

THE ADORABLE TWINS AND THEIR CEO DADDY

Chapter 94 I'm Irritated Because Of A Stupid Woman

Eliana was speechless.

She was obviously not hiding another man in her house. But she was hiding her kids from him.

"Think whatever you want. I'm leaving now," she replied without hesitation.

She then got in Nana's car without even looking back at him.

"Let's go!" Eliana urged Nana.

Soon, Nana changed gears, loosened the clutch, and stepped on the gas.

The Maserati raced away like a flash of lightning.

Standing there alone, Maurice stared in the direction of their car.

He felt like Eliana was strangely hesitant to let him drive her home every time.

Was she hiding something in her house?

At that moment, Corbin drove his Maybach over, and slowly stopped in front of Maurice.

Maurice was delighted to see that he arrived just in time.

After getting in the car, he looked at Corbin, and ordered, "Follow the Maserati ahead."

Upon hearing that, Corbin was surprised.

It had only been a short while since they last saw each other, so why was Maurice suddenly acting like a detective?

Meanwhile, in the Maserati, Nana was so curious that she could not help fire questions at Eliana.

"Eliana, are you really interested in your CEO?"

Nana's eyes lit up. Gossip was her thing, and it always excited her.

"You were just closing your eyes, waiting for him to kiss you!"

Eliana rubbed her forehead, sensing a headache.

"Is it just my imagination?" Nana glanced at the rearview mirror. "There is a Maybach following us, right?"

"It's Maurice's car," Eliana said, looking at the rearview mirror, her eyes wide open in shock.

"Is he following us?" Nana was also stunned.

It seemed like the CEO of the Moran Group had a quirk of stalking!

She then thought for a second and suggested, "How about we let him follow us? That way, you can use the chance to introduce the kids to him, and see how he reacts. Maybe, he will retreat if he sees the kids!"

Nana's words made sense.

However, Eliana was really flustered when she imagined Maurice seeing her kids.

And she was really anxious to see his reaction.

Whether he would accept the children or not...

Clenching her seat belt, she shouted, "Nana, let's get rid of him."

"Got it!" Nana nodded at once.

She immediately stepped on the gas, making the car soar in speed.

At the same time, Corbin sensed a chill down his spine when he saw the Maserati moving farther away.

Maurice was glaring at him with a piercing gaze.

Seeing that, Corbin had no choice but to speed up, and eventually caught up with the girls.

But to his surprise, the Maserati suddenly changed two lanes, drifted left, and disappeared at the intersection.

His car, on the other hand, was blocked by traffic, making it impossible for him to catch up with them.

Maurice continued to stare at him, waiting for his explanation.

"Mr. Moran..." Corbin stammered. "I've tried my best."

Was Nana an ex-convict? How could she drive so crazily in the city?

Maurice's expression darkened. In the end, he forgave Corbin and said in a low voice, "Don't make any noise."

Corbin nodded.

He then took out his cellphone and called Eliana.

Soon, he heard her soft voice over the phone. "Hello, Preston?"

"How long will it take for you to return my ring? Tell me your address and I'll get it," Maurice asked coldly.

When Eliana heard those words, she began to tremble as though someone had poured ice-cold water over her.

In the past, Preston had always protected her and cared about her work even when he had been injured.

Why was he suddenly talking to her in such a cold voice?

Calming herself down, she answered tentatively, "Could you please give me some more time? I will return the ring to you as soon as I get it."

"How long do I have to wait?"

"I will give it to you very soon, I promise," Eliana answered vaguely. She then realized something unusual and asked in a curious tone, "Why are you so angry all of a sudden? I didn't do anything to provoke you. Did some wealthy woman bully you again?"

Upon hearing those words, Maurice was rendered speechless. "I'm irritated because of a stupid woman," he answered in a sarcastic tone.

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.