Chapter 521 - N°1 Sky Breaker Vs N°1 Holy Son (FIN)

Heinz was severely injured, with many bleeding wounds all over his body, but despite his horrible condition, the expression of murderous rage in his face did not diminish.

On the contrary, as the dark red sword's evil aura kept expanding, the slaughter intent that came from the Cultivator's soul became even more potent.

The N°1 Sky Breaker rose the dark red sword, and the flaming soul force extended all over his body before transforming into a pillar of destructive power that raised into the heavens.

Gwyn's eyes widened when he saw that dark red flaming soul force pillar, as the power in it was more than enough to incinerate Early Supernova Domain Stage existences.

The Holy Son physique and constitution were genuinely impressive, but it would be hard to say if he could survive the power of that dark red flaming soul force.

Luckily for Gwyn, the Eye Holder Gods Slayer appeared in front of him the next instant, and her crimson bloodline eyes shone as an ocean of magma formed around them.

"Lady Mary," Gwyn spoke the name of the Eye Holder Gods Slayer, but the woman's eyes did not leave Heinz.

She was a Peak Rank 6 life form with a pure Law Bloodline, so her power was incredible even among Supernova Domain existences. While she could stop Heinz, the mantle of dark red flaming soul force would force her to attack with all her power, killing the Cultivator.

Mary was smart enough to understand the consequences of killing the highest representative of the Daybreak Clan inside Gods' Tomb. Zatiel Daybreak's wrath was not something she could withstand.

The apparition of the Gods Slayer did not do anything to diminish Heinz's rage. His ferocious smile grew wider as the dark red sword's evil aura expanded, making the flaming soul force pillar even stronger.

Then it happened, something that every single Magus and Eye Holder present would remember for the rest of their lives.

Behind Heinz, the phantom of a demonic creature slowly manifested. This being's size was so immense that its feet touched the ground, and his head reached the highest sky.

Its body carried a monstrous physical might, and it had twelve massive wings that could cover the sky and fill the continent with perpetual darkness.

The most fantastic thing about this creature was its aura, one whose sole purpose was to bring forth absolute destruction and endless slaughter.

An aura whose nature proved to be superior to the Prima Universe's laws!

The creature's eyes were closed, and as they slowly opened up, the dark red flaming soul force obtained a qualitative improvement, and while its destructive power remained the same, all the Gods Slayers could feel the immense danger in it.

Roku, Dean, and the rest adopted solemn expressions. Something told them that if that dark red flaming soul force hurt them, they would find it almost impossible to recover.

If before they were surprised, now utter shock filled their hearts. For that dark red flaming soul force to carry such defying power, it meant that the creature sealed in the sword was not a mere Rank 7 Archdemon.

That creature's aura was not something that the Prima Universe's laws could bound. The dark red phantom behind Heinz belonged to a Rank 8 Archdemon!

"Crack!"

Cracking sounds came from Heinz's body, and the Gods Slayer saw how the Cultivator's condition continued getting worse. It was clear that the power in the dark red sword was more than he could handle.

However, that was far from being the most pressing issue.

There was no way the dark red sword would have the complete soul of a Rank 8 life form in it, but even if it were just a fragment, the power it could unleash would be enough to obliterate the continent and everybody in it.

Other than Roku and maybe Dean, the explosion of a Rank 8's soul fragment would kill everybody else.

It was clear for everybody that they needed to stop the Cultivator, but only the Gods Slayers could do that since the dark red flaming soul force mantle power was too strong for anyone else.

The ones who acted, however, were not the Gods Slayers but the Sky Breakers. Sophia, Dante, Zitra, Juntu, Tyrus, Rax, Kylo, and Totto appeared around the Cultivator, and they all adopted meditative positions before reciting Buddhist chants.

A golden light full of willpower emerged from every Sky Breaker, and they combined, generating a glorious sun. Its light illuminated the entire continent, and everybody touched by it felt their minds and souls enter a state of complete calmness and peace.

Heinz, who was in the center of this willpower sun, received its full might. The dark red sword's evil aura stopped expanding and slowly began to regress.

The Archdemon's phantom and the Cultivator stopped staring at the Eye Holder Gods Slayer and turned toward the Sky Breakers. However, while their eyes were still full of slaughter intent, a silver light appeared in them that prevented them from doing anything.

If anyone without a Chaotic Core inside their hearts attempted to restrain the Cultivator, he would have used the dark red flaming soul force to obliterate them.

Nevertheless, just like every Neo-Demon, inside Heinz's soul, there was engraved the command of never harm their brethren.

After a few seconds, the evil aura ultimately left the Cultivator's body and returned to the dark red sword.

Heinz regained complete control over his mind and soul, and the power-ups along with the dark red flaming soul force deactivated.

His condition was truly horrible, with severe internal wounds. He would have entered a coma if it wasn't for the Apocalyptic Stars inside his hearts and brain.

Dante immediately raised his right hand, and a stream of golden fire and sunlight emerged from it and entered the Cultivator's body. Everybody saw with amazement how Heinz's wound began to heal with speed visible to the naked eye.

Since they both had the same True Doomsday Body and Elemental Constitution, Dante could use his flesh and blood to heal Heinz, making the Neo-Demon already impressive healing power exponentially stronger.

Once his condition improved, Heinz stared at Dante for a moment before nodding and adopting a meditative position, focusing on healing. There was no need for words since there were no secrets between the Sky Breakers.

Sophia and the others stopped reciting the Buddhist chants, dissipating the willpower sun. The woman then stared at Gwyn for a moment before taking a purple pill from her space ring and launching it at him.

The Holy Son caught the pill and was surprised when he felt the mighty bloodline force in it.

"That is a Nirvana Rebirth Pill, and it will create a mantle that will heal all your soul and physical wounds while expelling any foreign and harmful force from you. We got out of control, so take it as an apology."

Gwyn was surprised by the power of the pill, and when he detected the steady power in it, he was amazed. Due to its characteristics, this pill could be used at any time, even during battle, making its value exponentially higher.

Even Mary was impressed by the pill's power, and while she could tell that part of the reason it was so impressive were the ingredients, she could also perceive the superb alchemy skills put in its making.

After some thinking, Gwyn chose to save the Nirvana Rebirth Pill and use another drug to help him heal his wounds.

Sophia said nothing about the Eye Holder's decision. The pill was his, and he could use it as he saw fit.

Roku saw that both parties had settled any problem between them, so he waved his hands, signaling the Magi World's Army to march. It was time to face the real enemy.

Regarding who was the winner between the N°1 Sky Breaker and the N°1 Holy Son, that was a tricky question.

While it was true that Heinz lost control, in a battle to the death, that would matter very little as long as you can kill your opponent.

Nevertheless, someone like Gwyn would definitely have many life-saving cards. So there was a chance he could endure until Heinz's body broke or use the lack of focus on the enemy to trick him.

In the end, it would be up to everybody to make their own conclusions about who came victorious in this battle.

Chapter 522 - No Mand's Land

In Gods' Tomb's center, millions of life forms engaged in a battle that encompassed not one nor two but three entire continents!

Waves of destruction that could provoke irreversible damage to a Low World were released every second. Just the radiation reached such a high level that anything beneath Rank 4 would melt.

Millions of life forms whose power allowed them to erase entire cities and change a continent's terrain battled thousands of kilometers above the ground.

The Soul Forging Magi unleashed all kinds of great spells as they battled the Divinity World's Legends. Both were Rank 4 life forms, but one reached their level by awakening their True Souls using the laws while the other advanced obtaining a God's grace.

In the Rank 4 battlefield, the most fantastic display of power came from the youngest organization, the Daybreak Clan. Gargantuan Void Dragons, Nine-Headed Hydras, Grand Abyssal Phoenixes, Three-Eyed Golden Crows, and all kinds of mythical creatures filled the ranks.

These were Animax Soul Rune Formations that the Neo-Demons employed. They required fantastic talent, perfect coordination between the users, and bloodlines that contained a fragment of these mythical creatures' origin.

Other than the Daybreak Clan, no one else could use them. Although the other organization had Runic Formations, they could not compare with the ones created by Zatiel.

A Nine-Headed Hydra opened its mouths before firing beams of energy that split apart the enemy forces.

Beams that carried fire, water, wind, earth, gold, lightning, space, time, and venom forces reached the Legends, killing dozens and injuring even more.

The powers were so diverse that the Legends could not protect themselves, and before they could pull back, white warriors flashed toward them and began a slaughter.

Surrounding every Animax Soul Rune Formation, there were thousands of Rank 4 drones. They acted as a shield, always ready to give their lives to protect the Neo-Demons and as killers, ruthless when the time came to give the final blow to wounded enemies.

As the Rank 4 drones butchered the Legends, they opened their mouths and devoured their corpses, making the crystal in the center of their chest glow with more and more power.

In one of the drones, the crystal seemed to have reached its peak. The white warrior then focused on a group of Legends that marched toward the Nine-Headed Hydra and intertwined its fingers before aiming at them.

The drone's arms acted like a cannon as it unleashed all the power inside the crystal, firing a white lightning bolt that obliterated the Legends.

Despite the impressive abilities displayed on this Rank 4 battlefield, they were at the lowest level of the war.

Above the Soul Forging existences, entities with laws engraved in their flesh and souls were fighting.

More than a million Rank 5 life forms were battling, and each of their attacks had the power to obliterate small stars. Every corner of their battlefield had gargantuan space cracks capable of cutting weak Rank 4 life forms in half.

The Daybreak Clan also displayed gargantuan creatures on this battlefield, but these were not Animax Soul Rune Formations. Rank 5 Neo-Demons have bodies, souls, and bloodlines strong enough to allow them to adopt these massive forms that were perfect for war.

Leading the Law Engraving Neo-Demons was a mighty demonic dragon. His skin resembled bones, and every fiber of his body carried a monstrous physical might.

Black fire and lightning surrounded him, and his attacks could easily obliterate a mountain range and split apart oceans!

The demonic lightning-fire dragon stared at the sky and saw how thousands of suns clashed against each other. That sight made the fighting intent in his eyes grow monstrously powerful.

As the demonic dragon focused on the battle in the sky, a man clad in golden armor and whose entire body released an aura full of justice appeared above him.

This man was a High Legend, a Peak Rank 5 life form, and the sword in his hand carried the power of Earth Essence, making it extremely heavy and powerful.

"Perish, evil crea..." Unfortunately for the High Legend, before he could finish his sentence and connect his attack, a tail strike landed on his back, and his body exploded like a balloon full of blood.

"Hmph!" The demonic dragon sneered as fire and lightning consumed the High Legend's remains from his tail.

This demonic dragon's name was Bjorn. He was a great talent of the Neo-Demon Race. A man that not only stood out for his extraordinary battle power but also his commanding skills.

As someone who had led Neo-Demon's armies in wars inside High Worlds, his skills were at a completely different level than the High Legend.

Bjorn was an extremely promising Neo-Demon, and there were tales of him even challenging one of the Sky Breakers.

The demonic dragon focused once again on the enemies around him, and he unleashed a ferocious roar.

"ROAR!" Along with that roar, a heartbeat echoed through the battlefield, and a dark aura overflowed Bjorn's body.

His gargantuan body grew even larger as a metallic armor covered every inch of his skin and the lightning-fire destructive power obtained a qualitative improvement.

That seemed to be a signal as five more Neo-Demons also activated their Bloodline Apocalyptic Metamorphoses!

Each of these Neo-Demon could fight Hollow Sun Domain Stage existences. Their mission, however, was to guide and protect the Rank 5 Neo-Demon Army.

"Lightning-Fire Abyssal Dragon Roar!"

Bjorn roared those words as he fired a massive beam of dark fire-lightning that shattered a Runic Formation composed of thirty High Legends.

Many of the High Legends were obliterated, with their souls shattered. Bjorn did not have to worry about those that managed to survive as the Rank 5 Neo-Demons immediately flashed toward them and massacred them.

The Neo-Demons were a utopian race but were also a warrior race. When it came to an enemy, the word mercy was not in their dictionary.

Above the Law Engraving life forms, there was the highest battlefield, where those that earned the Soul Law Domain title fought.

The energy and laws they unleashed were so strong that space-time acted erratically, and those with a weak soul would only send themselves to their death if they entered this battlefield.

In the center of this battlefield were those whose power allowed them to embody supernovas.

There was a gorgeous woman with blue hair and an azure sun surrounding her body among those people. Her domain over the Law of Ice was so strong that she could even freeze time and space!

Fighting this Late Supernova Domain Divine Legend were nine Rank 5 life forms. None of them had battle power anywhere near the woman's level, but together they match her!

Coldness and hatred filled the Divine Legend's eyes. She was a mighty existence that almost reached the end of Rank 6, and yet less than ten Rank 5 life forms were able to fight her.

She unleashed all kinds of explosive spells, pushing the Sky Breakers to their limits, but the truth was that none of them really felt threatened.

Compared with their battle with Ezequiel, where they felt the entire universe targeting them, this was nothing.

Despite their talent and might, the Sky Breakers were far from the most impressive fighting force in this Rank 6 battlefield.

Not too far away from them, a black hole and two suns, one dark and the other white, were constantly clashing. Their shock waves unleashed forces whose nature stood above the Prima Universe's laws.

"Desolation Path: Thearch Obliteration Burst!" The black hole froze for an instant before unleashing a repulsion force capable of erasing a continent.

"Yin-Yang Twin Supernova: Absolute Oblivion!" The dark and white suns fused before generating a giant pentagram that managed to nullify the black hole's repulsion force.

From inside the All-Devouring Domain, Dante stared at the twins inside the dark and white suns. They looked like a boy and a girl no more than ten years old, but their powers were terrific.

On their own, they only reached Late Supernova Domain battle power, but together, they could equal the Crown Prince!

Although his opponents looked like children, there was no mercy in Dean's eyes.

The All-Devouring Domain grew more powerful, forcefully channeling the World Strength as the Crown Prince flashed toward the enemy.

The twins acted just like the Crown Prince. There was nothing but killing intent in their eyes as they burned their life force, strengthening their yin-yang sun, and attacked.

When the black hole and the yin-yang sun collided, they unleashed destructive waves that even those at the Late Supernova Domain Stage needed to dodge.

Only two people were powerful enough to ignore those destructive waves. One was a man with white skin and a crystal orb in his chest, whose body seemed to stand above the absolute limit of Rank 6.

It was impossible to tell the gender of the other person, as an archbishop's robe covered their entire body. They had a staff in their hand bathed in a holy light that burned higher than any Supernova Domain.

The Astral Fiend flashed forward with an immense speed and fired a punch that brought a tsunami of red aura.

Due to the blue matrix in the red aura, its power was concentrated, making the Astral Fiend's attack stronger.

When the person in the archbishop's robe saw that fist coming their way, they only raised their staff, forming a golden shield.

"Cracks!" Roku's fist immediately fractured the golden shield but could not destroy it in a single strike. That did not surprise the Astral Fiend, as this was not the first time he exchanged blows with the enemy.

A second blow was enough to destroy the shield, but the enemy had already moved away, and the Astral Fiend saw hundreds of light swords, each larger than a city, ready to pierce him.

Roku's eyes glowed as he fired a palm strike, unleashing an energy print that shattered the light swords before attacking again.

Chapter 523 - Space-Time Sundering Art

Roku and the individual wearing the archbishop's robes displayed a battle power that constantly aroused a response from Gods' Tomb's laws.

It was clear to everybody that both the Astral Fiend and Divinity Champion were life forms whose true battle power reached Rank 7. They were doing their best to unleash the highest amount of strength possible without being expelled from the Transitional Plane.

The Astral Fiend used his body and the red-blue aura to fight. His attacks were simple physical strikes, but they carried the laws and mysteries of the universe due to Roku's superb martial skills.

As for the entity in the archbishop's robes, they were also an impressive individual. Their spells were always creations made from holy light, and although they were not fancy or majestic, their power and speed were absurdly high.

The Divinity Champion shot sabers, spears, meteorites, mountains, and all kinds of objects made of holy light toward Roku, some of them appearing less than a meter away from the Astral Fiend.

Anyone else would find it impossible to respond to attacks coming with such power from such a small distance. However, Roku's body was so strong that a single touch was all he needed to stop the Divinity Champion's creations.

The Astral Fiend was just too powerful, and attacks whose battle power could not exceed Rank 6 did not threaten him.

Unfortunately, the same happened with the Divinity Champion. They could create shields capable of stopping Roku's attacks with a single thought.

Due to their ridiculously powerful defenses and Gods' Tomb stopping them from unleashing any more power, the Astral Fiend and the Divinity Champion's fight reached a dead point.

Of course, that did not mean they could ignore the other since if there were no one stopping them, they would wreak havoc in the enemy's army.

Dean Rebellion and the Yin-Yang Twin Supernovas' battle was a different situation. They were both capable of ending the life of the other, and the slightest mistake could mean death.

The black hole and yin-yang sun collided again, unleashing an explosion with enough power to erase a continent.

Amidst the waves of destruction that shattered space-time were Dean and the twins. The force of the explosion sent them in different directions, and both parties presented severe injuries all over their bodies, proving the toll the fight took on them.

Blood leaked from the Crown Prince's eyes and mouth as he felt his inner organs trembling, but despite the pain, there was nothing but determination in his eyes as he pointed his right hand toward the boy inside the yin-yang sun.

"Desolate Path: Thearch Cosmic Authority!"

As those words echoed through the battlefield, the boy inside the yin-yang sun felt a monstrous gravitational force targeting him, and before he could do anything, his body shot toward Dean's palm.

The boy attempted to regain control over his body, but nothing he did seemed to work. The gravitational pull also devoured any form of physical, soul, or energy force he operated, making him utterly helpless against Dean's technique.

Shock appeared in the girl's face when she saw how an invisible and undodgeable force dragged her brother away. The yin-yang sun reverted to a dark one, severely diminishing her power.

Without hesitation, she flashed toward her brother, intending to help him, but someone got in her way. The enemy was a young man with a profound aura and whose cultivation reached the Early Hollow Sun Domain Stage.

Usually, someone at the Early Hollow Sun Domain Stage challenging an individual at the Late Supernova Domain Stage would be suicide. Still, the girl felt an immovable object in her path instead of a man.

Her instincts warning her how dangerous the man was, made her decide to go all out without caring for the consequences.

She spat a mouthful of shining blood that fused with her Supernova Law Domain, making it reddish.

The crimson sun glowed with immense power, and hundred of howling ghosts emerged from it and launched themselves at Gabriel.

Those ghosts carried a momentum capable of threatening the life of a Peak Rank 6 life form, but Gabriel Rebellion showed no sense of urgency. He rose his hands as a force whose nature stood above the Prima Universe's laws manifested itself from within him.

Gabriel's body began to vibrate, and in an instant, a young boy and a middle-aged man appeared on his left and right, respectively.

The duo shared a striking resemblance to the Second Prince, and it would not be hard to picture him as a future and past version of the Magus.

As the crimson ghost army marched toward them, the boy and middle-aged man took a step forward before attacking.

"Space-Time Sundering Art: What Lies Before!"

"Space-Time Sundering Art: What Lies Ahead!"

The young and the middle-aged incarnations yelled those words, and an invisible force field carrying space-time power emerged from them and descended on the crimson ghost army.

Those ghosts struck by What Lies Before experienced the continuum of space-time going in the opposite direction. In an instant, they reverted to mere streams of spiritual force and energy before vanishing.

The effects of What Lies Ahead were the complete opposite. The ghosts experienced time moving millions of times faster, and they dissipated in a fraction of a second.

Utter disbelief filled the girl's eyes when she saw the destruction of the crimson ghost army that should have been powerful enough to chase away a Peak Rank 6 life form.

However, she did not have time to think as two ruthless eyes focused on her.

Without the ghost army in his path, the Second Prince took a step forward and immediately appeared in front of the crimson sun.

Terror filled the girl's heart when she saw Gabriel Rebellion appearing in front of her. She did not wait for even a second before recklessly burning her life force to face what would come next.

Gabriel Rebellion's abilities drew the attention of many people on the Rank 6 battlefield. The youth incarnation reverted the flow of time while the aged incarnation pushed it ahead, so people wondered what power the real one would use.

The Second Prince's eyes glowed as the power of space-time in him reached its peak, and then he calmly touched the surface of the crimson sun before speaking.

"Space-Time Sundering Art: What Lies At This Moment In Time!"

Instead of aging her body or pushing it back toward a moment where she was weaker, the power Gabriel Rebellion used suspended her existence in a single instant of time!

If the boy used the past and the middle-aged used the future, then Gabriel used the power of the present.

Although the present did not carry the mysteries of the future or the ancientness of the past, it was a force that no one could escape, no matter how many billions of years you have lived or if your life span was higher than that of a galaxy!

Gabriel sealed the girl's soul, energy, and body in an endless moment of time. Unless a powerful Rank 7 life form with a high mastery over the Laws of Space-Time helped her, she would never leave that eternal prison.

The boy could sense her sister's fate, but he did not have time to worry about her as his body had already landed in the hand of Dean Rebellion.

A merciless light appeared in the Crown Prince's eyes as he proceeded to use the power of the All-Devouring Domain.

"Everlasting Path: Thearch Devouring Wheel!"

The All-Devouring Domain froze for a second before giving a full rotation with a power much greater than before and fragmenting the boy's soul, body, and energy into three streams of pure force.

When the Rank 6 life forms of the Divinity Faith Army saw the death of the twins, they could not believe their eyes. The Yin-Yang Twin Supernovas were extraordinary geniuses of their world, and the fact they perished so soon was a heavy blow.

The Divine Legends stared at Dean with awe and fear, but the Crown Prince did not care about their feelings and immediately flashed toward Gabriel.

When the Second Prince saw his brother appearing by his side, he no longer held back and released a massive mouthful of blood before falling unconscious as the incarnations faded away.

Space-Time Sundering Art's power was abominably high, allowing the Second Prince to unleash a force that could kill a Peak Rank 6 life form, but the price he had to pay to use it was also exceptional.

Dean did not hesitate before sending the pure force streams he created by obliterating the boy into his brother, and he did not stop there.

The Crown Prince stared at the girl trapped in the eternal prison and aimed his hand at her.

"Everlasting Path: Thearch Devouring Wheel!"

After succumbing to the power of What Lies At This Moment In Time, the girl could not even think, so there was no way for her to resist the Crown Prince's technique.

Once again, three streams of pure force appeared inside the All-Devouring Domain after disintegrating the girl.

Dean sent two toward Gabriel, and after seeing his brother's condition improving, he sent this one into his Inner Law Dimension before clasping his hands.

"Everlasting Path: Thearch Redemption Darkness!"

The All-Devouring Domain swallowed an immense amount of World Strength and channeled it into the last force stream before unleashing a dark wave covering the entire battlefield.

Those in the Divine Faith Army felt nothing when the dark wave touched them, but the members of the Divine Slayer Force noticed a healing force entering their bodies and helping them stabilize their most serious wounds.

The Magi, Eye Holders, and Neo-Demons all smiled as they glanced at the Crown Prince, and they saw how this one immediately left the battlefield after that.

Dean felt he had already done his part.. Right now, the most important thing for him was to make sure his brother's healed in a safe location.

Chapter 524 - Nine Methamorphoses

The battle power the Scientia Kingdom's brothers showed amazed everybody, especially the supernatural abilities Gabriel Rebellion displayed.

Despite his low cultivation, the Crown Prince's might was already legendary. People widely recognized him as one of the three most powerful individuals within the Magi World, but Gabriel Rebellion was different.

The Second Prince had always maintained a low profile, and while people knew he was a genius, it was only now that they understood how impressive his talent truly was.

With a simple touch of his hand, the Second Prince not only defeated a Late Supernova Domain Stage genius but went beyond merely killing her and managed to capture the girl alive.

Although everybody saw the great price Gabriel paid for using that power, the fact remained that the Second Prince could kill standard Peak Rank 6 life forms. This feat would make him worthy of the title Sun Slayer at the highest battlefield of the multiverse.

The death of the Yin-Yang Supernova Twins at the Scientia Kingdom's royal brothers' hands had two very different effects among those on the battlefield.

Excitement and courage filled the heart of the Magi Divine Slayer Force when they saw the might of their leaders. Even if they came from different powers, they all originated from the Magi World, and having geniuses like Gabriel and Dean made them prideful.

Those in the Divinity Faith Army reacted with apprehension and concern. The death of one of their greatest geniuses so soon was horrible for their morale.

The Crown Prince intensified both parties' emotions after using Thearch Redemption Darkness to help the wounded on the Magi side.

Seeing your enemy recover just after one of your leaders perished was a significant blow for any force, no matter how strong their convictions were.

One side's battle spirit weakened while the other burned with even more power. The Magi, Eye Holders, and Neo-Demons did not lose their chance and attacked with all their might.

There was one person on the Rank 6 battlefield whose eyes displayed a wave of emotions after seeing the Second Prince's abilities.

Heinz remembered his interactions with the Second Prince in the past, with the most important one being when they escorted the siblings to the Holy Trial.

Back then, the Cultivator's perception was too weak, and he could not make a correct assessment of Gabriel's power and talent.

Now he could see them, and despite being part of the most gifted race of the universe, the Sky Breaker felt he was still not quite at that level.

Regarding his ability to display a destructive power that reached the Supernova Domain Stage despite being at the 5th Engraving Stage, Heinz knew that force did not come from him but the Archdemon's soul fragment.

A torrent of ice spear approached the Cultivator as he thought, but before they could touch him, this one vanished, only to reappear right outside the attack range and look toward the Divine Legend.

Heinz's aura grew sharp and decisive as he sent a message toward the Sky Breakers and proceeded to unleash all of his power.

Sophia, Zitra, Kylo, Rax, Tyrus, Juntu, Dante, and Totto's eyes narrowed, and they nodded before moving away from the Divine Legend.

"ROAR!"

Once they were all at a safe distance, the Neo-Demons roared, and heartbeats echoed through the battlefield.

The nine Sky Breakers activated their Bloodline Apocalyptic Metamorphoses!

A dark aura overflowed their figures as their bodies began to change. Thanks to the Infinity Heart, they could harmonize their True Doomsday Bodies, Elemental Chaos Hearts, and Bloodline Hearts, achieving their maximum strength.

As Tyrus and Juntu went through their metamorphoses, the blood that stained the sky and the ground began to converge in them due to their Immortal Blood Devourer True Doomsday Bodies displaying a whole new level of power.

The Abomination Gorially grew until he became as large as a mountain. He took a fiendish form with bulky muscles and bloody bone armor covering every part of his body.

Tyrus' right hand took the form of a large and spherical gauntlet where he gathered streams of blood. The blood energy inside grew more potent by the second as the power of Destruction Essence intensified it.

Juntu's body grew up to forty-five meters, and the bloody bone armor covering his body seemed extremely compact and resilient. Just like his comrade of feral origin, the Neo-Demon gathered blood energy into his weapon.

An immense amount of blood entered Juntu's spear every moment. Due to the power of the Law of Destruction and Law of Devouring, the weapon resembled a bloody tornado.

Dante's height did not grow much, and the bone armor covering every corner of his body was thin and dark. There were bright patterns all over his body, but every dot of light in him gathered in his chest where a golden sun emerged.

The hundreds of golden spheres behind the Neo-Demon fused and formed an immense pentagram, and due to its demonic aura, it resembled a portal into a hellish dimension.

His bow vanished, and what replaced it were miniature pentagrams that allowed the Neo-Demon to channel the power of the giant one.

Rax grew up to twenty meters in height, and the bone armor on his body was dark due to the power of Darkness Essence manifesting in it.

Several dragon heads emerged from the Neo-Demon's shoulders, and they unleashed a tremendous gravitational force, wantonly swallowing the energy around him.

The burning force moving inside him glowed with such might that they were visible through his skin. The Neo-Demon muscle mass could adapt to this raging power and use it freely due to his Earth Constitution.

Kylo's metamorphosis made him drop his humanoid form and adopt a draconic one. He was gigantic, equalling Tyrus' size, and the bone armor covering him carried a burning and destructive force.

In this form, the Neo-Demon's lightning and fire reached such a sublime state of balance that they fused into what resembled a green flame.

The power of the green flame overflowed the insides of the Neo-Demon, allowing him every muscle fiber to display the power of Fire and Lightning Essences.

Monstrous heat radiated from the bodies of the father and son duo while the power of the Absolute Solar Yang True Doomsday Body enhanced the hardness of their bodies and the burning force of their flames.

Totto's appearance was the most demonic of all. The Neo-Demon no longer had eyes, and extra arms emerged from his torso, with everything reinforced by ash-colored bone armor.

There was a golden core in his hand that contained an absurdly high amount of energy. People could feel the power of desperation in it and see thousands of howling faces screaming in anguish.

In this form, the Neo-Demon did not need artifacts to help him fire his full power spells, allowing him to display the might of his laws at its fullest.

Unlike Totto, whose transformation was horrifying, Zitra's metamorphosis gave her a beautiful form. Thin bone armor that glowed with glorious light covered her body and solidified shadows conformed her wings.

Her wings constantly swallowed the light in the surroundings before channeling it into her body, making her more and more powerful.

The Neo-Demon's eyes glowed with a special force that seemed capable of starting the process of life.

Like Kylo, Sophia abandoned her humanoid form during her metamorphosis and transformed into a giant serpentine draconic creature with white scales and immense phoenix wings.

Waves of cold fire wrapped her entire body. A white liquid flame gathered in her mouth that seemed capable of reverting everything into its purest state.

Despite the physical might of her body, the truly unique thing about this form was that every scale and feather in her acted as a reservoir of energy that she could channel instantly.

Heinz's bone armor covered his body, and a broad sword emerged from his left hand. He reconstructed the dark red sword and allowed a small part of its evil aura to thrive, allowing the dark red flaming soul force's strength to increase.

The Cultivator felt an immense thirst for slaughter, but only allowed the corruption from the dark red sword to cover his hand, so he still kept complete control over his mind.

The metamorphosis of the nine Sky Breakers took a long time to explain, but they happened very fast, and the Divine Legend could not stop them.

Seeing that their opponents were ready to go all out, the woman inside the azure sun decided to make her energy explode, allowing her power to reach its peak as she also prepared to give it all.

Chapter 525 - Ancient Oblivion Eyes

As her energy burned, the Divine Legend's Supernova Law Domain crystalized. In an instant, she found herself wrapped by a protective layer of ice that seemed capable of withstanding the explosion of a sun.

The woman was brilliant and a seasoned warrior. She knew that while the Sky Breakers' battle power skyrocketed, that would not last for long, and she just needed to hold on.

Since her speed was not her forte, the Divine Legend chose to reinforce her defenses, something that those who trained the Law of Ice outshined others in the same cultivation level.

The Divine Legend's actions did not take the Sky Breakers by surprise as they expected that for someone with her battle style. They did not waste time and divided themselves into three units, with Totto, Dante, Juntu, and Tyrus taking the right flank, and Sophia, Zitra, Kylo, and Rax the left one.

Heinz remained alone and stood in front of the Divine Legend. The Cultivator's aura grew sharper and sharper as his eyes began to bleed while red lines emerged in them.

Once they were in position, the Sky Breakers on the left and right of the Divine Legend immediately attacked with all they had.

Juntu's attack resembled a bloody tornado as he pierced forward with his spear, and Tyrus' glove shone like a red sun as he punched.

Rax's body carried such a monstrous momentum and gravitational force that light twisted around him, and there was so much burning force strengthening his arms that they could incinerate stars.

Kylo's giant draconic figure ignited with green fire, and his immense body began to rotate, transforming into a colossal drill that aimed toward the Divine Legend.

Zitra's shadow wings consumed light with even more strength, generating a darkness domain that extended for kilometers around her.

When her power reached its peak, the Neo-Demon's eyes glowed as the Law of Birth activated, and mythical creatures made of light manifested and attacked.

Sophia's draco-phoenix body glowed as all the energy in her gathered instantly in the white liquid flame in her mouth before she unleashed a giant torrent of fire.

Dante pointed his hands forward, and the golden pentagram in them connected with the giant on his back.

Spears of flaming light emerged from the colossal golden pentagram and flashed toward the woman at a fantastic speed. In each of these projectiles, there was a demon soul sealed.

Totto gathered all the power he could get into the orb in his hands and the tormented souls in it howled with so much strength that they echoed through the battlefield.

Once the orb reached its peak, the Neo-Demon focused on the Divine Legend and gripped his hands together, destroying the object and discharging an invisible force.

Totto's attack managed to arrive first due to the instant nature of soul invasion spells.

The spiritual attack did not take the Divine Legends by surprise, but the immense force that clashed against her Inner Law Dimension's walls was abominable.

The Divine Legend felt the world around her twisting while a force seemed to stir the worst possible emotions in her heart. The attack attempted to destroy her will and wither, not her body, but her soul!

Using all her power, she maintained consciousness and Ice Essence froze her emotions, allowing her to negate Totto's soul invasion spell temporarily.

She manipulated her frozen azure domain without hesitation, using part of it to create gargantuan ice snakes that intercepted the Sky Breakers' attacks.

Each ice snake was mighty, physically matching Tyrus, Juntu, Rax, and Kylo while pushing Zitra's mythical creatures away and blocking Dante's soul spears.

Unfortunately for the Divine Legend, she made a mistake, and the ice snake that intercepted Sophia's white flame torrent disintegrated in an instant due to the Law of Pure Emptiness' power.

Although destroying the ice snake used most of the white flame's power, it still managed to reach the Divine Legend's ice dome and create a colossal indentation.

The rest of the Sky Breakers saw the chance and did not waste it. Tyrus' bloody glove blasted all the power in it the moment it landed on an ice snake, and Kylo's mantle of green fire exploded, consuming the one fighting him.

Right as that happened, Juntu channeled all his power into his blood spear and threw it toward Tyrus, while Rax opened his mouth and sent a flow of flaming darkness toward Kylo.

When the flaming darkness touched Kylo, this one felt an immense amount of energy entering his body and fueling his green flame.

As for Tyrus, he did not even have to look and just opened his palm as the blood spear went on its own toward it. The moment he touched it, the weapon grew immensely, fitting the Neo-Demon's giant body.

Rax and Juntu's actions exposed them to the ice snakes' attacks, but Zitra and Dante overcharged their spells and sent soul spears and mythical light creatures to protect the duo.

Kylo and Tyrus attacked immediately, using their full power to unleash a beam of green fire and blood tornado spear toward the Divine Legend.

They were so close that the Divine Legend could not block them, and her ice dome took the full power of the blood tornado and green flame.

"CRACK!"

Huge cracks formed around the azure ice dome, and the next instant, it shattered, showing the bloody figure of the Divine Legend.

The Sky Breakers were ready to continue their attack when the Divine Legend clasped her hands, and the broken shards of her ice domain along with the ice snakes shone before exploding, unleashing a cold storm that blasted everyone away.

Kylo, Tyrus, Rax, and Juntu received the worst of the ice storm. The blast harmed them significantly, and the power of Ice Essence invaded their bodies, making their energy move slower and even affecting their speed of thought.

Sophia, Totto, Dante, and Zitra were away from the ice storm explosion, but it still reached them, and due to their weaker physical defenses, the Ice Essence harmed their bodies and souls.

Blood leaked from the Divine Legend's eyes after she used that spell, and it was clear that despite the power, it came at a tremendous personal cost.

Sadly, she did not have time to rest, as the last Sky Breaker, the only one who had not attacked and whom the ice storm did not affect, flashed toward her with a tremendous speed.

The ice dome was gone and along with her Supernova Law Domain, leaving her defenseless for the time being. That, plus her injuries, would make a physical clash with the Cultivator deadly.

"AHHH!" The Divine Legend roared as part of her life force burned, giving her the power to summon thousands of small ice snakes that marched toward the Cultivator.

She was sure that the attack would have the power to stop the Cultivator and give her enough time to recover a little, but once again, things didn't go as she expected.

Utter shock filled her face as she saw the dark red flash crash with the stampede of ice snakes and shatter everything in his path as he advanced faster and faster.

The Divine Legend did not understand what was happening. While these ice snakes were weaker than the colossal ones she unleashed before, each was still resilient enough to resist a Primary Sun Domain's full power attack.

Thanks to her connection with the ice snakes, the Divine Legend could see how the Cultivator's attacks easily destroyed the creatures.

Things became even more impressive as she noticed how the Cultivator managed to dodge and always find the right path forward amidst the swarm of ice snakes.

When the Cultivator appeared in front of her, and she could see him clearly, the Divine Legend finally obtained an answer.

'His eyes!'

Each of Heinz's eyes had a red pentagram in them, and the aura they released seemed capable of seeing beyond what the Prima Universe's laws allowed.

The Beyond Prima Omega Art Heinz trained was named Ancient Oblivion Eyes. Although it was just an auxiliary technique, its power and efficiency were better than many arts that took the form of Path Techniques.

In order to train the Ancient Oblivion Eyes, you must first blind yourself. It did not limit to normal vision, as the visual input your consciousness provided would also extinguish.

This condition forced the Cultivator to learn to rely on his other senses to analyze the surroundings.

The Ancient Oblivion Eyes' creator did this because he believed the Prima Universe our eyes show us is an illusion.

It is when someone is willing to forgo the illusion that they can genuinely see the true Prima Universe.

At this moment, what Heinz's eyes saw were fantastic and colorful lines that extended through every corner of the universe. The forces that gave birth to matter, energy, and spirit followed the patterns these lines took and gave form to what people experience as reality.

Heinz could strike the lines using the Ancient Oblivion Eyes, going beyond merely hitting a flaw and literally untying the law patterns that allowed something to exist.

This ability name was All Laws to Oblivion and was the most basic state of the Ancient Oblivion Eyes.

There was another essential ability of the Ancient Oblivion Eyes, but this one was much harder to master. Its name was Oblivion Space-Time Eyes.

It allowed the Ancient Oblivion Eyes user to see the flow of time, granting supernatural precognition. That was what allowed Heinz to react before the ice snakes could even touch him.

Heinz's eyes were bleeding, and he felt his body would shut down at any moment but still managed to pour every iota of energy and force he had left into his swords and attack.

Chapter 526 - Jerico's Wall

The dark red sword and bone sword in the Cultivator's hands moved with a speed and momentum that could sunder the sky.

Despite the immense power of her soul and spells, the woman's body was not impressive, and her physical defenses were mediocre at best. The previous attacks left her exhausted, and her energy defenses were no longer active.

In less than a millisecond, the swords destroyed the Divine Legend's heart and lungs before cutting off her legs and arms.

Lastly, the bone sword and dark red sword intertwined, separating the Divine Legend's head from the rest of the body.

Heinz's eyes glowed as the dark red sword's flaming soul force grew more vigorous. He prepared to give the final blow and destroy the woman's Inner Law Dimension and shatter her True Soul.

Unfortunately, right before his attack, the woman's fragmented body exploded, unleashing a blast of ice power that froze the Cultivator.

A golden sphere with a blue humanoid figure inside emerged from the ice explosion and flashed away with a tremendous speed.

A layer of ice covered the Sky Breaker's body, and there was nothing he could do while the Divine Legend's True Soul escaped.

Although he wanted to chase after the Divine Legend and finish the job, Ice Essence infected him, making high-speed movement extremely hard, not to mention that using the Ancient Oblivion Eyes put tremendous pressure over his soul and body.

'I guess this is the best we can do with our current... WHAT!' Heinz's thoughts were interrupted when he felt a burst of energy appear not too far away from him. More specifically, right above the golden sphere that contained the Divine Legend's True Soul.

Heinz saw how Gwyn appeared in the sky thanks to his powerful eyes, and the Eye Holder was not alone as there were four more individuals around him.

However, the other four were exact replicas of the Holy Son, and to the Sky Breaker's surprise, the Ancient Oblivion Eyes showed him how the power of each one was equal.

Their souls, bodies, and energies unleashed a force that was the same the Holy Son displayed when he went all out during their last fight. The only difference was that their laws diverged.

The five Holy Son descended from the sky with a monstrous force, and as they rotated, their power fused into a single pillar of energy that seemed capable of piercing straight through a continent.

Panic and terror filled the Divine Legend's True Soul as the pillar clashed against the golden sphere. The artifact should have been able to resist a Supernova Domain Stage full-power spell, but it endured less than two seconds before shattering.

Without any protection, the Divine Legend's True Soul end was obvious. Gwyn's attack carried such might that nothing but blue particles remained of the woman's soul.

After killing the Divine Legend, the incarnations fused back into Gwyn's body. Despite the pillar of energy vanishing, the Holy Son continued falling.

Those with a high enough perception could see Gwyn's eyes and ears bleeding and understood that the Holy Son had fallen unconscious. That ability he just used, while highly potent, carried a huge cost.

A Divine Legend at the Early Primary Sun Domain Stage saw the unconscious Holy Sun, and his eyes glowed.

Without hesitation, the Divine Legend burned his life force, allowing him to push his current opponent away before flashing toward Gwyn.

The Magi and Eye Holders saw how the Holy Son's life was in danger, but then without a sign, the Divine Legend's fierce eyes lost their light, and he began to fall from the sky like a puppet with cut strings.

Surprise and confusion appeared on both sides when they saw the hole in the back of the Divine Legend's head. It was only when they truly focused on the area around Gwyn that they noticed a man whose presence even their powerful consciousnesses could not detect.

The man was bald and with a square face. His colorless bloodline eyes drew most people's attention since their aura surpassed that of any Emperor Bloodline.

Haki put his hand over Gwyn's unconscious body, and the next instant, the two vanished.

As he saw them disappear, Heinz's eyes narrowed. The newcomer's battle power was not impressive and would not be a threat in an open battle, but his assassination skills were magnificent.

Unless the difference between their raw power being more than an entire Rank, the Cultivator did not think he would come unscratched if that man attempted to kill him.

Heinz thought about that as a giant dragon appeared behind him and swallowed him whole. The next second, he found himself in a pool of green plasma made of Fire and Lightning Essences.

The Law of Fire and the Law of Lightning, while highly destructive, were also able to display powerful healing abilities, and those were the ones acting over the Cultivator's body and soul right now.

Beyond Prima Omega Arts require massive amounts of energy and soul force to be deployed, not to mention they submit the body to enormous stress.

There are special ones like the Absolute Unity Omega Law that creates a domain from which you can channel energy, allowing the user to maintain them almost indefinitely.

Of course, these types of Beyond Prima Omega Arts still generate immense pressure on the soul and body, so your centers of power must always be at least a Rank above your cultivation level. Besides, the level of comprehension needed is much higher.

Once Kylo swallowed Heinz and sent him into his stomach, he turned around and flew away from the battlefield.

After deactivating their Bloodline Apocalyptic Metamorphoses, the rest of the Sky Breakers move away from the area where Supernova Domain Stage existences fought and head to battle with those at the Hollow Sun Domain Stage.

They were exhausted, but since none of them used their Omega Laws, they were still more than capable of fighting weak Rank 6 life forms.

After the death of the Late Supernova Divine Legend, the person in the archbishop's robe turned toward the Sky Breakers for a second, but before he could do anything, the Astral Fiend attacked again.

Although Roku found it impossible to figure out what crossed his silent opponent's mind, he would not allow them to interfere with the battle between the two armies.

The death toll rose as the hours passed, and before anyone noticed, the Magi Divine Slayer Force and Divinity Faith Army battled for three entire days.

Broken bodies and shattered souls filled the sky and the ground. It was hard to say the exact number of casualties on both sides, but the Magi Divine Slayer Force lost four percent of its warriors.

That meant that millions of Magi World's life forms whose life span measured in the dozens of thousands of years perished in the lapse of seventy-two hours!

Of course, that was nothing compared with the Divine Faith Army fatalities since they lost nine percent of their Legendary Beings!

The passage of time only made the disparity between the two forces grow larger and larger, with more and more Divine Legends either losing their bodies or right away perishing.

Despite seeing Legendary Beings perish one after the other, the Divine Champion showed not even the slightest concern and continued battling against the Astral Fiend.

However, the exact moment the Divine Faith Army casualties reached ten percent, the Divine Champion's energy burst and sent hundreds of golden strings that wrapped themselves around Roku.

They were extremely thin, but the Astral Fiend was surprised to find how resilient they were, and it would take him a moment to get rid of them.

The Supernova Domain Stage existences from the Magi World frowned when they saw that since the person in the archbishop's robes was an extremely fearsome foe who could do a lot of damage in an instant.

Luckily, the Divine Champion had another plan. They took out six drops of golden blood before clasping their hands and speaking in an androgynous voice.

"?Jerico's Wall!"

Those words echoed through the battlefield, and the golden blood exploded.

Holy energy overflowed the continents as a giant golden wall that pierced the ground and reached the highest sky manifested itself a few hundred meters behind the battlefield.

Without hesitation or even hearing a single command, all the Legendary Beings left their fight and flew away. Even those who were just a second away from killing their enemy did the same.

The apparition of Jerico's Wall was a divine order, and they needed to obey it, regardless of their desires.

The Legendary Beings crossed through the golden wall as if this was nothing but an optical illusion. Still, when a? Supernova Domain Stage Magus sent a spell that resembled a meteorite the size of a moon toward it, the attack failed even to make an indentation.

"AHHHHH!" Roku roared as a blast of red aura with blue matrices emerged from him, freeing himself from the golden strings.

When they saw the Astral Fiend freeing himself and marching toward them, the Divine Champion acted like always, emotionless and indifferent.

They sent hundreds of swords made of holy light to block the Astral Fiend, and only when the last living member of the Divine Faith Army crossed the golden wall did they also escape.

"?BOOOM!"

Right after the Divine Champion crossed the wall, Roku reached it and fired a punch with so much strength and force that the Transitional Plane's laws began to converge on him.

"CRACK!"

The Astral Fiend's punch made huge cracks appear in the golden wall, but it only harmed the surface, and soon they began to heal.

Roku's eyes narrowed when he saw how resilient Jerico's Wall was. He took a deep breath, calmed his raging energy, and analyzed the golden wall before speaking to the Magi Divine Slayer Force.

"This wall will last seven months.. During that time, we will build our headquarters and fortify the border."

Chapter 527 - One Hundred Years

From the weakest to the strongest, they all began to work when they heard Roku's words. Although he did not kill anyone during this first battle, everybody knew the outcome would have been much worse had not the Astral Fiend kept the Divine Champion at bay.

Even the other Gods Slayers considered the Astral Fiend as their de facto leader inside Gods' Tomb.

The Magic Tower that would work as the Magi Divine Slayer Force's headquarters needed to be strong enough to resist the Divinity Faith Army's full force, and nothing beneath Pseudo Rank 7 could achieve that might.

Constructing such a majestic and powerful tower in seven months would not be easy, but everyone present had the power to move mountains and split oceans, so it was not an impossible task.

The Scientia Kingdom's Magi were extremely experienced Magic Tower builders. All knew they despised schemes and hidden tricks, so they took control of the Pseudo Rank 7 Magic Tower construction.

With extreme efficiency and hard work, a city that occupied around a third of the continent appeared in less than six months.

In the center of this city, there was a Magic Tower that extended hundreds of kilometers into the sky. Its total power would allow it to unleash a domain spell capable of covering half a continent and kill anything beneath Peak Rank 6!

The city and the tower shared a name, Atlas. Although, to be fair, the first was just an extension of the Pseudo Rank 7 Magic Tower.

Atlas would be the main focal point of the Magi Divine Slayer Force, from where all war efforts that involved the entirety of the great organizations' warriors would start.

Once they completed the main task, the great organizations began to divide the terrains that bordered Jerico's Wall, which would work as the frontier between the domains of the Divinity Faith Army and Magi Divinity Slayer Army.

This frontier would take the name of End Corridor, as it would be the place where no normal life could rise due to the constant level of energy pollution and destruction.

The amount of terrain each organization would get depended on their military merits during this first battle.

Despite their overall fantastic performance during the battle, the Daybreak Clan obtained the least amount of merit. Even if every Neo-Demon could be considered a genius, their number was too small and lacked enough warriors with Rank 6 battle power.

Heinz and the rest of the Sky Breakers were not bothered by this news since it was something they expected to happen. After Dante made some calculations, they took control of a desolate land on the edge of the End Corridor.

Just like Roku said, Jerico's Wall endured seven months before shattering. Under the Astral Fiend's leadership, the entire Magi Divine Slayer Force marched out of Atlas and entered the terrain dominated by the Divinity Faith Army the next day.

Unfortunately, they advanced less than three hours before seeing a massive city with a majestic castle in the center from which a tremendous force field emerged.

The Gods Slayers were surprised by the city's power as it matched their headquarters. They initially believed that the Divinity World's Magic Creator heritage could not compare with theirs, but this force field made them change their mind.

Roku's eyes narrowed as he analyzed the Divine City, and after giving the command to the army to stay put, he marched alone toward the enemy stronghold.

He had not even gotten near the city when the force field affected him, numbing his senses and unleashing a constant pressure over his body and soul.

An Astral Fiend's body can work as a shield for the soul, so Roku's power did not weaken too much due to his monstrous physical defenses, but the force field did hinder his perception and reaction time.

Roku pushed forward, and just as he got near the city's walls,? hundreds of small fireballs appeared around him, along with shadow whips.

The fireballs were extremely small, but the power of each one could compare with a Peak Rank 6 spell, and the shadow whips were extraordinarily resilient and stuck to the Astral Fiend like glue.

Even with his immense defensive power, hundreds of Peak Rank 6 attacks landing on him at once would endanger the Astral Fiend's life.

Roku shattered the shadow whips and sent palm prints that negated the fireballs, but the closer he got to the city, the stronger the force field and the more powerful the attacks were.

In the end, the Astral Fiend only managed to reach the wall before being forced to retreat. There was a solemn expression on his face, as he never saw a Legendary Being during this entire time, meaning that the city on its own could defeat him.

The Gods Slayers waited for Roku's return to decide what would happen next, but things were already clear for everybody. Seeing that they could not win in a direct confrontation between the full force of both armies, the Divinity Faith Army fortified their side of the End Corridor just like they did.

While the rest of the Divinity Faith Army's strongholds on their side of the End Corridor should not be as strong as the one Roku just faced, they would need the full power of the Magi Divine Slayer Force to destroy them without the fight being a pyrrhic victory.

However, that would leave their side of the border defenseless, so the losses outweigh the gains.

Roku looked at the Gods Slayers, and after some consideration, he spoke about how the war would continue.

"Mobilizing the entire Magi Divine Slayer Force is not practical at this moment. Each organization will take control of its terrains and try to expand them using its own forces. Whether you want to form alliances and make deals is up to you. Every ten years, we will gather our entire forces in Atlas, share the information we got about the enemy and try to do a coordinated strike to exploit the Divinity Faith Army's flaws."

The Gods Slayer nodded at Roku's words, and each led their forces toward their domains.

Heinz did the same with the Daybreak Army. As he guided the Neo-Demons away, Dante appeared by his side and glanced at him.

The Cultivator glanced at the N°2 Sky Breaker and nodded before speaking with him using the Chaotic Core.

"It is like Brother told us. The Sage will not bother with any of us since we are just too insignificant in his eyes. Unless the war reaches a breaking point, he will save his schemes for those he truly considers worthy of them."

Dante nodded and chose to remain quiet. While it was annoying knowing he did not even appear on The Sage's radar, it also relieved him a little since he truly feared an entity that even his almighty father considered dangerous.

Regarding The Sage's true identity as the Eldritch Universe's Champion, the King in Yellow, Zatiel did not share that with anyone other than Ezequiel.

With their current power and talent, knowing that would not help them at all. On the contrary, it could unconsciously influence the Sky Breakers' behavior, threatening their lives.

Due to each side's strongholds, a stalemate formed between the Magi Divine Slayer Force and Divinity Faith Army. While terrains were gained and lost constantly, no force managed to make considerable progress.

Like that, one hundred years transpired.

Chapter 528 - Unexpected Visit

On the highest floor of Atlas, the Pseudo Rank 7 Magic Tower, there was a large table with twelve chairs. This place was considered the highest commanding center for the Magi World's forces and took the name of Flawless Council Chamber.

The name, of course, was a reference to the man whose will ignited this war, Ivar the Flawless.

In the head of the council sat a man with a fierce demonic aura whose eyes glowed with blue light.

The one who sat facing this demonic and analytic monster was a young man with a profound aura that seemed capable of assimilating all existence.

As the two strongest and more talented individuals among the millions of people in the Magi Divine Slayer Force, Dean Rebellion and Roku Astrum were the highest commanders.

The other Gods Slayers took nine of the remaining chairs, with the last one occupied by the N°1 Sky Breaker.

Heinz sat in silence as he analyzed the new information the different groups had gathered over the last decade. His aura was much more profound than before, and a Neo-Godking Mantle covered his body, indicating his status as a Moon Shatterer.

In the beginning, there were only eleven chairs in the Flawless Council.

Although the Daybreak Clan was allowed to be present during the council sessions, they did not have a vote regarding decisions involving the entirety of the Magi Divine Slayer Force.

The reason for it was simple. The Daybreak Clan's military might could not compare with the rest of the great organizations, not to mention, they did not have anyone with the power capable of reaching the Gods Slayer level.

If Zatiel or Ezequiel were leading the Daybreak Clan inside Gods' Tomb, things would have been much different. One was an ancient monster that could speak as equals with entities who stood above the Prima Universe's laws, while the other was the most talented life form born in the Magi World since the rise of the Aeternum Empire's creator.

No one in the Magi World would dare to look down on or consider themselves superior to these two monsters.

As for using the name of Daybreak to try and gain a place in the council, even if it may have worked, it would have been a pathetic display of background, so the thought never crossed Heinz's mind.

To gain a Flawless Council's seat, Heinz carved a path of blood. Over the last century, the Neo-Demon Army proved its ruthless characteristics on the battlefield.

Never hesitating, never backing down, always pushing forward and killing everything in their path. Those words described the essence of the Neo-Demon Army's nature.

The only thing that stopped a Neo-Demon from rising through the Ranks was their willpower, and the war was the perfect sharpener for that.

Currently, the number of Rank 5 Neo-Demons reached a mind-blowing one thousand nine hundred and forty-eight. That was almost four times their number from when they first arrived in Gods Tomb.

Heinz and the rest of the Sky Breakers took part in dangerous battles where their lives could have ended any second. Their powers and destiny just kept growing, with every one of them already reaching the Peak Rank 5 in both the True Soul and True Doomsday Body Path of Power.

Twenty years ago, when a grand battle occurred between both armies, working together and using all their power, the nine Sky Breakers were able to destroy the body of a Divine Legend.

Not only did that person reach Peak Rank 6, but she was also a Gods Hero, the antithesis of a Gods Slayer, gaining the Sky Breakers the recognition needed to enter the Flawless Council.

No one bothered with the fact that they failed to shatter the Gods Hero's True Soul. In all this time, the only occasion a Gods Hero perished was when the Scientia Kingdom's Royal Brothers killed the Yin-Yang Twin Supernovas.

Just like the other Gods Slayers, two people were standing behind Heinz. Dante and Sophia stood in silence as they analyzed the information along with the Cultivator.

Despite their powerful and pure bloodline, the duo showed no signs of crossing to the next Rank anytime soon. Of course, that was not due to the lack of talent since they both created an Inner Law Dimension a long time ago.

The 6th Engraving Stage, the Consciousness Engraving, was the most arduous one, and there could be no mistake since that would mean leaving a flaw in their Sacred Body of Laws.

Despite advancing very fast through the previous stages, every Sky Breaker spent a long time in the 6th Engraving Stage, constantly purifying their soul force and tempering their Sacred Body of Laws.

Once the intelligence conference was over, the Gods Slayers began to convey the situation with their domains.

"We need help securing our border in the Paimon Continent. There are constant incursions of Divine Legends in our lands, forcing us to diverge part of our force to keep them at bay, and that is preventing Burning Moon School from conquering any new territories."

A twenty-meter tall man with a scholar robe and flames covering his entire body spoke to the council. There was great anger and frustration on his face as he conveyed the message.

"Hmph, we are currently in a high tension point of the war, and there is not a single one of us who is not facing tremendous pressure from the Divinity Faith Army." The Frozen Monster Heart's leader, Shikra, spoke to the man, and there was mockery in her face.

The Burning Moon School's Gods Slayer's face displayed immense anger when he heard the woman, and dark magma appeared in his eyes.

Shikra's mocking smile only grew more prominent when she saw that. There was no fear in the woman's heart since she knew the man would not dare attack her with the Astral Fiend present.

When the Burning Moon School's Gods Slayer felt the Astral Fiend's eyes focusing on him, he immediately calmed down, and after a moment, he sighed since it seemed no one could assist him.

"Horkun of the Burning Moon School, we can help you."

Not only the Burning Moon School's Gods Slayer, but everybody else turned to the voice and saw that it came from a young man that stood behind Heinz.

Usually, those who accompany the Gods Slayers would remain silent and only provide advice to their leaders.

Nevertheless, the organization of the Daybreak Clan was different. While Heinz took the seat due to his power, the truth was that the Cultivator delegated almost all the authority toward Dante when it came to military strategy.

Unlike the rest of the great organizations, the Daybreak Clan did not focus on expanding their territories and instead put their full power in killing and destroying, which allowed them to mobilize their forces with much more ease.

It was not rare to see Neo-Demons fulfilling mercenary missions or engaging in guerrilla warfare against the Divinity Faith Army's troops.

That affected their military merits since conquering a continent gave much more points than killing a Gods Hero. Nevertheless, unlike the others, Neo-Demons did not need Beyond Prima Omega Arts or external help to improve their talent.

Horkun stared at Dante for a moment but did not respond immediately. It was not that he doubted the Daybreak Clan's military force since they had already proven themselves to be very efficient, but their services were extremely expensive.

In the end, seeing that there was no one else who could help him, the Gods Slayer had no other choice but to accept the deal and negotiate with Dante.

Roku prepared to address the following subject when suddenly a man with closed eyes opened the gates of the council room.

The newcomer was someone most people knew very well, especially the ones coming from the Aeternum Empire. He was Kriz, the eunuch.

"Who allowed you to enter the council chambers!" The one who roared those words was not a Gods Slayers from a different organization but Roku.

He was the one who established the rules that regulated the Flawless Council, with one of them being the number of people each organization could bring into the chamber.

If the Astral Fiend did not respect his own rules, how could he expect the other to follow them?

However, along with anger, there was also confusion and concern in the Astral Fiend's mind. He had decided to leave Kriz back in the Magi World.

It was not that he did not trust the eunuch. On the contrary, as one of the few people who remained loyal to him even when everything seemed lost, Roku left the eunuch in control of the Aeternum Empire in his absence.

There were many questions in the Astral Fiend's mind, with the first being why the eunuch entered the Transitional Plane without permission, but that could wait until they were alone.

That roar should have frozen Kriz, especially after the rest of the Gods Slayers focused on him, subjecting the eunuch to immense spiritual pressure.

To everybody's shock, the eunuch walked forward as if their raging soul forces were nothing but gales of wind.

Those present were extremely smart and immediately understood that there was something wrong with the eunuch.

A solemn expression appeared on their faces as anyone who could infiltrate a Pseudo Rank 7 Magic Tower was someone they could not take lightly.

Roku raised his hand, signaling everybody to do nothing unless he commanded it and focused on the eunuch.

Kriz kept walking until he was just a few meters away from Roku, and then he opened his eyes that shone with purple light.

Chapter 529 - Astral Chaos Pagoda

That purple light that started in Kriz's eyes soon expanded over his body, and azure runes appeared in it. The Magus, whose soul force put him at the Late Hollow Sun Domain Stage, unleashed an aura that made even the Gods Slayers feel threatened by it.

As the leaders of the Magi World's great organizations were trying to figure out what happened with the Magus, Heinz stood up from his chair and kneeled immediately along with the other two Sky Breakers.

"Brother!"

"Father!"

"Husband!"

Dean and Gabriel were a second late, but they also were able to identify the strange force the leader of the Daybreak Clan possessed. The duo immediately adopted a respectful stance and bowed toward Kriz.

"The Scientia Kingdom's Crown Prince humbly greets the Royal Teacher!"

"The Scientia Kingdom's Second Prince humbly greets the Royal Teacher!"

Kriz turned toward the brothers and nodded before staring at the Sky Breakers and signaling them to stand up.

Even the most foolish of those present could figure out who controlled Kriz after hearing that, but they were still shocked by what they felt.

Zatiel Daybreak was less than three hundred years old, yet he had already reached the level where he could threaten Peak Supernova Domain Stage existences without even needing to be present.

The purple force with azure runes was mighty, and its nature was also bizarre. Just focusing on it affected their minds and perception of reality.

Many Gods Slayers had battled Mind Rulers, so they were familiar with Mind Force, but Zatiel's had suffered many evolutions.

Zatiel's Mind Force originated from the Rebirth Eye's Dream Dimension, and a Tier 6 Apocalyptic Star fused with it, so it would not be wrong to call it a higher form of force.

Of the Gods Slayers, the only one who maintained complete calmness was Roku. Without warning, a blast of Astral Fiend's aura emerged from him, making the entire tower tremble.

"What have you done to my man?" Roku's voice was cold, and there was killing intent in his eyes. Even if he faced an ancient existence that once stood above the Prima Universe's laws, there was no fear in the Astral Fiend's heart.

As he felt the killing intent targeting him, Kriz began to smile, and there was a positive light in his eyes.

"Hahahaha. Good, very good!" Kriz laughed as he faced the Astral Fiend, and the next second, the Magus' soul force and life force inundated the room.

Surprise appeared in Roku and the rest of the Gods Slayers when they felt those forces.

Usually, during a possession, the victim's soul force and life force would burn themselves as the controller forced that person's centers of power to overexert themselves.

However, Kriz's soul force and life force grew more powerful, as a unique power purged all the impurities and healed the damage he received over his life.

"There is no need to worry about your man. I am pushing myself to the limit to make sure not to harm him. Actually, due to my spirit running through his body and soul, he is tempered each second."

Roku's eyes narrowed when he heard that, and after a few inspections, he was sure Zatiel was telling the truth.

Once he knew his man was fine, the Astral Fiend's raging aura calmed, and he stared at Kriz for a moment before performing a slight bow.

"I greet Lord Daybreak. I need to ask, even if it is beneficial for him, why did you possess my man and come to Gods' Tomb this way?" Roku's question made perfect sense, and it was something everybody else wondered.

"It is not safe for me to enter Gods' Tomb yet, as my presence could start a dangerous chain reaction. However, I needed to speak to you, and since this involved a crucial subject, I needed to handle it myself." Kriz made a slight pause before staring at Roku with a severe expression.

"The keys."

The Magus only spoke those words, but the Astral Fiend's eyes widened as he understood Zatiel's purpose for coming to see him.

'Now?' While the others may not know what key Zatiel required, the Astral Fiend knew very well he referred to the ones that allowed access into the Astral Chaos Pagoda.

He planned to use the Astral Chaos Pagoda when his cultivation reached the absolute limit of Rank 6 and take advantage of the pagoda's power to make a fantastic breakthrough.

If his guess was correct, the duo planned to use it while still in Rank 5. Such a heavily lucky chance not being used to break through a vital cultivation barrier seemed a waste for the Astral Fiend.

There was also a possibility Zatiel and Ezequiel planned to use an even mightier lucky chance for their rise into immortality. Still, he found it hard to believe such a thing could exist.

However, that did not matter to the Astral Fiend. He promised two slots for the Astral Chaos Pagoda, and it was up to them how they used it. Besides, he would only invite mockery if he attempted to guide the cultivation of someone like Zatiel.

Roku waved his hand, and then two orbs made of intricate magic matrices appeared. He handed it over to Kriz, and this one saved it in his space ring.

Once he fulfilled his goal, a white arc of lightning emerged from Kriz's chest and created a portal in front of him.

The Magus crossed the portal the next second, but just as the white lightning was about to vanish, they heard Kriz's voice one last time.

"Ezequiel and I will enter Gods' Tomb in a few years, and we will immediately march into the Divinity Faith Army's headquarters. You may want to delay your next full power incursion until then or not. It is up to you."

The tone in the voice made clear for everybody that the speaker did not care about their decision. Whether or not they follow them, Ezequiel and Zatiel would march into the enemy territory when they entered Gods' Tomb.

Everybody turned toward Roku after hearing that. The Astral Fiend was the de facto leader and guided the Magi Divine Slayer Force during every primary incursion, so the decision was up to him.

An analytic expression appeared in the Astral Fiend's face as his eyes glowed with a powerful blue light.

"With our current power and intelligence, the damage of a full power incursion done at this moment would be feeble, so we will wait until Lord Daybreak and Invictus arrive. That is the most logical path forward."

Even if they did not like him, no one could hide the respect they felt for the Astral Fiend.

Waiting for Zatiel and Ezequiel could affect his standing in the army and make him seem weak, but the Astral Fiend did not care about any of that. He chose the path that presented the greatest overall reward for the Magi Divine Slayer Force.

Back in the Magi World.

In a hidden place beneath Icarus' core, there was a massive ruin. Two men sat in meditation positions, and surrounding them were twelve golem-like creatures.

Near them, there was a massive stone portal full of cracks, and it was clear the passage of time affected it. Nevertheless, there was a strange and powerful aura around it.

These golem-like creatures all had the power of Late Supernova Domain Stage existences, and despite their appearances, the light in their eyes proved they were sentient beings.

The ones they surrounded were only at the Peak Rank 5. Still, despite the superiority in numbers and cultivation level, the golems showed apprehension in their eyes. They did not dare to do anything other than calmly wait and stand guard around the duo.

Both were men and had white robes with strange patterns on their backs that seemed to embody supernatural concepts. Just trying to look at those words made the golems feel like they were staring at the sun.

The aura of one of the men constantly changed, sometimes resembling a burning volcano, others a raging storm, and there were even times he seemed to embody the calmness of the ocean. It was as if he was in perfect synchrony with the elemental power of the world.

The other man's aura made the golems' souls enter a state of lethargy. If they focused too much on him, they ran the risk of their consciousness entering a dream state.

Luckily for the golems, they could relax when finally Kriz returned and handed the winged man two orbs.

Since they have the keys, it meant the Emperor allowed them to use the Astral Chaos Pagoda. The golems returned to their original positions around the old gate, and their energies vanished.

Zatiel took the keys, and his Rebirth Eye glowed as the power he used to control the Magus returned to him.

When that happened, Krinz's face showed confusion and disorientation as he failed to understand what was happening.

Unfortunately for the Magus, neither Zatiel nor Ezequiel bothered to explain, and once each had an orb in their hands, they crushed them.

The portal began to glow with a powerful red light before pulling Zatiel and Ezequiel into it and transporting them.

The next second, the Neo-Demon Ancestor and Supreme Neo-Demon found themselves in a different dimension, and immediately they were assaulted by a red hurricane.

Ezequiel understood the nature of what assaulted them as it was the same energy that ran through his veins.

"This is Astral Qi."

The dimension had the size of a Low World, yet Astral Qi's density was so high that a red storm covered every corner of it.

They would have suffered significant injuries if their bodies were beneath Rank 6 since Astral Qi could ignore magic defenses.

"It comes from that place."

Zatiel's Rebirth Eye glowed as the Neo-Demon focused on the center of the dimension and saw a majestic pagoda in it.

The Astral Qi that filled the entire dimension was nothing but residual energy the pagoda released, meaning that what was inside it was of a much higher quality.

Zatiel and Ezequiel stared at each other before nodding and flashing toward the Astral Chaos Pagoda.. They were about to use one of the most primeval forces of the universe to temper their bodies and become Rank 6 life forms.

Chapter 530 - Heavenly Bodies

Near the portal connecting the Magi World and Gods' Tomb, millions of life forms with True Souls have gathered. They all adopted solemn expressions as they stared toward the sky, waiting for someone.

Other than a few thousand warriors left in the great organizations' strongholds to ensure their safety, the entire Magi Divine Slayer Force was present.

Among the triumvirate of races present, there was one that brought every single member here. The thousands of Neo-Demons had pious light filling their eyes as they focused on the portal.

For the most talented race of the universe, those who would cross that portal were sacred existences that stand above everything. They were the maximum example of what absolute talent and endless willpower could achieve.

Gods Slayers were high in the sky, waiting a few hundred meters away from the portal. Even these individuals that were the most powerful members of the Magi Divine Slayer Force could not relax in a moment like this.

Roku's mental state was no different than the rest of the Gods Slayer, but the reason for the Astral Fiend's tension was different than the others.

Unlike the rest of the Gods Slayers that just were tense by receiving the most talented duo in the Magi World's history, there was a piece of information that did not leave the Astral Fiend's mind.

"Although I am not that well informed, I have a shallow understanding of the Astral Chaos Pagoda and know that the longer the time you remain in it, the more benefits you obtain, but the dangers also grow exponentially."

The Astral Fiend turned to the side and saw the Crown Prince speaking to him. Dean had already crossed into the Primary Sun Domain Stage, and his battle power reached the point where he needed to be careful when he went all out due to Gods' Tomb's power restriction.

Roku did not look surprised regarding the Crown Prince being aware of Zatiel and Ezequiel using the Astral Chaos Pagoda. The duo did not hide their presence when they entered Icarus and headed into the city's underground ruins.

He stared at the Crown Prince for a moment before looking back toward the portal and begging to speak.

"Astral Chaos is the primal force that gave birth to all matter in the universe. While its most basic endowment is related to the physical body, if your comprehension ability is powerful enough, you can obtain tremendous benefits for your soul and energy."

Roku did not hide his voice, so all the Gods Slayer could hear him, immediately becoming the center of attention. The rest of the Magi Divine Slayer Force did not dare to emit a sound and quietly listened to the Astral Fiend.

"The first 90 days are the Immortality Trial. An ocean of Astral Qi would flood the entire Astral Chaos Pagoda, immersing anyone in it. The red liquid would flow inside you, blending with your blood and reforging your body from the inside out. To surpass this trial, you require a flawless constitution and an extremely solid foundation."

Although the Astral Fiend made it sound simple, everybody knew that surpassing the Immortality Trial would be incredibly difficult. By the name, they could guess that those able to transcend it would have the destiny of a Void Creator!

"From the 91st day to the 360th came the Eternity Trial. The Astral Qi's density inside the pagoda would reach its peak and evolve into Astral Chaos Force. A red mist would permeate every corner of the Astral Chaos Pagoda and begin to infiltrate the cells of those inside it. At this point, just having a powerful physique was not enough. If you do not understand and guide the primal force invading your body, the only outcome that awaits you is death."

Roku's explanation made clear for everybody that the Eternity Trial's difficulty was exponentially greater than that of the Immortality Trial.

"From the 361st day to the 720th came the Infinity Trial. The Astral Chaos Force would evolve until subatomic particles of true primeval Astral Chaos emerged. In them, you could perceive the universe's evolutionary matrix!"

Those present found it hard to imagine how unique the mysteries contained in those Astral Chaos' subatomic particles would be. Although many desired to study them, they knew that the comprehension ability required to obtain anything of those particles would be beyond extraordinary.

"During the Infinity Trial, there are two paths you can take. The safest one would be to study the Astral Chaos' subatomic particles, which would grant immense benefit to your comprehension of the laws, and correct any flaw you might have committed during your cultivation path."

A solemn and almost deadly expression appeared in the Astral Fiend as he explained the other path.

"The second path you can take involves developing a certain level of understanding of these Astral Chaos' subatomic particles, before engraving them into your Sacred Body of Laws and fusing them with your Inner Law Dimension. Each of those particles carried laws and forces that defy logic, and even a supreme genius could have their soul and body crumble under their pressure."

Roku made a slight pause so everybody could understand the danger those Astral Chaos' subatomic particles carried.

"Death was not just a possibility for those taking this path. It was almost a certainty!" Once he reached this point, Roku's eyes began to glow with monstrous willpower. "However, words could not describe the benefit of having Astral Chaos' subatomic particles fuse into your existence. It would be like carrying inside you the Prima Universe's physical blueprint!"

Trying to picture the Prima Universe's physical blueprint was impossible, and just the mere concept was unfathomable for anyone present.

"Remaining inside the Astral Chaos Pagoda beyond 721st day without having fused Astral Chaos' subatomic particles into your existence would be impossible. Past this point, there would not be a qualitative change in the Astral Chaos Force, but the red fog's pressure would become stronger, eventually forcing those inside the Astral Chaos Pagoda out."

The Astral Chaos Pagoda and the Astral Chaos Omega Law were connected, and due to Ivar the Flawless current Rank, it could only test a life form talent until the limit of the Beyond the Shackles Rank.

"Due to the Astral Chaos Force's nature, trying to use your energy to resist it would be useless, and you can only depend on your body. The pressure beyond the 750th day could crush a Peak Rank 6 Demon until nothing was left."

"How many days did Lord Daybreak and Invictus endure?" The Crown Prince spoke with a voice full of curiosity.

He knew that as the Emperor, Roku had knowledge of what happened inside the Astral Chaos Dimension. That is why the Astral Fiend summoned them here since he knew that the arrival of Zatiel and Ezequiel would be very soon.

"Lord Daybreak endured 778 days."

When they heard that number, the Gods Slayers were shocked. Zatiel Daybreak's battle style focused on the soul, and his domain over the spiritual aspect of existence was beyond superb.

However, it seemed that his body talent also reached the highest levels of the universe.

"As for Invictus. He stood inside the Astral Chaos Pagoda for 901 days!"

If before they were shocked, now the Gods Slayers were in complete awe. They knew Ezequiel trained the Astral Chaos Omega Law and his main center of power was the body. Still, resisting 901 days was something that truly amazed them.

Roku shared the feeling of the Gods Slayers as Ezequiel's body talent was something that startled him.

Suddenly, the Astral Fiend's eyes narrowed as he turned toward the portal.

"They are coming."

Roku had been monitoring the situation inside the Astral Chaos Dimension this entire time.

The Astral Fiend did not know what happened exactly, but soon after leaving the pagoda, Zatiel's aura obtained a qualitative improvement. While Zatiel's True Soul remained at Peak Rank 5, Roku was sure the man became a Rank 6 life form.

Ezequiel went through the same qualitative improvement, but unlike Zatiel, who only required a couple of months to solidify his cultivation, Invictus seemed to have endured severe wounds.

Zatiel used his power to assist Ezequiel's recovery. Finally, after six months, Invictus fully healed, and the duo left the Astral Chaos Dimension before flashing toward the portal near Icarus.

Everybody's eyes converged into the portal as two entities emerged from it. What appeared in front of their eyes were not people but majestic heavenly bodies that eclipsed everything else in the sky.

One heavenly body was a flaming golden star that resembled a sun, and its fire contained limitless life and vitality. From it emerged force waves capable of creating superb structures by channeling the energy that permeated the universe.

The other heavenly body was even more impressive. Its size surpassed any moon or star they have ever seen, and the energy it contained was so high that it went beyond the limits of Rank 6.

This magnificent heavenly body was utterly white and in a constant state of vibration, capable of twisting the space-time around it.

After a few seconds, the amazing stars vanished, and two humanoids replaced them.

One of them had eight glorious wings, and there seemed to be seven bright cores inside his body, with the mightiest in the third eye present in his forehead overflowing with golden flames.

The other had an impressive body whose mere presence affected the natural forces. This man also had seven bright cores inside him, with the mighties in his left hand.

Zatiel Daybreak and Ezequiel Invictus entered Gods' Tomb!
