

Revenge On Love Rats After Rebirth by Olivia Marsh Chapter 1348 He'S The Only One In My Heart!

Chapter 1348 He's the Only One in My Heart!

In an instant, Osvaldo's gaze turned terrifying. "Go to the Riddle family and kill that woman!" Immediately, someone went to carry out the order.

A hint of anger appeared in Cassius' eyes, but his smile remained unchanged. He leisurely smoked his cigarette and said, "I can tell you..."

"But you might regret knowing," he added.

Osvaldo's eyes became even colder and more sinister.

Cassius continued to speak with a playful tone. "I only told Miss Turner that her 'death and resurrection' was not an accident, but rather, it was man-made."

"Someone used the principle of an eye for an eye and brought her back from the dead."

"Her reaction also told me that she had known about this all along and had been searching for that person."

"And just how deep must one's love be in order to sacrifice their own life to save hers?"

His tone gradually became more teasing. "Once she finds that person..."

With each of Cassius' words, Osvaldo's gaze became more terrifying. His exquisite and handsome face remained expressionless, but upon closer inspection, one would notice that his fists were clenched tightly.

He too was a member of the Anderson family.

Cassius knew exactly how to hit Osvaldo's sore spot. The men of the Anderson family were all insane!

Even if Osvaldo acted like a harmless gentleman in front of Selena, he couldn't change the fact that he had a deep-seated paranoia and darkness in him.

Selena was the girl he loved. He could only tolerate her eyes looking at him and no one else.

He was the only one in her heart!

And now, suddenly, someone had appeared who had saved Selena's life. This person was even more important to Selena than Hattie.

How could Osvaldo not feel anxious and jealous?

Cassius stared directly at Osvaldo's cold gaze and smiled, "Even if you are unwilling, you cannot change the fact that another man saved her."

"For the past eighteen years, it wasn't you who accompanied her as she grew up."

"It wasn't you who protected her on the battlefield."

"When she was forced into a corner and killed, you weren't by her side."

"She didn't even tell you a single word about her past."

"For that person, you are just an accident that can be discarded at any time!"

As the last sentence fell, a black knife suddenly flew towards Cassius' head. The cold blade cut through the air in a sinister arc.

Cassius had been prepared to dodge to the side, but he was a step too slow. The icy blade pierced through his shoulder blade, and blood sprayed out.

Osvaldo drew out his knife, the bloodstained tip pressing against Cassius' neck, the blade leaving a bloody mark as it slid across his skin.

The man in black's eyes were full of cruelty and brutality, "Her past didn't involve me, but her future belongs to me alone!"

The piercing pain made it difficult for Cassius to speak, but his smile grew deeper, "In the empire, there is someone who is her childhood sweetheart."

"In her kingdom, they are recognized as a couple."

"As soon as she comes of age, she will marry him."

"Outside of the empire, there is someone who risked his life to save her."

"Both of these people have done more for her and hold a greater place in her heart than you, a husband in name only."

The bloodthirsty look in Osvaldo's eyes became more and more terrifying.

The katana was swung lightning-fast towards Cassius' neck.

At the same moment, a bullet whistled towards Osvaldo's forehead.

Osvaldo slightly tilted his head.

In that instant, Cassius stepped back with a smile on his face. If it weren't for the sudden arrival of reinforcements, preventing Osvaldo from moving, his head would have fallen.

The surrounding bodyguards immediately raised their guns and looked around warily.

Cassius raised his hand to touch the blood on his throat and looked at Osvaldo's white face. His voice was hoarse, "Don't bother looking for it. A sniper rifle with a range of 5000 meters means you won't even know what hit you."

Osvaldo's eerie eyes were full of gloom. Despite the imminent danger, he rushed forward again.

The bloodstained blade forced Cassius to back up again and again.

Until the knife was once again held against Cassius' neck.

As he was about to strike, Cassius suddenly spoke up, "If I were you, I would immediately return to the research institute to find her."

Osvaldo's eyes suddenly widened in shock, and his expression became extremely frightening, "What did you do?!"

Cassius was covered in blood, his tone icy, "I didn't lay a hand on her. I only told the Turner family part of the truth through the Shaw family's mouth."

After successfully seeing the change in Osvaldo's expression, Cassius maliciously smiled, "Once the Turner family knows, she will not only have seized the chance of the Turner family's daughter, but also exterminated the culprit of the Turner family, the most beloved person..."

He didn't finish his sentence before Osvaldo disappeared from his sight.

The black sports car roared away and disappeared in an instant.

Only a bone-chilling and cold voice was left behind, "Kill him!"

Cassius watched the speeding car leave, and a complex hatred appeared between his brows.

Indeed, for men of the Anderson family, women were always their weakness!

Even Osvaldo couldn't escape this curse!

...

After a brief rest, the election for the dean of the research institute once again became the focus of everyone's attention.

Diego spoke up, "I recommend Selena to take over as the dean of the research institute. Does anyone have any objections?"

Diego strongly pushed for Selena's promotion, and with Selena's strength and reputation, if the people from the Shaw Group and the Poole Group didn't act, the position of dean would probably really have to return to the hands of the Turner family.

Everyone knew this.

Therefore, when the meeting resumed, the majority of people's eyes turned to where the Shaw family and the Poole family were sitting.

Christ's eyes were deep, looking at Selena, who was sitting with her eyes down and couldn't tell what she was thinking, without speaking.

And Selena's expression, at this moment, was one of disappointment and pain, which Vivian saw. She said with a smile, "The deans of the research institute have always been selected from the researchers who have made great contributions to the scientific research cause of H Country and are of high character and reputation."

"And there are many such researchers here today."

"For example, Minister Brook, Minister Smith, Minister Lee... They have all dedicated themselves to the research institute for decades."

"I believe that any one of them is more qualified than Miss Turner to be the dean."

The three people Vivian mentioned were researchers from the Shaw family faction.

As soon as the Shaw family spoke, the Poole family couldn't sit still.

"Miss Shaw is right, but compared to those three, Minister Poole has made countless contributions in the research institute for more than thirty years..."
