

Ex-Husband Who Has Gone Mad After Abusing His Wife Chapter 8

Chapter 8

As we walked to the hospital room, Anna kept scolding me the whole way.

"It was Liam who called me and said you had an accident. We had a hard time finding you! You, how could you make such a mess at such a critical moment?"

I only paid attention to the first sentence: "Liam called you?"

"Yeah!" Anna asked, "Did you two have a fight? Why did he get so angry?"

I shook my head.

"Did he agree to invest then?"

I glanced at her.

She realized her mistake and said, "Could it be because he didn't agree to invest that you pressured him like this? And why did you have to choose a place so far away? What if you had really died?"

As soon as we entered the ward, Mr. Cailan arrived.

He first smiled at Anna and said, "Ms. Anna," then looked at me and said, "Mrs.

Mendez, Mr. Mendez wants me to discuss investment matters with you in private."

Upon hearing this, Anna's eyes lit up. "Then I won't disturb you two," she said.

After she left, Mr. Cailan's smile faded, and he opened his briefcase to take out a document. "This is the investment agreement. Once the contract is signed, the funds will be in place immediately."

I quickly scanned the agreement and was shocked beyond words. "He wants to invest 50 billion?"

"Exactly, Mr. Mendez believes that a five billion investment only treats the symptoms, not the root cause," said Mr. Cailan. "So he decided to increase it by ten times."

Why is he suddenly so generous?

I continued reading and sure enough...

"He wants my father's shares?" Even though I don't understand business, I know what this means. "He wants to acquire my family's company!"

My father owns 60 percent of the company's shares, which belongs to the Chairman.

He left behind documents, stating that in the event of a situation like this, I would be in charge of his shares.

Although Nyra is in crisis, the value of his shares is worth much more than 50 billion.

"Exactly. Mr. Mendez believes that Ms. Vivienne needs to rest, and as for Ms.

Anna..." Mr. Cailan gave me a meaningful look. "You can see for yourself that she doesn't care that much about you."

"But this is equivalent to giving our company to him," I protested.

"Giving it away? Excuse me for being blunt, but The Nyra is now a hot potato that no one in the industry is willing to touch," Mr. Cailan's expressionless face showed a hint of mockery. "Although it was once a business empire that dominated the market, it's finished now. If it weren't for you threatening to kill yourself, how could Mr. Mendez possibly waste his resources and energy to save it?"

Feeling overwhelmed by what he said, I replied, "I need to discuss this with my sister first. Can I give you an answer in a few days?"

"Before next Monday," said Mr. Cailan. "But I suggest you don't take too long."

Although I knew that Anna didn't like me very much, she was still my sister and the CEO of the company.

She had the right to participate in the decision-making process regarding the company.

After discussing this matter with Anna, she didn't react as explosively as I had expected. Instead, she calmly said, "If Han is able to build a leading company in just a few years, our family's business will definitely be saved under his management."

"That's right."

"But then, it wouldn't be our family's company anymore. That's not right," said

Anna, looking at me with a smirk. "The company belongs to your husband, and I only have 8 percent of the shares left. Liam will definitely not let me continue as the CEO. I'll be at a loss."

"What do you mean?" I asked.
