

A. Nocturne's 191

Chapter 191 I'd Rather Avoid Allen

The first meeting of the day had run over schedule by about an hour, and as the Elders filed out of the room in silence, Adam reached for Ann's hand and gave it a squeeze, before he brought it to his lips, placing a soft kiss on her skin.

"You were magnificent, my Queen." He murmured as Ann giggled like a teenager at the intimate moment between them.

"I just hope they finally got the message," she sighed, her disappointment still evident as they stood and began to make their way toward the next scheduled meeting.

She was satisfied with the agreed-upon actions that the Elders had committed to and had ordered the measures discussed to be implemented immediately. At least now, she had a solid plan that she could relay to Alpha Felix so that their Kingdom didn't come across as incompetent.

Ann's phone rang seconds before Adam's did, and seeing Lexi on her caller display

Chapter 192 A Little Family of Their Own

Adam's lips crashed against hers, devouring her hungrily as his hands found their way under her shirt, eagerly grasping at the places on her body that made her moan with delight.

The sensations threatened to overwhelm her as she fumbled with the zip on his trousers, desperately seeking the bulge that was growing within as the seconds ticked by.

"Ann, we should lock the door." He murmured between kisses.

“I don’t give a fk if we’re caught, Adam... I need this... I need you in me.” She murmured as she finally freed the monster in his pants and wrapped her fingers around it.

Adam hissed lightly in appreciation and his head tilted back reflexively as she began to work her fingers up and down the shaft of his ps, drinking in the sight of his muscular neck bared so elegantly before her.

She bent over and placed her lips along the beautiful lines of his neck a

Chapter 193 Dread and Excitement

Lexi paced anxiously in her father’s lounge as she waited for him to finish gathering his things. Steven stood at the side of the doorway to his room like a statue, his stoic face impassive, and the only visible movement was his eyes as they followed Lexi’s pacing.

“You’ll wear a hole in the carpet if you continue walking the same patterns.” He observed dryly. Lexi paused and looked at him in shock, removing her hands from her mouth where she had been gnawing on the edges of her fingernails as a wry smile found its way onto her lips.

“Well, fk me, Steven, you do speak.”

“I’d rather not.” He answered flatly, his eyes remaining fixed on her father’s doorway. “What? fk me? Or speak?” Lexi teased.

Steven chose not to answer, only sighing slightly and crossing his arms in front of him. Lexi chuckled and waved her hand dismissively at him.

“I’d probably break you

Chapter 194 Are You Ignoring Me?

Allen had spent the morning fielding phone calls with Adam and ensuring that the omegas had everything ready for when Lexi and her father arrived.

The conversation with Adam had been a difficult one to say the least. Having to admit that he had indeed been acting like a righteous prick instead of claiming his mate as he should have, was one of the hardest things that he had ever had to do.

The constant arguing with his wolf on a daily basis had been more than draining. But Allen knew, as soon as he saw Lexi engrossed in conversation with another man, and loving every second of it, he had to claim her as his. Admittedly, he had lost his cool with that c*oc*ky little tt Greyson, but he deserved that... and it felt damn good landing that punch on his arrogant little face.

Allen snorted to himself at the memory and the corners of his lips curved upward into a smirk, but it faded

Chapter 195 You're Both Terrible Liars

Lord Brarthroroz refused any a*s*sistance with their baggage from the omegas and instead insisted on carrying it themselves as Allen led them up the stairs and through the corridors to the comfortable guest quarters that were reserved for important guests.

Allen was positive that Lexi had completely misunderstood his lack of composure when they first appeared and he actually missed her over-familiarity now that she had closed herself off from him.

He would give anything to have her gripping hold of his arm and teasing him mercilessly, instead of trailing behind him with that cold, emotionless stare that she had fixed on his back at the minute. "Is everything okay, Beta Allen? You seem as distracted as my daughter has been. Is there something going on between you two that I should know about?"

"No!" Allen and Lexi both replied hastily at the same time, with matching gu

Chapter 196 Two Supposed Mates

Lexi didn't even know why she was crying or how long she had been crying for. All she did know was that she was furious with herself for letting a prick like Allen get under her skin so easily.

There was no way that he was her mate, was there? Her father had said that the bonding between daemons and their mates was eternal. You only got one in your lifetime and quite honestly, the thought of being bonded to Allen for the rest of her life... the mere thought of it was driving her slowly insane.

She was so confused about her feelings for him. How was it possible to want to f"ck someone to an inch of their life...but also want to murder them with everything you had in you? Wasn't that the sort of toxic relationship that she had spent her life trying to avoid?

Then why did she feel so empty without him near?

She groaned loudly and turned onto her back on the luxurious bed, casti

Chapter 197 A Big Girl

Allen could feel his wolf howl in despair the longer she spoke. She had a connection with Greyson as well?

'No! I won't share her! She is OUR mate! This is your fault!' Orvar raged inside him as Allen tried desperately to block him out so that he could organize his own thoughts.

He hadn't even considered that she would actually take both of them as mates, but if she couldn't decide, and didn't want to reject either of them...

Allen shook his head slowly.

“Would you consider rejecting one of us?” He asked tentatively as Lexi stared at him aghast. “And willingly cause that level of pain to the ones who are supposed to be made just for me? Are you insane? I’ve seen what it does to you wolves. How could you even ask me to reject Greyson?”

“I never asked for you to reject Greyson,” Allen said quietly. “I’m fully aware that you could choose to reject me as well if you only wanted

Chapter – 198 Why Me?

Allen escorted Lexi and her father to the patio area just at the back of the dining room after dinner was finished so that they could relax a little. He apologized profusely as he excused himself, explaining that he had to make a few phone calls but would be back soon.

“He rarely seems to have any time for himself.” Lord 8rarthroz observed dryly, as Lexi snorted in response. “Duty first, always...” she said bitterly as she glanced around the area.

It hadn’t changed much since she was here only a few weeks ago. The Omega’s had set up the area nicely with fairy lights intertwined with the honeysuckle that spiraled up the posts of the wood pergola, and across the latticed roof. The lanterns that hung from the ceiling would definitely provide a nice ambiance after sunset, but that was still hours away.

An Omega hurried out from the hall and placed a tray holding a colossal jug of fresh sa

Chapter – 199 Accept Or Not

Allen had stood at the doorway not wanting to intrude on the conversation but his heart ached for the fact that he couldn’t soothe Lexi’s sadness and conflicting emotions.

He understood completely though. She was having the same feelings of doubt and disbelief that he had shared initially, but the difference was, she hadn’t rejected them outright and instead, listened carefully to her father’s advice.

In hindsight, he should have spoken to someone about his misgivings when he realized that Lexi was his mate.

Adam had made it clear that he would have been happy to talk to him about this when they discussed the whole situation in depth, but he had been so busy with Ann and the problems that they had been facing that he hadn't wanted to add to the burden they faced.

He had been so lost in thought he hadn't noticed Lexi glance across and spot him in the doorway. "Do you want t

Chapter – 200 More Haste Less Speed

As soon as Allen felt Lexi's resistance disappear he felt a peace that he hadn't felt in a longtime.

He wanted her as close to him as possible, his skin against hers. He wanted to trace every curve of her body with his lips and hear her moan in pleasure, no, scream his name in ecstasy.

The mere thought of her underneath him was driving him crazy and his erection was pressing uncomfortably against his zipper. He needed to readjust, but he didn't want to let her go. He couldn't bear the thought of her leaving him alone again.

Without thinking twice he moved quickly, gathering her in his arms and holding her tightly to his chest as she flung her arms around his neck, pulling him closer to her as if her very life depended on it.

It was difficult to make his way through the dining room and up the stairs with Lexi's exuberant actions in his arms, but after a few close ca