

A Glitched 711

Chapter 711 Sylphy Adorably Cuddles With Her Girlfriend

Once I was back to my bedroom after taking a warm bath, Aquarina greeted me, playing around with her spirits and her familiars. She had also brought several new fantasy story books she purchased, several of them with many colorful illustrations, and even bought a music magic artifact that produced nice melodies. There were also cookies, fruit juices, and fried potatoes she had bought in the restaurant for snacks.

It seems she has prepared a whole plan for tonight's sleepover. She was so cute working so hard for this, I felt captivated by her hard work and immediately decided to join in the fun too.

"Hey, I'm finally back! Sorry for taking so long, I talked a few things with mom... then my uncle, and then my father..." I sighed.

"Sylphy! Oh? What did you talked about?" Aquarina wondered, as Pyuku was sitting over her head.

"Err... well, I just... Talked with them about us." I said.

"About us?" She wondered.

"Yeah like... You know, the two of us having a relationship and all. And they said it was okay for us to be girlfriends." I said, slightly embarrassed.

"R-Really?!" She was shocked. "T-Then that's good! I can't believe it was that easy..."

Aquarina jumped towards me, hugging me tightly.

"I-It's not like we've made it official, right?" I wondered. "Also we kind of started without asking the other..."

"A-Ah, right..." Aquarina blushed a bit, and then she held my hands. "Then Sylphy, do you want to be my girlfriend? Hehe~"

Sigh, she's so adorable.

"I guess I can't help it~" I sighed.

"H-Hey don't ruin the moment!" She pouted.

I quickly hugged her back, feeling her warmth and the floral scent of her silver hair. I wanted to hug her like this forever and ever.

"Of course I want to, dummy. I love ya." I said, giving her a kiss.

"Sylphy..." Aquarina blushed a bit more. "A-And then when we grow up, we should also get married..."

"You're getting a bit too far ahead now..." I said, crossing my arms.

"Promise me you will marry me!" Aquarina complained, pouting like a spoiled brat.

"Sheesh, this is not something you should be demanding off a young lady such as me..." I sighed. "I won't promise you anything because things can't be easy, right?"

"Huh?!" Aquarina felt almost heartbroken. I think you should take a look at

"I-I mean, it doesn't mean I will reject you but..." I sighed. "You have to work hard if you want me for your wife! I won't simply give myself away easily."

"I-I see..." Aquarina realized what I meant to say. "Okay! I get it! I will grow super strong and... learn how to be a proper noble lady too. A-And earn money! And... prestige? Is that how it's said?"

"Hahah, you're at least trying, that's good." I giggled. "But for now, you shouldn't worry about those things. Let's enjoy the present."

I gave her a head pat as she looked at me with puppy eyes.

"Okay but don't marry anybody else..." She sighed, rubbing her face on my chest.

"Okay~ I promise I won't. I will wait for you, no matter what." I promised her.

"Ehehehe..." Aquarina started giggling happily, while rubbing her face on my breasts.

"H-Hey! What do you think you're doing?" I said, quickly trying to stop her.

"But yours are so soft and bouncyyyyy..." She complained, as I dragged her away.

"T-They're not toys or something..." I felt slightly embarrassed. "A-Anyways! Let's enjoy the night now! I can see you've brought a lot of things. And snacks too!"

"Yeah! Let's read this book I found!" Aquarina suddenly showed me a fairy tale book with pictures. The front had the picture of two girls holding hands while traveling a forest. "It is called the lost girls in the forest. The library person said it was about two friends that discover their true selves in a forest filled with magic."

"Oh, doesn't she look like you?" I wondered, pointing at the girl with tanned skin and silver hair.

"And she looks like you too!" Aquarina said, pointing at the girl with red hair.

It was just a coincidence, but it was rather adorable. I read the book for her out loud while we sat on the bed and ate snacks. The story was quite emotive. It was about two friends that ended fighting over dolls, one of them ran into the forest and lost herself there, while the other had to go look for her.

While in the forest, the two girls saw many visions and mirages of the past, present, and possible futures. In many of them, it showed a future without the other to be with them, and how sad they felt about having fought over something so small when the real treasure they had was their friendship.

At the end, a big creature appears, the guardian of the forest of mirages, which at first acts as an antagonistic force, intimidating the girls, but at the end, it shows to be a good spirit, that was trying to make both girls find each other.

"And then, the Forest Guardian said: "Have you now realized the true treasure in your hearts? It is not the dolls you hold, or the physical objects you sometimes cherish, but your real treasure is having one another." The two girls, surprised, nodded, realizing what they had done, and apologizing to each other. "I'm sorry, Elfina... I shouldn't had been selfish; I was so worried about you!" Sighed Anna. "It's fine, Anna, I am sorry too for running away... I was so afraid... I don't want you to be away from me ever again. Let's stay together forever!" Elfina said with a cheerful smile. "Yeah! Forever!" Anna giggled. Both girls held hands, walking out of the forest, every mirage and illusion disappeared, as their hearts were now filled with happiness and light, the guardian looked at them with a smile, and this tale, ended just fine." I said, finishing to read the last paragraph.

"Wooah! It was so cute..." Aquarina felt slightly moved. "I wonder if this forest even exists..."

"Maybe?" I wondered. "And yeah, it was a rather touching story."

Like that, we continued reading stories and chatting through the night, until we went to bed and cuddled together.

Chapter 712 A Talking Cauldron

When I woke up the next morning, I found the little rascal of Aquarina with her entire face in between my breasts, she was sleeping with a big smile too, completely in a bliss! I felt embarrassed, but I guess I have to admit I didn't feel molested or something, it was just a bit embarrassing...

Though, to be honest, I'm totally fine if she does this. But for my own pride as a noble, I have to reprimand her about this behavior. If she ends up doing this in front of other people it will be a big trouble.

"Sylphyyyy... Boobie..." Aquarina started talking while sleeping, drooling all over my chest. "Mochi, mochi... Nom."

Suddenly, she started nibbling them!

Okay, I think that's enough...

"A-Aquarina..." I sighed, slowly moving her away. While I did so, she finally woke up.

"Huh? Ah! Sylphy?" She wondered, feeling confused about the horny crimes she committed which she didn't remember. "What's wrong?"

"N-Nothing..." I sighed, feeling all embarrassed, my face was quite red. "You really like them, don't you?"

"Huh?" Aquarina tilted her head in confusion.

"Never mind." I sighed. "Anyways, I have a few things I must do right now with the Alchemy Pot so I'll be waking up earlier. You can stay in the bed if you want-"

"ZZzzzzz..."

She fell asleep right away. I guess I don't have to even bother. If she complains over the noise I'm making, I'll say I already warned her about it!

Anyways, it was time to make my Dragon Elixir. I had already all the ingredients given to me by the Quest from yesterday, so now I had to make it.

"Ah, Sylphy! You're finally awake! Good news!" Alice began celebrating.

"Huh? What is it, Alice?" I wondered.

"I've spent a few of your accumulated EXP and I've relieved many other glitches, while at the same time keeping the powers I held." She said. "I've been working hard, and I think I found a way to relieve much of the errors while still keeping the core features intact. Of course, even if I were to fix everything, it wouldn't be fixed because my very composition is flawed... But it is getting much easier."

"Ooh, that's nice!" I said with a smile.

"This also means I can make System Seeds much more easily." Alice said. "And I feel no pain at all anymore~ It is very relieving."

"That's so nice as well! I am so happy for you!" I hugged her tightly.

She had a tiny humanoid body made of pure white and golden light, the size of a small cat, but she was definitely more huggable than before.

"S-Sylphy, y-you're hugging me too tightly! Uwaaahh!" Alice complained, trying to free herself from my grasp.

"Ahahaha, sorry, sorry~" I let her go. "I was a bit too excited. Now, maybe we should give the Alchemy Cauldron a System Seed then!"

"Yeah, that's what I was about to recommend." She nodded.

FLASH!

A tiny silver-colored cube appeared out of thin air, I glanced at Aquarina, she was still asleep, so I sneaked into the alchemy cauldron and imbued the system seed into the item.

Let's see what you will become!

FLUOSH!

[You have imbued a [System Seed] on the target item: [Expert Alchemy Cauldron (A Grade)]!]

Circuits started coursing through the old cauldron, as a magical power surged from within, which condensed with the power of the System into its very own soul.

Ding!

[The [Expert Alchemy Cauldron (A Grade)] has developed a Soul, and a System Status.]

Suddenly, the lid opened up and something surged from within. It was viscous and purple-colored, with a slimy body. It had a rainbow hue to its body whenever light reached it as well.

"Guuu!"

It slowly took the shape of my own appearance, it seemed to be good at mimicking a bit.

"A-A slime?" I wondered.

"It seems like the cauldron has evolved into a Slime Monster of some sort!" Alice said. "I had never seen this within my databases. But I would assume it is an Alchemy Cauldron Slime!"

"Oooh! I guess I'll just call you Violet for short." I smiled.

Ding!

[You have created a Familiar Contract with the [Alchemy Cauldron Slime]!]

[You have named the [Alchemy Cauldron Slime] as Violet!]

[System Owner]: [Violet]

[Race]: [Alchemy Cauldron Slime]

[Rank]: [C+]

[Level]: [0/50]

[Class]: [Alchemy Spirit]

[HP]: [2000/2000]

[MP]: [5500/5500]

[Strength]: [700]

[Defense]: [1000]

[Magic]: [1500]

[Resistance]: [1700]

[Agility]: [300]

[Luck]: [250]

[Charm]: [250]

[Skills]: [Living Alchemy Cauldron: Lv1] [Synthetizing Stomach: Lv1] [Slimy Body: Lv1] [Material Combination: Lv1] [Material Assimilation: Lv1] [Alchemist Recipe Book: Lv1]

Oh, I guess there she is! She has... no offensive Skills whatsoever, so she might not be ready for fighting, but she does certainly has everything related with Alchemy! She even has an Alchemist Recipe Book?

"Violet, can you summon the recipe book?" I wondered.

"Guu!" Violet nodded, suddenly materializing a big, golden book out of thin air.

POOOOF!

It floated in midair, and as I grabbed it, I realized how incredibly heavy it was! W-What the heck is this thing? Is this really a Skill tied to a Familiar?

I opened it, and quickly saw countless recipes registered inside. It also held all materials I had already discovered in something named Material Compendium, alongside where each material was found.

The recipes were limited to what I had already created or discovered, but there was also the "Evolvable Recipe" section, where it showed the possibility to find new recipes if I mixed the original one with new materials indicated there.

And the cherry on top, this recipe book seems to be connected with her other skills, allowing her the quick mass production of items as long as I give her enough Mana and the materials needed, damn.

"This is amazing!" I said in surprise. "Violet you're awesome!"

"Guuu!" Violet seemed happy, moving around. She seemed to be incapable of moving outside of the cauldron, it seemed to be part of her body, or something like a "shell" perhaps.

"Huh?! S-Sylphy, why are you talking with your cauldron?!"

But Aquarina had woken up due to all the noise...

Chapter 713 Caught By Aquarina

After checking on Violet's amazing status and her interesting new skills, I couldn't help but praise her a bit. She was also rather cute, like my own Pyuku, but in my cauldron.

"This is amazing!" I said in surprise. "Violet you're awesome!"

"Guuu!" Violet seemed happy, moving around. She seemed to be incapable of moving outside of the cauldron, it seemed to be part of her body, or something like a "shell" perhaps.

Though this makes me wonder about something. Will she melt into liquid whenever I use the cauldron to do alchemy or something? It does seem like she's a slime version of the Liquefied Mana used to synthesize materials together...

Oh well, maybe-

"Huh?! S-Sylphy, why are you talking with your cauldron?!"

However, as I was about to try out the newly enhanced and living Alchemy Cauldron, Aquarina had woken up due to all the noise... I was a bit startled myself too.

"A-Ah! Aquarina, you woke up... I told you I was going to do alchemy..." I sighed. "Don't act all surprised now." I crossed my arms. For a bit, I realized I looked a lot like my mom.

"Oh, right..." Aquarina said. "Sorry... But what's going on anyways?"

"Guuu!" Violet waved her slimy hand at Aquarina to greet her.

"W-Well, she's Violet, the Alchemy Cauldron. Much like what happened with the bag, it seems I was somehow able to give it life? It evolved into a slime monster." I said in surprise. "It is now my Familiar too, hehe."

"E-Eh?!" Aquarina was shocked. "I see... So you can do this a lot, huh?"

"More or less. It is... well, I'll entrust this secret to you. It is a special magic I call "System Magic" which I've developed since I was young." I said with a smile. "It is... one of the secrets not even my parents know. They probably think it is a different type of magic."

"I-Is that so?" Aquarina was surprised. "System Magic...? How does it even works?"

"Well, it is like... giving a soul to something. But I call it a System. It allows these living and... not living beings to gain the power to grow stronger faster than normal and develop special abilities." I sighed. "I can't do it easily though, so I can only do this very few times... with long periods of cooldown."

"That's awesome!" Aquarina was surprised, and praised it, but interestingly enough, she didn't asked for a System at all, or anything of the sort. Knowing her I really thought she would get selfish and ask for one, but she as surprisingly calm about it. "I am happy you can trust me like this, Sylphy. I'll make sure to keep it a secret."

"Thank you!" I said, giving her a hug and kissing her forehead. "So how about we try this new cauldron?"

Aquarina looked at me with a bit of concern in her eyes, suddenly getting rather... serious.

"Oh, sure." She said with a smile, quickly changing.

What happened there?

"Huh? A-Are you okay?" I wondered. "You can't hide it from me! Are you worried?"

"A-Ah, is it too obvious?" She asked. "Yes, I am... a bit worried. Your power is amazing, maybe... too incredible. It makes me concerned about you... What if someone really bad finds out your powers and tries to take you away?"

"Well, they've been trying to kill us since we're kids, I doubt it'll change from that already. We're already future heroes so they're trying to hunt us down for that." I shrugged. "Knowing I have a special power won't suddenly make them wish to kill me even more than they already want to."

"Right..." Aquarina nodded. "Though I am still a bit worried."

"Worry not." I said with a smile. "If that ever happens, we'll be already super strong anyways."

"Geez, fine." Aquarina said. "It won't make me worry less, but I guess this is another reason to become stronger myself!"

"Don't push yourself too hard though!" I giggled.

"Y-Yeah... Heheh..." Aquarina giggled, fidgeting a bit.

She then glanced at me while we were sitting over the bed and our faces got really closer. Our lips touched and we started kissing for a bit. It was a slightly longer kiss than before. It was so warm and lovely, her soft lips, and her tiny tongue trying to touch mine almost desperately was really cute.

"Mooch, mooch~" She continued kissing my neck lovingly. "Did you like it? Mom and dad always kiss like that and I wanted to try it out..."

"It was really nice... T-Though a bit intense." I said. "Let's go easy for now..."

"T-Too intense?" She asked, getting redder. "I just... can't help to want to eat you up when I'm this close to you and we get all emotional and talk about loving and protecting each other... My heart beats really fast..."

"Oh... Hehe, mine too." I said, as we held hands.

Without realizing it, we were about to kiss again but...

"Guuuh! Mooch!" Violet started imitating us from afar.

"Geh, okay, let's get to work first..." Aquarina said, feeling cringe.

"Y-Yeah, kissing like this is not something we should do in front of others, hahaha..." I laughed a bit nervously.

"A-Alright then!"

We quickly moved to test out Violet, as I took out several new materials out of my Inventory, they were all the fire dragon ingredients. Aquarina had never seen them before, so she was naturally surprised.

They were the eight [Blazing Fire Dragon Flower (B Grade)], the twelve [Ancient Volcanic Dragon Flower (A++ Grade)] and a single [Ancient True Red Dragon Blood Bottle (A Grade)]. Aquarina was amazed, she was also able to detect the quality of items using magic, so she was shocked how amazing they were.

"W-What are these items? Did your parents bought them for you?" She wondered.

"Well... Not really, I acquired them myself. I've been... gathering them for a while. In the market." I said, lying.

"In the market, huh?" She didn't seem to buy it though.

Chapter 714 Battling A Strong Alchemy Spirit!

As I took out these items I wanted to merge, Aquarina was a bit too surprised about such high-quality items appearing out of the blue.

"W-What are these items? Did your parents bought them for you?" She wondered.

"Well... Not really, I acquired them myself. I've been... gathering them for a while. In the market." I said, lying.

"In the market, huh?" She didn't seem to buy it though.

At the end I don't think I could tell her the System just created them; she would probably not believe me anymore with such a ridiculous thing. And I feel like I should explain her more of this once she gets her own Status later on.

"In the market?!" Asked Aquarina. "Well, that elixir you gave me was made out of that sea dragon's materials so it was believable but Sylphy do you truly believe I'll just accept that excuse? Wait, are these items... something to do with the System?"

"Ah, bingo." I nodded. "Let's say that sometimes, if I do a lot of good things for other people, the System will gather this favor and gift me items."

"Is that even... possible?" Aquarina felt surprised.

"Well, there's no other explanation than that..." I sighed. "I can't really explain it any more detailed than that."

"Ahhh... This magic of yours is almost god-like." Aquarina felt flabbergasted. "S-So that elixir you gave me...?"

"Yep." I nodded. "I got those materials from defeating the sea dragon actually."

"Wow..." Aquarina felt surprised. "So I've already consumed and grown stronger using these special godly items. I guess I can't really complain..."

"Were you going to complain?" I wondered.

"W-Well, it felt a bit unfair you have so many powers... But I guess I've benefited from them, perhaps even more than I realized, so maybe I shouldn't get selfish." She giggled, apologizing a bit.

"Oh no, it's fine to complain, it is a really unfair power. But it's not like I am using it to do bad things. I've been using this power to survive, to help people, and more." I said with a smile. "And I think... it is a godly power that might one day give us the chance to reclaim the freedom of our entire species, of all the races."

"You mean... that such a power could work even against the Gods?" Aquarina wondered. "I... I guess it could... I suppose this is why you were so confident! Hehe, I've figured it out!"

"Yep" I nodded. "Nonetheless, we're not even near that point yet... I've entrusted you already a lot of secrets I've never told anybody else before. So I'm hoping you keep them as secrets, okay? I love you, so I trust you. I hope you can do the same."

"S-Sure!" Aquarina said, blushing a bit. "Uwaaah, this is so romantic! Like in those romance novels where the male lead entrusts the female lead an incredible secret, sometimes even showing her his true powers!"

"What sort of novels have you been reading?" I wondered.

The literature of this world, especially of the Elven Country, was much more advanced than my original world. Although compared to the human country I guess it is still advanced. Elves can easily produce paper, print, and many live long and always write books of their lives, sometimes just fairy tales or fantasy stories.

Over time, this grew even more in popularity as "pocket novels" small books that anybody can pick and read started appearing everywhere. And there's even a network of magical information where people can easily access these stories, check them out, and then decide to buy them in the big cities of the elven country using special Magical Grimoires available in most libraries.

I guess Aquarina has been reading a lot of these stories, they tend to have yearly "trends", some of the include dramatic romantic stories with male and female leads. Alice has told me that this looks a lot like Earth's "Webnovels" or whatever, which is similar, but people write them in something named "Internet" that is a non-magical network of information.

"Hehehe, the good kind!" She giggled. She had quite the obsession with reading, but that's how I loved her. "You're entrusting me so many secrets, it is romantic~ Maybe I should write a story like this..."

"Hey! Don't write something with my secrets though!" I sighed. I think you should take a look at

"Ahahaha, sorry, sorry~" She giggled. "I won't!"

"Anyways, let's finally begin. Violet, time to activate your normal functions." I said.

"Guuh!"

FLUOOOSH!

I imbued Mana into her, and then she slowly melted into a rainbow-colored liquid. It was working just as always, but now the cauldron was freaking alive, interesting.

I poured all materials and quickly started the creation of the Elixir, the materials melded together slowly through [Extraction] and [Synthesis], but Violet's [Synthetizing Stomach] and [Material Combination] made the synthesis much faster and better.

FLAAAAASSSHHHH!!!!

A bright red-colored aura emerged from the cauldron, as the aura of all the ingredients merged together into an Alchemy Spirit, a creature made out of the will of the materials!

"ROOOOAAAAARRRRR!!!"

It resembled a miniature Fire Dragon, and it looked mighty too! The previous time this happened with Aquarina's Dragon Elixir, I had to fight that thing until taking it down with the help of all my Familiars.

However, this time it seemed much different as I had Aquarina at my side, and there was nobody better at Water Magic than her, which was a Fire Dragon's weakness.

And of course, Violet wouldn't stay still!

"GUUUGUGUUU!"

FLUOSH!

The rainbow liquid suddenly transformed into a pseudo slime, coiling around the Fire Dragon Alchemy Spirit, and then beginning to drag it down back into the liquid! Wow, that's so useful! If she can easily restrain him then it will be easy to take it down!

"Now, Aquarina, let's go all out!" I said.

"Okay!" Aquarina smiled, summoning dozens of Aqua Spheres, as I did the same because I also possessed the Aqua Skill now!

SPLASH! SPLASH! SPLASH! SPLASH! SPLASH! SPLASH!

"GRUOOOHHHHH...!"

The Fire Dragon Alchemy Spirit roared in agony, slowly weakening and then, completely submerging into the cauldron, merging with the rest of the ingredients and improving the quality of the resulting product even more!

FLAAAASH!

"It is finally done!" We said at the same time.

Chapter 715 The Dragon King

Ding!

[You've synthesized the [Divine Infernal Dragon Elixir (S Grade)] x1!]

[You've earned 40000 Alchemy proficiency]

[The Level of the [Crafting: Lv3] Skill has increased to Level 5!]

"It's done! And it is an S Grade Elixir!" I said in surprise.

"Yeah!" Said Aquarina in surprise. "So cool! Will you drink it?"

"I mean, you already know but I have developed a Dragon Heart after cultivating the Beast Aura and fusing it with my Physique." I said. "It is also why I can do a Draconification, you should be able to do the same too. I think you developed one after the Elixir I gave you, you already had the potential so I decided to invest in my cute girlfriend."

"Ooh! Right!" Aquarina realized it. "That strange powerup I felt... it wasn't just my Beast Aura evolving, my Physique did too! And my heart has felt much stronger too, also part of the new Dragon Heart then! T-That Elixir has given me a whole new way to fight now... I don't have to rely on my family's powers as much."

"Yeah, I didn't wanted you to overexert yourself using those powers that seem to take away your own life force, so something like using a dragon heart, which instead of taking away life force gives you a massive boost of vitality might be able to balance it out." I said with a smile, giving her a head pat.

"You thought so much about it, Sylphy..." Aquarina's eyes shone brightly. "Mooch, mooch, mooch!" She started kissing me all over my face.

"Okay, calm down a bit." I said. "At least let me drink this before you give me more kisses."

"R-Right! Sorry, I just got too excited..." Aquarina said. "It just felt like I fell in love with you all over again..."

She's really becoming open about saying these embarrassing things... But for now, drink the Elixir! I need another powerup, I crave it! If I don't grow strong enough for what's to come, which possibly might include fighting that Arachne, I need more strength.

"Well, here goes nothing!" I said, opening the bottle and drinking its red contents. "Gulp, gulp, gulp..."

Hmm, the flavor was sweet like strawberry, somehow. Yet it also contained some sort of spiciness that went well with the combination of flavor and the massive boost of Dragon Power I was gaining, which flowed through my body down my throat.

FLAAAASH!

Suddenly, I felt a searing, burning pain that started to emerge all over my body. It felt as if literal flames were flowing through my veins. My heart was beating faster and imbuing these flames everywhere.

"Unngh..." I couldn't help it as I fell to my knees, gasping for air.

"Sylphy?!" Aquarina panicked, running to my aid.

"Don't worry, this is almost typical whenever I gain strength through these items." I relieved her.

"Ugh..."

Suddenly, however, I fell unconscious. I think you should take a look at

...

When I opened my eyes, I was no longer in my room, but in a dark place. This wasn't exactly the soul scape either, yet it felt really close to it, connected to it, even.

"What is this place?" I wondered, looking around.

As I walked across this darkness, I felt my body beginning to grow stronger, my veins glowed bright red, and my skin grew red scales. The more steps I gave, the more dragon-like I became.

My tail grew long, my wings spread out. My neck extended; my face transformed. When I realized it, I wasn't even a half-elf anymore.

And once I had reached the end of the road, something awakened. A gigantic, draconic eye opened amidst the darkness, glaring at me, it seemed similar to the authority Agni, Ignatius brother held.

Yet... it was much higher, much stronger...

"You..." It spoke with an all-powerful, old man's voice. "I've been watching you."

"H-Huh?" I wondered. "Who... who are you?"

"To not be recognized by such an insignificant being such as you. Who else than the Dragon King I am?" He spoke. "I am the Ruler of all Dragons in this world!"

"T-The Dragon King?!" I was flabbergasted. "T-Then why am I... even speaking with you right now?"

"All of us dragons are connected through a bond of bloodlines! You, an outsider, has managed to reach this far. Just what exactly are you, girl?" He asked, his gigantic eye, the only thing I could see, squinted with suspiciousness.

"Do I need to answer that question?" I wondered.

"Hmmm... No need. I have taken a look at your soul and so your memories." He said with a smile. "You're an interesting entity for sure, otherworldly soul."

Shit... he even figured out I reincarnated so fast?!

"Heh... Perhaps you're the thing we truly need to make this world finally change." He laughed. "Maybe... You're fate's chosen. Who knows? I certainly am not fond of you, however. However, I do know my child are. Ignatius, who was dead is now once more alive as a spirit, and Agni temporarily became your familiar, a bond that he can never create with anybody else now. You certainly have made my two children, blood from my blood, trust you... I suppose I can let this slide and see where your life will bring our world to."

I felt slightly relieved he wasn't going to eat me or something... I guess making friends with Ignatius and Agni has made it so he doesn't feel like killing me for being a stranger that suddenly acquired his bloodline's powers.

Though... I am curious about what he said just now.

"A bond that he can never create with anybody else?" I wondered. "What do you mean, Dragon King?"

"A Dragon is a millenary being. We are the great guardians. In ancient times, we used to make bonds with your tribes, the slaves of the gods. With our combined strength and your intelligence, we overcame the god's tyranny and freed the surface of this world from their grasp. Yet... they remain in the skies, watching and controlling you all." He said. "A Dragon can only make a single contract through their lifespan, due to their tremendous power. Although it has been cut off for now, your contract with Agni will be for life! Make sure to grow strong enough to be able to withstand my strongest son's powers, child. He is waiting for you."

Chapter 716 An Unexpected Divine Protection!

When I asked the Dragon King about why Agni can no longer "make a contract", he gave a long explanation I never expected to hear, it contained a new piece of the truth of this world's history.

"A Dragon is a millenary being. We are the great guardians. In ancient times, we used to make bonds with your tribes, the slaves of the gods. With our combined strength and your intelligence, we overcame the god's tyranny and freed the surface of this world from their grasp. Yet... they remain in the skies, watching and controlling you all." He said. "A Dragon can only make a single contract through their lifespan, due to their tremendous power. Although it has been cut off for now, your contract with Agni will be for life! Make sure to grow strong enough to be able to withstand my strongest son's powers, child. He is waiting for you."

"Slaves?" I wondered. "And the dragons... I see, so you were much more important for the freedom of this world than I imagined! This is something I've never heard before..."

"Of course you haven't." He said. "It is a piece of history that the gods don't want your people to learn anymore. Your churches control knowledge and have twisted your history into a complete lie to make you all praise and love the gods, whom were your creators, but also the ones that forced upon you a life of slavery and suffering."

"So that's... how it really is." I sighed. "Just how old are you to know this, Dragon King?"

"Hmph, older than your own country." He laughed. "I met and fought the first Demon King."

Wait, what?! How strong is he to do such a thing?! He is probably already in a god-level of power if that's true... But I can't imagine him living for so long without any wounds, or having his strength weakened.

"You're sharp." He praised me. "However, the chit-chat must end. I will now go to sleep. Get stronger, and maybe I'll talk to you again. If you're bold enough, once you grow older, you're invited to the Land of the Dragons within the Demon Continent."

"W-Wait! I have so many things to ask first!" I cried.

"Enough. You shall now go back. Cultivate your Dragon Heart and acquire the Dragon Eyes, the Dragon Lungs, and the Dragon Skeleton. Maybe if you do so, I will recognize you enough to tell you more of the truth." He said.

FLAAAASH!

A bright light engulfed me, and then, I woke up.

"Sylphy! You're awake so soon? I-I guess I shouldn't had worried..." Aquarina said, tilting her head and looking at my face. "Hello? Are you there?"

"The Dragon Eyes, the Dragon Lungs, and the Dragon Skeleton..." I said, quickly remembering what the Dragon King said. "If I get those, somehow, I will become worthy of learning more of the truth."

"Huh? W-What? Did you had a weird dream?" Aquarina was confused.

"Ah!" I finally snapped back to reality, quickly sighing. "N-Nothing, I just had a weird dream. I saw... the Dragon King. He was certainly an intimidating guy... He said I had to get the Dragon Eyes, Dragon Lungs, and Dragon Skeleton to become worthy... of learning the truth."

"The truth?! Wait, the Dragon King?! I've heard he's.. just a legend." Said Aquarina. "A Dragon King is the king of all dragons, said to have been the first dragon to ever exist, born from the world itself as the guardian, while the demon king was born as the weapon of the world..."

"I guess they had similar roles..." I said while thinking. "Well, he's totally real, and super old too."

"Eh?! This is shocking news!" Aquarina said, she was being a bit sarcastic, maybe she didn't believed me completely. "Now, now, maybe you should try to relax, you passed out for a little while..."

"I am saying the truth!" I sighed. "I saw him!"

"O-Okay, I trust you." She said, giving me a head pat. "But you seem a bit exasperated, no? And your scales are growing all over your body? Also your eyes... look dragon-like."

"Ah!" I quickly realized I was on my Draconification state.

But unlike before, it didn't even felt tiring anymore. What is this? How much has my Dragon Heart grown in power?

"Congratulations Sylphy! Check the System Notifications!" Alice congratulated me through telepathy.

"Huh?" I checked the system notifications, expecting something interesting. I think you should take a look at

Ding!

[You have consumed the [Divine Infernal Dragon Elixir (S Grade)] x1!]

[All of your Dragon Related Skills have Leveled up!]

[The [Dragon Heart: Lv3] Skill Level has increased to Level 6!]

[The [Divine Yggdragon's Double Aura: Lv2] Skill Level has increased to Level 4!]

[Your Current Dragon Output within the Dragon Heart has increased to 40%!]

[Your Affinity with your Dragon Heart has increased tremendously.]

[Your Dragon Heart Skill has acquired the [Dragon Breath] and [Dragon Tail] Abilities!]

[The power of your Draconic Energy has materialized into a new Skill!]

[You acquired the [Divine Protection of the Dragon King]!]

[Divine Protection]: [Veldanava, Divine Dragon King]

A Divine Protection only granted to Dragons by the Divine Dragon King, Veldanava, the first born Dragon and the King and Father of all Dragons.

Those blessed by his powers receive an enhancement to their Dragon Magic Power of +250%. Their Dragon Scales become +300% tougher. Their Dragon Breath becomes +250% more explosive. Their Wings become +500% faster. And lastly, their Dragon Eyes become +500% sharper.

Additionally, for non-dragons, the ability to stay in a weaker Draconification Form indefinitely becomes a reality, whose boost in power becomes only a third of its original powers. However, when using Draconification on this weaker form, the power of the Draconification becomes doubled.

Woah, this is insane... And I guess that explains why I am now in my Draconification form without receiving any penalties, or seeing any timer show up telling me how much time I have left either.

Chapter 717 New Abilities

I received a lot of bonuses and powerups. Aside from them, I even got the Dragon King's divine protection! For acting all tough and stuff, he was really a softie if he threw it at me like nothing. Maybe he really liked me or something, hehehe... Now Ignatius' going to get crazy when I tell him I meet his daddy.

And also the Dragon Heart Skill developed two new Abilities:

[Dragon Breath (6)]: The user is naturally capable of channeling Dragon Force into their throat, being capable of unleashing a powerful Dragon Breath to all of their enemies, which explodes on blazing flames which deals an additional +600% Damage and ignores 60% of the foe's magical defenses. The higher the quality of Mana and the Dragon Power Output, the stronger the Dragon Breath becomes. Cooldown: 30 Seconds.

[Dragon Tail (6)]: The user is naturally capable of channeling Dragon Force into their back and create a long, scaled tail with a spear-like tip that can essentially work as both a fifth limb and a powerful natural weapon. Increasing physical damage dealt using the tail by +400% with an additional physical defense penetration effect that ignores 30% of the foe's defenses, Attack Speed and Damage increases the higher a foe's defenses are. The higher the quality of Mana and the Dragon Power Output, the stronger the scales become.

They'll be surely useful to blast anything I want, hehehe. The Dragon Breath has a 30 second cooldown though. Is it because it is just impossible to unleash breaths consecutively? Well even Ignatius breath attack has its limits too. Nonetheless, it still looks like an insane Ability worth spamming whenever I want to blast something really fast.

And lastly, the Dragon Tail, it does around 100% more damage than the Dragon Claws, though it only has half of the defense penetration effect. However, it has the special ability of increasing attack speed and damage dealt based on how high a foe's defenses area... An interesting power, I guess I'll be using this fifth limb a lot too.

"I've grown so strong..." I said in surprise. "And look, I can now keep my Draconification state indefinitely thanks to the divine protection of the dragon king! Though it is only a third as strong, it still an insane powerup I can keep active at all times if I wanted to, hehe..."

"W-Woah..." Aquarina was surprised. "You have a tail!" She said, suddenly beginning to grab my tail. My tail was naturally elusive, as she tried to catch it, it constantly escaped.

"Aquarina, don't you have a Draconification form too?" I wondered. "Does it has some cooldown?"

"I felt quite tired the first time I used it, so I assume that's what you mean by cooldown?" She wondered.

"Ah, I guess you can't use it indefinitely like me then." I sighed. "Couldn't the Dragon King spare a blessing for you too, geez, so stingy."

"Hahaha, don't worry about it!" She said. "So are you going to be dragon Sylphy forever or something?"

"Nah~ I'll keep this form only when I need it." I said with a nod, quickly changing back to normal. "Now... I should go take a shower and then have some breakfast."

"Oooh, let me go with you then!" Aquarina said happily, following me into the shower.

"Fine, fine~ But don't make a fuss now..." I sighed.

Ding!

[Due to performing the synthesis of a high-level item, [Violet] Level has increased to Level 5!]

Oh? Seems like even Violet benefited from this... I might as well put her inside my soul scape so she can greet everybody else, including Glutton.

"You did well today, Violet. How about hopping into my soul scape?" I asked.

"Guuuuh!"

FLAAASH! I think you should take a look at Suddenly, with a flash of bright light, she disappeared, turning into particles of light, and then emerging within my soul scape. While I was taking a bath with Aquarina, I saw how the other Familiars greeted this new member.

"BARF! BARF!" Glutton started licking her with his big tongue.

"So you're our new pal! Welcome." Said Alice. "She can't talk yet, guys, so be patient with her."

"I see, good to see you then." Said Furoh. "You don't seem that battle-capable, so we'll make sure to take care of you if the situation ever arises."

"Yeah, sure, whatever." Ignatius said. "Did anybody noticed Sylphy getting a TON of Dragon Power?! Is she more of a dragon than me now?!"

"Hahaha, dumb lizard, seems like Sylphy's already stronger than you? Kekeke..." Laughed Beelzebub.

"Shut up! You're a damn pretty fruity girly butterfly!" Ignatius barked back. "You're nobody to call me a lizard now!"

"What did you said?! I am a moth! Not a butterfly!" Cried Beelzebub, trying to cope with his current form. "You damn stupid lizard! I'm going to tear your scales apart one by one!"

"Try it out punk!" Ignatius roared back.

Ignatius and Beelzebub started fighting as usual.

"Ignore them foo~" Sighed Natoria. "Nice to meet cha! Fofoo!"

"Guuuu!" Violet greeted everybody happily. She was really cute. She reminded me of Natoria, who was also very cute. They're the cutest spirits.

"A Cauldron, huh?" Wondered Scarlet. "I suppose master doesn't care anymore about what she's giving life to..."

"Yeah she should had given life to another shield, double shield for the win." Sapphire said.

"That's stupid! Another sword would be better, double sword wielding techniques are much stronger." Said Scarlet. "I need a sword sister, you don't need a shield sister, you're useless already."

"Huh? You damn punk... Wanna test my durability with your little shitty blade?" Sapphire asked.

"You're damn right I want!!" Scarlet roared furiously, clashing against Sapphire.

Ugh, those two are like Ignatius and Beelzebub now...

"Ah... Erm, nice to meet you. Just ignore the freaks." Curse sighed.

Well, aren't you a freak here too? You're literally a curse!

"BARF! BARF! BARF! SLUURP!" Glutton continued slurping and licking the slime off Violet.

I don't know if that's even healthy for her, but I've begun collecting [Alchemy Slime (C Grade)] inside my inventory... Whatever it is, it might be an interesting material.

Chapter 718 Time For The Last Test

Today we were going to complete the last task given by my mother and then recognized as responsible adults! So after taking a relaxing bath, we moved down and chomped our breakfast like there was no tomorrow. My mother and my father were amazed, and little Zephy was surprised I was eating so fast.

"It seems you're rather excited for today, dear." My mother said. "Remember that tomorrow your grandmother is coming! I assume you're preparing yourself for your last task?"

"Yep, pretty much. It feels so looong since we started this." I sighed. "I've been doing these damn tasks for months now! It is finally over!"

"Well it wouldn't had taken so long if you just haven't decided to go to two incredibly dangerous dungeons where you ended fighting... incredibly dangerous monsters." She sighed.

"Sure, sure, let's keep the pace a bit faster now though." My mother sighed. "Thankfully these last three tasks had been all within Agarth, and the last one should finally free you from them. Even I have begun to recognize the pain and agony you've went through."

"Ahahaha... Mom, you're finally recognizing that?" I sighed.

"Yes it is very obvious based in how tired you look when you come back. It feels like your soul has come out of your body or something." My mother sighed, drinking some tea.

"A-Ah, never change mom." I laughed.

"Hahahahaha! Come on don't be like that with our daughter." My father laughed his lungs out. "Eustace is waiting you at the city gates right now, Sylphy, so go there with all your friends. You'll need as much support as possible! Ah, I already told Aquarina's parents about this, so they know you'll go there and come back home later."

"Ooh, thank you father-in-law!" Aquarina said with a cute smile. My father began petting her head.

"Hahaha, it's nothing~" He giggled. "I can't believe I have such a cute and hard-working daughter-in-law! My daughter's lucky."

I guess they already know about her being my girlfriend, and it is amazing how fast my father has adapted to it.

BAAAM!

Meanwhile, my uncle's head fell into the table, scaring us all.

"Uwaaah! Uncle?!" I asked.

"Uuugghh.... I-I drank a bit too much last night..." He muttered.

"Arafunn we need to seriously do something about your drinking problems!" Sighed my mother.

"Ugh... It's not like we elves even need to worry..." Arafunn sighed. "Alcohol can't even hurt us... I wish it did though."

"Don't wish ridiculous things..." My mother facepalmed.

I felt slightly concerned about my uncle. Just what was wrong with him lately? He has been coming back home all drunk, he stays until late in the bar or spends the night with strangers, like he's desperate to put his mind into something else.

"U-Uncle, are you alright?" I asked.

"Sylphy..." He sighed. "Ah, yes... I am alright- Guh..."

"Don't you dare vomit in my room!!!" My mom cried, unleashing a beam of light and throwing Arafunn out of the window.

FLAAAAAASSSHHHH!!!!

"Uwaaaaggh!"

BAAAM!

My uncle fell head-first into the floor in the garden. Everyone in the family glanced at my mom with a mouth wide open, even I...

"I-I... Well, he was about to vomit here! I can't let him do something so disgusting. Ah, why are you looking at me like that? It's not like he can die from that, he's super strong despite his looks." My mother sighed. I think you should take a look at

"You still kind of overdid it a bit mom..." I said.

"Yeah..." Zephy said.

"A-Ahahahah..." My father laughed nervously. "Well kids, now you know not to make your mother angered... Because when you grow strong enough, she'll know these things won't hurt you and she may do them... more than you imagine."

"I-I would never do it to my children!" My mom said a bit embarrassed. "Geez, I am not a barbarian. Also he's healed, that beam of light was a healing beam... It just threw him off the window... accidentally."

"Ah yes, it was an accident huh?" I asked while raising an eyebrow.

My mother sipped tea while closing her eyes, trying to ignore our glares.

Like that, now that we were done with breakfast, we walked to the garden and found Arafunn sitting over the garden. The floor had a small hole in there though.

"Ahhh, I feel better now. Your mother's healing magic is surely always super effective!" He sighed in relief.

"Don't tell me she does this more than I thought?" I wondered.

"Ehehehe... M-Maybe." Arafunn said, trying to ignore the question, but it wasn't a rhetoric one!

Anyways, uncle Arafunn stayed resting over the flowers, completely defiant on revealing why was he so nervous out of the sudden. We greeted our friends after that, they were all waiting us in the gates.

"Sylphy! Aquarina!!" Mist greeted us first, waving her hand.

She was holding Zack's arm, although he seemed a bit unwilling. Are they still not boyfriends? They're too close now! I am getting a bit mad at Zack... He's either too oblivious or just embarrassed. It's very obvious he likes her back.

"Hey Mist!" I waved my hand, as I greeted her and hugged her. She was as fluffy as ever! Her long white hair was so fluffy, like a sheep's wool. "You're fluffy as usual."

"F-Fluffy?" She wondered, tilting her head.

"H-Hey don't just sniff her hair like that!" Zack got slightly jealous.

"Hoh~?" I asked, teasing him. "Are you jealous?"

"N-No..." He said, crossing his arms and looking elsewhere.

"So how was it girls?" Wondered Celeste. "Did you two had a nice trip down scissor land?"

"S-Scissor land?" Aquarina wondered. "What are you even talking about?"

Ah... I think I know what she meant. Gosh, Celeste never changes, huh?

"N-Nothing, ignore her." I sighed, as Celeste giggled a bit.

"Heheh, sorry, sorry~ Anyways, let's get going." She said.

"What's scissor land?" Wondered Celica.

"Dunno." Aquarina shrugged.

"Please just stop talking about it!" I sighed, getting slightly embarrassed.

Like that, we made our way through the town of Agartha into the Great Gates that protected the entire city, which was surrounded by enormous walls that took us a few years to reconstruct.

"Young lady Sylph and her friends! I am glad to see you! Lord Allan just told me you were all coming today for your last test! I am glad." Said Eustace, greeting us. "Prepare yourselves!"

Chapter 719 Fixing Agartha's Walls

After ignoring Celeste's perverted comments, we moved to our next assignment.

Agh, quite honestly I ended feeling quite embarrassed, and now my mind is constantly thinking on that! Damn Celeste! I'm going to punish her somehow... Maybe I will stop helping her on improving her alchemy.

Anyways, we made our way through the town of Agarthia into the Great Gates that protected the entire city, which was surrounded by enormous walls that took us a few years to reconstruct.

"Young lady Sylph and her friends! I am glad to see you! Lord Allan just told me you were all coming today for your last test! I am glad." Said Eustace, greeting us. "Prepare yourselves!"

"Ah, hello Mister Eustace." I said with a smile. "But yeah, it is not really a test, more like a task..."

Eustace was the Knight Commander of Agarthia, a very strong man said to have a Physique of Tier 7! He was the strongest sword master of the city after all the heroes. Maybe I might be stronger by abusing Sunshine plus Dragon Heart, I do remember beating him before using only Sunshine.

But that was mostly because he went easy on me. If he fought while going completely all out... Well, I am not so sure anymore, the difference in power between tiers became bigger and bigger the higher they are.

"Ahahaha! Right!" He said. "Already by having conquered two dungeons and beating a Demon Lord subject all by yourselves more than proves your amazing strength, I even heard you defeated some sort of divine sea dragon monster?! You've grown so much, kids! I feel like at any time you're going to surpass me, hahaha!"

"I bet we already did." Aquarina said with a giggle.

"Hahaha, I like your attitude." He smiled. "In this task you need to do today, you'll have to prove me your endurance, courage, strength, and power..."

He quickly began exuding a powerful aura.

"I bet it must be something like... defending the city from monsters." Zack said.

"Nah, it is a fight against all the knights!" Aquarina said.

"Maybe we have to fight the commander?" Asked Mist. "I don't wanna..."

"Fight with Knight Commander?! T-That's a bit too scary!" Said Zephy, hiding behind Celica.

"Hehehe, don't worry Lord Zephy, Mister Teddy and his friends will protect us." Celica said, caressing my brother's head.

"C-Celica..." Zephy used this opportunity to hug her to his heart's content.

Hmmm, it is beginning to get a bit suspicious, but I am already guessing he likes her a bit.

"Hahaha, no, it is none of those things kids." Laughed Eustace. "For today's task...!"

Suddenly, we walked out of Agartha and looked into the walls.

They were all looking ruined, destroyed, and barely standing.

Yep, this was our task.

"I want you to help us repair all the walls! It has been a few years since we made them but due to the strong monsters around these lands, their attacks often leave big marks in our walls, repairing them and if possible, reinforcing them is a task given to you after proving your amazing magical abilities." He said.
"We can help by bringing materials and the like."

Eustace was not kidding, this was his "great" test. Everyone was left disappointed. Well yeah, it wasn't going to be an epic fight or something...

Ding!

[A New [Special Quest] Has Been Generated: [Repair the Walls of the Agartha City and Improve Them With Magic!] I think you should take a look at

[After hearing what has happened to the walls after only a few years since they were built, you are left shocked. To show that your city is safe to your grandmother, you must make the walls feel safe as well! Repair them and enchant them with magic so their durability become much higher. If possible, if they can resist magic attacks, that'll be sweet too.]

[Time Limit: 5 Hours.]

Woah the rewards are not holding back at all! A Grade Potions for Proficiency, Strengthening, and Runes! Sweet! The Time Limit is very short, I guess it is a challenge to complete this quickly so I can get the rewards, huh?

"Alright! Let's get to it, everyone! Let's do our best and finish this off quickly!" I celebrated.

Everyone raised an eyebrow by seeing me so energetic.

"Eustace, bring the knights, bring all the materials you've got, RIGHT NOW!" I said, quickly hurrying up.

"O-Oh! Sure, young lady!" He said with a giggle. "I am glad you're so energetic and willing to help! It seems you've truly grown up from the former spoiled little young lady we were so used to, haha."

"H-Hey don't call me spoiled." I sighed. "Now bring the things already! All of you, start moving too!" I told to the nearby knights.

"Y-Yes young lady!"

"Lady Sylph is so cute as always~!"

"She's so energetic too!"

"Just being around her gives me a lot of energy too, her energetic personality is contagious, hahaha!"

"She reminds me of my little daughter."

My friends were surprised over my sudden boost of confidence.

"Hey you really want to do this?" Zack was shocked.

"B-But of course! It is the most vital thing in the city, Zack! Do you want us to get invaded by monsters or something?" I sighed.

"R-Right, I guess you're right." He realized.

"It is a bit lame because I wanted some fighting to practice my new skills and stuff, but I guess this is fine as well~" Aquarina said with a smile. "I'll help you out, Sylphy, after all this country is also my home."

"Well I couldn't had expected anything less from my future wife." I giggled.

"G-Geez, that's a bit embarrassing!" She said while blushing.

"F-Future wife already?!" Zack was surprised. "You've planned far in the future, huh?"

"Zack, will you be my future husband then?" Mist asked.

"E-Eh?! Eeeeh?!"

He was really embarrassed with that question out of nowhere...

Chapter 720 Creating Brand-New Reinforced Walls With The Power Of Alchemy And Farming!

Eustace and the Knights were really quick, bringing us all the materials in front of the city's doors. There were thousands of giant blocks of stone, wood, metal, and more. My mother seemed to leave the rest to us. She really wanted us to just rebuild the entire damn thing on our own, huh?

I guess this could also be taken as a challenge, to test how far has our magic progressed. And let me tell you, mommy, it has progressed quite smoothly!

"Here is everything, young lady Sylph." Said Eustace.

"Young lady, are you going to move all by yourself and your friends?"

"Maybe we should divide into groups to transport the materials to each side of the city?"

"It is going to be tiring but sounds like a good idea. We can't make the kids just carry everything; it would hurt my pride..."

"Yeah, let's do that-" Eustace was about to say, before he was interrupted.

FLUOOOSH!

I waved my hand and gathered my Mana as a condensation of invisible energy, grabbing a large part of all the materials all by myself using my Aura as well, fusing it with my Mana and doing something like Telekinesis, but much more easy to control, as countless dragon-like claws emerged, grabbing all materials while I floated in midair using an easy to use levitation spell.

Every knight was left shocked. The rest of my friends began doing something similar with their own magics and auras. Zack lifted everything with gusts of winds. Aquarina used her water to transport everything inside a bubble. Celeste used her shadows and darkness to transport it all in her own shadow. Mist lifted some things using light. Celica used her golems to lift a lot of things. And Zephy used a combination of blood and darkness magic to lift his small part.

"Oh, you don't have to worry, everyone, we'll finish things in a few hours." I said with a gentle smile.
"Thanks for bringing it all though!"

"S-Sure, milady..."

"T-These kids are insane... H-How can they lift everything with just their raw magic power?!"

"Man, are you seriously wondering that? Lady Sylph's magic can even help her friends have incredible magic. That's a Royal Elf for you."

"They feel like in a completely different world than us..."

"S-She has like endless mana or something..."

"V-Very well Lady Sylph, if you ever need anything, we'll be here..." Eustace said, looking in surprise too.

They were all pretty strong but still were surprised over these type of things, I guess they're not as good with magic as they are with swords and techniques.

Anyways, we got into our job. Combining the repair-related spells and earth attribute spells with the materials and then using Alchemy and Crafting skills ended working wonders.

I also asked for Violet's help, as she imbued her alchemy powers into each wall section. By using Synthesis to merge things together, Metamorphosis to mold them into a good shape, and then Land Plowing on the walls themselves to reinforce them even more... It was all done much faster than we expected.

And once we were all done after many hours of combined efforts, all of the entire wall began shining brightly, gaining an even greater power.

"It's done! Woah, it is even shining?!" Aquarina was shocked. "Phew... I poured every last bit of magic I had into it. It looks so good!"

"Indeed, this was... The only artistic job I've ever done in my entire life, probably." Said Zack.

"It is nice!" Mist said with a giggle.

"Hahhh... I am beat. Even with Sylphy's Mana, this is too taxing." Celeste sighed.

"We'll done everyone." I congratulated my friends.

"Celica give me an hug..." Zephy sighed, as Celica gave him an hug.

"Lord Zephy, you must be very tired..." She sighed. "Agh, me too, and even Mister Teddy..."

We slowly made our way back home while walking, a bit too tired to fly anymore. And of course, I took this opportunity to check the Quest Completion rewards.

Ah, well, I also received tons of their help. Without them, I wouldn't had been able to complete this in the time limit. I might had taken a few more hours by myself... I guess they deserve the rewards for sure, no doubts about it.

Though giving it to them will be a bit... Well, I can always just use the excuse of "I had them from a while already, so take them all!" and just give it to them anyways. Aquarius is probably not included because she already got a similar Elixir from me...
