

After Divorcing, She Stunned The World

Chapter 6 Divorce me for him

Elsie knew that the investigation of her father's death can't be rushed, now the first step was to find the mystery man. Sid proposed that they go home first, when they find the mystery man, then act.

When they came out from the bar, Sid proposed to let Elsie stay at his house, but Aires immediately objected. Elsie did not want to make them unhappy, so she proposed to go back to her previous home with her parents.

Sid finally agreed with her decision, he said helplessly, "I knew you would want to come back, so I had ordered someone to clean up early."

Aires found it was improper to object again, so he told Elsie that he was always there and he could protect her at any time.

Elsie was very happy with their thoughtfulness, and she was surrounded by such loving people. Why was she so obsessed with Oswald?

Fortunately, Oswald's determination made her completely awake.

When she saw the familiar environment, she could not hold back from heartbreak. Before her mother died, their family lived a very happy life, then her mother became ill and died, and her father married her stepmother so that she could have someone to take care of her, but he did not expect that her stepmother often abused her, but she did not want her father to worry, she all suffered everything in silence.

Until her father died, her stepmother finally showed her face, her father's company was robbed, she and her daughter no longer had money to enjoy a refined life, so she sold her to an old man, she took the money and immediately took her daughter abroad, but she, on the other hand, fell into another hell.

She went to her room, pulled open the drawer and her wedding photo with Oswald was recorded, she wanted to share the news of her marriage with Oswald, that's the reason why the photo is here.

But these memories suddenly kept attacking her like thorns. She placed the wedding photo on her chest, she had dreams of their marriage at first, but it all turned out to be a nightmare.

There was no point in keeping her, and as she was about to throw the wedding photo away, her phone rang.

When she saw the name on the screen, she angrily hung up the phone.

But the person on the other end of the line was just as angry, and the phone kept ringing. Elsie angrily put the phone through.

"Mr Crofts, I remember we are divorced. If you continue to call me, I will think you found out that you are in love with me." Elsie said sarcastically.

"In love with you? Do you think everyone is like you, so uncommitted to love? Pretending to love me very much in front of me and being aggrieved, and then turning around and falling in love with another man." Oswald's angry voice came through.

Elsie knew why she said that, it must be because Dwight had mentioned to him about her at the bar.

"Yeah, I'm glad I'm not like you, because I can tell who's a viper and who's a good guy. I wish you could continue to love Tess so strongly. I, on the other hand, am just very sober, and I hate to gouge my eyes out at the thought that I've loved you so foolishly for five years."

"You!" Oswald was about to continue lecturing her when Elsie angrily hung up the phone.

Who was he to blame her? After being the Crofts' maid for five years, he still thought he was her master!

But she wouldn't put up with his cold violence any longer! As if she didn't have enough to vent, she blacklisted Oswald's phone by the way

The phone rang again, and Elsie thought it was Oswald again, and she growled into it again. "Asshole!"

"Elsie." but the familiar voice on the phone made her whole body tremble, and she cried out loudly without controlling her tears anymore.