

ABOVE THE GRAY FOG

Chapter 7 Green Catwoman

More than two hours passed before he knew it, and Zhang Zhonghua came to take over.

Zhang Zhonghua looked at the watch on his wrist: "It's been more than two hours, why didn't you call me."

Lin Shan smiled and said, "I'm not sleepy yet."

"You still need to rest even if you're not sleepy. You don't know what will happen tomorrow. Go to bed quickly." Zhang Zhonghua urged.

"Okay, then I'll go to bed. Call me if you have anything." Lin Shan replied.

Zhang Zhonghua nodded: "Well, go quickly."

Lin Shan found a tree at random, leaned against the tree and closed his eyes to sleep. When he opened his eyes again, it was already early morning. The sun rose and the sky was red. The original blood-red full moon had disappeared.

The sun in the other world is very similar to the one on Earth, just as hot. The only difference may be that it is a circle larger than the sun on Earth.

Zhang Zhonghua's voice can be heard from a distance.

"Sleeping on the ground all the time is not a solution. Today we need to make some stone tools to cut down trees and build a wooden house. It's best to find out if there are any metal veins around. Stone tools are not only not durable but also inefficient."

Jin Tianzong interrupted, "I know this. I used to be in this industry. You go find the mines. I will use the soil to build a blast furnace. Even if there is no iron ore, I can grind the stones. At least cutting trees is not a problem."

Everyone started to work hard to survive. With their knowledge, these things are not difficult. As long as there are materials, they can be rubbed out.

"Crack!"

"Boom."

It took more than ten minutes to cut down a tree, and the stone knife in his hand was already bumpy. After waking up last night, he found that his strength had increased several times. He felt that three or five big men would not be his opponents.

First, scrape the resin on the tree clean, and then do further dismemberment.

This tree is a bit like a locust tree. It will secrete a lot of resin. This is a good thing. It can not only make simple glue but also an indispensable fuel for making torches.

"Lin Shan, drink some water." At this time, Zhao Xiaoan and the young woman named Huang Ying came over with a 'stone pot'. No one dared to say it was a pot because of its crooked shape. Jin Tianzong was indeed a 'brick master' who sharpened two stone knives and chiseled out such a 'pot' in one morning.

Lin Shan took the leaves handed over by Huang Ying, rolled up the leaves and scooped water from the stone pot to drink.

"Tsk ts~" He smacked his lips and said, "I never thought that there would be such a day when even drinking boiled water would be a luxury."

"Puff." Zhao Xiaoan chuckled and said, "It will get better slowly. I heard that someone over there has also discovered metal mines. It will get better and better in the future."

"Roar!"

A loud roar of beasts came from a distance.

"Wild beasts?" Lin Shan was not surprised but happy. In a sense, it is a good thing that there are wild beasts in this world. At least he can eat meat in the future.

"I'll go and see." As he said, he ran in the direction of the cry with the tattered stone knife.

"Be careful, it could be..." Zhao Xiaoan shouted from behind.

"I know. I'll just watch from a distance, and I can notify you in time if there is any situation."

Zhao Xiaoan was interrupted by Lin Shan before he finished speaking.

He knew that it might not be a wild beast, but perhaps some kind of extraordinary creature, but it was useless to be timid. If you want to survive better, you must learn more about this world.

Five minutes later.

Behind a slope, Lin Shan stuck to the side tightly, looking nervous.

Take a deep breath, calm down, and continue to watch the fierce battle not far away.

A magical deer and a ferocious black tiger are fighting!

Every time the divine deer steps on the ground, it can step out a small pit on the ground. The front hoof kicks the black tiger and kicks it more than ten meters away, and smashes the small trees on the way to break in half.

The black tiger is not a vegetarian either. Every time it bites, it can tear off a piece of flesh and blood from the divine deer. The sharp claws scratch the divine deer with deep wounds that can be seen everywhere on the bone.

Both sides were already bloody, but they still stood firmly and majestically. Their aura alone made Lin Shan's breathing difficult.

"Damn it, are there no normal beasts in this world? Another extraordinary creature, and two at once." Lin Shan secretly complained.

I thought it was an ordinary beast, and with my current physical fitness, I could kill it for lunch, but I didn't expect that I would become a delivery boy.

After the fierce battle, the divine deer gradually gained the upper hand. Lin Shan was shocked to see it from the side. In fact, the black tiger was better in terms of attack power, which could be seen from the injuries, but the divine deer had stronger recovery ability. The wounds were recovering at a speed visible to the naked eye. Over time, the black tiger became weaker and weaker, but the divine deer was still in high spirits.

Finally, under the divine deer's earth-shaking hoof, a one-meter-deep pit was trampled out on the ground, and the black tiger lay in the pit with blood and flesh, and there was no breath.

The next second, something happened that made Lin Shan drop his jaw.

The divine deer was seen flashing with gray light all over its body, and after a moment it turned into a human form! It was a little girl, dressed in green and probably only about seventeen or eighteen years old.

The strange thing was that she had deer horns on her head and a cat's tail behind her, making it hard to tell whether she was a human, a deer or a cat.

She carried the black tiger on the ground and was about to leave when she suddenly sniffed.

"Meow!"

A crisp cat cry came, confirming that it was a cat.

"Meow?"

Another meow, the sound was soft, but this time it sounded beside his ear.

Lin Shan turned his head mechanically, and the tip of the girl's nose almost touched his nose. Her bright and flexible big eyes, with black pupils, emitted a faint green light.

"Fuck!"

Lin Shan turned around and ran away in fear. He was so focused on watching the show that he forgot that it would not be good for him no matter which side won.

It was too late to run now. The cat girl lifted Lin Shan up with one hand.

She looked at Lin Shan with a puzzled look on her face.

"Are you a new race? (Are you a new race?)"

"Are you a new race? (No wonder the gray fog in this area has been dispelled.)"

"Huh?"

Lin Shan was stunned and could not understand a word.

Although he could not understand what the cat girl was saying, she was willing to communicate with him, which at least showed that the girl was a civilized cat, not a beast, and his tense heart relaxed immediately.

Taking a deep breath, Lin Shan turned his head and said to the cat girl seriously: "Meow? Meow meow meow?"

The cat girl was startled and loosened her hand, allowing Lin Shan to face down and have an intimate contact with the ground.

"Are you also a cat?"

"Why don't you have a tail?"

Lin Shan rubbed his face and felt helpless. He couldn't communicate at all, but fortunately, the other party didn't have any hostility.

Catwoman seemed to see that she couldn't communicate, so she gave up on continuing to communicate with Lin Shan. She carried Black Tiger on her back and disappeared from Lin Shan's sight in a few jumps.

"Leaving now?" Lin Shan couldn't believe it, but the facts were right in front of him.

He smiled bitterly and shook his head, and turned back the way he came. He wanted to tell others about the news of discovering a new world.
