Secret Admiration: Finding True Love After ...

Chapter 557 How Could It Be Possible?

Thinking of the drug lords she had seen on the news, using all sorts of brutal tactics, Meryl was suddenly frightened.

“During that time, Andy and I lived an inhuman life.”

Chandler’s eyes

fell on the distant horizon. “After being rescued, I made up my mind to catch them myself in the future. Soon, I was selected by the police academy and began my training career.”

The drug lords were far more cruel than he had imagined. At the time, he and Andy were just teenagers and had no conflict of interest with them.

But if any of them were unhappy, they would come up and kick them a few times. Only when Chandler and Andy were about to die would they give them some water.

Because Andy resisted, they cut his cheek with a dagger, exposing bright red flesh. The scar even went through the bridge of his nose, and the blood ran all over the floor.

The drug lords knew very well how to torture people. They even poured chili water on the wounds on Andy’s face, causing him excruciating pain.

He had a hot–temper and suffered a lot.

That half–month was like hell for Chandler, and he had been pondering an escape.

Finally, ten days later, he found the opportunity.

While the drug lords were drunk, Chandler used a stone to cut the ropes that bound their hands and feet, preparing to flee with Andy.

But at the thought of the torment he had endured during this period, Andy wanted to take revenge. Before leaving, he secretly stole a dagger and stabbed the man who had injured him in the abdomen.

The man, awakened by the pain, screamed, which woke up all his accomplices.

Chandler and Andy couldn't escape.

The result was predictable. It was another brutal beating. This time, they hit Chandler and Andy harder than any previous time. Chandler lay on the floor, feeling as if he had been run over by a car. He was in so much pain that he could hardly breathe.

Andy was naturally not much better.

The drug lords lost their patience and asked them who had come up with the idea of escaping.

Neither of them said a word, and then the cruelest scene happened.

"You are quite loyal.

"Well, in that case, let's play a game."

Chandler and Andy were both blindfolded and thrown into a dark room.

The drug lords told them that only one of them could walk out alive.

They were so badly wounded and starved for days that none of them could bear it. As it was pitch dark, they didn't even know how long they had been locked up.

Hunger, fear, and pain caused their five senses to be infinitely magnified. After being locked up for four days, the drug lords tossed in a dagger.

"As long as one of you can kill the other, I will let you go immediately."

At that time, Chandler and Andy were on the verge of collapse. The drug lords locked the door and left.

It was a test of human nature, and their hearts were filled with endless despair.

They looked at each other, and neither of them took the dagger.

In the end, due to his serious injuries and high fever, Chandler became so weak and dizzy that he fell into a coma.

Later, he woke up, only to find the dagger in his hand and that the floor was covered with blood.

"Hey, you are quite ruthless. You really killed your companion."

The drug lord's voice was like that of a ghost, and every word struck Chandler's heart heavily.

He threw away the dagger in disbelief. How could it be possible?

How could he kill Andy?

But why couldn't he remember anything that had happened before his coma?
