

Abyssal 741

Chapter 741 I Killed Him

Kato was inwardly shocked but managed to regain his composure. He then focused on the Depravita, and his eyes glowed with a golden and sacred light.

"Your words are correct. However, I don't do it just to train myself, but to ascertain to all those future generations that my path is better than yours. In my eyes, your kind is an even worse type of cancer than the Heavenly Race."

All the powerhouses present, including Bahamut and Noir, were surprised by Kato's words and the resolution on his face.

Venganza remained emotionless as he heard Kato's words. The words of a child could not anger him, and he couldn't care less about what others thought of him or his kind.

The Depravita Race did not need the approval or admiration of the other races, especially those that did not understand their true path and what they would become.

However, since Kato chose to clash against him, Venganza decided to show the Buddha a painful lesson.

"You confuse evilness with weakness and righteousness with power. You see the world as black and white when everything is just different shades of gray. Is it not because of my actions that all the lives in the Prima Universe are now free of the Eldritch Universe's threat?" frowned, and he could not negate Venganza's words. The Eldritch's threat that had always lumbered over the Prima Universe was now gone, giving its trillion lives a chance to prosper.

The Depravita might not care about the lives of the Prima Universe, but the outcome was all that mattered.

"You think my path is flawed because of what you consider an obsession with my desires. I never question who I am or what I have become. My heart is pure, and there is no hesitation in it. Can you say the same, little Buddha?"

Kato grew pale and was unable to answer that question.

Venganza's words made Kato tremble as a trail of blood leaked from his mouth.

Kato's Buddha Path of Power focused on the mind and heart, so a mental blow was equally harmful as a physical one.

Noir put a hand over the Buddha's shoulder and helped him calm down, but there was not much he could do. Besides, the Spirit Primarch did not think the mental blow was necessarily bad for Kato.

How could you expect to fix your flaws if you don't know about them?

Venganza did not bother with the Buddha anymore. Whether this one managed to surpass this trial or perished under its pressure did not matter to him. He turned toward Apex and the two Rank 9 Supernovas, and his eyes glowed as he saw the burning flame inside their hearts.

"Are you ready to follow me into war and claim your revenge?"

Apex's eyes looked directly into Venganza and felt his desire for revenge grow stronger by the second. Luckily for him, millions of years of fighting and hardship tempered his will to an incredible level, so his desire did not blind him.

He took a deep breath and analyzed it all from a pragmatic point of view. His talent for war was good, but he could not equal that of the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, not to mention that following Venganza's plans would allow him to save countless Fallen.

Of course, he did not particularly trust the Depravita but did trust in the Champion of Justice and Order and was sure that this one would do the best for his kind.

However, just as the Archangel was about to discuss the situation with the Rank 9 Supernovas, he noticed the duo's somber aura.

Apex was about to ask what happened to them when Koren took a step forward.

"I need to know something. How did your son, Dante Daybreak, obtain his bloodline?"

When the powerhouses heard the Eternal Death and Destruction Supernova Eye's question, the image of Zatiel Daybreak's son came to mind.

Countless races had a third eye in their foreheads, and many techniques involved the spontaneous generation of one, so those present had not made the connection before. But now that Koren mentioned it, everybody began to reconsider things.

There were two main methods to obtain a bloodline in the Prima Universe. Either by inheritance or stealing it from someone and implanting it in yourself.

Nevertheless, the rise of the Neo-Demon Race changed that, as they could fuse different bloodlines and gave birth to all kinds of miracles.

It wouldn't be impossible for Dante to have obtained it by fusing different bloodlines and having no relationship with the Supernova Race.

Venganza's eyes narrowed as he stared at the Eternal Death and Destruction Supernova Eye.

"Let's not drag this conversation. I killed the original holder of the Eye of Life and Creation and stole his bloodline." The Depravita did not feel the need to lie and directly answered the real question in the mind of the Rank 9 Supernovas.

Ziru and Koren's auras exploded as soon as they heard that answer. The power of death and destruction and that of space-time fused into a dark blue force that made the castle quiver and hard for most powerhouses to breathe.

Only those at Rank 9, like Ivar and Kato, could ignore that dark blue aura because of their power and that they were not the target.

Venganza took the front of the aura, but he stood there like nothing. His Silver Stars of Origin and the Red Sun of Wrath rotated, granting him the might to resist the combined aura of the duo.

Chapter 742 A World Into A Lucky Chance

Apex frowned as he saw how things progressed, and he was not alone. The Archangel and powerhouses could understand the anger of the Eternal Death and Destruction Supernova Eye and the Infinity Space-Time Supernova Eye. Unfortunately, their timing was awful since they were about to march into war.

And even if that was not the case, the one they were targeting was Venganza. While there was no question that summoning the Incarnation of Death and Destruction came at a high price, that monster would only need a few seconds to destroy Solaris and kill them all.

As for trying to cage Venganza here and keep him away from the Neo-Demon Realm, Apex knew that was virtually impossible. Since the Depravita could make his way into Solaris, ignoring all of Ziru's seals in space-time, it was logical that he could leave whenever he wanted.

"I need to know how it happened? Did you set an ambush or some trap? How many were by your side during that battle?" Koren spoke with a deadly cold tone.

"What difference does it make?" Venganza could feel the burning rage in the duo's hearts but was not worried. It would be easier if they decided to help him during this mission, but they were not essential.

"Of course it makes a difference! We are talking about the honor of our race, and there is no enemy powerful enough to make us forget it!" Koren roared as his aura grew stronger. honor pushed us forward, even when our enemy was one of the mightiest races of the Prima Universe. For our race, honor means everything!" Ziru joined his brother as he also made his aura explode.

Venganza's eyes narrowed as he heard Ziru and Koren's words and remembered what Eon Six said all those years ago.

"I fought against him alone. Our cultivation was roughly at the same level. As for traps and the likes, he came out of nowhere, so I did not have the chance to rely on them and entered a direct battle from the beginning."

The moment they heard those words, Ziru and Koren's wrath immediately grew several times weaker, becoming a mere ember of its previous burning might.

"Did your desire for revenge vanish just like that?" Venganza was not mocking or attempting to anger the duo. He was sincerely interested in their reaction as it was something that involved his Concept of Revenge.

Koren and Ziru saw the genuine curiosity in the Depravita's eyes and chose to answer it.

"When the Heavenly Race attacked Solaris and forced the exodus of our race, we could have chosen to fall into despair and victimhood, but we are the Supernova Race. How could we choose such a pathetic path?" Ziru spoke with great pride those words.

"We accepted the rule that the strongest prey on the weak, so we chose to become more powerful! If the enemy uses traps, ambushes, or numbers, our kind is in its right to ask for retribution. However, if you lose a direct one-on-one battle, then you only have yourself to blame for your foolishness and weakness. It would shame our race if we tried to avenge someone like that." Koren mentioned the core ideology that reigned in the Supernova Race's society.

Venganza nodded to the duo as he understood how the desire for revenge molded them, yet they remained on a virtuous path, faithful to a code.

The Depravita did not dawdle on those thoughts for long as there were many things to do. He glanced at Bahamut and Noir.

"You must go to Salomon and Issac. I need a blockade formed around the Leviathan World and the Mind Ruler World. No one can leave, and no one can enter. I doubt Jormungandr and Eligos would dare to fight in their conditions, but things could go out of hand if they get a hint of what is happening inside the Heavenly Creator World."

Bahamut and Noir had lived for millions of years, and their wisdom was not mediocre. They could see part of Venganza's strategy.

By sealing the way out of the Leviathan World and Mind Ruler World, Venganza stopped any form of reinforcement to the Heavenly World. And by preventing anyone from entering those worlds, he severed any escape path for Lilet and the other high-ranking Archangels.

Clearly, Venganza wanted to end all inside the Heavenly Creator World and did not want the war to spread across the Prima Universe.

The Dragon Primarch and Spirit Primarch departed from Solaris alongside Kato. However, Ivar remained behind.

Venganza stared at the Magus and saw the fighting intent in his eyes. It was clear that Ivar was unwilling to stay on guard outside the Leviathan World or Mind Ruler World.

"Fine, do as you wish."

The Depravita turned toward Ziru and Apex. "You two will come with me. You will be of assistance to bring the Fallen out of the Heavenly Creator World. If they remain inside when I finish, it is unlike for any of them to survive."

All sorts of questions appeared in the duo, but Venganza did not seem inclined to answer them.

Venganza then turned to the many powerhouses that had gathered here in the hopes of marching toward the Heavenly Creator World and obtaining their revenge.

"I can see the burning desire inside your hearts. You can travel to the Heavenly Creator World, but whether or not you will obtain your revenge will depend on the might of your willpowers and destiny."

"You need to stop thinking about this as a simple war. If I wanted, the Heavenly Creator World would cease to exist this day, but I have bigger plans. The entire world will become a massive lucky chance, and only the best will have access to it. The next time you hear of me will be through the Virtual Dream Universe."

Venganza then looked at Ziru, Apex, and Ivar. "Let's go."

Chapter 743 Rank 8 (I)

The first ones to appear in the void outside the Heavenly Creator World were Venganza and Ziru, followed closely by Ivar and Apex. The Rank 9 trio used their maximum speed to reach here, yet only the Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye matched the Depravita's speed.

However, Venganza's speed did not come as much of a shock for the trio since they already considered him an absolute monster.

Apex, Ziru, and even Ivar adopted solemn expressions as they focused on the world in front of them. The Heavenly Creator World was massive, with a landmass even mightier than the Titan World and filled with secondary dimensions.

The trio did their best, but they could not perceive anything from inside the Heavenly Creator World due to the white Crystal Wall blocking their senses.

A Crystal Wall would always generate some level of interference, but as Rank 9 life forms, Apex, Ziru, and Ivar should be able to see at least part of a Heavenly Creator World's superficial layers. They could not do it this time because of the reinforcement put in place by Lilet and Bael that blocked not only their senses but also any form of incursion.

The reinforced Crystal Wall proved challenging even for Venganza, but instead of using his senses, he chose to explore the Heavenly Creator World using karma. karmic connection with Lilet allowed him to perceive her inside the Heavenly Creator World, and then he used her as a bridge into the karma of all the other members of the Heavenly Race.

"They knew that your Heavenly Slayer Alliance had prepared to attack in the next few days. Lilet must have called back almost every warrior in a Beta Heavenly World. The world's surface is full of magic formations ready to blast all those that march into it."

Apex and Ziru were shocked to hear Venganza's words. There was no doubt in their minds that the Heavenly Race would know of their attack plan. After all, being xenophobic did not mean being stupid. Still, they had no idea how they got hold of their timeline.

"Whether Bael captured one of your spies or implanted a mole in your organization, it doesn't change anything. All those preparations are useless as I never intended to infiltrate the Heavenly Creator World."

Venganza's eyes glowed as he pushed his power to its peak and then made a violet tree's bark armor with purple runes cover his body.

Ziru, Apex, and Ivar were surprised to feel the incredible vitality and force coming from the armor. It grew mightier as this one ignited with multicolor fire resembling an aurora borealis.

Apex and Ivar could endure the heat, but it forced the Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye to move back.

That multicolor fire had the power of every element, working in synergy, making each other stronger.

The Flawless and the Archangel recognized this power because they had encountered it before. It was Eve's bloodline and was now part of Venganza's armor.

As the trio focused on the armor, they understood it was not just an Artifact but a living being. Although the Magus, Fallen, and Supernova found it hard to perceive the entity's soul force, they were sure his cultivation had at least reached Late Rank 8!

Venganza felt an overflowing vitality and energy reach every corner of his being now that Myriad's body fused with his'. Apex, Ivar, and Ziru were strong enough to protect him during his next step, so he closed his eyes and adopted a meditative position in the void.

The three Rank 9 focused on Venganza trying to glimpse what he wanted to achieve when they felt a change into the Virtual Dream Universe.

A similar one happened several decades ago. The trio could feel the Virtual Dream Universe was growing larger and stabler, meaning that the Virtual Dream Path of Power advanced to Late Rank 8.

That sudden rise in Venganza's cultivation came as a surprise, but what happened next completely shocked Apex, Ivar, and Ziru.

"¡BOOM!"

The laws that Venganza had mastered throughout his life were now fusing into a new power that embodied his existence's essence.

Apex, Ivar, and Ziru felt a unique force field emerging from Venganza. It was hard to perceive and seemed to exist in a hidden plane of existence.

"Omega Law!" Ziru uttered those words with a stunned expression.

"He is just now forming his Omega Law and entering Rank 8!?" Apex was as shocked as the Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye. Venganza's aura reached the realm of Rank 9, yet he had not even entered the Beyond the Shackles Rank.

Ivar was more familiar with the Neo-Demon Race's uniqueness and knew they had multiple Paths of Power. Zatiel had entered the Law Realm in his presence without the need to become a Void Creator.

Nevertheless, the Flawless did not take things lightly as he knew that the Omega Law about to be born would be like no other in the Prima Universe and would generate a massive upgrade in Venganza's battle power.

Forming an Omega Law and rising into Rank 8 was a significant bottleneck, much harder than going from the Soul Realm into the Law Realm. Once you achieve it, you evolve into a truly immortal being.

Unlike with the Void Creator Rank, where you would not age because your life force was strong enough to resist the erosion of time, now your existence was part of a cosmic force that did not need a physical vessel to live.

This cosmic force manifested as a force field that, during Rank 8, followed the life form until the physical destruction of this one. It was hard to perceive and even harder to strike.

Chapter 744 Rank 8 (II)

From the beginning, it became clear for Ivar, Apex, and Ziru that Venganza's Omega Law was unique. Instead of a normal one that manifested as an invisible force field, a dark aura emerged from the Depravita's body.

Despite its appearance and the racial heritage of his creator, there was no sense of evilness in that dark aura. It was a force of the universe, apathetic, which did not heed terms like good or bad.

The trio was focusing on the Omega Law, trying to decipher something about it, when this one suddenly expanded with such a speed that they could not dodge it.

Apex, Ivar, and Ziru fell into a trance state, but the first two managed to wake up less than a second later, thanks to their strength.

A sense of shock, wonder, and awe appeared in the faces. The Magus and the Fallen looked at each other and saw they had similar experiences.

Apex saw how Ziru remained in a trance and immediately headed toward this one. He sent his energy and consciousness into the Supernova but did not find a way to wake him without risk.

After some consideration, the Archangel decided to wait since the experiences were not harmful. many years did you spend inside it?" Apex's question to Ivar made no sense since they only remained in the state for less than a second.

However, Ivar's answer clarified that things were not so simple.

"Around eight hundred thousand years. I underwent forty-eight lives before I managed to regain my memories and break out. What about you?"

"A little over nine hundred thousand years. I experienced thirty-two lives."

Ivar nodded toward Apex as he arranged the memories of those lives.

"My first life was in a world that resembled a fairy tale. There were swords and magic, with an extremely simplistic culture, and our enemies were mages that had dominated dark elemental magic."

Apex's eyes narrowed when he heard that and shook his head.

"I experienced a similar world, but that was during my ninth life. It ended after we took down the dark mages. Yours?"

When Ivar heard how Apex surpassed the ninth life, he could not help but frown.

"All my memories were gone, and I considered myself a kingdom citizen. Still, deep down, I felt disgusted by how those rulers behaved. I assume that it was because they were similar to the Gods."

"My life in that world ended after the dark mages took control. They achieved that after I joined them and became their leader."

Ivar and Apex's experiences made it clear that there was no correct way of surpassing those lives. They only needed to advance according to their desires.

The duo kept sharing their experiences. All those lives put them in different scenarios. Some implicated an entire universe, while others were small, involving a single world.

There were times when they would fail to reach the saga's end and die, only for the Omega Law to send them into a new life.

"During most of those lives, I manage to get in contact with the laws. However, I was not just remembering them. I was learning them." Apex mentioned that and saw how Ivar soon understood his point.

"Would that knowledge acquired during that mere second translate into actual power?" Ivar was full of curiosity.

The easiest way to clarify that would be to test their law comprehension, but it would be futile in their case.

Rank 8, or the Beyond the Shackles Rank, presented three stages: Beyond Falsehood, Beyond Limit, and Beyond Redemption.

You needed to form your Omega Law to enter the Beyond Falsehood Stage. At this point, your Prime Structure foundation would become solid enough to go beyond a mere energy design and into a solid structure, exponentially enhancing your energy reserves and power.

After fully solidifying your Prime Structure and reaching Peak Beyond Falsehood Stage, you enter the Beyond Limit Stage. In it, you must decipher the mysteries and rules of your Inner Universe to help you reach the Grand Completion Level in every law in the Prima Universe.

At that point, your Inner Universe would not be different from an actual universe, other than its size.

Since Apex and Ivar were Rank 9 life forms, they understood every single law of the Prima Universe to the Peak Grand Completion Stage, and there was no way to tell whether or not the law comprehension obtained inside those dream worlds returned with them.

"Do you feel something different with your soul?"

Apex's question surprised Ivar, and this one immediately focused on the blue humanoid inside his Inner Universe. At first, there was nothing different, but after a closer look, he noticed it.

"My True Soul and soul force grew stronger!"

The improvement was so small that he barely noticed, but that was not the critical part.

A True Soul and soul force were rigidly bound to the True Soul Path of Power and the Inner Universe. So without advancement in cultivation, it was theoretically impossible to improve it.

Nevertheless, during that second that Venganza's Omega Law sent them into those dream worlds, their cultivation did not improve at all, but their soul force did!

Right now, the improvement was minuscule since they were Immortal Will existences, but what would happen when Venganza reached the Eternal Detachment Rank and his Omega Law evolved.

The duo then turned toward Ziru and felt the changes in this one. The Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye was weaker than Ivar and Apex, so the effect of the Omega Law was stronger.

Although there was no change in Ziru's cultivation, Apex and Ivar were sure that once this one woke up, his enhanced soul force would allow him to finally jump from the Middle Everlasting Stage to the Late level.

Just as Ivar and Apex were assimilating the might of the dark force field, this one expanded again. The duo saw how it formed a cocoon around the Heavenly Creator World, and Venganza's plan for the Heavenly Race became clearer.

Chapter 745 Rank 8 (III)

Usually, an Omega Law could extend for a few million kilometers. Those created by extremely talented individuals like Ivar and Apex manifested as a force field capable of covering a Low World.

However, covering an entire Principal World, one so massive as the Heavenly Creator World, was an impossible feat. Yet, the Fallen and Magus saw it happen right before them.

Ivar and Apex were not worried that the Heavenly Race would notice the dark force. Although the duo could see the Omega Law with their eyes, it was invisible to their consciousness, and while the enhanced Crystal Wall had many advantages, it also blocked Lilet and Bael's vision.

The Omega Law had fully encompassed the Heavenly Creator World and kept growing stronger and denser.

Fourteen hours after the Omega Law came into existence, the Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye finally woke up. Ivar and Apex immediately turned to this one and saw how his aura had become sharper.

"How do you feel?" Apex asked that question as he attempted to get a hold of Ziru's condition. Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye did not respond as his eyes were full of confusion, and it took a long time for him to regain focus.

"Strange, exhausted, stronger." The Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye slowly raised his arm and clenched his fist.

"How long were you there, and how many lives did you experience?" Ivar was curious about Ziru's experience inside those dream worlds.

"Billions of years and too many lives to count." Ziru could not give a better answer as his memories were still in disarray.

Ivar and Apex expected such an answer. Even they had problems recounting every moment of their lives in those dream worlds, and the time they were there was a fraction of Ziru's.

"What woke you up?" Apex wanted to know what stopped those endless reincarnations.

If you fulfilled the saga or perished, you will still be sent into a different world and experience a new life. The duo woke up using their strength, but Ziru took another path.

"I am not sure. I just felt that I became a little more aware of myself in each new life. All the rage and anger that had driven me forward for the last few millions of years no longer guided my thoughts or actions. Those emotions were still there, and I did not lose them, but they were under my control, not the other way around. I freed my mind and soul at that moment, allowing them to experience a sort of evolution and woke up." Ziru still felt odd about those experiences. Every life in those dream worlds felt so incredibly real that it was hard to accept they were just illusions.

The trio focused on Venganza, and their sights were full of awe at the might of his Omega Law. It had yet to show any offensive properties, but it had the strength to surpass the spirit defenses of an Everlasting Stage existence.

Venganza showed no reaction to the trio as he had yet to finalize his evolution into Rank 8, and his aura kept growing stronger.

Days passed, and the dark force covering the Heavenly Creator World grew stronger until finally, on the seventh day, it reached its zenith.

"Billions of years ago, the Heavenly Race was the universe's heroes. The myriad of races in the Prima Universe recognized them as saints, not only due to their formidable strength but due to their kindness and sense of justice. Under the leadership of the Champion of Justice and Order, they reached their prime, with their influence covering the entire universe."

The trio was surprised to hear those words from Venganza and also confused. While the Heavenly Race cared deeply about its people, it was also extraordinarily xenophobic, and it was virtually impossible for them to show kindness to other races.

Venganza saw the confusion in the trio but carried on.

"When the Eldritch Race invaded and threatened to devour the entire Prima Universe, the Heavenly Race became the vanguard. They took the front of the battlefield, sustaining heavy losses, but in doing so, they inspired the entire universe to fight alongside them. Without that unity, we would have lost the war even with the World Tree and Champion of Justice and Order."

Apex frowned as he heard those words. If the Heavenly Race was such a legendary race full of heroes, how did it become a scourge only second to Devils and Demons?

"Unfortunately, no good deed goes unpunished. The Great Old Ones saw the might of the Heavenly Race and understood that they were the pillar that sustained the Prima Universe, so they decided to remove it. They cast a dreadful curse using the essence of the Eldritch Universe's nucleus."

Those words made the trio's attention spike as they were sure they were about to hear one of the great secrets of the Prima Universe.

"That curse would have transformed every member of the Heavenly Race, now and in the future, into sadistic monsters. They would have no problem ripping to pieces their own kind. However, the Champion of Justice and Order managed to interfere."

Venganza made a slight pause as a meaningful light appeared in his eyes. The idea of sacrificing yourself for someone else was something a Depravita could not understand.

"The Champion of Justice and Order could have resisted that curse but instead made sure to devour as much as possible to protect his race. While the Heavenly Race still became deranged, their fraternal love remained. That was not all since the passage of time weakened the curse, and more and more were born free of it."

Ivar and Ziru turned toward Apex, and a sense of enlightenment appeared in their eyes. The Fallen Race were no abnormalities of the Heavenly Race. They were those born pure, free of the Eldritch Curse.

"It is time for the Heavenly Race to die, and a new one, the original one, to be reborn."

Venganza's aura exploded as the power of his Omega Law crossed the Crystal Wall and entered the Heavenly Creator World.

"Destiny Karmic Reincarnation Omega Law!"

Chapter 746 From Angel To Monster

"Destiny Karmic Reincarnation Omega Law!"

Those words did not just echo through the void, as all the life forms inside the Heavenly Creator World also heard them.

The enhanced Crystal Wall endured for a few seconds but could not resist the might of the Omega Law. It returned to its natural state, allowing all the members of the Heavenly Race to see the void.

Lilet, Bael, and two other Rank 9 Archangels were in the world's origin, using its force to recover and improve their might when they heard those words.

The fact that their Crystal Wall returned to its normal state did not surprise them since the energy they had been using to reinforce it had already dried up.

What truly shocked all of them was seeing the dark force field encompassing the entire Heavenly Creator World and how this one crossed the Crystal Wall and, in less than a second, reached the surface.

As soon as the members of the Heavenly Race got in touch with the dark force field, they all entered a comatose state, and the light in their eyes vanished. Only those at the Physical and Soul Realms were affected, Lilet and Bael could have still managed things, but they saw with horror how it even affected Rank 7 and 8 Archangels.

The dark force did not encounter any restriction as the World Consciousness could not perceive it. It did not take long to reach the world's origin.

The two Rank 9 Archangels at the Everlasting Stage could not resist and fell under its power. The Omega Law also sent Bael into the dream world, but just like Apex and Ivar, he was able to wake up in less than a second.

Lilet was the only one in the entire world who did not succumb to the Omega Law, thanks to her powerful soul force.

It forced Bael and Lilet to use a considerable amount of their soul force to stop the Omega Law from achieving its goal. Had they fallen into a coma, like everybody else, they would have no way to resist it.

After stabilizing their condition, Bael and Lilet headed toward the two Rank 9 Archangels and attempted to wake them up, but it was futile. None of them was skilled in soul invasion, and they would most likely destroy the duo's souls if they forced things.

Seeing that they could do nothing inside the Heavenly Creator World, they focused on the void and located the origin of the dark force in a moment.

Lilet's eyes widened, and dread emerged in them as she saw a man with white skin, draconic wings, and stars around his head. How could she forget the one that ripped the wings from her back before destroying her body and soul?

Bael was also terrified. Unlike Lilet, there was no psychological trauma that made him fear Venganza. It was the fact that this one was the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, the strongest life form in the universe.

"What is he after?" Bael could not understand Venganza's goal. If he wanted to kill the Heavenly Race, why not just rally the other Primarchs and attack. What was the point of putting everybody in those strange dream worlds?

Venganza felt the gaze of Lilet and Bael but did not bother with them. He closed his eyes and focused on the Virtual Dream Universe.

"Geniuses from the Prima Universe, heed my words. Those at the Soul Realm and above who think your talents and willpower are enough to rise into the highest stage come to the Heavenly Creator World. The greatest lucky chance awaits you!"

Legacy had already become a neuro center for the Prima Universe, and the information about the lucky chance would reach every world in minutes.

Ivar, Apex, and Ziru also heard the words Venganza pronounced inside the Virtual Dream Universe and were confused. In a war of this level, those at the Soul Realm would only be cannon fodder, and there was no point in having them unless they work in a formation with Void Creators at their core.

"I already told you, this will not be a war. Our enemy will not be an organized army but something else." Venganza made a small pause at that point, and a cold smile appeared on his face as he turned toward a certain Rank 5 life form inside the world.

"The first one."

She was a woman with six wings making her an Angelic Paragon. All of a sudden, her entire body trembled as an eldritch aura emerged from her body. The next second, she began to mutate into a horrible monster.

She resembled a typical Eldritch, but there were also Depravita's characteristics, making her appearance all the more horrifying.

"Oh, there is also one of the others."

Apex, Ivar, and Ziru followed Venganza's sight expecting to see another monster, but what they saw was an Angelic Paragon waking up with a confused expression.

"Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye, come to me," Venganza spoke to Ziru, and this one did not dare to disobey and got closer.

Ziru saw how Venganza put a hand over his shoulder, and the next second, he felt a connection with the recently awakened Angelic Paragon.

"Bring him here."

Teleporting someone from inside a world into the void was not easy, but thanks to the karmic connection formed by Venganza, Ziru brought the Angelic Paragon without effort.

The Angelic Paragon had yet to regain his focus when he was teleported outside the Heavenly Creator World and found himself in the presence of entities whose might could sunder galaxies.

Venganza saw that the Angelic Paragon was not the only one confused, as Ivar, Apex, and Ziru also failed to understand what was happening.

"I am using my Omega Law to make everybody inside the Heavenly Creator World experience multiple reincarnations. It will excite the curse in those that have it, transforming them into mindless monsters. As for those who are Fallen, they will manage to wake up."

Chapter 747 Three Birds With One Stone

The Depravita's attitude and nature made people think of him as someone who only knew how to use strength, but it was clear that his intelligence and wisdom were off the charts. This approach not only crippled the Heavenly Race's organization and any form of war formation, but it also allowed them to save the Fallen without the risk of picking up traitors.

Apex turned toward the Angelic Paragon, who did not know what was happening, and a kind smile appeared on his face. The life of a Fallen in the Heavenly Creator World was incredibly harsh. They could never show their true nature as that would mean death, yet they persevered, doing good deeds from the shadows.

"I will explain everything in due time, little one. I am Apex, and the only thing you need to know right now is that you will never hide what you are again. Be proud of your kindness and ethnic solidarity, as it is what makes our race heroes."

The Angelic Paragon was shocked to hear that. He had no idea who Apex was, but those words made it clear that this one knew his biggest secret.

Venganza did not even glance at the Fallen after rescuing him. He did not care about them, but the Champion of Justice and Order did, and he had promised a long time ago that he would do all in his power to save them. Zatiel Daybreak made that promise, but Venganza would not use technicalities to go around his word. If there was something that the Depravita truly loathed it was hypocrisy, as that was deceiving yourself.

"Ziru, you will stay with me. We will rescue all the Fallen before the Crazy can harm them."

Ziru immediately nodded. While he would want to form part of the battle force, saving the Fallen was much more important.

"The only ones with the curse inside them who managed to endure the power of my Omega Law are Bael and Lilet. It would ruin the lucky chance if they were to start killing the Crazy. Apex and Ivar, you two will head toward the Heavenly Creator World's origin and handle them."

When the Archangel and Magus heard that command, they showed some concern. Both of them were extreme geniuses at the Initial Immortal Will Stage. Still, Lilet was a Primarch, and even if she had yet to recover, her power was not something they could underestimate, especially if they fought inside the Heavenly Creator World.

Of course, the fact that something was hard did not mean they would back down. Ivar was a battle maniac, and Apex was ready to give his life for this mission.

"I have a way to handle the World Consciousness, but it will put tremendous pressure on my soul, restricting my battle power in some measure. It would be preferable if we call for Koren to assist us."

Ivar nodded toward Apex's words. They were not afraid of the battle, but that did not mean they would just jump toward it without preparation. The Eternal Death and Destruction Supernova Eye was weaker than them, but he could help them level things.

However, Venganza did not think that way.

"There is no need to worry about the World Consciousness. You all know that the collective drive of the life forms in the world influences it to a very high degree. Now that 99.9% of them are in the process of becoming crazy monsters, what do you think will happen?"

The trio's eyes widened as they heard that, and once again, Venganza's mind left them in utter shock. His Omega Law would handle the entire Heavenly Race, save the Fallen, and restrain the World Consciousness.

"I will push my Destiny Karmic Reincarnation Omega Law to its peak, paralyzing Bael and Lilet for an instant. I suppose you had already figured out a plan to fight them without involving the entire Heavenly Creator World."

Apex and Ziru looked at each other and nodded before the first one took out a blue orb filled with powerful violet magic matrices.

"We need to make contact with Bael and Lilet. After that, the Space Eternal Cage will transfer us to a dimension inside it, where we can fight without fear of collateral damage."

Ivar nodded toward Apex's words, and as he saw the orb, he had to admit it was an impressive Artifact. It surely was not something easy to obtain.

Venganza focused on the violet magic matrices and was sure En must have something to do with it. Not that it mattered to him.

"As long as the orb is inside the Heavenly Creator World, my Omega Law will affect the space inside it, weakening Bael and Lilet."

Hearing that made a smile appear in Ivar and Apex. The duo closed their eyes and took a deep breath before exploding their auras.

Apex's aura was blue, and in it, one could find a monstrous pride that bowed to no rule and would shatter any form of limitation. As it grew stronger, the Archangel's bloodline power exploded, and two more wings emerged on his back.

Ivar, Ziru, and even Venganza were surprised to see how Apex used his Omega Law to break his bloodline's restrictions, pushing it to the First Order.

"Prepare yourself!" Venganza commanded the duo as his aura grew more and more powerful, to the point blood began to leak from his eyes.

The Archangel and Magus pushed their perception to the limit and focused on the two powerful individuals inside the Heavenly Creator World's origin.

While the discussion on the void seemed to have taken a long time, the truth was that less than a minute had passed since the Destiny Karmic Reincarnation Omega Law invaded the Heavenly Creator World.

Lilet and Bael had just seen how an Angelic Paragon transformed into a monster before another was teleported into the void when the dark force burst with power, freezing their minds for an instant.

When the duo regained consciousness, Ivar and Apex had already appeared before them and touched their bodies. The last thing Bael and Lilet saw was a smile on the Magus and Fallen before a blue orb swallowed them all.

Chapter 748 Realm Of Madness

As soon as the Space Eternal Cage swallowed Ivar, Apex, Bael, and Lilet, it began to shrink until it reached a subatomic level. Not even Rank 9 Spells could affect it there.

Venganza nodded as he saw that Ivar and Apex took care of his plans' most significant threats. Without the Bael and Lilet, Crazies would soon fill the Heavenly Creator World.

A smile appeared on the Depravita's face as he saw more and more members of the Heavenly Race mutate and become horrible monstrosities.

Since, under the command of the higher up, almost every member of the Heavenly Race in an alien world returned to the Heavenly Creator World, the number of Crazies would easily reach the trillions.

Things did not end there, as while the transformation of the members of the Heavenly Race into Crazies shattered their egos and minds, it also exponentially increased their powers.

According to Venganza's calculations, every Crazy should be at least at the Soul Realm, and billions of them would be at the Law Realm. That was an incredible force, but they were fundamentally flawed, as they were uncontrollable, and their life force was in disarray. Even those at the Law Realm that should be immortal would not live for more than one hundred years. every member of the Heavenly Race transformed into Crazies. Some managed to wake up, meaning they were free of the curse.

Venganza would immediately establish a karmic link with them and transfer it to the Infinite Space-Time Supernova Eye for this one to bring the Fallen into the void.

Less than an hour had passed since the Destiny Karmic Reincarnation Omega Law invaded the Heavenly Creator World when life forms began to reach the void close to this one.

The first ones to appear were members of the Dragon Race. Most of them were life forms at Rank 5 and 6 and were led by a Beyond the Shackles existence.

The Rank 8 Dragon made it clear that those youths' background was nothing small. Still, none of them dared to show arrogance, as their elders repeatedly told them that the one attacking the Heavenly Creator World was a life form that could destroy the Dragon World.

A solemn expression appeared in the Rank 8 Dragon as he left the youths behind and approached Venganza. He did not dare to enter the dark force covering the entire Heavenly Creator World and remained at its edge.

"Zarin, of the Dragon Race, humbly greets the Incarnation of Death and Destruction." The Rank 8 Dragon bowed as he shouted those words, and he could not hide his nervousness. Being in the presence of the strongest life form of the Prima Universe generated tremendous psychological pressure.

Venganza merely nodded toward the Rank 8 Dragon.

"If you want to see if you have the qualifications to participate in the Realm of Madness, enter my Omega Law and achieve samsara." Just like that, with a single phrase, Venganza changed the name of the Heavenly Creator World into Realm of Madness, and no one would dare to contradict him.

Zarin's eyes narrowed when he heard that. Bahamut had already informed all the higher-ups of the Dragon Race about Venganza's temperament, so the Rank 8 Dragon knew he needed to be careful.

Venganza stared at the Rank 8 Dragon as this one made those questions. Usually, he would not bother to waste his time on this, but since he promised to create this lucky chance, he would not slack off.

"If you fail to achieve samsara, you will just be sent away. There is no danger to your life. Only those qualified to participate in the Realm of Madness have the right to learn its secrets and gifts." Venganza spoke those words before waving his hand, making flaming letters with the same message appear above him.

Zarin relaxed when he heard that. There was no need for Venganza to lie to them since if this one wanted to harm them, there was nothing the Dragon could do to stop him.

"Go on."

As soon as the young Dragons heard that, they all marched into the dark force. There was no fear and hesitation on their faces, making it clear that all of them had already experienced life and death trials before.

None of them could resist the power of the Omega Law in any way, and they all fell into a trance as soon as they touched it. Zarin was not surprised by that and did not detect any damage in them.

It did not take long for another group to arrive. This time they were Titans. Like the Dragon group, they were Soul Realm youths guided by a Rank 8 life form, but there was also a Void Creator among them.

Although powerhouses usually reserve lucky chances for the younger generation yet to enter the Law Realm, Venganza only states that people had to be at the Soul Realm or above. He never put on a power cap.

Besides, countless Void Creator geniuses in the Prima Universe whose age had yet to enter the ten thousand years were considered extraordinarily young and full of potential.

The Rank 8 Titan nodded toward Zarin before focusing on Venganza and bowing. He saw the words above the Depravita and signaled the youths to march into the Omega Law.

Like the Dragons, the Titans also entered a state of trance after entering the Omega Law and began their journey through countless reincarnations inside the dream worlds.

More and more people reached the void. Some were accompanied by powerful life forms at Rank 8, while others were lone geniuses. No one dared to interfere with anyone attempting to enter the Omega Law since that would surely offend Venganza, and there were easier ways to commit suicide.

Venganza did not pay too much attention to the people arriving and focused on saving the Fallen. However, his eyes narrowed when he saw eight people reach the void.

Heinz, Zitra, Rax, Kylo, Tyrus, Juntu, Totto, and Dante also sought to participate in the Realm of Madness.

Chapter 749 Faces From The Past

The appearance of the Sky Breakers caused an uproar among the people present. Over the last century, although the Neo-Demon Race remained quite active inside Legacy, their presence had evaporated from the Prima Universe.

That did not mean that their reputation had diminished. On the contrary, due to the rise of geniuses among their ranks, including Void Creators who had shown tremendous skills in Legacy Trials and obtained spots in Legacy Orders, they were widely considered the most talented race as a whole.

One of the race's greatest geniuses was Ezequiel Invictus, a new life form of the current generation whose talent was absolute in every sense of the word.

Of course, the main reason behind the popularity and fame was that the Incarnation of Death and Destruction created them. What kind of gifts would a race created by someone with the power to destroy a super universe have?

All the Sky Breakers released a soul force and physical might that made it clear they were Rank 7 life forms. The powerful energy inside their bodies and that they were all at the Seed Stage made it clear none evolved to the Law Realm using a Supernova Seed with less than seven hundred and seventy-nine revolutions.

Heinz and the others did not neglect their cultivation despite not being able to leave the Neo-Demon Realm. They took full advantage of the Virtual Dream Universe and Legacy to train their laws, and thanks to the massive numbers of worlds the Neo-Demon Race had conquered, resources were not a their evolution in the True Soul Path of Power and True Doomsday Body Path of Power, Hades manipulated the energy of the Neo-Demon Realm to improve their foundations to a shocking level.

While the effect was not as good as the energy of a newly destroyed Principal World, only Neo-Demons like Zatiel and Ezequiel with monstrous physical foundations could take full advantage of that, so it did not make a difference for the Sky Breakers.

The Sky Breakers' most shocking and amazing quality that surprised even the Beyond the Shackles' existences were not their bodies or souls but the silver fire in their eyes and the white robes covering their backs.

Each of those robes had different characters engraved in them, but they all unleashed a powerful intent.

Heinz, Zittra, Totto, Juntu, Tyrus, Dante, Kylo, and Rax fully harmonized with a Concept and evolved their willpowers to a level where they could fully interact with the universe.

The eight Sky Breakers manage to evolve their True Will Path of Power to the Sun Collapser Rank, making the golden humanoid inside their Inner Universes a Rank 8 entity.

Venganza showed nothing as he saw them. The Depravita was incapable of caring for them, but a flash of light crossed his eyes, and a tender smile appeared on his face for a second before disa Heinz, Zittra, Dante, and the others smile back when they see that. They knew the responsible for that smile was no other Primordial Body Incarnation.

Venganza frowned for a moment but did not bother anymore and closed his eyes, entirely focusing on the Crazies and Fallen inside the Realm of Madness.

If the Sky Breakers wanted to participate in the Realm of Madness, they would have to take the trial like everybody. That was something the Primordial Body Incarnation did not have a problem with.

The arrival of the Sky Breakers seemed to have triggered something in their original world since a few seconds after they reached the void, many geniuses of the Magi World appeared.

Three men with strikingly similar appearances arrive in the void. No one was escorting them, but there was no need for that since the one at the center was a Peak Rank 7 life form whose aura made even some Rank 8 life forms grow nervous.

Not a moment later, another man appeared. This one had a more rough appearance but what really drew attention was his monstrous physical might and vitality, which made even the Titans present admit it surpassed that of their Law Bloodline.

The Forefather of the Astral Fiend Race, Roku.

Next came a young man with a shockingly powerful bloodline force that seemed to affect even the void. He had a powerful body covered in bark armor and three bloodline eyes.

Gwyn, the Prima Holy Son.

Heinz focused on the trio from the Scientia Kingdom, Roku, and Gwyn, before clasping his hands and performing a small bow toward them. Even if he no longer saw the Magi World as his home, it was still the place that saw his birth, so he was glad to see so many geniuses from it appear.

Gwyn, Roku, John Erick, Gabriel, and Dean all returned the courtesy to Heinz and the Sky Breakers. In the past, they all had encounters with either Zatiel Daybreak or Ezequiel Invictus, so their relationship with the Neo-Demon Race could be considered very good.

The Sky Breakers and the group from the Magi World were about to charge into the Omega Law when they detected a wave in space and saw someone else appear.

A handsome man with a prideful aura and nine wings on his back arrived. Everybody recognized the one holding the N° 1 position in the Rank 7 Offensive Might Trial of Legacy.

Fallen Archangel Nero.

Nero felt the eyes focused on him. He nodded at the Sky Breakers but ignored the others.

Unlike the geniuses coming for the lucky chance, Nero had prepared for war where one side would obtain victory and the other faced extinction. No wonder his aura was so sharp and full of killing intent.

No one considered Nero's behavior rude, as there was no room for warmful conversations at this moment. They were sure that the Realm of Madness was a massive lucky chance, but its danger was certainly equally great.

Venganza was not the caring type. None expected this one to save them, and they could lose their lives.

The Sky Breakers, geniuses from the Magi World, and the Fallen Archangel marched into the Omega Law full of determination.

Chapter 750 Winners And Losers

< More and more people arrived from every corner of the Prima Universe to the void outside the Realm of Madness. Many of them were geniuses considered the core of the universe's next generation, so it was no wonder that even Issac and Salomon focused on the Omega Law containing them.

The Magus Primarch stood alongside Bahamut and many other powerhouses outside the Leviathan World. They have entirely sealed space-time in the void around the world, making it impossible for anyone to enter or leave.

Even the Leviathan Primarch could not exit the world without Issac detecting him. Of course, Jormungandr could forcefully break the seal in space given enough time, but he would have to leave the Leviathan World and face the Magus Primarch in the void.

Issac had always been stronger than Jormungandr. Since the latter had yet to recover from having his body and soul destroyed by the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, the fight's outcome was obvious.

Like Issac did with the Leviathan World, Salomon and other powerhouses from the Immortal Alliance sealed the space-time around the Mind Ruler World.

Salomon and Noir stood in the void and focused on the massive fist print on the world's surface.

The Crystal Wall had managed to heal over the last few centuries, but the fist print left by the Incarnation of Death and Destruction remained there. A force around it made it practically impossible for anyone without Extreme Rank 9 battle power to interfere with it. could not decipher anything from the fist print, but the Immortal Primarch was different.

Salomon had already evolved two Cores of Existence into Rank 10, his energy and body, and he was now in the process of pushing his soul beyond Rank 9 as well.

He had yet to reach that level, but his cognitive ability became strong enough to understand the nature of the force that managed to overwhelm a Principal World's defenses with a single strike.

Venganza had used the power of the Incarnation of Death and Destruction's Unity Truth to perform that attack over the Mind Ruler World.

'The evolution of an Omega Law.' That was the first thought that came to Salomon's head as he perceived the force in the fist print.

That was a crude observation and could not describe the full might of a Truth. Nevertheless, Venganza, the Flame Imperator, and the King in Yellow would be surprised to know that Salomon managed to arrive at that conclusion.

The Immortal Primarch's perception was beyond monstrous, which made sense since he figured out the path into Extreme Rank 9 alone.

Salomon could not control the awe that filled his heart as he focused on the distance and saw the dark force that emerged from Venganza.

If the Incarnation of Death and Destruction transformed his Absolute Unity Omega Law into this power, what would Venganza obtain once he evolved that cosmic force?

Hours passed, and the number of people inside the Omega Law surrounding the Realm of Madness reached the millions. While that number might seem high, considering that a single High World could easily contain more than a trillion life forms, it was nothing.

All those coming here were geniuses with great confidence in their power and talent.

Venganza's concentration was solely on rescuing the Fallen and ensuring the conversion of the Crazyies.

However, his eyes narrowed as he saw how one member of the Dragon Race that arrived with the first group began to tremble.

The Rank 8 Dragon that brought that group here also saw the changes in the young man and became anxious when he detected that the soul force and life force of this one began to dry up.

Luckily, before any actual damage could happen, the Omega Law expelled the youth toward the void, where the Rank 8 Drago quickly picked him up.

The Beyond the Shackles Dragon relaxed when he saw the youth waking up. Other than confusion, there was nothing wrong with the young Dragon.

"Hmph." Venganza only sneered and did not offer any explanation to the Rank 8 Dragon or anyone else.

The Destiny Karmic Samsara Omega Law allowed you to experience many worlds and countless lives. Each of them had a different path you could take, granting new experiences and allowing you to forge yourself.

Winning or losing in those dream worlds did not matter. After all, a defeat could teach you even more than a victory.

Nevertheless, if your willpower was too weak and you lost the drive to move forward, you would enter a death spiral, where the Omega Law will devour your existence.

The Destiny Karmic Samsara Omega Law did not care if you were good or evil. As long as you remain true to yourself, your soul and mind will undergo samsara, exponentially enhancing your talent.

Allowing the Omega Law to devour those who failed to undergo samsara would have significantly benefited the cosmic force. Venganza had no problem with that, but the Primordial Body Incarnation vehemently refused.

Killing so many geniuses would have caused a lot of trouble, so Venganza chose not to go that path and accepted to expel the one that could not endure the might of the Destiny Karmic Reincarnation Omega Law.

It did not take long before another member of the Dragon Race began to tremble, and the Omega Law expelled him, and then a third.

Just as everybody thought that the Omega Law would expel all the Dragons that arrived in the first group, one of them woke up.

She was a Rank 6 life form, and as soon as she opened her eyes, everybody felt the sudden burst in her soul force and how the laws entered a frenzied state around her due to the sudden appearance of many new Origin Essences inside her Inner Law Dimension.

The Dragon woman's name was Myka, and she could not contain the excitement inside her heart. Although she could be considered talented, her hard work qualified her to be in this group, not her natural gifts.

However, all that changed after the Destiny Karmic Rebirth Omega Law allowed her to experience samsara. She was now by far the most gifted in the group that came with her.

"Once all the cursed members of the Heavenly Race have transformed into Crazies, I will allow you to enter the Realm of Madness. Until then, use this time to enhance your cultivation."
