

A Journey 831

Chapter 831 I Cannot Accept This

Archer returned to reality as Teuila shook him, "Are you okay, Arch?" she said in a concerned tone. "You just stopped walking and went quiet."

"Sorry, I was just thinking about my mother back on Earth," Archer explained while shaking the cobwebs from his mind. "I have been blocking that part of my life out as it hurts too much to think about them."

Teuila squeezed his arm while giving him a sweet smile filled with love. "I'm sorry for bringing it up, but maybe if you open up to me, it will help. My mother told me it always ends badly if someone bottles up their emotions."

Archer nodded, "Maybe," he said while looking around and spotting a bench. "Let's sit down, and you can ask me anything."

"Okay," Teuila answered as the two of them sat down, allowing her to question. "Can you tell me about your mother?"

"She was more than just a mother, but a best friend. I was the youngest Bennett family member, and she always made time for me even though she worked a stressful job in the city," Archer answered while remembering all the times he spent with her.

He looked out over the sea and continued, "We used to watch anime together, which continued for years. She always used to cuddle me like I was her boyfriend, which was strange, but I was a degenerate back then."

"What did she look like?" Teuila said with a giggle. "You're certainly

When Teuila asked that, a picture of her appeared in his mind, and he only just realized how beautiful she was for being in her forties. His mother was a very curvy woman with a large pair of boobs.

She had sapphire blue eyes that spoke of years of wisdom; Archer remembered her dazzling smile, which he loved. As he thought about that, his cock twitched, causing him to become shocked because the thought of his mom being his woman was a turn-on.

'Am I attracted to Mom? I wouldn't mind tasting her as she is like Brooke and Fianna. Maybe I can use Aurora Healing on her, and it will get rid of all of the shit that's built up in her body from Earth,' Archer thought to himself.

But Teuila poked him in the side while giggling, "Attracted to your mother, I see?" she said while grabbing his cock with a lewd smile.

Her eyebrow raised, "Does incest turn you on, my love?"

Teuila leaned close and whispered as her hand slipped into his pants before stroking him, "Does making love to your mother turn you on? Do you want to make her yours? Tell me my love, I won't judge you."

Archer groaned when she sped her hand up, causing him to look around only to see they were alone, "Yes, it turns me on so much," he said in a breathless voice.

Teuila beamed as she leaned forward and continued talking seductively, "Do you want to make love to Brooke? Knowing she's your grandmother."

He shuddered slightly, acknowledging Teuila's gesture with a nod. With a mischievous smile, she lowered herself between his legs, her warm breath teasing against his skin. His pulse quickened as he felt her lips envelop him, her mouth descending gently yet purposefully.

A soft gasp escaped him as waves of pleasure coursed through his body. Lost in the sensations, Archer leaned back against the bench. Archer's hands instinctively found their way into Teuila's hair, his fingers tangling in the silky strands.

Teuila's movements were steady and deliberate, each stroke sending ripples of ecstasy through him. As the intensity built, Archer's breath grew ragged, his senses consumed by the intoxicating pleasure.

With a final, desperate gasp, he felt himself teetering on the edge, his release imminent. With a soft whimper, he surrendered to the overwhelming climax, his essence spilling forth into Teuila's waiting mouth.

For a timeless moment, they remained locked in a shared ecstasy, the world around them fading into insignificance. As Archer's breathing slowed, he opened his eyes to meet Teuila's gaze, a tender smile passing between them.

Teuila quickly stood up while wiping her mouth just in time as an older couple came walking along. The blue-haired girl jumped onto his lap while giggling; Archer smiled while wrapping his arms around her slender waist.

Archer cast Cleanse on before passionately kissing her, and the older man commented in a happy tone, "See, Mariam, young love isn't dead; just look at these two here."

"Yeah, they have no shame and smooch where everyone can see them," the old woman replied with a laugh.

"Shut up, you old grump," the man said. "They should show the world their love. It may give us older folk some hope for the future."

Archer looked at the newcomers, and they looked comical; the man was wrapped in a fine-looking fabric blowing around in the breeze. His big white beard stood out against his brown skin.

The woman was shorter, with grey hair and king brown eyes. Archer wondered who they were, but something instantly caught his attention: the red panda ears on the woman's head twitched whenever a noise was heard.

Teuila giggled, "We met many years ago and have been together for a while now. I can't help but show him how much I truly love him."

When Archer heard this, a kind smile appeared as he put his forehead against hers and spoke in a voice full of love, "Do you realize how much I love you, Teu? I'm thankful you rescued me all those years ago."

"So am I Arch," Teuila as she stood up.

Archer followed suit and introduced himself to the old couple, "I'm Archer Wyldheart, and this is my fiancée Teuila Wyldheart."

Teuila greeted them with a smile, and the two returned it with one of their own. The old man introduced the two with a big smile: "I'm Amond, and this is Philis. We own the Extoic Monster Zoo just outside the city."

Before Archer could reply, Philis said, "Well, we were the owners, but the tax collectors will take it if we don't pay the debt."

When he heard the old woman, Archer turned to Teuila. "What is this zoo like?" he asked in a curious tone.

Teuila thought for a few seconds before talking. "Well, it's a massive estate with monsters from all over Thrylos, but rumors speak of their eldest son stealing their savings before running off with a girl."

Archer nodded as an idea formed, "Do you enjoy looking after the creatures?" he questioned Amond, who was looking bewildered by the whole situation.

"Yes young man," the old man answered. "Many people think they are all bad, but thousands want to live their lives, and why not show the people that? It's the reason I opened the zoo."

"Makes sense," Archer replied. "How much do you owe Aquaria?"

"5000 gold coins, young man; it's no small debt, and the profits have dropped since the Swarm attacked the kingdom," Philis answered sadly.

The amount was nothing to Archer, but he wanted to ensure his idea could work out, so he asked, "Would you consider moving to a new land? Maybe you can even get unique monsters?"

When Teuila heard his question, her eyebrow raised, but Amond stared into his eyes, "If I wasn't in debt and this land wanted to help the zoo grow, then I would consider it."

Archer nodded before declaring, "I will buy your zoo, and you two can move to my kingdom. I'll get the legions to build a new one for the monsters that will be much better for the creatures and people who visit as my citizens will love it."

The old couple looked at him like he was crazy, which caused Archer to chuckle as he pointed at Teuila, "Doesn't she look familiar? Not many girls have that color hair?" he said with a smirk.

Teuila shook her head and went along with him. That's when Philis commented, "Blue hair? Blue eyes? Brown skin? Only the royal family has such a combination, which is rare for us Aquarians."

Archer watched as Amond's eyes widened as he spoke, "Princess Teuila Aquaria and her fiancé, the White Dragon Prince."

The old man went to kneel, but Archer waved him away, "None of that now," he said while lifting the man to his feet. "Take us to your zoo, and we will sort it out."

Amond nodded with happiness in his old blue eyes, "Yes, follow us, My Lord, but be warned; my daughter is an angry young woman with a temper."

Philis was the one to speak next, "Ever since our eldest son ran off with our savings, her mind has gone into a dark place and has been different."

"I understand. I will try to stay out of her way, but I want a tour of the place when we arrive," Archer said. "By the way, how much did he steal from you?"

Amond looked angry, and Philis looked sad but answered, "Close to 100,000 gold coins we had hidden in a storage ring."

Archer scrounged together an old storage ring in his Item Box with a little over the amount needed, but before he did anything, he spoke, "Can you two take a Mana Oath not to betray me and pay me everything back?"

The old man stared into his eyes but nodded as he took the oath. When the couple were finished, Archer threw them the pouch. "There's your savings back and a little extra," he said. "But you will pay me the amount back plus fifty percent when the zoo starts making a profit."

Amond and Philis looked shocked, but the old man's eyes bulged when he scanned the ring before he swung his gaze toward Archer. "My Lord. I cannot accept this, as my son was the thief, and we don't expect you to repeat it."

Chapter 832 You Stole My Wife

Archer grinned, "Well, if you don't care about your son dying, then I can recover the money, but if not, you'll have to pay me out of the profits, including the kingdom's tax, which the officials will explain."

Philis looked at him with narrowed eyes before retorting, "Aquaria treats us well regarding their taxes, but why should we pay more? What do we get out of it?"

"Protection, help, support from the state, I will personally send out teams of hunters to collect rare specimens," Archer answered with a smirk that shocked the old couple whose eyes were wide.

The old couple nodded before spinning on their heels and rushed down the road, causing Teuila to laugh at the spring in their step. She looked at Archer, "Why are you helping them out?" she asked.

"Well, it will bring in another revenue for the kingdom while pleasing the people who will visit when they get the time," Archer answered as they followed the old couple. "Plus, I am creating a Monster Breeding Program for the army, and these two will be useful when it's up and running."

Teuila nodded, "I understand. The Swarm ravages lands all over Plouria, so I bet Draconia will get an influx of people fleeing."

"Yeah, we're getting thousands of refugees seeking a new home in Draconia," Archer answered as they passed a merchant's caravan guarded by adventurers.

When an adventurer called out to them, "Oi elf boy, how come you're walking around with such a beauty on your arm? Share her with the real men."

Archer stopped walking, but Teuila calmed him down, "Let me deal with this husband," she said while pecking him on the cheek. "Plus, don't stain your claws with this filthy human's blood."

He nodded and watched as she approached the large human who had a cocky smile, "Seen sense by yourself, I see? We can have fun once this quest is complete."

Before the man could say anything else, Teuila took out her sword and decapitated him with a flick of the wrist. When the other adventurers saw this, they were ready to fight, but then a swarm of men in armor rushed in.

They quickly took out the offending adventurers while kneeling before her; the commander spoke respectfully, "Princess Teuila, I'm sorry about these scoundrels. They will pay dearly for thinking about striking you."

Teuila nodded while flicking the blood off her sword, "Execute them for their crimes to show the people what happens if they target a royal family member."

The guards nodded while ignoring the adventurer's protests. The merchant leader rushed out, "What is going on here? Why are you attacking my guards!"

Archer turned to the human male, "Fuck off, old man, or I will rip your head off and feed it to a monster."

The man's face went pale when he heard Archer's threat, and he quickly rushed off as the couple continued following the happy couple for a couple more minutes until they reached the western gate.

He noticed the city was relatively quiet, and there weren't many people on the streets, but that was to be expected as the siege had recently ended. After walking for twenty minutes, Archer and Teuila arrive at a zoo entrance.

When they got close, the couple could hear all kinds of roars and calls from the different monsters. Amond stopped walking and turned around, "Welcome to our Monster Zoo. It's quiet now, but it is usually bustling."

Archer nodded understanding and followed the old couple through the entrance, only to see a few staff members rushing around with monster food. Teuila saw this and spoke with a smile. "I remember this from when I was a little girl."

"Well, when this comes to Draconia, can we go on a date here if you'd like?" Archer suggested with a charming smile.

"Of course, I would like that, darling," Teuila answered with a smile as she leaned over and lovingly pecked his cheek.

Archer got goosebumps all over his body when he felt her soft lips, "You're going to get it tonight, you naughty princess."

A lewd smile appeared as a response before Philis called for them, "Come on, lovebirds. We need to get to the office?"

He stepped forward, but a voice he hadn't heard in a while said, "Arch! Please help me. The Swarm is besieging the city, and the guards are failing to hold the wall."

When Aeris's voice rang out in his mind, he turned to Teuila, "Teu, stay with the old couple and organize for the 3rd Legion to pack up the zoo. After they do that, order them to take everything to the transport ships when they arrive."

Teuila looked concerned, "Where are you going?" she asked in a worried voice.

"Aeris is in trouble. The Swarm is attacking her home, so I will get her before meeting with Leira and Mary."

The blue-haired girl nodded, "Help her. She's lovely and doesn't deserve such a fate."

Archer stepped forward and kissed the caring girl before summoning his wings. He turned to Philis, "I will be back soon."

"Okay, love. Be careful and don't get hurt," the old woman said, surprising him.

He took off and started flying toward the Dunespire Kingdom, using Mana Manipulation to speed up. It only took him fifteen minutes to reach the Summerfield Duchy, where he saw chaos.

Monsters were running wild as people huddled behind walls. Archer shook his head and decided to deal with them while summoning hundreds of Stone Men that dropped to the ground with a crash.

When the creatures saw this, their beady eyes made contact with the faceless stone constructs. The creatures charged forward wildly, swinging their arms, and took out dozens of monsters from the first contact.

Archer watched as his Stone Men eased over the Swarm. The experience poured into his body like a never-ending stream, which was a good feeling as he wanted to level up, and the monsters here would help.

He decided to fight hand to hand using the skill Brooke gave him. Archer summoned his claws, dropped to the ground, and started swiping at the Blightborns and Ratlings, tearing them into meat paste.

When the Stone Men sensed him on the battlefield, they converged on him like a stone wave and annihilated any creature they found. When the current monsters were dealt with, Archer ordered them to flood over the land until the Swarm was destroyed.

The stone constructs rushed into battle without a second thought as he summoned thousands more. It felt like an earthquake was underway as the ground shook due to the Stone Men chasing after the fleeing monster.

Archer watched this with an amused smile, but his dragon senses kicked in, causing him to use Blink to dodge the lunge of a Swarm Assassin who tried to stab him with a poisoned blade as he smelt the substance on the weapon.

He wasted no more time and cast Crown of Stars, which started shooting as soon as it was activated. The Swarm Assassins fell to the violet motes that chased them like a homing missile.

When Archer saw this, he chuckled as the creatures fell to the ground around him like marionettes. Then, he made his way toward Aeris manor in the Dunespire Kingdom on the border of the Summerfield Duchy.

While flying over the land, Archer targeted any monster he saw with a wave of Plasma Missiles that took them out by piercing their hearts with ease. By the time he spotted the city where Aeris had come from, he had killed thousands of creatures.

Archer still felt the experience flowing into his body thanks to the Stone Men still fighting, but he did notice it slowing down thanks to them getting destroyed. But he wouldn't let that dampen his spirits while summoning more.

Thousands of Stone Men rushed into the darkness to gather more experience for him. After he summoned them, he entered Dunemark, where Aeris told him she lived, and followed the girl's mana.

Thanks to being a White Dragon, he could sense the Dark Wraith mana lingering in the city, and soon he found himself in front of a mansion guarded by men in dark grey armor that only showed their eyes that looked unyielding.

But even more, soldiers rushed out of the gates and headed toward the city's walls where the Swarm had just reappeared. Archer ignored them as an army of Stone Men was out there butchering the monsters.

He approached the gate and was stopped by one of the guards, "Who are you, elf?"

Archer grew annoyed but chose not to kill the human, "Get Aeris Redcliff. She's expecting me."

The man stared for a little longer before rushing off while the one who stayed watched him. Archer found this funny and used Mana Manipulation to create a chair to sit on while waiting for Aeris to come out.

This confused the remaining guard, but Archer spoke, "Can you tell me about some of the rare monsters in the Dunespire Kingdom?"

"Why?" the guard replied in a nervous voice.

"I'm starting a zoo in my kingdom and need to get some monsters," he said. Just as he spoke, a voice full of venom spoke from behind him.

"What is a scumbag like you doing in my allies kingdom? Haven't you done enough damage."

Archer turned around only to spot his uncle Rylon. With a fake smile, he greeted the older man, "Uncle! It's good to see you."

"Shut up, lizard! You stole my wife like a scumbag. What have you done with her!" Rylon demanded, causing Archer to laugh as the angry man.

Chapter 833 Aeris Means A Lot To Me

Archer looked at his uncle and replied with a mocking chuckle, "Yes, I stole your wife, but now I think I will go after your daughters if you don't apologize for slandering my good name."

Rylon sputtered when he heard his response and couldn't believe how shameless his nephew was. Archer stood up and approached the man surrounded by his guards. "Now you mention Fianna," he said with a grin.

He leaned in to whisper to the Duke, "I will make her my woman tonight and mark her womb with my seed."

When Rylon heard this, anger took over. He swung at Archer, who leaned back to dodge it, before unleashing a devastating punch to the man's gut, bringing him to his knees as the strike dented his uncle's armor.

The guards quickly rushed forward, but Archer used his tail to swipe at the stupid soldiers and took them to the ground. He looked at them and spoke with a smirk, "Don't be stupid. If you attack me, that would mean the Avalon Empire has declared war on the Draconia Kingdom."

Archer smiled, "Now take my uncle back to the Summerfield Duchy. Tell the empire that I will help the Dunespire people."

"How will you help?" The Redcliff guards questioned as more of them appeared from the front gate.

"Like this," Archer waved his hand, summoning even more Stone Men and ordered them to clear the kingdom of the Swarms monsters, which they instantly obeyed.

He watched them rush through the city while pinpointing the creatures who snuck over the walls. When the Stone Men caught the Swarms minions, they were crushed and turned into chunks of meat.

Archer turned back to the guard. "I will clear the kingdom for Aeris, but she'll come with me once it's safe."

The guards didn't know what to say and looked at each other before a velvety, smooth voice said, "Ara ara, it looks like my cute granddaughter has found someone who cares about her."

He turned to see a mature woman standing there with a seductive smile on her beautiful face. Archer noticed her sinful curvy body that had the right amount of curves, and her massive boobs strained against the dress's fabric.

The woman looked like an older version of Aeris if she were to have long, wavy hair. Archer was instantly attracted to her, which she sensed. She turned to him with a grin, "Oh, a young man who appreciates a mature beauty?"

Archer nodded with a charming smile, but then something hit him as the woman closed in on him and was only an inch away. "The young nowadays think if you're over thirty, you're an old woman, which is ridiculous as my beauty can match anyone younger."

'Narcissist much?' he thought when hearing the woman's complaints. 'But she can be as she's drop dead gorgeous.'

He chuckled to himself before speaking, "You're not old. You are beautiful, and age doesn't affect you whatsoever."

The woman's smile grew wider as her red eyes glowed, "Sweet words will only get you so far, dragon," she said seductively.

She looked around before leaning forward, allowing Archer to get a good view of her deep cleavage, "Now, little dragon, if you want this Wraith, you're going have to prove what it takes. Conquer Pluoria, from the jungles in the south to the ice tundras in the north."

Archer gulped as the beautiful woman approached, her hot breath brushing against his ear. "Once the white flag flies over the whole continent, I will become your woman and will give you powerful children, as most of mine have failed me."

He looked into the woman's eyes and realized she was being serious, "What brought this on?"

The woman smirked. "You will be my granddaughter's husband, but if you desire me as well, you'll need to prove you're worthier than all the kings who've sought my hand, including the emperors of Nightshade and Novgorod."

Just as Archer was going to reply, a bad feeling washed over him; he looked around and didn't see anything but rushed forward to push the older woman out of the way just as a green blast slammed into the spot she was standing.

When the spell connected, Archer flew backward and crashed into the mansion's outer wall. The guards rallied and surrounded the woman, but a sudden voice reached his ears, "Arch!" it said.

Seconds later, he was wrapped in a comforting darkness as his body started mending. Archer looked around only to realize that Aeris was shielding him from another wave of spells, and he felt her pain.

He cast Cosmic Shield and Aurora Healing without a second thought before Blinking out of her. When Archer did that, Aeris returned to her human form and lunged at him while wrapping her slender arms around his shoulders.

Archer returned the hug with one of his own before the two separated, as he had to block more spells that were cracking the shield. With a relieved voice, Aeris spoke, "Grandmother will be able to look after herself as she's a Demi-God."

"It's the Swarm," he revealed. "They must have ambushed us with an elite unit when the monsters discovered I was in the city."

Aeris nodded before returning to her Wraith form and shouting a shrill scream that stunned the attacking monsters. When Archer saw this, he rushed out, lunged at the first Mutant Human, and sank his sharp teeth into the creature's neck.

He tore its head off before blasting another with Eldritch Blast when it tried to get closer. Archer was enjoying himself when he found Aeris fighting a group of Blightborns with shining claws.

When they struck the Wraith girl, blood flew and stained the ground. 'Have they found her weakness?' he asked himself internally.

Archer shrugged and used Blink to appear before the monster attacking Aeris, who was trying to retreat. He easily tore them apart while his tail was like a deadly whip decapitating anything that got too close.

He protected Aeris because the Mutated Humans rushed at her in the dozens. Archer knew something had to happen before taking a deep breath and releasing a stream of violet-colored fire that washed over the creatures.

His attack gave the mature woman time to deal with the stronger mutants. She transformed into a massive Wraith, which tore the creatures apart while letting out an ear-piercing scream and shattered windows.

It even hurt Archer's ears, forcing him to cover them due to the intense pain. Shortly after that, Aeris appeared in her human form before cupping his cheeks and kissing him. When he felt her soft lips, a shock ran through his body.

Soon, the two separated, and the battlefield started to calm down, thanks to the city guards, who crashed into the creature's rear. Archer didn't want to give up the experience he could gain, so he cast the Plasma Missile hundreds of times.

Once the violet missiles appeared above him, Archer sent them flying forward, causing a wave of explosion that easily annihilated the Swarms of Monsters. As he did that, Aeris's grandmother continued her attack.

The older woman killed the remaining creatures before appearing in front of Archer with a smile, "So you're the White Dragon," she said in an exotic accent that he couldn't place. "I'm Narcissa Redcliff, Matriarch of the Redcliff noble family."

Archer smiled at her, "Archer Wyldheart, King of Draconia."

Narcissa nodded while glancing around. "Dunespire will fall," she said. "Will you take little Aeris to your kingdom? I know she likes you, and by the way you look at her, you feel the same."

He nodded in affirmation. "Of course I feel the same. Aeris means a lot to me."

"Why?"

Archer glanced at the short-haired girl, her cheeks flushed red as she avoided his gaze. "She's caring and saved my life from a Demi-God. Plus, I've grown quite fond of my little Wraith and her beautiful red eyes."

The older woman beamed, "Great. You two will fly back to Draconia, where I will come in a few weeks."

When Aeris heard this, she stepped forward, "Where are you going?"

"I have some private business to attend to, little wraith; I'm sure this handsome young man will give you a nice place to live where I can join you when I finish," Narcissa said before her gaze turned to him.

Archer nodded, but then he got a message from Nefertiti, [Husband! You need to aid me as these vile creatures have sent assassins to target my family]

When he received that, he looked at Aeris and said concernedly, "We need to help Nefi. The Swarm are sending monsters to target the imperial family."

Aeris nodded just as Narcissa commented, "Good luck. I shall see you in a few weeks, lovebirds."

The black-haired girl went red as she transformed into her Wraith form. Archer summoned his wings and took off with a boom. He quickly used Mana Manipulation to speed south, followed by Aeris.

While flying over the chaotic landscape, Archer summoned dozens of extra large Stone Men by pouring stupid amounts of mana into them. The stone giants crashed into the ground below like an earthquake.

They quickly went to work, destroying everything in sight. As the stone constructs wreaked havoc, Archer felt a constant stream of experience flowing into him, filling him with growing excitement.

As he flew, Aeris caught up and wrapped herself around his body, causing a warm feeling to wash over him. "Thank you for coming to help me, Arch," she said in a sweet voice made better by her exotic accent. I hope we get along while I spend time in your kingdom."

Chapter 834 Punching A Majestic Creature Like Me

Archer smiled in response, "We will," he said. "Would you like to help out around the kingdom? There's many things to do."

"Like what?"

He thought briefly, "I bought a zoo in Teuila's homeland. I will move it to Draconia and need someone to capture rare monsters."

When Archer said that, he felt excitement from the Wraith girl, "I'll do it! I know some jungles where I can get you some," she exclaimed. "But they are dangerous. Will the people working there be fine?"

"Yes," he answered. "I'm sure the old couple knows what they're doing; Teuila is currently dealing with them."

While flying across the open grasslands, Archer spotted some hairy rhino-looking monsters and swooped down before laying a solid punch, which caused a boom. The impact sent the creatures flying.

This scene shocked Aeris, but Archer said, "Can you capture this monster? I may have to knock out a few others so we can breed them for the army."

Without speaking, she jumped off his body and wrapped herself over it as he scanned it.

[Grassland Rhino]

[Rank: A+]

Following that, Archer knocked out several more, allowing Aeris to hold them in her shadow storage, which fascinated him. After capturing the monsters, she wrapped herself around his body.

Archer felt the heft and grunted, prompting Aeris to delve into the intricacies of her storage skill. The revelation fascinated him, so he tested something out and sent a stream of pure mana into her body.

He felt her body shudder as she let out an adorable moan, "Ahhhh."

"I'm sorry, Arch!" Aeris quickly stuttered.

Her reaction made him laugh. "Thank you for helping me," Archer said with a smile. "I missed you, Aeris."

"I've also missed you," she replied quietly. "It's been lovely without you and the girls."

When Archer heard that, his heart swelled, but he decided to hug her when they arrived in the Zenia Empire. Soon, they crossed over a swamp, and Aeris quickly spoke as her clawed hand pointed to the west, "Look, Arch!"

His gaze turned to the left, and what he saw shocked him: a herd of elephant-like monsters stood twice as big as the Earth ones. Archer decided to scan the creatures.

[Matriarch Queen Colossophant]

[Rank: SS]

"Oh, they're strong. I can use them for the army," he mused.

This gave him an idea, so he rushed toward the bigger one to challenge the monster and gain control of the herd. Aeris looked shocked as her red eyes widened. "What are you doing, Arch?" He didn't respond; instead, he punched the Colossophant's head, sending the massive creature spinning and knocking over several others. The sight was so comical that he and Aeris laughed until their stomachs hurt.

Following that, an older woman's regal voice rang out. "Why are you punching a majestic creature such as myself? I did nothing to offend you, good sir."

"Why the fuck does the monster sound British!" Archer blurted out while holding onto a laugh.

"What's Brit-ish?" Aeris's exotic accent rang out in his ear.

He shook his head while explaining, "I will tell you later, and can you hear that voice?"

Before Aeris could answer, the voice rang out, "Oi, you flying human. Are you going to hover there, or will you help me? It's only the right thing to do after assaulting such a fine lady as myself."

Archer couldn't hold it in anymore and burst out laughing as he descended to the sulking Colossophant to get a good look at them. The creature stood eight meters tall and was Monstrous in size.

He compared the monster to a battle tank as its muscles rippled under its thought dark blue hide. Archer looked into its eyes and saw intelligence, an undeniable intelligence that caught his attention.

Without wasting any more time, he cast Aurora Healing on the Colossophant woman, and a violet glow washed over her as Aeris materialized next to him while looking around nervously, causing Archer to chuckle.

"Why are you worried? I'm a dragon, you're a Dark Wraith, and we're with a herd of Colossophants?" he said with a smile. "Relax a little, Aeris."

Just as he said, something alerted his senses; one of the elephant monsters swung its massive tusk to take out a group of lion monsters. When Archer saw this, he waved the Colossophant away in annoyance.

He decided to scan it.

[Lionarus]

[Rank: A+]

Archer approached the group of Lionaruses growling at him, but he ignored them. He pointed at the creature while looking for the biggest one and challenging it. "Fight me! If I win, you belong to me. If you win, I will give you a dragon corpse."

The Lionarus leader looked interested and took up the challenge. It lunged at Archer, who only smiled before catching the monster by the neck and lifting it into the air as its claws tried to swipe at him.

But thanks to his scales, the claws just created sparks that flew all over the place. Archer held the Lionarus like normal and sent Nefertiti a message asking if she was okay, only to laugh at her response.

[The monsters have stopped attacking, but I'm aching for you, and you need to do me when you get here]

Archer shook his head, 'Lewd succubus,' he thought.

He turned to the struggling monster and slapped it a few times, causing the creature's head to bleed before he spoke, "You're mine now. Do you accept?"

A deep male voice responded as he healed the lion creature, "Yes, Boss."

Archer dropped the Lionarus while, which landed like a house cat before backing off as a Colossophant charged them. However, he moved quicker and shoulder-checked the tank-sized monster, causing it to fall over.

He placed his foot on his large head and warned, "Don't attack anything If I didn't order it. Understand?"

The monster nodded before Archer turned to the largest female. "You get the same offer," he said, looking at her with an evil glint, "Your choice, Matriarch Queen."

When the creature heard this, she knelt with her herd, proclaiming, "You're the Great Lord, the man who walks the great grassland and becomes its overlord. With you leading my people, we can reach a height that no Colossophant has ever reached."

The massive monster knelt even lower. "Great One, we will follow you until the end of time and crush your enemy."

Archer looked at the monster and chuckled at its amusing theatrics. Then he took hold of Aeris's hand, and Blinks reappeared on top of the Colossophant, who was shocked.

While standing, he could see all across the grassland, and thanks to his mana senses, he sensed thousands of creatures. When he felt this, an idea popped into his mind, causing him to send Aisha a message, [Send more transport ships along with the 2nd Fleet and order them to bombard the Swarm Monsters they find along the coast]

The dragonkin woman confirmed before getting back to work. Once that was over, he turned to the Lionarus, "Your name will be Brutus," he said before giving him an order. "Find more of your kind and tell their pride leaders I challenge them to a fight."

When the lion-like monsters heard his order, they all stood up, and it was only then that Archer realized there were more than fifty of them here. They were like lions from Earth but more savage-looking and twice the size, which worked for him.

Archer could use them as a surprise. No one would expect a king to go around the wildlands collecting an army of monsters. After that, he looked at the Colossophant who was daydreaming and stamped his foot, "Oi woman," he said. "Your name will be Berty. Now let's search for more of your kin."

"Do not disrespect a lady by striking her head, young man," Berty complained. "You should treat your elders with respect."

"Shut up Berty," Archer replied. "I will punch you again, and this time, I won't use healing magic on you. Now let's go."

The Colossophant Matriarch grumbled something before alerting the herd to follow her and their new leader. When the other monsters heard this, they all looked at Archer, who smirked at them as Berty started walking.

[Aeris's POV]

When she saw Archer punch the house-sized monster and it went flying, she was shocked: 'How is he so strong? He's three years younger than me.'

Aeris watched as he dealt with the leader of these intimidating creatures who were staring at her like she was a bug. But then something happened as Archer caught a well-known grassland hunter called Lionarus by the throat as if it were nothing.

'Goddess! What sort of monster have I got myself involved with,' Aeris thought while watching Archer treat a notorious predator like a house cat.

All Aeris could hear was the Colossophant making strange noises, while Archer replied similarly, which confused her. 'Does he speak monster?'

When she stopped paying attention and turned to the surrounding landscape, it was like a wilderness with rolling hills covered in various trees. While watching this, the monsters she had caught earlier were acting up.

Aeris turned to Archer, who was scanning the horizon, "Hey. Those creatures from earlier are trying to escape."

Archer smiled while running his fingers across her cheeks, which made her blush as he replied, "Let them out in a second and stay on Berty."

'Whose Berty? Don't tell me he named the Colossophant!' Aeris was losing her mind at the weirdness of it all.

Taming monsters by punching them in submission was so amusing. While she was lost in thought, Archer tapped her, "Aeris, can you let them out in the middle? I will beat them up and make them part of my new army."

"Okay, Arch!" she responded with a smile.

Chapter 835 What Is That Smell

[Aeris's POV]

Aeris raised her hand, and a shadow appeared ten feet above the ground. The Grassland Rhinos fell out and crashed into each other. Before she knew it, Archer jumped into the middle of them and started smacking the carriage-sized monsters.

'What the fuck is going on! Why is he treating this a game,' Aeris internally complained as Archer battered the monsters.

She watched as Archer threw them around like they were sacks of rice while hitting others, but what he did to the bigger one was bad. Aeris soon watched him beat the daylights out of the poor monsters, causing her to feel bad for the trembling creatures.

'He's brutal, but I understand it, he needs to be like this to survive against all the enemies his got,' Aeris thought while she saw him healing the Grassland Rhinos while speaking to the monster.

Aeris continued to watch him until the group of monsters nodded like chickens, which made her laugh, and she started to understand Archer even more.

[Back to Archer]

"No more getting rude to me, or I will beat you again? Do you understand Ross?"

"Yeah, man! Just don't slap me again, that hurt," a man's voice replied.

That's when one of the other Grassland Rhinos charged at him. Archer saw this and looked at Ross, who almost looked ashamed of his fellow monster. All he did in return was step backward to dodge the charge.

But the rhino flew past him and crashed into one of its elders, causing the older monster to start beating on the younger one and making Archer laugh. He turned back to Ross, "Like I told the cats, find more of your kind and say your leader wants to challenge them."

"You'll fight more of us?" the monster asked timidly.

"Yes," Archer replied with a smile. "I will fight them, beat them, and then create an army out of you."

Ross, the Grassland Rhino, nodded its big head before rushing off into the tall grass, leaving him, Aeris, and the Colossophants, who were watching the scene with wide eyes and regarded him with respect.

Berty slowly approached him and spoke in a tone of worship which baffled him, "Great One. I know many watering holes where you can find strong monsters."

Archer turned to the Matriarch and spoke, "Okay. Take us there, and we are heading south to the human lands."

The Colossophant nodded her head. Archer grabbed Aeris's hand and Blinked. The couple reappeared on the monster's back as she started walking, followed by her herd, and they ate some of the grass.

While traveling, Archer created a couple of chairs for them to relax in. Once he was sat down, Aeris commented as she got comfortable, "Why are we traveling on the back of Berty? And why did you name her such a strange name?"

Archer was just about to reply when someone appeared and sunk a knife into Aeris's chest, causing her to fly off the back of the Colossophant. When the black-haired girl hit the ground, he was in shock.

Something inside him clicked as his rage consumed him, causing him to fly forward and grab the being who stabbed his Dark Wraith. Archer soon realized that these were ninja-looking soldiers.

With that, he cast Soul Sunder, ripped the man's soul from his body, and devoured it like a demon before doing the same thing to the others that appeared. Archer tore their lifeless corpses apart until the surrounding grassland was covered in blood.

When he calmed down, Archer felt a hand gently placed on his arm, causing him to spin around. Standing before him was Aeris, a sweet smile gracing her pretty face. His eyes traveled down, and he noticed a rip in her dress, but otherwise, she appeared unharmed.

"What happened to you?" Archer asked while grabbing a hold of her.

Aeris giggled, "I'm a Wraith, remember? Physical attacks cannot kill me, only harm me," she answered while being wrapped in a tight hug.

As Archer did that, he sorted through the assassin's memories and could only trace the source to a noble in Starfall City. 'Wait until I go get Leira. I will crucify the whole family regardless of what the empire says.'

He tightened his hug to the Wraith girl, who melted against him. While the two did this, Berty said, "Great One. I smell a Grizzarok closing in on us from the West."

"Okay," Archer grinned, "Watch this."

After speaking, he Blinked off Berty's back and appeared in front of a massive grizzly bear-looking monster. Without wasting time, the creature swiped at Archer, who blocked it using the wings he summoned.

The monster's paw slammed against his white scales, and Archer lashed out with his tail and took the creature's legs out, causing it to crash to the ground. Then he tamed it by beating it some more.

Following that, they continued traveling while beating more monsters who joined his growing army with shocked Aeris. She was looking at all kinds of creatures, from twenty-foot-tall giants to small, vicious-looking dinosaurs that snapped at anything nearby.

Archer found them amusing to tame, so he kept slapping them away until they fainted. Then, he used Aurora Healing on the monsters, bringing them back to full power, which allowed him to control the dog-sized creatures.

Once they crossed the border, Archer told the monster horde to travel through the empire and keep heading south until they reached a forest on the coast and waited for him. He also told them not to attack anyone unless they were attacked first.

Berty agreed to lead the horde, and Archer shooed her away as her voice annoyed him. As they vanished, he summoned his wings while scooping up the amazed Aeris before taking off and heading toward Alexandria, the capital of Nefertiti's homeland.

The Wraith girl's smile never faded as she trailed small kisses up and down Archer's neck, eliciting his shivers. As they neared the city, a spell hurtled towards them, but Archer's Anti-Magic Skill deflected it. Despite this, the impact still sent him flying backward.

More magic flew at Archer, but the skill blocked everything. He was sent crashing to the ground while shielding Aeris, who also transformed into her Wraith form. Once the duo recovered, he squinted at the wall and saw the soldiers lining up to fire again.

Archer chuckled, "Idiots," he said before using Blink to appear on the wall just as Aeris let out a shrill scream that stunned the Zenian soldiers. He saw a pink flame flying directly toward him as she did that.

A happy smile appeared on his face as Nefertiti crashed into him and sent the two flying over the side of the wall, causing Aeris to panic. The Wraith girl rushed forward, wrapping them in her shadow as they hit the ground.

When Aeris returned to her humanoid form, she lay on the soft grass while Nefertiti straddled Archer. The pink-haired succubus's eyes glowed with untold love before she quickly kissed him.

Archer was sent to heaven when feeling her soft, plump lips against his own. He returned her kiss while taking a handful of her juicy behind. Soon enough, they broke apart as Nefertiti's eyes landed on Aeris.

The Wraith girl watched them with bright red cheeks, but her red eyes were filled with fascination. Archer smiled at the short-haired as Nefertiti spoke in a knowing voice, "Finally admitted to yourself? Now you have let me make this clear."

Nefertiti stood up and approached Aeris before holding her hand out. "Don't try interrupting my private time with my husband," she said. "You can have him once I've drained him good."

Archer watched a radiant smile appear on her pretty face as she continued, "I need him inside me, Aeris." She wrapped her arm around the petite girl's shoulder. "I hope we get on, but don't get in the way of me and my husband. Can we agree on that? Otherwise, you will get burnt by my arcane magic."

"I have no intention of getting in the way of your relationship with our husband, Nefi," Aeris honestly replied. "I just want to be friends with you girls."

His shock upon hearing the succubus's words was palpable, and his expression betrayed his surprise. As Nefertiti advanced towards him, she pressed her chest against his, causing his breath to hitch.

"I know you will never leave me, and now I know you love me," she said with a loving smile. "Come, let's head to the local inn. My parents are busy sorting out the empire's land."

Archer nodded in understanding as they walked to the nearest inn. Nefertiti turned to Aeris before entering. "Just remember not to affect the other's relationships, Wraith girl," she said with a smile. "The others are too friendly to say that, but it had to be done."

Aeris nodded with a smile as they entered the establishment. Despite the sudden hush that fell over the place, it didn't deter them from conversing about the recent events across Zenia.

He recounted their tranquil flight over Mediterra, prompting him to remember to collect the three elves after dropping off Nefertiti at the 1st Fleet. Aeris gestured towards an empty table, and they all settled down to continue their discussion.

Nefertiti looked at Archer and scrunched up her little nose, "What is that smell? It's disgusting," she said in an annoyed voice.

He laughed before casting Aurora Healing on himself and Aeris while explaining, "Well, what you are smelling is Berty, and I will be giving her a talking too when we leave the city."

"Berty?" Nefertiti said as a confused expression crossed her face.

Aeris giggled, "He tamed a herd of Colossophants and many other monsters. It was fascinating," she said in an amused tone.

"Colossophants! How did you control such a monster husband?" Nefertiti while looking into his eyes.

Chapter 836 A Lady Has Never Been This Clean

Archer chuckled, "I beat up their Matriarch, then made her submit to me," he said with a grin. "We rode her here while the other Colossophants traveled alongside Grassland Rhinos and Grizzarok that I tamed."

Nefertiti's eyes widened even further as she shook her head. "Where are they?" she asked.

"They are marching south; I ordered them to stop outside Aquaria," Archer answered with a smile as the waiter approached the table.

The pink-haired succubus shook her head, "You're crazy, husband," she said before turning to the waiter, "Can we have a menu, please?"

"Yes, Princess," the man replied before giving them three menus and standing off to the side.

Nefertiti started reading through hers while ordering dishes, but Aeris was more reserved and embarrassed to speak. Archer interrupted, "Just bring five of everything," he said while smiling at the Wraith girl.

The waiter was shocked but nodded before rushing off to prepare for the meal as the three started chatting. Nefertiti informed them that the Swarm are constantly attacking and the imperial army can't keep up.

Archer reassured her that his legions would find the monsters with the help of the Stone Men and Outriders. When the Sucubuss heard this, she smiled and leaned over the table to kiss him.

Once she was done, Archer had a silly smile while Aeris giggled at the scene, but he decided to tease the short-haired girl by leaning over and kissing her soft cheek. The Wraith girl went utterly red, causing the other two to laugh.

After waiting for ten minutes, the waiter returned with two more staff members, who returned with the easy-to-book dishes and started unloading them onto the table. While they were doing that, Archer messaged the girls.

Following that, he received replies from everyone reassuring him that they were okay. Still, that didn't change the fact that the Swarm was ramping up its attacks and had decimated towns and villages all over the continent.

Archer was told that Cassandra is escorting the first fleet while Demetra guards the second and third, thanks to Agrippina offering to watch over the kingdom while they are gone, which pleases him.

As he was doing that, the restaurant staff unloaded his order, and the sheer amount of food on the table looked ridiculous. Archer glanced at Nefertiti, staring at it all like it was her worst enemy, making him chuckle.

He then turned his gaze toward Aeris, who giggled like a little girl at the sight of the feast. The three of them started eating while talking about all the news coming from the Southlands, which was terrible.

Every kingdom except Aquaria was raised to the ground, and millions of refugees fled the lands and flocked to the only haven: the Draconia Kingdom. When Archer heard this, he was pleased, as the population would swell into the millions, and by the time he beat the Swarm, it would be in the billions.

A plan was forming, and he sent Aisha a message about forming DSS, the Draconian Spy Service, telling her to hire only the best people for the job. But the dragonkin woman suggested his Oma Mia as she was experienced in covert operations and information gathering.

Pleased, he ordered her to split the 10th Legion and send them to the mainland to gather any refugees they could find while the Coastal Fleets would support the transport ships.

While doing that, Archer heard a meow in his head, informing him that The Church Of Lights Banks were full of treasure, which made his inner goblin chuckle. After that, he started eating while chatting to Nefertiti and Aeris.

With satisfaction, he commanded her to divide the 10th Legion and dispatch them to the mainland to gather any refugees they could find while the Coastal Fleets would support the transport ships.

Amid this, Archer's thoughts were interrupted by a meow, informing him that The Church Of Light and Novgorodian Banks were brimming with treasure. This elicited a chuckle from his inner goblin as his eyes glowed.

Following that, he began to dine while conversing with Nefertiti and Aeris as people came and went from the restaurant. There was mostly meat, but the other dishes were delicious, and Archer was lust to gluttony.

It took the trio an hour to finish all the food; Aeris was lying back in her chair while holding her stomach as Nefertiti grabbed his arm, "Husband if I get fat, will you still love me?"

Archer chuckled. "Of course I would, Nefi." He grabbed her hand and kissed it. "I will always love you, no matter what."

The succubus girl beamed with happiness as she lunged at him. Her tail appeared and wrapped around his thigh, and she sat on his lap. Archer was taken by surprise but let her do it when she started kissing his neck.

His eyes met Aeris's, who smiled before pointing toward the incoming waiter. The young man didn't know where to look, but Archer questioned, "How much?"

"11 gold my prince," the waiter answered.

Archer retrieved 16 coins and handed them to the man. "Keep 3 for yourself and give 2 to the cook," he said warmly. "The meal was satisfying. Please express my gratitude to the chef."

The three left the restaurant and noticed the streets were quiet and empty. Archer turned to Nefertiti, "Do you want to join us in Aquaria? We will be marching north once my armies arrive," he said.

Nefertiti thought briefly before grinning like a Cheshire cat, "Are you trying to get rid of me, Mr?"

Archer chuckled before shaking his head, "Of course not, my love. I would never dream of getting rid of you," he said while wrapping his arms around her waist. "You're coming back to Aquaria so I can pamper you."

She smiled, "Okay. I can fly now, so getting there won't take long."

"We can probably catch up to the Monster Army," Archer commented while summoning his wings. "I want to tame more creatures; it's entertaining."

Aeris giggled, "It was fun watching you smile so much," she commented.

Nefertiti whirled around on the short-haired girl, but Archer noticed that she stopped saying something. Seeing this, he smiled before taking off and heading further south as the trio flew over Alexandria.

Soon, they were heading across the never-ending grasslands, where Archer saw the tracks of his new Monster Army heading across the dry ground. While the trio flew, Nefertiti and Aeris were outpacing him.

Archer smiled before he sped up, causing a sonic boom when he overtook two girls who looked baffled, but soon they laughed and tried to catch up. After flying for twenty minutes, he spotted the Colossophants.

He swooped down toward them, and when he got close to Berty, he landed on her back with a thud, scaring the poor creature. Archer chuckled before casting Cleanse on the monster, and she was shocked.

Berty let out a roar but soon calmed down when she realized she was squeaky clean, which made Archer laugh as the woman spoke, "Oh my! A lady has never been this clean. Could you do it for my herd, Great One?"

Archer nodded before casting it on the other Colossophants, who started trumpeting in happiness just as Nefertiti and Aeris appeared next to him. The succubus looked around with wide eyes. "So you were telling the truth," she said.

"Of course, I was," he replied in a fake hurt. "Why would I lie to you, my love?"

The two girls started laughing as the Colossophants continued south, passing by the beautiful landscape. Nefertiti was scanning the horizon, and Archer noticed her eyes narrowing.

"What's wrong, Nefi?" Archer commented as he jumped up.

Before she could answer, Berty panicked and grumbled to inform the herd, "A pack of V-Rexes is charging at us, Great One."

Archer's curiosity was caught as he turned to Nefertiti and Aeris. "Protect the monsters," he said with a smile. "I want to fight in my dragon form to level it up."

They smiled and nodded in affirmation; before Archer transformed, he checked his status.

[Experience: 5000/4000000]

[Experience Gained: 1004800]

[Level Up: 616>617]

[Status Points: 2>4]

[HP: 48000>49000]

[Mana: 791100>794100]

[Strength: 55200>57000]

[Constitution: 54200>55000]

[Stamina: 54000>55000]

[Charisma: 31250>31450]

[Intelligence: 444000>445600]

[Wild Fang Style: 0>1]

Archer was pleased to see the gains and was excited that he finally leveled up. With that sorted out, he leaped off Berty's back and transformed into his dragon form. A bright light blinded everything around until it died down.

His four massive tree-truck-sized legs crashed into the ground while his massive body, tail, and wings cast a shadow over the surrounding landscape. Now Archer was in his true form, and he spotted the incoming creatures.

They reminded him of tyrannosaurus from Earth, but they were smaller and seemed to hunt in packs. The monsters stood fifteen feet tall and had a black hide with glowing red eyes that stood out in the darkness.

Archer chuckled deeply and throatily, thanks to his size. He took a deep breath and let out an earth-shattering roar before a stream of violet fire shot out and hit the biggest V-Rex, causing it to roar in pain.

The searing fire tore through the monster's body like a laser, causing the others to scatter, but Archer was on them. He lunged forward before biting down on one of the creatures and hitting a small group with his massive tail.

When his sudden attack hit the V-Rexes, they were surprised as Archer appeared out of nowhere. Archer grabbed one of the monsters and tore it in half before swallowing it whole causing the others to back off.

After that, the grassland was bathed in blood as Archer annihilated the dinosaur monsters, which satisfied him. However, just as he was about to return to his humanoid form, a group of monsters jumped on him.

Chapter 837 Clean Up

[Aeris & Nefertiti's POV]

Nefertiti was getting excited as Archer went wild. He was fighting with more dinosaur-looking monsters that swarmed over his large body like parasites, but the creatures were giving as good as they got in the fight as they tore through his scales while he tore them apart.

While watching this, Nefertiti felt her little sister getting wet, "Bless the goddess for sending him here; he's mine!"

Her pink eyes glowed with lust, causing Aeris to ask, "Are you okay, Nefi?"

"Yes," she answered in a breathless voice. "I want him right now; I'm aching to feel him inside me."

When Aeris heard this, her cheeks turned bright red, but it was too late as curiosity overtook her, "What is it like? I mean, when you do that thing with Arch."

Nefertiti turned her gaze toward Aeris and started laughing uncontrollably. Loud crashes and roars could be heard in the background. "Little Wraith, it's one of the best feelings in the world, especially since we love each other."

"But what does it feel like? Grandmother says it's like taking those mind drugs they sell on the black markets, with the only difference being that it feels like you're in heaven. She mentioned something about getting opened up feels amazing," Aeris questioned in a curious tone.

"Your grandmother is a wise woman," Nefertiti said. "But to answer your question, it's hard to explain; it feels amazing, but there's something else there. Something deeper, it's more than just a primal urge. It's a connection between two souls meant to be together."

Nefertiti looked into the sky as the stars shone like a beautiful canvas of hundreds of colors. "Before I met Arch, I was an angry, lost young woman always running from her mistakes, but ever since meeting him, I have stopped running and decided to show the world who I truly am."

When she finished speaking, Aeris witnessed her body glow as her succubus features flared to life. Nefertiti started floating into the air as she cast Arcane Blasts into the monsters on Archer's back.

The pink flames annihilated the creatures on contact, causing them to let out a death noise before being crushed. Nefertiti looked at Aeris as her pink eyes glowed with power, "Life is too short to continue with being embarrassed. Take your shot and see if he accepts, but by now, you should already know Archer is a very jealous dragon and won't allow you near any men apart from his people."

After speaking, the succubus flew into the fray while casting her ancient arcane magic. This magic tore the monsters apart, but they seemed like a tidal wave of teeth and claws. Archer and Nefertiti worked like a well-oiled machine to destroy the Monster Wave they stumbled upon.

Aeris witnessed all this and thought, 'She's right, and so were you, mama. We will only regret the chances we never took.'

She looked into the sky and saw a star suddenly shine, causing her to smile, "I love you and Papa so much, but know that I've finally found my happiness and will never forget about you both," she mumbled to herself.

The star shined again alongside a second, and this caused her to grasp, "Papa!"

Aeris was suddenly overwhelmed with emotions, and her vision went blurry. As her world turned dark, a pair of arms encircled her, making her feel much better. She looked up only to see a concerned Archer staring at her with a concerned expression.

She buried her head in his head while tears fell, but a warm feeling washed over her as Archer picked her up and held her close. Aeris was thankful to find someone who was powerful and caring.

[Back to Archer]

Archer held Aeris close as she cried her eyes out. She made heartbreaking noises, but he ensured the Wraith girl knew she wasn't alone. One of the Wraith girls calmed down before they separated.

Aeris looked at him while rubbing her eyes, "Thank you," she said while sniffing. "You're too kind to me, Arch."

He smiled at the embarrassed girl, "Fight some of the monsters before Nefertiti kills them all," Archer smiled while waving at the creatures around them.

The black-haired girl nodded as she stepped back and transformed into her Dark Wraith form. She let out an ear-piercing scream that hurt his ears as she lunged at the nearest creature. Archer scanned the monster to see what they were.

[Terranox]

[Rank: A+]

Aeris used her immense strength and claws to tear apart the monster, sending blood flying everywhere. By the end of the battle, the grassland was soaked in monster blood, and both girls were left breathing heavily from the exertion.

Archer jumped off Berty's back and landed with a thud, quickly casting Aurora Healing and Cleanse on them. Nefertiti let out a happy sigh while Aeris smiled before thanking him as she stretched her body.

He noticed she wore a training outfit resembling leggings and a thin jumper. Archer thought, 'Aeris may be a tomboy but shes gorgeous and I should make her mine.'

With that, Archer looked at Nefertiti, who was using magic to clean off her kaftan, and then turned to her. "Would you like to be together and see where things go, my beautiful Wraith?" he asked earnestly.

Aeris's whole body stiffened as she turned to him, her eyes wide with surprise. "What?" she exclaimed, her voice barely above a whisper.

Archer chuckled, "Well, I'll just show you what I mean," he commented while picking her up into a princess carry and leaned down before kissing her soft, delicate lips, which sent a shock through both of their bodies.

The two continued to kiss until a cough was heard. "Come on, and let's get to Aquaria," Nefertiti said with a knowing smile.

Aeris jumped back in embarrassment while stuttering, but the succubus grabbed the Wratih girl and flew up to Bertys's back, finally speaking, "Great One. It seems you like multiple women. Would you like to add this fine lady to your harem?"

When Archer heard this, he looked at the large elephant-like monster and retorted, "If you had a human form, then maybe, but I don't think you do."

"Oh darn it," Berty replied as her trunk flew toward Archer's shoulder and slowly started to massage him. "Us Colossophants have a human form, but we must reach the Sovereign Mage Rank to unlock the skill."

He slapped it away, "Stop flirting with me. It's weird, as you're ten times my size."

The Colossophant Matriech laughed before signaling the herd to move when he and the two girls jumped on her back. After that, Nefertiti and Aeris chatted about magic while Archer got some rest.

It didn't take long to get back to Aquaria, and when they crossed over the last hill, the city appeared in the distance. Archer ordered the Monster Army to stay in the grasslands until he returned to get them once the navy arrived.

Berty asked where they were going, and he grinned, "You will be loaded onto my transport ships and taken to Draconia. Where you can live in the wild until the right accommodation can be built for you."

The large Colossophant nodded as Archer, Nefertiti, and Aeris made their way toward the city gate, where they spotted Teuila standing there with a beaming smile as the three of them approached.

When Archer got close enough, he spoke to the beautiful blue-haired girl, "How have things been here, Teu?"

"Chaos, we have been attacked by sneakier monsters, but once Brooke organized the defenses, the attacks didn't do as much damage," she said with a frown. "The scouts tell me a Monster Wave is heading this way."

Archer, Nefertiti, and Aeris started laughing, catching Teuila's attention, "Oh hey, you two, I didn't know you'd be here."

The succubus stepped forward and hugged the Aquarian Princess, who looked shocked, but Nefertiti spoke, "It's good that you're safe; I cannot wait to see Draconia. Zenia was ravaged and depressing. Now, Father introduced conscription, which made the atmosphere."

Just as she spoke, Archer received a message from Cassandra informing him that the 1st Fleet had arrived, and everyone in Aquaria would know as the sound of hundreds of cannons firing onto hordes of monsters heading toward Aquaria.

The three girls yelped in fright, but Archer told them that the navy was arriving to start the cleanup of Pluoria. When Teuila heard this, she questioned, raising her eyebrow, "Clean up?"

Archer nodded, "We will wipe out the Swarm by leading them into my legions, who will cut them down," he answered. "Now, my three beautiful ladies, I will come to see you once you are all settled. Just send me a message with your location."

They all nodded before entering the city, while Archer took off and flew toward the coast. As he approached, he saw Draconia's Royal Navy pulling into the Aquarian harbor, with the massive Archer's Pride taking center stage.

Flying closer, he descended and landed gracefully on the deck of his flagship. The surrounding sailors saluted him, and he returned before Blinking to the bridge's balcony only to see Olivia Anderson standing there with a smirk.

The beautiful admiral saluted, "It's good to see you, my Al-

Maseeh At-Tinyan."

Archer shook his head, "Not you too," he said. "Well, it's not like I care; how was the trip here?"

Olivia giggled, "We took out some pirates that tried to attack the transport ships, but the Destroyers wiped them out. Apart from that little scuffle, watching the Dragon Marines train was peaceful and interesting. Where did you find their instructors?" she asked curiously.

"I think Sagana brought some sea elves to Draconia from Avidia," Archer replied as the ship stopped outside the harbor. "They offered their services in sea warfare as their people specialize in it."

"You have sea elf citizens?"

Chapter 838 Here Love, You Can Share It With Me

?Archer nodded. "Yes, there is a city in South Draconia that is home to most of their people, alongside one of the kingdom's largest shipyards and naval bases that trains sailors for the navy."

"How did you get them to come here?" Olivia questioned. "They are usually reclusive and hate the other races."

"That's a long story, but the gist is that a sea elf tribe in the western part of Avidia rose to power and conquered the others in a brutal war. Those who didn't want to live under military rule fled their homeland," Archer explained.

He looked at the calm sea lit by the stars above before continuing, "We found them wandering around Meditterra and the Southlands. With Sagana's help, I offered them a place to stay. They moved to our domain and flourished, earning me their loyalty."

Olivia smiled and nodded. "Amazing," she said. "Well, now we're here. We can start clearing out the Swarm and level up the army."

"That's the plan," Archer replied. "Order the Marshals to disembark and land just outside the city to set up our fortress for the legions."

The older woman nodded, "Yes, Al-Maseeh At-Tinyan," she said with a sly smile.

Archer rolled his hands and smacked Olivia's juicy behind, causing the admiral to yelp as her pink eyes turned to him, "Oh, is the king a lewd man? Does he want this older woman?" she teased him.

He looked into her eyes without joking and answered, "Yes, I want you, Liv, and it doesn't matter if you're older than me."

After that, Olivia's eyes widened, and a naughty smile then appeared as she leaned up against Archer while squashing her massive assets against his chest, which made his heart race, but he managed to control his lust thanks to all the sex he'd had.

"Well, we can get to know each other personally, but for now, we have a mission," Olivia commented while hugging him.

Archer nodded before taking off again. Once the admiral walked back into the bridge, he flew toward the city. Nefertiti told him that she, Sera, Teuila, Brooke, and Aeris were waiting for him.

He flew toward their location only to see hundreds of Aquarians rushing around in a panic as they spotted the incoming fleet. When Archer spotted the four ladies chatting, he landed next to them.

Following that, they greeted him with a hug and kiss, except for Aeris, who was too embarrassed to do so, which caused the other girls to giggle. Archer and the four girls decided to settle down for the night.

Nefertiti offered to show them an inn only if he promised she would be first, which Archer agreed to with a grin. The group meandered through the streets while following the succubus.

Teuila and Sera were questioning Aeris about her love for Archer, which only made her blush, causing him to think, 'She's beautiful when embarrassed.'

It took them to reach Nefertiti's destination. A large Egyptian-inspired building stood taller than the surrounding dwellings. Archer noticed it was built out of beautiful sandstone while decorated with old red maple wood.

Archer saw hieroglyphics littering outside the building, depicting famous Zenian battles or scenes throughout their history. He couldn't help but admire the artwork, which would have taken countless hours.

Nefertiti saw him looking and beamed. "Zenian artists are renowned artisans that most kingdoms and empires want to hire to decorate their palaces," she said. "Father encourages the arts and funds endeavors that will bring more people into his love of all kinds of art."

His eyebrow raised, "I didn't know your homeland loved art," he said in a curious tone.

This caused Nefertiti to giggle. "Well, there's a lot you don't know, husband," she commented in her exotic Egyptian accent, which she had grown to love. "I have a few friends who would love to join your kingdom and bring Zenian art to Draconia."

Archer smiled when he heard this and hugged the succubus who relished in the attention, but Teuila interrupted, "Arch! I was talking to some of my family guards, and they suggested asking the Father if you can recruit some deep sea farmers."

"What do they grow in the sea? I have a Deep Sea Mining Platform being built by my cousin Farrah," Archer said. "Could we combine both projects to mass farm around the island?"

Teuila nodded, "Aquarians can operate underwater without the need for air," she looked into his eyes with a smile. "Remember, we are descendants of the first mermaids that swam in the seas."

"Good idea," Archer said while taking out some paper and writing it down before continuing. "We can earn the kingdom a fortune for combining these; if we include the Red Silk from the Desert Worms, then Draconia will be the wealthiest nation on Thrylos."

All four girls smiled when they saw the happiness on his face. Soon after, the group entered the inn and approached the front desk. A young woman was sitting behind it, looking up with a smile. "How can the Hungry Horse Inn serve you on this fine night?" she said happily.

Nefertiti smiled, "Can we have your biggest room? We need to rest for the night."

The woman nodded before turning her gaze to a book. She started going through it until she found something and spun around. She took a red key off the hook and handed it to the succubus. "That would be 4 gold," she expressed. "That includes room service, dinner, and breakfast."

Everyone wanted the room, so Archer gave the woman 5 gold, which shocked her, but she soon guided them all to the bedroom. He noticed her constantly looking backward while taking in the four girls following him.

After five minutes of walking upstairs, they reached the top floor where the woman opened a door, "Here is your room," she said while walking inside. "There is a mana buzzer to request food whenever you wish."

Nefertiti and the other girls thanked her before the young woman's eyes met his before she concluded, "Enjoy your stay in the Hungry Horse Inn. Have a good night."

Once she finished speaking, the door was closed, causing the others to giggle as Sera commented, "You always drive women crazy with your stupid charisma."

Archer chuckled as he picked the dragon girl up and kissed her, which she happily reciprocated with enough passion that it lit his lust, but he had to control it as he wanted to try some of the food.

He put Sera down before looking at Aeris, "Order four of every dish," he requested in a charming tone. "Tell them we will pay for everything so they don't panic."

The Dark Wraith girl nodded before rushing toward the buzzer as Nefertiti and Teuila walked toward the bathroom. Once they started walking, Sera jumped off him and rushed toward the balcony. "I'm going for a fly. Do you want to come, sweetheart?" she asked, turning to him.

Archer smiled before approaching the fairy dragon and joined her on the balcony. Then, the dragon took off and started flying over Aquaria while Archer admired the scene before them. Everything was dark, and the lights from the city lit up the surrounding area.

The two flew for ten minutes until they reached a large mountain that jutted into the sky. Archer narrowed his eyes when he saw a flock of vile-looking birds roosting on the peak, causing him to cast Plasma Missiles before sending them flying toward the creatures.

Explosions rang across the mountain peak, sending the monsters scattering in all directions. Sera quickly chased a large bird and grabbed it before breathing her red fire all over the creature.

She then started eating it, making Archer laugh at her silliness, but the dragon girl ripped it in half and held out the other half, "Here love," she said with a smile. "You can share it with me."

Archer took the meat, which smelt delicious, but wanted to add something, so he flew toward the nearest edge. Sera followed behind him, and the two landed on a ledge cut off from the ground below.

He took out some spices and doused them on the meat, making it smell even better. Sera noticed what he was doing and got curious as she chirped, "What's that?"

Sera started bouncing on the spot when the aroma hit her nose, causing her tail to swish side to side in excitement. When Archer spotted this, he smiled as he answered, "Some spices the Brownies made before I got kicked out the domain."

Archer took out more and offered some to the dragon girl, "Want some babe?"

Her red eyebrows raised, "Babe? Where did that come from?"

After speaking, Archer shrugged, "I want to show you girls how much you mean to me, and I thought about being more loving to start things off."

Sera beamed, "That sounds good," she took a bite of the meat and started moaning before continuing with a mouth full of food. "Ke--ep calling me th--at, I lik--e it."

Archer bonked her on the head, "We may be monsters, but eat with manners, girl!" The dragon girl giggled, "Sorr--y."

He looked at her and used his tail to smack her perky behind, causing Sera to yelp as she growled at him before getting back to the bird meat and huffed. Archer laughed as he leaned over and pecked her cheek, which earned no response.

The gluttonous dragon ignored him as she was too wrapped in the meat. Archer started eating his own as the stars above glowed like a never-ending celestial painting. He remembered a saying from Earth that he always liked.

'I will love the light for it shows me the way, yet I will endure the darkness because it shows me the stars,' Archer thought while eating.

Chapter 839 Please, don't stop (R18)

Archer finishes the delicious bird meat as something catches his attention. Far above the mountain top, a beautiful rain of comets streaked across the sky and crashed somewhere in the far north Thrylos.

Sera jumped up and became alert when she saw this; Archer started laughing as she reminded him of a scared cat. But he ignored her as a violet glow suddenly appeared and hovered in the air before vanishing as quickly as it happened.

"So beautiful," he said, 'This place is far better than Earth.'

Afterward, he heard Sera finish her meal as she sat back down, tossing the bones over the edge, where they tumbled down the side of the mountain. Once she did that, her ruby-red eyes turned to him, and she asked seriously, "Will you take revenge against the family that banished me?"

Archer knew she was serious, as she wasn't her usual happy self. But he honestly answered, "I'm planning to burn your homeland to ash until it ceases to exist; then, I will turn the whole realm into a Monster Haven for my armies, so the kingdom is forgotten and the wrongs they did to you will be repaid," he reassured her.

Sera beamed when she heard this, then lunged at him like a predator and wrapped her limbs around him. She nuzzled into his neck. "Everyone in my life abandoned me, but you never," she spoke quietly. "You are the only person who has never left my side and has always been there for me."

Archer remained silent and began to kiss her soft, slender neck tenderly. The dragon girl stiffened at first, then let out an adorable moan. "Mmmghh, that feels nice," she murmured.

Continuing his movements, Archer used Mana Manipulation to fashion a stone bed. After a moment, he stopped kissing Sera, who began to protest, but he quickly produced a bundle of blankets and cushions.

He threw them onto the improvised furniture to make it comfortable before falling on top of the petite dragon girl who parted her slender legs for him. Archer rested while lying on top of her before they started passionately kissing.

Sera was getting into it just like he was, and her hands ran all over his chest. Soon, she started stripping him by taking off his shirt, which caused him to shiver due to the breeze. Archer then cast Cosmic Shield to cover the mountain top.

Once he did that, the wind was cut off, and thanks to the heat radiating from Sera's body, it warmed up the inside quickly. The couple got back to it by kissing and touching every part of each other.

He stripped her down to the green lingerie that looked good on her. Archer traced down her soft body, and thanks to being very petite, he could feel her smooth curves and thick thighs. He loved her chocolate brown skin, which was flawless and blemish-free, which drove him mad.

Sera's eyes glowed with lust as she saw the look in his eyes, which earned him a lewd smile, "Mmmh, so handsome, now come to make love to me, husband."

Observing Sera's response, Archer resumed his tender kisses along her neck, gradually trailing down her body until he reached her petite, perky breasts. With a gentle touch, he slid the straps of her bra off her shoulders, allowing her breasts to spring free, their youthful bounce accentuated by their release.

He noticed her dark nipples were already hard and needed attention, which he did by lowering his head and capturing one of her nipples in his mouth. At the same time, his skilled hand teased the other, eliciting a soft, pleasurable moan from the dragon girl, "Mmggghnnn."

When he heard her soft moans, it caused him to speed up his attack, but this time, his hand slid down Sera's soft body until he reached her panties and moved them to the side before he started playing with her button by slowly rubbing it.

Archer continued to suck her hard nipple while using his tongue to flick it, causing her to moan every time he did that, "Nmmmghh!"

Sera started letting out an erotic moan, and her native accent came out, "Arghhhhh! Archer, please don't stop! It feels so nice," she said in a Spanish accent, which drove his lust mad.

He shook his head, but Sera grabbed him and pulled him closer as she spoke in a breathless voice, "You know I love you, husband? I may sometimes be crazy and hyperactive, but I love you with every ounce of my being."

He smiled and stopped rubbing her as a warm feeling washed over him, "I love you to Seraphina Wyldheart, my gorgeous fairy dragon."

Sera beamed and kissed him while Archer started rubbing her again, causing her legs to tremble as the pleasure overwhelmed the dragon girl, who moaned into his neck while she bit down.

Archer felt her sharp teeth pierce his neck as her hands ran across his scales, causing a shiver to run throughout his body. His fingers started speeding up their rubbing until one slipped inside her wet pussy.

"Ahhhhhh!" Sera screamed as her thick thighs clamped down on his hand.

He used his free hand to part her legs, continuing his trail of kisses down the dragon girl's body. The sensation shocked Sera, making her grab his hair and run her hands through it as she spoke in her sexy accent, "Stop teasing me and lick me already, husband!"

Archer paused, a smirk playing on his lips. "I'll do it, but on one condition."

Sera leaned up, narrowing her eyes and breathing heavily. "What's that?"

"Stop hiding your true voice," he murmured, kissing down her navel. "Do you agree, my dragon girl?"

"Yes, yes, please lick me. I'm aching, and I need your tongue!" she exclaimed.

Archer smiled when hearing her begging, which caused his lust to soar. "Okay, my love," he replied.

He continued to kiss her until he reached her soaking wet pussy, which was ready for him after he had just stopped fingering her moments ago. Archer leaned in and ran his tongue up her slick folds, which caused Sera to scream, "Ahhhhh!"

Following that, Archer eagerly delved in, his hunger evident as he began to pleasure her, eliciting a blissful cry from her lips. With his tongue, he explored every inch of her pussy, savoring the sweetness akin to strawberries.

Archer couldn't get enough of her tasty love juices and didn't know he could like it anymore until he slipped his tongue deep inside her tight passage, causing Sera to let out a deep moan, "Mmmmgghh!"

The dragon girl grabbed his hair and pushed his face into her pussy which he happily loved but soon enough, he slipped a finger inside and started pistoning in and out, causing her love juices to pour into his mouth.

"Arghhhh! Mmmghhhh! So goooooood, your tongue is amazing, husband," Sera moaned as the pleasure overwhelmed all her senses.

Archer felt her squirming beneath him, her moans signaling her climax as she released into his mouth, a sensation he relished. Eager for more intimacy, he shifted upwards, positioning himself against her, sliding his hardened length along her slick folds, drenched in her essence.

Sera's breath came in heavy gasps as she recovered from her climax, her moans growing louder with anticipation. "Mmmmgghh! Finally," she murmured, holding onto him tightly like a baby koala, lost in the moment.

He lined his cock up against her snug passage before sliding inside. After some friction, Archer was buried deep in Sera, who let out an erotic scream as her nails dug into his back, causing him to groan.

It was a vice grip sucking his cock further in, but soon, he started making love to the dragon girl, and the two fell into a slow but passionate session, causing pleasure to wash over their bodies.

They moved as one, a dance of love and desire. His lips found Sera's again, their kiss deep and consuming. Her hands tangled in his hair, pulling him closer, her sharp nails scraping lightly against his scalp.

The heat between them grew, their movements more urgent. Sera's moans became louder, "Mmmgghh!" her nails digging into Archer's back. He could feel her tightening around him, her body responding to every thrust.

"Archer," she whispered, her voice thick with need. "Don't stop. Please, don't stop."

He had no intention of stopping. Archer's pace quickened, driven by the sounds of Sera's pleasure and the feeling of her body wrapped around him. He could feel the tension building, the pressure mounting with each thrust.

Sera's breathing became ragged, her moans turning into cries of pleasure. She was close, and so was he. Archer could feel the tight coil in his belly, ready to snap at any moment.

"Archer, I'm going to—" A loud moan abruptly cut off Sera's words as her climax struck her with intense force. Waves of pleasure surged through her body, and she cried out his name, her nails digging into his back, leaving marks.

The feeling of Sera's climax pushed Archer over the edge. With one final, deep thrust, he buried himself inside her and let go. His release hit him like a tidal wave, a surge of pleasure so intense it left him breathless. He groaned, his body shaking with the force of his orgasm.

They clung to each other, riding out the waves of pleasure together. Archer felt Sera's body trembling beneath him, her breath coming in short, ragged gasps. He kissed her neck, shoulder, and lips, unable to get enough of her.

Chapter 840 Exploring A Dragon, Pseudo-God And Succubus (R18)

Archer couldn't keep his claws off the dragon girl, who was just enthusiastic to continue their lovemaking as he moved her onto her side, closed her legs, and slipped back inside her before he started thrusting again.

"Mmmghhh! Oh goddess," Sera mumbled as her eyes rolled back.

He grinned when seeing this before leaning forward and taking her nipple in his mouth only to bite it, which caused Sera to scream in pleasure, "Ahhhh!"

Thanks to lying on her side, Archer could go even deeper, which caused Sera to quiver as the pleasure caused her eyes to roll. She could only let out adorable moans as she gripped the sheet before biting into a cushion, "Mmmmmghhh!!!"

Archer felt satisfaction at her response and maintained his rhythm, thrusting into the petite form of the dragon girl. She trembled with pleasure, her entire being consumed by the sensation as she reached her climax, releasing her love juices over his waist, which pushed him over the edge.

He pushed deeper inside, causing Sera to shudder as she felt his release filling her womb until it began to leak out. Finished, Archer shifted the dazed girl onto all fours and inquired, "Would you like more, my stunning dragon girl?"

Sera shook her head and mumbled in a breathless voice, "I'm hurting and need some rest, you barbarian."

Archer chuckled before backing away and pulling up his pants before slapping her perky behind, causing Sera to yelp as she slumped onto the makeshift bed. He couldn't help but smile as he cast Aurora Healing and Cleanse on her.

The violet glow washed over her body, causing her to let out a sigh before sitting up and stretching, causing her small boobs to jiggle all over the place. Archer shook his head, "Put some clothes on, and I'll carry you back to the city.

"No, I want to fly alongside you, husband," Sera said radiantly. "I enjoy it."

Archer nodded before summoning his wings while the dragon girl wore her dress. The two of them jumped off the mountaintop and free-fell until they soared through the air, and Sera was using magic to fly faster.

She circled him while giggling, causing Archer to smile as the night sky illuminated the ground below. The two continued like this until the inn's balcony came into view, and the two landed with a thud.

Brooke greeted them with a loving smile, "Ahh, my grandson is back. I was hoping you could take Nefi and me on a date. I want to spend more time with you and your ladies."

Archer's eyes widened, but his gaze met the succubus, who smiled in response. He nodded at his Oma, "Of course," he said. "Get ready, and we'll go out as soon as you two are ready."

The older woman leaned forward and kissed him before going to her bedroom to change clothes. Archer turned to Nefertiti, wearing a beautiful white kaftan matching her chocolate skin and pink hair.

'She looks like she belongs in an Egyptian movie,' he thought as he eyed her jewelry, a mix of beads and colorful gems.

While watching her, Teuila smiled. "Can you take me and Aeris out tomorrow, Arch?" she said. "It's only fair."

Archer nodded, "Of course. After that, we will leave with the legions and travel north while fighting the Swarm."

Just as he was going to speak, hands covered his hand while a pair of sharp teeth bit into his neck, causing his body to shudder, "I know that's you, Demetra; your teeth feel amazing."

A laugh was the only response he received as the shark girl's hand slipped down his body, causing his lust to rise, but Cassandra stopped her, "It's not your turn, Dem; you have to wait until he bonds with Lucrezia and Oma."

The Kraken girl removed her hands as Demetra replied in a huff, "I know," she said. "It's unbearable."

"Girl, I'm right here, you know?" Archer looked into the shark girl's yellow eyes. "I will return to the kingdom and tend to Lucrezia once everyone is back together."

Archer turned to face the other girls, "It's too dangerous for each of you, and I'm afraid that's my fault as the Swarms leadership is trying to kill me in any way."

They all frowned, but Teuila spoke determinedly, "We will meet everyone and then head to the kingdom so we can train and grow stronger."

"That's all I ask for," Archer commented. "I will take each of you on dates while we are on the mainland."

Each one smiled before going about their business after he promised to take Cassandra and Demetra on a date after Teuila's. Most girls went to train outside while Brooke and Nefertiti stayed behind.

Brooke looked at the succubus, "Get ready, Nefi. I found a good place to eat and made a reservation for the last chime."

"Okay, Oma," Nefertiti answered with a smile. "Make sure our husband is prepared for tonight."

After she departed, Brooke swiftly turned to Archer, seizing him by the collar and pressing him against the wall, her lips meeting his in a passionate kiss. Her tender form pressed against his, stirring desire within him.

Her hands traced down his body as she spoke in a low, seductive tone once she broke the kiss, "My Naughty grandson gets to make love to his Oma tonight and make me your woman officially."

Brooke's hot breath made Archer shudder with delight as she continued, "I will give you the strongest children and be loyal until the end of everything."

She nibbled his ear, "Is that what you want, Little Light?"

Archer nodded, "Yes," he said with a charming smile. "You will forever be mine, and I'm a jealous lover. Can you handle that, Oma?"

"Why would I bother with other men? You're my other half and the one I want," Brooke answered as her green eyes gleamed.

"What if I want to take your daughter Jade?" he questioned.

Brooke grinned mischievously. "Give it to her, husband! Sometimes, she just needs a reminder that life isn't all about studying."

Archer chuckled, and soon their lips met again, igniting a fervent passion between them. His hands explored her voluptuous form, finding solace in the curves of her body. He eagerly fondled her ample breasts, teasing her nipples until they stiffened beneath his touch.

The older woman let out a soft moan, "Mmmmgh!"

When Archer was playing with her boobs, she stopped him before kissing along his jawline, his neck, and down his chest until she reached his waistband. Brooke grinned as she yanked his pants down, allowing his cock to spring free.

Brooke's eyes gleamed as she gently took him in her hands and started to stroke him while looking into his eyes. Archer let out a groan, "Urghh! That feels good, Oma," he said. "They're so soft."

She giggled, "Well, they're all yours now, my grandson. Now let me show you how a wife pleases her husband."

Before he could reply, Brooke lowered her head, and her pink tongue shot out and traced across his tip, causing a wave of pleasure to shoot through his body. He grabbed her brown ponytail and slowly started to thrust his cock down her throat.

When Archer did this, she let out a moan that increased the pleasure he was receiving. Brooke started bobbing her head while her tongue tasted every part of his shaft, which sent an electrifying feeling flowing through his body.

As the two of them were busy with this, Nefertiti walked back into the room and stopped in her tracks when she spotted Brooke on her knees. Archer spotted the succubus and motioned for her to join, which earned him a scrunched-up face.

Nefertiti's reaction made Archer chuckle, but that was cut off when the older woman took all his cock down her throat. The succubus couldn't stand it anymore and lunged at him before sharing a passionate but primal kiss.

Archer was overwhelmed but had to admit he loved the attention both ladies were giving him. Nefertiti took his hand and placed it on her soft boobs, he started squeezing it which earned him a moan, "Argghmmm!"

This went on for a few more minutes until Archer exploded in Brooke's mouth and pushed his cock deeper as he shot his seed down her throat. When this happened, he noticed she climaxed as a puddle was underneath her,

Soon, Brooke stood up while straightening out her green dress and casting Cleanse on herself before pushing Nefertiti to her knees. When the succubus came face to face with his cock she licked her lips.

She started placing soft kisses up and down the shaft while she massaged his crown jewels. While Nefertiti was sucking him, Brooke shoved his head into her cleavage, but Archer wouldn't put up with that.

He pulled her dress down to reveal two watermelon-sized boobs that sat on her chest without any sag, and two pastel pink nipples were stiff and in need of attention. 'Oh wow, they're perfect even though she is older.'

Archer wasted no time, lowering his head to take one of Brooke's nipples into his mouth. With delicate flicks of his tongue, he elicited a moan from the mature woman. "Mmmmggh! So sensitive," she gasped.

Driven by her response, one of Archer's hands reached for Nefertiti's bobbing head, urging her to take him deeper, while his other hand teased Brooke's free nipple, causing her body to stiffen with pleasure.

Soon enough, Archer was ready and released his essence in Nefertiti's mouth, which she instantly swallowed with a lewd smile on her face. Following that, Brooke climaxed, causing her panties to become soaked.