, in fact, Loki was his adoptive son. He was the son of Ymir, the King of Titans, and one of his last and lost children, his true identity being a Titan that personified chaos itself.

Odin, however, had to keep up appearances. If only all the gods were merely the boot licking Aesir, he wouldn't really mind as much. But there were also the Vanir Gods, another whole tribe of Gods, many of them incredibly strong who ruled the other side of the world of Yggdrasil.

And of course, there were also the "Good Titans" who betrayed Ymir and joined him, they were many as well, and had joined the Aesir and Vanir in good terms. Seeing Odin lose his patience and act boldly would easily destroy the image he has created for them of a righteous king.

"That's enough pranks for today you two, let's get along, alright?" Laughed Loki, looking at his daughter with concern, and whispering to her mind through telepathy. "Dear, do not let him provoke you, that is what he wants. Be strong."

"Tch..." Odin clicked his tongue in anger, but then let it slide...

For now.

Chapter 667 [Devourer Of Divinities]

(Maria's POV)

I ended evolving and somehow, I managed to defeat Thor. Or well, his damn spiritual vessel. There was no way that guy was the real Thor, it would have been quite anticlimactic if he truly died in there.

Nonetheless, I felt extremely exhausted after that. I had utilized a new power I attained after evolving to my limits, each of those spells cost almost all of my Mana, and even as it kept regenerating, it was not near as enough.

The Ability to reflect Magic and even Divine Power that the Moonlight Magic Skill granted to me was indeed very strong... I am quite happy I managed to save the day but for fuck's sake, I am not really ready to fight another of these god things for now.

"Ugh... Huh?"

While I heard everyone running to my side, I suddenly noticed the mass of divinity that Thor's vessel left behind. I had used his own power against him, but I did not truly possess the power to hurt that vessel myself, only reflecting his own power back to him and changing its attribute to my own.

Nonetheless, it was quite unexpected, but he did indeed die in a dungeon! Is this why his body suddenly was left behind? It was all cut into pieces around, and there was a big white jewel sitting over there.

"This is... Ah, I'm so hungry..."

I quickly began crawling over the ground, feeling so weak I could die at any moment. Without thinking it much, I started eating the corpse left behind. The divine spirit vessel body lacked a mind of its own, and once torn apart, Thor's will disappeared from within it and it became a strange substance.

It was like a very solid soul, with a texture similar to jelly or a very soft bread. Each bite I gave to it made me slightly more relieved and stronger, it felt like I was regaining my footing, my soul was growing bigger as well.

"Ahhh... More..."

I kept eating and eating these pieces, until the only thing left behind was a big white jewel.

[Divine Spirit Vessel Core (??? Rank)]

A crystal containing the crystalized divine power of a God of Thunder that has taken over the Divine Spirit Vessel. It contains enormous quantities of Mana and Life Essence, once consumed, it can either kill the user or grant incredible power. It can also be used as a material to create Divine Relics.

Huh, I could make a divine relic, yeah... But in the other side, this is like a really tasty treat, and I am still starving, so might as well eat it.

"Crunch..."

It was crunchy and had no real flavor to be honest, but it still felt amazing. The more I bite into it, the more of this endless electrifying energy came running down my throat and reaching all the way into the interior of my body and soul.

FLU O O O S S H H!

S P A R K!

S P A R K!

S P A R K!

Lightning began surging from my fingertips, as I felt the lightning power of Thor reaching within my soul and body. And then, it slowly settled down. It fought for a bit, but it was quickly eaten and assimilated, like all other things I devour.

This was merely a small fragment of his divine authority, yet it was mightily tasty. The moment I ate it, I felt like I was reborn anew! What the heck was this? It even... kind of strengthened my own divinity, or whatever divine power I am slowly developing.

"Phew... Alright, let's see what's up- Huh?!"

I ended gaining way too many powers than I expected. It seems that, based in this new Skill, I can turn my body into lightning! Interesting, I guess that Thor really gave me a lot of gifts for his visit. Though I am still fuckin angered and got a lot to process even now. Certainly, I'll eventually find him and kill him, and eat his soul for sure as well.

I've already made up my mind, if the gods want to get rid of me so badly, then I'll just go and kill them first. I won't let them take away those precious to me anymore. I will tear them apart. I will keep growing stronger and stronger... Until I can finally get to their heavenly realm and rip them all to shreds.

I won't hold back anymore, they all have their days counted, fucking bastards.

[Soul Scape Spirit Treasures]: [Withering Trees of Death (Lesser Spirit Treasure)] [Red Flowers of Blood (Lesser Spirit Treasure)], [Purple Flowers of Poison (Lesser Spirit Treasure)] [Black Flowers of Darkness (Lesser Spirit Treasure)]

My stats increased by a lot. But is this even enough to fight a God head on? I doubt it... Thanks to leveling up I managed to recover most of my MP, but that damned Thor on his true divine body would be too much for me to handle. My reflection Skills can only go so far before exploding. At most, I can at least fight a divine spirit vessel, and only one at a time.

The Dungeon ceiling was already regenerating back to normal, and everyone else seemed to be healthy. I ran back to them after checking everything else was fine. I felt relieved everyone was alright, though at the same time, I couldn't contain this anger and frustration of having been caught off guard like this. It is truly a frustrating experience. It really makes me want to kill them really badly...

But for now, I should care about the things I have in front of me right now, Lucifer, Partner, Emeraldine, my daughter Nyx, Brunhild, Root, Takeshi and Laura, Helga and the dwarves, I greeted them all happily.

"Master, are you alright?!" Partner began crying while hugging me tightly. "Ooh, you're taller or is it my idea?!"

"Maria, I was so worried..." Lucifer sighed.

"A-Are you really alright?" Sighed Emeraldine.

"Mama! What happen?" Wondered Nyx, still too confused of what had occurred, which happened way too fast.

"Yeah I am fine... A lot happened in this little time. But everything is fine now..." I sighed. "Let's rest for the moment and then think about what's to come. I need to tell you guys about what I've evolved into... And a small little mission that someone really, really ancient has left behind for me."

Worried about the Gods' schemes, I checked how everything was going on back in my village. Everyone was fine, they had not targeted this place at all. I guess they were only targeting me... Which is good, to be honest, I am glad they only targeted me more.

Chapter 669 Time To Go Back

Worried about the Gods' schemes, I checked how everything was going on back in my village. Everyone was fine, they had not targeted this place at all. I guess they were only targeting me... Which is good, to be honest, I am glad they only targeted me more. Perhaps they just really hate me, and I would prefer it if it stayed that way, if they were to dare attack those precious to me just to frustrate me then... I don't know what I would do.

Right after evolving, I received a massive boost to my Soul Clones, which quickly grew stronger, way stronger than I had imagined. They gained a ton more of my shared stats and also skills, and I quickly decided to summon two large ones, which quickly shaped into formless shadows which extended on top of the village, forming a massive magic barrier.

It is not that strong, but it will do for now, though what I want is to make a Barrier Magic Device using Barrier Stones, which I've mined already with some of the clones I left behind in the other mountain, they're rare but not impossible to fetch. They look like circular, green-colored jewels made up of many crystal-shaped pieces, resembling a magic barrier by itself, quite pretty.

Once we get back home, I'll begin the creation of this special "divine magic barrier" I'll make it using the crystallization of my own soul, which had grown so strong it can create pseudo divine phantom crystals, if I do that plus merging the barrier with my phantasmal clones, it might become a truly overpowered barrier that could even absorb incoming attacks and grow even stronger.

It's never wrong to prepare for what's to come after all!

But for now it would be better to go back to the dwarven city and rest...

"So you became a Titan?!" Brunhild freaked out. "You were given the soul fragment of Ymir! So that old Ymir's still alive! I cannot believe it."

"Neither I can believe it, but her strength, and even vitality, even her body..." Lucifer said. "You've become way taller now, haven't you?"

Without realizing it, I had become as tall as three meters. I was as tall as the Giant race, descendants of the Titans. Like this, I had to lower my eyes to glance at everyone else.

"Also you're packed with muscles!" Partner said, rubbing my belly which was now rock solid despite being a ghost... I even had slightly larger arms than usual. And my legs were also quite muscular. I resembled an Amazonian lady!

"Y-Yeah, I guess that's the after effect of becoming a Titan, this is my "imprinted form" too, it is like part of my soul, so it feels right to stay in this form. It is also quite efficient because it naturally hardens my phantasmal soul until it becomes harder than muscles." I laughed.

"I am totally fine with it." Emeraldine nodded excitedly, touching my belly like Partner was doing.

"What's wrong with you, brother? Are you fine with a stronger woman now?" Giggled Brunhild, teasing Lucifer.

"Eh? I... of course! I don't really mind." Said Lucifer, feeling a bit flustered.

"I think its hot she got a ton of muscles now, hehe." Partner giggled.

"My thoughts exactly..." Emeraldine said. "These muscles are the definitive proof that Ymir has blessed her as well!"

"Yeah, I never thought a blessing from a Titan would make you buff." Laughed Helga. "But makes sense. She's as tall and strong looking as the giants that often visit town."

"You acquired a lot of physical strength as well?" Wondered Lucifer. "How high is your Attack stat now?"

"Oh nothing like yours, but around over 300k? It increased way more now though, I think the titan skills enhance the attack stat even more, so it might be higher." I nodded.

"300K Attack is not high?!" Helga and the other dwarves felt slightly perplexed.

"You already have higher Attack than me!" Said Emeraldine.

"And me too..." Partner was slightly surprised.

"I think you also surpassed mine... No wait, with all the levels I am higher." Sighed Lucifer in relief.

"Ohh, so I am only second strongest to Lucifer? Heheheh..." I began laughing evilly.

I've always been the weakest physically since my reincarnation, but now my Attack stat had increased a ton, and so did my HP! By becoming a Titan, I have covered for my great defensive and offensive weakness in the physical side, while retaining all my magical potency.

I've become, quite literally, a jack of all trades and master of all! ...Well, not really, I still have to keep getting stronger, can't really get complacent.

"Well, well, that's that now. I have not only absorbed Ymir's last soul fragment, which might mean more than just getting a bunch of new Skills... But I've also devoured that divine spirit vessel and look what I got."

I quickly transformed my hands into lightning, surprising everyone quite greatly.

"W-What the heck?! You can turn into lightning?! Not fair!" Partner seemed amazed. "I want to also become lightning!"

"I-Incredible, does this means you've mastered a new element?!" Asked Emeraldine.

"So this is the power that eating that thing gave to you, amazing." Lucifer seemed happy too.

"No, I didn't really get the elemental skill, weirdly enough, but I got "lightning spirit body" skill or something like that..." I said while thinking deeply. "Quite interesting, isn't it?"

"Perhaps what you got was merely assimilating that spirit's body into yours." Brunhild said. "Interesting, further experimenting will be needed. Now that we've got someone at S Rank with us, we might as well inspect her to our heart's content! That power to reflect divine power is also quite interesting!"

"I agree! Maria I hope you're fine with us inspecting you from neck to toe." Emeraldine said with a charming smile.

"Yeah!" Partner seemed to agree.

"Huhhh... W-Well, fine, I guess?" I said.

My own body composition was strange, so I guess it was fair to investigate its properties.

For now, however, as we made our way back to the dwarven city, I decided to check every new Skill I got.

Chapter 670 New And Powerful Skills

Starting with the two new Magical Skills I got, directly from the [Selene] evolution!

[Eternal Moon Mirror: Lv1]

A Unique Magic that only Selene, the Titaness of the Moon can conjure. By gathering the power of the Moonlight and gigantic quantities of Mana, it is possible to create a mirage of the Moon itself, which works as a mirror that can reflect all types of non-physical attacks. The stronger they are, the higher the requirements of Moonlight Essence and Mana.

Reflected power can be directed at any foe, dealing up to +200% Additional Damage and ignoring up to -50% of the target's Magical Defenses. Additionally, Enhances Reflection Power, Control, and Ability by +30% while reducing Mana cost by -5% with each Skill Level.

[Mystical Moon Phase Circle: Lv1]

A Unique Magic that only Selene, the Titaness of the Moon can conjure. By gathering the power of the Moonlight and gigantic quantities of Mana, it is possible to create a mirage of the many phases of the Moon, which encircle the user, granting the ability to unleash Moonlight Beams that deal up to +120% damage each and can ignore up to -25% of the target's magical defenses.

It can also absorb a large non-physical attack and unleash it back divided in many smaller attacks by working in conjunction with the [Eternal Moon Mirror] Skill. Additionally, all Damage, Defense Ignoration, and Reflection Power are enhanced by +20% with each Skill Level, while reducing Mana cost by -2.5% with each Skill Level.

These are the two Skills I used against Thor to defeat him. The first one is good to reflect a very strong attack, while the second one is good for dealing a lot of attacks and accumulating reflected damage and then unleashing it into many directions... Their MP costs are insane though, I was barely able to keep up with it because I was draining MP from the Dungeon.

The first skill costs a minimum of 200k MP to activate, and the second one 150k! It is an insane quantity of MP, and it costs even more if I want the Skills to reflect a lot of incoming power. This is why I don't feel so confident about being able to completely fight a god head-on relying on just this, I simply won't have enough maximum MP to keep up.

[Lesser Divinity: Moonlight: Lv1]

A Unique Skill that Selene, the Titan of the Moon possesses. It grants a Lesser Divinity of Moonlight, which allows the wielder of this Skill to absorb Moonlight directly from the Moon and gain power based in the different moon phases.

[Moonlight Essence Assimilation] allows the automatic gathering of Moonlight Essence, which can be used to conjure Moonlight Magic and related Skills, together with this Skill, the user can absorb up to 1000 units of Moonlight Essence per hour. This amount increases by +1000 with each Skill Level. Amount can increase or decrease based in the moon phase.

[Moonlight Phase Empowerment] allows the usage of the Moon's powers to enchant the user greatly, based in each phase, the user gains a stat boost up to +200% to all stats when its Full Moon. This stat boost increases by +25% with each Skill Level.

To obtain new Abilities within the Divinity, higher tiers of Divinity are required.

And this is the base of everything, what allowed me to begin with to utilize those spells. The status doesn't show how much Moonlight Essence I have right now, but I am fairly sure I've ran out of whatever I had at the beginning, which seemed like a little starting bonus. I need to gather more quickly. Hopefully tonight we can have Full Moon...

[Titan Lady of the Eternal Moon: Lv1]

A Title Skill granted to Selene by Ymir himself, the King of Titans and the father of Selene, the representation of the Moon itself. This enhances all the effects of Selene's Moon-related Skills (including her divinity) by +100%, with an additional +25% with each Skill Level. Additionally, it grants +100 Moonlight Essence every hour of the day no matter the moon phase, this quantity increases by +20 with each Skill Level.

[Ymir's Daughter: Lv1]

A Title granted only to the children of Ymir, specifically his beautiful and powerful daughters. Enhances all Physical Stats by +200% passively, alongside their stat growth per level greatly. Additionally, you're recognized as the daughter of Ymir by all those who see you, Titans might have an instant positive look at you no matter what, and so their allies. However, the enemies of Titans might see you badly.

[Titaness: Lv1]

A Title only granted to true titans. You're a descendant of Ymir, a Primordial God as strong as the cosmos itself. Within your bloodline you carry the almighty strength of the titan family, and so their powerful muscles and amazing elemental attribute affinities.

You can now connect with Nature itself flawlessly, and even listen to the world's flow of Mana, and directly absorb Mana from within the world without any issue. Your muscles grow strong faster and wounds regenerate almost instantly. Your skin is harder than orichalcum and no weapons can pierce through it. You're the embodiment of nature itself, or perhaps, a living disaster.

Enhances Stat growth greatly with each Skill Level, especially the stat growth of physical stats.

And yeah, these Titles pretty much fix a lot of the flaws I found within the divinity and the moonlight magic. I just get free moonlight every hour! Maybe that's why I had some already even when I just evolved? Though only 120 per hour is not much, but as the days go by, I'll end up getting more and more so I just have to wait patiently for it to accumulate.

And the rest of the Skills are just as amazing! I guess this is what it truly means to be a Titan. I still can't believe it myself... How could a Ghost eventually evolve into a Titan?! Well, I guess my evolutions from the beginning were strange. Maybe it has to do with the System interfering with the "normal" way a ghost would evolve.
