Chapter 1131

“Alright, since you didn’t want me to be your attorney, there was nothing I could do.”

Mr. Brooks had packed up and left, and not long after, the police officer who had interrogated her walked in.

“Even if you don’t cooperate, it’s useless. We have already investigated based on the address Apollo provided where he hit you. Once everything is clear, you will face imprisonment.”

Briana Cameron’s expression was indifferent, “Come talk to me when you have found the evidence.”

“You! How could you be so impervious!”

She looked up at the police officer and said, “Do you think I, with this physique, could beat a grown man to that extent?!”

“Even if you had evidence, it would be useless if you didn’t admit it. Besides, Apollo had someone backing him up. Being stubborn now wouldn’t do you any good.”

Catching the hint from the other party, Briana Cameron chuckled, “Thanks for the reminder, but I’m still looking forward to that so-called evidence.”

“Fine, don’t blame me for not warning you!”

After speaking, the police officer left.

After leaving the police station, Mr. Brooks immediately called Maxim.

“Mr. Yoder, Ms. Cameron knew I was sent by you and didn’t want my help.”

There was silence on the other end of the phone for a few seconds, then Maxim's cold voice finally came through, "If that's the case, then find a lawyer she doesn't know to go there."

"Alright, I understood."

After hanging up the phone, Mr. Brooks pondered for a moment, then dialed another number.

"Mr. Dempsey, what have you been up to lately? I have a situation here and I need you to come and save the day."

When Mr. Dempsey arrived at the police station, Maxim had also figured out what had happened.

After learning that Briana Cameron had deliberately lured Apollo to the outskirts to beat him up, Maxim's face turned icy cold.

Apollo was, after all, a grown man, and who knew what kind of underhanded tricks this ruffian might pull. Had she not considered her own safety?! Was she so confident that she could handle Apollo?!

Seeing Maxim's gloomy expression, Rayan felt as if he was enveloped in a chill.

"Mr. Yoder.....what's next? This matter also involves Mr. Carney."

Rayan had not expected that, in the end, he would find out that Brycen had been helping Apollo behind the scenes.

"You go out first."

After Rayan left, Maxim immediately dialed Brycen's number.

As soon as it connected, Brycen's carefree voice came through.

"Yo... Maxim, you actually called me. Let me check if the sun rose from the west today?"

Maxim's expression was icy cold, his voice devoid of any warmth, "What is Apollo to you?! Why are you helping him?"

Brycen was taken aback, it took him several seconds to respond: "He's my girlfriend's younger brother, how did you know about this?"

“He reported that the person who hit him was Briana Cameron. Now Briana Cameron has been detained by the police, and you can be said to have played a significant role in this.”—

Upon hearing this, Brycen knew he was truly angry and quickly said, “I didn’t know about this. If I had known that she was the one who hit Apollo, I would have definitely taken Apollo to her doorstep and let her beat him up again!”

“Cut the crap, she hit Apollo because he was tailing her in a taxi. You handle this yourself. If you can’t handle it, I don’t mind stepping in.”

Upon hearing this, Brycen quickly assured, “I will immediately have my secretary handle this. I promise that not a single hair on Briana Cameron’s head will be harmed. Once this matter is over, I will invite you all to have a meal together, and I will personally apologize to her!”

“You went yourself.”

“Alright, alright, I’m going right away!”

After hanging up the phone, Brycen’s expression also turned icy cold. He stood up and walked straight out of the office.

“I needed to go to Liberty Hospital, and asked the driver to wait for me downstairs.”

In the hospital.

Upon hearing the news that Briana Cameron had been detained, Apollo was filled with uncontrollable excitement and agitation.

That scoundrel beat him so brutally, he definitely wouldn’t sign a letter of forgiveness. He wanted that scoundrel to go to jail!

Just as he was excitedly thinking about how to torment Briana Cameron, the door to the ward was suddenly pushed open, and Brycen walked in with a gloomy face.

On his way here, he had already investigated, and the truth was indeed as Maxim had said, it was not at all a verbal altercation with someone as Apollo had claimed.

Thinking about if the woman he liked was being stalked like this, he guessed he would have the heart to kill the other person.

Moreover, he had also found out that Madeline's relationship with Apollo was not good at all. Trying to win over Apollo in order to change Madeline's mind was simply impossible.

Thinking of how he had offended several people all at once because of such a lousy person, a touch of resentment couldn't help but rise in Brycen's heart.

Apollo was startled by the sound of the door opening, and turned around instinctively ready to curse. But upon seeing Brycen, he immediately put on a pleasing smile.

"Brother-in-law, why did you come to see me in person? I'm fine on my own, I would be able to get out of bed with a few more days of rest."

As he spoke, his gaze fell behind Brycen, hoping to see if Brycen had asked his assistant to bring him some supplements or something. However, he saw nothing.

A flash of disappointment and contempt crossed his eyes. He hadn't expected Brycen to be so stingy. He came to see him without bringing anything. He couldn't let Madeline marry him, otherwise he wouldn't get any benefits in the future.

Having read countless people, Brycen naturally knew at a glance what Apollo was thinking.

Previously, it was just because she wanted him to speak for her too much that she ignored these things.

Upon this meeting, he felt that Apollo was nothing more than a worthless ruffian, not worth his time or effort at all.

"When I ran into you at the hospital entrance before, you told me you had an argument with someone and they beat you up, right?" Brycen walked over and sat down by the hospital bed, looking at Apollo with an indifferent expression.

Under his seemingly penetrating gaze, Apollo felt a bit guilty unconsciously, but he quickly calmed down, nodded and said, "Yes, I heard that the person has been detained. Brother-in-law, you are really amazing! I will definitely speak highly of you in front of my sister!"

Brycen sneered, "Spare me the sweet talk, I'm afraid if you continue, she will be even less likely to be with me."

Apollo was taken aback, feeling a sudden unease in his heart. Could Brycen have found out something?

"Brother-in-law, what do you mean... I'm a bit confused..."

"Since you didn't understand, let me make it clearer. The person you reported to the police is the one my best friend likes. Moreover, I received information that it was because you were stalking her that she hit you. So, wouldn't you say you had it coming?"

Apollo's face instantly turned incredibly ugly, and it took him a good while to recover.

Chapter 1133

"Brother-in-law. what do you mean by this?! You would rather believe a stranger than me?! If my sister knew you distrusted her brother so much, she would probably be very disappointed in you."

"I already knew about your bad relationship with Madeline on my way here, and how you always used to ask her for money. Do you think she would stand by your side?"

Now Apollo was truly panicked. He had originally planned to use Brycen to get Briana Cameron imprisoned, and then immediately return to his hometown after the matter was resolved, so that no one would know the truth about this matter.

Unexpectedly, Brycen had quickly figured everything out and even came directly to the hospital room to confront him.

"Brother-in-law... I was just so angry and planned to scare Briana Cameron. I didn't intend to hurt her. If it wasn't for the time I went to see my sister, and Briana Cameron hit my mom. I wouldn't have done such a thing. Brother-in-law, you must help me!"

"I also knew Briana Cameron, she would never hit someone without reason. You and your mother must have done something to provoke her, right?"

Apollo's pupils suddenly contracted, his expression instantly becoming incredibly furious. He glared at Brycen, his gaze murderous.

"What do you mean by this?! I am the victim here! You are actually defending Briana Cameron now, if you refuse to help me, I will definitely not agree to let my sister continue to be with you!"

12.05

Chap 1133

Seeing him finally reveal his true nature, Brycen's expression also turned icy.

"Which side do you think Madeline would have taken, her best friend's or her estranged brother's?"

Apollo's face turned incredibly ugly, and he fell silent without saying another word.

Brycen stood up, looking down at him from a higher position.

"The mess you've made, you clean it up. I'll let this slide because you're Madeline's brother. But if there's a next time, I'll make you regret ever being born!"

After speaking, Brycen left directly.

In the police station, they had received a call from Apollo a while ago, saying that he no longer intended to report a crime and asked the police to cancel the report he had made earlier.

The police went directly to the hospital to find him. Apollo, who had previously been arrogant, apologized with a smile, "Officer. I thought I was seriously injured before, so I called the police. Now that I know it's just superficial injuries, I don't want to press charges against the other party. Let's settle this privately..."

"Did you think the police station was a place for you to mess around? To report a crime when you want and to withdraw it when you want?!"

Apollo frowned and said irritably, "Anyway, I'm not going to report this or press charges against her. You guys figure it out!"

"Are you sure?"

"Sure, sure!"

Impatience filled Apollo's eyes. If he had known how powerful Briana Cameron's backing was, he should have thought of other ways to deal with her at that time, instead of taking matters into his own hands.

Not only had been beaten up for no reason, but he also had to deal with the trouble he had caused by calling the police.

After completing the written record, the police left.

Apollo was holding a grudge, thinking that he must find an opportunity to deal with Briana Cameron. This matter couldn't just be left like that!

On the other side, Briana Cameron had just stepped out with Mr. Dempsey when she saw Brycen standing at the entrance of the police station.

A flash of surprise crossed her eyes, before she had a chance to speak, Brycen quickly stepped in front of her.

"Sister-in-law... no, Ms. Cameron, this time it was my mistake. How about this, I'll find a restaurant to treat you to a meal as an apology, I hope you can do me the honor!"

Briana Cameron had just learned the ins and outs of the matter, looking at him calmly.

"No need for a meal invitation, I just hope that Mr. Carney could be more discerning in the future, and not help everyone indiscriminately."

A hint of unease flashed across Brycen's face as he quickly said, "Of course."

Briana Cameron didn't say anything else, she turned around, greeted Mr. Dempsey, and then immediately hailed a taxi to leave.

Brycen called Maxim, "Maxim, Briana Cameron has already left, this was indeed my fault. I'll treat you to dinner tonight."

He didn't want this matter to affect his relationship with Maxim, after all, Maxim had put in a lot of effort when he was pursuing Madeline.

"No need, as long as she was okay."

After speaking, the other party hung up the phone.

Brycen frowned, just about to call back, when Madeline's call came in.

His brow twitched, a vague sense of unease stirring within him.

Sure enough, as soon as the call connected, Madeline's cold voice came through.

"Mr. Carney, I heard that you helped Apollo take Briana to the police station, is that true?"

"Who told you?"

When speaking, Brycen was clearly a bit guilty, after all, he planned to hide this matter from Madeline, because he knew Madeline would definitely be angry.

"Does it matter who told me? We have already broken up. I hope Mr. Carney will not interfere in my family affairs in the future, and stop hurting Briana. To me, she is a friend who is even more important than myself."

Her cold attitude stung Brycen, he sneered, "Madeline, on what grounds are you ordering me? If you were my girlfriend, I could listen to you. but you said we've already broken up, it seems I don't need to listen to you."

Madeline's grip on her phone tightened unconsciously, and it took her several seconds to slowly say, "Mr. Carney. I want to part on good terms with you. I'm not ordering you, I just hope you won't interfere in my affairs in the future."

"I was helping Apollo, it seemed to have nothing to do with Ms. Garcia."

Brycen hung up the phone abruptly, so angry he wanted to smash his cell phone. But then he remembered it was a gift from Madeline, and after a moment of restraint, he didn't throw it.

That heartless woman!

He had only meant well but ended up causing trouble. Yet, she started off by repeatedly calling him Mr. Carney and mentioning breaking up, which made him seethe with anger.

And he still didn't know why Madeline had broken up with him. After all, he had been accommodating her in every way since they got together. What on earth was she still unsatisfied with?!

The more Brycen thought about it, the angrier he became. He

Half an hour later, Brycen arrived at the door of Madeline's hospital room, holding a bouquet of flowers.

Just as I was about to knock on the door, I heard laughter from Madeline and a man inside.

His face changed instantly, he pushed the door open directly, and saw a man who was about twenty– seven or eight years old sitting by Madeline's sickbed. The man was quite good-looking, which immediately darkened his face.

Madeline:

She looked at him with a cold gaze, “You see now, I’m fine, can you leave?”

Brycen ignored her words, walked over to the man and sat down across from him. He casually placed the flowers aside and laughed, saying. “What’s the matter? Did I interrupt your time with your new boyfriend?”

Stewart frowned, about to explain, but Madeline beat him to it: “If you already know, why hasn’t Mr. Carney left yet?”

Meeting her provocative gaze, Brycen gritted his teeth. “Madeline, don’t presume to challenge my limits, you know how I deal with people.”

Detecting the threat in his tone, Madeline gritted her teeth in anger and sneered, “Mr. Carney, can you do anything other than threaten people?! How childish!”

Brycen was so angry that the veins on his forehead were throbbing, “How dare you call me childish?!”

“Did I say something wrong?”

Brycen remained silent with a cold expression, making the atmosphere in the sickroom extremely awkward.

Stewart felt superfluous, hesitated for a long time but finally broke the silence, “Ms. Garcia, I just remembered I have something else to do, I’ll come to see you another day, I’ll leave now.”

13:857

Before Madeline had a chance to speak, Stewart had already sprung up and slipped away quickly.

Brycen's originally cold expression turned into a smirk, he said, "Seems like your new boyfriend isn't up to par, leaving you alone in the hospital room like this..."

Madeline interrupted him intolerably, "Enough! Brycen, what on earth do you want to do?! I think I've made it very clear to you, is it fun to pester endlessly?!"

"If you didn't tell me the reason for the breakup, I would keep bothering you!"

Madeline sneered. "Haven't I told you? I simply got tired, there's no other reason. What other reason do you want? Don't tell me you think I broke up with you because of some desperate reason? I advise you not to flatter yourself!"

Each of her words was like a knife falling on Brycen, and his face grew colder and colder.

The temperature in the ward dropped rapidly, plunging directly to freezing point.

After a long while, Brycen stared into her eyes and said slowly, word by word. "Madeline. I'm giving you one last chance. Why did you break up with me? If you refuse to tell me the real reason, I won't ask again, and we'll have nothing to do with each other in the future!"

Madeline's hand, tucked in the blanket, trembled, and she instinctively looked towards Brycen.

From his flushed eyes, she saw an unprecedented seriousness and desperation.

She took a deep breath and slowly said, "I told you, I'm just tired of it,

there's no other reason."

"Good!"

Brycen laughed at himself mockingly, "Indeed, I was being presumptuous. I won't bother you again in the future."

He rose and left without any hesitation. Watching his receding figure, Madeline's vision gradually blurred.

Apart from her family's reasons, the day before they broke up, Brycen's mother also came to see her, asking her to leave Brycen.

Back then, she solemnly believed that she and Brycen were truly in love. However, Brycen's mother merely laughed it off, handed her an envelope, and looked at her with a gaze full of contempt.

"Madeline, did you really think Brycen would love you forever? Look at these photos. Brycen had a girlfriend before. That woman was also very confident, thinking that Brycen would marry her. I didn't even have to lift a finger, two years later Brycen dumped her. She then went abroad and hasn't returned to this day."

"That woman was Brycen's first love. In order to be with her, Brycen knelt at her doorstep for three days and three nights, but he was just playing around."

"Long ago, he knew that the woman he was going to marry would be of equal social status. And you, you were just a pastime before his marriage. If you don't believe me, I have a recording here."

After listening to that recording, Madeline finally made up her mind to leave him.

She loved him very much, but she didn't want to wait for him to get tired of her and dump her. She wanted to be the one who left first!

Chapter 1136

After leaving the hospital, Brycen went straight to the bar.

When Maxim entered the box, he had already drunk quite a bit.

Seeing him pouring drink after drink into his mouth, Maxim couldn't help but frown, stepping forward to snatch the glass away.

"What happened? Why did you drink so much?"

Brycen sneered, "Give me the wine."

"No matter what happened, drinking alcohol couldn't solve the problem."

“I called you to come over and drink with me, not to persuade me to stop drinking.”

Maxim’s expression was icy, “You’ve already had several bottles. If you keep this up, you’ll end up in the hospital!”

“It didn’t matter, she didn’t care anymore anyway.”

Thinking of Madeline, a flash of pain crossed Brycen’s eyes, followed immediately by anger and resentment.

Maxim glanced at him, saying with some surprise, “Is it because of Madeline?”

“Don’t mention her to me! I’ve already broken up with her, we have absolutely no connection in the future!”

Over the past few years, Maxim had been watching the two of them. Brycen had even told him that he was planning to propose next year.

How could they suddenly break up?

“What happened? How did you suddenly break up?”

“I also wanted to know why she inexplicably wanted to break up, but it doesn’t matter anymore. Anyway, I don’t want to hear anything about this person in the future.”

Seeing his face filled with anger, Maxim knew he was just putting on a tough front. If he truly didn’t care anymore, even hearing the other person’s name wouldn’t make him blink an eye.

“I didn’t know what exactly went wrong between you two, but based on my understanding of Madeline, her affection for you in daily life was not fake. Did you do something to upset her?”

Brycen snorted coldly, saying irritably, “Before she proposed breaking up, we hardly had any conflicts. She said she was just tired of it. I’ve sought her out several times, given her chances. If she doesn’t want to talk, so be it. She’s just a woman. If I want, what kind of woman can’t I have? Why waste time on one woman?”

And she was a heartless woman!

Maxim couldn't help but mock him, "Your actions completely contradict your words. You obviously care so much, yet you insist on acting tough."

"Who cares about her? Wasn't it just a relationship? I will immediately continue dating other women tomorrow!"

Seeing his eyes bloodshot, Maxim couldn't help but frown, "Alright, I'll take you home. What are you doing drinking so early in the morning? We'll talk when you're sober."

Having sent Brycen home, it was already approaching noon.

Maxim made a call to his assistant, then prepared to return to the Yoder Group.

Just got downstairs, and received a call from Rayan.

"Mr. Yoder, Mrs. Yoder wanted to see you."

Maxim halted in his tracks, taking several seconds before he spoke "Send me the address."

Ever since she found out over three years ago that she was not his biological son. Kendra had always despised him and refused to meet him. She even moved to Mekton, with the sole purpose of completely severing ties with him.

It was the first time that she had suggested meeting him.

Arriving at the door of Kendra's ward, it was already an hour later.

Maxim walked into the ward, looking indifferently at Kendra who was sitting on the hospital bed.

"I heard you wanted to see me."

"Mm-hmm."

Kendra saw that his gaze no longer held the hatred it once did, but it wasn't particularly warm either, it was just complicated.

“Come over and sit down first.” you said.

For Maxim, she had devoted almost all her energy for over twenty years, something she had always taken pride in. Then one day, she suddenly found out that he was not her biological son, a fact that any mother would find unbearable.

So Isaac locked them up and took them to Haseton, where they were again confined in a pitch–dark basement. Kendra harbored resentment towards him.

She hated herself for raising a man who was not her biological son, and also hated that her own son had died shortly after birth....

However, when Maxim rescued her and Reese but refused to meet them, she knew that Maxim actually held a grudge against her, so he was unwilling to see her.

Maxim sat down by the sickbed, his expression still calm.

“If there was something, you could have said it directly.”

Kendra sighed, “Maxim, I know I’ve been too indifferent to you these past few years, but after this incident. I realized I can’t blame you, after all, you didn’t know the truth.”

“Sorry, could you forgive me?”

There was not a flicker of emotion in Maxim’s eyes as he looked at Kendra, his expression still cold.

“The words you spoke, they weren’t your true intentions, were they? What did you want to gain from me?”

Meeting Maxim’s icy gaze, Kendra’s pupils contracted slightly, her expression somewhat unnatural.

“I really wanted to make amends with you. Let’s put the past behind us. Could you forgive your mom?”

As Kendra’s voice trailed off, the hospital room fell into a suffocating silence.

After a long while, Maxim finally said indifferently, "I will ensure your life with my father in the future, but I will not have any contact with you. You say you want my forgiveness, but in reality, your eyes are still full of disgust towards me. One cannot hide their disgust."

Upon hearing this, Kendra's face turned incredibly ugly. It took her a good while before she looked at Maxim.

However, the pretense of tranquility that was once in his eyes was gone, replaced by disgust and hatred.

"Indeed, I still despised you, and hated you, but Roxanne was about to return to her country soon. I didn't want you to treat Roxanne badly because of the issues between me and your father, so I pretended to forgive you!"

"Don't worry, I won't tell Roxanne about this. I will treat her as my own sister. As long as she behaves, I will give her everything she deserves."

After speaking, Maxim stood up and was about to leave

Kendra's expression became incredibly excited, raising her voice and saying. "What do you mean" The Yoder Group already owns 10% of Roxanne's shares, are you trying to embezzle them" Maxim, how can you be so selfish!"

Maxim glanced back at her. the coldness in his eyes causing Kendra to involuntarily flinch.

"When did the Yoder Group have her shares? When I took over the Yoder Group, it was on its last legs. It was me who made the Yoder Group stronger step by step. If she obeys. I will naturally give her a part of the Yoder Group's shares. But if she goes against me. I won't give her a penny."

Kendra sneered. "You've finally shown your true colors. If you really considered Roxanne as your own sister, you would have given her the shares regardless of whether she obeyed you or not, wouldn't you?"

"You didn't have to say those words to provoke me. I have my own principles and methods of doing things. You should focus on recovering Once you're better, I'll have Rayan arrange a plane to take you abroad

"No' I don't want to go abroad! I want to stay in Butterwolf in the future. don't forget, I am still your nominal mother

Meeting her disgusted gaze, Maxim's hand hanging by his side unconsciously clenched

Aurora chuckled, stood up and said, "Who said I'm not busy? Cosmo has asked us to attend a celebration banquet next Wednesday night. I came here to deliver the invitation to you."

She handed the invitation to Maxim, her face beaming with satisfaction.

In order to seduce Maxim, she had deliberately worn a V-neck slip dress today, covered with a gray fur coat. By now, she had already taken off the outer fur. the V-neck of the dress was cut very low, almost as long as she lowered her head, she could take in the beautiful view of her chest.

Maxim glanced at the invitation, saying expressionlessly, "You go yourself. I don't have time."

"I heard Briana Cameron will be there too. If you can't make it. I'll have to bother her. I suppose people there would pay more attention to me than to an adopted daughter of the Cameron family, right?"

Although he knew that Briana Cameron's personality wouldn't let her be taken advantage of, Aurora's words still successfully provoked Maxim's anger.

"Aurora, don't challenge my bottom line!"

Aurora looked at him with contempt, "Maxim, who exactly is challenging who's bottom line? Don't forget, you were the one who agreed to the engagement. Since you agreed, even if it's all an act, you should at least play the part of my fiancé convincingly. If you embarrass me. I'll deal with Briana Cameron!"

Maxim's gaze turned a few degrees colder, "It seems the lesson I gave you last time wasn't enough, giving you the audacity to threaten me!"

Aurora slapped the invitation directly onto the table, laughing carelessly, "If you really dare to touch me, the Fredrick family is not to be trifled with. You don't really think that with Cosmo's protection. you can act lawlessly in Haseton, do you?"

After speaking, she directly picked up her coat and bag, walked up to Maxim, and sand word by word "I hope to see you at the entrance of the banquet at six o'clock next Wednesday evening "

Maxim suddenly grabbed her wrist, lowering his head to stare at her. each word seeming to be squeezed out from between his teeth

“Aurora, you can publicly claim that you dumped me and continue on this path, but it’s just torturing each other.”

“How could it be?”

Aurora shook off his hand, a smirk on her face, “From beginning to end, you were the only one in pain. I’m just enjoying your suffering now, and I’m having fun. Haven’t you noticed?”

“What would it take? When would you finally agree to break off the engagement?”

“I wouldn’t call it off, you might as well give up on that idea. Not only would I not break off our engagement, but I would also marry you in the near future. Even if you despise me, you can only marry me in this lifetime!”

After Aurora left, Maxim’s gaze grew colder and colder, and he exuded a suffocatingly icy aura

It seemed that the Fredrick family couldn’t stay anymore!

However, if he had taken matters into his own hands, Cosmo might have refused to give him Briana Cameron’s antidote, and he would have found himself in a dilemma again.

Several minutes later. Maxim made a phone call

“Let’s meet up.”

At eight o’clock in the evening, the Dark Night Bar.

When Tyrone pushed open the box door, Maxim was already waiting inside.

He walked over and sat down across from Maxim, coldly asking, “What do you want from me?”

Maxim poured him a glass of wine. "Tyrone, I need your help with something."

Tyrone sneered. "Maxim, you surely haven't forgotten that you nearly bankrupted the Moyer family. It's already generous of me not to have sought revenge, and now you want me to help you?"

"As long as you were willing to help me, I could help the Moyer family return to their former glory."

Tyrone frowned, his first reaction was disbelief, and his expression became guarded.

"Maxim, did you take me for a fool?!"

"What I said was true, and the favor I asked of you must be kept secret. No third party can know about it."

Tyrone was silent for a few seconds, then said, "Aren't you afraid I'll spill the beans about this?"

"I believed in you."

Looking into Maxim's serious eyes, Tyrone was taken aback for a moment, then coldly said, "I refuse, because I don't trust you, and I don't want to have anything to do with you anymore. Not seeking revenge on you, out of respect for our past brotherhood, is my final concession!"

After speaking, Tyrone stood up and left directly.

Maxim didn't try to persuade him either. If Tyrone had agreed just like that, he would have been less likely to trust him.

Dealing with the Fredrick family, what he needed was a trustworthy person. Only when he was sure that the other party would not betray him, would he reveal his plans to them.

He picked up the wine glass and finished the wine, then stood up and left directly.

As I passed through the hall, I suddenly caught a glimpse of a familiar figure out of the corner of my eye.

He turned his head and, upon recognizing that it was indeed Briana Cameron, couldn't help but frown. He remembered that she never liked coming to places like this. How could she suddenly appear here?

Just as he was puzzled, a figure wearing a mask and hat approached Briana Cameron, and the two turned to leave.

Maxim hurriedly chased after them, but at that moment, a pole dancer took the stage. The crowd erupted in cheers, rushing towards the stage Maxim was squeezed in the middle, unable to move forward. In the blink of an eye, the two had disappeared from his sight.

After finally squeezing out, he immediately called Rayan.

"Find out who Briana Cameron met at the Dark Night Bar today! I want results within an hour!"

After hanging up the phone, Maxim glanced back at the bar one more time before instructing the driver to start the car and leave.

Just got home, and there was already a result from Rayan's side.

"Mr. Yoder, it has been confirmed, the person Ms. Cameron went to see today... was Miss Roxanne..."

Upon hearing this, a flash of shock passed through Maxim's eyes, followed by a cold voice, "How could they know each other?"

The year Briana Cameron returned to the Schneider family, Roxanne had already gone abroad to study, so it was impossible for the two to know each other.

"I hadn't found out how the two of them specifically met yet. I was still looking into it."

"Understood, let me know immediately if there's any news."

On the other hand, Briana Cameron had no idea that the cold-hearted Peony was actually such a young girl.

"Peony, I thought you were at least thirty years old. I didn't expect you to be so young. You should be a year or two younger than me, right?"

Peony's main job in the past was as a hacker, helping them break into target computers or surveillance systems for remote control, so they had never met in person.

The girl known as Peony smiled, hesitated for a moment, then slowly said. "Iris, there's something I need to tell you."

"What?" A flicker of confusion passed through Briana Cameron's eyes as she looked at her.

"My real name is Roxanne, I am Maxim's... that is, your ex-husband's sister."

Briana Cameron's steps abruptly halted, a flash of shock crossing her eves.

She really hadn't expected that Peony was actually the sister of Maxim, who had gone abroad for study in high school.

After several seconds, she finally snapped out of her shock, "Did Maxim know that you worked for Fullmoon?"

Roxanne shook her head, "I didn't let my family know, and as you know, three years ago when my mom found out my brother wasn't her biological son, she became very indifferent to him. Over the years, I've tried to reconcile them, but without success. Now she's even encouraging me to compete with my brother for the Yoder Group, I don't know what she's thinking."

"Alright then."

"You wouldn't stop being my friend just because I am Roxanne, would you?”

Upon hearing this, Briana Cameron couldn't help but laugh, “No, I wouldn't involve others in my affairs with Maxim.”

“That's good. In fact, I knew your identity three years ago. I was very excited when I found out you were my sister-in-law I wanted to return to the country, but unexpectedly, I received news that you were killed by my cousin. There was some trouble abroad at that time, so I didn't come back until now.”

When speaking about this matter, Roxanne's face was somewhat grave.

“It's all in the past, and Isaac has received his deserved punishment.”

Maxim had locked him in the basement and tortured him for three years, which could be considered as Isaac's retribution.

Roxanne sighed. “Now that he's been rescued, he's back to opposing the Yoder Group. I feel like my cousin has completely lost his mind. convinced that my parents are the murderers of his parents.”

Briana Cameron raised an eyebrow, asking, “How do you know so much while being abroad?”

“Don't forget. I'm best at investigating things. I heard that my cousin had harmed you and I immediately looked into it. Later, I found out about my cousin's revenge against my parents and my brother, as well as the fact that you were taken away by the Cameron family. However, I didn't tell my brother.”

Briana Cameron paused, “You knew three years ago?”

“Um, I thought my brother was being too unreasonable at that time, so I didn't tell him your whereabouts. I believed that if you two were truly meant to be, you would end up together in the future.”

Briana Cameron couldn't help but laugh at herself sarcastically, saying, “It's all a calamity. If I could, I would rather have never met him.”

“Let’s not talk about these sad things anymore, would you like to have a drink together tonight?”

“No, I didn’t like drinking alcohol.”

“Then let’s find a place to have late–night snacks. I won’t be going back this time I return to my country, so we can often go shopping together in the future.”

“Mm–hmm.”

The two found a late–night snack shop and only parted ways after finishing their meal.

Roxanne had just arrived at the entrance of the hotel she was staying at when she saw the cold figure sitting in the hotel lobby. She paused for a moment. then walked up with a smile.

“Bro, how did you know I live here?”

Maxim turned around, his cold gaze sweeping over her, as if confirming something.

After several seconds, he finally spoke with a blank expression,

“Where did you go tonight?”

Roxanne gave him an annoyed glance. “Don’t you already know? Why are you asking when you already know?”

“Roxanne, you knew that’s not what I meant.”
