Chapter 18

Choosing A Weapon

“Do you have any body-strengthening pills?” Although her heart wouldn’t hurt, for the time being, Tang Susu still felt that her body was too weak.

Even if she had some skills, she could only use 5% of them.

[When the Super Heart Pill is in effect, it is ill-advised for the host to take other drugs that can accelerate the body’s function. Otherwise, the effects of the drugs will offset each other, and the effects will be greatly reduced. It will also have a negative impact on the host.]

Almost as soon as its childish mechanical voice fell, Tang Susu’s heart contracted violently, and she almost died on the spot!

She gasped and quickly swallowed another Heart Pill. “There won’t be any side effects if you take it alone, right?”

[As long as you don’t take it for a long time, it won’t be a problem. So, the host should go out as soon as possible to complete missions, upgrade, treat illnesses, and find wealth.]

Tang Susu didn’t want to rely too much on medicine, so she picked a long and thin machete and an electric baton from the warehouse.

The machete was about 30 centimeters long and made of fine steel. There was a curved hook-shaped slanted blade at the head. It looked like the Grim Reaper’s scythe, but a miniature version of it. It needed to be used close to the body. The handle was designed in an ergonomic way, and it was very comfortable to hold in the hand. It was also slightly heavy.

Tang Susu didn’t feel tired after waving her hand a few times, but she liked to be prepared for both eventualities. She also took out a retractable electric baton, which could cause some damage to the zombie's head.

When he went out, he saw his family fiddling with the TV and cell phone in the living room. However, no matter how hard they tried, the result was the same.

"The internet and all communications have been cut off!"

The atmosphere suddenly turned gloomy. I wonder how the country will deal with this terrible disaster.

"The military will assist in the construction of the four major bases to take in the survivors." Tang Susu told them the best part.

"That's good, that's good!" Mr. Tang was the most worried about the country and the people, so he relaxed after hearing this.

"But before that, let's go out and clean up the surroundings. Otherwise, we won't be able to live in peace. At the same time, we should get used to it as soon as possible. Time is tight, and the situation will only get more and more severe in the future!"

As she spoke, Tang Susu took out a training list that she had prepared earlier.

"This is the training plan that I've made. All of us have to participate. From today onwards, we must execute it with precision!"

Tang Mingqi took a look and exclaimed, "Susu, are you training for the special forces?"

"Even the special forces might not survive the apocalypse."

Tang Mingzhou looked at it carefully and muttered, "It's still not enough. Add a few more."

Tang Mingchu was speechless.

Not daring to waste any more time, everyone went to the warehouse and picked a weapon.

Mr. Tang took out a long-handled axe and found a whetstone to sharpen the new axe.

Having already chosen it last night, it was a prismatic captive knife that was similar to a bayonet with three sides. It could quickly lead air into the blood vessels to form a plug, which would cause brain circulation obstruction and kill the enemy quickly.

Tang Mingqi's weapon was a black combat knife. Because he had learned combat for a period of time, he had an advantage over others. This knife could cut, stab, and slash, which was useful to him.

Tang Mingzhou chose a crossbow that could be remotely controlled. It was also because he went to the shooting club to play with it from time to time, so his accuracy was good, and he was familiar with this weapon.

"Let's go out and take a look!"

Although Mrs. Tang was terrified of zombies, she still clenched the electric pitchfork that Mr. Tang had chosen for her. It could prevent zombies from getting close to her. Even if she couldn't kill any today, it would be good to train her courage.

The family locked the gate of the villa and walked on the wide asphalt road. The zombies could only identify people by sound, so they walked very lightly.

At around eight in the morning, the sky was still dark, and the sun was hidden in the thick clouds.

There was not a single person in sight, not even the sound of birds. The surroundings were so quiet that it made one's heart tighten.

"Be careful! There's one in front!" Tang Mingchen exclaimed.

Roar!

A “janitor” with half of his body in the trash can immediately raised his head.

Its orange uniform was stained with blood, and there was a piece of rotten meat in its open mouth. There was a fruit knife in its eye, and black blood had solidified on its gray face. It roared and walked quickly toward them!

“This zombie has been here for a few days, so it’s quite fast. You guys try your weapons, and then I’ll blow its head off.”

Tang Susu took a few steps back and gave the stage to her two brothers, who were full of fighting spirit.

“Hehe.” Tang Mingchu slowly drew his saber from its sheath. “Today is the day you die!”

However, before he could rush forward, a tall figure quickly passed by him, cut off the zombie’s claws, and fought with it.
