783 Chapter 782

Selena froze when she heard what Gavin said, staring at him in disbelief. "What did you just say?"

Gavin quickly reached out to steady her. "I said, the one who has colon cancer... is you. Selena, where's the medication from the hospital? You have it on you, right? Come on, let me help you take it!"

He frantically started rifling through her bag.

Selena was stunned. "Gavin, what nonsense are you spouting? How could I have colon cancer? I'm perfectly healthy..."

But before she could finish, the nausea she had barely suppressed surged back up.

This time, she couldn't hold it in. She clutched her stomach and vomited violently.

To make matters worse, her abdomen suddenly cramped with a sharp pain. Cold sweat broke out on her forehead.

Colon cancer...

Was it really her who had it all along?

Selena grabbed Gavin's arm in panic. "Gavin, I don't want to die, please... please save me!"

Gavin finally fished out the bottle of medication from her bag. "Selena, you'll be fine, don't worry. This is a special medicine. Even if you did ingest whatever that was, this will fix it!"

With shaking hands, he unscrewed the bottle.

Selena opened her mouth and swallowed the pill immediately.

She was utterly terrified, her whole body trembling uncontrollably as fear gripped her heart.

Was she really dying?

Could she actually have cancer?

No, no... she couldn't die.

She couldn't die...

But the more she tried to convince herself, the worse the pain in her abdomen grew. Grabbing onto Gavin, she cried out, "Gavin, it hurts so much, what should I do?"

Gavin was just as panicked. He glanced at the bottle. "This is the special medicine. The doctor told me it would relieve the pain. Why isn't it working?"

Selena followed his gaze, her eyes landing on the bottle.

That medicine was meant for her?

But wait...

She had already sold that special medication at the hospital and replaced it with vitamins.

This medicine was useless.

Realizing this, Selena's panic escalated, and she tried to throw up what she had just swallowed. This time, she vomited something dark, tinged with blood.

Gavin screamed, "Someone call an ambulance! Please, someone help her!"

Erin quickly stepped forward and took hold of Selena's wrist, frowning deeply.

"What's wrong with her?" Gavin asked anxiously.

Erin spoke with calm authority. "I have something that could stabilize her, but..."

She glanced at the bottle of special medication. "My remedy conflicts with this one. The pill she just took should have eased her pain already. Why didn't it work?"

Selena's eyes widened in panic.

She couldn't tell them! She had swapped the meds...

But if she didn't, Erin wouldn't give her the medicine.

As she hesitated, Gavin asked desperately, "Can I get her to a hospital in time?"

Erin shook her head. "It's too late for that. Besides, if this special medicine can't help her, the hospital won't be able to do much either... This is strange. Her symptoms don't match up."

Selena's fear got the better of her. "I didn't take the special medicine! Please, give me that medicine!"

Erin stopped, startled. "You didn't take it?"

Selena nodded frantically.

But Gavin was confused. "Selena, you just took the medicine. Don't you remember?"

Erin's voice was firm now. "My pill would be fatal if taken with the special medicine. If you did take it, you can't have this."

Selena was petrified. "I swear I didn't! The pills in that bottle—they're vitamins!"

Gavin blinked, his mind struggling to keep up. "What?"

Selena pointed to the bottle, her voice trembling. "That bottle is full of vitamins!"

Gavin opened it again and peered inside. Erin took the bottle and examined the pills herself before nodding. "They are vitamins. That's so strange. Why would you not take the medicine? Gavin got this special treatment for you—how could you let it go to waste?"

Gavin stared at Selena in disbelief.

Selena bit her lip. "I—I didn't want to spend the money. I thought I was fine. Gavin, I didn't know I was sick, so I switched it out for vitamins..."

Gavin still couldn't wrap his head around it. He pulled her into his arms, his voice breaking. "How could you be so foolish? If something happened to you, what would I do with the money?"

Selena sobbed against his chest, while Gavin's eyes filled with tears.

Ryan and Ellie exchanged a look, both of them rising from their seats.

Even Keira raised an eyebrow, her mind churning.

Ryan's voice was calm but sharp as he said, "Didn't you just say you thought Gavin had colon cancer?"

At that, Selena's crying abruptly stopped.

Gavin, wide-eyed, looked up at Ryan, completely dumbfounded.

Ryan didn't miss a beat. "Just a few minutes ago, you were yelling about how Gavin had cancer. Who was that medication meant for, then? Have you forgotten?"

Selena froze, her mind racing as all eyes turned to her. Gavin stared at her, realization slowly dawning.

Selena was taken aback and quickly explained, "Gavin, don't listen to him! I didn't know you were sick. I just thought taking too many meds was bad for your health, so I switched them out with vitamins! I really didn't know."

Gavin sighed in relief, looking over at Ryan. "Ryan, she didn't know."

Ryan looked at his brother, usually so smart, always sharp when helping out at the company—why did he turn into a completely different person around this woman?

He turned his gaze directly on Selena. "So when exactly did you find out that Gavin had colon cancer?"

Selena immediately responded, "Yesterday, yeah, it was yesterday... I saw Gavin's medical report yesterday. I thought he was the one who was sick..."

She looked at Gavin, voice desperate. "Honey, you have to believe me. Why was your name on that report?"

Gavin sighed. "I didn't want you to get hurt, so I used my name to take you to your appointments."

Selena's eyes filled with gratitude. "Honey, thank you for caring for me so much. You trust me, don't you?"

Gavin looked over to Ryan again. "I believe Selena isn't the kind of person they're saying she is."

Ryan took a deep breath.

Just then, Keira spoke up, "If you only found out about your husband's cancer yesterday, then how would I have been trying to poison him with the soup for any reason? You're not making any sense..."

Gavin frowned and looked at Selena, puzzled. "Yeah, Selena, I'm not sick, so there's no reason anyone would try to poison me."

Selena was now clenching her fists in frustration.

If she'd known it was her own cancer diagnosis, why on earth would she have poisoned herself, practically signing her own death warrant?

She wanted to slap herself for this mess.

Biting her lip, she looked at Gavin with a sudden realization. "Then it wasn't you they were trying to harm—it was me! They must have found out somehow that I had colon cancer, so they were trying to kill me!"

Seeing Gavin's unsettled expression, Selena pressed further, "Honey, did they know I had cancer?"

Gavin thought back to when Lewis and "Keera" first visited the Cobb family.

Ryan had shown them Selena's medical report without hesitation, just to make it clear that the Cobb family wouldn't hold back.

With Selena's limited time, they had to prioritize other things.

Gavin turned to "Keera." "They knew..."

Tears streamed down Selena's face. "Then they did this on purpose. They weren't trying to hurt you—they were trying to kill me! Honey, I know I've been an obstacle in their deal with the Cobb family. If they get rid of me, no one will stand in their way..."

Selena glared at "Keera" and Lewis with pure hatred.

If it weren't for them, she'd never be in this situation!

She had cancer, barely any time left...

She'd even looked it up after seeing Gavin's report. With the medicine she'd unknowingly taken, her time was even shorter...

As she processed this, a strange calm washed over her.

People often say that a person's final words are meant to be kind.

But Selena wasn't that kind. She didn't want to die, and if she did, she certainly wouldn't go down without making it miserable for those still alive!

She grabbed Gavin's arm with fervor. "Honey, it was them! They're the ones who've done this to me! You have to get justice for me!"

Gavin shot up, glaring at "Keera". "Ms. Olsen, Selena's been apologizing to you all evening. Even if you can't forgive her, going this far is too much!"

Keira scoffed, but Ryan spoke up.

"Gavin, calm down. We still don't know who tampered with the medicine. There's no proof yet."

Selena cut in, "Ryan, I know Ms. Olsen saved your life, and you want to repay her. It's fine. I'll die, and no one will stand in your way anymore..."

She squeezed Gavin's hand. "Honey, I take it all back. Don't get revenge for me... Just go on with your life. I... I deserve this."

Her mind was moving faster than ever, knowing just the right words to ignite Gavin's anger.

And sure enough, Gavin grew even more furious, shaking off Ryan's grip. "Ryan! I get that you're grateful to her for saving you, but they killed my wife! They tried to kill Selena! I can't just sit here and ignore that... I can't let this go on!"

He turned to "Keera." "I'm calling the police. I'm going to charge you with attempted murder!"

Selena shook her head. "Don't call the police. They're still my uncle and aunt. My mom killed my dad by accident, and they've always hated me for it... It's better if I just die. It'll be a release for me, and maybe for you too. Honey, don't blame Ryan. Just... just forget about me!"

The more Gavin listened, the more emotional he got, his eyes growing red.

He glared at Ryan. "Ryan, I won't let this go! If you still want to be friends with the Olsens and the Hortons, I'll leave the Cobb family!"

Tears were streaming down his face. "I can't stand to make nice with the people who killed my wife!"

Selena smiled at his words.

Even if she did die, she'd leave the Horton family with an enemy they couldn't simply dispose of, given Gavin's status in the Cobb family.

Gavin might not be able to hurt "Keera" and Lewis directly, but he'd make their lives miserable, and they wouldn't be able to touch him!

Selena was nearly ready to laugh out loud.

But the next moment, Lewis spoke up slowly, "There are cameras in the kitchen. We'll know exactly who tampered with the food."

The moment Lewis spoke, everyone paused, clearly caught off guard.

Ryan broke the silence. "Then please, Mr. Horton, could you pull up the surveillance footage?"

With a wave of Lewis's hand, the butler immediately went to arrange it.

Selena's eyes widened in disbelief as she looked back and forth between Lewis and Keira before she finally snapped, "You installed cameras in the house?"

Keira nodded. "We did. There've been way too many things going missing around here lately. Cameras are just a precaution. And like right now, since nobody's sure what happened, let's see what the footage says."

Selena bit her lip, her fists clenching.

She was convinced that Keira and Lewis had to be bluffing. Who would put cameras in their own kitchen?

Erin's gaze fell directly on Selena. "It's not too late to tell the truth right now. I might even let you have this pill so you can live a few more days."

Selena let out a cold laugh.

There's no way the kitchen cameras were real, she thought. If they were, why would Erin make an offer like that?

She grabbed Gavin's arm. "Honey, why would I lie? Don't you believe me?"

Gavin nodded immediately. "Of course, I trust you! Selena, you've always been so sweet and thoughtful. You've always wanted to make peace with Uncle Lewis and Aunt Keira. How could that be fake?"

Turning to Lewis and Keira, he spoke with renewed anger. "You two better not be trying to frame Selena. She's already at death's door. Do you really think she'd lie to me?"

Keira and Lewis exchanged a look but said nothing.

Ryan stepped in, "Gavin, calm down."

"Calm down? How could I possibly calm down?!" Gavin's voice rose to a near shout, his eyes reddening as he gestured toward Selena. "Look at her—my wife! She's dying, and you want me to sit quietly in the home of her would-be murderer? Ryan, I know you have your loyalty to Keera after she saved your life, but I... I need justice for my wife! I won't stand here and watch her suffer!"

Ryan frowned, deep in thought.

Ellie, glancing from Selena to Keira, chimed in, "Gavin, Ms. Olsen isn't like that. There's got to be some misunderstanding here..."

"What misunderstanding?" Selena let out a bitter laugh. "I mean, I couldn't possibly poison myself, could I?"

Just then, the butler returned, "Sir, the footage is ready."

He handed a tablet to Lewis, who barely glanced at it before passing it to Gavin. "See for yourself."

Gavin snatched it, taking one look before his eyes widened in shock. His gaze turned sharply to Selena.

Seeing his expression, Selena asked anxiously, "Honey, what is it? There's no footage, right? They're just bluffing..."

But Gavin handed her the tablet. "Selena, w-what is this?"

One look at the footage, and Selena went blank, stunned beyond words. She turned to stare at Lewis in disbelief

Keira raised an eyebrow. "Told you. The cameras are real."

Selena's mind spun. She had underestimated him!

Her lip trembled as she suddenly threw her arms around Gavin's leg. "Honey, I... I just don't want to live anymore! They've driven me to this! I wanted to die here in the Cobbs' home so they'd pay for this. You have to help me!"

Gavin stared down at her, speechless, a growing confusion on his face.

Ryan's voice cut in, his tone calm, "But earlier, didn't you seem to think it was Gavin who had colon cancer?"

Gavin looked over at Ryan, baffled. "Ryan, what are you saying? You mean...?"

Ryan continued, "If you had colon cancer and were killed by poison in the Horton home, then yes, that would make things between the Cobbs and the Hortons very different."

Taking a deep breath, Gavin turned to Selena, a new understanding dawning on him. "So at the hospital, when I asked you to pick up my medication, and you switched it with vitamins... You were saving money for yourself?"

He looked at her intently. "Why, Selena? Just tell me—why would you do that?"

Seeing there was no point in denying it anymore, Selena laughed bitterly, shoving Gavin away. "Why? You really want to know why? Fine. It's because I wanted you to help me get revenge. But you're a coward—you've never agreed to any of it! If you had, I wouldn't have gone through all of this trouble just to try to hurt you! And instead... I ended up hurting myself."
