

Accidental love II

Chapter 19 Pressed on Her

Janice, who was good at observing others, immediately reacted. She was talking about divorce in front of Marcus! It was normal that she felt unhappy. Moreover, he felt more or less inferior. So he would be more sensitive to such things.

“I’m kidding! You just pretend that I haven’t said anything.”

After speaking, she forced a smile. The expression on her face was a little unnatural.

“Don’t make this kind of joke casually.”

“Got it.”

She felt more and more that Marcus was a person with changeable emotions. He felt like a spring breeze in the first second, but then showed a domineering and ruthless appearance in the next instant.

It seemed that Chloe was right. She couldn’t irritate Marcus at will!

After dinner, Janice pushed Marcus back to the bedroom, and then went straight to the bathroom to turn on the bath water.

Even if they were already legal couples, she would still feel inexplicably embarrassed if she had to face a naked man.

After spending a long time in the bathroom, she finally summoned the courage to walk outside and said softly, “The bath water is ready.”

“Thank you.” Marcus responded warmly.

She pushed the wheelchair to the bathtub, and was about to help him take off his clothes. But she saw him start to unbutton his coat skillfully.

Unexpectedly, this handsome strip show was very attractive!

His bare muscles were just right. His brown-colored skin radiated a golden halo under the light. He was so sexy.

Janice was stunned by the scene in front of her. Her heart beat wildly.

When she recovered, Marcus had already supported his own body with his arms and sat in the bathtub smoothly.

“Help me get a towel.”

“Okay.”

In the process of helping Marcus take a bath, the blush on Janice’s cheeks never faded.

In fact, it couldn’t be blamed that she was too shy. Even when she was in love with Ryan, she had never seen his naked body.

On the contrary, Marcus let her touch his body. Occasionally, he would talk a few words on his own initiative, without feeling the slightest embarrassment.

After taking a shower, he still chose to go to the study to read for a while as usual. He turned the wheelchair with both hands, and quickly disappeared from her sight.

Janice climbed onto the soft bed, recalling the blushing heartbeat scene in the bathroom. Then a question came to her mind instantly. Others always thought that Marcus was weak, sick and thin. But after he took off his clothes, he didn’t look as thin as expected.

Her knowledge of men was very limited. She lay in bed for a long time without figuring it out, and then she finally fell asleep in a daze.

Late at night.

The room was completely dark because the lights were not turned on.

The moonlight outside the window was bright and swayed inside. Through the dim light, it could be vaguely seen that the door was gently pushed open. A tall and vigorous figure sneaked in silently...

Perhaps because of a tiring day, Janice climbed onto the bed very early, closed her eyes, and soon fell into a deep sleep.

When she fell asleep, she suddenly dreamed of a huge boulder to hit her chest, which made her unable to breathe.