

A Cue for Love Chapter 912

Chapter 912 Sharpness Part Three

On the other side.

Amos was still giving Natalie a tour around.

He kept his gaze on her since the beginning. However, he noticed that she rarely glanced over at him. Instead, her attention was on how Stone Corporation operated. It was as if she wasn't interested in him at all.

There was never a lacking of women around the man, let alone their admiration for him. Nonetheless, this woman before him was indeed unbelievable. Besides thinking of the collaboration with him, she didn't seem to harbor any other thought regarding him.

Disappointment filled his heart upon realizing this, but he also felt a burning desire to dominate her.

I'd be filled with ecstasy if I manage to make her only think about me all the time.

"It must be tiring to lead a company like Dream at such a young age, right?" he asked.

"It's all right." She turned to look at Amos before continuing, "Since I decided to do it, I wouldn't think about how tired I was, or how difficult a problem is. The most important thing is how I should take each step, isn't it?"

"You don't seem like a businesswoman at all."

"Who else can I be if not a businesswoman?" Natalie replied. "I am a businesswoman who adhere to principles."

It didn't matter if one were a businessman or a mere human. Both would need a bottom line no matter what.

However, as time continued to pass, humans seemed to have forgotten their bottom lines, especially businessmen.

"Has anyone told you that you have a unique mind?" A smile appeared on his face without him even knowing.

"There are more people who say that I rebel against the convention." She looked away and mumbled, "But I don't care about what others say about me. I only care about feelings of my own and the people I care about."

The man wanted to continue talking, but his phone suddenly rang.

“I have to take a call.”

“Okay.”

He walked over to a corner before answering the call, while Natalie leaned against the wall behind her and stretched her body.

The discussion with Amos went better than she had expected. Her heart was filled with excitement at the thought of being able to secure a contract almost immediately, and that Dream Jewelry and Anna’s hard work was finally going to be introduced to the world.

It had only been half a month, but they had successfully taken their first step.

However, just as Natalie had finally gotten her body to relax, a woman in a white blouse walked over to her angrily while keeping a pair of furious eyes on her.

“You? It was you? You attended my brother’s party in such a seductive dress yesterday, and now you’re here?” Olivia scolded as she pointed at the latter. “You homewrecker! You’re really persistent, aren’t you?”

Natalie was feeling fine at first. However, after getting scolded out of nowhere, her eyes instantly turned cold.

Why is it Olivia again?

“Please show some respect, Ms. Jones,” she said as she straightened her back. Turning toward, Olivia, she added, “We’re in a public area of a workplace. Don’t forget that you’re the future wife of the CEO, too.”

“Are you saying that I’m not worthy of being the wife of a CEO?”

“It seems that you have problems understanding people.”

Natalie didn’t want to try and reason with such a jealous woman. Even a smart woman would turn dumb due to jealousy. She knew very well that she hadn’t done anything that would make people misunderstand, so she didn’t feel the need to explain things.

Once she was finished speaking, she turned to leave. Yet, Olivia stepped in front of her to block her way.

“We’re not done talking. Where do you think you’re going?” She opened her arms and looked at Natalie with taunting eyes. “You already have a sponsor behind you. Why are you still pestering my fiancé and my brother?”

“Sponsor?” Natalie repeated with a frown. What sponsor? Why don’t I know about it?

“Stop acting dumb,” Olivia said while glaring at her.

The former was quite speechless for having to get scolded when she did nothing. She was starting to get a headache when the latter suddenly had a change in her expression. She looked like she wanted to kill someone earlier, but she suddenly acted meekly.

Natalie was still confused about what was happening when suddenly, Olivia took a few steps back and threw herself on the ground.

A Cue for Love Chapter 913

Chapter 913 Sharpness Part Four

Olivia fell pretty hard.

When it happened, her fragile high-heels were shattered, and her slender ankle was instantly swollen to the size of a bun.

“Ouch!” It was so painful to her that she took in a deep breath exasperatedly. “Why? I didn’t do anything wrong! Why are you treating me like this?”

A set of footsteps was heard approaching her from behind before Amos’ voice rang out. “What’s wrong? What happened?”

Suddenly, a cold look flashed across Natalie’s eyes.

She knew what was really going on.

Undoubtedly, the reason Olivia changed her demeanor and expression so quickly was that she saw Amos approaching them. She wanted to frame Natalie. Natalie thought Olivia, as the daughter of the respected Jones family, would pull higher-level tricks instead of a cheap one. It seems like I really overestimated Olivia!

Amos saw Olivia as nothing more than a pawn in a marriage of convenience between two rich families, so he didn’t really have any feelings for her. Still, he helped her up out of courtesy. “Are you all right?”

Olivia gently bit her lip while she stood up wobbly with tears in her eyes. “My leg’s hurt... I don’t think I can walk.”

"I'll ask someone to send you to the hospital." He was thoughtful, but it was obvious he didn't care much about her.

"Ammy." Olivia pulled the edge of Amos' shirt and uttered, "S-She's the one who pushed me! She said I don't have the right to be your fiancée, and that I can't possibly be your wife..." Tears began streaming down her beautiful face.

However, tried as she might, she could never take the spotlight away from Natalie.

Amos slowly moved his gaze toward Natalie. She looked back at him with a cold gaze, as though she was an outsider.

That look made him shift his balance.

She never had any interest in him. If she really wanted to seduce him, she could've pulled it off easily with her intellect yesterday, but she didn't.

It was never in her nature to perform such a cheap trick.

"Treating your leg is more important right now." He avoided Olivia's question.

"Ammy?" Olivia stared at Amos in disbelief. He knew what she was doing, but he simply didn't want to expose it. On the other hand, she perceived his inaction as protecting Natalie.

"We'll talk more about it after your leg has recovered," he uttered in a deep voice.

"But she..." Olivia turned her line of sight to Natalie. "She hurt me. Aren't you supposed to do something as my fiancé?"

Her intentions were clear.

She wanted Natalie to be punished.

Natalie sighed resignedly in her heart. Olivia really is just trying to ignore the protection he's offering, huh? He's trying to defend her dignity, yet she seems so eager to throw that protection away. Well, if she wants to frame me so badly, I guess I'll have to fight back.

"Just because you said I hurt you doesn't mean it's what really happened, Ms. Jones." She smiled. It was faint but beautiful.

"What do you mean by that? Are you saying I'm lying right now?" Olivia raised her voice. "Ammy saw you pushing me! It's an undeniable fact that you pushed me to the ground!"

“What about the surveillance cameras?” Natalie raised her chin slightly, signaling Olivia to take a look at the surveillance cameras behind her. “I think you were so focused on Mr. Stone that you forgot to pay attention to the surveillance cameras. Once we check the footage, we’ll know if I did push you or not.”

The moment she finished speaking, Olivia turned around and saw the surveillance cameras behind her. Her face became pale immediately. How could this happen? I thought I acted flawlessly in front of Amos earlier, but now it seems my lie is about to get exposed!

The more meticulous her act was, the more embarrassed she felt at that moment.

Natalie stepped toward her and blinked. “Now that I’ve mentioned the surveillance cameras, do you remember how you fall down now, Ms. Jones?”

A Cue for Love Chapter 914

Chapter 914 Sharpness Part Five

“I...” Olivia’s lips trembled. Her initially arrogant expression had turned into a mix of embarrassment and anxiety. “Perhaps... Perhaps I’ve been having a lot of overtime lately, Ammy. That’s why my body felt a little weak. I’m in a daze earlier and may have misunderstood that this lady is the one who pushed me.”

She attempted to explain herself as she looked at Amos anxiously because she was afraid he might notice her embarrassing act. More importantly, she was afraid he would think she was a shrewd woman.

Natalie pursed her lips while staring at the flinching Olivia.

“Work is important, but health is more important, Ms. Jones. When you can’t tell if fell because of yourself or someone else, then your body’s health may be in greater danger than you think.” She smiled and shifted her gaze to Amos. “When you bring your fiancée to treat her leg later, I suggest you also give her a full-body examination, Mr. Stone.”

Olivia furrowed her eyebrows in hatred. She very much wanted to strangle Natalie, but she couldn’t act inappropriately in front of Amos, so all she could do was grit her teeth in wrath.

“Mhm.” Amos nodded.

“Since your fiancée needs to be taken care of, I think it’ll be for the best if you send the contract to me after your legal department examined it.” Natalie bowed at him slightly and smiled. “I’ll be leaving now.”

She then spun around and left.

As he stared at her back, his eyebrows subconsciously furrowed. This woman's not just easy on the eyes. She's also smart, mischievous, and even a little alluring when she was making fun of Olivia earlier.

He never thought that badly about Olivia before. However, ever since Natalie showed up, he had found Olivia to be uninteresting.

When Olivia noticed her fiancé was still in a daze, she uttered, "Ammy?"

"What's wrong?"

"My leg is very painful right now!" She wasn't acting at that moment. She was genuinely in pain.

It was making her very angry that she failed to frame Natalie and even caused herself to be humiliated. However, the pain coming from her ankle was so great that tears were falling uncontrollably from her eyes.

"I'll get Terry to send you to the hospital," Amos informed plainly.

"Why aren't you the one sending me to the hospital?" Olivia was very unhappy. "You're my fiancé, Amos. How can you let your subordinate accompany me there when my leg's badly hurt?"

"This is your own fault, isn't it?" The edge of his lips curved upward mockingly.

She was speechless. "I..."

"I tried to protect your dignity because you're my fiancée." He stroked his lips in a sinister manner as his eyebrows furrowed slightly. "I didn't expect you to be so conceited to think you can frame that woman..."

Her pupils constricted as her heart ached.

His words made her feel like a clown.

"How can you say that about me? I'm your fiancée!" Olivia supported her body by leaning against a nearby wall.

"If you aren't, I wouldn't be wasting my time talking to you." He smirked. "Take care of yourself."

Right as he finished, he turned around and left.

Even though the pain in her leg was great, it was incomparable to the pain she felt as her dignity was trampled on. That woman has humiliated me again and again!

Because she was the prestigious daughter and pride of the Jones family, she wasn't able to tolerate the bullying brought upon her by Natalie, whom she thought was a random, insignificant stranger.

She thought she lost twice to Natalie because she underestimated her.

Therefore, from that moment forward, she swore she wouldn't be giving Natalie any chance to change the situation.

A Cue for Love Chapter 915

Chapter 915 Date Part One

Natalie called Anna and told her the collaboration with Stone Corporation was a success.

Anna was surprised when she heard that. Then she recalled the person she was talking to was Natalie and stopped being surprised. After all, Natalie was able to take on tasks that people thought were impossible to achieve and made them possible.

"You only need to focus on designing from now on, Anna."

"I know," Anna replied confidently. "Rebirth' will be my comeback piece. I'll definitely do my best to repay the fans who have always supported me." And you.

"Good luck."

After the call ended, Natalie felt satisfied that Anna seemed to be full of energy. A businessperson's focus should be on making money. However, wouldn't it be icing on the cake if they could also help someone fulfill their potential?

Instead of heading to the company, Natalie went back home.

She pulled out a can of soda and drank it as she enjoyed her hard-earned leisure time with her children.

Since it was the weekends, the children were staying at home instead of the kindergarten.

Natalie was sunbathing while the children were doing the stuff they like.

To them, as long as they were around their mother, they would feel happy. They didn't need her to pay special attention to them or anything.

Soon after, she received a call from Jerome.

"Hey—" She recalled he didn't like to be referred to as a little brother, so she changed what she was going to say. "You're looking for me, Jerome?"

"Do you have time right now?"

When the children heard his voice, they instantly raised their heads as they stared wide-eyed at Natalie. Mr. Sutton really is intent on chasing after Mommy!

Natalie was sitting next to a window and didn't notice how her children were staring at her. She took a sip of her soda and asked, "I do. What's up?"

"I want to take you to a special place," Jerome invited mysteriously. "I guarantee that you'll love it."

She smirked. "I can't wait to check it out."

It brought her joy to play with him.

She always felt comfortable interacting and hanging out with Jerome. They had great chemistry with each other as they grew up together. Whenever she had fun times with him, she would be reminded of her carefree life in the village back in the day.

Upon hanging up the phone, she turned to her children. "I'm leaving for a while, so be good and stay here, okay?"

The children nodded obediently, but they felt a little complicated.

Natalie took off her working attire and put on a blue and white sportswear. Then she styled her long hair into a loose bun, making her look refreshing and lively.

When she was leaving, Xavian took the opportunity to take a photo of her and informed the rest of his siblings. "We'll definitely get found out if we follow Mommy. So, I'll just send this picture to Daddy. I doubt he'll be able to sit still!"

The other four nodded in agreement and raised their thumbs toward him.

They believed following their mother was a cheap trick, but not manipulating their father.

"Bye bye!" Natalie left after bidding goodbye.

Xavian promptly sent the photo he had just taken to Samuel and typed out a long message: "I don't know what's going on between you and Mommy, but Mommy's planning to have a proper date with Mr. Sutton! She even took a long time dressing up herself! Maybe you aren't familiar with Mr. Sutton, so I'll introduce him to you. His name is Jerome Sutton, and he's Loang's major-general. He's young, hot, and Mommy's childhood friend! Mommy already had a great relationship with him long before you showed up! If you don't hurry, your wife's gonna leave you!"

After the typing was done, he pressed the send button.