

A Ghost 671

Chapter 671 A Compensation

Although those Skills were amazing and a brand-new part of my strength, there's a few more in here that are worth checking, especially these:

[Divine Moonlight Titan Body: Lv1]

A Skill Unique to Selene, the Titaness of the Moon. Grants the powerful body of a Divine Titaness, encompassed primarily by Moonlight Essence. Enhances all Stats, specially physical stats, and enhances stat growth of All Stats as well as having the power of activating the Skill by utilizing Moonlight Essence constantly, enhancing all stats in the process by +100% with an additional +25% with each Skill Level.

Moonlight Essence requirements for all Moon-related skills are reduced by -20%, with an additional -10% with each Skill Level. Grants the true and powerful body of a Titan, filled with muscles and great physical strength. By utilizing Mana, the user's body can grow as big as a true titan and demolish everything on their way with raw physical might.

[Divine Moonlight Titan Soul: Lv1]

A Skill Unique to Selene, the Titaness of the Moon. Grants the powerful divine soul of a Divine Titaness, encompassed primarily by Moonlight Essence and other primary elements of the user, such as Darkness and Death. Enhances all Magic, specially Moonlight Magic Power, Conjunction Speed, and Control by +100% with an additional +25% with each Skill Level.

By activating the Skill's effect, and by utilizing Moonlight Essence constantly, a powerful Moonlight Aura can be created, which can expand and spread around the user, boosting the speed of all conjured Magic and enhancing them with Moonlight Essence, alongside boosting Agility, Speed, and Evasion. Nearby allies can also receive an enhancement. Power of all enhancements is based on Skill Level.

Moonlight Essence requirements for all Moon-related skills are reduced by -20%, with an additional -10% with each Skill Level. Grants the true and powerful soul of a Titan, unmovable and with an iron will. Grants immunity to all mind-affecting negative status effects and curses.

These two Skills go hand by hand and are quite honestly, pretty amazing. Even more boosts all around! Although everything relying a lot on Moonlight Essence is the only thing holding me back...

[True Titan Strength: Lv1]

Grants the True Strength of a Titan, enhances HP, Attack, and Defense by +100% with an additional +25% with each Skill Level (invisible buff). Increases HP, Attack, and Defense Stat Growth per Level. Additionally, all Physical Skills gain +250% Bonus Damage Dealt, with an additional +25% with each Skill Level.

This is a really nice little passive Skill... This probably means I already have way over 600k Attack but because they're "invisible" buffs, they don't really show in the Status. I probably do have more Attack than Lucifer then... Hahaha, I've truly become the strongest ghost.

[Selene's Palm of Judgement: Lv1]

Materialize the powerful all-destroying Palm of Selene, the personification of the moon itself by consuming enormous quantities of Mana and Moonlight Essence. Deals +500% Damage based solely on the Attack stat and covers a massively wide area, unleashing a shockwave that deals magic damage of the user's attributes to nearby foes. Damage dealt increases by +50% with each Skill Level. Very slow, but powerful and devastating.

This was the finishing move I used to defeat Thor's Divine Spirit Vessel, it felt nice to squish him like a bug after calling all of us a bug for a while, the bastard got what was coming for him. Now I am just fantasizing of the moment I'll be able to squeeze him for real...

[Moonlight Absorption: Lv1]

Your body is like a mirror, and you can reflect most magic almost naturally, increasing all elemental resistance by +100%. Additionally, you can absorb any Moonlight Element Attack. The Moonlight element is encompassed of Light and Darkness fused together, meaning you're no longer affected by common light elements unless they're boosted with holiness, in which case damage is reduced by -50%. All effects increase by +20% with each Skill Level, and you can absorb an additional +25% more Moonlight Essence per level.

This one was unexpected! But well, the more resistances I have the better, no? At least I can now safely assume I can tank anything I want. And that immunity to the light element caught me off guard as well! Seems like unless it is Holy Light with some sort of divinity (from a divine protection of a god), it might not deal any damage at all against me. Hehe, excellent.

I never thought Moonlight was the fusion between light and darkness elements, but maybe that does makes some sort of sense... Nonetheless, now that I am done with the Selene evolution-related skills, there's some other new skills that I should check.

[Divine Black Lightning: Lv1]

An evolved form of Black Lightning, encompasses a slight amount of divinity to become incredibly powerful, capable of piercing through foes magical defenses and leave their bodies and souls electrified, dealing damage constantly. It can shape and expand into many lethal forms, and the more Mana it uses, the more powerful and impactful it becomes.

Deals up to +300% Damage and can ignore up to -30% Magical Defense. Damage increases by +25% and magical defense ignoration by 10% with each Skill Level.

[Divine Thunder Spirit Body: Lv1]

A Unique Skill that only powerful Divine Spirits of the Lightning element can develop, encompasses the entire body into lightning, turning your own soul and body into this powerful and fast element, enhancing movement speed, agility, and evasion by up to +250% with an additional +25% with each Skill Level. Additionally, allows for your body to become a lethal weapon that can deal damage around your surroundings naturally. Combining this skill with attack-type lightning skills grants the greatest results.

[Devourer of Divinities: Lv1]

A Special Title granted to an aberrant being capable of devouring Divinity itself. Grants total immunity to negative aftereffects when consuming Divinity and eases the consumption and assimilation of such divine powers. Increases damage dealt to Divine Beings by +25% with each Skill Level.

And these are the last three Skills, each one rather amazing, especially that last title. I gotta raise its level constantly to prepare myself for what's to come...

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] is amazed by your ability to survive against the Divine Spirit Vessel of Thor.]

[She apologizes for not being able to stop the Gods before they launched their attack.]

[And she offers a compensation.]

[You received: [Hourglass of Calamity (??? Rank)] x1!]

Chapter 672 A Conversation With Hel

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death and Ruler of the Underworld] is amazed by your ability to survive against the Divine Spirit Vessel of Thor.]

[She apologizes for not being able to stop the Gods before they launched their attack.]

[And she offers a compensation.]

[You received: [Hourglass of Calamity (??? Rank)] x1!]

"What the hell Hel?! You finally show your miserable self here!" I exclaimed. "So much for your Divine Protection! And what the heck is an Hourglass of Calamity?!"

"Huh? Maria? What's going on?" Lucifer wondered.

"Mama?" My little Nyx asked, as I was holding her in my arms this whole time.

"Hel? Is she talking to you again through your System power?" Asked Partner.

"Must be, right?" Emeraldine wondered.

"Hel talks with her directly?!" Brunhild was almost about to have a heart attack.

"Makes sense, Maria is way too talented and amazing to not have the goddess of the underworld talking to her ears at all times!" Laughed Helga and the other dwarves.

"Is she saying something bad?" Takeshi wondered.

"Maybe she's apologizing!" Laura said. "Though, maybe she's too prideful for that, being a goddess and all..."

"Well, I am still waiting her response, she sent me a weird item as a "compensation" for some dumb reason..." I sighed.

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] seems to have heard your complains.]

[She cannot go into details, however, she says she was busy with her family.]

[It is important matters revolving gods, you shouldn't stick your nose there.]

"Oh yeah? THEN WHY THEY JUST TRIED TO KILL ME? And you want me not to stick my nose in there?!"

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] sighs.]

[She says she didn't know the Aesir Gods had such a scheme. She had talked with them previously and they agreed in leaving you alone.]

[She still partially blames you, saying that you shouldn't have absorbed two fragments of the Evil God in a row.]

"His name is Tyr! Also... yeah, I guess I did risk it myself."

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] seems to have come to an agreement with the Aesir, for now, they should probably won't try anything funny.]

[At least not directly.]

[Be careful of external forces or threats, many of them might be controlled by them.]

"Okay, I get it... But what's the end game here? I want to kill them to be honest, would you help me?"

I ended saying something rather bold.

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] laughs at your shamelessness.]

[Killing the Gods that maintain the world's elements would make the world enter into further chaos.]

[However, if they are really hell-bent into killing you, might as well have the power to defend yourself.]

[She explains that once you reach an higher evolution, you will be able to ascend.]

[However, further information about this is not possible to be given to a mortal.]

"Thanks for nothing I guess. You gave me a single thing though. Come on, give me more compensation! I deserve the rewards! I killed Thor's vessel and all. Aren't I awesome?"

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] seems to think you're too greedy.]

[However, she still feels guilty, so she offers further gifts.]

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] has offered: [Ymir's Divine Crystal Shard (??? Grade)] x1, [Potion of Rotten Death (A Grade)] x1, [Skeleton Coffin of the Underworld (A Grade)] x1, and [10000000 EXP]!]

[LEVEL UP!]

[LEVEL UP!]

[Your Level has increased from Level 20 to Level 22!]

[All Your Stats have increased!]

"Oooh, this is more like it!" I said happily. "BUT! Not enough!"

Ding!

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] is tired of you.]

[She says that as long as you entertain her and grow stronger, she will begin sponsoring you with more rewards, such as items, or even new Skills.]

[The Divine Goddess [Hel, Goddess of Death, and Ruler of the Underworld] is beginning to think you might be a big shot in the future.]

"Heh, of course I am." I smiled back. "Well, leave it at that then, you stingy goddess. I'm off for now."

Like that, negotiations were over, I explained my family I ended getting some weird items out of her, alongside what seemed to be a shard from Ymir's Divine Crystal, it was very tiny, but it contained a lot of power.

"Y-You got a Crystal Shard from Ymir?! That's a bit insane, no?" Sighed Brunhild. "You'll keep getting amazing things... I guess Hel must be planning to use you against the Aesir in the future, or something..."

"That would certainly be quite possible." I sighed.

"It is all quite... well, hard to swallow." Sighed Emeraldine. "But after Thor's attack, nothing can get more surprising anymore."

"I agree... I want some roasted meat though." Said Partner.

"Partner you just ate though?" I asked.

"Well, for now it would be better if we go rest back at the city. The entire dungeon's cleansed and it is regenerating quite well. Are you going to leave some Undead working here?" Wondered Lucifer.

"Yeah, thanks for reminding me!" I said happily, expanding my shadows all around us as we were now in Floor 1, and bringing out a few hundred Skeletons.

Skeletons compared to zombies were cleaner, they were just dry bones without any rotten odors to them.

"Alright everyone, take your tools and begin working! Plow the land and get it ready for the plantation of fruits and veggies!" I said, as everyone quickly got to work, marching tirelessly.

"Gyuhhh... I wonder if there could be another Calamity Seed here, Master..." Said Root at my side, on his small Spirit Embodiment form.

"I don't think there's any in here, the boss wasn't a Calamity after all. I think we should go back to the city and relax." I sighed.

Chapter 673 The Titan Records

An error occurred while reading the file: Could not find file '/data/script/email_list.txt'.

Because it would be too much for the people to take, we decided to keep the whole Thor incident a secret. The dwarven city felt the tremors but didn't see any god descending, so it was easy to just not talk about it. Although I did have to address the matter of me being slightly taller than before.

The entire city was alright, except for a few things that fell. Thankfully it wasn't anything they were not prepared for. Dwarves live inside mountains so they're always prepared for everything. The ceiling suddenly falling apart due to a tremor was something they always prepared for, so their entire infrastructure was earthquake-proof for the most part.

Ruby managed to keep the enormous crowd of people amazed by our comeback, but we saw hundreds if not thousands of people praising us as heroes. The moment we conquered the dungeon the entire miasma surrounding it disappeared and it was finally safe.

The fear of this place to the inhabitants was quite clear, finally having this dungeon completed lifted off a heavy burden off everyone's hearts. It was a nice thing overall, but seriously, these people wouldn't let me relax!

"Amazing, is she Maria, the one that completed the dungeon?!"

"She's so tall and beautiful! Wait, is she a Giantess?"

"I've never seen a Giantess with such a clear white skin before..."

"All her friends are strong as well..."

"Please give me your autograph!"

"Can we take a selfie together?!"

"Maria! Please hold my hand!"

"Step on me!"

There were all sorts of people, some were quite the perverts...

"Everyone please calm down!" Sighed Ruby. "We're going through a lot, they're all tired!"

The Viscountess barely managed to carry us to her manor this time, which was even fancier than Aquamarine's manor. She seemed very pleased and happy of our conquest. Though it was slightly hard to keep the whole Thor incident a secret. Especially for Helga and the other dwarves.

"I see, so you're saying there was a powerful Undead Dragon as the final boss?! That must have been a really hard fight... At least A Rank in strength, isn't it?" Wondered Ruby.

"Well... yeah." I sighed.

"We would prefer... not to talk about that fight." Sighed Lucifer. "For personal reasons."

"I-I see... Did something bad happened there?" Ruby asked the dwarves, expecting more answers from them.

"W-Well... there was a ton of undead, many dwarves. So it was sad to see them." Said Helga.

"Yeah it was a painful experience." Blackard nodded.

"Very sad, but we got through anyways... through sheer determination!"

"Defeating the boss was thanks to Maria and her party, we mostly didn't participate as we stayed outside the boss room fighting the Undead dwarves."

"It was really harsh but we pulled through."

"I see..." Ruby sighed. "It must have been hard for everyone. Sorry for asking this out of nowhere."

Ruby then looked back at me.

"But Maria why are you taller out of the blue?" She tilted her head.

"W-Well... I leveled up a lot and kind of got... a growth spurt." I said.

"T-That's weird..." Ruby said. "But well, I don't really know how well human's work. But maybe you're half giantess? I've heard that people that are half-giant sometimes don't develop their giant bloodline abilities until they grow strong enough through leveling up."

Oh wow that's an incredibly convenient excuse!

"Maybe! Yeah, that could be it." I said. "Perhaps a distant ancestor of my family was a giant. Though I cannot confirm, I do have some sort of Skill named Giant's Physique."

"That must be it! Quite honestly, now that you're so tall it makes you even hotter." Laughed Ruby rather seductively.

"A-Ahahaha..." I laughed nervously, trying to contain the pressure of my lovers intense glares.

I already have three of them, I think this is my limit. They probably can't accept someone new, nor I have any interest. Ruby is really flirty though. She's surely testing me...

"Mama I am hungry!" Nyx began to complain while crawling over my legs after being carried around by her father.

"Oh right! Very well then, maidservants, manservants, quickly make the biggest feast we can for our dungeon conquerors! Tomorrow morning, Maria, we'll discuss what we can do with the dungeon. Giving you all of the dungeon's rights might be a bit too hard because this one is not in a different mountain, and is right in the middle of the territory of our country." She sighed. "But I will do my best to give you most of it."

"I understand how it works. As long as I get the managing rights I think we can handle it." I nodded.

I had already half-expected this to happen anyways. This dungeon is different from the other, undiscovered one, and it was always in here in the middle of everyone's territories. The viscounts of the Dwarven Country are zealous and fight one another for profits a lot, there's no way they won't use any available card to obtain a piece of this tasty and big cake.

Unlike the other where I used the excuse of it being in a different territory and undiscovered until I found it, this one dungeon's completely different, so I have to abide with their rules... Well, that doesn't mean I cannot abuse my position as the dungeon master and the dungeon conqueror to obtain as many benefits as possible.

Sure, I'll give them a piece of the cake, but the rest of the cake will be all mine! And if you want another piece, you'll have to pay for it quite nicely as well!

Anyways, tonight we had a big feast and ate to our heart's contents. Ruby made sure to feed us really well to get herself into our good side. I was missing my village though, so I'll probably be moving back soon.

And of course, as the night came, I had a lot of fun with my lovers. They were quite fascinated with my new size, and I completely dominated Lucifer as usual.

However, as I finally decided to do some shut eye.

I... found myself in a very weird dream.

For some reason, there were tons of gigantic souls glaring at me from everywhere!

"Welcome, our newest sister, to the Titan Records."

Chapter 674 Ymir's Tragedy

An error occurred while reading the file: Could not find file '/data/script/email_list.txt'.

When I went to sleep, I immediately had my mind teleported somewhere else. It wasn't just a normal dream at all. It wasn't a nightmare either though. This place, it felt like a realm of the mind, yet it was also existing, somewhere.

It was completely black, with nothing but darkness everywhere. However, as I calmed myself down, I quickly sensed many other powerful presences. Enormous souls I had never seen before emerged one after the other, taking physical forms, yet still shrouded in darkness.

I couldn't seem them clearly, yet their glowing eyes of various colors glanced at me with rather judgmental stares. They remained in silence, until they all spoke in unison, from within the depths of this mysterious realm their voice echoed as if they were a single yet powerful will.

"Welcome, our newest sister, to the Titan Records."

I felt completely flabbergasted.

The Titan Records?!

What in the world is that?!

"Huh? H-Hello... Is this a really weird dream or something? What is the Titan Records?" I wondered.

The eyes staring at me seemed to become even more judgmental than before. I felt like I was dying out of all the fear I felt! Please stop staring at me so intensively!

"The newbie is quite clueless."

"Well what do you expect? We haven't had a sister since eons."

"It is amazing how father managed to give her a piece of his soul, and the last one."

"Our father is wise, but maybe his age has gotten the best of him! How could he give his last powers to a ghostly servant of Hel?!"

"Hey she's no half bad, she beat that idiot of Thor for good."

"Moonlight Magic, I had never seen that before."

They kept chatting with one another. Were these guys the souls of fallen Titans?

"AHEM! Brothers and sisters, is this the correct way to greet our new little sister? Please, everyone, keep your own opinions for yourselves. Let's greet her like a Titan, even if she's a bit weird."

The titan spoke, as his soul slowly began walking towards mine.

"W -Who exactly are you?" I wondered.

"Most call me Fárbaumi." The enormous titan's soul said, as he quickly touched my forehead. "They know me as Loki's true father."

F L A A S H!

The moment he touched my forehead, my mind was suddenly enlightened. In mere seconds, I felt several amounts of information entering my head. I learned a lot, more than I expected. I even saw visions of the titans being born, of Ymir's existence and his powers protecting the Realms.

I saw the origin of things, or perhaps, only a part of it. The Titans dominated the world yet they nourished and protected it. Many of them even created the Gods, their very children. And yet... ultimately, a war broke out in the middle of this beautiful peace.

The Gods formed a family, the Aesir, an alliance of the strongest Gods, and clashed against Ymir and the rest of the Titans, whose true names were Jotunn. The clash lasted many millenniums, yet the Gods ultimately won, most of the Jotunn were annihilate.

Ymir lasted the longest, even when his body was torn apart, he kept fighting, and fighting, and fighting. I felt his sadness, his fury, and his endless wrath and desire to avenge all of his fallen children.

"ODIN! We created YOU! How... How can you do this to me... To my children?!"

Ymir roared furiously amidst an endless battlefield, his body falling apart, the enormous titan was almost defeated. Tears of blood flowed from his enormous eyes.

Yet the God of Light, a bearded man with an eyepatch, golden armor, and riding a six-legged golden horse looked down at Ymir as if he was just trash.

"And that is why we must overcome you all. The world shall now belong to the Aesir! The Era of Jotunn is now over. And the Era of the Gods, shall begin!" Odin roared, pointing his divine spear at Ymir's face. "Die for a new Era, YMIR!!!"

"O O O D I I I I I N N N N N N!!!!"

CLAAAAAAASSSSHHHHH!!!!

An enormous explosion of pure light covered my vision.

When everything finally ended, I saw an entire wasteland, the Realms began to fall apart, and the Aesir seemed concerned.

"Father, the entire world is collapsing! Ymir was the pillar of the Realms, without him, everything will be over!" Odin's children called for their father.

However, Odin simply smiled back at Ymir's enormous corpse, and his lingering Soul Fragments.

"The world will not end, it shall be reborn." The God of Light proclaimed, utilizing his powers and the aid of the other traitors, they utilized Ymir and the other Jotunn corpses to rebuild the world, merging it with the remaining pieces of the crumbling Realms.

Until the new world was finally created, the Realms became massive continents with self-contained environment, and the Aesir designed their own Realm of Heaven, Asgard.

The last remaining Jotunn were persecuted and killed one by one, those that survived until now had been hiding as mountains, lakes, volcanoes, or even within the deep sea.

However, something happened. Ymir somehow remained "alive". He was now the earth, the sea, the clouds in the sky, he was everywhere all at once. His largest remaining Soul Fragments, which were not snatched away by Odin and the Aesir quickly took away his Divine Realm and deposited it within the Dimensions of Dreams.

And there, he brought all the souls of his fallen children, so they would remain together even after death. He designed his own heaven for them, but also, a new opportunity for the very few Jotunn that remained alive.

The Titan Records, which would aid the surviving Jotunn by being able to channel the power of the fallen ones, and grow even stronger, so they could one day fight back against the oppression of the Aesir.

So this is... the true origin of this place.

Chapter 675 Meeting Titans

"Is this the true origin of this realm? Huh?!"

FLAAASH!

Once I was revealed the truth, the entire realm changed. It was no longer black, but its true beauty and appearance was shown. An enormous landscape filled with snowy mountains and endless forests, lakes, rivers, and a beautiful sea.

"Welcome to the Realm where all the fallen Jotunn come, and where those that still remain alive can channel our strength to keep growing stronger. We call this place Jotunheim." Fárbaudi spoke with a mysterious voice.

His true appearance was rather striking, an enormously tall and muscular Jotunn, with blue skin and sharp golden eyes, alongside some long, red hair made into braids, and a long beard. He was covered in tattoos and wore simple white leather clothes.

The size of his man, however, was immense, he reached the skies and could even touch the peak of the mountains with his fingers. Yet the Jotunn moved very little, often remaining within a single place. Many of them greeted me from afar.

"So this is Jotunheim!" I said in shock. "Wait, then what is the realm where the Ice Giants are?"

"Oh, our mortal descendants? Thankfully they have not been targeted by the Aesir and are seen as simply another race. Ice Giants live in Niflheim, Fire Giants live in Muspelheim. There are others as well, such as the Mountain Giants and the Forest Giants, those two groups dispersed the most everywhere." Laughed Fárbaudi with a rather carefree voice.

"I-I see..." I felt slightly surprised.

"Hey why is the newbie not using her true form?"

"She's too small!"

"Come on girl, let it all out!"

"My true form?" I wondered. "Oh, you mean the gigantic form?"

FLASH!

In seconds, I quickly changed, turning into my Titan Form, which was still smaller than everyone else here, but I was now within the realm of titans. Though I looked like a child in front of these absolute behemoths.

It was just me but bigger I guess, though my clothes were mostly made of shadows, and there was this HUGE moon behind me, looking more like a Halo. Oh, and my eyes were pink for some reason.

"The Moon herself is here everyone."

"Damn girl, you look stunning!"

"She has a literal moon behind her...?"

"Wow father went crazy with her design."

"I wasn't designed by anybody! Also do you Jotunn always talk with jokes?!" I sighed. "You're like worse than dwarves."

"Relax a bit dawg."

"Not like she can do anything, she's still so small..."

"Hey do the half-moon! Hahahaha!"

They were seriously a group of jokesters.

"Anyways, forgive them, it has been a while since we've had a new sibling to tease around." Said Fárbaumi. "You're here not just to talk with us though. Now that you've seen our history and the origin of this place, you must make a connection with the Core."

"The Core?" I asked.

"It is the crystallization of all our Soul Power concentrated at the center of the Realm. If you make a connection, you can slowly draw our powers and become stronger." Fárbaúti said. "I have not the full details, but it seems that father has bet it all on you."

"Yeah, I do wonder why he choose me." I sighed.

"Well, my granddaughter has given you her divine protection so I immediately trust you." He said. "My little Hel is very introverted, but if she trusted someone enough to give you her divine protection, then you must be a good lad! And now father gave you his very last soul fragment! You're already trusted by everyone here."

"Oh right you're her grandpa!" I said in surprise. "What about Loki?"

"He's... well, he's on his own thing." Fárbaúti sighed. "I do miss him, but I barely had any time to see him as well. I only see them through visions sometimes. I have never had the opportunity to talk with them, sadly. Although I do know they pray to me, for some reason. My son seems particularly hurt about our kin's defeat and seems to be cooking a rather intense revenge against the Aesir."

"Oh, does that include the Calamities?" I sighed.

"...Most likely. I can't say I agree with his methods though. He has good intentions, but the way he disregards the lives of mortals is worrying. His Calamities might be powerful enough to destabilize Fate itself and could even fight the Gods if they grew strong enough, but the need for them to slaughter so many innocent lives to achieve that level of power is... not something we agree on." Fárbaúti seemed worried about his son's fall of grace.

Loki seemed to be growing more and more insane as time went by. His divinity being Chaos itself didn't helped either.

"I see... I guess that's right. I might have to fight all his Calamities, they're worth the EXP too." I said. "Though some of them are good as well, it all depends in their mentality. Some are just really evil, others are neutral, some are lovable. My daughter and a familiar I have are Calamities."

"Huh? Y-You already have two at your side?!" He was surprised. "Heh, I guess you're really a chosen one then!"

"And I've got another, a little friend, she's really cute and innocent, a child bestowed with a power she cannot handle yet. I've been teaching her a lot so she doesn't cause any more unnecessary harm." I sighed. "Though, I am fairly sure there must be more."

"Indeed, there are many more, Loki's... losing his own reason. We do want some sort of battle against the Aesir again, to avenge our fallen ones, but to sacrifice the entire world and the lives in there to accomplish that goal? We would never agree to it." Fárbaudi sighed, looking into a faraway tower made of ice growing in the middle of two mountains.

"Yeah... I guess you're right." I agreed.

"Now, let us go. Do you see that tower? It is where the Core is located. Let's make haste." Fárbaudi said.

Chapter 676 {Privileges}

As we walked across the beautiful Nordic landscapes, we meet many more Jotunn. They were all cheerful people. Well, some were grumpy. There was a big variety of people. I discovered some that resembled Ogres that lived camouflaging as mountains. Others loved the ice so much they simply became enormous glaciers.

There were some beautiful ladies as well, which enjoyed the seas and swam across them, enormous whales dwarfed by their titanic and beautifully voluptuous bodies. Man, Jotunn ladies were sure hot, and most of them were either packed with muscles or chubby, with adorable tummies. Ahh, it was hitting all my favorite spots.

But I had to resist! I cannot just romance these old ladies. I came for another purpose!

"Just how many Jotunn live here?" I asked Fárbaudi.

"Thousands. We never surpassed over tree thousand of us though, we were not the most prolific race. Our immortality made it so it was not as necessary to create offspring. However, we did have our children." Said Fárbaudi. "Little ones... Have you seen them here and there? Poor souls, slain at such young ages, now stuck in those innocent hearts for eternity as their souls will never age..."

Fárbaudi looked with sadness at the many children that we sometimes saw. They were slightly smaller than me, and were very adorable and playful, picking up flowers, hunting giant bugs, and just playing tag.

It was all cute and heartwarming until you realize they were all killed at such young ages... So cruel. Who would ever kill a children? Aesir were really fucked in the head, especially Odin, that bastard.

"This Realm was made by our almighty father so our souls could rest..." Sighed Fárbaudi. "It is not as if we don't trust my granddaughter's powers. But Helheim is a lugubrious place where many Undead beings wander, it is not a place where we could rest peacefully. The Gods denied our souls Valhalla, so we either had to go to the cool and dark depths of Helheim or join nature as we let our souls slowly merge permanently with the world."

"So Ymir created Jotunheim for such a noble reason. When he talked to me it was really frightening, but I guess he's a good grandpa." I said with a smile.

"Heh, he's someone that has sacrificed so much... Even when his body is torn apart, even in such a state... Our father keeps protecting his children." Sighed Fárbaudi. "It is so frustrating... that I cannot do anything anymore."

"Huh, yeah it must be frustrating." I said. "I won't promise you anything to be honest. I don't really plan on avenging you guys either. But I do plan in fighting the gods back if they dare interrupt my daily life, and if they keep annoying me, I'll just have to kill them."

Fárbauti looked back at me with eyes wide open.

"Hah... Hahaha... H A H A H A H A H A! You're hilarious!"

The Jotunn laughed his lungs out, the entire Realm heard his laughter.

"Don't worry, little one. We won't force you to do a single thing in our behalf! Father knows what's better for us, and also you. Even if you say such things, he choose you for a reason." He said. "We don't want you to fight for our cause or something either. But if we can help you at beating those bastards, then we're all up for it." He smiled with a truly frightening grin.

"Alright then, that's enough for me. We're here too." I looked into the enormous tower made of ice.

"Yes, this is Skadi's Tower, she designed it for us." He said.

"Skadi... Wait, isn't she the Goddess of Ice?" I wondered.

"Not all Jotunn fell, some fought, others betrayed us, and some others remained neutral, related with faraway families. Skadi and her family are truly neutral, and had been recognized as forces of nature, Odin even allowed them to sit on his very hall." Laughed Fárbauti. "She designed this tower for us, and seems to want to protect our souls at the very least."

"She's also the one that created that damned crown..." I sighed.

"Crown?!" Fárbauti wondered. "Wait, that failed divine artifact of an eon ago?!"

"Most likely, someone else found it, an Ice Giant girl, and she has become a Calamity too, the Frost Queen." I sighed. "She's threatening the southern area of Midgard where I am living currently. I cannot allow her to continue. I will go after her."

"To think this has happened..." Sighed Fábauti. "Well, if you're going against a Calamity, you'll need as much power as necessary. Let's go inside."

We stepped inside the tower, which was big enough for even our enormous bodies to feel it was gigantic. We walked through an enormous stair leading up. In the way, we saw many statues of various ancient Jotunn, until we reached the top of the tower.

In there, the figure of a very old Jotunn stood, made completely out of ice, and holding in his hands a beautiful blue crystal. This was the Core of Jotunheim, the crystallization of everyone's souls' powers.

"So do I just touch it?" I asked.

"Go ahead." Fábauti said.

I stepped forward and touched the crystal. In seconds, I felt an enormous, and stronger Essene flowing into my very soul, making it very, very strong! Am I getting even more buffs now?!

Ding!

[You have successfully connected with the [Titan Records]!]

[Several new Undead Recipes have been unlocked!]

[You can now channel the power of the many Titan Souls within the [Titan Records]!]

[The Skill Shop has been updated with brand new [Privileges]!]

[[Privileges] are special Abilities within the Titan Records allowing the user for a further enhancement to all their capabilities. They're like passive skills that cannot grow stronger once acquired.]

[To obtain these Divine powers, spend System Points.]

[An Ancient Primordial Jotunn is glancing at you with a warm smile...]

[He gifts you the first [Privilege]: [Jotun's Might (B Rank Privilege)]!]

Chapter 677 A Titan's Authority

Ding!

[You have successfully connected with the [Titan Records]]!

[Several new Undead Recipes have been unlocked!]

[You can now channel the power of the many Titan Souls within the [Titan Records]]!

[The Skill Shop has been updated with brand new [Privileges]]!

[[Privileges] are special Abilities within the Titan Records allowing the user for a further enhancement to all their capabilities. They're like passive skills that cannot grow stronger once acquired.]

[To obtain these Divine powers, spend System Points.]

[An Ancient Primordial Jotunn is glancing at you with a warm smile...]

[He gifts you the first [Privilege]: [Jotun's Might (B Rank Privilege)]]

[Jotun's Might (B Rank Privilege)]

A Divine Power bestowed by the almighty Ymir. You can channel the Primordial powers of the Titan Records to obtain a small part of every soul within this Realm and enhance your Attack Stat with it, increasing it to a maximum amount of up to +1000%.

However, the higher the bonus to Attack Stat, the higher the cost of Mana. Overusing this power might inflict great harm in your soul, be careful!

Duration: 30 Minutes. Cooldown: 24 Hours.

"Oooh! These are pretty good!" I said happily. "I think I've finally channeled some of a Jotunn's power. Though it has a Cooldown of 24 hours?! Yikes..."

[The Power of Divine Privileges is incredible, and these types seem to rely on other powerful souls, so it was necessary to create them with cooldowns and durations, or you would risk the souls of those you're utilizing these powers from.]

I see, I see. I guess I cannot go completely crazy with these powers. I should check if I can get new ones later as well. I've accumulated a lot of System Points too.

"It appears you've attained something good." Fárbaudi seemed surprised. "As a gift of my patronage, here, I will give you a piece of my power as well."

Fárbauti suddenly extracted a fragment of his own soul and gifted it to me.

FLASH!

The soul flew instantly inside of my own, and then...

Ding!

[The Fallen Jotunn of [Fárbauti, the Cruel Striker] has decided to lend you a part of his Authority!]

[He gifts you the [Privilege]: [Fárbauti Cruel Strike (C Rank Privilege)]]

[Fárbauti Cruel Strike (C Rank Privilege)]

A Powerful Divine Privilege bestowed by nobody else than [Fárbauti, the Cruel Striker] upon a chosen one.

It allows for you to channel the power of his soul and summon his entire might in battle, forming a gigantic Axe made of Ice to strike down your foes with his Titanic Might!

Deals up to +700% Damage, ignores up to 30% of a foe's total defenses. Especially effective against Divine, Giant, and Calamity-type beings.

Duration: 15 Minutes. Cooldown: 12 Hours.

Ugh they all have terrible cooldowns! I guess they are like special moves, so I cannot really spam them as much as I would love to. They directly channel the power of the Jotunn souls as well, so it makes sense they need some time to rest, right?

"Amazing, I got another Privilege from you, Fárbauti!" I said happily.

"Privilege?" He wondered, not knowing the meaning of his name and power.

It seems this might be a unique power the system itself developed in response to this new and strange power coming from Jotunheim's Core and the Titan Records.

"Well, anyways, I hope you utilize my might well." He nodded. "Whenever you need help, call my name and I will be summoned as your weapon. Don't do it a lot of times though, or I'll get very tired and I will need to rest for a while."

"I see, thanks a lot again." I sighed, feeling a bit too grateful.

"Sadly, I cannot give you a divine protection. None of us except father have enough Divinity to be able to grant Divine Protections anymore." He sighed.

"Don't worry, this was plenty already!" I said.

"Very well then, how about you spend the rest of the night with us? Have you ever learned Axe Techniques? How about Brawling Techniques? We Jotunn have unique Brawling Techniques to teach you, and also Titan Magic, which calls forth the power of nature." Fárbauti said.

"Ooh! Alright! I am all up for it!" I said happily.

"Don't worry about spending mana here, this realm is like a big illusion as well, you won't need mana to bring out your powers, so practice your abilities to your heart's content." Fárbauti said.

"Amazing, I'll make sure to exploit this place a lot then, hehehe." I laughed rather evilly.

However, as I spent the rest of the night with many Jotunn, and learned new things, I began to think... Aren't I a Necromancer though? Could it be possible to bring these souls to the living world as my Undead?

Undead Jotunn would surely be incredibly powerful!

...But the moment I brought the topic, most Jotunn seemed to be unwilling, they all said I "wasn't ready" to do a Divine-level Necromancy yet, and that I also had to know them well first before they were going to gift me their power.

Alright then, I guess that plan can wait another millennium or something... sure, whatever!

Though, "Titan-type Undead" recipes are already unlocked in the Soul Grimoire, so perhaps I could get something like that in the near future, who knows.

Also I've got the whole [Goddess] Unique Skill which is still sealed. Also my Soul scape only grew around 50% after my evolution and is not near as ready to become a Divine Realm either, what a bummer.

But I can still feel it, I am getting really close to this power, Divinity.

I just have to keep leveling up and increasing the strength of my skills, and I will eventually reach that stage.

...I hope.

Though for now, I better appreciate every little moment I have with those I love.

And there's a bunch of other things I want to do other than fighting the Gods, such as finding my little brother and my aunt, visiting Emeraldine's village, travel to other continents, and more.

There's a whole world I want to see, I won't let these Gods get in the way of my dream of exploring it all.

Chapter 678 Odin's Machinations

678 Odin's Machinations

Within the Realm of Heaven, trouble was boiling as gods discussed.

"What do you mean, my King?! You truly... want this?!" A beautiful Jotunn with pale blue skin and long silver hair asked, her entire attire making her resemble a regal queen of ice and frost. Her sharp eyes, however, were filled with disbelief.

"I am merely asking you a small favor, Skadi." Sighed the God of Light.

"Skadi, is that the tone you should use against our King?!" The God of Lightning asked, in fury. His hammer thundering with powerful electric sparks.

Skadi, the Goddess of Frost and Ice, designated with supporting the world's element of Frost and even a part of the Element of Water. She regulated the temperatures of the world as well as a part of the seas.

Her standing amongst the gods was always of true neutrality, but things had suddenly changed now as she was suddenly being asked a ridiculous task by Odin himself.

"We all know that you've left a defective artifact behind. However, a dungeon ended showing up and opening that place you left behind. And now a mortal has taken that Crown and is utilizing it for evil purposes." Odin said. "Do you think we won't hold you accountable for such a thing?!"

"B-But this is...! I could had never expected a dungeon to appear in the pocket realm where I sealed that accursed item! In fact... It is very odd that it even showed up to begin with, I always thought someone else orchestrated it." Skadi argued.

"That is enough." Odin sighed. "I dislike pointing fingers at one another. We are all Gods here, are we not? So, I am merely asking you a small favor in exchange for forgiving your terrible mistake."

"But... using the artifact to enchant the powers of the Frost Queen and then sending divine messages telling her to ally your church... Why would I do something like that?! What sort of plan do you have, my King?" Asked Skadi, completely flabbergasted by the utterly maddening request the King of Gods asked her.

"As you know, we've failed to eliminate a really annoying pest, so we are thinking of better ways to do this without... You know, stepping up ourselves." Odin said with a smirk. "The 'Frost Queen' is already a Calamity, is she not? She has been building her forces for a while now. Don't you think she would be a great threat to my people? Therefore, I am giving you a chance to turn her into the side of goodness! Of righteousness! Let us use her gifted power to eliminate that monster, before it is too late, Skadi!"

Skadi couldn't believe that Odin was faking his act of selfishness and hypocrisy behind "doing something for the greater good". Although she had always held a neutral side, she always secretly cared more for the Jotunn and the mortals than the Gods themselves, finding in Maria's actions nothing wrong.

"(Forgive me, father, brothers...)" She muttered to herself.

14:21

"V-Very well... But in exchange, I ask you to spare my children, the Giants." Skadi said, her eyes sharp.

"What are you even considering? Helping us, the Gods, your allies, should be as natural as breathing for you, Skadi. We've forgiven the fact you're a Jotunn all these years and treated you equally." Thor sighed. "So please, just help us out, like the good ally you are."

"Skadi, I am awaiting your response." Odin said, his single eye glaring at Skadi with the brightness of the sun.

Skadi gritted her teeth, her flawless face distorting as she felt pained.

"(Forgive me, father, brothers...)" She muttered to herself.

"V-Very well... But in exchange, I ask you to spare my children, the Giants." Skadi said, her eyes sharp.

Odin smirked.

"Fine, they shall be spared." Laughed Odin. "Now, do as I said."

"Yes, my King..." Skadi submissively said, nodding and lowering her head.

She had no other option, she was strong, but not as powerful as Odin. She could only obey the King of Gods or risk all Aesir to hunt her down and simply assign a new God of Ice in her place.

Skadi had her own family as well, her own growing children, and a husband. To survive and live peacefully, for them as well as for the Giants in the surface, she decided to agree.

Her eyes closed, as her divine powers concentrated.

Within the southern area of Midgard, inside a deep dungeon where there was an enormous Frost Tower, a beautiful young girl wearing a crown and sitting over a throne of ice suddenly received an incredible power.

Ding!

[You have received {Skadi's Divine Protection}!]

[All your power is growing greatly due to the reaction of this divine protection with your abilities!]

"T-This power...!" She muttered. "Lady Skadi?! To think you would give me your amazing strength!"

[The Divine Being {Skadi, the Goddess of Ice and Frost} says that you must ally the Church of the Light God.]

[She says an army will soon come, grant them your power, and join their army with yours, and invade the Dwarven Country and the settlement of the "Accursed One" the Ghost named Maria.]

[You will be granted great rewards if you can manage to eliminate both threats.]

"Aahh! I was already planning that, milady! In fact, I am already beginning to do it! But allying the Church? Well, if you say so..." The Frost Queen laughed. "I will ally the annoying church, and then cover the entire world with an Eternal Winter..."

Her eyes filled with madness, as within her tower, she commanded her Frost Generals, incredibly strong beings she had Summoned utilizing her Divine Artifact possessing incredible powers.

A crystal ball emerged before her eyes, showcasing to her what was occurring in the outside world. An army of the Church of Light, led by a mysterious yet incredibly strong individual were nearing her dungeon's entrance, and meanwhile, in another place, faraway in the Ash Mountains, an enormous army of Monsters made of Ice and Frost walked, slowly nearing the Dwarven Country.

Commanding them there were two Frost Generals, a titanic being made of pure ice resembling a knight, and a beautiful Ice Elf woman wearing armor made of divine ice and holding a sharp ice spear.

"Frost, Zero, hurry up and get to them." She commanded them. "Lady Skadi herself has decided to grant us her divine powers!"

FLAAASH!

In seconds, she shared such power with her generals, as they felt their strength surging even more, their forms growing powerful and even evolving!

"Oooohoho! Yes, my Queen!" Laughed Zero, the Ice Elf Witch.

"It shall be a pleasure, your majesty." Frost said, the enormous Golem made of Ice in the shape of a titanic knight.

Their eyes quickly directed themselves towards the mountain peak, in the distance, the entrance to the Dwarven Country was growing closer...

Chapter 679 Growing Soul Scape

As I finally left the Titanic Records, I decided to wake up...

"Huh? Oh..."

However, instead of waking up, I found myself within my own Soul Scape. The expansive area had increased in size a lot more, although it still seemed rather empty... But I noticed that the red flowers and black flowers I had have increased in quantity by a lot, and there were also new ones.

I noticed some white-colored trees that resembled as if they were made up of bones. And also bound bushes with sharp thorns and purple roses growing over them. Lastly, I noticed a large silver moon shining on top of the lugubrious and gothic landscape.

The scenery was truly something else, it filled me with surprise and awe. The shining silver moon shone moonlight down into the empty landscape, as I noticed the birth of something else, a large flower started growing from there, reaching higher and higher altitudes.

It was a gigantic flower as big as the other trees themselves and absorbed the moonlight the silver moon emanated. Is this a new treasure alongside the bone trees?

Ding!

[Your Soul Scape has become stronger, and it is now flowing with great quantities of Spiritual Essence!]

[The Spirit Treasure: [Lugubrious Bone Trees (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 5)] has been born!]

[The Spirit Treasure: [Moon Gazing Giant Lily (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 5)] has been born!]

[The quantity and quality of the [Withering Trees of Death (Lesser Spirit Treasure)] [Red Flowers of Blood (Lesser Spirit Treasure)], [Purple Flowers of Poison (Lesser Spirit Treasure)], and [Black Flowers of Darkness (Lesser Spirit Treasure)] Spirit Treasures has increased greatly!]

Oh, now they have ranks as well! I see, let's check the old ones now. It seems they all Ranked up from their previous Ranks to Rank 6?

[Withering Trees of Death (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 6)]

A Lesser Spirit Treasure that contains the Element of Death. It resembles a withering tree with purple leaves. It is dry and can survive without water or sunlight. It might eventually evolve into something of incredible power.

Trees Quantity: 25

Enhances Death Attribute Power by +16000

Hastens Phantasmal Essence Recovery and Soul Regeneration by +16%

[Red Flowers of Blood (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 6)]

A Lesser Spirit Treasure made of many red-colored flowers resembling red roses containing the Element of Blood. As it evolves, its quantity multiplies.

Flowers Amount: 200

Enhances Blood Attribute Power by +16 with each Flower.

Blood Attribute Magic gains +1.6 Spirit Power with each Flower.

[Purple Flowers of Poison (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 6)]

A Lesser Spirit Treasure made of many purple-colored flowers resembling purple roses containing the Element of Poison. As it evolves, its quantity multiplies.

Flowers Amount: 200

Enhances Poison Attribute Power by +16 with each Flower.

Poison Attribute Magic gains +1.6 Spirit Power with each Flower.

[Black Flowers of Darkness (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 6)]

A Lesser Spirit Treasure made of many black-colored flowers resembling black roses containing the Element of Darkness. As it evolves, its quantity multiplies.

Flowers Amount: 200

Enhances Darkness Attribute Power by +16 with each Flower.

Darkness Attribute Magic gains +1.6 Spirit Power with each Flower.

It's true! And their bonuses also increased a lot. Woah this is convenient, alright. It seems that each Rank is like a level, but what's the max Rank? Maybe 10? Perhaps after reaching 10 something happens? Perhaps they will finally stop being Lesser and become... Mid? Or High!

I should just ask this to Tyr instead of trying to guess it though... Now, let's check the two new treasures, whose ranks are lower than the previous ones but still quite high anyways.

[Lugubrious Bone Trees (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 5)]

A Lesser Spirit Treasure made of the bones of the dead, it is dry and cold, and doesn't require any sunlight or nutrients in the soil to grow. It feeds on leftover mana, but it can grow the best when given miasma and souls.

Trees Quantity: 15

Enhances Skeleton-type Undead Stats by and Skill Power +5% with each Tree.

Enhances Death Attribute Power by +2500 with each Tree.

Hastens Phantasmal Essence Recovery and Soul Regeneration by +15%

Oh, this one is a weaker version of the Withering Tree, but it comes with the additional ability of enhancing the stats of my skeleton-type undead. Interesting! I guess my skellies are going to be even stronger now.

[Moon Gazing Giant Lily (Lesser Spirit Treasure: Rank 5)]

A Lesser Spirit Treasure in the form of a gigantic, purple-colored lily. It feeds exclusively on the moonlight emanated by the Silver Moon, and it harbors Moonlight Essence inside of its petals. Its roots naturally form a crystallized form of the leftover Moonlight Essence named Moon Crystals.

Flower Quantity: 1

Enhances Moonlight Attribute Power by +15000 with each Flower.

Grants +150 Moonlight Essence with each flower every day.

Hastens Moonlight Essence Absorption by +15%.

Produces 1 Moon Crystal Daily.

This one is just perfect! So this is why I am feeling like I am overflowing with Moonlight Essence as well! I can't believe something so good grew up inside of my Spirit Soul Scape already... Well, let's see...

"Tyr! Are you around here? Stop hiding!"

"UGH..."

Suddenly, a larger than I remember sphere of miasma with a single red eye showed up in front of me.

"There you are! My personal gardener!" I smiled happily back at him.

"I am not your personal gardener! I used to be a powerful God!" He angrily said.

"Well and you could probably become an even more powerful one once I revive you! So you better act gratefully for my efforts and work hard. Now Tyr, what's with the Ranks in the quality? Do you know their meaning?" I wondered.

"I can't believe you don't know something so basic... Then again, you used to be an insignificant mortal I guess." He sighed.

BONK!

I bonked his head for being disrespectful.

"Ouch! Okay, okay!" He cried. "So anyways, Spirit Treasures have Ranks, from 1 to 10!"

Chapter 680 Moon Crystals

"Every Spirit Treasure has Ranks from 1 to 10! If you can only see them now it means you've finally unlocked the ability to do so." He sighed. "They raise in Rank by tending to them, like a garden, give them their favorite fertilizer and stuff. Favorable conditions, and of course, spiritual energy. As you grow stronger they'll also rank up."

"I see... I guess that's where you enter, my personal graveyard gardener!" I laughed. "So what happens after Rank 10?"

"Sigh, can't you just guess?" He sighed.

I pointed my hand at my again, as if I was about to smack him.

"O-Okay! I'll tell you!" He cried. "Once it reaches Rank 10 it can evolve... There's Lesser Spirit Treasures, Mid Spirit Treasures, High Spirit Treasures, and Divine Spirit Treasures! So in total, you've gotta make them go through 40 Ranks! Pretty harsh."

"Huh, I see. So that's how it is..." I sighed. "Well for now, you'll begin working as a gardener because the only thing you do is napping. I'll give you the equipment and any other material needed to tend my garden, got it?"

"Ugh... Fine." Tyr sighed.

"Also collect me glower metals, tree branches, roots, and the moon crystals as well, I want them for alchemy and making items. They're invaluable good materials! The rings I made using them were already amazing." I said with a proud smile.

"Sure boss..." He sighed, floating away, and beginning to work.

After a few minutes, he filled a basket with items. Flower Petals, Withering Tree and Bone Tree branches and roots, and even the moon crystal. Nice! He's quite fast at work!

"Well done! Now continue with your gardener duties." I smiled.

"Yes ma'am..." He sighed.

As he flew away, I checked the Moon Crystal.

[Moon Crystal (B Grade)]

A special purple colored crystal produced by the Spirit Treasure Giant Moonlight Lilies through their roots. It is the pure crystallization of Moonlight Essence and contains the powerful and incredibly rare element of Moonlight.

Its high-quality grade and amazing amounts of spiritual essence and mana inside makes it a top-notch material for a variety of creations, from potions to equipment.

It also can be absorbed to gain +100 Moonlight Essence directly.

Interesting. I guess I could use these to make some potions of moonlight, maybe that could amplify the amount of given moonlight essence. Or even use them to make moonlight-powered equipment, weapons, armor, or a beautiful ring to increase my natural moonlight recovery!

Heh, if that's the case, I could just cover myself on these types of accessories and cheat the limitations with moonlight recovery enhancement items! I cannot do alchemy inside my soul scape so I would need to wake up for that. I think I could at least make ether earrings or another ring with this one crystal.

And if I use Darkness and Blood Rose Petals, Withering Tree Branches and Roots and the Bone Tree Branches and Roots too... Then I could certainly make an amazing accessory overflowing with power to replace the oldies I have.

I stored everything inside of my Inventory and then decided to leave Tyr here doing his thing. I saw him very happily working as a gardener, so everything's good.

As I woke up, I found myself surrounded by my lovers. They were all sleeping soundly over bed, and I didn't wanted to bother them so I quickly turned phantasmal and trespassed everything, landing in the room where Nyx was sleeping.

She was sleeping just as peacefully and nicely, so there were no problems here either. I reached an empty room and then I brought out the alchemy cauldron and various other materials, including many new ores and other items we found inside the dungeon, and I started putting them all inside the cauldron one after the other as it started boiling.

"Good thing I've brought some low rank rings, this one should be a good shape for it."

Creating a ring out of nowhere inside a cauldron is too hard to do, so using an already existing ring and fusing it with desirable materials to make the ring I want is way easier and decent shortcut that Elfina taught to me.

I added all the materials Tyr harvested for me and lastly the Moon Crystal, and started doing Synthesis, Mixing, and all the stuff related with it constantly, mixing all materials together beautifully.

Doing it alone always exhausted my mind a lot, but now that I've evolved into an S Rank entity, it seems rather easy! I guess even my mental fatigue has improved greatly. And now I was able to do this quite easily!

"{Synthesis}!"

FLAAAAASH!

All items converged into the ring I had put there, it was a simple Iron Ring that barely had any power within it, the more empty the base is, the more room for improvement there is, so it was perfect.

Ding!

[You have Synthesized [Selene's Moonlight Tear Ring (A++ Grade)] x1!]

[You gained 10000 Alchemy EXP!]

[You gained 5000000 EXP!]

[LEVEL UP!]

[Your Level has increased from Level 22 to Level 23!]

[All Your Stats have increased!]

[You earned System Points and Bonus Skill EXP!]

And there it was! My fantastic new creation. A beautiful purple-colored ring floating in midair emerged from the cauldron, as I quickly caught it. It had a shiny silver colored body with a bright, purple-colored moon crystal on top.

I had made sure to engrave several runes into the ring so it became very strong, and its bonus stats were on par with the other accessories I had made, the Draconic Miasmic Umbra Ring and Bracelet, which both helped me a lot in the Dungeon.

They had the amazing ability of absorbing Miasma and powering up from it, they also increased chaos attribute damage and even generated barriers to protect those wearing them from the dangerous miasma. A reason why everyone was safe inside of that radioactive dungeon until we managed to fully conquer it.

And this one ring was no exception, overflowing with moonlight power, and I had only used a single moon crystal at that! I wonder how far I could get if I collect a lot of them and make something even better. Maybe it is time to make an overhaul of my clothes and witch hat.