

A Ghost 911

Chapter 911 Eating With The Family

This time we decided to make a big feast, with the help of Nia, Emeraldine, Partner, Catarina, Lucifer, and even Jonathan, we started preparing all sorts of dishes, much more than just some bacon and eggs.

I decided to make a delicious pizza, and some empanadas too because I felt like it. Emeraldine started baking a strawberry cheesecake alongside it, Partner made grilled and roasted meat of all kinds, Lucifer prepared noodles and a tasty sauce, Jonathan made fruit salad, milkshakes, and other things with the help of Tear's magic, Catarina butchered any of the thousands of beasts stored in my inventory to make them into tasty food.

Overall my adventure we've hunted all sorts of creatures, and they get well stored inside my inventory, never rotting or something, so we always have fresh meat! Although I had once emptied my reserves because I had to feed my village, now that they're much more self-sustainable thanks to all the cows, sheep, and pigs the Dwarves gifted to us, alongside the greenhouse we built for crops, I've been able to save a lot of meat and other ingredients again.

And because we fought thousands of Frost Monsters when Tear was evil, we've got meat for an eternity! Frost Monsters weren't just made of ice either, they were Frost Wolves, Winter Snakes, and even Blizzard Crows, among many other creatures.

And well, they were all meaty... I left several of them stored back in my village for everyone to take, but the biggest haul is always carried in my inventory!

And the stronger the monsters, the tastier their meat is and the more Mana they recover! I made sure to cut the meat in different ways, and I've also got a lot of curated meat, some salami too, chorizo, sausages, all I could ever think of!

I made several delicious pizzas with that and a lot of the cheese I brought back in the Dwarven Kingdom, the smell of them coming out from the oven I had inside my shadow realm was enchanting.

There were also meat and cheese empanadas, and the cakes Emeraldine made on the get-go, filled with tasty fruit. Her cheesecakes were amazing too.

With so many delicious meals, we couldn't stop feasting and celebrating just being alive and having survived that with everyone.

Laughing, joking, and more... We couldn't really be serious right now, we really just needed a time like this to sit back and enjoy what's beautiful in life, even knowing that there will be once more grim times.

"Anyways, I was wondering, is Violet okay?" Lucifer asked me as he was eating a slice of pizza. "I've been worrying about her..."

"She's okay, she's still sleeping." I said. "She's healthy, her soul is healing. It'll take her a while to wake up, days, maybe weeks. We have to be patient and let her rest and slowly reassess her memories and mind, it's going to be hard. She's probably dreaming right now, reassembling her sense of self..."

"I-I see..." Lucifer sighed, drinking some tea. "Phew... Well, I'm glad we could save her, thank you, Maria... I really appreciate it."

"It's fine dear, she was your sister-in-law, right? I couldn't possibly leave her to die." I smiled. "Your wife's passing was already too tragic... I'm glad I was able to at least save her sister."

"Yeah... I'm glad too, that there's another dragon, aside from my sister of course- And Nyx." He nodded. "With that, it makes us... Four? That's already a lot!"

"Hahah, well, we could make more little dragons one day, if you catch my drift." I winked to him.

"E-Eh? You can?" He wondered curiously.

"Well... Dunno." I shrugged. "We can try until it works too, ehehe~ Though, if I ever ascend into a goddess, it might become surely possible too..." I rubbed my chin, making my flirting into a serious topic.

"It's too early to be flirting around." He sighed. "But I'll keep that in mind." He smiled, giving me a kiss in my lips. "I love you."

"E-Eh?!" I felt a bit embarrassed at that! But I guess I had to say it back too. "I-I love you too... But what's with that?! You caught me off guard! You're usually more reserved."

"I just had to say it, after everything that happened..." He gently held my hand, while caressing Nyx's little head as she ate and talked and laughed with her friends. "It makes me appreciate the things I have even more. I love you and Nyx so much, you're everything to me... So, that's... err, well, that's it I guess... Ah, yeah it is embarrassing. I'm usually not this corny."

"Heheh, it was cute." I giggled, giving his handsome face another kiss. "Thank you for sticking with me all this time! Ever since I found you in that dungeon. Since then that our lives had given twists after twists, but here we are, still struggling, still fighting... but together, nonetheless."

"Yeah." Lucifer nodded. "And together we shall be... Until we can finally achieve a peaceful life in this chaotic world..."

"Indeed~" Emeraldine nodded at my side. "You two are talking all the lovey-dovey stuff and leaving me behind~ Not fair." She gave me a kiss in my nose. "I also am very happy to be with you... You're also my everything, Maria!"

"E-Emeraldine..." I blushed a bit, her beauty combined with her innocence made her someone that always left me a bit paralyzed! She was too endearing. "Y-You too are my everything I guess..." I felt embarrassed.

"Fufu, so cute when you get all embarrassed~!" Emeraldine teased me lightly. "I love you, mooch, mooch." She was giving me adorable kisses while hugging me.

"I love you too." I hugged her back.

"Heey... Don't just leave me behind, alright?" Partner pouted. "Master!"

"Geez, do you always have to ask for attention when I'm getting mine, Partner? You can have yours later." Emeraldine cutely complained.

"Eeeh? Don't be a meanie..." Partner sighed.

"Hehehe, don't worry, I have love for all of you equally. I love you too my adorable Partner!" I gave her a big kiss. "You're so cute and lovely... Ah, I just said that out loud..."

"W-Wha...?!" Partner, who I had rarely told her things with such honesty, was as red as a tomato. "M-Masteeer!" She hugged me tightly, kissing me all over...

Chapter 912 Training Plans

Once the lovey-dovey time was done, it was time to talk things more seriously, about what happened, and about what we discovered too.

We were abducted by mysterious vampire chimeras, which ended being the damned warlocks of the underworld themselves.

We were separated and had to fight to survive with our strength, it is a miracle nobody actually died... And it might have been thanks to their strength.

However, it was still a rather impactful and traumatizing event, especially for the younglings that were not accustomed to all of this.

So we had to gently talk about it and asses what happened. I ended learning mostly all of their perspectives, and how they defeated their foes.

I was surprised my little Nyx managed to defeat so many foes on her own, she's really strong. However, when she ended confronting that one bastard, she was lethally wounded.

Fabian said she went berserk when she saw what happened to Catarina, thinking she had been killed for real.

"I don't remember much of what happened..." Sighed Nyx. "But I got really angry, and a weird and dark power emerged from me, I couldn't really control it, and it controlled me back... After that I think I passed out."

"I healed her with everything I had, but after that I couldn't move at all..." Celes said. "Sorry I couldn't do more..."

"Y-You did more than enough, Celes." I thanked him deeply. "Thank you for saving my daughter's life... Your powers showed themselves in that moment, didn't they?"

"Yeah... I-I think so?" Celes was still confused.

"They did." His mother nodded. "It seems that his soul might truly be... the reincarnation of the Oasis Divine Spirit. When he channeled all his powers, the figure of a beautiful lady made of water emerged, healing little Nyx... It is said that the Divine Oasis Spirit had the power of healing, she could heal any wounds, any disease, any poison..."

"D-Do I hold such power?" Celes wondered. "So cool... But I get tired too quickly still..."

I checked his Status and saw he was already Level 42, his MP had increased by hundreds of thousands, yet he still got tired by using his powers too much.

Looks like his MP Stat increased the most as he leveled up, because that quantity is nor normal for a human at that Level... Also he doesn't seem to have a Level Cap, he won't evolve, but won't stop leveling either.

It might be because of the influence of my Saintess of Death Title or something else, but well, that's at least something good.

"Hmm, for that you'll need to train Mana Manipulation Techniques." Said Emeraldine. "Your manipulation must be very rough, so you end up overspending Mana when using Magic."

"So that must be it?" Nia wondered, looking at her son.

"Auntie Emeraldine, can you teach me?" Celes was interested in growing stronger right away.

"I can!" My cute elf girlfriend nodded. "Leave it to me, a few classes should be enough for someone as talented as you... But I don't know if we have too much time."

"After what we did, the Warlocks must be already incredibly weakened." Said Lucifer. "There is no way they have as many S Ranked threats after that. They must have sacrificed most of their personnel to stop us, but failed... I think we do have a few days to settle down, train, and prepare for the last confrontation."

"Yeah! That Emilia bitch is just sitting on her ass doing nothing." Said Partner. "She'll take a while to act now that she knows we can wreck her if we want to."

"Training Celes and everyone else is important so they can learn how to use their magic further." Said Emeraldine. "I can teach Fabian and his friends too. They have untapped magic potential but need how to conjure spells outside of their own basic abilities... Silva too. Relying on your boost skill for everything is too little, you need to learn to conjure spells and use weapon techniques."

"And that's where I enter, right? After all I can control Miasmic Energies and conjure all sorts of spells with them." I nodded. "I guess I'll be teaching you kids some of the basics. Nyx, you want to learn too?"

"I wanna join the classes!" Nyx nodded happily; she was certainly eager to learn.

"Okay then, that's decided." I nodded. "Aside from that, I'll send some of my Ghosts to inspect the area and keep a high security... Oh, we also need to make new equipment or upgrade the one we have. We've got a bunch of new materials after all; we wouldn't want to waste them."

"Equipment is essential, yeah." Said Lucifer. "But can we do much without relying on the dwarves or our home's forge?"

"We certainly can! Even more after these new Skills I acquired..."

I looked into my System notifications; a few ones had appeared some time ago.

Ding!

[The [Job Class]: [Wrathful Berserk Titan: ★★★ (Mythical Grade)] has reached the Max Level!]

[You gained +150.000 HP and +70.000 Attack.]

[You learned the [Wrathful Titan: Lv1] Title Skill!]

[All Physical Skills have gained a Bonus Level.]

[The [Subclass]: [Shadow Sculptor: ★★★ (Mythical Grade)] has reached the Max Level!]

[You gained +150.000 MP and +70.000 Magic.]

[You learned the [Shadow Sculpting Arts: Lv1] Skill!]

[All Support Skills have gained a Bonus Level.]

[You can Rank Up Job Class and Subclass after Evolution.]

Indeed, my Job Class and Subclass were done at max level, and I acquired some really juicy bonus stats out of them, alongside two new Skills!

I've not completely checked these Class and Subclass Skills so far because I've been so busy lately, but they possess incredible potential, so I better analyze them in more detail.

Also, sadly, I can't Rank them Up yet, I need to Evolve first! But that shouldn't be so far from my grasp either. I need to somehow continue developing my Divine Concept and I think I might eventually devour another Divinity.

Seeing how she's a Saintess, I bet that bitch of Emilia possess some sort of Divinity...

She's looking like a mighty juicy steak right now.

Chapter 913 The Hidden Cultivation Aspect Of This World

After breakfast and deciding what we wanted to do, I let go of a couple hundred ghosts to scout the entire city. Now that the Warlocks were mostly out of the picture, I wanted to see where the Paladins could be, mostly to evade them until the time to confront them.

We decided to move out to another Inn and take into different appearances so we wouldn't become too suspicious. We explored a bit of the city and saw the people's reaction about what had happened, most were still in disbelief, while others thought some God had come to save them from the church's tyranny.

Well, they're not completely wrong with that... After taking a walk around, we decided to end the day having dinner in a prestigious looking restaurant in the noble district, disguising our identities with high ranked magic.

The endemic food was quite tasty, especially the expensive one the nobles ate... It was totally different to the one the poor people ate and was quite gourmet on its own right.

We saw a few Paladins here and there, but nobody noticed us. I decided to leave some Ghosts hiding inside their Shadows, I call these guys Shadow Ghosts, and I can seamlessly make them out of my own body without any cost.

Like that, I'll always have each Paladin on track, so I'll know where they might be, and they'll never sneak on us... Anyways, after that, we moved to a new Inn with a spacious amount of rooms, a fancy one that resembled a huge manor, and we decided to teach some magic manipulation and miasma manipulation classes to the children.

Emeraldine dedicated herself to teach Celes and Nia the basics of Mana Manipulation, while I decided to teach Fabian and his siblings the basics of Miasma and Chaos Element Manipulation. Takeshi, Laura, and Nyx joined in the lessons.

"Now, relax and let the Mana flow through your body." Emeraldine taught mother and son the basics.

"Mana... It's hard to manipulate..." Celes said. "Ugh..." He was sweating a lot.

"I feel like it was a lot easier back then..." Nia also complained.

"That's because when we are in dire situations, our bodies can react on their own to situations, giving us the ability to wield mana, albeit very roughly." Emeraldine explained. "I will explain to you a "cheat" to use it more easily!"

"A cheat?" Celes wondered.

"Huh?" Nia was confused.

"And this cheat is that I do it for you." Emeraldine said. "Have they ever told you that the Mana that shows in your Status is not completely everything you have? It is the total estimated amount you can currently use. Our bodies are constantly filled with Mana, the more it flows through our bodies, the stronger and more refined it becomes too."

Nia and Celes nodded, listening to her carefully.

"So, there are parts of our bodies that help us manipulate mana. Usually, if you do it the hard way, it'll take you weeks, months, or even years to use these areas to the point you can manipulate mana seamlessly. But... if you forcefully activate and unlock these parts, Mana will flow easily and you will be able to gauge how much to use, and how to manipulate it." Emeraldine said.

"What are those parts?" Nia wondered.

"Yeah?" Celes wondered.

"They're called Mana Circuits, and they go all across your body." Emeraldine explained. "The Meridians is where they are usually gathered the most. It is also the way for you to unlock Ki, an energy born from your Life Force and Stamina. It is something that physical fighters usually utilize to wield their Techniques. I combine Ki with Mana and Spirit Energy, for example."

"Oh, you know about Ki and Meridians, Emeraldine." Jonathan commented. "I see that you're well versed in the ways to refine a physique! Although Leveling is a good way to grow stronger, it is limited to your Level Cap, and not everyone can level up endlessly. The reason why certain countries Warriors and Knights are strong even when their level cap is lower or maxed, is because they refine their bodies through several Ki Manipulation Techniques."

"That's right. Thank you for your help there, Jonathan." Emeraldine smiled gently.

"No problem, I was getting bored of just reading these books." Jonathan have been checking on books we bought, as he wanted to look for clues about this city's past and about the Oasis Spirit.

But if what they say is the truth, then this is the first time I'm learning about the other ways someone grow stronger in this world. The System is there, but the Gods, knowing it could be too strong, limited it and created level caps.

And even then, humanity still found ways to overcome it and become stronger even without needing to level up. Although it is a much slower process, it can be still combined with the ability to learn and level up skills, something that is not limited, only the level cap is.

Because of this... I guess the Gods left a loophole that can be abused. And other countries remain as big and strong even with these level caps due to these methods to "cultivate" the body.

Wow, so this world has that type of Cultivation, like those fantasy Korean stories with 9th Circle Magicians and Rank 10 Knights... Of course I know these tropes, hehe, after all I died being buried by a bunch of these books when I was at the library.

Ah, this is not a good thing to remember though.

"So, a good method to help you manipulate mana easily and be able to gauge its quantity when using it is by forcefully activating your Meridians and Mana Circuits!" Emeraldine smiled. "In our bodies were over three hundred Magic Circuits spread across every artery we possess! It's going to be a bit painful, but once it done, your Mana quantity will grow exponentially! It might hurt though... Are you sure you want to do this?"

"Please do it to me first." Nia said. "After that, if Celes wants to..."

"Alright..." Emeraldine nodded, touching Nia's shoulders. "[Mana Infusion]!"

FLAAASH!

Chapter 914 Awakening Mana Circuits

Through my Special Spiritual Ghostly Eyes, I was able to see the interior of Nia's body, her Mana Circuits were all gray-colored, inactive. And above all, there were small sparks of light, I suppose those were the Meridians.

There was one in her head, another in her chest, a third in her stomach, and four more, one in her shoulders and then her thighs. These must be the Seven Meridians that must be activated to begin the growth of Ki and also facilitate the flow of Mana in the body.

It is such a pity I can't use any of that!

I have no body, so I lack Meridians.

And also because of that I don't have Mana Circuits, or any of that!

I can't wield Ki either, that's impossible...

I only have my own Soul, but I think it has been "cultivated" through my evolutions, levels, and also whenever I devour souls or compatible materials, I suppose.

Though, I wonder if I could find a way to refine my own soul further. That's something I might have to research on.

"[Mana Infusion]!"

FLAAASH!

Emeraldine activated the Mana Circuits of Nia, as Celes Mother screamed a bit in pain after the entire feeling came and went in a flash.

What my girlfriend did was pretty simple! She imbued her Mana into Nia's body and carefully guided it through every single Mana Circuit and circled it around her Meridians.

This made it possible for her to have her Meridians and Mana Circuits forcefully activated and even enhanced too.

"Mama! Are you okay?" Celes quickly healed his mother with his touch alone.

"Y-Yes, I'm fine dear, Emeraldine healed me right after that too." Nia smiled gently, patting her son's head. "But this is incredible... My whole body feels anew!"

"It should be done now, you possess both Ki, that'll enhance your Stamina, and also more Mana. Can you sense the energy?" Emeraldine asked.

"I-I can!" Nia looked at her hands, seeing the Mana flow to her command. "T-This is incredible- though, it did hurt a lot. Celes, are you really... okay with this?"

"I am! Anything for mama and frens!" Celes nodded.

"Yeah!" Nyx nodded too, cheering for him. "You can do it Celes!"

Emeraldine looked at me, asking me if it was okay.

"Yeah, do it." I nodded, smiling. "The kid's ready for anything at this point. He's a brave little guy."

"He does have the brave spirit of a knight!" Jonathan agreed.

"Hmm... He does have potential." Lucifer pointed out. "We Dragons, and most monsters naturally awaken our Meridians and Magic Circuits through evolution, or even by growing up. But I guess humans and other races might be different."

"Oh yeah, that's right. I never had to awaken anything myself." Said Partner, wondering about it. "Do I have them activated already?"

"Yeah, you do." Emeraldine nodded. "They're very strong, your body has been naturally enhanced and refined with each battle and level."

"What about me auntie?" Nyx asked curiously.

"You too, of course!" Emeraldine smiled. "You were born with all of such things activated."

"Wow!" Nyx was surprised.

"And about us and the others?" Fabian was curious.

"You have unique and different bodies now." Said Emeraldine. "Children that acquired Demonite Hearts have their Magic Circuits and Meridians altered permanently, and they rely on your cores for growth. Your cores... I don't know how they can become stronger; I think by leveling up? You don't seem to be limited by level caps and can evolve too; it seems it was one of the purposes behind the creation of these Cores..."

"Although I don't like how we were manipulated and used... I suppose this power is useful to take revenge against the bastards that gave it to us and made us suffer." Said Spectra.

"Yeah!" Said Garon.

"Well, your bodies are more unique, Maria made them herself, but you don't have Meridians or Magic Circuits normally. Instead, your whole bodies are a big Meridian and a Magic Circuit. Undead in the other case, usually lack these two completely, and rely on Levels, Skills, and their Soul Evolution to become stronger, like Maria here." Emeraldine used me as an example. "However, she managed to give your new bodies some of the benefits of the living while still being Undead to an extent! Pretty amazing what you could do, Maria."

"E-Eh? Really? Ahahaha! Of course, I'm awesome!" I puffed my chest proudly.

"Now..." Emeraldine said, touching Celes shoulders. "Let's begin. [Mana Infusion]!"

FLAAASH!

Celes closed his eyes expecting some pain, but he felt none, when the entire process was done, he felt confused because the pain seemed to have never come.

And his body was now overflowing with even more power, the Aura of his Soul seemed to have begun to enter his Mana Circuits and Meridians right away, cultivating his body automatically.

"A-Amazing, you didn't felt any pain, dear?!" Nia asked to her son.

"Not really... it felt kind of nice and soothing." Said Celes. "Like... erm, when you lift off a weight from your shoulders! Or something like that... papa used to say that sometimes."

"Hahaha... I-I guess." Nia smiled, giggling a bit. "Emeraldine, what happened?"

"Looks like he's just talented! Although it might also be because his body was born with the natural ability to resist the powerful soul he possesses, so pain by opening Mana Circuits and Meridians was almost nonexistent." Emeraldine said. "He's... much, much tougher than we thought!"

"Am I?!" Celes wondered innocently. "Nyx! I'm tough!"

"Yes! You are!" Nyx celebrated, holding his hands, the two started jumping adorably.

"Now, can you manipulate Mana better, boy?" Lucifer asked him.

Celes started concentrating as he closed his eyes. His tiny hands started glowing with a blue aura of energy, it was Mana, but it was also fused with Spirit Energy of the Water Element.

"I-I think so! Ooh, I can manipulate it now?!"

"Well done Celes!"

As the two celebrated, Emeraldine nodded, looking back at me.

"Looks like we've made our little trump card even stronger... His Mana has increased at least tenfold." Emeraldine was rather shocked.

"That much?!" I asked in surprise. "But didn't he already have like three hundred thousand?!"

"He indeed has a lot of Mana..." Emeraldine giggled.

Chapter 915 Maria The Teacher

After the awakening of Nia and Celes Mana Circuits, we moved on to my own classes, where I taught Fabian and his friends, including Silva too, how to better utilize their Miasmic Powers.

It wasn't as hard as I imagined, and by using a similar method to Emeraldine, I was able to control their internal Miasma Reserves and then leave them with the ability to do so naturally, truly a "cheat"!

"Like Takeshi and Laura here, you'll eventually be able to use your Abilities to a greater extent than what you've been doing so far." I explained. "For example, Garon will be able to create all sorts of volcanic eruptions, meteors, or even a giant magma golem. Beery has the potential to create different growths of wood, spears, swords, draining roots, healing fruits, and more. As for Fabian, your Demonite Manipulation seems to be much more, you need to learn how to create spells with them, shape the Demonite into different forms and aspects, and channel into them new powers. You possess a special ability that you used before, right?"

"Yeah, when he got really mad he transformed into a demon made of pure Demonite! He was super strong for a bit, but then got really tired and collapsed." Spectra explained to me. "It doesn't seem to be totally linked to his Magic though, it might be an innate Miasmic Ability, I think."

"You're not wrong." I nodded. "But even then, if he can manipulate Miasma, Chaos, and Mana in his body properly, and even if we add Ki too, as he has it, he could become strong enough to control this form and prolong its usage time. First of all, we'll begin with your manipulation of Chaos Energies. Tyr, can you help?"

"Urgh... Sure." Tyr materialized at my side, everyone that hadn't seen him before was surprised.

"W-Who is that floating ball?" Asked Fabian.

"I've never seen it again, its so weird..." Beery said.

"Kind of funny lookin' though, haha!" Nick laughed at Tyr.

"Funny looking?! You damn brats! I'm the mighty Tyr! The son of Odin, God of War and Law!" Roared Tyr. "And... Well, I'm the true identity of the Evil God."

"Eh?!" The kids, unaware of Tyr's true identity, were mortified.

"Ain't no way a tiny little eyeball is the evil god, who are you lying to?" Laughed Nick.

"Tch! This is merely my contained form! Maria... devoured all the fragments she finds. But thanks to that I was able to regain my Will and Memories one fragment at a time. I can manifest myself into a giant being if I want to! Do you want me to spook you to death, huh?!"

"Hey cut it off." I sighed, smacking his head. "He's not wrong, he is indeed the Evil God, before he was turned into the Evil God by the plot of the Gods, he was the Son of Odin, and one of the strongest Gods after him. However, that's not really important right now, what's important is that he is the Evil God, so naturally, he can manipulate Chaos Energy really well, right?"

"I can..." Tyr nodded. "So, anyways... You brats are the victims of those bastards using my secretions to make your bodies, huh? Kind of sucks... But I suppose you did get some benefits out of it. Miasma and Chaos go hand by hand, they're a sort of energy that repels all other elements. That's the reason it is so powerful..."

"Now, although it sounds overpowered, all of you guys can use Chaos Attribute Magic, although much, much weaker than mine, heheheh..." I smiled with a cocky smirk. "However, that's not important right now. What I mean is that this energy is very dangerous to manipulate, one wrong usage and you might get your hand destroyed."

"Eep! Really?!" Beery cried.

"T-That does sounds dangerous..." Spectra said. "I-I was wondering, Lady Maria, can I learn your ghostly abilities too?"

"Oh yes, you certainly should be able to, eventually." I nodded. "Not as much as me though, I am a ghost through and through, but you do have Phantom Magic and a Spectral Miasmic Ability, so I think I can impart several of my abilities to you. Look forward to that, Spectra!"

"I-I will!" Spectra nodded, excited.

"Anyways, for starters. I'll ask you guys to show me what you can do with your Chaotic Energy so far..." I said. "Nyx, Takeshi, Laura, you too."

The children nodded and started working, although they were afraid of hurting themselves, I told them that Tyr can regulate the Chaos in the surroundings, so it won't hurt them because it'll be regulated before it can.

His very presence exudes a special Barrier that absorbs and keeps Chaos within our perimeter. This way we hide it from anybody that could sense our presences too.

Anyways, the children used their Chaotic Energies. They had varied amounts of it, some a lot and others very few. Fabian had quite a lot of it, but his friends not so much, most likely because the new bodies I made for them were not imbued with Chaos too much.

Silva also had a really large amount of it, which is proportional to her Miasma too. Must be the reason why she can temporarily evolve others or grant really powerful buffs, she has amazing potential due to the uniqueness of her Miasmic Ability.

Lastly, Takeshi and Laura had almost the same amount, at least five times as much as Fabian but half as much as Silva... This girl was just too ridiculous she had too much!

And Nyx... She had the most, she was the most powerful of them all.

TRUUUUMMM...!

Her very presence became incredibly strong and overwhelming when she channeled her powers, and she was able to easily summon dozens of Chaos Spheres out of her hands seamlessly.

They floated around her as she played with them as if they were nothing but little toys...

"Hehehe, this is fun."

"T-That's... ridiculous, she has so much Chaos..." Tyr muttered. "I guess she's truly your child, just how much energy did her egg absorbed out of you?"

"A lot... I was so exhausted after that I rested for a few days. I think she even absorbed part of my soul, but I guess that's what a mother does!" I giggled. "We sacrifice our energy, blood, flesh, and all for them... I'm glad she's so strong."

Chapter 916 Is Parenting Hard?

Those that had Little Chaotic Energy could only release black sparks from their hands. These were all of Fabian's friends I revived with new bodies. Fabian could generate two spheres of miasma in his hands. Takeshi and Laura could unleash Auras from their body, although not as big as Nyx, and Silva was able to release an even thicker Aura, as if she was generating a huge sea of miasma.

Meanwhile, Nyx's Aura was much more refined, pure, and strong, and it also held multiple other elements seamlessly fused into it, such as Void, Darkness, Death, Fire and Phantom. She's a Fire Dragon after all, like her dad... So she might develop new Fire Magic in the future if we keep helping her grow.

Anyways, after that, Tyr and I created a new training method for them to get this power much stronger and also to help them train it. He'll keep his Chaos Spirit Domain around them and allow the kids to go nuts.

"Go nuts?" Asked Silva, confused. "W-What do you mean?"

"I mean what I said!" Tyr angrily barked. "Maintain your Chaotic Energy as much as you can, keep your Auras coming out and try your hardest to manipulate it. Your first shape is..."

"A sphere!" I said, showing them a simple sphere. "Those that can make a sphere should make cubes now. You too Nyx."

"Oway mama!" Nyx nodded happily.

"But won't we run out of it too quickly?" Asked Spectra. "Unlike the rest we don't have that much..."

"Don't worry about that, Tyr here will replenish it for ya." I said. "Well, technically it's me who is doing it but he's manipulating it and sending it to you with much more precision than I can."

"I-I see..." Spectra was excited. "Okay then... let's do this!"

As I saw the children practice, Arachne walked to my side, gently pulling my dress to call for me.

"Can I join the class?"

"Y-You want to?"

"Yes... It looks fun!"

"Hmm, okay then."

She was a gentle and pure hearted girl raised by spiders, so I guess she wanted to socialize a bit more with the rest.

"So your name is Arachne, right? You seem different- Are those spider legs?!" Spectra wondered.

"Y-Yes... Are they ugly?" Arachne wondered, feeling embarrassed.

"They're cool! I've got wings and a tail!" Nyx said.

"Yeah, I like them." Silva nodded. "I-I only have horns... I wish I had more things..."

"I think you're fine as you are...!" Arachne smiled back.

"A-Ah, is that so..." Silva blushed a bit.

"Mama, I'm done! I made ten cubes!" Nyx commented, approaching me.

"Oh! Well done dear." I smiled. "Now try making pyramids."

"Oway!" Nyx nodded, working hard.

"Hmm... I did it too! Spheres and cubes...!" Arachne suddenly said.

The cubes and spheres made of chaos floated around her...

"W-Well done, pyramids... try doing those." I said with a gentle smile.

"Sure!" Arachne nodded.

I noticed Arachne and Nyx glaring at one another as they shaped their chaos energies.

They're really being competitive right now...?

"Next!"

"I did it!"

The two were ending their test almost instantly and moving to the next one rapidly, one after another. It felt like they really just wanted to be over the other, and it was getting quite irritating...

I think this is just what I caused for spoiling Arachne so much, making her dislike that I already had a daughter I needed to give love and attention, so a rivalry of sorts was formed.

I need to talk this out with the two of them as soon as possible before it gets worse. But Arachne is a bit hard to deal with due to her monster-like nature.

If I'm not gentle with my words, I might upset her and turn her against me... I wouldn't want that.

"You're overthinking it too much." Tyr suddenly said. "Simply praise both and tell them they're good in what they do, and that they should be friends."

"Is that easy?!" I wondered. "Shut up, do you even have experience in parenting?"

"I do! I had several children." Tyr sighed. "Also I'm much older than you! When will you stop treating me like a joke?"

"Ugh, fine..." I sighed. "Let's try that."

As I saw them constantly creating new things, I moved to their side and patted the two at the same time.

"Both of you are so amazing and talented! You both did excellent." I smiled. "So please, don't start fighting, okay? It would... make me really sad to see my girls fighting, I want you to get along, please?"

"Uhh..." Arachne remained in silence, crossing her arms.

"Mama?" Nyx wondered, feeling confused.

"Both of you are overdoing it just for the sake of competition, right? By itself, that's not bad but... If you want to steal the other's attention, then it is not good." I said. "Okay?"

"Hmm... Sorry..." Arachne suddenly apologized. "I didn't know I was upsetting you, mama..."

"Me neither mama..." Nyx said. "Wait, is she really your daughter, mama?"

"I-I..." I looked at Arachne, she was giving me puppy eyes. "Y-

Yes, I mean... I adopted her. Much earlier, but it took her a while to get to us, sorry... She's like your big sister, like Takeshi and Laura, and I want you to get along, alright dear?"

"Okay..." Nyx nodded. "I just thought that she was pretending to be or forcing you to... But that's fine if she's nice!"

"I'll be nice, sorry..." Arachne apologized again. "Mama taught me to always say sorry when I do something wrong... Sorry."

"It's fine! Let's be friends! I did say I liked your spider legs!" Nyx giggled innocently.

"I like your wings!" Arachne smiled.

Aw, the two finally got along! Tyr was right, I shouldn't have even overthought it took much. I just had to talk my heart and tell them I wanted them to get along...

"See? Though, it only worked because they love you a lot." Tyr said, smiling faintly. "I wonder how my children are going..."

"How many kids did you had?" I wondered.

"A few dozen... Some of them became important Gods in the Pantheon, they must be serving my traitorous father, thinking I was the bad guy all along..." Tyr felt frustrated. "Hahh..."

"Don't worry, we'll find them and tell them the truth one day." I nodded. "I promise you."

"Maria..." Tyr's single eye opened wide. "...Thanks."

Chapter 917 A Simple Day

Today classes ended, we wanted to spend at least almost a week of training and preparing before the great raid we were going to do, so the day was already coming to an end and the night was falling.

My Shadow Ghosts, which take the shapes of snakes and flies to infiltrate the city, reported me that the Paladins have been going down somewhere lately, perhaps to the Dungeon below.

I wonder if the Warlocks are trying to replenish forces by using the Paladins...

Aside from that, they have started finding some people hiding the water we gifted them and attempted to apprehend them or ask for money or get thrown to jail.

Because of these problems I ended causing, I took responsibility, and the ghosts placed some gold coins in their pockets, which they were able to use to miraculously pay the tax.

I have a lot of money so I don't really care, and the Dwarf Kingdom will keep sending me money and resources because I own two dungeons over there, which constantly produce resources for them.

I'm probably richer than the three rulers of Goldsand combined...

Anyways, to prevent this to happen again, the Shadow Ghosts planted special Magic Arrays of Stealth and Camouflage on the water jugs.

This way the Paladins can't find them, and the people will know where they are and drink water from there stealthily!

This is just a temporary countermeasure, next week, if possible, they'll be completely freed from these bastards' tyranny.

And after all that, I left some of my Ego Clones cooking something in the kitchen, included with our large set of rooms, while I went to take a bath with my family.

This included my daughter... I mean daughters, my three cute little pies, and... Yeah that's all. I guess Arachne is now included. Takeshi and Laura wanted to take their own bath instead, so I left them.

However, Arachne and Nyx are still very clingy, especially Arachne who suddenly feels more energetic and doesn't want to sleep too much anymore, wanting to hang around with us and receive the love of a family.

And I'm more than happier to give it to her, not only because we'll rely on her as a powerful Calamity, but also because she's a lovely girl, and I pity the loneliness she felt back in her Dungeon.

"Papa, papa! Wash my hair!" Nyx ran towards Lucifer, asking him to wash her hair.

"Sure, sure." Lucifer smiled, quickly bringing the shampoo. "You have such a beautiful hair, just like your mom! Silver colored, it looks like beautiful metal threads."

He was a good father, gently washing his little princess' hair and praising her! Nyx was really lucky to have him.

"Hehehe, mama's hair is very beautiful!" Nyx giggled. "Papa, I'll wash your hair later! You also have long hair!"

"A-Ah, sure, though this hair is just a temporary form." Said Lucifer, he never felt that accustomed to his humanized form, usually feeling better on his dragon appearance.

"It still papa's hair!" Nyx said. "You have to take care of both of your bodies!"

"Well it's easy for you to say that when your dragon form also has this hair, haha." Lucifer giggled, gently washing her hair.

While that was happening, I noticed Emeraldine and Partner helping wash each other's backs at my side, they were busy chatting about today's activities.

"Isn't it nice to spend some time just teaching children? It was a relaxing day, for once..." Emeraldine felt blissful.

"I GUESS... I spent the whole day watching over the window though!" Partner had been designated as a guard, so that's the only thing she did for now.

"Hahah, you did well though." I commented. "Thanks for helping us out in that. Well, you could teach the kids something... Blood Magic? I wonder if any has affinity for that? Or Spear Mastery too?"

"I'm happy that you're trying to cheer me up, Master, but yeah, I doubt I can be of much help." Partner sighed. "Rattle..."

"Oh, you did the sound! When you were a little skeleton." I was surprised.

"That sound was like your bones twisting..." Emeraldine was left speechless.

"I-I sometimes do it as a reflex, I was a skeleton almost two years ago after all." Said Partner.

"It has been almost two years already?" I wondered. "Time sure has gone fast... So many adventures too."

"We've been together in a lot of things." Lucifer commented.

"And we'll continue doing so!" Emeraldine nodded.

"Anyways, Arachne, what are you doing? Is this your first time inside a bathroom?" I asked her.

"Huh?"

Arachne was afraid of the warm water for some reason, all the way at the end of the room cornered as if she were a little thing that was about to be attacked.

"Come on, come here, I'll wash you. You're a bit stinky, girl." I said. "Come, don't be afraid of some water. You're a mighty Calamity, right?"

"I-I don't like being one..." She sighed. "I was just born to be one..."

"A-Ah, well, sorry..." I apologized. "But it's okay, you're strong, right? Come on."

"Hmm..." She gently walked to my side and then took off her white dress, as I used a sponge to wash her with warm water and a nice smelling soap. "There, there, sit down dear, calm down. It's alright."

"Uuh... It doesn't feel so bad..." She wondered, as she sat down in front of me and allowed me to wash her.

I washed her long black hair and made sure to wash her armpits too, and she did the rest down there, with the soap and the sponge. After that, I used some warm water to splash all over her, letting her get all washed up.

"And done! That was all!" I said with a smile.

"O-Oh... So this is taking a bath!" Arachne said, intrigued.

"I-I'm really shocked she never took one before." Lucifer said.

"Well, she was living inside a dungeon, cut her some slack..." Partner said.

"It's nice she's no longer stinky I suppose." Emeraldine giggled.

"I am not stinky!" Said Arachne, feeling a bit embarrassed.

After walking out of the bathroom and saw the food almost ready, I decided to take a look at some of my newest Skills, the ones I've acquired from the Classes, mostly.

Chapter 918 Useful Skills

There was the Class Skills, which were divided into the offensive ones, some of which ended merging with already existing attack skills, and then there were the Subclass Skills, mostly used for Support, Enhancement, or Crafting.

The Skills that I recently had from the Classes, which had not been absorbed or fused with other Skills were Berserk Mode, Apprentice Blacksmith Recipe Book, Rune Smithing, Soul Binding Alchemy, and Shadow Sculpting Arts.

I have used the Soul Binding Alchemy to create Fabian friend's new bodies to an extent, so I know of the Skill's abilities a bit, but what about rest? Not at all, and I plan on using them to make some new equipment or reinforce existing ones.

I do know that the Blacksmith Recipe Book is pretty much the same thing as the Alchemy Recipe Book but for weapons, armor, and so on. With it I can mass produce some types of armor and weapons with ease and register some of the ones I've made to mass produce as well, as long as there's enough materials, of course.

[Berserk Mode: Lv5]

A Unique Skill given to Berserk-type Classes.

By activating it, you harness your hatred and wrath against those you hate, making your mind go blank temporarily, but increasing all your Physical Abilities greatly.

Once activated, increases Strength, Defense, and Agility by +200%, alongside Physical-type Skills Damage by +200%, Stat and Damage Bonus increases by +25% with each Skill Level.

When this Skill is in effect, your mind might go into the [Berserk] Status, and you won't be able to recognize friend or foe, and attack anything nearby.

Constantly drains MP when activated. Once deactivated, cooldown: 5 Hours.

Oh, this looks pretty useful. I think I might be immune to the Berserk Status, no?

I activated the Skill to check it for a tiny second, and...

FLUOSH!

A crimson red aura surged from my body, as I felt physical prowess surging from my body even when I lacked a physical body of my own!

Ding!

[You have activated the [Berserk Mode: Lv5] Skill!]

[Strength, Defense, and Agility and your Physical-type Skills Damage has increased by +325%]

[Your MP is being constantly consumed!]

[You've entered into a [Berserk] Status!]

[You have resisted it.]

[You have resisted it.]

[You have resisted it.]

"Oh?! Isn't this pretty broken?"

Aside from the annoying system messages that I was resisting it, it seemed that this was pretty amazing!

I wasn't affected by the negative status, and I could get such a nice bonus to all my physical prowess.

I'll definitely be abusing this later on...

[Rune Smithing: Lv5]

A Unique Skill given to Magic Crafting-type Subclasses.

Allows for the ability to manipulate Mana and create Runic inscriptions that can be harnessed and imbued into equipment created through Blacksmithing.

By smiting runes and other magical enchantments into weapons or armor, their performance will increase exponentially, and they might acquire new abilities and effects.

The Runs that can be created and used for enchantment are based in the user's own knowledge about Runic Creation.

Whenever a Rune is imbued into a piece of Equipment, there's a 50% chance for the equipment Quality and Stats to increase, with an additional +5% chance with each Skill Level.

Created Runes imbued into Equipment will have their effects boosted by +100%, with an additional +25% with each Skill Level.

The complexity of the Runes imbued into equipment will increase exponentially with each Skill Level. Required materials are needed to create stronger and more complex Runes imbued with special effects.

Well, well, this is amazing! With this I can make some amazing equipment with many bonus effects. More stats mean more power, more abilities mean an easier time handling bastards from left and right.

And it seems there's a lot of possibilities to what this can become, or in how the Runes can be used, I'm quite excited to use these, honestly.

[Soul Binding Alchemy: Lv3]

A Unique Skill given to Magic Alchemy-type Subclasses.

Grants the ability to imbue souls and control souls through the process of Alchemy, binding them into created objects of your choice.

The created objects can either be enhanced by these souls and gain tremendous power or be imbued with them to become their vessels.

Items or bodies that gain souls as vessels become much more bind with them than normal Undead would and are almost similar to living beings instead.

Depending in the power of the Soul or Soul Fragments bound to the item or bodies, the resulting form might change dramatically, especially if the item or body was made using high quality materials.

It is even possible for created items or bodies with bound Souls or Soul Fragments to gain the power to grow and develop even further, evolving into new forms and transforming into greater versions of themselves.

Whenever a Soul or Soul Fragment are bounded into a vessel, there's a 50% chance for the vessel to increase its quality, stats, and abilities greatly, with an additional +5% chance with each Skill Level.

Souls bound into Equipment will have an easier time getting used to these vessels, and their Stats will be boosted by +50%, with an additional +15% with each Skill Level.

The power of the completed Vessel with the bound Soul or Soul Fragments will increase in power, complexity, and attain new and stronger skills with each Skill Level.

Oh wow, this is awesome, much more incredible than I imagined...

Back then, when I created Spectra and the rest of Fabian's friends' bodies and then bound their souls into these new bodies, I hadn't thought much about it and was kind of experimenting.

But now that I read the description, it makes sense that they became more alive than death, this is a more perfectionist form of Necromancy.

However, it is now that isn't necessarily separated... In fact, it is more complex and might be too costly and time consuming.

But at the same time, it can also be used in conjunction with the traditional necromancy, for even greater effects in exchange for more materials and time...

Chapter 919 Something Fishy Is Going On...

Checking on these Skills, I couldn't help but wonder if I could imbue Souls into my Weapons or Armor, and give them names... Would they become "alive" somehow?

It could give them the ability to gain new Abilities and much higher stats that I'll enjoy happily when I equip them too. Though I don't know if I ever tried that before.

But it does seem to make some sense, seeing how I'm supposed to be a Necromancer! I should wield Death in as many ways as I can, if possible.

Well, I still got some time to think about and see what I can improve out of my weapons, also I could even make myself a new armor, or reinforce my dress into something like that too, huh?

A ghost with armor... I guess that doesn't sound too bad, I would become something like a Living Armor! ...Perhaps.

Oh well, the last one is quite new, Shadow Sculpting Arts.

[Shadow Sculpting Arts: Lv2]

A Unique Skill given to Shadow Sculptors.

Grants the ability to transform Shadows into physical objects and shape them, sculpting them into different types of materials and forms.

A mystical ability that only Gods of Darkness and Shadows can possess. By imbuing souls into your creations, these Sculpted Shadows can gain life of their own and become your faithful servants.

By imbuing different types of energies, such as Mana, Spirit Energy, Darkness Energy, Chaos Energy, Moonlight Essence, or more, it is possible to transform the Shadows into different types of usable materials.

The more effort you put into the creations you sculpt out of your own shadows, the higher quality they will become, and the stronger they will end up being if you imbue souls into them.

Whenever you sculpt a Shadow into the shape you desire, there's a 50% chance for the resulting item to increase its quality, stats, and abilities greatly, with an additional +5% chance with each Skill Level.

Souls bound into completed Sculpted Shadows will have an easier time getting used to these vessels, and their Stats will be boosted by +50%, with an additional +15% with each Skill Level.

The power, abilities, quality, and effects of the Sculpted Shadows will increase with each Skill Level.

Additionally, increases the Magic Power of Shadow and Darkness Attribute Magic by +300%, with an additional +25% with each Skill Level. You can also restore HP and MP by absorbing Shadows.

Now this is a broken Skill! Excuse me but how many effects does this has?! I can make literally anything I can think of with this, and if I combine it with the two other Skills...

Wouldn't this mean I can get seriously overpowered items or even new Undead? Though, the more I think about it, the more complex it would truly be.

It all depends in my own abilities with my hands and my artistic talent... I've made many things before, yeah, but even then, I'm not sure if I can do all the things I have in mind.

But the skill did say I could create materials as well, so I could probably create some interesting things...

"Master! The food's ready." Partner called for me, as the smell of grilled meat came to my nostrils.

"Oh right! I shouldn't even be worrying about anything for now." I smiled. "Let's eat!"

I enjoyed the meal with my friends and family, the big, very big family we had here, actually. And then I decided to do something I haven't done in a while!

Just sleep!

Yep, I just closed my eyes and tried to sleep, nothing rare going on in here, nothing weird either. I just wanted to have a shuteye.

And, quite honestly, I really needed a relaxing sleep.

The next morning when I finally woke up, my soul felt much more refreshed, like ten times as refreshed as usual.

I usually do sleep, but in short times, and mostly remain too awake by expanding my senses everywhere to keep everyone safe.

But for once I decided to leave that job to my Phantom Clones and Ghosts patrolling the area, and just slept...

And man, it felt so nice.

"Let's see- Oh, everyone's asleep, huh?"

I noticed how everyone was fast asleep, as I walked out of bed and looked through the window, the sun had already risen, it rises quite early in this desert area.

The people were already moving from place to place. Despite all the hardships they had endured, they wake up every day to work, they're diligent and nice people.

There were no Paladins around, and no suspicious energies or presences either. Aside from the ones I felt very far away...

Emilia seems to be chilling in the church, she is very lazy, isn't presences either. Aside from the ones I felt very far away...

Emilia seems to be chilling in the church, she is very lazy, isn't she? I thought she would be plotting some evil scheme or something, but the only thing she does is indulge on nice things and sit on her fat ass over her throne.

She's sure having it nice in here, just doing whatever she pleases with this people... But don't worry, Karma will get to you really soon, dear Saintess.

For now, I better strengthen myself first.

I imbued a part of my mind inside of my Soul Scape, as I glanced at the many Spirit Treasures there.

There has been something new growing in here since I ate those Void Fragments. It wasn't a plant or a tree as usual.

This isn't a garden after all, it is an entire land, so only plants and things like those growing would be weird, right?

And well, the Void I ended absorbing and my Aether Stat provoked that my Soul Scape were to start developing new Spirit Treasures...

And of course, reaching Max Level and getting close to my evolution might also be a factor!

"There's something huge forming over there!" Tyr muttered, glancing into the distance of my Soul Scape.

"Yeah..." I nodded, looking into the soul scape's skies.

The dark skies were gathering around, distorting space itself, as a black void was born, and slowly took the shape of a huge sphere...

Chapter 920 Changes Inside The Soul Scape!

The black sphere then rested peacefully on top of the dark skies, exuding a powerful Aura of Darkness and Void, covering the entire Soul Scape with a strange and unnerving feeling...

However, that wasn't all, another part of these powers manifested faraway, the ground started shaking as a gigantic, gray-colored mountains surged, stretching high into the skies.

Black crystals grew out of these mountains one after another, as the mountain stopped growing, it exuded a powerful Aura of Void and Darkness, sending chills down my spine.

The creation of these two mysterious and bizarre Spirit Treasures quickly enhanced my own powers as well, making me feel even stronger...

"This is amazing, you formed two Spirit Treasures in a row! That damn Belphegor guy or whatever was really packing on Divine Power." Laughed Tyr. "Good thing you ate him good."

"You're wording it kind of weird!" I sighed, as I analyzed the two Spirit Treasures, the System notifying me of what happened.

Ding!

[You have accumulated a large quantity of Aether within your Soul, the Divine Void Fragments you've absorbed have merged with your Soulscape!]

[Your Soulscape has developed the [Void Star (Great Spirit Treasure: Rank 5)]]

[The Void Energy exuding from the Void Star encompasses your entire Soul Scape, influencing it and stretching its boundaries!]

[Your Soul Scape has grown larger as a result; your Soul has been strengthened.]

[You gained +200 Aether.]

[Your Soulscape has developed the [Mountain of Ginnungagap (Great Spirit Treasure: Rank 2)]]

[The Mountain of Ginnungagap exudes an Aura of pure Void, which crystalizes within its depths to form Void Crystals!]

[Because of the two Great Spirit Treasure-grade Spirit Treasures, the rest of your Spirit Treasures have been influenced by their Energies!]

[All your Spirit Treasures have Ranked Up!]

The giant Death Tree in the middle of my Soulscape, which stretched to the depths of my soul, became even larger and gave me more power.

The forests of bone trees became more as well, and even the flowers multiplied very quickly! It felt like I was gaining a tremendous boost.

This is because Spirit Treasures give amazing passive effects, such as enhancing my Elemental Power, restoring my Spirit and Mana energy, and more!

Sometimes, they can even produce materials of their own. The Death Tree produces the Necrotic Death Fruit, which I've been accumulating in large quantities, the Moon Gazing Lily makes Moonlight Crystals for both restoring Moonlight Essence or making items with it, and the rest produce petals, branches, roots, and other things.

Though, I wonder what the Void Star produces, it seems to be a rather passive Spiritual Treasure in comparison to the obvious mountain that produces Void Crystals...

"Incredible, you gained so much Aether out of this! This feels like an unfair cheat..." Tyr seemed to lament my own fortune.

"What cheat? I earned this on my own! Right System?" I smiled.

["Certainly, you did... Now look at the Spirit Treasures details already."] The System spoke with a rather grumpy voice, as usual.

"Y-Yes, sir..."

[Void Star (Great Spirit Treasure: Rank 5)]

A mass of Void Energy that has taken the shape of a giant, black-colored star, it hovers over the skies in silence, gazing through everything as if it were alive.

Its origins are unknown, but it exudes a powerful Void Energy that bathes the entire Soulscape and its master's soul. Despite how silent and quiet it is, it's alive, and it will emerge to aid its master if danger comes.

Enhances Shadow, Darkness, Space, and Void Attribute Power by +250.000

Shadow, Darkness, Space, and Void Attribute Magic gains +50.000 Spirit Power.

Increases the Recovery Speed of Mana and Void Energy by +1000%.

Enhances Shadow, Darkness, Space, and Void-type Monsters Stats and Skill Power +250%.

By absorbing the Void Energy and Mana of the Master, it can temporarily summon itself in the outside world to aid its master.

When attacking, it can unleash [Void Beams] that deal up to +500% Damage and ignore 50% of a foe's Magic Resistance, [Void Pressure] which deals direct Soul Damage of +300% to a foe, or [All-Consuming Void], which deals huge Void Attribute Damage on an enormous range of up to 1500%.

When defending, it can unleash [Void Barriers] to negate 80% of all Damage, [Void Shifting], which can distort space and send enemy attacks back at them, or [Void Restoration], which can restore grave wounds.

The Void Star will only summon itself when it pleases and will not listen to a master's commands yet.

"This is a weird Spirit Treasure!" I said in surprise. "What the hell? So it's alive and can summon itself and fight?! It has a whole arsenal of overpowered abilities too!"

"Oh, I see, so it's a Guardian-type Spirit Treasure." Said Tyr. "You see, the stronger the Gods, the stronger their Spirit Treasures become, eventually they evolve and branch into many types. Guardian-type Spirit Treasures are similar to living beings, though not exactly the same. And can fight and protect their master or their Soulscape when it is in danger."

"I-I see... Though it's a bit cheeky, it will only summon itself when it pleases..." I said, feeling a bit annoyed by that fact.

["It is because you're too weak, grow stronger..."]

"Hey, I'm doing my best at that!" I crossed my arms in indignation. "But anyways, what's the other one? I hope it has a much simpler description..."

[Mountain of Ginnungagap (Great Spirit Treasure: Rank 2)]

A Legendary and mysterious Mountain, said to only grow within the Endless Void of the Ginnungagap. By absorbing the Soulscape's Mana and utilizing it on itself, it can produce the mysterious and very rare material, Void Crystals, which can be used to restore Void Energy or craft all sorts of items.

Enhances Shadow, Darkness, Space, and Void Attribute Power by +150.000

Shadow, Darkness, Space, and Void Attribute Magic gains +20.000 Spirit Power.

Increases the Recovery Speed of Mana and Void Energy by +300%.

Enhances Shadow, Darkness, Space, and Void-type Monsters Mana and Health Regeneration Speed by +300%.

Produces 5 Void Crystals Daily.

It wasn't as good as the Void Star, but it made sense, seeing how it was a Production-type Spirit Treasure...

"Now, let's collect these~"

I happily gathered the Void Crystals, which shone like small, star-shaped obsidian fragments.