

An Endless Night With Him

50 Chapter 50: His Beloved Dog

With his beloved woman on the one hand, and the beloved dog that he has raised from a puppy on the other... in the end. Aaron chooses Katrina. "Randy, take Beta out for now. I'll go out to see him later." "Yes, sir." When Randy leads Beta out, Aaron says, "Okay, he's gone." Katrina lifts her head from his arms and looks back cautiously. Sure enough, the dog is gone from the living room, and Katrina's heart feels a little relieved. But she suddenly realizes something is wrong.

Like a koala, she has her arms around Aaron's neck and her legs around Aaron's waist. Her whole body is hanging on him, and his hands are holding her hips.

Katrina feels even more uncomfortable when she feels the warm palm on her rear, and her face turns red instantly

"Aaron put me down." Aaron pokes fun at her seriousness. "Oh? I distinctly remember someone jumping into my arms just now."

He wasn't the one who embraced her. It was entirely her decision to jump into his arms. He just caught her naturally.

At Aaron's dawdling, Katrina's face turns a little redder. "I, I just..." She didn't mean to!

Her brain completely lost its ability to think, and her only thought was to stay as far away from the dog as possible. She only jumped into Aaron's arms for her own safety. But she forgot that he was as dangerous as a wolf.

Katrina loosens her hold on Aaron's neck and tiptoes to climb down from Aaron. Aaron can't help but shake his head. How ungrateful! He just saved her, but she can't wait to get down already. Finally, letting Katrina go, Aaron strokes her hair. "Stay here for a while." Then he walks out.

While Katrina sits on the couch and looks through the French windows into the yard, Randy puts a collar on the big dog and secures it to the cage with a leash.

Although a dog is an animal, it's particularly anxious for freedom. She remembers Randy once telling her that Aaron won't shut his dog out unless he does something wrong.

The tied-up dog is filled with doubt and grievances. He whimpers obediently, completely lacking the excitement from earlier.

He doesn't understand. After finally returning home and meeting his master after a long separation, why is his master tying him up instead of playing with him?

Seeing the lonely dog, Katrina also feels a little distressed.

She knows that the dog hasn't done anything wrong, but she's too scared. Although she knows that dogs are a man's best friend, she's still afraid of them. Her legs always weaken at the sight of dogs.

It's all her fault that the dog is tied up. She feels immensely guilty.

Aaron's pet dog is a smart and loyal German shepherd. It has black fur, a large body, high upright ears, and appears domineering. This breed is used by many as police dogs.

As soon as Aaron walks into the yard, the dog begins to get excited again, wagging his tail and eagerly waiting for Aaron to come over.

When Aaron reaches him, the dog immediately stands up and throws himself into Aaron's arms. The dog's head rubs against Aaron. They share an intimate moment.

Stroking his head, Aaron unties the collar around his neck.

Seeing the interaction between Aaron and the dog, Katrina suddenly thinks of the image of Aaron holding her in his arms.

Aaron is very close to the dog.

The dog was only away for a while. When he comes back and finds a biped pouncing on his master, will he have any negative feelings towards her and regard her as a competitor?

Is she now competing with the dog for Aaron's favor? God! She feels a little depressed at the thought.

The dog rubs against Aaron's arms for a long time.

Aaron asks Randy to fetch Beta's favorite toy ball and plays a game of catch with his pat in the yard. Seeing the scene of Aaron and his dog together, Katrina discovers for the first time that he has an ordinary side. Originally, she thought he was sternly cool and unmoved. But he's unexpectedly affectionate with his dog,

Before the dog returned, the villa was practically Katrina's domain. Aaron often goes out for social engagements and business meetings, leaving her alone at home. Every day, she spends time reading books, basking in the sun, or enjoying the flowers in the garden.

As soon as the dog comes back, she acquires a great rival. Katrina will start behaving cautiously in the villa.

Every time she goes out of the room, she'll crack it open and, like a thief, check if the dog is in the living room. Even if she has her full courage, and she wouldn't dare step out of the room if she sees the animal.

After Katrina takes a shower in the evening, she sees Aaron in her room. Dressed in sleepwear, he's lying leisurely in her bed and reading a book.

Katrina feels upset when she sees him. "Why are you here?" Aaron replies confidently, "This is my home. I will go wherever I like."

Last night, he climbed into her bed while she was asleep. But tonight, Katrina doesn't want to sleep with him at all. Thinking of her experience that night makes Katrina's scalp go numb.

If he wants to sleep in her room, she'll let him do as he pleases. Katrina says wryly, "Then I'm going."

Holding the pillow, Katrina opens the door and prepares to leave. Aaron says, "Beta is out there. Are you sure you want him to accompany you?" Katrina is stunned.

Sure enough, upon hearing the door open, the dark figure jumps out of its nest and is squatting by the doorway. eta pokes his tongue out as he watches Katrina.

The moment she sees the dog, Katrina cries out and quickly slams the door, clutching her chest in panic. Seeing Katrina's reaction, Aaron's handsome face lights up with a smile. He closes the book in his hands. "All right, don't just stand there. Come over and sleep."

Outside, there's a fierce-looking big black dog. In bed, Aaron is looking expectantly at her with an evil grin. After weighing her options for a long time, Katrina reluctantly walks towards Aaron.

Chapter 51: You Are The Best Choice

As soon as Katrina gets to the bodeve, Aaron grabs her by the arm and pulls her into an embrace

He turns over and settles Katrina beneath him

A strong masculine scent engulfs Katrina's face like a whirlwind. She raises her guard and covers her chest protectively, "Aaron, what are you doing?"

Aaron smiles wickedly. "Doing what I want, of course. Considering such a long night..."

Without expecting his blunt and bold response, Katrina turns red. "Aaron, don't act recklessly!"

"The last time she tried to escape, he found out and punished her like this. But she hasn't done anything wrong this time, why is he doing this to her?

Aaron leans over Katrina's neck and breathes in her alluring scent. "Katrina, what have you decided with what I told you to reconsider?"

Something for her to reconsider?

Is he talking about when he asked her to be his woman?

Why did he ask her to reconsider when he knew she would never say yes?

Katrina's eyes are filled with sincerity when she looks to Aaron and says, "Aaron, you have better options. Why me?"

Aaron looks at her in the eye. "You are the best choice."

She has proven herself to be the best for him in many aspects.

His body only reacts to her, and she can help him sleep well. No other woman can do this.

Even several days since he last touched her and tasted ecstasy with her.

Holding her in his arms again, Aaron can feel the air and blood rushing out of his body. His breath gets heavier and heavier.

After Katrina's bath, she's inexplicably sweet and tempting.

Aaron leans over and kisses her, his big hands roaming restlessly under her clothes.

Sensing his body's reaction, Katrina pushes him hard. "Aaron, you said you wouldn't touch me!"

UW

"Did I say that?" Aaron is skeptical, then he adds, "I just said that I'd give you a few days to think about it, and I won't touch you during these days. But I didn't say that I won't touch you anymore."

57 Chapter 51. You are the Best Choice

He won't give up on her, whether she's thought it over or not.

Hearing Aaron's arguments, Katrina turns red again. "Aaron, you're shameless!"

Aaron grins. "Since you said it, should I become more shameless to satisfy you?"

He grabs her arm easily and restricts both her legs.

Under the pressure of his hold, she loses ground again.

In the end, Katrina has no choice but to surrender and not cry.

Taking pleasure in her body, Aaron holds her tightly in his arms and tries to let her adapt to the intrusion gently. "Relax. Take it easy."

The next day, Katrina turns over in a daze.

When she opens her eyes, she feels a deep stare from above her head.

She's holding Aaron like an octopus, with a slender white leg draped over his waist.

Aaron's voice becomes low and dangerous. "Throwing yourself upon me first thing in the morning? I'm actually not satisfied with last night. Shall we resume now?"

Because of her cries last night, he had to let her sleep early and didn't have the heart to bother her for another round.

He was afraid of hurting her like before, and he couldn't bear tormenting her and making her legs become soft and weak. She might reject him even more.

Unexpectedly, she's enthusiastic so early in the morning.

Is she trying to arouse him?

Hearing Aaron's dangerous voice, Katrina quickly extricates her arms and legs from his body. She turns over and tries to pull away.

But Aaron suddenly pulls her back, turning her around. "Where are you going?"

Does she think she can really run away from him right under his nose?

Aaron is a real dynamo,
Katrina had no idea that her unconscious actions would lead him to become a monster in the morning.
To lessen her suffering, Katrina has finally learned to ingratiate herself with him.
Just as Aaron is about to remove her hands, Katrina clamps her legs tightly, her beautiful eyes filled with grievances, "Aaron, please don't. It hurts too much."
It's the first time that Katrina has spoken to him in such a soft voice. Her beautiful eyes look so vulnerable and moving, making people show pity.
Seeing the faint marks on her fair skin and hearing her waxy words, Aaron thinks he hurt her again. He frowns and wants to see where it hurts. "Let me see."
Katrina couldn't possibly show him something so private.
She pushes him even harder. "No!"
Knowing Katrina is feeling shy, Aaron doesn't force her. He holds her in his arms for a while before getting up and putting some clothes on.
Aaron comes back in the evening and drops something that looks like toothpaste on Katrina.
Katrina looks puzzled. "What's this?"
When she sees the words' swelling' on the package, her small face turns red to the tips of her ears.
Aaron, he...
Did he buy her ointment for the wound?
He bought this...
Seeing Katrina's stunning face, Aaron whispers, "I'll help apply it if it's not convenient for you."
Katrina glares at him, gritting her teeth because of his words. "Thanks for your kindness. Don't bother!"
Let him help her?
She's not stupid!
In a flash, it's now the fifth day since Beta came back.
Crina has grown used to having a dog in the house, but she still isn't comfortable staying with him in the same space. She's terrified of dogs.
Knowing that Katrina is frightened of him, Beta deliberately doesn't bother her.
Each time he tries to greet her with an enthusiastic look on his face, Katrina startles and runs away. Beta has to let out a helpless low howl and stop.
Today, it's raining outside. Since Beta can't play in the yard, he stays in the living room.
Katrina hasn't been out of her room all morning because of this.
Even Aaron brought her breakfast himself.
Katrina can't help but hide away in her room to avoid Beta.

51 Chapter 51 You Are The Best Choice

After all, Aaron plans to keep her around for a long time, and his dog Beta also stays at his villa. The two have to try and accept one another.
If Katrina always keeps away from Beta, she will always be afraid of him.
After a second thought, Aaron knocks on the door of Katrina's room.

Chapter 52: Bonding With His Dog

Randy is the only person who knocks on Katrina's door.
Aaron always comes and goes as he likes, like breaking into no man's land.
In his words, this is his home, and he goes wherever he wants.

Hearing the knock, Katrina assumes it's Randy and opens the door without a second thought. When the door opens, she doesn't expect to see Aaron's handsome young face. More importantly, the big black dog Beta squatting at Aaron's feet is the last thing she expects to greet her. Holding his toy ball in his mouth, Beta looks up at Katrina.

Katrina is shocked to see the dog suddenly.

"Ah!" She screams and closes the door as quickly as she can in fear that Beta will break-in.

Aaron reaches out in time and stops Katrina, forcing the door open.

With Aaron's strength, Katrina is unable to shut the door, making her cry out, "Aaron, let me go!"

Aaron looks down at Katrina's anxious face and says, "Beta is clever and lovely. He won't bite."

It's true. After a few days of discrete observation, Katrina finds out that although the dog looks very big and fierce, Beta is gentle and unaggressive towards the people around it.

But even that doesn't stop Katrina from being frightened of him.

Even if Beta doesn't bite, she's still frightened.

Shivering behind the door, Katrina whimpers, "Aaron, please don't let him in."

Beta drops the toy ball in the mouth to the ground. He pushes it through the door with his paw and looks up at Katrina. Sticking out his tongue, he looks like he has a smile on his face. His tail is wagging to show his affection.

Aaron patiently continues to reassure Katrina, "He values his toy ball so much, that nobody can touch it except for me. You can see how much he likes you if he's willing to give you his toy ball."

Katrina is touched to hear Aaron's words. Seeing the dog looking at her so hopefully only makes her heart soften more.

Nevertheless, she still can't contain her fear.

"Okay, thank you."

Katrina sits and picks up the ball cautiously

Recalling Aaron playing catch with Beta in the yard, Katrina throws the ball into the distance. The dog immediately runs along the track of the ball to catch it firmly. Then he retreats back, wagging his tail all the way, and puts the ball on the ground again. He pushes it through the crack of the door with his paw.

It's evident that Katrina doesn't reject Beta because she dislikes him.

She's a kind and gentle girl, not hostile to small animals. She's just afraid of dogs by nature,

Katrina plays a few ball games with Beta, and Aaron continues to guide her, "Good, now touch him."

Although Katrina isn't as scared of dogs as she used to be, she still isn't brave enough to touch him.

Katrina shakes her head from behind the door. "No, I'm afraid."

Noticing that she's still reluctant, Aaron suddenly changes his strategy. "Do you want to go outside?"

Katrina is stunned by Aaron's words.

Of course, she wants to go outside!

She's been imprisoned for such a long time, and the one time she left Aaron's villa, she was easily captured

Who wants to stay in the villa all the time?

No matter how big Aaron's villa is, Katrina is tired of the place and seeing the same people every day.

Katrina nods honestly. "Yes."

"If you touch him, I'll take you out tomorrow."

Katrina never thought that Aaron would tempt her with this.

She looks at him suspiciously. "Will you keep your promise? Aren't you a liar?"

Even if Aaron says he'll take her out, it's very likely he'll bring her back immediately after they leave the villa.

Aaron nods. "I'll keep my word."

Katrina finally gives in to the temptation of Aaron's promise.

She takes a while to form a plan in silence. Finally, she bravely reaches out her hand and touches the dog's head, before quickly withdrawing her hand.

It lasts for less than a second, showing Aaron her deviousness for the first time.

Aaron feels completely speechless. "So, periunctory! it seems I can only take you out for five minutes."

Katrina looks very aggrieved. "How could I touch him?"

He should know that the first time she saw Beta, she was too scared even to have the courage to look at him.

Now, she gathers a great deal of determination to touch him.

Aaron distly touches the dog's head. "Like this."

Seeing Aaron touching the dog, Katrina suddenly realizes what's wrong.

Why does it seem like Aaron always touches her head like that?

Katrina finally summons the courage to grab the chance to go out. Then she puts her hand on the dog's head. The hairy texture feels good.

Instead of biting her, Beta puts out his tongue and licks her hands.

Though it frightened Katrina to pull her hand back, a surprised smile lights up her pretty face. "It's so smooth!"

In any case, she has taken the first successful step.

Though something seems hard and scary most of the time, when you actually try it, you'll find that it's not as difficult as you expect it to be.

Like now, under Aaron's encouragement, she became brave enough to touch the dog, making her realize that Beta isn't as scary as she thought.

At noon, Katrina leaves her room for the first time in days to eat lunch in the dining room.

Beta's bowl is by her feet. Although Randy has placed fresh dog food for him, he doesn't seem to like it.

While eating, Katrina suddenly feels a pair of eyes looking at her. She looks down and makes eye contact with Beta.

"Do you want some too?"

Katrina takes the chicken's legs from her plate and places them in Beta's bowl. The dog immediately eats the meal happily

Katrina is also happy to see the dog eating so much.

She picks up a new hobby when she eats, which is feeding the dog.

As a result, most of the food on her plate ends up in Beta's stomach.

When Aaron notices that Katrina hasn't eaten much because she keeps giving it to Beta, his handsome face goes dark. He pulls her plate over and deposits his lunch in it. "Stop feeding Beta. Don't leave until you finish eating everything!"

52 Chapter 52 Bonding with His Dog

He doesn't want to sleep with a pile of ribs every day.

Katrina shoots Aaron a disapproving look.

He eats abundant fish and meat, with a good collocation of meat and vegetables, but gives Beta only dog food?

How unsympathetic!

Katrina doesn't realize that she's somehow already become so concerned about the dog.

53 Chapter 53: Invitation

The phone that Aaron threw onto the living room sofa rings suddenly

Just as Randy is about to pick up the phone, Aaron puts down his fork and stands up. "I'll answer it."

He strides gracefully on his long legs towards the living room and picks up the phone, Meanwhile, Beta is squatting under the table and staring at Katrina in interest.

Looking at the direction of the living room, Katrina sees Aaron turning his back on her.

As she plans to sneak some food for Beta, Randy says, "Miss Miller, Mr. Wilson actually did it for Beta's sake. Because Beta was injured before, Mr. Wilson now buys him the world's most expensive dog food. It has all the nutrients that a dog needs, and is definitely good for his health.

"And a lot of human food isn't suitable for dogs, Chocolate, for example, can be fatal to them. Milk causes diarrhea, and chicken bones can easily scratch a dog's esophagus or stomach and cause internal bleeding."

Katrina is suddenly enlightened.

She always lacked experience in pet ownership, and wouldn't have known that there were so many things taboos for dogs if Randy hadn't taught her.

Like with the chicken leg she just fed to the dog, Beta doesn't know how to pick the bone. It's easy for him to break the bone and swallow it. In that case, a dangerous accident is likely to occur.

Katrina suddenly feels ashamed of her actions. Even though she fed Beta out of kindness, she almost caused him harm.

How could Aaron maltreat his pet dog when he loves Beta so much? The reason he wants Beta to eat dog food every day is for his health.

"I'm sorry, Randy," Katrina says, "I didn't know."

In the future, she won't feed Beta so carelessly.

"That's all right," Randy says with a reassuring smile. "Mr. Wilson didn't blame you, did he?"

Instead of getting angry, Mr. Wilson was afraid that Katrina would give all her lunch to Beta. Worried that she would get hungry, he immediately filled her plate with food.

Although it was simple and crude, it wasn't difficult to see how much Mr. Wilson cares about Katrina. Meanwhile, Aaron answers the phone in the living room.

A sweet and soft voice immediately greets him from the other end, "Aaron, it's me. Victoria."

Although Aaron met Victoria at Harris Roberts' birthday party, he has low personal interactions with her in private.

In spite of Victoria's unexpected call, Aaron speaks politely, "Hello, Miss Roberts," Victoria's voice is filled with feminine coquettishness, "Aaron, was the dessert I made last time to your liking?"

Aaron didn't eat the dessert, but Katrina was immensely content with it.

She ate the dessert, and he tasted it through her.

The kiss was unexpectedly sweet,

"Miss Roberts is a good cook, and the dessert was delicious," Aaron replies quietly.

“Really?” She can’t help the excitement in her voice when Aaron praises her. “Aaron, if you like, I can make more to bring to you.”

As the saying goes, the way to a man’s heart is through his stomach.

Knowing he was so satisfied with the dessert she made, it wouldn’t be hard for her to see more of him.

Aaron graciously accepts, “Thank you, Miss Roberts. But next time, it can be directly sent to the office,”

He spends more time in the office than he does at home. More importantly, he doesn’t want another encounter where Victoria makes trouble for Katrina.

Victoria doesn’t think much of it. “Okay,” she says softly.

The office?

The office would be better. That way, everyone in his company will know that she has a good relationship with him.

“By the way, Aaron, I heard from my dad that you’d take part in the charity dinner tomorrow. I haven’t been back in Hadley for a long time, and I’m not familiar with the people in this circle, I was wondering if I could be your companion and attend the party with you.”

This is the reason that Victoria called.

Victoria’s request seems reasonable.

Aaron is well-known for being sexually-continient, so he always goes to dinner events alone. Although he seldom gets close to famous women, there’s an abundance of famous ladies who want to get close to him.

If Victoria attends as his companion, for one thing, it will help him another, she wouldn’t have to face the unfamiliar circle by herself, which would save her a lot of embarrassment.

53 Chapter 53 Invitation

It’s the perfect solution for both of them.

Since Victoria has a crush on Aaron, she wants to use this chance to get in touch with Aaron. Even if Aaron doesn’t like her yet, it will serve as a warning to other women if she could attend the party as companion.

Later, she would find more opportunities to spend more time with him.

Victoria doesn’t think that Aaron would refuse her little request because of her father, but Aaron rebuffs her. “I’m sorry, Miss Roberts. I already have a companion.”

Victoria is momentarily stunned.

Does Aaron have a companion?

Which lady is it?

Aaron has never been seen with a woman at various events. Even when he attended her father’s birthday party, he came alone.

Despite the fact that Victoria is going crazy with curiosity and jealousy, she doesn’t dare ask any more questions. She responds with a smile, “That’s all right. I’ll find someone else.”

Victoria’s smile instantly disappears when she hangs up the phone.

She’s the precious daughter of the mayor, a rich beauty spoiled since childhood by most people.

Her father has the final say in Hadley. How could she be nervous about attending a party in high society?

Although she studied college abroad for four years, she grew up with all kinds of rich and powerful people around her. Naturally, she knows many people in this circle. What she said to Aaron on the phone was just an excuse to get Aaron to go to the party with her. Now, she can't wait to find out the identity of the woman who will attend the party with Aaron. When Aaron returns from his phone call, he sees Katrina enjoying her meal. As soon as Beta sees that nobody is going to feed him, he begins to eat his dog food, Aaron takes a good look at Katrina, Although she stays at home in casual clothes and without makeup every day, she would look stunning after so serious grooming

Chapter 54: He Suddenly Kiss Her

In the afternoon, Aaron asks a designer to come home and take Katrina's measurements. Since he's taking her to a charity dinner tomorrow, he has to take her measurements and help her choose a dress.

As Aaron's companion to a formal occasion, Katrina naturally can't come in looking miserable and shabby Aaron is sitting on the couch, going through his emails on his laptop. Katrina is lying in the armchair, dozing in the sun with a novel in her hands. At her feet, Beta is dozing with her.

Just then, Randy comes up to them respectfully, "Mr. Wilson, the designer is here."

"Let her in." Aaron closes his laptop and tells Katrina, "Come here."

Katrina wasn't asleep and heard the sound. Opening her eyes, she puts down her book and walks towards Aaron in a daze.

Randy leads a slim and beautiful man into the room, "Hello, Mr. Wilson. I'm George. I'm taking this lady's measurements, right?" he asks, walking towards Katrina with a tape measure in his hand.

Aaron couldn't help frowning at the man in front of him.

Although he looks gay, he's still a man.

The dress needs to fit perfectly, and since the designer will Katrina's figure, his hands are bound to touch Katrina's body.

Aaron will never be happy to see another man touch her, not even a finger!

George is eager to take Katrina's measurements, but Aaron pulls her into his arms.

He looks up at George and asks, "No female designer?"

George becomes stunned. "My female assistant has something to do today."

Aaron should know that he's one of the best designers. He rarely takes someone's measurements himself. But because of Aaron's reputation, he is ready to do it himself. Unexpectedly, Aaron rejects him.

"Give me the tape."

Aaron takes the tape measure from the designer and measures Katrina himself, from the chest to the waist to the hips.

Even though the fabric, Katrina, can feel the warmth of his hands as he touches her wherever his hands go

Aaron's breath is steady over her while standing face to face in front of her, and Katrina is too embarrassed to look up at his face,

What's wrong with her?

He just measures her, but she's so nervous about it.

To nurture the relationship between Katrina and Beta, Aaron asks her to feed Beta in the evening. Considering Katrina loves feeding Beta so much, it's become her responsibility to feed him dog food. Katrina takes Beta's bowl and goes to the kitchen to get some dog food.

Beta is fairly hungry and follows her into the kitchen, staring up at her.

The dog food packaging is too tempting.

After Randy told her that Beta's dog food is the most expensive in the world, she secretly checked the brand using Aaron's laptop. It's highly expensive. It contains all kinds of nutrients and elements. It's apparently the most nutritious and safest dog food that even people can eat it.

Katrina is a thrifty person. When she accidentally dropped a piece of dog food on the table, she picked it up and put it in her mouth without thinking.

She doesn't know if her brain stopped working or if the devil came over her.

By the time the thought occurred to her, it was too late.

Squatting at her feet, Beta looks clearly stunned to see her eat his dog food.

It seems indescribable and strange.

To avoid confusing him because she ate his food, Katrina takes another one and feeds it to Beta.

Of course, she's still afraid of Beta and doesn't dare feed him directly. She puts the dog food on the floor.

Anyway, there are servants specifically assigned to clean up the villa every day. Every corner is spotless, and the floor is very clean. Her stomach wouldn't get upset from eating the dog food off the floor.

After putting dog food in the bowl, Katrina turns around and prepares to leave.

When she turns around, she doesn't expect to see Aaron leaning against the door with folded arms.

Katrina is stunned and momentarily embarrassed.

How long has he been standing here?

He wouldn't have seen her small action of accidentally putting the dog food in her mouth, would he?

54 Chapter 5 He Suddenly Killer

No! Even if he saw it, she wouldn't admit it!

Katrina's knee-jerk denial is evident, "I just dropped a grain of dog food, and I fed it to Beta! You can ask him!"

As soon as she speaks, she realizes how defensive her lie sounds, and it reveals the truth.

She spoke before he even asked.

Katrina despairs helplessly about her IQ.

Sitting by Katrina's feet, Beta stares at her in bewilderment, vaguely aware that he's being blamed.

Facing Aaron's stare, Katrina turns a little red in the face, but she forces herself to keep going, "Beta is hungry. I'll feed him dinner now."

She pretends nothing happened and moves to walk past Aaron.

Aaron grabs Katrina by the arm and wraps her in his arms.

Crashing into his warm and strong chest, Katrina is shocked. "Aaron, what are you doing?"

Aaron bows his head and touches her lips with a kiss, leisurely tasting her.

Suddenly kissed, Katrina's cold body seems to be charged with an electric current, leaving her brain blank.

As the temperature rises, it becomes harder to breathe.

Gathering her wits, Katrina pushes Aaron with one hand, slurring through her teeth.

On the floor, Beta stares at his bowl that Katrina is still holding, and barks.

“Was it good?” Aaron finally releases Katrina with a wry smile. “I didn’t know you’re a heavy eater.”
The little fool!
Does he not feed her full every day?
Why is she eating dog food?
Just now, he was stunned to see her pick up the dog food and put it in her mouth. Then she took out another one and gave it to Beta. Was it hush money for Beta?
Katrina is adorable in her daze.
Hearing Aaron teases her, Katrina realizes that he might have seen what she did.
Katrina wasps and glares at him. “Isn’t Mr. Wilson the same?”
No sooner had she eaten the dog food than he kissed her.
54 Chapter 54 He Suddenly kiss Her
Does he have the right to laugh at her?
Leaving the kitchen, Katrina lays the bowl on the floor for Beta.
But instead of eating, Beta glances back at Katrina and moves away, allotting half for her.
Katrina feels embarrassed after seeing Beta behave so sweetly.
Aaron’s dog is so conscientious...
She fed him at noon, so when he saw her eating his dog food, Beta automatically gave her half of his dinner.
It’s really annoying to be invited by a dog to eat dog food.

Chapter 55: A Beautiful Makeover

The next day. Kanna walks out of her room and sees two rows of dresses and many strangers standing in the living room
She just took a nap. What is going on? She is a bit confused while staring at the busy people in the living “Get her ready,” Aaron said.
At Aaron’s command, several stylists settle her into the chair and surround her. They fix her hair, put an expensive powder on her face, and even trim her nails perfectly
Without any exception, all the stylists today are women,
The situation somewhat spooks Katrina.
She can’t move with all the hands prodding at her. She says awkwardly, “Aaron, what’s happening?”
Sitting on the couch, Aaron quips. You’re attending a dinner party with me tonight.”
Katrina realizes that when he said he would take her out, he meant he was going to take her to a dinner party
She knows what social class Aaron belongs to.
Since he asks so many stylists to fix her up, she assumes the banquet is extravagant. Why does Aaron exert an effort to make her look pretty? She thought silently,
Having had a troubled and humble childhood, Katrina is well aware that such high society parties were not for people of her class.
She isn’t the kind of woman who’s accustomed to every kind of situation and can handle anything easily.
Katrina feels distressed at the thought of meeting many powerful high-class strangers. She might as well stay at home and continue sleeping.
“Aaron, can I say no?” Katrina asks.
Aaron doesn’t even lift his eyes. “No.”

An hour later, Katrina is showcased by the stylists.

From her hair to her makeup, the stylists paid attention to every detail of her body, and even her toenails are painted with bright nail polish.

55 Chapter 55: A Beautiful Makeover

pleasing. Because of this, the stylist chose a short dress for her that highlights her assets. She's only 1.6 meters tall, but the dress makes her look taller.

Aaron's eyes fix deeply on Katrina when she's pushed in front of him.

Since the first time he saw her in the villa, Katrina has never worn makeup. Throughout the whole time she's been imprisoned in the villa, she has never thought of wearing makeup.

Wearing a fancy dress and elegant makeup, Katrina is shining under Aaron's gaze. She's beautiful beyond expectation.

Katrina was born beautiful.

Her almond-shaped eyes were framed with a touch of pink eye shadow that glows warmly like peach blossoms.

Her long eyelashes, small nose, and cherry mouth are compelling enough to draw anyone to kiss her.

Without makeup, she holds a kind of beauty that's pure and fresh, free from gaudiness.

With makeup, she has the sex appeal of a delicate woman, charming and attractive enough to captivate a person's heart and soul.

Her white skin, delicate collarbones, soft chest, slender waist, willowy legs, enticing ankles, and supple toes, every part of her body is perfect. Aaron can't take his eyes off her.

Aaron waves his hand lightly, and everyone is immediately sensible enough to leave.

Seeing the change in Aaron's face, Katrina lowers her head a little nervously and clutches her skirt. "Do I look that ugly?"

After Katrina was dressed, she was pushed in front of Aaron at once. She doesn't even know what her makeup er hairstyle looks like. Either way, as a woman, she doesn't want to look bad after dressing up.

But Aaron seems to have an indifferent face. Does the way she looks upset him so much?

Aaron walks up to Katrina, step by step. He suddenly wraps his arms around her slender waist, bows his head, and kisses her. Crazy and unbridled, he's eager for a taste.

Held in his arms, Katrina can feel his madness. The heat of his skin is instantly noticeable.

Katrina instantly panics. Her pretty face turns red.

"Well... Aaron, let me go."

Despite the many stylists waiting outside, he's kissing her madly regardless of anything.

He's been going too far lately!

It's as if she were his possession, and he can hold her and kiss her as he likes.

Finally releasing Katrina, Aaron whispers, "Not ugly. You're beautiful."

55 Chapter 55 A Beautiful Makeover

Her beauty gives him the impulse to take her. But although his body yearns for her, he won't do that. In a few hours, she will accompany him to the dinner party.

He's afraid that his impulse would render her too weak to get out of bed.

Aaron's voice is low and alluring. As it rings in her ears, she can feel his hot breath between her skin.

Katrina's flushed face turns darker, burning to the back of her ears.

"Come in!" Aaron suddenly shouts.

The stylist at the door comes in at once. "Mr. Wilson, are you satisfied with the lady's look?"

Yes, of course, he is.

She currently looks like an extraordinarily beautiful gift. He wants to tear off the package and love her dearly.

But Because Katrina is so beautiful, he's worried.

With her enticing legs exposed, he's reluctant to let other men see them.

There will be a lot of men at the party. How could he have the heart to take his woman and let others see such a beautiful sight?

Aaron's lips lift. "Change her dress. I want a long one."

"But Mr. Wilson, Miss Miller's legs are very beautiful, and the long dress will hide her assets." The stylist explains to Aaron from a professional standpoint.

Aaron's voice is unmistakably firm. "Change it."

Now that Aaron has repeated himself, the stylist doesn't dare retort and has to agree.

Katrina changes into a dress that covers her ankles.

Aaron is pleased with Katrina's new look and makes sure she isn't showing too much skin.

Only Aaron is allowed to see his woman's most beautiful side.

Chapter 56: His Companion

That evening, Aaron wraps his arm around Katrina's slender waist as they arrive at a brightly lit lavish dinner.

The guests invited to the dinner party are either rich or powerful. Many talented young men and pretty women are walking around the banquet dressed to the nines.

The whole banquet is full of excitement and extravagance.

As soon as Aaron enters, all eyes turn to him.

Many of them come to Aaron with their wine glasses to greet him. "Mr. Wilson, I've been looking up to you for a long time."

Over the years, Aaron has been a champion in the business world and has made remarkable achievements.

Additionally, Aaron was born in a prestigious family with a prominent family background. Everyone present respects him.

The men want to get along with him, while the women want to have a relationship with him.

But to everyone's surprise, Aaron isn't alone as he usually is. He suddenly has a woman with him.

And Aaron is holding her back gracefully!

For Aaron to take a woman to such an event so openly, it means that they are close. They must have a special relationship

This is the first time for Aaron to take a woman to a dinner party. As a result, everyone's eyes naturally fall on Katrina.

To the men, Katrina looks unfamiliar to them. Although they've never seen her at a celebrity dinner party before, she's pretty and has a beautiful figure.

In the eyes of the women, Katrina has become the number one public enemy.

They all know nearly every top woman in Hadley. But Katrina isn't the daughter of any famous family, indicating that she must've been born to a low-income family.

A poor girl with no background wants to become a phoenix and rise up by seducing Aaron. All the women who like Aaron are displeased.

It's particularly humiliating for them.

Among them, the most dissatisfied one is the mayor's daughter Victoria Roberts.

Victoria assumed that a wonderful woman would be attending with Aaron tonight, but she turns out to be a nameless woman that no one in the circle knows.

Studying her quiet demeanor as she stands beside Aaron, Victoria finds nothing on her face but a smile. She's

56 Chapter 56 his Companion
just an empty vase.

Victoria takes her date by the arm and walks quickly in Aaron's direction.

Victoria's partner is Benjamin Smith, the son of the head of the Smith Real Estate company and Victoria's best friend since they were kids.

After he broke up with his young model girlfriend shortly earlier, Victoria asked him to come to the party with him.

With a sweet smile on her face, Victoria greets, "Hi, Aaron."

Aaron is holding a glass of champagne in his hand. "Miss Roberts," he says politely.

"Aaron, I'd like to introduce you to my companion today. This is my best friend and heir of the Smith family."

"Benjamin Smith, nice to meet you."

"I heard about you many times from my father. It's nice to meet you, Mr. Wilson."

Victoria and Aaron exchange pleasantries when her eyes suddenly focus on Katrina. She's especially jealous of seeing Aaron holding Katrina by the waist. With a sweet smile on her pretty face, she asks, "Aaron, who's this?"

Victoria doesn't recognize Katrina.

Although she seems vaguely familiar, she doesn't know where she's seen her.

They've met at Aaron's villa before. But because Katrina wasn't wearing makeup and wore loose casual clothes, she looked less stunning when they first met.

Who would've thought that from the plain girl, she would transform into a complete person?

"Hello, Miss Roberts. I'm Katrina Miller."

Katrina Miller?

In the whole city of Hadley, there isn't a famous family named Miller. This provides more proof of her nameless identity.

Victoria smiles from the corner of her lip. "Hi, Katrina."

Growing up in this environment, Victoria has learned the concept of getting matched for marriage since childhood.

People in this circle are the richest and most powerful, while simultaneously the most sensible and materialistic

She's seen many marriages happen for the benefit of both families. A lot of rich second-generation men take many beautiful girlfriends that they never marry. They know what the right marriage will bring them.

They aren't stupid enough to marry a wallflower without a background.

56 Chapter 56 His Companion

Like Benjamin for instance, he's had countless girlfriends that range from campus belles, supermodels, online celebrities, to nameless stars. They're all beautiful, but for him, these women are just like fashionable clothes.

Victoria believes that Katrina is Aaron's flavor of the month.

Although Victoria doesn't hate Katrina seriously, the sight of her intimacy with Aaron is like a thorn in her heart. It makes her extremely uncomfortable.

When Aaron walks away with his arm around Katrina, Victoria's eyes are boring holes at Katrina's back.

Seeing his date in such a state, Benjamin waves the glass of red wine in his hand and puts on a charming smile on his handsome face. "Why don't you work hard and get Aaron so that I can get his little girlfriend?"

At Benjamin's words, Victoria turns around to glare at him. "What, you have a crush on her as well?"

What on earth is so good about her?"

Benjamin spreads out his hands. "Everyone likes pretty girls, not to mention one who looks so cute and sensible."

All his ex-girlfriends were pretty, but nine out of ten of them had plastic surgery.

Katrina's beauty is fresh and natural, emitting a sense of comfort. She's standing by Aaron's side, without arrogance or indulgence, and with a shallow smile on her face.

Isn't every man's dream to have a beautiful, gentle, and docile woman?

No man wants a tough, willful, and melodramatic woman who looks like a monster all day long.

Ian

Feeling Victoria's sharp gaze on him, Benjamin suddenly realizes that they're rivals in love, and it's inappropriate for him to keep praising the beauty of the woman that Victoria clearly loathes in front of her.

Benjamin pretended to cough, hurriedly saying, "Victoria, you're also beautiful. You're the goddess in my heart!

We're just too familiar with each other. Even if I'd like to have you, I wouldn't dare to!"

Victoria gives him a sharp look. "Who would want you?"

Chapter 57: His Possessive Reaction

After spending a whole night accompanying Aaron, Katrina's feet are sore.

Her high heels are beautiful, sleek, and tall, like Cinderella's crystal shoes. But because of the nature of her job.

Katrina doesn't usually wear high heels.

If it wasn't for Aaron's sake and image, Katrina would've found a corner to hide away and take a break.

But

now, there are blisters on her feet, and she can hardly walk steadily.

Katrina holds Aaron's arm tightly, with nearly half her body weight leaning against him as she ostensibly tries to maintain calm and graceful.

Aaron senses that something is wrong with Katrina. He looks down at her to find a pained expression on her face.

Frowning, he can't bear torturing her like this. He pulls her aside to rest. "Here's some dessert and fruit.

Help

yourself. I'll come back when I'm done."

Katrina feels relieved to hear Aaron's words and prepares to go away quickly. "Alright, I will."

She lets go of his arm and moves to sit down in the lounge area when Aaron suddenly grabs her hand.

Katrina looks back at him in disbelief. "What's wrong?"

Aaron's black eyes are fixed on her. "Don't talk to other men! Do you understand?"

He doesn't want her to have an affair with another man, even if he couldn't keep his eyes on her at all times.

Katrina's mouth twitches, and she replies casually, "I see."

His possessiveness is a real menace.

Katrina chooses an empty corner to sit in, idly eating dessert with a bored expression on her face and looking like he has nothing better to do.

Busy with his own affairs, Aaron disappears into the crowd.

"Hello, my lady!"

Just then, the sound of a sudden voice startles Katrina.

Katrina coughs, the half-eaten dessert getting stuck in her throat. She turns her red face slowly.

"Did I frighten you? I'm really sorry." The person hands her a glass of red wine.

"Thank you." Katrina accepts it, takes a quick drink, and takes a deep breath.

This time, she can clearly see the person sitting next to her.

Winthe with Victona? Why did he come to her?

Benjamin seems very interested in her. He sits next to her and flashes her with a smile. "Are you Aaron's Thinking of Aaron's warning, Katrina doesn't want to make trouble for herself. But it doesn't seem appropriate for her to leave suddenly.

Katrina shakes her head perfunctorily.

But instead of leaving, Benjamin continues to ask, "Aaron's lover?"

Hearing the word "lover" embarrasses Katrina instantly as she gapes at the man.

Benjamin smiles apologetically. "Sorry, I've drunk too much. Please forget it."

Earlier, Katrina felt Victoria's hostility towards her. And Benjamin is her partner. What's his purpose for coming to her and talking to her?

Katrina becomes wary of Benjamin.

Benjamin is a real playboy.

It's hard to get Katrina alone. He's not going to let go of this opportunity to chat her up.

"Your accent doesn't seem to be local, where are you from?"

Katrina hates it when someone keeps asking her questions, even if he's handsome. Since she met Aaron, she has become immune to all kinds of good-looking people.

Besides, no matter how handsome Benjamin is, he isn't more handsome than Aaron.

Katrina doesn't want to be annoyed by him any longer, so she stands up from her seat. "Sorry I have to leave now."

Benjamin is shocked. He touches his nose in frustration as he watches her retreating leaving in a hurry.

This is the first time he's been rejected so mercilessly.

He knows she's Aaron's companion, and he's afraid to flirt with her even if he wants to. He just tried to chat her up without talking too much. Why did she run away?

Some so many ordinary women are lucky enough to attend this kind of party. They can't wait to make friends with famous people.

In case Aaron dumps Katrina later, it's convenient to find another wealthy man.

Does she plan to stay with Aaron forever? She's being too naïve. How could she keep an outstanding man like Aaron?

Walking past the crowd, Katrina goes out through the back door and enters the rear garden

The scenery is unique, and the quiet is peaceful. It has a perfect view of the dark blue night sky.

Taking a deep breath, Katrina decides to stay here for a while.

Since no one will bother her here, Katrina takes off her heels and holds them in her hands. Walking barefoot on the slate pathway, she heads for the nearby swing.

Under the moonlight, her feet are white and lovely, like beautiful rosy pearls.

Katrina sits on the swing and looks up at the night sky, feeling unspeakably comfortable and in a good mood.

Nobody knows how long she stays outside.

Remembering that Aaron will get worried if he can't find her, Katrina gets off the swing and runs towards the door carrying her dress.

Sure enough, halfway through, she sees Aaron standing not far away with a dark face. Startled by Aaron's terrible expression, Katrina stops walking. "Aaron?" "Come here. What are you doing there?" Since Aaron gave the order, Katrina has to keep walking. But he doesn't look well. As she approaches, Aaron grabs Katrina by the arm, wrapping her in an embrace and tapping her head. "What are you doing here! I asked you to stay there and wait for me." Katrina doesn't notice that there's a trace of relief behind his gnashing teeth. When Aaron went back to the lounge after dinner, he found no sign of her. He almost thought that she had escaped alone while he was away. Aaron asked the bathroom cleaner and the doorman, but they didn't see her go to the bathroom or leave the banquet. When he came to the back garden, he unexpectedly saw her figure and let out a long sigh of relief. He was glad to see that she was here. If she had run away again, he would've caught her and punished her severely. "It's boring inside. I just wanted to go out for a walk." Katrina says. Anyway, this asshole is too violent and unpredictable. What's wrong with her going out alone? Why is he incredibly angry? It's a good thing she didn't tell him about Benjamin's conversation with her. Otherwise, Aaron would pour out

Chapter 58: Her Childish Behavior

Seeing Katrina clutching her head with a worried look, Aaron realizes that she must feel particularly uncomfortable being left alone in a strange and busy environment, Aaron purses his lips and says nothing in the end. As long as he's sure that she's still nearby, his inner rage slowly subsides, But... Aaron suddenly notices that Katrina is much shorter. When she took his arm earlier, she reached his chin. But now, she only reaches his shoulders. Aaron looks down and sees that her bare feet are stark white against the flagstone pathway. Her toes are slightly curled, and her red-painted nails make her look a bit seductive. It's much colder at night than usual, and Katrina is still feeble health. She got sick several times in less than a month. Standing barefoot on the floor, doesn't she fear to get ill again? "Where are your shoes?" Aaron frowns and asks. "Shoes..." At Aaron's question, Katrina suddenly realizes that she's not wearing any shoes. After taking her shoes off earlier, she took them to the swing and placed them on the bench next to her.

Walking in high heels is particularly tiring.

Taking off her shoes gave her a sense of liberation. She felt so comfortable that she forgot about her shoes.

“My shoes are over there!”

Suddenly, Katrina anxiously runs to the direction of the swing with her dress in hand. Aaron doesn't have the chance to drag her back, and he can only watch her walk on the floor barefoot.

This stupid woman!

Aaron can't help scolding her in his heart. He hurries to follow her.

Just as Katrina arrives at the swing, a tall figure appears in front of her. He looks at her, holding a pair of high heels in his hand, “Are these yours?”

The man's voice sounds pleasing. Its deep and magnetic quality is similar to a musical instrument,

Looking up, Katrina sees a handsome young man, tall and handsome, with a faint smile on his lips that makes him look gente,

Although Aaron is handsome, he is also domineering, cold, and dangerous. The man before her is also handsome. But unlike Aaron, he's gentle and elegant without any hint of aggression.

Even his smile makes people feel warm, and unconsciously draws people closer to him.

Noticing Katrina's bare feet, the man seems to wonder if the shoes belong to her. After glancing at her feet several times, he becomes more certain that the shoes are hers.

Seeing the shoes in his hands, Katrina blushes and quickly takes it. “Thank you.”

She was so careless that she forgot her shoes on the bench when she sneaked away.

But when she came to the garden a moment ago, she didn't see anyone else. It was the reason she felt she could go barefoot unscrupulously.

Where was this man earlier?

Did he catch all her childish behavior?

She immediately feels a little embarrassed even though they're strangers.

The man hands Katrina her shoes and says gently, “You're welcome; it's no trouble at all.”

In any case, he brought her shoes to her, and she feels grateful. It doesn't seem appropriate to turn around and immediately leave.

Before Katrina could ask the man how to call him, she felt a sudden force and a big hand gripping her wrist tightly. The pull causes her body to stagger, and she steps back involuntarily and falls into a warm embrace.

The pain on her wrist makes her frown. Her head hits a firm chest, and for a moment, she sees stars.

She doesn't have to think who this bully is!

Does this guy have a violent streak?

She's just getting her shoes back, why does he have to mistreat her?

The pain makes gasp for breath, “Aaron, you're holding me too tight. It hurts!”

Holding Katrina tightly in his arms, Aaron's senses are on high alert. The air pressure around him seems to

drop considerably

Aaron says, "I told you not to accost other men! Didn't you hear me?"

Although he's talking to Katrina, his black eyes are trained on the man in front of him. His glare is unbelievably harsh.

Immersed in the pain and unable to extricate herself, Katrina fails to notice the strange atmosphere.

Accost other men?

Aaron misunderstood, she's not accosting anyone!

He must have seen what just happened!

What else could she do? She needs to thank him after taking her shoes back

He's overreacting!

While they're alone, she accepts his unacceptable behavior. But doing this to her in front of other people...

Not only does he not know how to respect her, but he also doesn't consider her feelings at all.

She feels humiliated.

In the face of Aaron's injustice, Katrina becomes so upset and angry that she exclaims, "Aaron, let go!

Let me go!"

Katrina struggles in his arms.

Aaron frowns. Why is she so noisy?

He puts his arm around her waist and bends over to kiss her red lips, swallowing any further protests,

As a declaration of sovereignty, his kiss is overbearing and intense.

"A-Aaron..."

Katrina's eyes widened at his sudden kiss.

Aaron is going too far!

He kisses her in front of someone else, regardless of her feelings.

What would other people think?

It lasts for a minute... Two minutes... Longer...

When Aaron releases Katrina, she feels so weak that she can hardly stand. Her cheeks are flushed as she gasps for air.

Aaron easily secures Katrina in his arms and warns, "This is the punishment for accosting other men!"

Katrina glares at him with a look of unspeakable anger,

Aaron's thin lips curl, "What? Feeling rebellious? Do you want another taste?"

At Aaron's threat, Katrina clenches her teeth and retracts her anger.

At that moment, the man who's been standing nearby says, "Brother, I hope that you're well."

Brother?

Katrina is shocked,

55 Chapter: 58. Her Childish Behavior

The man called Aaron "brother." It means that they know each other.

What exactly is their relationship?

Are they really siblings?

But the tense atmosphere between them makes Katrina think otherwise.
When the man called Aaron “brother,” a hint of disgust appeared on Aaron’s face.

Chapter 59: Carrying Her

Aaron bends over and carries Katrina in his arms as if the man in front of him doesn’t exist. Pursing his lips lightly, Aaron strides towards the banquet hall, Suddenly raised high into the air, Katrina subconsciously grabs Aaron’s clothes with one hand and carries her her high heels on the other hand.

Katrina looks up at Aaron’s handsome face and whispers, “Hey, Aaron. Is that man really your brother?”
Aaron looks straight ahead. “You ask too many questions. Shut up!”

Katrina rolls her eyes at the rebuke. “Well, it’s fine if you don’t want to answer.”

After being imprisoned in the villa for so long, all she only knows about Aaron is that he’s rich, but she doesn’t have any idea about his business.

The villa only has his heelers and the housekeeper.

She hasn’t even seen any of Aaron’s relatives.

When a man suddenly appears and calls him “brother,” she definitely becomes curious about his private life.

Katrina doesn’t know whether the man is really Aaron’s brother or not. But it’s evident that Aaron is hostile

towards the man. Maybe they once had an unpleasant altercation.

In front of the man earlier, Aaron held her in his arms as tightly as he could, lest she should be taken away by someone else. Even when he kissed her, he was full of domineering possessiveness, as if he was deliberately showing off to the man.

Could it be that...

Did they love the same girl before?

Did they become estranged because of a woman?

No wonder Aaron’s character is always as unpredictable as the weather.

Now, Katrina finally finds out why. Maybe he’s the way he is now because he’s been hurt by other women

before. But to be honest, as a woman, if Katrina has to choose between Aaron and that man...

She would probably choose that man, too,

All women want a warm and thoughtful boyfriend. What kind of woman could endure a man like Aaron?

Maybe Aaron has a favorite girl.

Does he love someone?

Katrina doesn’t know where the sudden sadness in her heart comes from. In an instant, her mood seems to

diampen considerably

She doesn’t care if he loves someone or not. She just doesn’t want to be someone else’s substitute Unbeknownst to Katrina, her mood is reflected on her face. She looks depressed.

In the blink of an eye, Aaron takes Katrina to the back door.
The music from the banquet hall is clearly audible,
Katrina snaps out of her thoughts and grabs Aaron's clothes. "Aaron, let me go!"
Aaron raises his eyebrows and looks at her. "Why? Are you disappointed that I didn't leave you with that man?
Do you want to go back and find him?"
What?
At that moment, Katrina wishes that she could scratch Aaron's face.
Katrina buries her face in Aaron's arms and says in a muffled voice, "Nobody at the party knows me anyway.
Keep carrying me if you want! You're the one they'll be talking about, Mr. Wilson."
Katrina's words make Aaron frown.
This woman is learning how to refute him.
Although he was in a bad mood at the sight of the man earlier, he forgets about his anger for a while.
If he carries Katrina this way and enters, he will draw attention from the whole dinner party.
Aaron becomes a little angry but finally releases Katrina.
Katrina puts her shoes on the floor, gathers up her dress, and steps in.
It's said that women's feet are nearly as intimate as her breasts, especially a pair of delicate and exquisite feet.
It's easy to fall into a reverie at sight.
Seeing Katrina's tender feet, he realizes that she was standing barefoot in front of that man...
The more Aaron thinks about it, the unhappier he becomes. He can't help saying, "How long have you been outside?"
Katrina is stunned to hear Aaron's words.
He hasn't moved on from what just happened!
Does he think that she's having an affair with someone else covertly?
Is it necessary to interrogate her in this harsh tone?
Katrina raises her right hand and says, "I swear I was the only one there just now! I was looking for my shoes when the man appeared. I've never seen him before!
Aaron snorts. Instead of addressing the matter, he takes her into the hall hand in hand.
Earlier in the back garden, it was generally dark despite the moonlight and dim street lights.
When they return to the party, the light from the crystal chandelier above shows that Katrina's tender wrist is red.
Aaron suddenly lifts Katrina's wrist. "What happened?"
She didn't have an injury earlier. How did she get hurt after going out for a while? Who did this!
Seeing Aaron ask her about her wrist with such seriousness and dignity...
Katrina gapes in stunned surprise.
How could he have the nerve to ask what's wrong!
This is his own doing!
Earlier, he squeezed her wrist so hard that she almost cried. She told him to let go of her, but he ignored her.

But now...

Does he have amnesia?

Or a split personality?

Katrina becomes speechless and immediately doesn't want to talk to him.

At that moment, Aaron suddenly realizes that this is his fault.

When he saw Katrina talking to the most annoying person he's ever met, he got a bit agitated. He might have been too forceful without realizing it.

Unexpectedly, he accidentally injured her again.

Aaron just wants to take good care of her and protect her, but he always inadvertently brings her more harm.

Women are indeed fragile and troublesome creatures.

No wonder the old says that women and villains are difficult to get along with.

When Aaron takes Katrina's hand again, he's obviously much gentler.

Meanwhile, at the banquet. Victoria is chatting with several wealthy girls with a glass of red wine in her hand when she notices Aaron and Katrina through the crowd.

When they return from the back door, her eyes are immediately drawn to Katrina's messed up lipstick on her mouth. Her lips also seem to be slightly swollen.

Did they...

Observant girls can easily discern that they went out to make out.

50 Chapter 59 Carving Her

Unexpectedly, Aaron, who has never been close to women, would kiss this woman

What gives her the right!

How did she seduce Aaron!

Victoria's heart fills with immense anger and jealousy. She unconsciously squeezes the goblet in her hand,
