

After Divorcing, She Shocked the World Chapter 4 - Divorce Agreement

Wu Mei raised an eyebrow. She sauntered over and picked up the document.

2

As a divorce agreement, it was very fair.

It was even in her favor.

Not only was he giving her half of his shares and real estate, but he was also giving her 100 million in cash. This man was unbelievably generous.

But...

2

Wu Mei recalled the events of the day before when the original owner of this body was forced by her family to get money from Li Nanchen. However, Li Nanchen proposed a divorce instead. She was so sad that she got drunk and ended up being drugged by a hooligan.

1

That pitiful woman had loved Li Nanchen for so many years, but he had nearly caused her to lose her virginity to that disgusting hooligan.

6

Wu Mei's gaze turned cold. Since she had taken over the Host's body, she had to take revenge for her.

"A divorce is fine."

Wu Mei put down the document and leaned closer to him. She put her long finger on his chest and said, "But... you'll have to raise the stakes."

When she spoke, her expression and tone were extremely charming. It was a vast difference from how weak she was previously, as if she was a completely different person.

Li Nanchen's eyes flickered, but his expression remained unchanged.

"Sure."

It was her first time last night. This request was reasonable.

3

Li Nanchen took out a brand new agreement. He changed the 100 million yuan into 200 million yuan and handed it to her again.

Wu Mei was speechless.

He added one hundred million just like that?

It seemed that demanding more money would not be able to get back at him. Finding it boring, Wu Mei slowly took the pen from him.

However, a second before she signed, she stopped and looked up with a wicked smile as she said, "I'm going back on my word again."

Li Nanchen frowned slightly and did not speak.

"I don't want this extra 100 million anymore. Just take it as the service fee for sleeping with you last night."

2

The more Wu Mei thought about it, the more amused she became. She tapped the pen on her fair chin and said, "After all, your skills are really quite good. It's the best I've come across."

3

Li Nanchen was speechless.

Wu Mei observed his expression carefully and was satisfied to see a flash of anger cross his face.

4

Humiliated him?

That's great.

Wu Mei didn't wait for him to speak. She snatched the previous document over and signed her name on it.

"When are you going to transfer the money to me? When are you going to get the certificate? Hurry up, I'm very busy."

1

Her time was meant to be spent on investigating the cause of her death. It was very valuable.

Li Nanchen looked at the signed document and was slightly stunned.

She agreed to the divorce?

Previously, he had also proposed a divorce, but she would bawl to no end every single time and he could only let the matter slide in the end.

After all, although he did not love her, he still treated her as his younger sister and could not bear to hurt her.

41

Yesterday was the first time Wu Mei had agreed to a divorce. However, she was not as decisive as she was now. It was as if she no longer had any feelings for him.

After being lost in thought for a while, Li Nanchen snapped out of it and stopped thinking about it.

Her agreeing to the divorce solved one of his biggest problems.

Li Nanchen took out a Black Card and said, "The money has already been transferred to this card. In the future, the company's share dividends will also be deposited into this card. Let's go to the Civil Affairs Bureau now."

Wu Mei accepted it without hesitation.

She had just entered this unfamiliar body and did not know much about the outside world. There was no harm in getting more money.

4

When they arrived at the Civil Affairs Bureau, the two of them got out of the car. The Li Corporation's bodyguards had already cleared the place.

Only the two of them were left in the huge place.

Without even looking at Li Nanchen, Wu Mei knocked on the teller window and said, "Hello, we're here to get a divorce."

The staff had long received the news that President Li was coming here to get a divorce. They thought that they would see President Li's wife crying, but in the end, they were astonished by her confidence.

1

"Ah, okay..."

Was President Li's wife not in the least bit sad to break up with such an outstanding man?

The staff came to his senses and said, "Mrs Li and President Li, please pass me your household register, identification cards and marriage certificate..."

So troublesome?

Wu Mei searched her bag but found nothing.

Crap.

Only then did she remember that all her ID and frequently-used bank cards had been confiscated by the Wu family.

Li Nanchen had already taken out the household register. Noticing that she was motionless, he could not help but take a second glance.

Wu Mei let out a cough and said, "I think I... didn't bring my ID."

Li Nanchen was speechless.

Is this the reason why she signed so decisively just now? She knew they wouldn't be able to get a divorce.

Taking a deep breath, Wu Mei was about to say that she would go back and get her ID when her phone rang. Wu Pang's name appeared on the screen.

She picked it up with a frown. "Dad..."

Before she could finish her sentence, Wu Pang's stern voice came from the other end, "This is already the third day. Where's the 50 million I asked you to ask Li Nanchen for? As the wife of the President of the Li Corporation, you can't even bring back 50 million. What's the point of the Wu family raising a good-for-nothing like you?!"
