

A Cue for Love Chapter 896 Read Online

Chapter 896 Cooperation Part Two

Anna had confidence in herself. However, after hearing Natalie's evaluation of herself, she smiled.

"Thank you, thank you," Anna murmured, "If it weren't for you, there wouldn't be a new Anna, a new Muse. You also made me understand that designing isn't just about talent. More importantly, you made me realize that designing is the true love of my life!"

Natalie saw the flames of hope rekindling in Anna's eyes and was happy about her transformation.

The two continued to discuss the design of 'Rebirth' in detail.

"Have you thought of the gemstones to use on the pendant of 'Rebirth'?"

"Yes." Anna nodded with a hint of embarrassment on her face. "I want to use the thunderstone specially available in the west for the pendant. "I won't be using large thunderstones. It's mainly a mosaic of them. "Although the thunderstone isn't a rare mineral, the mining rights of the thunderstone are owned by Amos from the Stone family.

"If he disagrees, we won't be able to use even the tiniest fragments of thunderstone. I have also been thinking of alternative gemstones that can replace the thunderstone for the past two days."

Natalie was able to understand the reason behind Anna to prefer the thunderstone.

Firstly, the thunderstone was more cost-effective than other gemstones. Secondly, thunderstones had a higher luminosity than other gemstones, and they would have a more rejuvenating lucidity of Rebirth when made into an actual product.

The reason why Anna had difficulty choosing an alternative was because of these two advantages of the thunderstone. It was rare for any other gemstone to have both benefits simultaneously.

After pondering for a moment, Natalie said, "Your design is perfect. I will need you to follow up with the jewelry craftsman during production. As for the gemstone, I will find a way. The Stone family holds one-third of Loang's mining rights. Not just for the 'Rebirth' series, for Dream Jewelry to grow in the future, it only makes sense to cooperate with them."

"But, the Stone family—" Anna suddenly stopped.

“You mean to say that Amos is the fiancé of the daughter of Farrington Jewelry?”

“Well, I believe you will use the name Muse in your early advertising,” Anna bit her lip and said, “Farrington Jewelry also came to me and offered me the position as their chief designer two years ago, but I rejected it. The person who looked for me was the daughter of Farrington Jewelry’s owner, Amos’s fiancée, Olivia Jones.”

After hearing Anna out, Natalie seemed to have understood her concerns.

She thought she would only have to worry about Amos. However, Anna had some history with Amos and his fiancée, Olivia.

“I see.” Natalie reassured Anna and said, “This is the design of your first comeback. You may focus on refining the details and leave the rest to me.”

“Okay.”

After sending Anna off, Natalie massaged her temple.

She had plans to have business relations with the Stone family, but Anna’s designs made it so that she had to negotiate the cooperation with the Stone family sooner.

Natalie picked up the phone on her desk and called Yandel.

“Yandel, I want you to make an appointment with someone for me. I want to cooperate with him in the future.”

“Sure thing. Who will it be?”

“Amos Stone.”

“Him?” Yandel was slightly taken aback.

“What’s wrong?” Natalie asked. “Do you know each other?”

“Yes.”

Hearing Yandel’s muffled response, Natalie guessed that Yandel and Amos knew each other, and it might not be a good idea for Yandel to propose the cooperation.

“Just make the appointment for me. I’ll talk to him about the cooperation myself.”

“Understood.”

At first, Natalie thought that the most challenging part of this cooperation would come during her meeting with Amos. She didn't expect it to be so challenging for her even to meet Amos.

After communicating for three days, there was still no response from Amos.

Natalie couldn't wait any longer.

"It's not ideal for us to keep waiting for Amos like this," Natalie said, "Yandel, we must take the initiative. Send someone to investigate Amos's whereabouts. I must meet him no matter what."

A Cue for Love Chapter 897 Read Online

Chapter 897 The Hunter And The Prey Part One

Three days later.

Natalie and Yandel disguised themselves and went to a luxurious banquet.

"Yandel, are you sure Amos will be here? Natalie tugged the rabbit ear costume on her head and asked discreetly.

"I'm sure." Yandel nodded. "This is Olivia's younger brother, Jerry Jone's birthday party. Even if Amos and Olivia are putting up an act, the Stone family should still be there as a courtesy. Therefore, Amos will definitely be here tonight. However—"

As he spoke, Yandel looked at Natalie's outfit and gulped.

"Boss, you're really sacrificing a lot for this negotiation."

Natalie's eyes were shining, and there was no makeup on her face. However, she looked natural and didn't need makeup to accentuate anything at all.

Her facial features were already beautiful enough. Now that she was dressed as a bunny girl with cute bunny ears, her pure appearance looked partially flirtatious.

If it weren't because he had no feeling for Natalie, Yandel would have fallen for her as well.

Natalie glared at Yandel and said, "Watch your mouth. Otherwise, I will puncture your vocal cords."

Yandel was immediately rendered speechless.

“Yandel, did you do it on purpose?” Natalie said irritably, “There are so many different roles in the banquet hall. Why do I have to wear such an embarrassing outfit?”

“Not really.” Yandel made a gesture of swearing and said, “What about me? Look at my shirt. The chest and waist area are so tight, and the fabric is transparent. I didn’t plan for this, but the other roles are fully taken. We can only choose the roles that are left.”

“Fine.”

Natalie covered her face and sighed.

At that moment, all she could think of was to meet Amos and look for an opportunity to cooperate with him.

Yandel was also well aware that Natalie’s bunny girl outfit was vulnerable. Therefore, he stayed close to Natalie to protect her even if he might end up meeting Amos in person.

But at that moment, a gorgeous and seductive woman in her twenties staggered toward Yandel with a glass of wine in her hand.

“Hey, handsome.” Right when the woman said the words, she accidentally splashed her wine on Yandel’s chest.

Yandel’s already translucent shirt was made even more transparent by the liquid in an instant.

“I’m sorry—”

Amy wanted to put her hand on Yandel’s chest, but Yandel grabbed her wrist.

“It’s okay.” Yandel forced himself to squeeze the words out of his teeth.

“Your clothes are wet. May I help you?” Amy asked persistently.

“No.”

Amy was discouraged by the rejection. She looked at Yandel and suddenly turned into a cold expression. “Know your place.”

Before Yandel arrived, he did a background check on everyone who attended the party. Those who came were from the upper class of Loang, such as Amy. Her grandmother was a royal princess, and her father was a diplomat. She was also Olivia’s best friend.

Natalie’s research wasn’t as thorough as Yandel’s, but she could see that Amy was no ordinary woman.

She winked at Yandel, hinting at him not to be so indifferent.

Yandel caught her signal, but he was hesitant. He wouldn't be able to follow Natalie around if he were to entertain Amy.

"I'm fine by myself."

Natalie frowned and assured him silently with her lips.

Looking at his boss's persistence, Yandel could only comply. He turned into his usual smooth-talking persona, whispered something in Amy's ear, and took a giggling Amy away.

Natalie had seen Amos's face in a photo before. While carrying her plate, she constantly glanced around the party in search of the latter.

However, little did she know that the prey she was looking for was watching her every move not far away.

A Cue for Love Chapter 898 Read Online

Chapter 898 The Hunter And The Prey Part Two

Amos looked at the woman in the bunny suit while holding his wine.

"Interesting."

Initially, he thought that the party at the Jones family would be boring. He certainly did not expect to bump into the same girl that he had seen gambling against the man in Fullmoon.

The last time, she was stunning-looking. After donning the bunny suit, she was even more mesmerizing than before.

Amos was preying on the desirable Natalie. At the same time, so were the other men from the high society.

"I want a glass of wine..."

"Sure."

Looking at the pleasant-looking man whose eyes were filled with lust for her, Natalie sprinkled the drug into his wine before giving it to him.

All of the man's attention was on Natalie's face. Hence, he did not notice what she was doing.

Thinking that he was a rake, he gave Natalie's soft hands a pinch as he accepted the beverage. He even smiled wickedly and said, "Haha! I can't believe that there is such an exquisite creature at the Jones family's party."

Although it was only a light pinch, it still gave Natalie goosebumps.

The man gulped down his wine in one go.

Just as he was about to give the glass to Natalie and tease her again, he stood up, and an extremely loud fart came out of him.

A quiet fart might be smelly, but at least, no one would know who the culprit was. However, such a deafening fart in the midst of a party would be hard to miss.

Right there and then, the man blushed.

His stomach felt fine. However, for some reason, he was unable to hold the farts in. After that, he lost all interest in Natalie.

Natalie chuckled and looked at the man in disdain.

He wanted to pretend like nothing had happened and continued to tease Natalie. Just then, the farts kept on coming one after another.

That was a high society party after all!

His incessant farts started to attract strange looks from others. He had no choice but to put his hands over his bottoms and get out of there.

Natalie retracted her gaze and smiled icily. It's not impossible to trick me, but it won't be this easy!

Amos saw the entire episode, and that sparked more interest in Natalie.

That Marc Zander was a man of status in Loang. Yet, he had been taken care of by that harmless-looking woman.

There were not that many beautiful women in the world. To be both beautiful and intelligent was even rarer.

That woman had way surpassed his imagination.

It seemed that he would have to make his move before other men made theirs.

Meanwhile, Natalie had no idea that she was being observed. She was still looking for Amos.

All of a sudden, she heard a man's deep voice coming from behind her. "Are you looking for something?"

Natalie could feel the warm breaths of the man behind her ears. She turned around and saw her target for the night — Amos.

"I was looking for you."

Natalie took the initiative to distance herself from Amos.

When Amos heard that, he raised his brows. He had always been the one who treated women like prey, never the other way around.

"Looking for me?" With his eyes on Natalie's gorgeous face, Amos smiled and said, "Are you in such a hurry to get into my bed?"

Natalie knew that Amos saw her as a woman who was seeking instant benefits.

Instead of getting angry, she smiled. "I'm sure that between a man and a woman, we don't have to only keep our game to the bed. The negotiation table and the business world will do too. The bed will be the most primitive and also the lowest class of all. I'm sure with a brain like yours, Mr. Stone, you will definitely pick a better place."

Amos asked in return, "What do you want to talk about?"

"For example, we can collaborate on the mines in the western areas." Confidence and determination shone in Natalie's eyes. "I believe that if you give me this opportunity, it will be a win-win situation for both of us."

A Cue for Love Chapter 899 Read Online

Chapter 899 The Hunter And The Prey Part Three

There was disbelief in the way Amos was looking at Natalie.

He had thought that Natalie was one of those women who wanted an easy life by using their beauty. He did not expect her to be even more ambitious.

"Which company are you from?" asked Amos as he held his wine glass while interest filled his devilish eyes.

"Dream Corporation."

"That well-known company in Chanaea that has just moved their business to Loang?" Amos asked, "Are you the director of the Public Relations Department? Or the CEO secretary of Yandel? Once I am done discussing the deal with Dream, I want you to join my company.”

“I’m sorry, but I’m not interested in doing that,” Natalie rejected him outrightly.

“You haven’t heard of my terms and conditions. How can you be so sure that you won’t be joining me?”

“No matter how good the benefits are, I won’t change my mind.” Natalie glanced around the noisy and chaotic surroundings before saying slowly, “Mr. Stone, my apologies. I have forgotten to introduce myself. My name is Natalie. I’m the Chairwoman of Dream Corporation. I come all the way here to meet you because I wasn’t able to fix an appointment with you. That’s why I have no choice but to resort to such a method.”

The moment Natalie finished talking, Amos was in shock.

She’s only in her early twenties?

She looks like she has only just graduated from the university.

How come someone as young as she is can lead Dream Corporation as its Chairwoman?

Everything about her had far exceeded Amos’ expectations, and that made him even more interested in her.

“I will get an assistant to arrange for a time when we are both available to discuss about our collaboration.” Amos smiled before saying, “Why don’t we have a drink first?”

“Sure.”

Natalie raised up her glass and clinked it with Amos before drinking.

“Here’s to a fruitful collaboration.”

Amos nodded. “Of course.”

Meanwhile, from a distance, there was a woman wearing a white dress, and she was staring at the intimate interaction between Amos and the woman in the bunny suit. Her eyes were blazing with fury.

“He’s my fiancé.” Olivia held her wine glass and ground her teeth so hard they almost broke. “Does that woman think this is an indecent place?”

Seeing that his sister was getting angry, Jerry said, “Olivia, don’t be mad. If you want to go to Amos, go on. Today is my birthday after all. I’m sure Amos will do me this favor.”

Olivia found it reasonable and nodded. "Okay."

When the eighteen-year-old Jerry saw his sister walk away infuriated, he could not help but sigh.

Everyone knew that Amos was a playboy and had plenty of rumors about him. Between the Jones family and the Stone family, it was a marriage of convenience. To Amos, their marriage was only part of the charade. However, to Olivia, she treated Amos as if he was really her husband.

Olivia had always been very dignified and elegant in all matters. Unfortunately, when it came to Amos' philandering ways, she became a completely different person.

Olivia went to look for Amos. True enough, both of them left the woman in the bunny suit.

Jerry put down his glass of wine and followed suit.

When Natalie saw Amos and Olivia leaving, she was about to send Yandel a message before taking her leave.

Before she could take out her phone, she saw the birthday boy blocking her way off.

"You-"

"Come over here." Jerry grabbed Natalie's arm and pulled her outside.

Everyone knew that Jerry was the only son in the Jones family, and he was also the most precious grandchild. As the sole heir of the Jones family, nobody dared to offend Jerry in the whole of Yaleview. Therefore, everyone thought that he was making a move on Natalie. Nobody cared about her safety at all.

"What are you doing?"

By the time Natalie reacted, Jerry had already dragged her to the balcony.