112 The Internet, Stunned! A Tomb Guardian's Corpse?! (1)

"Holy f*k!"

"Holy sh*t!"

"Could the host be mistaken?"

"A saber-toothed tiger?"

"Can this really f*cking be the carcass of a saber-toothed tiger... No... a fossil of it?"

"That's impossible, right? Aren't these things from tens of thousands of years ago?"

"What's the issue with that? Can something from tens of thousands of years ago not be dug out?"

"Well, that seems to not be the case."

"But I don't really believe it."

"Why not? It's right there in the stream!"

"I feel like I'm in a dream!"

"Man, how hard is it to believe that a treasure-hunting streamer managed to dig out a saber-toothed tiger's fossil!"

Luo Feng chuckled and addressed his viewers, "The fossil was buried under such a massive landslide. If this stream is actually scripted, how do you think I caused the landslide to occur?"

Indeed, had a landslide not occurred, the fossil would not have been exposed to begin with.

It was obvious that it was contained within the collapsed portion of the mountain.

"So, does the host intend on taking this fossil back with him?"

"Yeah, a saber-tooth tiger's fossil is extremely rare!"

Luo Feng casually placed the two tiger fangs into his pockets and replied, "Its skeleton is actually quite fractured. It won't be easy putting it back together when I get back. I'll need the help of a professional! For now, I'll leave this fossil here and decide what to do when I get back!"

Once Luo Feng had finished addressing his viewers, he then made a call to Huang Tianba.

However, he had only contacted him to get some men to watch over the saber-toothed tiger's fossil.

It was a prized treasure worth more than 3 million yuan, after all.

He could not just let it be unprotected while he returned to the city.

Were it only a couple hundreds of thousands of yuan, Luo Feng would not have hired muscle to watch over it.

However, this was a valuable piece of treasure, and back when he had first received the system notification, the thought that it was a dinosaur's fossil had even crossed his mind!

But now that the truth was out, he felt that this was an even better scenario.

To him, a saber-toothed tiger's fossil was much more valuable than a dinosaur's.

After all, saber-toothed tigers were well known prehistoric animals, and had Luo Feng dug out a dinosaur's fossil instead, he had to hoped that it was a tyrannosaurus rex or some other famous dinosaur species.

Otherwise, the dinosaur's fossil would likely not amount to much.

In comparison, saber-toothed tiger fossils were much more expensive than regular dinosaur fossils.

In addition, the saber-toothed tiger fossil that Luo Feng had dug out was huge and well-preserved, and it had almost no bones missing.

Under such circumstances, it was only natural for it to be worth 3 million yuan.

"Luo Feng, you actually managed to dig up a saber-toothed tiger fossil!"

"Your luck is insane!"

"I really admire you!"

Qin Rubing called up Luo Feng, her tone laced with genuine surprise.

The rate at which Luo Feng accumulated treasures was as if Luo Feng was the deity of fortune himself.

Natural gold?

An ancient village?

An ancient battlefield?

Landmines?

And now, a saber-toothed tiger fossil?

From what she could tell from the livestream, the saber-toothed tiger fossil was outrageously well preserved.

It could easily fetch 3 million yuan!

"Well, don't admire me. Also, if you intend to make your way over, I'd advise against it!"

"Why?" Qin Rubing immediately asked.

"Because there are quite a lot of mosquitoes here. Your usual split qipao is a little inappropriate for the venue."

“Did you actually think that I’ll wear a qipao over?”

“Do you think I’d tell you what I think?”

“Silly dog!”

What the f*ck?

???

Luo Feng was momentarily caught off guard. What the hell is this?

She called me a silly dog right to my face.

...

Luo Feng was unable to make a response.

“Ahem, ahem. If I actually came over, I definitely wouldn’t be dressed in a qipao! Are you secretly hoping for mosquitoes to bite my legs?!”

“Ermmm!” Luo Feng was a little hesitant to give a reply.

“I’m sorry!”

“I’ll making my way over! Wait for me.”

Qin Rubing also felt that it was wrong to call him a silly dog and she immediately apologized.

The call was over.

“Silly dog?”

“This is the first time a girl has ever scolded me like that!”

However, since Qin Rubing had already apologized, Luo Feng did not take the insult to heart.

Otherwise...

Luo Feng would purposely put Qin Rubing in a tough spot.

After all, he had full discretion over whatever treasure he marketed to the Rare Treasure Pavilion, and if he was feeling p*ssed, he could just wait until Qin Rubing comes begging for his treasures.

With that, Luo Feng resumed his treasure hunt.

“Oppa, Luo Feng oppa, you’re amazing! You dug out a saber-toothed tiger?”

“Luo Feng-kun! Luo Feng-kun!”

“Why is this Chinese man so goddamn lucky? ”

“Now that a saber-toothed tiger has appeared, it can’t possibly be scripted, right? It wouldn’t make much sense!”

“This Chinese man doesn’t seem to be bragging out of thin air. He’s actually capable!”

“Yes, I can attest to his abilities!”

Many Koreans and Japanese folks were getting pumped at Luo Feng’s activities.

Their comments occupied at least 1/10th of the total viewers’ comments.

While this might seem like a small number, one must first consider the number of foreigners tuning into the stream.

Clearly, whatever Luo Feng had been doing had been so amazing that the foreigners had felt a need to speak up.

Otherwise, they wouldn’t have taken up 1/10th of the total number of comments.

“What are these people posting?”

“I’m not sure! I don’t understand!”

“They’ve already sent a 6661! How can you all still not understand? It’s clearly the global shorthand for expressing surprise by the host’s abilities!”

“Hahaha, they’re shocked over something this minor? They truly know nothing about the world, do they?”

“Hahaha, they might’ve lost their sh*t if they saw the chest full of silver and gold bars yesterday!”

“I’m from a small place and haven’t seen the world. Please forgive me!”

“Hahaha, that’s right!”

Of course.

It wasn’t just the Korean and Japanese netizens that were shocked.

At this moment, Luo Feng’s name had appeared on Weibo’s trending topics and had suddenly rushed to the third place.

[ Treasure-hunting streamer Old Luo has discovered a perfectly preserved saber-toothed tiger’s fossil! ]

“Is this what a f*cking saber-toothed tiger is? Why does it look like a big dog?”

“Your big dog is more than two meters tall?”

“Hahaha! I’m sorry, if you count my Husky’s tail, it’s really more than two meters long!”

“It doesn’t even have its iconic fangs, how can it be called a saber-toothed tiger?”
