

The Alpha's Rejected Bride Epilogue

Lucy Pov

The female doctor rushes out of the room to inform our family members about the good news. I hear claps and cheers erupt just outside the door. They are getting louder and I find myself smiling. I look down at the baby boy in my arms. He's perfectly beautiful.

I kiss his forehead and a few tears roll down my cheeks. I look up at Rayan he's smiling so much and I hand him the newborn baby.

He kisses him. The doctor and the nurse take the baby away. Rayan kisses my forehead one more time and I close my eyes to sleep.

When I wake up, I hear voices, I turn and realize it's Rayan and Ahyan. They are watching the baby and talking.

"Does he have a name?" Ahyan asks.

"Did you have anything in mind?" He shakes his head.

"Nameless," he giggles. I carefully get out of bed and snake my arms around my mate's waist. Both boys turn to me with a small.

"Hi, mummy!" Ahyan greets. I kiss his forehead.

"We are naming him nameless," he laughs. I scrunch my face

"No, we're not,"

"It's not that bad," my husband support making Ahyan look proud. I glare at them.

Later in the day, we have received gifts from the packs to welcome the new prince of wolves.

A few days later are the best days, the pack and castle have been in a celebratory mood. The music, the dance and different food.

Members are coming to pay tribute to us. They are excited.

Everything is going well. My colleagues at the hospital came to pay a visit as well, they are happy with their lives, Mike is interested in a new student nurse and surprisingly, Shelly was cool with it, she joined a dating app and has met so many suitors. As for the director, he is still exploring his interests because he's looking for someone like me, so they said but he denied that and Letty kissed a girl last week and she loved it!

Three months.

It has been months of adjusting to having a new baby. We did the baby's room ourselves with the help of an interior designer. The room is cozy and perfect just like my little prince. My husband and I have changes in our daily routine as we have to be present in our kids' lives more than anyone. I reduced my shift at the hospital as it was too much for me, and I also have to do my duties as queen.

Baby Theodore and Ahyan get along well, last night I found him in his baby brother's room at 03 am trying to calm his crying. He was humming and telling him to take a breath slowly as he stroked his hair. I couldn't help shed a few tears at the sight.

I'm in the baby's new room, arranging his walk-in closet with the help of Isabella, the young lady will have been a big help with the kids as well.

"Who has the kids?" I ask as Meredith walks in happily.

"Mrs. Altamonte and lady Miranda have them, they are enjoying the sun in the garden," she informs me and sits on the fluffy carpet.

"Mother is here? I didn't know," Mom has been traveling a lot lately, she is enjoying her life to the fullest, a month ago she introduced me to a french man she is dating.

I and the girls chat a little while we finish cleaning out Theodore's closet.

"My lady, what are you wearing for the upcoming wedding?" Arabella asks me. Rayan and I were supposed to attend Bradley and Naomi's wedding this coming weekend but the two eloped and got married in Las Vegas, they said they couldn't handle the pressure, Naomi's parents wanted a big wedding.

"Didn't you hear? They eloped!" Meredith says in a dreamy tone.

During lunch, we decide to have it near the lake in the garden. The chefs have done a good job preparing the place, and the food looks delicious. My godparents are being lovely as usual, they are giggling about nothing. My mom and aunt are talking to Xena, she and alpha Jasper make sure to come here once a month for a visit.

I'm very proud of Xena, She's a kind and gentle Luna, people sing her praises at the Golden moon pack.

We are joined by Enol and his mate, they are holding hands and smiling. I wink at them knowing well that they mated a few days ago, Jasmine blushes and hides behind her mate for a while. We giggle at how cute they are.

Lastly, Rayan and Jasper approach, in their arms are the kids. Ahyan is complaining about something to his father while Theodore is fusing in Jasper's arms, both boys can't stay still! They are very energetic.

Brunch is amazing and they are only good vibes. Everyone is engaged in conversation.

The sound of our laughter can be heard and happiness and satisfaction in everyone's heart can be felt.

Rayan is smiling and places a hand over my legs, tingles erupt where he touches. He kisses my shoulder sweetly and whispers.

"I love you,"

"As do I," I breathe. A few years ago I almost ended my life because of a jerk that didn't deserve me. I was in so much pain and made the wrong choice but it's through that I met Rayan and he became the best part of my life, he made me a princess, a wife, a Queen, and the most satisfying job of all, a mother. My love for my family is indescribable. Life can change on a dime indeed. I breathe for them, I live for them. My family.

Two years later

Still happily married, I sigh after putting the kids to bed, they grow beautifully every day and are closer than we thought they would. Rayan and I have been busy with our schedule so tonight I prepare him a surprise and some news.

I change into my provocative black lingerie and wear a leather jacket over it.

I put on blood-red lipstick and check myself in the mirror.

'Hot,' Pisces purrs. We do look hot indeed.

I smile and wink before putting on my high heels.

I play soft music and turn off the light then sit in a chair I placed just across the door.

Rayan gets into slowly, looking around.

"Baby? Wifey?" He calls.

"Hey husband," I say seductively. I can see his boyish grin through the dark. I approach him slowly, clicking my heels and swaying my hips. Once I'm in reach, I snake my hands around him and stand on the top of my shoes to give him a passionate kiss. The kiss is long. He bites my collarbone and I can feel his smile against my neck. A shiver runs down my spine as he puffs out hot breath on my skin.

“So hot my lady,” he says in a growl. My husband’s hands are on my waist lightly. He backs away and I let my coat fall to the ground.

He swallows audibly and drinks me in, his look is seductive and his gaze makes me feel like the only woman alive. Rayan extends his hand to me, and I take it. He twirls me around.

He is looking at my outfit intensely and his eyes turn dark. Without a second to wait, he pulls me by his chest and slowly I feel his fingers caress my leg. I gulp thickly as he gets on one knee and begins to kiss her inner legs. A moan escapes. My fingers play in his hair.

He carries me and places me on the bed but I switch our positions and press him against the bed. I wink and hover over him, spreading my legs widely.

” Oops,” he gasps. I rip his shirt and caress his chest. I bend down to kiss his neck down to his chest.

” Kitty wants to play,” He husks. We easily discard our fabrics and f**k until dawn.

We take a moment to breathe, panting. I hover over him and kiss his lips softly.

” And the heels?” He asks. I realized that I didn’t take off my heels. He cups my breath and continues to caress them.

” Well, they just seemed right,” I answer.

We stay in an embrace for a long time, listening to our breathing. Finally, I break it.

” I have news,” I whisper.

” Share,”

” I’m ... pregnant,” I say with a smile. I think Rayan has frozen. Concerned, I peer up to him, placing a sweet kiss on his lips and that seems to get him out of his shock state. I wipe his eyes as a tear rolls down his face. His lips stretch into a smile and he pulls me in for a sweet kiss.

” Thank you for making me the happiest man alive, Lucy,” he breaths.

” And thank you for coming into my life and loving me,” we are sharing kisses in between our words, his hand is already on my stomach.

” Thank you for existing,” he says to me. I’m smiling. Happiness, gratitude and love are filling my heart.

This is the beginning of our lives 😊

