

A Killer 19

Chapter 19: "Broken Book"

But he didn't know, and his life really fit the old man's words.

After the train traveled for about a few hours, finally reached another platform. As the announcer in the car broadcasted the location inside, the old fortune-teller stretched out and woke up.

Then he stood up, looked at Li Tian and smiled: "It's time to get out of the car...bye."

"Hey, didn't you go to Kyoto?" Li Tian asked the old fortune-telling man in wonder.

Without looking back, the old man walked towards the train door with vigorous steps and said, "No need to go..."

His voice came long and ethereal into Li Tian's ears, and Li Tian couldn't help thinking that this old fortune teller was really a weird person.

He turned his head and continued to sit on the seat, but when he turned his eyes, he suddenly discovered that a broken book had fallen from the seat where the old fortune-teller was sitting.

The torn book looked like an antique, the cover seemed to be made of some kind of animal skin, and it seemed too old to be yellowish.

When Li Tian saw that the fortune-teller had dropped a broken book, he quickly picked it up, and then ran to the car door, preparing to return it to the old man.

Unfortunately, when he ran to the door of the car, the figure of the old man had already disappeared.

"Your mother, running so fast?" Li Tian said inwardly.

"Forget it, a broken book is not worth much. If you lose it, you can lose it."

Li Tian sat back again and threw the broken book on the side table at random.

But when he threw the antique-like book on the table, the shattered book seemed to have some attraction, and Li Tian couldn't help but feel the urge to take a closer look at it.

So Li Tian really touched the book and took a closer look.

The cover is made of some kind of animal skin, but the corners are worn out, and there is a faded seal engraved on the cover. Because it is too vague, Li Tian can't tell that the word is. what.

Li Tian holding this antique-like book in his hand slowly opened it, and a smell of dust came out of the book as soon as it was opened. It seems that this book has not been opened for many years.

Li Tian held his nose, and couldn't help cursing, "What kind of broken book is this?"

Enduring the unpleasant smell, he slowly opened the book, which immediately stunned him.

"What kind of book is Nima? Why are there all tadpole scripts here?"

Looking closely at the book in front of him, the graphic characters on it were extremely weird, like ancient oracle bone inscriptions, or tadpole inscriptions, one symbol for one symbol, which made Li Tian suddenly depressed.

After flipping through a few pages, there are all such weird texts here, but it is a pity that Li Tian really can't understand, so he glanced at it and left the broken book on the table.

He couldn't help but muttered, "What a broken book?"

That antique book was placed in front of Li Tian, and what about him? Then he lay down on the table to rest.

Li Tian, who was lying on the table, was a little sleepy in chaos, but when he suddenly fell asleep, an incredible tadpole text suddenly appeared in his mind. Yes, it was indeed a tadpole text.

And it's the tadpole text in the "broken book" that Li Tian just saw.

Those little tadpoles seemed to have all entered his mind, and they were still swimming, where did they go? It turned out to be swimming towards the acupuncture points of Li Tian's whole body.

Acupuncture points of the human body can be divided into 3 categories, 1. Meridian points. Also known as the fourteen meridian points. The acupoints distributed on the twelve meridians and the Ren and Du channels are the main part of the whole body. 2. Odd holes. Also known as Jingwaiqi Point. Acupoints that have a certain name, a clear location and therapeutic effect, but have not been classified into the fourteen meridian system, are called odd acupoints. 3. Ashi point, also known as tenderness point, is an important point in the human nerve center.

And what about the tadpoles now? They collided one by one on the acupoints of the major meridians in Li Tian's body.

Although Li Tian's whole body was lying tiredly on the table, when the tadpole suddenly hit his acupuncture point, his body suddenly rose from the pubic area with a slight heat, and there seemed to be some gas in his abdomen about to burst out. of.

And Li Tian suddenly felt that he was full of energy and his body was at ease, isn't this? After being shocked, Li Tian quickly sat up.

I was completely stunned. I touched my body. The whole person seemed to be insane and touched it. I couldn't help muttering in my heart: What is going on? How could that tadpole ran into my mind just now, and also got into my own body? But when those little tadpoles wandered behind his body, how could he feel a sense of comfort that he had never felt before, and his whole body was full of unprecedented strength.

Li Tian thought of this place more and more strange.

After living for 20 years, he never believed that good luck would come to him, let alone that God would take care of him in particular, he was lonely and accustomed to him since he was a child.

But what happened today really surprised him. What happened to those little tadpoles? Why does his body seem to change in an instant.

He knew that the place where the tadpole was walking was the place where the body's air pockets were. The so-called air pockets were originally where the body's power was gathered. Under the abdomen, the tadpole's walking had already touched his body. Li Tiancai felt that his whole body was suddenly full of energy.

Li Tian couldn't help looking at the broken book in front of him, and was surprised in his heart: Good deed, isn't it because of you?

Thinking of this, Li Tian couldn't help picking up the broken book he had just thrown away.

He took the yellow and foul-smelling book again and studied it carefully. The cover of this book was incomplete, and it was engraved with an ancient seal script. Li Tian racked his brains and couldn't think of it. What is the word?

Opening the tadpole book again, Li Tian suddenly discovered that this book is definitely an antique among antiques. He didn't look at it carefully just now. After reading it for a while, he discovered that the paper in this book turned out to be ancient. "Zao Eki Paper", although Li Tian doesn't recognize this "Zao Eki Paper", it can be seen from the traces of those years and the rough lines on it that it is paper from a long time ago.

This kind of "Zaobo paper" was invented during the Eastern Han Dynasty. Although the paper is rough, it is hard-wearing. Because the paper is soaked in a special liquid, it will last for a long time. It was too rough and too heavy, so (Saiki paper) soon fell out of fashion.

But Li Tian didn't know that what he was holding was an old antique. If he used money to sell it, he really didn't know how much he could sell... But what about Li Tian? He could only see that the torn book was heavy, and the paper looked like an antique.

When I opened the book, those weird tadpole characters were still vividly visible. Li Tian looked at it with interest, and after watching, the small tadpole characters seemed to move suddenly.

Faced with this strange sight, Li Tian was completely stunned.

I secretly lined up: Isn't it a dazzling one? But after he rubbed his eyes, he found that the words did indeed seem to be moving.
