

A Journey 331

Chapter 331 I Hope You Don't Do This Often

Archer kissed her and brought a hand up to her ear and started massaging causing her to shiver but she returned to kiss with passion.

As they were kissing he slipped inside her causing her to scratch his back and moan.

"Mmmmmgnhhh!~~"

Archer started to slowly make love with her as she squirmed under him, the two continued to kiss until they separated and looked at each other.

But that wasn't for long as she cuddled him and started moaning in his ear as she also spoke with a heavy breath.

"Mmmnghh!~~ I love this Archer. I'm so happy we met again."

He looked at her with a happy smile as he replied. "So am I Sia."

Archer leaned into her ear and spoke again. "And you look beautiful on your back."

After speaking he started to fuck her hard until she couldn't hold it in and orgasm causing her legs to quiver.

But he wasn't done with the older woman as he put her on all fours and look at her fat ass which he wanted to fuck.

He got behind her and started rubbing her pussy before shoving it in making her scream as she grabbed a pillow.

"Ahhhhh!~~"

When he heard that erotic sound he pushed deep inside her and shot his seed deep into his own Aunt which turned him on even more.

The pleasure overwhelmed her as she moaned so loud when he filled her up that she ended up screaming into the pillow as she collapsed.

"Agnnnhhhh!!"

Archer fucked her so hard that her legs start shaking like a vibrator as her love juices poured out alongside his seed.

He didn't give her a break and continued fucking her until she was lost in pleasure and fainted like the other girls.

Sia was in a daze but Archer approached her face and laid his member over it and spoke with a grin on his face. "Clean it."

She complied and started sucking his member, Archer grabbed her horn and fucked her face until he shot his seed down her throat.

He pulled out and collapsed on the bed next to her. Once he was comfortable he grabbed Sia and cast Cleanse on both of them.

The two cuddled up and rested for a little while, Archer soon fell asleep as he was up making love with all the girls apart from Leira but he still managed to spend some time with her.

[Ella's POV]

Ella woke up in her own room and wondered how she got there until she woke up properly and knew Archer brought her there.

She got out of bed and felt fresh and not like she had hours of sex the night before. Ella felt sore but loved it either way.

After thinking to herself with a smile on her face she started getting ready before walking out of the room.

She made her way to the kitchen and spotted Teuila and Talila sitting on the sofa chatting about something.

The two girls looked at her and smiled before Teuila greeted her with a grin. "Morning El. How do you feel this morning?"

Ella smiled when she heard her and answered. "Sore but I'm fine."

Teuila smiled as Talila asked the two. "How do you two deal with him? He's so rough, my butt is hurting me."

The three girls laughed but Teuila quickly answered. "That's why him having us girls is good. If there was only one of us they would be ruined. Trapped in a world of pleasure."

Talila and Ella giggled when the blue-haired girl finished speaking. After they finished talking she went to get some tea for them.

Once she was done she sat back down as Nefertiti and Sera walked into the room while looking around.

Nefertiti was about to speak but Sera beat her to it. "Where is Sweetheart?"

The pink princess got frustrated but ignored the redhead and joined the three girls on the sofas.

That's when Ella noticed Leira and Hemera walking into the room. The group of girls wondered where the lusty dragon was and went searching for him.

After a brief search, they found themselves outside Sia's room. They hesitated to trespass, but Nefertiti, unbothered by such concerns, swung the door open.

Inside, they discovered Archer and Sia, both deep in slumber. He held Sia close, his arm wrapped around her, while she wore a peaceful smile.

Ella noticed Nefertiti's mounting anger but gently nudged her.

"Calm down, Nefi," Ella whispered. "He treats all of us the same and you know this."

She nodded and walked out of the room mumbling about wanting cuddles tonight with him.

They left the room as Archer opened his eyes after being woke up. He looked down at Sia and saw her out cold.

Archer smiled and kissed her forehead before getting out of bed and making his way to the living room while stretching his arms.

When he entered the room all the girls turned to him and smiled before Nefertiti protested. "Husband you must do the same to all over us! It's only fair."

He looked at her and nodded his head as he spoke. "Of course. It will be your go tonight and each girl after that?"

They all agreed with him, the group started speaking to each other as Ella went to make breakfast for them.

Leira turned to Archer and spoke. "Father said go finish the college preparations it got held back a few days due to the swarm but the year starts tomorrow."

He smiled at the cat girl before taking a seat on a sofa to wait for the food. Leira joined him and continued talking. "We need to buy all the stuff we need for classes and a cloak."

Archer's eyebrow raised and asked. "Cloak? Why do we need that?"

Leira giggled before answering. "It will tell people we are students of the College of Magic plus they offer some protection against attacks."

He gave her a nod before leaning over and quickly kissed Leira on the cheek which caused her to stiffen.

The other girls started giggling before Ella called out. "Breakfast is ready people."

Archer jumped up and took a seat at the table before the half-elf placed a plate full of meat and scrambled eggs.

He started eating alongside the others and after a while, they were all finished. Archer said he was going to see the emperor and Leira joined him before casting Gate.

The two walked through the portal and appeared in the Avalonian palace scaring a maid who was walking by.

But the woman calmed down when she saw the princess. Leira grabbed his hand and dragged him to her Father's study.

After walking for ten minutes the two arrived at a large brown door and she knocked before hearing a voice from the other side. "Come in!"

Leira walked in dragging Archer behind her and Osoric looked up to see the two of them but also noticed his daughter holding the boy's hand.

He spoke. "Archer. What did you do now?"

"They kidnapped Sia and hurt her so I returned the favor making your invasion easier as I crushed the castles and forts along the way," Archer said with a grin as he sat down.

Leira sat down next to him as her Father replied. "Okay well thank you. You will be rewarded once we have taken the kingdom."

He nodded with a smile before the three started chatting before Archer left the daughter and Father to catch up.

Archer told Leira to just use the bracelet to return to the domain as they sort out the College things they needed.

When he was done he cast Gate and reappeared in an alleyway in the city, he opened a portal so the girls could join him.

All but Hecate and Sia came, when he saw them he kissed each one as Ella spoke. "Sia is still sleeping and Hecate is researching new potions.

He smiled at the half-elf before leading them to the western gate, as they were walking people looked at them and started gossiping.

Ella and Hemera were holding his arms making him chuckle to himself, it was uncomfortable to walk so he told them to take turns.

At first, they were upset but he made sure each girl had their go which pleased them and soon the group reached the gate,

They passed through it after the guards greeted him. After walking for twenty minutes they arrived at the college.

The girls were amazed as they looked at the buildings but Archer saw many students coming and going as the college guards stood at the entrance.

When they got closer the guards bowed to him with smiles on their faces causing the surrounding students to get confused looks on their faces.

As they were walking Ophelia appeared in front of them with narrowed eyes as she spoke. "Because of you boy the emperor gave the students a few more days. I hope you don't do this often."

Chapter 332 Gianna Silvercrest

Archer looked at the beautiful woman and replied with a smile. "It won't happen unless it involves my girls. I'm here to learn not cause trouble."

Ophelia looked at the boy whose tail was swaying behind him as he watched her with a charming smile on his face.

But as she was going to talk Nefertiti stepped forward and poked Archer causing him to yelp. They all started laughing as Ophelia watched them.

She shook her head before speaking. "That's good then. I hope you enjoy your time here with the girls. I have a feeling you will go far if you put your mind to it."

When Archer heard her he smiled. "Yes, I will try my best headmistress. Where do we get the stuff we need?"

Ophelia smiled at them before calling over a professor who was walking past. "Professor Silvercrest."

Archer turned his head and saw a green-haired woman approaching with a pair of jaguar ears on her head.

She was wearing a tight-fitting black dress that highlights her muscles and big boobs that jiggled every time she stepped.

The woman stopped in front of Ophelia as she spoke. "Headmistress. What can I do for you?"

But as she finished speaking she spotted Archer standing there looking at her. She shook her head as Ophelia asked. "Can you show Archer and the girls to the college shop? I have to be somewhere."

Gianna looked at her and nodded with a smile. Ophelia turned to Archer. "I will see you around Mr.Wyldheart."

She clicked her fingers and vanished from the spot with a poof shocking them. The girls looked confused but Archer could see all the mana she used and realized that she was powerful.

Archer turned to the jaguar woman with curiosity in his eyes and asked. "You remind me of someone professor. Are you related to Janna Ashguard?"

Gianna's yellow cat eyes looked at him and a grin appeared on her face as she nodded before talking. "Yes, she is my little sister."

She looked Archer up and down as she continued. "So you're Archer. My sister has told me much about you, I'm sorry for the way Larke and Ksara treated you over the years."

When he heard her apology he shook his head and spoke. "It's not your fault, you weren't there but your sister was nice to me. But it's nice to meet you, Gianna."

The older woman smiled as she looked at the girls and commented with a chuckle. "You have gathered up a group of strong ladies boy. That's good, now follow me."

She turned on her heels and marched off followed by the group. The girls started chatting among themselves as he watched the green-haired woman.

Her waist swayed as she walked but her tail was swaying all over the place in excitement which didn't go unnoticed by him.

He sped up his walk and fell in next to her causing her to look at him. "What are you doing boy? Won't your girls get jealous?"

Archer smiled before answering. "It will be fine. So what do you teach here?"

Gianna smiled as she replied. "Elemental Affinities and Mana Control. They are the two lessons I teach here."

"Oh, that's good. I want to see if I can learn anything from you Auntie." He said with a grin catching the woman off guard.

She smiled at him and remarked, "I'm aware you're engaged to Sia Silverthrone, your aunt. But don't assume your charm will work on me, young man. Many have attempted, yet none have succeeded."

Archer grinned. "We shall see Auntie. Where are we going now?"

"This way and make sure the girls keep up," Gianna spoke as she sped up.

He watched her walk away as Talila approached. "What is it with you and aunts?"

Archer looked at her before laughing as they continued walking. After ten minutes they came to a room where Gianna told them to enter.

When they did it was a large room with shelves stocked with all different kinds of things. The girls were amazed but Archer wondered if this was the college's shop.

A young man appeared out of a back room and was shocked when he saw Archer with six girls.

He shook his head and spoke. "Line up and I will deal with you lot one by one."

Archer nodded and the girls quued up and Ella was first. The man looked at her and introduced himself. "I'm Galadon. I run the college's shop, what is your name?"

Ella smiled as she answered. "Ella Wyldheart."

The man looked down at a list and wrote something down as he went to grab a box before giving it to her.

"There are a few notebooks in there along with two capes and Laboratory Equipment for your potion classes," Galadon spoke as he pushed the box toward her.

He continued speaking. "There is a booklet in there that explains everything that's in the box. The list I gave you was the basics."

Ella nodded as she took the box and thanked the man as Teuila approached and he asked the same question.

"Teuila Wyldheart." She said with a grin.

Galadon looked up from the paperwork before ticking her name off and grabbing a box for her.

He did the same for all six girls and was shocked silly as each girl shared the same family name.

His gaze turned to Archer who was standing in front of him. When he paid attention to him he realized the boy was a demi-human.

But then saw the four dragon horns, the tail swaying behind him, and the pair of violet dragon eyes looking at him. I think you should take a look at

Galadon couldn't help but ask. "Are you married to all six?"

Archer smiled before answering. "Yes. There are two more but they are busy."

The human's eyes opened wide but quickly composed himself and got Archer's box. He handed it to him.

When he took the box he threw it into his Item Box along with the other girl's boxes. After doing that Galadon spoke. "Now that is done with, return to the college tomorrow and you will find out what class you will be in."

Archer and the girls nodded before leaving the shop and made their way outside but were stopped by Nala and Lioran Lionheart.

Nala stepped forward and spoke to Archer with a grin on her face. "Dragon when will our blades cross? Can we fight now?"

His eyes shone as a big smile appeared on his face. But before he could speak Leira sent him a message about being ready to join them.

She soon appeared out of a portal opened by Archer. When the cat girl appeared he asked her. "Leira is there anywhere we can fight?"

The cat girl nodded her head and led the whole group to the fighting arena. It was a large area with several stages all over the place.

The large group approached the closest as Nala jumped up onto it followed by Archer. Her brother Lioran was the referee.

He looked at Archer with a smile. "Hello Arch. How have you been?"

"I've been good Leo. I can't wait to fight your sister." He replied to the lion boy.

Lioran laughed as he commented. "She loves a fight, my friend. Make sure to give her one."

He nodded his head as Nala spoke up. "Give me a good fight Archer. I'm dying for one."

When he looked at the lion girl, her wild sandy blonde hair was bouncing all over the place as he tail was swaying with excitement.

Her blue eyes were staring at him like he was prey causing him to chuckle and want to show her who's better.

She was wearing what looked like African-styled clothing that allowed her to move around and use her speed.

Archer decided to scan her.

[Name: Nala Lionheart]

[Race: Lion Demi-Human]

[Age: 17]

[Rank: Magus]

[Exp: 2680/15000]

[Level: 156]

Skills: Body Enhancement (4) Herculean Endurance (6) Aura of Might(4)

They were now standing at opposite ends of the fighting stage, their eyes locked on each other with an intense determination.

He decided to just have fun with her and not go all out as he knew he could end the fight instantly if he wanted to.

The arena was filled with a buzz of anticipation as students and spectators started arriving to witness the clash between the two.

Lioran, standing at the center of the stage as the referee, raised his arm high. He glanced at the two, who were ready for the duel, and then brought his arm down with a swift motion.

"Begin!" His voice boomed across the arena, and the fight was on.

But before they moved Nala let out a loud roar and Archer saw mana flow over her and they surged forward, closing the distance between them in the blink of an eye.

Their movements were a blur of agility and precision as they unleashed a flurry of punches and kicks.

Archer's fists moved like lightning, aiming for her midsection, while Nala countered with swift kicks aimed at his head and legs.

The air crackled with the energy of their attacks as they danced around each other, their movements almost too fast for the eye to follow.

Nala's speed was breathtaking. She weaved and bobbed, her lithe body darting in and out of his range.

Archer, on the other hand, relied on his body and dragon-like reflexes to evade Nala's attacks.

He leaped gracefully into the air, avoiding her powerful kicks, and landed with a fluid grace.

As the battle raged on, Archer's punches were precise and packed a powerful punch.

But Nala's agility and lightning-fast kicks kept him on his toes. They circled each other like predators, each waiting for the other to make a move.

Chapter 333 Dragon Vs Lion

Suddenly, Nala lunged forward with a spinning kick, her leg a deadly blur as it sliced through the air toward his head.

But Archer had anticipated the attack. He dropped to the ground, narrowly avoiding her attack by rolling to the side.

Before she could recover, he was back on his feet, launching a series of rapid punches towards her.

Nala blocked and parried his blows with incredible speed and skill. It was a mesmerizing display of combat prowess.

The girls and crowd of students watched in marvel as the two continued to clash, their movements a beautiful and deadly dance.

Each strike was met with a counter, and each dodge was followed by a swift counterattack. It was a battle of wits and reflexes, and neither Archer nor Nala was willing to give an inch.

As the battle raged on, it became clear that this fight was more than just a sparring match. It was a test of skill and the sheer thrill of combat.

Nala pushed herself to the limit as Archer was having fun. The arena echoed with the sound of their fists and feet meeting the air.

The fight continued until Archer managed to catch her fist and pulled her close as his tail wrapped around her thigh and he held her arms.

He leaned forward and bit her ear causing her to let out a moan before complaining. "You stupid dragon. You're not meant to do that! Only my future husband can!"

She got angrier and headbutted him which caught him off guard but he still held on as he summoned his wings.

With a flap, he took off and hovered above the stage shocking the lion girl. She turned to look at him and spoke. "Why are you flying? I already lost so let me go."

When he heard her he smiled before going to move his arms but Nala realized what she said and clung to him.

Archer whispered into her twitching ear. "As an apology for biting your ear let me show you something beautiful?"

After hearing his offer Nala nodded her head and he wrapped his arms around her before flying off.

He sent a message to the girls telling them what he was doing. All the girls shook their heads as they giggled.

Archer told her to hold on tight causing her to grin as she gripped him firmly as they soared into the sky, leaving the college and the city behind.

The wind rushed past them as they broke through the cloud cover, and their surroundings transformed into a breathtaking vista of rolling hills, lush forests, and sparkling rivers.

The landscape stretched as far as the eye could see, a patchwork of vibrant greens and blues.

Archer banked to the side, allowing Nala to take in the beautiful scenery below. She gasped at the sheer beauty of it all, feeling like she was soaring through a dream.

They flew gracefully, dipping and rising with the currents of the wind. Archer's wings were strong and agile, and he flew through the skies with ease.

As they continued their flight, Archer shared stories of his past adventures and travels, painting vivid pictures of the places he had visited.

Nala hung on to his every word. Time seemed to stand still as they enjoyed the freedom of the open skies and each other's company.

It was a moment of pure serenity and connection, a memory they would carry with them forever.

Eventually, as the sun began its descent toward the horizon, Archer and Nala made their way back to Starfall City.

With a gentle landing in the arena, their unplanned flight came to an end. Nala looked at him with gratitude in her eyes. "Thank you. That was incredible."

He smiled before answering. "You're welcome Nala. Also the fight was really fun as well."

After he finished speaking he cast Gate to return back to the fighting stages where he left the girls.

When the two passed through the portal everyone turned to them with wide eyes but they ignored it and approached the girls and Lioran who was waiting for her.

Once they arrived back all the waiting girls greeted him with kisses and cuddles before chatting to Nala.

But Archer pulled Ella aside and asked. "When did the empire find out your names?"

When the half-elf heard him she smiled before answering. "We told Leira who forwarded it to her Mother."

Archer was relieved and started talking to Ella and the rest of the girls. "What does everyone want to do?"

Teuila quickly replied. "We will go out with the lion girls and Halime. You can go with Nala's brother."

He nodded as the girls wandered off, leaving him and the lion boy. Lioran laughed and said, "Let's grab a meal. You must be hungry after that fight." "I think you should take a look at Lioran led Archer to the city as they spoke about their childhood. As they passed a caravan he turned to him and asked. "How was your childhood, Arch?"

When he heard the question he sighed before deciding to tell the curious lion. "It was bad, I have many siblings but none of them ever bothered with me. I was left alone most of the time."

Lioran listened as Archer told him some of the stories from his younger days but after passing through the gate he stopped answering.

They walked down Starfall's main street as Archer asked the lion boy a question. "What about yours?"

He laughed before answering. "Well our Father trained us all but Nala was something special. She has always loved fighting and today was the first time I've seen someone apart from our Father and his general."

Archer chuckled before commenting. "I will continue to fight her, I enjoyed it."

The two soon came to a rustic-looking restaurant and entered it. They were welcomed by an older man who seemed to be a waiter while an older lady was behind the counter.

"Hello, young masters. Welcome to Wonderland Bites. How can we help you?" The old man politely asked.

Lioran quickly replied. "Table for two and we want to see what you have on offer before placing an order."

The old man nodded and led them to a table in the corner. Archer took a seat and picked up a menu before reading it.

He noticed that they sold a lot of meat dished with what sounded like noodles. Archer decided to order all of it and try it.

Lioran already knew what he wanted to order as the old man arrived and spoke. "Have the young masters decided what to eat?"

Before the lion boy could speak Archer started to talk. "I want two of everything you have but I want ten bowls of your Dragonfire Noodles please."

The old man and Lioran were shocked but the boy started laughing as the man looked at Archer like he was crazy.

But when he saw the serious look on his face the old man wrote it down causing Lioran to laugh even more before placing his order.

Once they were done the waiter went back to the kitchen and Lioran asked Archer another question. "Where did you meet the girls?"

Archer looked at him and answered. "Well I've known Ella since I was really young but the other girls I met on my journey home."

He went on to tell him how he met each girl and the backstory of it all which took a while. By the time Archer was done the waiter and other members of staff wheeled out cart after cart of food.

They placed a plate in front of Lioran before leaving all the carts near Archer who thanked them before eating.

Archer started eating a meal that looked like mashed potatoes with bits of meat in it. He quickly ate it all and moved on to the next plate.

The old man and other waiters looked at the strange boy but shrugged their shoulders. Before they left the two Archer spoke. "How much?"

When the waiter heard this he shook his head and started adding up the gold coins before stating a price. "433 gold coins."

Archer took out a pouch of gold and handed it over to the man before he went back to eating which shocked everyone.

He continued eating before finishing most of the meals, Lioran watched him before asking. "How can you eat so much?"

Before Archer could answer he noticed a group of knights entering the restaurant and looked around.

When a knight spotted him he spoke to the others and the group approached them. This didn't bother Archer as he continued to eat.

A middle-aged human got close and bowed toward him as he spoke. "Hello young master, I'm Henry Silverthrone. The family head Albert wishes to see you."

Archer finished the meat sandwich he made before speaking. "Why should I go see him? Can't you see I am with a friend having lunch?"

Henry looked at the so-called lunch and mumbled. "More like feast cousin."

When he heard that he got curious. "Why do you call me that? Are we related?"

The man went on to explain. "I am the son of Larka and Sia's brother Runo Silverthrone."

Archer turned to face him and was shocked at the resemblance. Henry had black hair and blue eyes like his mother.

Chapter 334 Grandfather Albert

Archer commented when he looked at Henry. "You look like my fiance and Mother. Where is this Albert?"

The guards behind Henry were annoyed but held their tongues as they had heard the rumors about this boy and how cruel he could be.

Henry spoke. "He is in the Silverthrone mansion. The Duke has invited you over to meet."

When he heard his cousin he replied. "I'm still hungry. Let me finish then I will join you but my friend is coming."

After talking he went back to eating and started eating their noodles after using fire magic to warm them back up.

Some of the noodles were sweet, sour, and spicy but he loved the noodle and meat combination.

Archer gorged himself before ordering a large mug of Ale which the waiter brought. He downed it before standing up.

Lioran quickly spoke. "Arch you go ahead, he is your Grandfather and I don't want to get in the middle of the family."

He looked at the lion boy and nodded. Archer turned to Henry and told him to wait here and jumped into the domain.

Once he entered he closed his eyes and created a basic bracelet that he can communicate with Lioran using mana.

After creating it he returned to the restaurant and gave it to the lion boy. "If you send mana into it you will be able to contact me."

Lioran nodded as Henry stared at the two boys in shock and wondered where he got such an artifact.

When he did that he left with the Silverthrone soldiers and sent a message to Sia telling her what he was doing.

After ten seconds a portal opened spooking the guards around him and their eyes opened wide when Sia walked out.

They bowed to her but she ignored them as she embraced Archer in a tight cuddle and whispered into his ear. "I got the tattoo, my husband. Thank you for that."

She kissed his cheek which shocked all the men around them but Henry coughed causing Sia to turn on him. "Why are you interrupting my time with my husband Henry?"

The man stepped back but apologized before the group continued walking. Archer sent a message to all the girls to let him know where he was.

Sia grabbed his hand with a big smile before they continued on. That's when Henry turned to Archer and spoke. "I heard you're really strong. Why didn't you beat that lion girl?"

When he heard this his eyebrow raised and answered. "Well I could have but where is the fun in that? I was holding back."

Henry nodded and the group continued on in silence as they listened to Sia pampering Archer.

Two of the guards that were behind them started whispering. "Why is Lady Sia with someone so young?"

"Yes I heard the Duke in the south wanted to marry her but she rejected him to marry a boy barely out of nappies?" The other guard spoke.

Archer's ears twitched but he ignored them and looked at Sia. "How are you feeling?"

The dragon-kin woman turned to him with a big smile as she spoke. "I'm still sore but I'm happy that I'm now yours and you are mine."

He smiled when he heard her and nodded. The group walked for about twenty minutes until they came across a large mansion.

Sia smiled and commented. "Welcome to the Silverthrone Family mansion. This is where Father stays when he isn't deployed."

Archer nodded as they walked through the gate and was greeted by an older man and woman who were waiting at the entrance of the mansion.

There were some butlers and maids standing behind them. When they saw Sia they had shocked looks on their faces.

But once they saw him they were shocked even more. Albert was confused as he didn't look like his Mother or Father and wondered what happened to the boy.

Archer looked at the older couple and thought the older human looked like Santa Claus which made him chuckle internally.

He turned to the woman and was shocked. She looked like the older version of his Mother and Sia.

She had wavy black hair with a pair of black horns on her head. The woman had bright blue eyes just like the sisters.

As he glanced at the older woman, she warmly smiled at him and approached, saying, "Hi, Archer. I'm your Grandma Mia Silverthrone, and this is your Grandpa Albert Silverthrone."

He looked at the older woman and smiled before speaking. "Why did you want to see me?" "I think you should take a look at

That's when Albert stepped forward as he commented. "We wanted to meet our Grand son and son-in-law as you will be marrying our Sia."

The woman in question was smiling as she held Archer's hand and this didn't go unnoticed by Mia who shook her head before talking to the group. "Come inside. I want to get to know you."

Archer nodded and followed behind his Grandparents. He dug through his memories and only had two distant memories of them.

Once when he was four they visited the Mistwood Duchy for Larka's birthday and the other time was when a tournament was taking place and he met them.

He shook his head and entered the mansion. Archer felt a squeeze on his hand and he looked at Sia who was smiling at him as she spoke. "Stop thinking husband. It's not good for you, you have us girls now."

Archer leaned over and kissed her on the cheek causing her to get happy which caught the attention of his Grandparents.

Mia turned around and smiled when she saw the two laughing with each other while Albert just shook his head.

They continued walking until they came to a room that looked peaceful but didn't stop there as Mia led them to the balcony.

The group walked out onto it and took a seat at a large table. A maid appeared with a tray of tea and placed a cup in front of each of them.

He started drinking and enjoyed the tea. When Mia saw this she ordered the maid to bring more as she asked him a question that was on her mind.

"Archer do you really love our Sia? I understand she is beautiful but remember she is also your aunt."

When he heard Mia's question he instantly answered. "Yes, I do love her. She was the only person apart from Ella to show me love when I was growing up."

He drank some tea before continuing. "I remember all the places she took me and the cold nights we spent inside a tent next to a river."

As Archer spoke Sia smiled even more and was happy that he remembered their time together as he grew up.

After ten minutes of talking, he was finished leaving his Grandparents shocked. They shook their heads as Albert asked. "Is it true you have brought kingdoms to ruins?"

He looked at his Grandfather and nodded his head shocking them. Mia was the next to ask. "Why?"

Archer answered honestly. "They either did something to my girls or me. Some attacked me like the Church of Light for example."

They understand where he was coming from but didn't agree with his methods but that's when someone knocked on the door.

Albert shouted out. "Come in!"

That's when a middle-aged man walked in and looked at Albert. "I heard Sia is back."

Archer saw his Grandfather roll his eyes as he answered the man. "Yes, Robert she is here but doesn't want to see you. I've told your Father she doesn't want to marry you."

When Archer heard this his eyes narrowed at the human. He had blue hair with green eyes and was skinny.

He laughed to himself catching everyone's attention. Robert turned in their direction and his eyes widened when he saw Sia sitting next to Archer.

The man's eyes narrowed but didn't say anything but smiled at Sia as he spoke. "General Sia. It's good to see you again, I must say you loo."

Sia's blue eyes turned on him with a cold look. "I told you many times I won't marry you. I have my husband and have no need for another man."

She turned to Archer with a big smile earning her a kiss on the cheek causing the human's face to turn red.

Mia and Albert sighed as the man was the son of their closest friends and didn't want to ruin the relationship with them.

Archer saw the man's face and kissed Sia again before speaking to Robert. "She is mine. You will not bother her anymore or you will suffer."

When he said Robert got even angrier and spoke. "Who are you, boy? You're too young to be with a woman like her."

After the man spoke Archer stood up and approached him with a grin on his face. He grabbed him by the neck and brought him forward.

Robert was caught in a vice grip and couldn't fight back as Archer whispered something into his ear. "She's already been claimed by me. She was screaming my name and moaning her head off under me."

Chapter 335 What The Future Holds

After whispering into the man's ear Archer slapped him a few times before dropping him to the floor.

Albert jumped up and barked out. "Boy, what are you doing? You've clearly hurt the man. He is a son of a dear friend."

Archer looked at his Grandfather and shrugged before casting Aurora Healing on Robert. The swelling vanished causing him to look up.

When he saw Archer's glowing dragon eyes he got scared and spoke. "Okay, I will leave her alone as she is your wife now."

Robert stood up and rushed off the balcony looking back at a smiling Archer who walked back to the table and sat back down.

Mia and Albert looked at him angrily but curiously, but he spoke before they could. "He would never leave her alone if I didn't hurt him but he's healed so it's fine."

When Sia saw all this she started laughing causing her parents to look at her. They shook their heads.

Albert spoke next as he sighed. "Well at least you didn't kill him there's that."

The four were talking as Archer started to get to know his Grandparents whom he found pleasant and much different from his Mother Larka.

When they were done Mia turned to him and spoke in a happy tone. "I approve of your betrothal to our daughter even though you are our Grandson but Sia has loved you for years now."

Archer smiled when he heard her and gave her a nod before drinking more tea as the maid appeared with an extra pot.

Albert and Sia excused themselves before entering the mansion again. When they left Mia spoke up. "So how many girls do you have now?"

When he heard the question he answered after drinking some tea. "There are nine of them now."

Mia's eyes widened in shock but she started laughing as she commented. "You are a lust-filled dragon ain't you Archer?"

He also laughed but nodded his head with a cheeky smile. "Yes, I am."

As he spoke he saw into the Silverthrone garden and saw a white-haired woman walking along looking at all the flowers.

The midday sun shone down as a breeze blew through his hair. Mia saw where he was looking before talking. "That is your Mother Dear. She has been here for a while trying to better herself."

When Archer heard it was his Mother his mood soured but quickly pushed that aside and wondered what she would say to him now.

He turned to Mia and spoke with a smile. "I will be back shortly Grandma. I want to go see her."

She nodded her head as he cast Blink and vanished from the chair. He reappeared just behind Larka who he heard mumbling to herself.

Archer looked at the woman and he didn't feel anything toward her, no hate or love he just felt nothing.

He knew what he experienced was hell but promised he wouldn't let hate control his life.

As he looked at her he got a message from the girls asking to join him. Archer Blinked back to the balcony his Grandmother was on and asked her if they could join.

She nodded with a big smile as he opened a portal and seven girls walked out while looking around.

Archer told them what was happening and introduced them to Mia before returning to the garden while they got to know her.

Once he stopped thinking to himself Archer shook his head and spoke. "Hello Mother."

[Larka's POV]

When she heard that voice she stopped moving and started getting nervous as she turned around and spotted her son standing there.

Larka looked at him and was surprised by how much he had changed. They now shared the same white hair because she dyed it but he had bright violet dragon eyes.

As she gazed upon his slowly swaying tail and the four magnificent white horns adorning his head, a wave of regret washed over her.

It started to overwhelm her until Archer spoke. "I don't hate you anymore."

He walked closer to her but she quickly stepped back as he continued. "Why should I continue to hate you? If it wasn't for the way the Ashguards treated me I wouldn't have what I do today."

Archer motioned to the balcony where her parents normally relaxed and saw a large group of girls chatting with her Mother.

Larka looked back at him and her eyes started to get wet as she realized that he had found some form of happiness. "I'm sorry for the way I've treated you, Archer." "I think you should take a look at

Stepping forward, she continued to speak with a heavy heart, "I've been a terrible mother to you. I'm not asking for forgiveness because I know I've gone far beyond that point, but I do hope that one day we can begin anew."

When Larka stopped talking she looked down and refused to look at him out of guilt. She knew there was no chance for her but still wanted to try and do her best to make it up to him.

No matter what it took, she was now willing to do anything for him, having had the time to understand the true extent of what she had done to the boy.

However, before she could delve further into her thoughts, a hand gently grabbed her arm and led her to a nearby bench.

She looked up and saw Archer guiding her to the bench, where he sat down beside her. He leaned back, speaking with a measured tone.

"Let's see what the future holds, but I still harbor resentment for the way I was treated. However, that's all in the past as I am not the same Archer anymore."

Larka heard his words, and her gaze fell once more as he continued, seeking answers. "Why did you treat me like that?"

She shook her head and, with a hint of regret, replied, "I allowed your father to manipulate me into believing that power was everything and abused you due to being different. But now, I understand the gravity of my mistakes."

[Back to Archer]

Upon hearing her explanation, Archer nodded in understanding. He then stood up, surprising Larka, who quickly rose to her feet as well.

He chuckled at her reaction and extended his hand toward her.

She hesitated for a moment, as if holding his hand was a precious, fragile artifact. Eventually, took hold of it.

That's when Archer casts Blink to appear back on the balcony shocking everyone. When Mia saw that he was with Larka she smiled.

Archer sat between Ella and Leira who was chatting. They all gave him their usual greeting as Larka just stood there.

Once he sat down he heard Albert and Sia return. When they stepped onto the balcony they saw Larka standing there until Mia motioned for her to sit down.

Sia wondered why she was there and approached Archer and whispered into his ear. "Why is she here husband?"

Archer turned to her and answered. "She was wandering around the garden mumbling to herself so I brought her to Grandmother to keep an eye on her."

Sia nodded as she sat down and asked another question. "Have you spoken with her?"

"Yes, only a little bit. I only told her I don't hate her because I'm not letting it control my life, after meeting you girls I've realized that it's just not worth it anymore." Archer commented.

She smiled before kissing him on the cheek, that's when Albert was finished introducing himself as his Grandfather.

He sat down next to Mia and spoke with a hint of mischief in his voice. "Will you visit your old Grandparents now, young Archer? Your Mother missed us and returned."

Archer looked at Larka who kept looking at him but looked away. That's when he saw Ella approaching her.

His ears twitched as he zoned in on their conversation.

"Lady Larka. May I have a word with you?" Ella said in a neutral voice.

When his Mother heard her she nodded before walking away with the half-elf. They stopped not far from them as Ella was the first to speak.

"I don't mean this in a disrespectful way but you can never be like how you once were, If he sees that again I don't know what he'd do or what some of the other girls would do."

Larka nodded her head and instantly replied. "I wish him no ill Ella. I just want to make up for the way I've treated him, I know I can't but I still want to try, my other children had a Mother but he never."

Ella nodded as she motioned to a chair not far which pleased Archer so he could still listen to the conversation.

The two sat down as the half-elf continued. "Well I'm not sure if you can mend anything at this point but you can still try."

She looked over at him and gave him a glowing smile before continuing. "He spoke to you today, maybe that is a start but he just might be curious."

Larka looked confused before asking as she got worried. "What do you mean be curious?"

Ella giggled before explaining. "It's just who he is. He gets curious about things and if they interest him he will take it. But in your case, he might talk more and more to you."

Chapter 336 Love And Hate

When Larka heard Ella she nodded her head and spoke with resolution in her voice. "I will do my best to make it up to him."

Ella smiled before replying. "That's good because all Archer wanted in his life was a Mother. It's all he used to talk about before the incident."

"What about after?"

"He hasn't mentioned it since. He isn't the same as before, Archer is open and very affectionate. He always dotes on us and helps us with whatever we may need." Ella answered

Before ending the conversation with Archer's Mother she spoke again. "I remember a quote he used to tell me all the time when we were just kids."

A smile appeared on Ella's face as the memories appeared as she continued. "Darkness cannot drive out darkness, only light can do that. Hate can-not dri-ve out hate, only love can do that."

Larka nodded in understanding and thought to herself. 'In his darkest moments, he found the girls that became his guiding light and helped rid him of the hatred.'

She sighed before the two women joined the group. Archer saw the half-elf who was walking over to join them.

Archer smiled as Ella approached him but before she could sit down his tail grabbed her by her waist.

He pulled her onto his lap and continued talking to his Grandparents like nothing happened. Everyone looked at him and started laughing as Larka took a seat next to Mia.

They continued to talk until Leira turned to Archer and said. "Have you and the girls sorted your dorm rooms out?"

He looked at her with a raised eyebrow and asked with a surprised voice. "Was I meant to do that?"

Leira was about to reply when Mia interrupted. "Yes, you have to go register for one at the college's reception. They will be able to help you there."

Archer's eyes widened in shock but then wondered if he could have sex with the girls in his dorm room.

That's when everyone saw a weird smile appear on his face causing his Grandparents, Mother, and girls to laugh.

He shook his head and spoke. "Well, we will go do that now."

Mia and Albert smiled as they shook their heads when they heard him.

Larka stood up and walked over to him before speaking in a low voice. "I'm sorry once again Archer. I hope you enjoy your time there it is an amazing experience."

He looked at her before replying. "Thank you."

Once he spoke Archer quickly cast Gate to the road that led to the College of Magic. After saying their goodbye they all entered the portal.

Sia bid farewell to her parents with a cheerful wave before passing through the portal. As they emerged on the other side, they found themselves on a bustling street.

Archer took a moment to observe the lively surroundings, noticing the constant flow of people coming and going.

Soon, Sia approached him with a warm smile and addressed him affectionately. "My love, I must return to Sentinel's Reach. Will you come to visit me in a few days?"

He nodded before casting Gate again and gave her a kiss before she left. The rest of the girls were looking at him with jealousy in their eyes.

Archer laughed and gave each a loving kiss before they made their way to the entrance. The girls were all happy as he peppered their faces with even more kisses.

Once they arrived at the college a guard led them to the reception hall.

As they were walking Archer saw a building up ahead which they soon entered to see a large hall with desks all over the place.

The guard pointed at a free desk so he led the girls over it. There was a middle-aged woman sitting there who looked up and spoke with a fed-up voice. "What do you need?"

Before he could speak Leira spoke up. "They need to sort out their rooms."

The woman looked at her and her eyes widened as she said. "Yes, princess. Sorry, we've been having loads of students come here for stupid reasons."

Leira nodded her head with a smile as the woman looked at Archer and spoke. "I'm Mary young man. I am the head receptionist of the college, what is your name?"

He looked at Mary and answered. "I'm Archer Wyldheart."

She nodded her head before turning to the girls and asked the same thing.

"Ella Wyldheart."

"Teuila Wyldheart."

"Seraphina Wyldheart."

When Archer heard this he looked at them and wondered when they did this but their actions made him extremely happy. I think you should take a look at

"Nefertiti Wyldheart."

"Hemera Wyldheart."

"Talila Wyldheart."

Mary looked up at the group with narrowed eyes then turned to Archer with accusatory eyes. "I hope these girls are with you because they want to be and not because you forced or bought them."

Before anyone could reply Leira interrupted. "He doesn't force any of us, Archer treats us well, so there's no issues."

Mary looked at the cat girl and slowly nodded her head as she spoke. "Well, the headmistress has saved a wing just for you, your ladies, and the princesses that are visiting."

When the girls heard this they all sighed but Nefertiti ranted to herself. "That emperor did this on purpose. Why would he put a lusty dragon with his favorite prey."

Archer turned to the pink princess and retorted. "Princesses are not my prey."

The other girls including Leira laughed at the blatant lie. He shook his head and spoke. "Where is this wing?"

Mary called over a young man who stopped next to the group. Archer looked at him and noticed that he worked for the college.

That's when she spoke. "Rudolf. Take these students to the princess wing's blocked-off level. It's for them."

The young man nodded his head and motioned for them to follow him. They followed the guy through the college's hallways.

Archer looked around and saw a large area with a massive bookshelf that lined the walls. As he looked around Rudolf spoke.

"This is the S class dorm's common room. But this year it has been renamed the royal dorm due to all the princes and princesses that joined this year."

When the girls heard this they started speaking among themselves as Archer ignored the bets that were taking place.

He looked at the group of cheeky cats who were betting on how many princesses he would capture during his stay.

Archer rolled his eyes but noticed the place was empty and asked Rudolf. "Where is everyone?"

"They are joining tomorrow as the emperor gave the college a few extra days because of the incident but they will be back tomorrow so it will be busy," Rudolf answered.

He nodded his head as the man led them up the stairs and walked up another. When they reached the top they saw a long corridor with loads of rooms on either side.

Rudolf turned to them and spoke. "Well, guys pick a room the headmistress has allowed you guys to stay in the same hallway."

Archer and the girls smiled before he left and made his way back down to reception. The girls all looked at each other and rushed off to claim a room.

He laughed at their reactions and noticed Leira just standing there smiling. Archer cast Blink to appear behind her and grabbed her from behind causing her to yelp.

Leria felt him nuzzling her neck causing a warm sensation to flow through her body as his arms wrapped around her waist and turned her around so she was facing him.

Archer stopped nuzzling her neck and bit her twitching ear causing her to let out an adorable moan.

But she soon started hitting his chest before speaking in a flustered voice. "Don't do that here you idiot. People could see."

He smiled. "Why does it matter if people see? They will then know that you are my girl."

Leira smiled when she heard him but shook her head. "They will know soon enough if they don't already. I will choose my new room now."

Archer gave her a nod before she rushed off. He watched her disappear into one of the rooms.

As he stood there he felt like he was being watched and turned around to see a brown-haired elf girl standing there.

He smiled and gave the girl a small wave but she ran off without answering. Archer shrugged before going to choose his room.

Archer quickly chose a room with a balcony overlooking the college's fields. The view was beautiful from here.

The room was nice he went back in and had a look. There was a large bed against one wall while a desk was on the opposite side.

There was a cupboard for storing clothes and a bookshelf. Archer noticed there was a lot of room and decided to let one of the girls decorate it.

He walked over to the bed and sat down to test it out. The result surprised him as the bed was really comfortable.

While seated, a sudden noise from the balcony drew his attention. Curious, he rose from the bed and made his way outside. What he encountered left him utterly astonished.

Chapter 337 You're A Naughty Dragon

Archer saw a young black-haired girl sitting on his balcony railing looking out over the college grounds.

She turned to him and saw her beautiful violet eyes looking at him. The girl smiled before speaking. "Hello, Mr white dragon. We finally meet."

He was confused as he looked at her and spoke with curiosity in his voice. "Well, who are you?"

The girl smiled as she hopped off the railings and grinned at him as she replied. "We have already met but if people knew I was here it could cause a scandal."

Archer's curiosity grew even more before he decided to use Analyze on her.

[-----]

[-----]

He was even more confused and thought about it for a second, but before he could do anything the girl spoke again in a cheerful voice. "You shouldn't try to pry into a lady's secret Archer."

When he heard those words he grew even more shocked as a picture of a blonde witch with the same violet eyes.

"Rowana?" He asked.

The witch smiled even more as she nodded her head before snapping her fingers and her appearance changed to the one he already knew.

So he asked. "What are you doing here you curious witch?"

Rowana giggled but shook her head. "There's still more dragon but if I tell you, will let me fully study you?"

He grinned as he looked at her tight-fitting purple witch robe that clung to her body before retorting. "You can, if you return the favor."

Rowana tutted as she shook her. "You're a naughty dragon. Would you still say that if you knew who I truly was?"

Archer chuckled as he sat on another chair and looked up at the afternoon sky before commenting.

"Yes, I don't care who you are. I thought you would have known that already, considering Osoric has gathered a lot of information about me."

When he finished talking Rowana stood up and clicked her fingers again. She grew taller and even more beautiful.

Purple/black hair appeared alongside a slender but curvy body. A pair of large boobs bounced as the spell finished.

Archer's eyes widened in surprise when he saw Ophelia Blackfire the headmistress standing there with a grin on her face.

She looked at him as her eyes shone and challenged him with a grin. "Do you still want to say that now dragon?"

He grinned as he spoke. "If you want to study me Ophelia then you will have to return the favor and let me study you in detail."

When she heard this she was taken aback but recovered and spoke with a hint of amusement. "Aint you a cheeky boy? What makes you think I will let you do that?"

Archer smiled as he motioned for her to sit down with him which she did as he started talking. "Why are you here visiting a student in disguise?"

Ophelia giggled before she told him. "Well, it's not every day that I have a white dragon as a student. Plus we've known each other for a while now. You even gave me a dragon token."

She took a spotless white dragon token from her pocket but promptly put it away.

Remembering the moment he had given it to her while she was in the company of those two humans, he couldn't help but feel a pang of jealousy.

Archer looked at her and asked. "Why did you conceal your identity, and who were those two men you were with?"

When she heard that a big grin appeared on her pretty face before she commented. "Is that jealousy I sense in your voice?"

He narrowed his eyes at her causing Ophelia to laugh again. "I love your eyes. They are so beautiful."

"Don't change the subject witch."

Ophelia looked at him and sighed before clicking her fingers and two men appeared in front of them.

Archer was shocked when he saw this and approached them but they vanished as she explained. "They are a spell I created that can create life-like humans but they use a lot of mana when I summon them."

That's when he asked another question. "Why disguise yourself? You're powerful enough to defend yourself."

Ophelia smiled before answering him. "You never know what could happen. If someone kidnapped me, they could pry with my mind for the many secrets of the college and empire."

When he heard her answer a grin crept across his face. He then reached into his Item Box, retrieved some bread, and began to eat as the two of them enjoyed the breathtaking view.

That was when she suddenly spoke. "What magic can you use Archer?" "I think you should take a look at

He didn't speak but raised his hand and fourteen colorful balls appeared. They circled around them.

These orbs, pulsating with their respective energies, floated gracefully around him and Ophelia.

The fiery orb blazed with intense heat, casting flickering shadows across their faces. The watery orb shimmered and rippled, creating a soothing, aquatic melody in the grove.

An earthy orb, adorned with moss and gemstones, exuded a grounding presence as if connecting them to the very heart of the forest.

A weightless wind orb danced effortlessly through the air, its airy tendrils brushing against their skin.

A crackling orb of lightning sparked with electric energy, while the cosmic orb displayed a breathtaking array of stars and galaxies, filling the grove with a sense of vastness and wonder.

In a corner, the enigmatic darkness orb seemed to absorb the surrounding light, casting a mysterious aura. Beside it, the radiant light orb bathed them in a soft, warm glow.

Further along, the mystical spirit orb radiated a gentle, supernatural hum as if imparting ancient understanding.

An orb shimmered with the essence of the deep sea, its colors shifting like the ebb and flow of tides.

Infernomancy orb blazed with infernal fervor, flames reaching out like hungry tongues. Arcane orb hummed with mesmerizing energy, drawing intricate symbols in the air.

A brilliant sun orb bathed them in scorching, golden light, while a calming moon orb provided a soothing, silvery counterbalance.

Ophelia looked amazed when she saw this and mumbled to herself. "Fourteen elements. He's a monster."

She shook her head and looked at him with suspicious eyes before speaking. "Why are you here? You clearly don't need to be."

Archer chuckled and responded, his voice tinged with curiosity. "Well, I may be considered a monster, but even creatures like me have a thirst for knowledge, and this college seems quite intriguing."

Ophelia studied him intently, finding no trace of deception in his words, before inquiring further.

"I appreciate your mindset, Archer. But my curiosity has always been insatiable. So, I must ask, what precisely are you?"

He shrugged before talking. "I'm a white dragon, which you should already know by now."

"Yes, they are living mana, chosen by the Goddess Tiamat to be her new white dragon but from my point of view you are nothing like the previous ones," Ophelia spoke.

Archer quickly asked as he wanted to know more about the previous dragons. "What were they like?"

She went on to tell him. "They were your typical dragons and would horde all sorts of stuff but some of them were ruthless and conquered kingdoms while others were lazy and didn't bother with world affairs but then there's you."

Ophelia rose to her feet, stretching her arms above her head as she carried on with her conversation.

"You possess a spirit of adventure, independence, and non-conformity. Many may approach you with caution, but I understand that you won't attack unless someone attacks your girls."

Archer smiled and was about to speak but she interrupted him. "Some of them are coming. I will come here again to talk. I enjoyed your company."

She clicked her fingers and vanished as Ella walked onto the balcony followed by the others.

They looked at him with narrowed eyes and Nefertiti spoke. "Was a woman here? I can smell her."

Archer laughed before talking. "The headmistress came to see me."

"Why?" Most of them asked at the same time causing him to laugh again.

"She wanted to know why I was at the college. We also spoke about the previous white dragons." He answered with a smile as he stood up.

Their collective gaze bore into him, a mixture of curiosity and caution evident on their faces.

Archer, feeling their scrutiny, simply shrugged and suggested, "How about we explore the city before college begins tomorrow?"

They all agreed as he cast Gate and stepped through followed by the girl. Archer stepped out of the portal and appeared in an alleyway.

As he was standing there Teuila walked over to him and spoke. "Me and Talia are going back to the domain to train."

When Archer heard that he nodded with a smile and opened a portal for the two girls. They kissed him before leaving.

Hemera approached him, wrapped her arms around his shoulders, and planted a passionate kiss on his lips.

They continued kissing, lost in the moment until a discreet cough disrupted their intimate exchange.

The two of them stopped and looked to see Nefertiti, Sera, Leira and Ella staring at them. Archer gave the four a charming smile before doing the same to them.

Chapter 338 What Are These Creatures

Once he doted on the four jealous girls the five of them started exploring Starfall City. As they were walking they spotted a stall selling weird-looking artifacts.

When they approached the stall the old man behind it spoke with a cheery voice. "How can I help you, young master?"

"What are you selling old man?" Archer asked him.

But before the old man could speak Sera ran up to Archer and declared in a happy voice. "Sweetheart, we are going to look at the other stalls."

Archer nodded, passing her a pouch filled with gold, and gently kissed her forehead, eliciting a delighted smile from Sera.

She ran off and joined the other girls, the stall owner finally spoke. "Well, young man she was adorable, is she your lady?"

"Yeah old man." Archer replied.

The old man chuckled before talking. "I can see you cherish that little lady. There's a look in your eyes when you're looking at her."

He thought about it and remembered when he met her on that tree branch all those years ago and how her affection healed from his downward spiral.

Archer shivered at the thought of going mad and commented. "Yeah, she saved me from a bad fate."

The man nodded his head before introducing himself. "I'm Ted and I see old trinkets and Mana Stones."

Archer looked at the stones and picked one up, when he did he felt something blocking it and sent some of his mana into it causing the blockage to clear but he stopped as he felt someone walking toward him.

That's when Hemera appeared from behind him and spoke with surprise in her voice. "Oh, they are Arcane Stones. They are used to power manaships and city shields."

She picked one up and started examining it but soon sighed as she commented. "They are broken, somethings blocking it."

Archer grew curious and asked. "Are they worth buying Hemi?"

"Not in this state. If they were new then it would be worth purchasing them." She quickly answered.

He smiled and spoke to the old man. "I will buy all the Mana Stone you own. Do you have more?"

Ted nodded his head before answering in a regretful tone. "Yes I have hundreds of them, a friend of mine thought he found a way to unblock them but alas he failed."

"How much did you pay for them all?" Archer asked.

"Two hundred gold pieces."

Archer took out two hundred and fifty gold coins and gave them to the old man as he spoke. "Now you have the gold. Can I get my stones?"

Ted's confusion deepened as he sensed the heft of the pouch and grew utterly surprised when he turned to Archer.

"These are worthless, young master. As your lady mentioned, they're damaged beyond repair."

Archer sighed as he demanded. "Just give me the damn Mana Stones old man!"

The older man nodded his head and emptied hundreds of stones onto the stall. Once Ted was done he stored all but three in his Item Box and held one as Hemera looked at him.

She didn't get involved as she knew Archer was up to something again as a grin appeared on his face.

He sent mana into the stone and felt something fighting back but it was quickly destroyed causing the Mana Stone to shine so bright that it hurt Ted's eyes.

The old man yelled. "What did you do boy!"

While the old man was rubbing his eyes Hemera was staring at Archer with a twinkle in her eyes. "Archer! What did you just do?"

She approached him and took the stone while examining it then looked into his eyes as she asked. "No more importantly how did you do this? Do you know what this means?"

Archer was happy to see her reaction but was confused so asked. "What?"

Hemera smiled before explaining. "Empires and kingdoms will pay you a lot of gold to charge their Mana Stones that power the shield and mana ships."

His eyes widened in shock and realized he could make more gold which pleased him. The two of them said goodbye to Ted before looking for the rest of the girls.

The two of them found the group in an exotic beast shop. Hemera looked at Archer as she spoke. "Why would they be in here?"

Archer casually shrugged and answered, "You know how it is with them, seeing something adorable probably drew them in."

She laughed but grabbed his hand and walked toward the shop. When they entered they saw the rest of the girls crowding around something in one corner.

When Archer and Hemera walked over to them. Ella saw them and motioned for the other girls to move and Archer saw a dozen Owlbear cubs which he looked at with fascination.

He scanned them.

[Owlbear Baby]

[Rank: ----]

Archer noticed their condition and it was bad, they were chained up by the neck and looked starving.

That was when he saw an older man standing not far away smiling like he'd hit the jackpot. He turned back to the bears and cast Mana Manipulation to free all of the trapped bears.

The chains snapped and dropped to the floor shocking everyone. Archer then crouched down and called to the Owlbears.

"You will be okay now. Are you little guys and girl hungry?"

The closest bear studied him before nodding its head. When Archer saw this he looked at Ella and spoke. "Don't let the human go and watch the bears."

She nodded and took out her bow before aiming it at the shopkeeper. Leira and Nefertiti stood at the shop's entrance.

Sera stayed with the bears while Archer returned to the domain. He made his way to the tent city and looked for the food tent.

After searching for a few minutes he found it and entered it.

When the dragon-kin inside saw him they all bowed to him before an old man approached him. "My King. What can we do for you?"

Archer looked at him and nodded before talking. "I need a lot of raw meat."

The old cook heard this and ordered his assistant to bring some. Not long after the boy returned with a trolley of meat.

There was enough to feed the bears and whatever he found in the shop. Archer stored it all away and gave them some gold coins before vanishing.

He returned to the shop and saw the human had an arrow in his thigh. The man was screaming in pain.

Archer looked at Ella and asked what happened. So smiled and told him. "He tried to attack Sera when she was distracted with the bears so I shot him."

When he heard this he got angry and approached the man who stopped screaming and crawled away from him in fear.

But Archer stamped on his back and spoke. "What you did earned you your death but you can decide now how brutal that death will be human."

The man stammered out. "What do you want?"

Archer grinned, his tone firm. "I want everything in this shop, including all your wealth and creatures. Do I make myself perfectly clear, human?"

The man nodded in understanding, and Archer allowed him to get to his feet to bring him his belongings. Then, he shifted his attention to the bears, producing a handful of meat.

They fixed their gaze upon him, waiting eagerly. Before offering them the food, he addressed them with a few words.

"Do you want a home little bears?"

The little owlbears bobbed their heads in cheerful agreement. When the girls saw him they all felt happy that they found him. He was a dragon and was powerful but he was still kind.

Seeing their response, he spoke to them once more. "Will you be my helpers when you grow into big strong bears?"

He got the same response so he gave each one a piece of meat. The girls were all keeping watch or talking.

That's when he got hit in the head by something and turned around. He saw a floating jellyfish-looking creature.

Archer scanned it.

[Flumph]

[Rank: F]

He smiled as he held up a piece of meat and the creature's tentacles grabbed it as it started floating around him making happy noises.

That's when more of them appeared shocking him and the girls. Archer looked at them and thought he'd try talking to them.

"Do you want to come with me Mr.Flumph?"

It bonked him on the head causing everyone to laugh but that's when he heard a feminine voice. "We can come if you take us, Master?"

Archer's eyes widened but nodded. "Yes, you can come."

The Flumphs tentacle stroked his face before taking off to eat. He saw the other creatures join her.

He started counting them and stopped at fifty. That's when he heard Nefertiti's voice. "Archer come back here and have a look at this."

Archer made his way to Nefertiti, he entered the back room and saw a large cage with what looked like little frog people.

There were about a hundred of them all crammed together. Nefi looked at him and spoke. "What are these creatures? I've never seen them before."

Chapter 339 Causing More Trouble

When they saw Archer they all cowered and started getting scared, he went to scan them but heard Hemera speak.

"They are known as the Froskur, they live in swamps and are very resourceful. You could house them in the domain and use them to farm swamps for materials."

Archer looked at the creatures and noticed that they were humanoid frogs who were about two feet tall.

He approached the cage and crouched down before speaking to the little frog people. "Hello. Can you understand me?"

An older-looking Froskur stepped forward with wide eyes as it spoke. "How do you speak our language?"

Archer heard this and smiled before explaining. "I'm a white dragon and can understand most languages but honestly, I don't know how it happens."

The Froskur nodded its head before speaking. "Tall men captured our tribe in the Mistwood Marsh far in the west."

When he heard the frog man he got curious and asked. "Is more of your tribe there?"

The old Froskur nodded its head. "Yes, they are hiding in the swamps."

Archer nodded but that's when he saw the five girls staring at him before Nefertiti spoke. "Why are you making weird noises at the creatures?"

He was about to speak but one of the baby Owlbears walked over to him and nudged its head on his leg causing him to smile and pick up the puppy-sized bear.

The bear started making happy little noises as it cuddled up to him causing the girls to smile and speak.

"So cute."

"It's already attached to him."

"So it's not just humanoid women he attracts."

Leira was the last to talk and when they all looked at her causing her to shrug as she spoke. "That Owlbear is a little girl who seems to have taken a liking to him."

Laughter erupted from all the girls as Archer continued to gently stroke the creature, and in response to Nefertiti's question, he replied, "I can communicate with them, so we were engaged in conversation."

She nodded before Archer went back to talking to the Froskur and asked. "Why do the humans capture you?"

The frog man looked at him before speaking with a voice full of hatred. "They send us to the mines or collar us and make us search for treasure in the sea."

Archer felt sorry for the creatures and decided to help them. "I can give you a swamp to live in and make sure no one will hunt you?"

The Froskur looked at him with suspicion before replying. "Why do you want to help us? What benefit will you get?"

When he heard the words of the creature he chuckled before nodding his head. "Because I can? But I will expect you to help me if a time arises."

The old frog man looked into Archer's eyes and saw no lies so he nodded. "Very well. We will come with you, will you rescue our brothers and sisters?"

Archer smiled. "Yes, I will go after I clear out the other beast shops. Now go wait with the others at the front of the shop."

As he was doing this the five girls watched him talk in some weird language and started talking to each other.

That's when he ripped off the cage door and let the Froskur out. He freed them and pointed them in the direction they needed to go.

They marched out and were talking among themselves as they stole looks at him and the girls.

As they were done he was about to look for more beasts but the human shopkeeper reappeared holding three storage rings.

He handed him the rings and Archer scanned them. When he did he saw loads of gold and silver.

There was another with three eggs inside which caught his attention. He turned to the human and asked. "What are these eggs?"

"They are Hydra eggs but I can't get them to hatch."

Archer was excited and wanted to try to hatch them himself so he looked up at the shopkeeper as he put the rings in his Item Box. "How many beast shops are there in the city?"

The man was confused but answered. "Three including mine."

He nodded before using his tail to pierce his heart. The shopkeeper looked at him and wondered why he was killing him.

Archer saw this and an evil smile appeared on his face before giving the dying man an answer. "You went to attack my fiancée so you have to die."

When he finished talking he pulled out his tail and let the man drop to the ground with a thump. I think you should take a look at

He flicked his tail to get the blood off it and turned to the girls with a big smile. "Let's get these back to the domain and prepare for college."

They all nodded their heads as Archer told them to keep an eye out before jumping through a portal.

When he entered the domain the little Owl Bear looked around before jumping off him.

Archer was in an empty part of the domain and closed his eyes as he spoke to the bear. "Don't wander off girl. Just watch."

She nodded her furry head and sat down by him and saw the landscape change as he started to imagine a massive swamp for the frog people.

He didn't want to build their homes so he would let them do it for themselves. Archer turned to the ball of fur and spoke. "Now it's time for your home girl."

Next to the swamp, he created the Owlbears their forest they can live in and with the constant influx of wild beasts, they can eat all they want.

Once he was done he remembered the Flumphs and decided to let them find their own home in the domain.

Archer opened a large portal to the shop. The girls walked through it followed by all the beasts he found so far.

The Froskur looked at the swamp with excitement and amazement in their frog eyes. They all turned to him and bowed.

The old frog man shuffled up to him and spoke. "Thank you, Master Dragon. We will help you in any way we can as long as we have a safe place to call home."

He nodded and told them to make themselves at home before he looked at the group of baby Owl Bears and spoke in a cheerful voice.

"The forest over there is your new home little bears. Go live free and without worry."

All the bears looked at each other and sprinted off but the little female bear jumped on him licking his face before joining the others.

That's when Teuila spoke from behind the six. "What have you gone and done now Darling?"

Archer turned around and smiled when he saw the blue-haired girl standing there followed by Talila.

He answered them. "Well, I rescued a bunch of beasts from an exotic beast shop and gave them a home here in the domain."

Teuila smiled as she approached him and gave him a kiss, she leaned into his ear and whispered in a seductive voice. "I want more training."

Archer leaned back with a grin and nodded his head before doing the same to the other six girls.

The afternoon sun was high in the sky and all the girls apart from Leira headed back to the treehouse to relax and cook dinner.

Archer looked at Leira and was drawn to her beauty. She had wavy purple hair with the brightest green eyes.

She was slender but curvy and had nice-sized boobs. Archer saw her cat ears twitching and her tail swaying behind her.

He shook his head before speaking. "Do you want to join me and see what beasts we can get from the other shops?"

Leira nodded her head with a smile as he opened a portal back to the shop but before he could leave a Flumph latched onto his head causing the two to laugh.

He pulled it off and spoke. "Make yourself at home anywhere you want. There are other beasts to hunt so you will have food."

The Flumph rubbed its tentacle on his face as he heard the same voice as before. "We go find home. Come visit us, Master."

Archer smiled as he spoke. "I will. Now go find your home and be happy."

It nodded and floated off with the others and entered the Owlbear forest. The two of them entered the portal and saw the shop was now quiet.

The shop had grown eerily silent, and Archer observed that these were just regular beasts. A notion crossed his mind, contemplating the idea of releasing them into the domain.

And so, he decided to take action. casting Mana Manipulation he skillfully opened all the cages, ensuring that portals were positioned in front of each of them.

Despite the cages being open, the beasts seemed hesitant to move. It was Leira who broke the deadlock, firing a powerful lightning bolt into the air, resulting in a deafening explosion.

Startled by the commotion, the beasts panicked and rushed through the portals to freedom.

With their task complete, they departed from the now-empty shop. Archer received a message from Sera, who wanted to join them, complaining that the other girls were occupied.

Chapter 340 Frostwinter

Archer said yes and summoned her. When she appeared a big smile appeared on her face as she launched herself at him.

Sera wrapped around him like a baby koala and started biting his ear causing him to shiver.

Leira saw this and giggled before Archer spoke to her as he put the dragon girl down. "Take us to the other beast shops."

The three went to the other two beast shops but this time he didn't kill anyone but just took what he wanted.

Once they dumped all the beasts into the domain Archer cast Gate to Vassia City. Once they stepped through the people who were walking stopped and looked at him.

Archer turned to Leira and spoke. "We will fly east until we get to the swamps that the Froskur are in and collect them."

The cat girl nodded as he summoned his wings and picked her up into a princess carry before taking off.

Sera followed behind as she summoned her red wings. The three flew for a couple of hours until the sun started to set.

They soon arrived at the outskirts of the Mistwood Marsh. Archer and Sera descended to the ground before summoning the old frog man and a few others.

The four Froskur looked around until the old one told them to go find the others. He turned to Archer and bowed to him. "Thank you, Master Dragon. Our new home is wonderful and full of life."

While they waited Archer cast Aura Detector and spotted a few human camps spread out throughout the marsh.

He turned to Leira and Sera. "Stay here and guard the Froskur. There are some bandit camps I want to plunder."

Sera sighed before nodding and Leira was confused so she asked. "Why are you doing that? As a dragon, I thought that would be under you."

Archer looked at her with narrowed eyes but Sera answered for him. "Bandits have loads of treasure and he takes it while laying waste to them. He wiped out all the outlaws in the Southlands while traveling."

Leira nodded as she spoke. "Be careful Arch."

He smiled as he kissed both girls before he went to deal with the bandit camps. Archer flew just above the treetops.

Soon he came across the first camp and saw a large bandit camp with a cage in the center.

He saw a group of human and dwarf males. But he shrugged his shoulders and decided to deal with it after taking out the bandits.

Archer cast hundreds of Element Bolts made from lightning that started circling around him before he sent it flying toward every bandit he could see.

The spells fell from the sky and killed every bandit without fail. Archer cast Blink and appeared in the middle of the camp.

But to be safe he cast Crown of Stars that defended him while he walked over to the captured people.

He looked at a dwarf who was staring at him with narrowed eyes. Archer thought the man looked like he wanted to fight him.

Archer shook his head and spoke to the people. "Where are you from? I can free you here and make your way home or I can teleport you back to Vassia City."

The dwarf looked at him before demanding. "Open this cage will you boy? Why are you trying to talk?"

He quickly retorted. "Shut up or you're staying in the cage."

After saying that the people stepped forward and wanted to teleport to Vassia City. He nodded and cut off the lock.

The people walked out and told him that they were traders and travelers. He nodded and cast Gate to the city.

They thanked him before stepping through the portal until he was alone. Archer did the same thing with the other camps before returning to the girls.

When he saw their faces he started laughing but they pointed behind him, so he turned around and spotted hundreds of Froskur staring at him.

The old Froskur man approached him and told him they were ready so he shrugged before opening a portal to the domain.

Archer and the girls watched the frogmen walk into the portal while they gossiped among themselves.

He was shocked but decided not to think about it and wondered what they could do for him in the future.

Once they were finished he told the girls to head back to the domain as he wanted to go hunting before dinner.

They weren't happy but accepted it and returned before he whispered. "Draco."

Archer transformed into his dragon form and embarked on a hunt that lasted until the sunset. Nightfall had already descended by the time he made his way back to the domain.

When he was back he sat down and let out a relaxed sigh before Ella appeared. "Hello husband. How was the hunt?"

He turned to Ella and met her gaze before sharing, "It went well. I managed to take down quite a few large beasts, and I've stashed their bodies in my Item Box. I'll sell them at the guild whenever I feel like it."

Ella smiled as she joined him on the sofa and cuddled up to him as he played with her blonde hair.

Archer looked at it and noticed that it was getting longer. "Your hair is growing El. What are you going to do with it?"

She took her hair and started brushing through it as she answered. "I will let it grow and deal with it later. Hemera said she would help me style it when it's ready."

He smiled before leaning down and gave her a sudden kiss. Their lips connected catching Ella by surprise who quickly returned it.

Archer pulled her onto his lap and the two shared a passionate kiss as his hands roamed her body.

However, Ella abruptly ceased, gazing at him with a charming smile on her face. She gently shook her head and said, "I'll go prepare some food for you."

Archer smiled as she gracefully rose from her seat and headed towards the kitchen. He, too, stood up and ambled over to the balcony.

Stepping outside, he admired the moon casting its bright glow over the domain. A chilly breeze brushed against his face as he approached the railing.

He leaned against it and watched the tent city not far from the treehouse. Archer saw dragon-kin running around doing their jobs. I think you should take a look at

That's when he felt something cold on his face and looked up to see that it started snowing.

He stood on the balcony of their cozy home within the domain, a sense of awe washing over him.

Archer watched as the snowflakes continued their gentle descent from the heavens, each one unique and perfect in its design.

Lost in the beauty of the winter night, Archer barely noticed the passing of time.

Only when a warm and inviting aroma wafted from the kitchen was he reluctantly drawn from his reverie.

"Archer! Dinner is ready." Ella called out to him.

He stopped watching the snow and walked into the treehouse. That's when he saw the girls all sitting at the table.

Archer walked over and sat down as Ella handed him a massive bowl of what looked like a meat stew and instantly started eating as he checked his status.

Archer was happy with the boost in his level and status. He decided to spend the Status Points while he was eating.

But before he could start Hecate spoke. "Archer. Can I start a garden close by please?"

He looked at the moon elf with a smile before answering. "Of course. Want me to create an area for you?"

Hecate nodded her head as her long elf ears twitched in happiness. Archer closed his eyes and created a large area close by and fenced it off.

Archer added everything she would need to grow anything she wanted to. After he had done that he looked at her. "It's done. Put on something warm before you go it started to snow."

As he said that Leira spoke. "So Frostwinter has started. I wonder if it will be really cold this year."

All the girls agreed apart from Teuila who looked at them with a funny look before speaking. "What is snow?"

Everyone stopped talking and turned to her. They looked at her with confused looks as Archer spoke. "Does it now get cold in Aquaria?"

That's when Hemera's eyes widened as she pulled out a large book and quieted everyone down as she explained.
