

I Have a Shop of Infinite Resources

Chapter 14

An Early Outbreak

Presently, the Tang family had already driven out of the second ring road and were about to arrive at the villa in the suburbs.

They were completely oblivious to the huge problem that was about to haunt them.

“We have five hours before the official outbreak of the apocalypse.” Tang Mingchu clicked his tongue. His tone was playful, but there was no smile in his long, narrow eyes.

Tang Susu, on the other hand, was leisurely eating her candy. She noticed her brother’s gaze and handed it over. “Want some?”

Tang Mingzhou smiled indulgently and helplessly. “Since when did you like candy so much?”

The corners of Susu’s mouth curved slightly as she looked at the night market across the road. It was obviously much more deserted than usual, and there were only a few pedestrians who were in a hurry.

Suddenly, a woman in a dress fell to the ground with a thud.

Seeing this scene, Tang Mingqi’s mind went blank for a moment. there’s a buzz.

A voice that seemed to be able to penetrate one’s soul rang out in his ear. “The apocalypse has broken out in advance.”

Whaa...!!!

The whole family gasped in shock.

Almost as soon as he finished speaking, the passers-by who were crossing the pedestrian crossing fell one by one.

Those who had not fallen were all confused. Some even tried to go up and save her. “Miss, are you okay?”

Susu quickly rolled down the car window and shouted at them, “Don’t touch those people! Run!”

“How can you be so selfish and cold-blooded!” The person who saved her looked indignant, but then he was overjoyed. “Miss, wake up! Zhenzhen!”

Before he could finish his sentence, the woman who had just woken up opened her mouth and bit his throat!

The onlookers were dumbfounded as they watched the “woman’s” delicate face turn gray and ferocious in a short time. Her blood vessels burst, and her pupils disappeared!

Roar!

One after another, the creatures who had fallen down all got up.

Some of the more timid people fell to the ground. “What, What is this?!”

The next second, a tall zombie pounced on him and bit him fiercely!

“Ah! Ah! Ahhh!!! Help!”

“Heavens! The monster is eating people. Run!”

In the blink of an eye, his cry for help was drowned out by the impatient gnawing of the zombies.

A gentlemanly man took out his phone and pretended to threaten the creature. “Don’t, don’t come here. I’m calling the police!”

The woman accompanying him saw that he had been pounced on and was so scared that she quickly pushed the zombies on him. “Hubby, go away! Ah!”

With a scream, the light in the woman’s eyes froze for a moment. Her chest was pierced through from behind by a zombie’s sharp claws, and her heart was dug out in a bloody mess!

As soon as these slow creatures touched food, they would chew ferociously like hungry beasts, accompanied by low growls that seemed to be formed from their throats.

In the blink of an eye, the “people” who were still being eaten sat up from the ground one after another.

Roar, roar!

The rest of the people were so scared that they fled as quickly as they could. There were no buildings nearby for them to hide in, so they got into the traffic behind them that had not realized what was going on and patted the car doors crazily.

“Argh! Quickly open the door, quickly! Let me in!”

The car owners were furious and confused.

Someone had just opened the door when the zombies behind him pounced on him and bit his neck, causing blood to spray out!

He looked at the man who had called him in shock and pain as he frantically climbed into his car and then left with a whoosh.

At the same time, the same chaos was happening in every corner of the world.

At 10:30 pm on June 4, 2051, the apocalypse finally begun!

Tang Susu’s eyes narrowed as she urged, “Let’s go! The first-generation zombies spread very quickly. There will be more and more zombies!”

“Oh, oh.” Mr. Tang suddenly woke up.

As she said this, his feet seemed to have slipped, and he couldn't step on the accelerator.

The others weren't any better than him.

At this time, the green light came on again, but only a few of the cars stopped in front of the pedestrian crossing could be driven away.

They were either entangled by people, and zombies blocking their way or, like Mr. Tang, were dumbfounded after seeing a living person being torn apart and swallowed alive. It was bloody and brutal.

“Let me do it.” As Tang Mingchu spoke, he opened the car door and was about to step out when he was suddenly pushed back by a force!

Wham!

The door separated them from a creature that pounced over.

“Roar!” The zombie that had almost succeeded roared angrily. Its shriek was ear-piercing!

Tang Mingchu broke out in a cold sweat.

When they found out who had pushed him back, the whole family was shocked. “Susu!”