Chapter 491 – 500

Chapter 491 The Divorce Consideration Anne sighed softly, “What about your child?”

At that moment, Meryl’s phone ran out of battery and shut down.

She glanced at the black screen and placed her palm on her lower abdomen.

She hadn’t figured that part out yet...

Twenty minutes later, Meryl returned to the Aniston Villa.

Dalton also got out of the car with her.

Just outside the hotel, as Dalton was driving away, he encountered Meryl hailing a taxi on the side of the road.

Naturally, he also witnessed the scene where Chandler carried Rachel out of the hotel.

Dalton said that since they were both heading back to the Aniston Villa, Meryl could ride with him, and he would take her along the way.

But Meryl refused without hesitation.

Meryl insisted on taking a taxi home. Dalton didn’t insist and followed the taxi silently, watching her discreetly.

Dalton felt like he had grown. If it were in the past, he would have forcefully taken Meryl into the car, regardless of her willingness.

Since they were both going to the Aniston Villa, wasn’t it

However, after going through so much, Dalton suddenly realized that Meryl had her own thoughts. He had to respect her choices.

Thinking about what happened tonight, Dalton guessed that Meryl must have been heartbroken by Chandler,

He noticed that Meryl's eyes were red.

She was pregnant. One day, she and Chandler were inseparable, and the next day, she encountered such a situation. Anyone should find it hard to accept.

Dalton also didn't expect that Chandler's sudden return and his childhood sweetheart would cause Meryl such pain.

Dalton felt heartache for her.

At one moment, he felt he was cruel, but feeling pain didn't mean going soft.

He wanted Meryl to see all of this.

This move could make Meryl disappointed in Chandler, just as Meryl had been disappointed in him.

In this way, he and Chandler would be on the same starting line.

They could compete fairly.

Just by the pool, Dalton witnessed the whole process of Felix sending someone to give Rachel the bracelet.

Dalton guessed that after Meryl saw the bracelet, she probably thought it was from Chandler.

Dalton thought Felix's move was excellent. If it weren't for his difficult personality, Dalton would even want to buy him a drink to thank him because he had helped him without realizing it.

Chapter 493 Let's Get a Divorce

When Chandler returned to his room, Meryl was sitting at the table eating spaghetti.

She heard the door open, but she didn't turn around.

In just a few minutes, Meryl had planned a lot in her mind.

Given her pregnancy, no one would dare to hire her if she went out to look for a job. Perhaps she could take advantage of this time to improve herself.

Before that, however, there was something more important.

Chandler glanced down and saw that his white shirt was stained with blood. Worried that this would scare her, he picked up his pajamas and went to the bathroom.

In ten minutes, he came out after a quick shower.

Meryl was still leisurely eating her spaghetti.

The dim light of the incandescent lamp fell on her head. Her head was bent, and her loose hair blew in front of her forehead, as if a breeze could carry her away.

Chandler squinted, walked over, and gently put his arm around her shoulders.

“Didn’t you have dinner?”

Chapter 493 Let’s Get a Divorce

Chandler’s— touch made Meryl’s back stiffen, and she calmly picked up the plate to avoid his palm.

He was stunned. He froze and then dropped his hand stiffly.

“Did Dalton make the spaghetti?”

After a moment of silence, Meryl nodded.

“Is it tasty?”

“Not bad,” she replied quickly this time.

Chandler pressed the tip of his tongue against his cheek and narrowed his eyes. “Starting tomorrow, I’ll cook for you.”

Unexpectedly, Meryl gradually wept.

Her skin was delicate, accentuating her tears. Chandler panicked. Why did she cry after he had made such a normal offer?

2/4

He felt distressed and nervous and instinctively wanted to hug her.

But Meryl put down the plate. Noticing his intention, she stood up and stepped back.

She was trying to keep her distance from him.

The realization upset Chandler.

He wanted to find a topic to break the current deadlock. “Since you went to the auction, why did you leave without telling me?”

Chapter 493 Let’s Get a Divorce

“What was—I—going to do there? Watch you and Rachel dancing the waltz affectionately?”

The thought of the scene broke Meryl’s heart.

She took a deep breath, and tears welled up in her eyes again. “Chandler, let’s get a divorce!”

In an instant, Chandler lost control of himself, exuding a cold.

aura.

Meryl closed her eyes.

Therefore, she did not notice Chandler’s panic.

“Tell everyone that we are in a contractual marriage and that I forced you to marry me in gratitude for saving your life.

“Anyway, in the eyes of outsiders. I have been pursuing you for a long time, so your reputation will not be tarnished at all.

“As for the property, I don’t want a penny, but the baby... You can announce that I faked a pregnancy to keep you, so it won’t affect your next relationship.

“Let me think. What else...”

Meryl’s gaze fell to the window. She tried to be as considerate as possible and to make every effort to protect Chandler’s reputation.

She was sad that their marriage was coming to an end, but he was nice to her, after all, so she intended to maintain his dignity.

Chapter 493 Let's Get a Divorce

He grabbed her shoulders and pressed her forcefully into his arms.

“You silly girl, are you going to sacrifice your reputation just to save mine?”

“Suspecting that I’m cheating on you, you should use all means to take all my property, ruin my reputation, and make me pay the price!”

“Do you believe that cheating men will pity you because you are sensible? No, they won’t.”

“Your kindness will only turn into a knife to stab you. Meryl, you are stupid and soft-hearted. How can I divorce you?”

Chapter 494 Rachel's Brother

Chandler's words shocked and surprised Meryl.

He was somewhat strange tonight.

Meryl had expected Chandler to agree readily. After all, wasn't it good that he could divorce her and marry his love?

But she sensed that he was upset.

It sounded like he was worried about her.

Was he pitying her?

Chandler said in a low, magnetic voice, “Meryl, my relationship with Rachel is not what you think.”

Because of the hug, he pressed his lips against Meryl's hair.

Her long, thick hair had a sweet, pleasant, fruity scent, and he liked it.

His big palms fell on her shoulders.

Meryl froze. The warmth was always enchanting and addictive.

Chandler's chest gave her a reassuring feeling.

But she still pushed him away, stepped back, and kept some distance.

Chapter 494 Rachel's Brother reached out but could not catch her.

He could only watch her turn around.

Meryl gently straightened her pajamas with her back to him.

Her gaze was indifferent.

"Rachel was my neighbor when I was a child."

Chandler explained, "She helped me through two of my most difficult years."

Meryl closed her eyes gently. Rachel was indeed his childhood sweetheart.

That was the scariest thing of all, for there might be strong emotional dependence and p ossessiveness between them.

Yet, Meryl had never participated in their past.

"But our relationship is not what you think."

Chandler stood up straight, walked around to Meryl, and stared at her seriously. "Rachel and I are not close. I was familiar with her brother."

As he recalled the past, his voice became slightly hoarse.

"We had an accident at that time, and only one of us could survive. Her brother gave me the chance.

Then, there was a long silence in the room.

Chapter 494 Rachel's Brother

Chandler closed his eyes. Something occurred to him, and grief. gradually overwhelmed him.

He was unwilling to think about that past, and no one knew what he had been through.

Blood, humanity, fear, and death made him feel responsible and guilty for Rachel.

It was his duty to provide for her education. After all, she was only a teenager when her brother died, and they were not yet grown up.

Chandler could never forget the scene on his return home that day. Rachel, with two pig tails and dirty clothes, ran up to him, tugged at the corners of his clothes, and asked him about her brother.

It was a freezing cold winter.

But he remembered very well that the sunset that day was particularly beautiful.

He got out of the military green SUV. The world was covered with snow, leaving only the red sun on the horizon.

Ten-year-old Rachel fell in the snow in front of him, clinging to his trousers.

“I want my brother.

“Give me back my brother.”

Tears trickled down her cheeks, which were flushed with the Chapter 494 Rachel's Brother underage brother and sister died.

They depended on each other.

It was also their first winter in the village.

But her brother's life was over forever after that. He was only fourteen, an age of promise and infinite possibilities.

Chandler straightened his back and glanced down slightly to hide his face in the darkness.

He was breathless, as if his heart had suffered a dull blow. He didn't want to think about it anymore.

Chapter 495 Where Is the Ring?

“Meryl, I am taking care of Rachel on behalf of her brother. I only regard her as my sister. Don’t let your imagination run wild.

“I’ll introduce you to each other later.

“Rachel can’t be the reason for our divorce unless...”

Chandler fixed his eyes on Meryl’s face and said cautiously, “Unless you fall in love with another man.

1/4

She frowned subconsciously. She didn’t fall in love with another man.

“I don’t.”

Chandler breathed a sigh of relief. His intense gaze was unreadable.

“Then stay with me. I will be worried if you are with another man.

“When we got married, I stressed that divorce was out of the question.”

Chandler glanced up at Meryl and tried to hold her hand.

He was shocked to notice that the wedding ring on her ring finger had been removed at some point.

Chapter 495 Where Is the Ring?

“But I am very happy that you are jealous of me.

“At least I know you care about me.”

He pulled Meryl into his arms again.

A deep and restrained kiss landed on her forehead.

2/4

Chandler asked aggrievedly and dotingly, “Where is the ring? I’ll help you put it on?”

Meryl deliberately replied, “I threw it away.”

Chandler was choked. He fell silent with a pained expression.

Did she throw away her wedding ring?

He frowned and stared at her for a long moment.

As Meryl had no intention of denying it, he said helplessly, "Well, I'll buy you a new one."

She looked up and met his sincere gaze.

She did not throw the ring away but put it in a drawer upon arriving home.

Meryl had planned to ask for a divorce and return the ring to him.

THE

Was it really that her imagination ran wild?

But what about that bracelet? It was worth 100 million dollars. She was still upset that C handler had given it to Rachel.

apter 495 Where Is the Ring?

Meryl felt inexplicably empty.

3/4

After carrying her to the bed, Chandler kissed her passionately on the lips, released her reluctantly, and hugged her tightly.

He almost lost her.

Fortunately, the misunderstanding was cleared up.

Not long after they lay down, Chandler's phone rang.

He glanced back at her.

Meryl seemed to be asleep with her eyes shut.

She attended an auction today. As a pregnant woman, she would probably be exhausted, and it was already late.

Worried about disturbing her sleep, Chandler stepped outside into the corridor to answer the call.

Meryl opened her eyes.

The night was so quiet that she could hear Chandler's voice.

"How could it be so serious? Wasn't she fine when I left?"

"Wait, I'll be there right away."

Half a minute later, he hung up and returned to the room.

Meryl immediately closed her eyes.

Chapter 495 Where Is the Ring?

In the darkness, Chandler sat beside the bed, staring affectionately at her sleeping face for a full minute.

He wanted to stay with her, but now, he had to go to the hospital.

Rachel was seriously injured and lost a lot of blood. She fell into a coma and urgently needed a blood transfusion.

The blood bank had run out of B blood, which happened to be his type.

"Meryl."

Chandler gently stroked Meryl's cheek and whispered, "Have a good rest. I need to go out for a while."

She was speechless.

Chapter 496 Where Did Chandler Go?

In response to Chandler's words, Meryl remained silent.

It was quiet. He turned away.

Meryl sat up, walked barefoot to the window, and looked outside.

The room was dark, but the streetlights were on.

Meryl saw Chandler striding swiftly from the downstairs garden towards the garage.

She couldn't explain her feelings at that moment.

Where did Chandler go? Did he go to accompany Rachel?

But didn't he just say that he only regarded her as his sister?

In that case, why did he need to accompany her at night?

After the Cayenne had disappeared completely, Meryl still gazed out of the window.

She lay in bed, suffering from insomnia.

It was not until around three in the morning that she drifted off.

She didn't sleep very well that night. She felt groggy, as if she

Chapter 496 Where Did Chandler Go?

It was empty..

Chandler's half of the sheet was flat and neat, which meant that he had not returned last night.

Meryl lowered her eyes, feeling disappointed.

Did he spend the whole night with Rachel?

What did they do?

Meryl let out a gentle sigh and brushed the random thoughts out of her head.

She sat up in bed for a moment before washing up.

In the dining room, she instantly spotted Lydia, who gazed at her strangely.

“Last night, your ex-boyfriend made spaghetti for you, and this morning, Uncle Chandler cooked for you in the kitchen. Meryl, are you proud that two such excellent men are so attentive to you?”

Lydia was jealous.

Meryl was stunned. She subconsciously looked towards the dining table.

Only then did she notice that one breakfast was different from the others.

The Aniston family preferred bread, milk, and sandwiches for breakfast. Meryl’s meal was pumpkin soup.

Chapter 496 Where Did Chandler Go?

It was kept in a thermos. When she opened it, the soup inside was still warm.

3/4

A servant said, “Mrs. Aniston, Mr. Aniston has been busy in the kitchen since before dawn. Did he work overtime all night? I noticed that his eyes were bloodshot, as if he hadn’t slept all night.”

Meryl was shocked. Did Chandler make this for her?

“Eat it while it’s warm. Don’t disappoint Mr. Aniston.”

As a witness, the servant was deeply moved as Chandler, tired and pale, cooked in the kitchen.

No man from a wealthy family would start preparing breakfast for his wife in the kitchen before six o’clock.

This should be the duty of the servant.

Meryl sat at the dining table and took a sip of the pumpkin soup. Then, the warmth of the liquid spread through her body.

Lydia said coldly, “How do you seduce Dalton while making Uncle Chandler so devoted to you? Open a class so that I can learn it too!”

She saw Chandler in the morning. His face was as pallid as that of a woman who had her period and had lost too much blood.

He looked so uncomfortable, but he still cooked for Meryl!

What was wrong with these men of the Aniston family?

Chapter 497 I Am Your Aunt

Even the younger generation of the Aniston family were more friendly to Meryl than to Lydia!

Lydia was furious. Dalton went out early this morning. Dylan was out for a walk. Only Meryl and Lydia were at the dinner table, so Lydia had no scruples.

Meryl put down the spoon and gazed at her quietly.

“Are you jealous and upset? Lydia, do you want to know how I seduce them? But I won’t tell you! Are you feeling uncomfortable right now?”

“You...” Lydia bit her lip and growled, “Don’t be so arrogant!”

She would one day take revenge on Meryl for the loss of her child!

But winning back Dalton’s heart was more important to her.

She was waiting for an opportunity to completely humiliate and destroy Meryl.

“Uncle Chandler didn’t come home last night.”

Lydia heard some rumors. News spread very quickly in Kingsdom, and she and her friends had a group chat.

Their topics were largely concerned with gossip about things in Kingsdom.

Chapter 497 I Am Your Aunt

breakfast, Lydia read the messages in the group chat with her phone in hand and roughly grasped the situation.

“It’s normal for a man to have a wife and a mistress, especially in a wealthy family like his. Moreover, he might have more mistresses in the future. You have to get used to it, Aunt Meryl!

“He made breakfast for you, but do you know why? He’s guilty! After sleeping with another woman, Uncle Chandler pretends to be affectionate. Do you believe that he loves you deeply?”

Lydia’s words were harsh.

They touched Meryl’s sore spot.

Lydia glanced at Meryl for the pleasure and satisfaction of seeing a look of hurt and grief on her face.

But she was disappointed.

Meryl remained indifferent, as if she didn’t care about this.

She smiled, “You are right, but Dalton is not even willing to pretend in front of you now. Lydia, Lydia, how unsuccessful and pitiful you are!”

“You...”

Lydia was irritated by Meryl’s ridicule. However, this was the Aniston Villa with so many servants, so she didn’t dare to do anything to Meryl.

After all, Meryl was Chandler’s wife and her elder.

Chapter 497 1 Am Your Aunt

Lodha dropped the half-eaten sandwich in her hand, glared at Meryl, and turned to leave.

She lost her appetite!

Meryl also put down the spoon.

3/4

“I remember in the first few days of your marriage, you fought with the servants for chores every day to win Charlotte’s favor, didn’t you?”

Lydia’s face darkened even more when the humiliation she had experienced was suddenly mentioned.

Charlotte didn’t like her. In order to please her, Lydia thought of many ways. She helped the servants with housework and pretended to be considerate every day.

However, the more she did, the more Charlotte disdained her.

Later, she learned from Cate that the Aniston family needed a lady of dignity and grace, not a maid who could only compete with the servants for work. Besides, Dalton was a famous figure in Kingdom.

“I’m full. Wash the dishes.”

Lydia was shocked. “Why?”

“What did you call me just now?”

“Aunt Meryl.”

Case?

Meryl left.

Lydia froze completely.

1/4

A clever servant handed her a cleaning rag, and Lydia glared at her fiercely.

She threw the rag to the floor and sobbed with anger, “She is really going too far!”

In the president’s office at Galaxy Holdings Group, Chandler’s face was pale, and Walter, who was standing beside him, was shocked.

“Mr. Aniston, why don’t you rest at home for a few days?”

Last night, Chandler rushed to the hospital, drew blood, and did not sleep a wink.

At 5 AM, Rachel was out of the woods, and Chandler returned home from the hospital.

Even a man of iron couldn’t bear it.

Walter had expected Chandler to sleep an hour or two at home. However, despite his fatigue, he used his break time to make breakfast for Meryl.

He put in a lot of effort.

Chapter 498 Was It Really the Case? Walter was worried that he would get sick.

Chandler put down the pen and rubbed his temples tiredly. When he spoke, his voice was hoarse.

“Did she eat her breakfast?”

2/4

“The servant said that she had finished the soup. Mr. Aniston, Mrs. Aniston liked the food you made very much.”

Chandler smiled.

He rummaged around on his desk for a fashion magazine.

He pointed to a picture above and asked, “Can I buy the same bracelet as this one?”

Walter was stunned. He subconsciously leaned over to take a look.

“It seems to be a unique piece.”

The pearl bracelet was different from the other jewels. It was specially designed. It was hard to find the same one.

“Mr. Aniston, do you want it? I know a craftsman who might be able to customize a similar one, but the price...”

Chandler’s frown relaxed slightly. “The price is negotiable. The budget is 100 million dollars. Let him do it without worry.”

Walter was dumbfounded.

He thought, “Well, you are wealthy, so you have the final say.”

Chapter 498 Was It Really the Case?

“May I ask about Mrs. Aniston’s wrist size?”

3/4

Chandler gestured with his fingers. Meryl was very soft, and her wrists were slender.

“It is about 2.2 inches.”

Meryl went to see Anne.

“Do you mean that Chandler did not come home last night and was with Rachel?”

Anne widened her eyes in astonishment. Reflecting on her experiences of the last few months, she was almost beside herself.

She rose to her feet, clasping her waist with one hand and covering her bulging belly with the other while scolding, “Did Chandler fall in love with another woman? Did he cheat on you while you were pregnant and couldn’t make love with him?”

Noticing that Anne was furious at her affairs, Meryl was afraid that it would have a bad effect on her.

“Sit down now. He might not have cheated on me because he made breakfast for me this morning.”

‘So what!’ Anne suddenly raised her voice.

“I think what Lydia said makes sense. Maybe he slept with another woman and felt guilty, so he prepared breakfast for you to compensate you and make himself feel better.”

Chapter 498 Was It Really the Case? Meryl fell silent. Was it really the case?

Anne exclaimed, “Ouch! I’m so angry that my stomach hurts.”

Meryl quickly supported her. “Sit down now and take a deep breath. You are pregnant. Why are you so excited?”

“I’m worried that you’ll suffer! You’ve already been betrayed once in love, and I don’t want you to experience it again.”

Every word Anne said showed consideration for Meryl, but Meryl seemed to be pondering about something else.

Some time ago, Harvey proposed to take Meryl as his pupil, but she turned him down.

Now, on reflection, she thought playing the cello was actually pretty good.

Anne hit the nail on the head. "Are you so heartbroken that you have decided to shift your focus from love to hobbies?"

"I used to like the cello, but later on, because of Dalton's car accident, I felt guilty and gave up."

Anne nodded. "Go ahead. I will unconditionally support any choice you make!"

Meryl smiled. Anne's words gave her some confidence.

Anne suddenly put Meryl's hand on her belly.

"You know medicine, right? Can you tell me if it's a boy or a girl?"

Meryl was embarrassed. "I only know a little bit. Do you think. I'm an ultrasound machine?"

"A little bit?" Anne shook her head, obviously not believing it. "Don't be so modest. I know you are very capable!"

She was pregnant for only one or two months at that time. When

Anne breathed a sigh of relief. "Luckily, all the clothes I prepared are pink."

They sat in the living room and chatted for a long time, but Meryl didn't see Yancey, which made her feel strange.

As soon as she arrived, he locked himself in his room. No one knew what he was busy with, and the sound of zippers could be heard from time to time.

Curious, she walked over, only to find that the bed in the guest bedroom, where he was staying, was covered with a mass of things, including women's socks and pajamas, baby swaddles, baby clothes, hats, feeding-bottles, wet wipes, tissues, and so on. There was also a suitcase on the bed.

It was...

Anne, at the side, was also taken aback. "Yancey, you..."

Seeing that she was barefoot, Yancey immediately took out her slippers and stooped to put them on her.

"Even though there is heating at home, and you will feel hot during pregnancy, you still have to wear slippers."

He was very patient. He squatted in front of Anne and looked up at her.

He grinned brightly, his eyes twinkling.

"I searched online and found that if you catch a cold just before childbirth, you will suffer a lot. Don't you want a cesarean section?"

Yancey's voice was clear and charming.

He stood up and kept his eyes on Anne's face.

“Take good care of yourself, Anne.”

Warm air from a heater in the room was blowing incessantly against the glass.

Anne felt that her cheeks were burning hot, and her mind went blank for a moment.

Chapter 500 Childhood Sweethearts

Rachel woke up.

A doctor told her that three days had passed since she fell into the water.

During this period, she lay in bed in a coma.

Her calf was broken and put in a cast. When she moved, it hurt so much that she wanted to cry.

However, there was no one around.

Other patients had families, but Rachel was alone.

She was very depressed.

The Morgan family had fallen into decline. She had no relatives. She was so seriously injured. Had her brother been alive, he would have stayed by her side and taken care of her.

But he passed away more than ten years ago, and now the only one she could rely on was Chandler.

Walter came in. "Ms. Morgan, you're awake."

In the past two days, he had been in contact with the hospital.

"The doctor said that you have a broken bone and that it will take half a month before you can get out of bed." Walter fixed his eyes on Rachel's legs. "What do you want to eat? I'll prepare

Rachel asked, "Will he come after getting off work?"

Walter said in a serious tone, "There will be a fireworks display in Kingsdom tonight. He will probably take his wife to watch it."

Rachel was stunned. She wept bitterly and found it unbelievable.

"I was seriously injured, but he ignored me and planned to watch the fireworks. What am I?"

Walter was very patient. "Ms. Morgan, it wasn't Mr. Aniston who caused your injury. Why can't he go watch the fireworks?"

"Besides, I am here to accompany you, aren't I?"

Rachel growled, "I don't need you to accompany me. Who are you to me?"

Her chest heaved with anger. She grabbed the pillow behind her and threw it at Walter. "I don't want to see you. Get lost!"

He touched his nose awkwardly.

Why was Rachel a bit funny?

The Morgan family had fallen from grace for more than a decade, but she was still arrogant.

He was Chandler's top assistant and also a senior executive at

"Ms. Morgan, I have nothing to do with you, but who is Mr. Aniston to you?"

"He has no obligation to stay in the hospital for 24 hours and take care of you personally, right?"

Rachel frowned. "You know nothing. Chandler and I are childhood sweethearts. We grew up together. My brother lost his life to save him. Therefore, isn't it his responsibility to look after me?"

Walter replied, "Mr. Aniston owes your brother a favor and should repay him. When you were injured, he came to the hospital late at night to give you a blood transfusion and sent someone to take care of you. He has done his utmost. Ms. Morgan, he already has a wife. You need to behave yourself."

Rachel was speechless, and her face blushed with rage.

Unable to refute Walter, she drove him away.

Rachel glanced down and saw the pearl bracelet on her wrist. She was increasingly furious.

The bracelet was a reminder of all the humiliation she had suffered that day.

Felix was so hateful!

Rachel intended to take off the pearl bracelet. Even though her wrist was red from rubbing, she failed.

Chapter 500 Childhood Sweethearts

She pounded the bed angrily. "Felix!"

Unexpectedly, a leisurely voice came at once from outside the door. "Oh? Why did you call me?"
