

A Ghost 741

Chapter 741 The Invasion's End & A Mysterious Egg

CRASH! CRASH! CRASH! CRASH!

Lucifer, Emeraldine, Partner, and Maria's Lightning Divine Body Ego all crushed into pieces several blue colored jewels scattered around the city, which were being hidden with high level Illusion Magic conjured by proficient Vampire Illusionist...

Which were crushed into puddles of flesh and blood on the floor right at the side of the shattered jewels. The moment these jewels were shattered, blue-colored portals leading to the interior of the Frost Queen's dungeon disappeared on the spot, and the Monsters coming out of them quickly stopped invading the area.

"Hmph, to think Vampires, the Church of Light, and the Frost Queen would all ally together one day..." Laughed Lucifer. "This unironically sounds like a joke."

"I'm assuming these jewels were the ones responsible for the Gates opening and leading to her dungeon, huh?" Partner wondered. "I guess this is why they arrived out of nowhere so fast."

"Indeed, Brunhild just sent me a telepathic message, she said she crushed a jewel in the mountain, this is where they came from back there too." Lucifer answered.

"And the Vampire Illusionist, specialized in mirages and illusions were used to hide these really well." Maria sighed. "This is ridiculous..."

"But didn't the Vampires wanted to kill the humans as well? What is even happening? Why are they joining up with the Church?" Emeraldine wondered.

"Isn't it obvious? When they all have an enemy in common, even the worse enemies will band up together to crush it." Maria sighed. "Especially when they've been here much longer than all of us ever did, and have conquered several areas of the continent, they've been in a fight for decades while we all showed up only some time ago, it's obvious who they'll prioritize to get out of the way while they're still weak, to not get any more headaches."

"But this will give us an excellent opportunity to crush all three of them at once as well." Partner giggled maliciously. "Isn't it, master?"

"Oh yeah, that's what I'm planning." Maria smiled, as her last body ego fused back with her other egos, and her true form finally reformed itself. "Phew! I've worked way too hard! Before anything, we really need a break. I'm starving too, literally! I've spent so much Mana and Soul Energy I need to eat to recover it!"

Phantasmal Stomach had the power to give Maria Mana and Soul Energy by eating and consuming food, the higher quality they were, the more nutritious they would be, so she quickly regrouped with everyone else and gathered all the food, packing it in her inventory.

Although eating was a priority, and also taking a small break as they regrouped with everyone else, meeting each other, and also mourning the passing of a brave ant took priority.

Once the people of the city came out, they all surrounded the corpse of Lancelot, as they threw flowers around him, the goblins had this way of mourning the death, which was slightly similar to how the rabbit kin did so.

"Lancelot..."

"H-He's dead?"

"No..."

"But how, isn't he an Undead?!"

"His soul... it was destroyed."

Although it didn't seem like that due to his appearance and other things, Lancelot spent a few months with everyone here. He worked as a hunter and guard of the city. And was rather nice despite his threatening appearance.

The children liked to climb over his spiky body, and he would often teach them how to treat the other Abyssal Ants well enough. He even had taken a small hobby, to sew. And he had sewed several hats and clothes to various Abyssal Ants so they could bear the cold better.

"Even when we prayed so much... Lancelot..."

"This isn't fair..."

"I-I remember teaching him how to sew... It was so weird back then, but over time I realized he had a rather gentle heart."

Maria looked at Lancelot as small tears flowed from her eyes.

She slowly carried him with her arms, his long arms and legs dragging along.

His lifeless body, now soulless.

However, as Maria carried him in silence to his grave, she suddenly felt something within Lancelot's abdomen.

It was swelled, and rather hard... He had something inside.

"Come to think of it, what was Lancelot's gender?" Wondered Maria internally.

She quickly placed Lancelot in the bed of flowers once more, and delicately, using some tools, she opened his abdomen.

What was inside surprised everyone...

It was an egg overflowing with mana... it was the mana of the people that prayed for them.

It all concentrated into this egg that had died with him, and somehow, kept it "alive".

"Lancelot was a female?" Wondered Partner, surprised.

"This egg..." Maria sighed, holding it and cleaning it. "Was this what he protected so much? He never told us..."

Maria felt a small heartbeat inside of that egg, it was alive, not an undead, it was completely alive. There wasn't much of an explanation of how this ever happened.

Many thought it was a miracle.

The egg had around the same size as a watermelon, and was completely white and slightly soft, like a giant boiled rice grain.

Maria quickly took out several coats and wrapped the egg with them, keeping it warm.

"We'll take care of your child, Lancelot." Maria sighed, as Lancelot was left underground, covered by flowers, dirt, and snow.

As Maria carried the egg to the castle, it somehow reacted with her own energy, and it slowly started to absorb her Mana...

"Huh? Is it something similar to Nyx?" She wondered.

"What's wrong?" Partner wondered. "Is the egg warm?"

FLAAASH!

And when Partner directly touched it, the egg reacted the most, mixing her absorbed powers with Maria inside, and then slowly beginning to rest as if nothing happened.

"This little egg... What did it do?" Partner wondered. "Well, whatever it happens, we'll take care of it! I'm even willing to raise it as my own kid."

"Haha, well, that's what we've been doing for a while now." Maria giggled for a bit, as the egg rested over a bed covered with cushions.

It glowed with a red and black aura, as the little baby ant inside started to slowly grow much more different than it originally would had been...

Chapter 742 New Class Change System

(Maria's POV)

Before I had arrived back home with Partner and everyone else, I had decided to change my Job, which now had evolved and had acquired a brand new form, Job Classes. Before arriving with everyone else in the Lightning Divine Ego Body and break the blue crystals, I had made sure to change Job Classes to maximize my growth, as Job Classes now have their own separate levels from my own Race Level.

[Class Change]

A Brand-New Ability within the Soul Grimoire, an upgraded and improved form of the Class Change Ability within the Class Change Crystals. It grants the ability to change into classes with different Grades and Ranks, gaining power from them. Once a certain Level with each Class is reached, it is possible to change Classes once more to a higher-Grade Class.

Subclasses are also available, and each Class and Subclass have their own corresponding Levels separate from the user's Race Level.

Classes and Subclasses are qualified through different Grades of Power:

[Normal] -> [Rare: ★] -> [Unique: ★★] -> [Mythical: ★★★] -> [Legendary: ★★★★] -> [Divine: ★★★★★] -> [???

According to this, Job Class and Subclasses have their own Grades of strength and so on, and they can constantly evolve while earning more Stars and increasing in their Grades of quality and power.

They're like a much better upgrade to Jobs, and I can also have both at the same time! Additionally, the System informed me that both the Job Class and Subclass share the same EXP Bar, so both will most likely just reach max level at the same time, facilitating the process even further.

Ding!

[You've decided to change your [Job] to a [Job Class] and a [Subclass]!]

Yeah, there were very few options, and the more expensive ones were obviously much more attractive than the cheaper ones. I mean, they're expensive for a reason, right?! Though I was hoping for hundreds of options, this ended giving me the ability to make a decision much faster.

[You learned the [Apprentice Blacksmith Recipe Book: Lv1] Skill!]

[You can now Change Job Class and Subclass to a greater and higher quality form!]

Oh, the Blade Skill evolved. I'll be using it very soon. I wish I could be happier and celebrate some more, but man, Lancelot's death really has me all bummed down.

Sigh... Well, let's get this done with.

<Job Class Options>

[Nightmarish Assassin: ★ (Rare Grade)] [Cost: 750.000 System Points]

[Mind Eating Witch: ★ (Rare Grade)] [Cost: 1.000.000 System Points]

[Metal Blacksmith: ★ (Rare Grade)] [Cost: 1.000.000 System Points]

[Runic Blacksmith: ★ (Rare Grade)] [Cost: 1.500.000 System Points]

Interesting, not much variety now, I guess now that I've chosen these two Class and Subclass, I'll only get evolutions or Rank Ups of them? I guess it slowly branches out into different ways of fighting and so on... Well, I'm guessing so.

Is picking the most expensive one always the right thing? Well, if I were a cheapskate I would pick the cheapest, but I've got System Points to spare right now. And to be honest, the Abyssal Berserker Class and the Runic Blacksmith Subclass seem the most appealing as well.

Ding!

[You've exchanged 3.000.000 System Points!]

[Your Job Class has Ranked Up to the [Abyssal Berserk: ★ (Rare Grade)] Job Class!]

[Your HP and Attack has increased by +50.000]

[Your Job Class has Ranked Up to the [Runic Blacksmith: ★ (Rare Grade)] Job Class!]

[Your Magic has increased by +30.000]

[All of your Crafting Related Skills have gained one Bonus Level.]

Oh wow, the Berserk Class doesn't give Defense Bonuses but the HP and Attack bonus is much higher this time! I feel so much stronger...

Chapter 743 Great Growth

After finishing my Job Class and Subclass Changing, I felt the bonus stats rushing across my body, strengthening it further and further, it was quite the amazing bonus. And I could get another once they reach Max Level, which went from 30 to 60 now.

The required level for Level 1 is.... 500k EXP, I guess it is still in the lower side of EXP requirements, I might reach Max Level fairly quickly if I defeat another S Rank foe, or two, maybe.

Also, I can even get new Skills once they reach max level, further helping my growth. Their System Point requirements are insanely high though, the cost being 1500000 each was rather crazy... But defeating S Rank foes gives tons of EXP anyways, so it is affordable.

And even more now, when that's the thing I'll be defeating the most from now on...

I looked at my stats now:

They had indeed increased a lot... So many Skills and so many Stats. Yet I was unable to use them to save the life of a friend that died in my arms.

I feel so frustrated...

"I'll make sure to take care of your child, Lancelot..." I sighed, looking at the egg resting above the pillows.

"Master? A-Are you alright?" Partner asked me at my side.

"Ah... Yeah." I sighed. "I'm alright."

Despite how much I said I was alright, I couldn't bring my face to smile at all.

I only felt the bitterness of defeat, even after our victory.

Odin, you'll pay for this.

With your life.

Chapter 744 The Frost Queen's Mighty Guardians

Within the top of the Frost Tower, the Frost Queen glanced into a large blue crystal ball as her entire army was completely overpowered by hundreds of giant black spiders, led by a little silver haired girl.

That girl... although she looked normal, emanated a powerful aura that could even rival her own. Her stats were so high she was already a Calamity. The Frost Queen, who had yet to fully awaken into one, squinted her eyes at the little girl, Arachne.

She also saw how Maria and her many servants defeated her strongest men, and even the heroes with the aid of Jonathan, the traitor and even Claw.

"Hmph, to think there were going to be traitors..." She said with an angered expression. "Unforgivable... These damned Humans can't even keep their dogs with a leash! It took Claw to die and become an Undead, but that hero was more than alive and immediately betrayed us!"

"It seems that at the end, Humans are not worth our trust, my queen." The voice echoing from behind the Frost Queen said, its shadow resembling a gigantic, scaled behemoth.

"I never had total trust to them, they're despicable humans after all." She sighed. "But for now, it would be better to continue our alliance with them and the vampires, until we can get rid of Maria and her damned army of undead... Are you not saddened your brother was slain?"

"I am." The voice sighed. "But it is not as if I can do anything now. Once the time comes, I shall avenge my foolish young brother..."

"Huh... They shattered the dimension stones leading to our dungeon." Sighed another figure in the hall. "The invasion was abruptly stopped... My queen, do you think...?"

"Well, if they ever dare step into our dungeon, they'll be stepping into the tiger's den." The Frost Queen laughed. "I'll happily receive them, with my open arms! Hahaha... HAHAAAAHA! Let's see if you're so bold, Maria!"

"To walk straight into the tiger's den..." Sighed another larger figure. "I suppose that is what that woman likes to do the most..." It said, with its glowing red eyes.

"Vampire, tell me more about her." The Frost Queen said. "I need to learn more about that ghost before I kill her, to make things more interesting."

"Heh, your confidence knows no bounds, Frost Queen." The Vampiress laughed, her red eyes glowing beneath a mask.

(Maria's POV)

I woke up the next morning much more refreshed. Overusing my powers really tired out my soul, even after leveling up like crazy yesterday. Ugh, there was a lot to explain and process. Last night I spent a few hours explaining to everyone who Jonathan was, and also about the memories I've regained. I think you should take a look at

Although I regained many memories of my life as the living Maria, they were only those that were connected to Jonathan. I think I might be able to get the other half of my memories if I ever meet my little brother, who I hope is still alive in the other side of the continent, within the Confederation of Goldsand.

Partner and Lucifer didn't really like him one bit, and were saying that it would be unfair to give him any sort of privileges because I only remembered who he was just now... And that he had attacked us first before allying us.

Jonathan wasn't cocky at all, and bowed his head while asking for forgiveness, acting very compromised on helping us in everything without even arguing back... This actually only made those two even madder, but ultimately, they calmed down.

I think they were just jealous of my past with him... Emeraldine seemed mostly neutral about the whole situation and was the first one to have accepted Jonathan rather fast as a new ally. Nyx didn't like him and hissed at him though, showing her fangs, probably because her daddy didn't like him, so she just follows her father's actions, and the twins were just nice with him out of manners but were still suspicious.

I trust him, but I guess it'll take some time for everyone else to trust him. At the moment, our priority was repairing the ruins which had been slightly destroyed due to the battles... Ah right, and little Arachne.

She got along with everyone really quickly, I was shocked when she showed up, but she said that Hel had told her to come protect me and my people, and she happily did so because of the bond we created over many months since I've visited her dungeon using a tiny familiar.

She never left my side though, and Nyx was getting slightly jealous because Arachne was very clingy, actually, right now, she's sleeping with me and hugging me tightly... And her hug is very strong too, she has... insanely high stats.

"Arachne~" I called her softly. "It is morning already, time to wake up."

"Muhh..." Arachne slowly opened her eyes, suddenly, I felt her presence growing larger... her forehead suddenly grew six more red colored eyes, resembling those of a spider, and in her back, spider-like legs began moving around, scratching her shoulder or her back, and then quickly retracting back.

I-I wonder if this little girl form is really her true body... If she's truly the Queen of the Arachneia, which are just giant spiders, I'm guessing she's actually a giant spider herself, right?

I gave her a head pat and a kiss in her forehead, and then she slowly opened her eyes.

"Mama..." She said. "Morning? I want to sleep... some more."

"Really? Are you tired, dear?" I asked her gently.

"Nn." She nodded gently.

Perhaps overusing her powers exhaust her? She's still growing after all. The reason the Arachneia had her so sheltered most likely is because of this condition she has.

Seeing her status, I can't find anything like that, but it might be some sort of curse, or disease she was born with that makes her become exhausted very quickly, so she needs to sleep a lot.

Chapter 745 The Clingy Little Arachne

Arachne was really clingy, but I had to move on and do stuff myself! I'll just leave her sleeping if she wants to sleep so badly anyways.

"Alright, you can sleep some more then." I said, leaving the bed. However, her spider-like legs grabbed me from behind and pulled me back to the bed.

POOF!

She was so strong I couldn't even resist!

"Stay..." She cried. "I want to hug mama while sleeping..."

"O-Oh..." I Sighed. "Well..."

She was really winning me now; my motherly instincts were exploding! However, her strength was also a bit terrifying! But the combination created a rather unique charm.

"Fine, I'll stay at your side." I sighed. "You can cuddle with mama as much as you want."

"Mm~ Mama, mama..." She said, rubbing her face on my chest and closing her eyes, dozing off quickly after. She was such an angel.

Of course, I only left an Ego Body with her, my Swarm Body has the best affinity with her.

Meanwhile, I flew off my bed, nobody else was here, seems like Partner, Emeraldine, and Lucifer woke up earlier.

As I flew outside the castle, I noticed what was the noise coming from.

Mostly all my citizens were working hard, carrying rubble, and repairing the houses that were destroyed.

Lucifer, Partner, and Emeraldine were helping in everything they could, directing the entire reconstruction process.

I also... surprisingly noticed a few other people, dwarves.

Not only just the twins and Darfu, but there were also Helga and her whole crew, and even a few more dozens of them.

Their strength and unified effort made the reconstruction and cleaning of rubble much faster and smoother.

I also noticed the twins and Darfu discussing with Helga's husband about the creation of a Barrier Jewel, the Barrier Stones and other precious Ores piled up at their side.

Jonathan was putting all his effort into carrying the rubble, bringing out of the city several gigantic pieces nobody could lift aside from Partner and Lucifer.

"Woah, you guys are really working hard today!" I said in surprise.

"Oh, Maria! You're awake at last!" Helga said.

"Helga!" I said happily. "You came to help?"

"Of course I did! It is the least I can do for my friend." Helga said pridefully. "My husband also wanted to help you make the barrier jewel, so I brought him along."

"But your city..." I said.

"Nah, don't worry about it! We've got that covered, many other people are already working hard there, but there was nobody here, so we were allowed to come." Said Helga. "Brunhild stayed there but said she'll come back soon."

"I see... Thank you so much everyone." I sighed in relief, looking at all the familiar dwarven faces.

"No problem lady!"

"We're here to help like always!"

"You've made us rich with that dungeon exploration and then the ores we mined, so it's the least we could have done."

"Yeah, leave it to us!"

They were all cheerful, the atmosphere quickly changed. Despite the tragedy of yesterday, I saw many people walking around, working hard, and talking. I even saw children playing around, the twins and Nyx included.

"You've slept a bit too much." Laughed Jonathan. "Did you rest well?" He walked to my side. I think you should take a look at

"Oh, Jonathan! Thank you so much for helping as well." I said.

He blushed a bit as he saw my smile.

"I-It is nothing." He said. "It's the least I could ever do for you and these people, Maria."

He gently held my hand.

"I want to slowly earn their trust, bit by bit." He said with a gentle smile. "And of course, I also want to earn back the love we once had for each other."

"Well, we'll see about that." I giggled, feeling slightly flattered. "For now, I'll be watching over you then. I'll prepare lunch too."

"That'll be wonderful, I've missed the delicious stews you used to make." He said, quickly going back to work.

"Ah, Maria." Lucifer descended from the skies, as he was repairing the walls "Are you feeling alright? Last night you almost collapsed out of exhaustion."

"Yeah..." Partner said, walking at my side. "We were concerned so we left you sleeping with the little spider brat that didn't let go of you..."

"We tried dragging her out but she wouldn't let go of you." Lucifer sighed.

"She hissed at us sometimes..." Partner said, slightly angry.

"E-Eh? Please don't provoke Arachne, she's actually just someone that wants attention and love." I sighed, facepalming. "And she's a great ally as well, I wouldn't want her to hold a grudge against you. You better apologize after this, okay?"

"Eeeh? Apologize to that brat?" Partner was slightly surprised.

"You'll surely do it for me, right?" I asked with a slightly menacing smile.

"A-Ah, fine..." Partner crossed her arms.

"Ah, dear! You're awake?" Emeraldine ran to my side, with a cute smile. Compared to these two grumpy ones, she was my angel.

"Of course." I said, as she hugged me and gave me a kiss. "I am making breakfast, let's go eat together."

"Sure!" I said happily, grinning back at Partner and Lucifer.

The two looked at me in shock.

"W-Wait, I want to eat breakfast with Master too! S-She's also my dear!" Partner ran behind me.

"D-Don't forget about me." Lucifer said.

Like that, we enjoyed a delicious breakfast of frost monsters bacon, there were snake meat, wolf meat, polar bear meat, scrambled eggs, toasts, and coffee all from the dwarven country.

My children also joined in the meal, and I grew slightly concerned about Arachne not eating anything, so I carried her along and made her sit at our side as we ate at the castle's dining halls.

She yawned, while looking at the eggs. She was accustomed to eating bugs and other critters like a spider, but she had a mouth to eat normally as well.

"Nom... Hmm... Oooh! Tasty!" She gave it a try and immediately loved the eggs with bacon. "Nom, nom, nom~!"

"Mama, who's she?" Nyx asked me while jealously glaring at Arachne... She didn't liked how Arachne was sitting on my legs.

"S-She's your new sister!" I said with a forced smile.

"Hmph!" Nyx said, pouting.

"Hmm..." Arachne glared her back.

The aura of two little Calamities clashing against one another was... not something good for breakfast.

Chapter 746 The Aftermath

"Please Nyx be nicer with her... Arachne, you too." I sighed.

"Who's she?" Arachne asked, pointing at Nyx with a big spider leg protruding off her back.

"She's my dragon daughter, Nyx... Her father is Lucifer over there." I said, as Arachne glanced at Lucifer eating a sandwich.

"I am also daughter... No?" She asked, giving me puppy eyes.

"O-Of course you are!" I said with a giggle, giving her a head pat. "You're welcome to our family, thanks a lot for saving us yesterday as well..."

"Nn! Hel said I should help." Arachne nodded. "But I helped because I wanted to, not because she said so."

Oh, so she just did it because she learned we were in danger, not because it was Hel's orders? I suppose she's actually even nicer than I thought...

"Welcome to the family then, Arachne." Said Emeraldine. "The other Arachneia are getting along just fine with everyone else."

"I saw them digging around the walls..." Said Lucifer. "What were they doing?"

"They will make me a fitting nest to rest." Arachne said, with an aura of royalty. "Arachneia are family, but also servants. They do whatever I ask them."

"I guess a nest with them underground would be nice, so they can find their own place." I said with a smile. "O-Of course, we'll have to clean them so they don't end up giving out any infections."

"Yes, please." Syllis nodded.

"Arachneia..." Bellerine began to remember something. "Brother, weren't those the spiders that made us all sick with a disease-"

Syllis quickly covered her mouth and silenced her.

Arachne glared at the two with her expressionless face.

"Sorry about that." She suddenly apologized. "I was... not aware. That we were hurting mama's friends. We won't hurt you anymore."

"A-Ah, she apologized..." Syllis was surprised. "Don't worry! It's alright now."

Well, at least we've got that out of the way...

"Things have gotten much lively here, huh?" Tyr appeared at my side. "Though, I am guessing you're not going to take too long of a break, aren't you?"

"Of course not." I sighed. "But allow me to relax for a bit before we strike back..."

"Hmph, Odin is trying to watch over us as of now..." Tyr said.

"Huh?! You can tell?" I asked.

"For a while now..." Tyr's big red eye squinted. "But he can't directly glance at you nor your territory. To his eyes, it is as if a dark mist covered everything. This is the effect of Hel's Divine Protection. There are many here that hold it now, so the effects of concealment are much stronger than before. A descent like Thor did might not be possible anymore... for now." I think you should take a look at

"Phew, that's a relief then." I sighed. "Though I wouldn't mind having more of those Gods for breakfast... Especially as I am not, he can come any time." I smiled.

"You're being a bit too bold, but it's not like I dislike that." Tyr laughed. "My dear little brother is indeed someone that deserves such a fate... More importantly though, what do you plan on doing now?"

"I was going to ask the same..." Lucifer said.

"Me too." Partner nodded.

"And me as well." Emeraldine added.

"Ah, of course, I would gladly follow anything you said, so I was curious too." Jonathan added.

I guess all four of them were really concerned about my future plans.

"We'll take another day, or two to repair and reinforce the city's defenses, and also to unfreeze the people from the icicles around the city using Brunhild's flames. After that... We'll move straight to the Frost Queen's dungeon and end her little game. Afterwards, I was planning on striking the Empire of Light. Though, we might need to do a few other things beforehand, to grow stronger and also explore a few places I want to visit."

"Oh, the Albraun Kingdom's Meeting between Dukes and Royals is coming closer as well." I added. "I guess we'll be doing that beforehand as well..."

"T-That's... Striking the Empire of Light? Is that something we could even do?" Helga asked.

"I like it, I'm in." Partner smiled. "We'll crush them all! Like this, Odin won't have any more mortals to ask for help."

"Yeah, and once we're done with that, we might travel the world and find the strength to kill him." I said with a smile. "And that's all my plan so far! Haha..."

"T-That was really brief for something that sounds like an incredibly insane feat..." Emeraldine sighed. "I am worried but... Hahh~ We've come very far already, I guess we might as well..."

"Hmm, we shall do that then, Maria." Lucifer agreed immediately. "That Empire will fall... And so the gods."

"I'm in as well, even if it sounds crazy... The sooner we do this, the better, to be honest. Like that, we could also... well, help save my family." Jonathan sighed. "Sorry for being selfish in that regard..."

"Your family?" Asked Partner.

"Yeah, Jonathan's family is being held hostage by the Empire of Light." I said. "It is the reason why he was being forced to serve them even after what they did to me."

"And even then, you still betrayed them..." Lucifer said. "Your family could get executed any time now..."

"I know..." Jonathan sighed; his face filled with frustration. "Yet, I cannot regret my decision. I did this for everyone here and Maria... I won't go back on my word anymore, even if... my family..."

"We won't let that happen." I said, glancing at his eyes. "They're most likely still alive, after all, because Odin can't learn what's happening here and nobody else of the church survived to go back, nobody knows if you won or lost, maybe the Frost Queen, but I doubt she'll tell this information to her own enemies. And she has no idea of your family either."

"Maria..." Jonathan looked at me as if he was given a slight amount of hope.

For a hero like him, even this was necessary. I didn't even know if what I was saying was really the truth but... I need to raise his morale; we'll need his strength.

Chapter 747 Unfreezing The Demons

"I know you're not sure about this either, but I appreciate your words." He said.

Ah, he read right through me!

"No matter what... Even if the worst happens, I'll remain at your side and help you." He said once more, putting his hand on his heart. "Your matters take priority over my family, don't worry."

Oh my god, he's really compromised into this!

Actually, you don't need to be so self-sacrificing, it's making me look like a bad woman...

"N-No, dear, please, calm down. We'll go find your family as soon as we can after the Frost Queen is dealt with, alright?" I said. "Don't be so self-sacrificing... You're making me look like the bad person here, gosh..."

"Ahahaha! Sorry..." He laughed cheerfully. "I missed that side of you."

"Side?" I asked.

"That although you always try to look tough in the outside, you're actually a very nice, and heartwarming person in the inside." He smiled charmingly.

Oh god, he's killing me!

He might truly become my second husband...

However, Partner and Lucifer were glaring at him while furrowing their eyebrows.

Emeraldine seemed to be enchanted by his romantic way to talk to me though, as if she was reading some sort of romance novel.

"So cute... You two make a cute pair." She said with a giggle.

"N-Not at all! Don't think we'll accept you any time soon, blondie!" Said Partner.

"Yeah! Don't you dare flirt with my wife like that in front of me if you don't want me to burn you into ashes!" Lucifer roared, showing his fangs.

"A-Ah! I apologize!" Jonathan lowered his head and hit the table with his forehead so hard the table cracked...

CRASH!

"C-Come on you two, you don't need to be so rude." I sighed. "Jonathan, don't do that again either, the table's not to break."

"Sorry." Jonathan apologized again.

I guess Jonathan will have to earn their trust some more before they'll even allow him to get any closer to me... Haha.

"Graaaarrr!" Nyx hissed at Jonathan while sitting in her father's legs. "RAARGH!"

"Yeah, that's right! Roar at him, Nyx!" Lucifer incentivized her.

However, I could tell Jonathan found her rather cute than intimidating, as he was giggling a bit.

"Hahaha, all of you are much nicer and funnier than I imagined..." He said with a charming smile.

"W-What?! You dare look down on my provocations?" Lucifer said angrily.

"Oi, calm down." I glared back at Lucifer, as my eyes pierced his soul. "No more screaming in front of the table while having breakfast."

"A-Ah..." He quickly sat down. "Ugh, okay... Sorry."

"Anyways, for now, let's concentrate in what we can do right now." I said with a nod.

Like that, once we were over with breakfast, we moved to our next important task, unfreezing the people inside the icicles and pieces of ice scattered around the city. I think you should take a look at

These were the small group of survivors of this ruined city that was once the home of the Demon King, and of course, they were all Majin, some looked stronger than others.

Using Jonathan and Lucifer's help, we gathered everyone together in a single area right behind the castle. Lucifer looked at these people with a bit of sorrow, but also hope.

He actually didn't know any of them, yet he knew they were all the surviving descendants of his past friends.

"Alright, let's get this over with." I smiled, taking out the jewel where Brunhild's flame was and releasing it into the ice.

FLAAAASH!

The flames spread, growing bigger and shining with divine, golden light. They spread across all the ice and began melting it smoothly. Seconds went by quickly, and so did minutes. It was a slow process, it took a few hours to begin seeing some people's half being unfrozen.

And then their other half two hours later. Slowly yet steadily, until it was finally over. They had been frozen for so long that they immediately opened their eyes as they were unfrozen completely, as if the curse spread through their entire bodies until every bit of ice was melted.

"W-What?!"

"Eh? Aaah!"

"What's... Eh?"

"Huh?! W-What the...?"

"Mom! Mom?"

"T-This is..."

"My King, watch out- Ah! What is this?"

"It seems... we've been finally unfrozen, Gustaf."

Among the many unfrozen Majin, which were around seventy, a figure among them stood out, a young Majin with blue skin and a single black horn growing at the left side of his head, and sharp red eyes accompanied by purple hair.

The aura he emanated seemed to have a promising, hidden potential, but he had yet to actually awaken his strength... and those at his side seemed to be his protectors, several knights, especially a burly, muscular guy with stone covering his skin, who he named Gustaf.

"Welcome." I said with a smile. "You've been frozen perhaps... for hundreds of years. It has truly taken a long while, but we've managed to unfreeze you using the divine flames of a divine dragon."

"Ooh... W-What happened here?"

"Our city... it is all on ruins..."

"Everything..."

"Who are these people?"

"We've been frozen... for hundreds of years?"

Although the people started to panic and questioning us, some even angered at us for having taken away their place, who I assumed was their young King, stepped forwards and talked to his people.

"Calm down, everyone." He said. "These people mean no harm. If they did, we wouldn't be here, breathing and talking. Let us first hear what they have to say before judging our saviors."

The people doubted a bit but trusted the young Majin's words.

"I apologize on behalf of my people. We've survived many things together, but never something like this... As the last survivors of the once glorious Demon Kingdom, we are not many, but we are united as one big family." He said. "It is nice to see you, my name is Hermes, I am the current King of this small, decaying Kingdom. A descendant of the Ancient Demon King."

"So you're really his descendant... You do look like him, hahah..." Lucifer laughed, as he suddenly started crying. And then, he ran towards the boy, and hugged him.

Chapter 748 The Young Demon King

"W-Why are you hugging the King?! Leave him alone!" Gustaf roared, trying to drag Lucifer away but he couldn't even drag him, he was too strong for this muscle head to even touch him. "Gaaah! He's too strong! My king! MY KIIINNNGGGGGG...!"

"Shut up for once Gustaf." Sighed a Majin lady appearing at his side, with red skin, long silver hair, and two black horns growing atop her head, she even had a pointy demon-like tail. "He's merely hugging our king, maybe he knew him from somewhere?"

"I-I don't even know this man..." Hermes said. "Err, w-who are you, sir?"

"Ah!" Lucifer quickly moved away from the young Hermes. "Sorry about that... I... Well, I was a very close friend of your ancestor, the Demon King."

"My... ancestor? You?" Asked Hermes.

"Don't talk nonsense, the Demon King lived thousands of years in the past!" Gustaf said.

"Yeah, I know." Lucifer laughed. "I am thousands of years old, actually I've already lost the count of how old I am..."

"EH?!"

All Majin reacted the same, they were a big family as Hermes said, even their exaggerated reactions were done together as a group.

"He's Lucifer." I said. "Does that name remind you of someone?"

"Lucifer...?" Asked Gustaf.

"Hmm, that name... It does sounds like the name of- Wait a second." The red skinned Majin lady said.

Hermes looked at his two retainers with his eyes wide open.

"Y-You're Lucifer, the Ancient Dragon King?!" He asked.

"Yeah, well, this is my humanoid form." Lucifer laughed. "Here, take a look at my true form."

TRUUUUUMMM...!

Lucifer transformed, as black lightning sparks released everywhere, a sudden explosion of darkness which gathered into the skies emerged, and then, his gigantic body surged from within...

All Majin opened their eyes wide open, and so their jaws. For us this was already commonplace, but for them it must be incredible.

"The King of Dragons lives!"

"He is the Demon King's best friend..."

"I can't believe it!"

"But didn't the tales said he was ambushed and killed by the powerful Ancient Heroes of old in the Albraun Kingdom?" I think you should take a look at

"How is he alive now? Were the tales a lie?"

"They weren't." I said with a smile. "I am a Necromancer, so I revived him as an Undead, I once found him inside a Dungeon, he had evolved and grown much stronger since then, to the point he became a dragon between life and death, a Death Dragon King."

"A-Amazing..." Hermes said. "You're such a powerful Necromancer to do this- And everyone else here... That woman is a Vampire, right? And then the elf as well! I-I... your auras are so powerful..."

Hermes' red eyes shone brightly every time he took a glance at us, a small analysis into his status revealed to me that he had the Demon Eyes of Analysis, which allowed him to see a part of the stats and skills of a target. It is something similar to Appraisal.

"If Hermes says so..." The red-skinned lady said. "Ah, sorry for not introducing myself, I am Lord Hermes' Knightess, Cecilia. If you have already noticed on my gorgeous red skin, I am a Red Devil Tribe Majin~ I might also become his future wife, hehe."

"Don't go saying such disrespectful things, Cecilia!" The big guy said. "And... Ahem! I am Gustaf Von Vanguard; I am part of the Ancient Golem Devil Tribe. As you can see, I am slightly different than other Majin due to my skin being covered in rock and stone, but rest assured, I shall only use this strength and defensive power to defend my liege."

"I see! Nice to meet you, everyone!" I said. "I am Maria, I used to be a Sorceress that was unjustly executed, and became a Ghost since then." I said, suddenly grabbing my own head and taking it out of my body to show them my ghostly powers.

"W-Whaaat?!" Everyone reacted in horror.

"I-I was horrified for a moment." Cecilia admitted.

"I-Impressive! So Lady Maria is a ghost?! An Undead monster that talks like a person!" Gustaf said.

"Haha, I have heard tales that in the Demon Kingdom of old, there were also many Undead among the other people, they were beings that served the Demon King's wife, an Ancient Sorceress and Necromancer, one of my ancestors as well." Hermes said.

"Indeed." Lucifer said, appearing once more on his humanoid side. "Maria has always reminded me of her, the ancient and slightly playful sorceress necromancer, and queen of the demons, Queen Everdeath."

"Oh yeah, you've mentioned her a few times." I said. "How was she?"

"Slightly creepy, sometimes too much." Lucifer sighed. "But she was a good woman... I miss her as much as I miss everyone else... But I can tell, her Demon Eyes of Analysis have been inherited by you, young Hermes."

"A-Ahahah, so you saw right through me, Lord Lucifer." Laughed Hermes.

"For now, I am sure all of you have tons of questions." I said. "But how about having a meal, a warm bath, and then changing to new clothes first? I've already prepared new houses for everyone to stay, and of course, Hermes and his retainers can live inside the castle."

"Thank you so much for your hospitality." Hermes thanked us. "I would gladly have a warm meal, I am freezing..."

"Very well! It is already time for lunch anyways." I said. "Emeraldine, Partner, let's make a nice stew for everyone while they get along."

Like that, we had a nice and relaxing evening where we updated the Demon King and everyone else that had woken up from their frozen states about everything over time, introducing new people to them, and what has happened with us so far.

"I see... The Frost Queen was the one that froze us." Said Hermes. "We never held any grudge against her at all, nor we ever fought, but she had been freezing other villages of people around the continent in those times, she was on a frenzy for power and to take over land... It seems that she had calmed down lately, only to go all-out once more. If we can help in anything, we would gladly aid you in defeating her."

It seems that she had calmed down lately, only to go all-out once more. If we can help in anything, we would gladly aid you in defeating her."

Chapter 750 Emeraldine's Evolution

The next morning, I ended waking up to some more surprises, one of them was my beloved Emeraldine, who had been sleeping peacefully, evolved. She probably hasn't realized it because she's been sleeping all morning, but now... Yeah, she had fairy wings!

And her hair was so sparkly and golden it looked as if it was made of pure golden threads. To make things even incredible, the many scars she couldn't heal around her body, which come from her time as a slave were all healed, and her skin looked pristine, like porcelain.

In her left hand, she had a small green colored tattoo with the shape of a growing tree, extending its roots down below, it glowed with a great deal of magical power. And of course, her two Spirits, the Spirit of Light and the Spirit of Nature, evolved with her, becoming bigger and now having slightly humanoid shapes.

"Master has evolved..."

"So pristine and shiny!"

And they could speak as well! Their voices sounded like two little children, I couldn't really tell if they were boy or girls, or anything in between, but Spirits are usually genderless.

"W-Wait a second, you guys can speak?" I wondered in surprise.

"Oh? You can hear us speak now?" Wondered the Spirit of Light. "I suppose it means we've evolved to the point we can freely speak even to those unworthy."

"Hmmm~" The Spirit of Nature glanced at me with their shiny green eyes. "I've never been too fond of you."

And that's all they said to me... Wow, rude!

"T-That's... Well, I guess it is due to my elements." I sighed. "Makes sense..."

"Whenever you're around our master, we smell your nasty darkness and death... Uegh." Sighed the Spirit of Light.

"And that poison and chaos... very nasty and disgusting." The Spirit of Nature sighed. "I can't believe our Master loves you so much..."

"O-Oi! Do you have to be so rude?! This is who I am at the end!" I sighed, crossing my arms.

Thankfully, Arachne had woken up early today and felt much more energetic, and seemingly went to help her spiders dig underground. Meanwhile, Lucifer and Partner were outside working, so I could speak openly.

"But... Well, you've started to smell better now." Said the Spirit of Light.

"Hmmm~" The Spirit of Nature suddenly sniffed me. "It smells nicer now, there's... Moonlight, such a mystical and ancient element... Divine even. So good."

"And divine lightning as well, it is rather nice." Said the Spirit of Light.

The two suddenly started flying around me and beginning to caress my face and hair.

"You're more acceptable now, alright." The Spirit of Light nodded.

"Hmm~!" The Spirit of Nature smiled. "It's alright now."

"Um... Thank you I guess." I shrugged. "Anyways, it will be a bit annoying hearing you all the time, that's something I'll have to get used to now... Ah, let's check Emeraldine's status now."

[Divine Protection]: [Yggdrasil's Divine Protection]

And there she was... Her entire Status was amazing, as expected. Not only she attained S Rank, but she evolved into a named race as well, named "Artemis", like the Huntress Goddess herself! All of her Skills became even stronger, and she acquired a ridiculously large quantity of new Skills as well.

Above all, her Title Skills look pretty amazing, she even has- Huh? She has "Beloved Wife" and "Motherly Wife" Titles?! That's not something Partner has! ...I better not reveal to her this information. She even has the "Comforter" Title, well, I do like to be comforted by her love and hugs, so maybe that's it...

And she attained the Divine Protection of nobody else than this world?! Well, The Yggdrasil Tree is where this world draws its name, I guess it is not the whole world, but just an incredibly powerful divine entity that is akin to Gods.

To think the Yggdrasil Tree would bless my beloved Emeraldine... I am honestly very surprised, but well, it is Emeraldine, there's nobody more fitting for such a Title than her in this entire world.

She acquired Yggdrasil's Crest, and even Yggdrasil Magic, which seem rather interesting. I wonder if this new magic will make Emeraldine even more overpowered.

"Hm? What is going on- UWAAAH?!" Emeraldine instantly noticed her big, butterfly-like golden and green colored wings. "W-What is this?! W-Wings?! I am a bug now?!"
