

THE ADORABLE TWINS AND THEIR CEO DADDY

Chapter 741 Untie The Hatred

Branson's lawyer wasted no time in drafting the property waiver agreement. Once the document was ready, he handed it over to Eliana. She signed it with no hesitation, as though the money she had just given up held no value to her. As she was about to take her leave, Branson's secretary burst into the room. "Mr. White, I have some terrible news! Maurice and his men have broken in!" Branson was taken aback by the sudden news. He instinctively looked over at Eliana and questioned, "Did you tell him to come here?" Eliana appeared bewildered and shook her head in response. The secretary spoke urgently, "Not only the Moran family, but also the Deleon family and the Todd family have arrived. They have surrounded the White family as we speak." Just then, Maurice barged in with a group of men. Branson stood up, faced Maurice, and demanded, "Maurice, what's going on? Are you here to fight the White family?" Maurice glared, looking furious. "And what if I am?"

Worried that a fight would break out, Eliana stepped forward and yelled, "Maurice, everything's fine. Don't do anything rash!"

Maurice's eyes bulged with anger, and the veins on his neck protruded prominently.

However, he regained his composure when he laid eyes on his wife, who was standing unharmed in front of him.

"Mommy!"

Aileen and Adrian cried and rushed towards her.

"You scared us, Mommy. We thought you went missing again!"

Aileen exclaimed, her face streaked with tears.

Adrian also had a very dull countenance as he wrapped his arms around her neck tightly.

Eliana felt sorry for her children and immediately tried to soothe them.

"It's okay, don't cry. Mommy's here with you now, right?"

Maurice glared at Branson as he stood in front of the three of them.

"Branson, no one can mess with me repeatedly. You're asking for trouble!"

Branson's laughter echoed through the room as he replied, "Alright then. Let's resolve this today!"

Realizing that things were escalating quickly, Eliana intervened, "Stop! Branson didn't kidnap me. I came here on my own."

"On your own?" Maurice repeated.

Did Eliana want to return to the White family? Maurice's eyes narrowed, and he turned to look at Eliana.

"Why?"

Eliana smiled and handed Maurice the document.

"Read it and see for yourself."

Maurice took the document.

After he looked through it briefly, he appeared startled.

"Eliana, what are you doing?"

Eliana took Maurice's hand and replied, "I gave up the White family property. Are you okay with that? I'm completely broke now. Are you still interested in being with me?"

"Eliana, you remember everything now!"

Maurice was momentarily speechless before realizing what had just happened.

"Yes." Eliana nodded, smiling widely.

Maurice couldn't contain his joy, so he pulled Eliana into a tight embrace.

Overwhelmed with emotion, he struggled to articulate his feelings.

"I want to be with you, Eliana. I want you even more now!"

"There are numerous people here! Watch what you say and do."

Eliana felt a bit embarrassed. She pushed him aside, took a deep breath to regain her composure, and turned to Branson.

"Sorry about that. My husband is a little hot-headed. I apologize for what just happened."

Eliana handed the document back to Branson, then walked over to Maurice.

At this point, Maurice had also calmed down. He took Eliana's hand and looked at Branson with a serious expression.

"Branson, I don't know your family's thoughts, but as long as Eliana is safe, I don't care about what happened between the Moran family and the White family in the past. I'm going to be the new head of the Moran family, and I won't give room for any more disputes between our families."

Branson wore a mixed expression as he tightly clutched the document. He let out a sigh of relief and nodded his head.

"Alright, I get it."

It was time to let go, and he knew it. He looked at Eliana with a sincerity he had never shown before.

"Eliana, even though you've made your choice, remember that the White family will always be your home. Welcome back anytime. If this man ever treats you wrong, the White family will come to your rescue and teach him a lesson."

Before Eliana could respond, Maurice furrowed his brow and interrupted him.

"Don't talk nonsense. It's never going to happen. Don't get involved in our family issues from now on."

With that, he grabbed Eliana and their kids and stormed out of the room.

Eliana felt a little helpless but decided to let her husband have his moment of childishness. She turned around and nodded at Branson.

Looking at the family as they left, Branson eventually made up his mind to let go of her.

"Eliana, I really hope you find happiness this time."
